Complaint

Filed April 28, 1939

STATEMENT OF JURISDICTION

The United States of America, by Charles E. Dierker, United States Attorney for the Western District of Oklahoma, acting under the direction of Frank Murphy, Attorney General, brings this proceeding in which equitable relief is sought under Section 4 of the Act of Congress of July 2, 1890 entitled "an Act to Protect Trade and Commerce against Unlawful Restraints and Monopolies," hereinafter referred to as the Sherman Act, against the above named defendants, which are more fully described as follows:

2 DESCRIPTION OF DEFENDANTS

1. Griffith Amusement Company, hereinafter referred to as Amusement, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. It operates* one or more motion picture theaters in each of the towns of Ada, Ardmore, Bartlesville, Blackwell, Bristow, Chandler, Duncan, Elk City, Enid, Fairfax, Guthrie, Henryetta, Hobart, Hugo, Maud, Norman, Okmulgee, Seminole, Shawnee, Stillwater, and Tonkawa in the State of Oklahoma. It also operates one or more theatres in each of the towns of Borger, Gainesville, Kermit, Pampas, Wellington and Wink in the State of Texas.

*The term "operate" as used throughout this complaint includes operation by salaried employees and operation in conjunction with other persons on a profit-sharing basis.

2. Consolidated Theatres, Inc., hereinafter referred to as Consolidated, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. It operates one or more theatres in each of the towns of Altus, Chickasha, Claremore, Clinton, Cushing, Drumright, Holdenville, Hominy, Kingfisher, Mangum, Pauls Valley, Sapulpa, Sayre, and Venita, in the State of Oklahoma. It also operates one or more theatres in each of the towns of Cleburne, Goldsmith, Lubbock, Midland and Sunray, in the State of Texas.

3. R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., hereinafter referred to as Griffith, in a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New Mexico, with its principal place of business in Dallas, Texas. It operates one or more theatres in each of the towns of Alamogordo, Carlsbad, Clovis, Deming, Eunice, Gallup, Hobbs, Jal and Roswell, in the State of New Mexico, and in each of the towns of Olney and Post, in the State of Texas.

3 4. Westex Theatres, Inc., hereinafter referred to as Westex, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware with its principal place of business in Dallas, Texas. It operates one or more theatres in each of the towns of Ballinger, Belton, Burk-Burnett, Brady, Clarksville, Decatur, Georgetown, Gonzales, Hereford, Lampasas, Lockhart, Luling, Merket, Odessa, Plainview, Sansaba, Spur, Stamford and Winters, in the State of Texas, and two theatres in the town of Portales, in the State of New Mexico.

5. The four defendants, Amusement, Consolidated, Griffith and Westex are also hereinafter collectively referred to as the defendant exhibitors. The aforesaid towns in which they operate theatres are hereinafter collectively referred to as the Griffith Towns.

6. L. C. Griffith is President and a Director of Amusement, President and Director of Consolidated and resides in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

7. H. J. Griffith is Secretary and Director of Amusement, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer and Director of Consolidated and resides in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

8. R. E. Griffith is Assistant Secretary and Director of Amusement, Assistant Secretary of Consolidated, President and a Director of Griffith, and President and Director of Westex and resides in Dallas, Texas.

9. Paramount Pictures, Inc., hereinafter referred to as Paramount, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York and has its principal place of business at 1501 Broadway, in the city of New York, New York.

10. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation of Texas, hereinafter referred to as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Texas and has its principal place of business at 2013 Jackson Street, in the city of Dallas, Texas.

4 11. Loew's, Incorporated, hereinafter referred to as Loew's, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York, which owns and controls the defendant Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation of Texas, and has its principal place of business at 1540 Broadway, in the city of New York, New York.

12. RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., hereinafter referred to as RKO, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware, with its principal place of business at 1270 Sixth Avenue, in the city of New York, New York.

13. Vitagraph, Inc., hereinafter referred to as Vitagraph, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York and has its principal place of business at 321 West 44th Street, in the city of New York, New York.

14. Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., hereinafter referred to as Universal, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware and has its principal place of business at Rockefeller Center, in the city of New York, New York.

15. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation of Texas, hereinafter referred to as Fox of Texas, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Texas and has its principal place of business at 1801 Wood Street, in the city of Dallas, Texas.

16. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation, hereinafter referred to as Fox, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York, which owns and controls the defendant Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation of Texas, and has its principal place of business at 444 West 56th Street, in the city of New York, New York.

17. United Artists Corporation, hereinafter referred to as United Artists, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware and has its principal place of business at 729 Seventh Avenue, in the city of New York, New York.

5 18. Columbia Pictures Corporation, hereinafter referred to as Columbia, is a corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York and has its principal place of business at 729 Seventh Avenue, in the city of New York, New York.

19. The defendants, Paramount, Loew's, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, RKO, Vitagraph, Universal, Fox, Fox of Texas, United Artists and Columbia, are engaged in the business of distributing motion picture films in interstate commerce throughout the United States, including the States of Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. They are hereinafter collectively referred to as the defendant distributors. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Loew's are hereinafter referred to as one distributor and Fox and Fox of Texas are hereinafter referred to as one distributor. All of the defendant distributors maintain branch offices, called film exchanges, in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Dallas, Texas and Denver, Colorado, from which they distribute films to exhibitors in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico, with the exception of United Artists Corporation which maintains no exchange at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

DEFINITIONS OF TERMS*

20. First-run exhibition in a town is the initial exhibition of a motion picture in that town with first-run clearance.

21. Second-run exhibition in a town is the exhibition of a motion picture with second-run clearance, which has been previously shown in the same town.

22. A first run theatre is a motion-picture theatre which customarily exhibits first-class pictures on first run.

23. A second run theatre is a motion picture theatre which customarily exhibits first-class pictures on second run.

6 24. Feature pictures are motion pictures five or more reels in length.

25. First-class pictures are the feature pictures which are exhibited for a week or more in a first-run theatre in Oklahoma City, or Tulsa, Oklahoma, or in Austin, Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston or San Antonio, Texas before being subsequently exhibited in the Griffith Towns.

26. Clearance is protection against competition granted to an exhibitor, by agreement with a distributor, which limits the terms on which the distributor may license films to other competing exhibitors.

27. First-run clearance is the protection customarily given to a first-run theatre by a distributor of feature pictures against competition resulting from the subsequent exhibition of its feature pictures at other theatres in the same town. Said protection generally takes the form of an agreement by the distributor covering a period of a year or more during which it agrees not to license its feature pictures for exhibition at other theatres in the same town until a specified period has elapsed after the conclusion of their exhibition in the first-run theatre and further agrees not to license said pictures to said other theatres unless said other theatres maintain a specified minimum admission price.

28. Second-run clearance is the protection given a second-run theatre by a distributor of feature pictures against competition resulting from the exhibition of its feature pictures at other theaters in the same town subsequent to the second run. Said protection generally takes the form of an agreement similar to that described in the preceding paragraph.

DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS INVOLVED

29. The defendant distributors have collectively released during each of the past five years more than ninety-five percent of the first-class pictures exhibited in the Griffith Towns.

7 30. First-class pictures generally have the highest production cost, are made with the aid of the best acting, directing, writing, and technical talent, and possess the greatest box-office value to an exhibitor. They also receive the maximum advertising expenditure by the distributors and their prior exhibition in metropolitan centers serves to further advertise and make them attractive to the patrons of motion picture theatres in the Griffith Towns.

31. The defendant distributors have collectively released during each of the past five years more than seventy-five percent of all feature pictures exhibited in the Griffith Towns.

32. The feature pictures released by the defendant distributors have constituted the principal entertainment furnished by any exhibitor in said towns during each of the past five years.

33. In order to successfully operate a first-run theatre in any of the Griffith Towns an exhibitor must be able to exhibit on first-run each year a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year.

34. In order to successfully operate a second-run theatre in any of the Griffith Towns an exhibitor must be able to exhibit on second-run each year a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year.

35. In order to successfully operate any motion picture theatre in any of said Griffith Towns an exhibitor must be able to exhibit on some run a substantial number of the first-class pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year.

36. During the past five years the defendant exhibitors have collectively supplied more than eighty percent of the total rental received by each of the defendant distributors for the exhibition of films in the Griffith Towns.

37. The defendant exhibitors have been able to take over the operation of numerous theatres and keep other theatres closed in said Griffith Towns during the past five 8 years by virtue of the control exercised by them over the licensing of feature pictures for exhibition in said towns, hereinafter alleged.

38. The prints of feature pictures released by the defendant distributors which are used by exhibitors in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico are manufactured entirely in other states; each print is used successively by numerous exhibitors and moves continuously across state lines in the course of such use.

VIOLATIONS ALLEGED

39. For the past five years the defendant exhibitors have continuously combined with each other and with each of the defendant distributors to unreasonably restrain interstate trade and commerce in motion picture films and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize the first and second run exhibition of feature pictures and the operation of first and second run theatres in the Griffith Towns in violation of Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman Act, in the following manner:

40. Said exhibitors have refrained from competing with each other in the acquisition and operation of motion picture theatres in said towns pursuant to express or implied agreements to allocate said territory between them.

41. During each of the past five years said exhibitors have collectively contracted with each of the defendant distributors for all of the feature pictures annually required for exhibition at all of the theatres operated by them in said towns, in advance of the production and distribution of such feature pictures and before such feature pictures or any of them, have been offered to any other exhibitor in said towns, with the purpose and effect of controlling and monopolizing the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in said towns.

42. By said contracts said exhibitors have combined with each other to compel each of the defendant distributors to grant to all of them in all of said towns the 9 following exclusive privileges during the entire time they have operated theatres in said towns:

(a) The exclusive privilege of selecting from the feature pictures released by said distributors such feature pictures as said exhibitors deemed suitable for exhibition in said towns, as and when prints thereof became available, before said pictures were released to any other exhibitors in said towns.

(b) The exclusive privilege of receiving clearance on said feature pictures over competing theatres in said towns.

43. The foregoing exclusive privileges have enabled the defendant exhibitors to unreasonably restrain, suppress and entirely eliminate the competition offered by other theatre operators in said towns in the licensing and exhibition of feature pictures by:

(a) Preventing them from obtaining enough first-class pictures for exhibition on any run to operate their theatres successfully.

(b) Forcing them to maintain admission prices higher than those warranted by the quality of the entertainment they were able to offer; that is, feature pictures previously exhibited or rejected by the defendant exhibitors.

(c) Preventing them from showing any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with first-run clearance in any of said towns.

(d) Preventing them from exhibiting any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with second-run clearance in any of said towns where any of the defendant exhibitors operate one or more second-run theatres.

10 44. For the past five years all of the defendant distributors have continuously combined with each other and with each of the defendant exhibitors to unreasonably restrain interstate trade and commerce in motion picture films and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize the first and second run exhibition of feature pictures and the operation of first and second run theatres in the Griffith Towns, in violation of Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman Act in the following manner:

45. During each of the past five years said exhibitors have collectively contracted with each of the defendant distributors for all of the feature pictures released by them which said exhibitors required for exhibition in said towns, in advance of the production and distribution of such feature pictures and before such feature pictures or any of them, have been offered to any other exhibitor in said towns, with the purpose and effect of permitting each of the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in said towns.

46. By said contracts said distributors have uniformly granted to each of said exhibitors, in the respective towns in which they operate theatres, the exclusive privilege of selecting from the feature pictures released by said distributors such feature pictures as said exhibitors deemed suitable for exhibition in said towns as and when prints thereof became available, before said pictures were released to any other exhibitors in said towns.

47. During each of the past five years said distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors, in each town where they operate theatres, the same clearance on all feature pictures released by any of said distributors, by means of which uniform action:

(a) First-run clearance on all of said feature pictures was exclusively granted to said exhibitors in all of said towns.

11 (b) Second-run clearance on all of said feature pictures was exclusively granted to said exhibitors in all of said towns where they operated second-run theatres.

(c) Competing exhibitors were forced to play all of said feature pictures that they were permitted to license at such admission prices and after the lapse of such periods of time as the defendant exhibitors and the defendant distributors agreed upon as sufficient to prevent said competing exhibitors from attracting patronage away from the defendant exhibitors.

48. Each of the defendant distributors has imposed the foregoing uniform restraints upon competing exhibitors in response to requests made by the defendant exhibitors and pursuant to agreements made with them, with full knowledge of the uniformity of the action taken by all of said defendant distributors and with full knowledge of the competitive effect of such uniform action.

49. Each of the defendant exhibitors is what is commonly referred to in the motion picture industry as a circuit of theatres. As a result of the acquisition and operation of numerous theatres as hereinbefore alleged, the said exhibitors and each of them have obtained what is commonly referred to in the motion picture industry as circuit buying power. Said circuit buying power has enabled them and each of them to obtain the exclusive privileges hereinbefore recited from the defendant distributors. Said circuit buying power has further enabled them and each of them to demand and receive from all distributors of motion pictures more favorable rental terms in licensing their motion pictures than can be obtained by competing individual exhibitors.

50. Said circuit buying power is now so great that its continued existence will tend to subject competing
12 exhibitors in the Griffith Towns to other and additional restraints in violation of the Sherman Act, even if the foregoing restraints are enjoined, unless said circuit buying power is eliminated.

RELIEF PRAYED

Wherefore, plaintiff prays:

(1) That the combination in restraint of interstate trade and commerce, together with the attempts to monopolize and the monopolization of the same, hereinbefore described, be declared illegal and violative of the Sherman Act.

(2) That the defendants herein, and each of them, and each and all of their respective officers and directors, and each and all of their respective agents, servants and employees, and all persons acting or claiming to act on behalf of the defendants, or any of them, be perpetually enjoined and restrained from continuing to carry out, directly or indirectly, expressly or impliedly, the attempts at monopolization, the monopolies and all restraints of said interstate trade and commerce in motion pictures described herein, and from entering into and carrying out, directly or indirectly, expressly or impliedly, any monopolies or restraints of interstate trade and commerce similar to those alleged herein to be illegal.

(3) That the defendant exhibitors herein, and any two or more of them, and each and all of their respective officers and directors and each and all of their respective servants, agents and employees, and all persons acting or claiming to act on behalf of said defendants or any of them be perpetually enjoined and restrained from jointly or collectively negotiating any contracts for the licensing of feature pictures with any of the defendant distributors or their successors in interest.

(4) That the defendant distributors herein, and each and all of their respective officers and directors and each and all of their respective servants, agents and em-
13 ployees, and all persons acting or claiming to act on behalf of said defendants or any of them, be perpetually enjoined and restrained from licensing feature pictures for exhibition on any run at any theatre in any of the Griffith Towns, except upon a local competitive basis whereby all theatres operating in each of said towns will have an equal opportunity to license pictures for that area without regard to whether these theatres or any of them form or constitute a part of a circuit of theatres.

(5) That the defendant exhibitors and each of them be dissolved and that their respective properties be rearranged under several separate and independent corporations in such a manner as to terminate effectively the aforesaid monopolistic control in the licensing and exhibition of motion pictures and prevent further violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, and that said exhibitor defendants, their officers, directors, agents and representatives be required to make such divestiture and conveyances of their stockholdings and properties as shall be necessary in order to accomplish such dissolution.

(6) That the Court appoint such receivers and trustees as may be necessary and appropriate to effectuate a dissolution of the said exhibitor defendants and each of them and of the aforesaid monoply in the licensing and exhibition of motion pictures.

(7) That the defendant exhibitors and each of them be enjoined and restrained from acquiring any additional theatres or financial interests therein, except where they shall establish to the satisfaction of this Court that such acquisitions will not unreasonably restrain competition or create or tend to create a monopoly in the licensing of feature pictures for first-run or second-run exhibition or in the operation of first-run or second-run theatres in any of the towns in which they operate theatres.

(8) That the plaintiff shall have such other and further relief as the Court shall deem just.

14 (9) That the plaintiff recover its costs and disbursements.

15 In United States District Court

Particulars Supplied by Plaintiff in Response to Motions of the Respective Defendants

Filed May 17, 1940

The paragraph headings below correspond to the same headings used in the motion of Vitagraph, Inc.

I

1. As used in paragraphs 33 and 34, "a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year" is from 100 to 200, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

2. As used in paragraph 35, "a substantial number of the first-class pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors" is from 50 to 100, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

4 A (2) The manner in which the defendant exhibitors combined, as alleged in paragraph 39, is set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, and 43 of the complaint.

4 A (4) The terms of the combination between the defendant exhibitors, alleged in paragraph 39, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, and 43.

4 B (2), (3), and (4) The manner in which Vitagraph, Inc., combined with the defendant exhibitors, as alleged in paragraph 39, the terms, of which the Government is now informed, on which Vitagraph, Inc., became a member of said combination, and the means, of which the Government is now informed, agreed upon for carrying out said combinations, are set forth in paragraphs 41, 42, and 43.

6 A The defendant exhibitors have combined with each other "by said contracts", referred to in Paragraph
16 42, by refraining from contracting with the defendant distributors individually and contracting with said distributors only by means of joint contracts covering all of their theatres.

6 B The plaintiff does not claim that the contracts by which the defendant exhibitors are alleged to have combined are exclusively the licensing agreements under which the feature motion pictures were licensed for exhibition.

6 C Paragraph 42 does not allege that the contracts compelled the defendant distributors to grant the exclusive privileges alleged therein. The compulsion was exerted by the defendant exhibitors; the contracts, of course, merely evidenced the privileges granted.

6 D The defendant exhibitors have compelled Vitagraph, Inc. to grant to each of them the privileges set forth in paragraph 42 by refraining from licensing the product distributed by Vitagraph, Inc. for exhibition in the Griffith Towns unless the exclusive privileges set forth in paragraph 42 were granted to them.

7 A The exclusive privilege referred to in paragraph A (3) have

a. Prevented other theatre operators from obtaining enough first-class pictures for any run to compete successfully with the defendant exhibitor because they have enabled such exhibitors to license all or as many of said pictures as they need before any of them are even offered to the other operators.

b. Forced other theatre operators to maintain higher admission prices than those warranted by the quality of the entertainment they offered by forcing the distributors, in licensing pictures, to such operators, to require 17 such operator to charge a fixed, arbitrary, minimum admission price.

c. Prevented other operators from showing any feature picture released by the defendant distributors with first-run clearance by limiting first-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

d. Prevented other operators from exhibiting any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with second-run clearance by limiting second-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

8 A The combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 4 differs from the combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 39 in the following respect: Paragraph 39 alleges a series of combinations between the defendant exhibitors and with each of the defendant distributors; paragraph 44 alleges a series of combinations among the defendant distributors and with each of the defendant exhibitors.

8 B (3) and (4) The manner in which the defendant distributors combined as alleged in paragraph 44, the terms of said combination, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

8 C (2) and (4) The manner in which each defendant exhibitor combined with the defendant distributors, as alleged in paragraph 44, and the means agreed upon for carrying out said combination, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

9. The matters alleged in Paragraph 45 had the effect of permitting each of the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in each of the towns specified in the complaint in the manner set forth in paragraphs 46 and 47.

10 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the exclusive privilege alleged in paragraph 46 as a result of an agreement among the defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in 45, 46, 47 and 48.

11 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the same clearance on feature pictures as alleged in paragraph 47 as a result of an agreement among defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

12 A The term "foregoing uniform restraints", as used in paragraph 48, refers to the restraints described in paragraphs 46 and 47.

13 A and B. The phrase, "more favorable rental terms," as used in paragraph 49, includes prices and all other terms on which pictures are rented or licensed, such as play dates, clearance, method of payment, etc.

II

14. The words "past five years" as used in paragraphs 29, 31, 32, 36, 37, 39, 41, 44, 45, and 47, refer to the five-year period commencing April 29, 1934 and ending April 28, 1939. Each of the years referred to commenced on April 29th and ended on April 28th of the succeeding year.

15. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 41 means concertedly, through a common agent.

16. The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 42 means that no other exhibitor in the towns named received the same privileges.

17. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 45 means concertedly, through a common agent.

18 (a) The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 46.

18. (b) The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 46 means that no other exhibitor in the towns referred to received the same privilege.

19. The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 47.

20 The paragraph headings below correspond to the same headings used in the motion of Paramount Pictures, Inc.

I

1. As used in paragraphs 33 and 34, "a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year" is from 100 to 200, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

2. As used in paragraph 35, "a substantial number of the first-class pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors" is from 50 to 100, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

4 A (2) The manner in which the defendant exhibitors combined, as alleged in paragraph 39, is set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, 43 of the complaint.

4 A (4) The terms of the combination between the defendant exhibitors, alleged in paragraph 39, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, and 43.

4 B (2), (3), and (4) The manner in which Paramount Pictures, Inc., combined with the defendant exhibitors, as alleged in paragraph 39, the terms, of which the Government is now informed, on which Paramount Pictures, Inc., became a member of said combination, and the means, of which the Government is now informed, agreed upon for carrying out said combination, are set forth in paragraphs 41, 42, and 43.

6 A The defendant exhibitors have combined with
21 each other "by said contracts", referred to in paragraph 42, by refraining from contracting with the defendant distributors individually and contracting with said distributors only by means of joint contracts covering all of their theatres.

6 B The plaintiff does not claim that the contracts by which the defendant exhibitors are alleged to have combined are exclusively the licensing agreements under which the feature motion pictures were licensed for exhibition.

6 C Paragraph 42 does not allege that the contracts compelled the defendant distributors to grant the exclusive privileges alleged therein. The compulsion was exerted by the defendant exhibitors; the contracts, of course, merely evidenced the privileges granted.

6 D The defendant exhibitors have compelled paramount Pictures, Inc. to grant to each of them the privileges set forth in paragraph 42 by refraining from licensing the product distributed by Paramount, Inc. for exhibition in the Griffith towns unless the exclusive privileges set forth in paragraph 42 were granted to them.

7 A The exclusive privilege referred to in paragraph A (3) have

a. Prevented other theatre operators from obtaining enough first-class pictures for any run to compete successfully with the defendant exhibitor because they have enabled such exhibitors to license all or as many of said pictures as they need before any of them are even offered to the other operators.

b. Forced other theatre operators to maintain higher admission prices than those warranted by the quality of the entertainment they offered by forcing the distributors, in licensing pictures, to such operators, to require 22 such operator to charge a fixed, arbitrary, minimum admission price.

c. Prevented other operators from showing any feature picture released by the defendant distributors with first-run clearance by limiting first-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

d. Prevented other operators from exhibiting any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with second-run clearance by limiting second-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

8 A The combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 44 differs from the combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 39 in the following respect: Paragraph 39 alleges a series of combinations between the defendant exhibitors and with each of the defendant distributors; paragraph 44 alleges a series of combinations among the defendant distributors and with each of the defendant exhibitors.

8 B (3) and (4) The manner in which the defendant distributors combined as alleged in paragraph 44, the terms of said combination, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47, and 48.

8 C (2) and (4) The manner in which each defendant exhibitor combined with the defendant distributors, as alleged in paragraph 44, and the means agreed upon for carrying out said combination, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

9. The matters alleged in paragraph 45 had the effect of permitting each of the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in each of the towns specified in the complaint in the manner set forth in paragraphs 46 and 47.

10 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the exclusive privilege alleged in paragraph 46 as a result of an agreement among the defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in 45, 46, 47, and 48.

11 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the same clearance on feature pictures as alleged in paragraph 47 as a result of an agreement among defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47, and 48.

12 A The term "foregoing uniform restraints", as used in paragraph 48, refers to the restraints described in paragraphs 46 and 47.

13 A and B. The phrase, "more favorable rental terms", as used in paragraph 49, includes prices and all other terms on which pictures are rented or licensed, such as play dates, clearance, method of payment, etc.

II

14. The words "past five years" as used in paragraphs 29, 31, 32, 36, 37, 39, 41, 44, 45, and 47, refer to the five-year period commencing April 29, 1934 and ending April 28, 1939. Each of the years referred to commenced on April 29th and ended on April 28th of the succeeding year.

15. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 41 means concertedly, through a common agent.

16. The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 42 means that no other exhibitor in the towns named received the same privileges.

17. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 45 means concertedly, through a common agent.

18 (a) The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 46.

18 (b) The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 46 means that no other exhibitor in the towns referred to received the same privilege.

19. The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 47.

25 The paragraph headings below correspond to the same headings used in the motion of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. and Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. of Texas.

I

1. As used in paragraphs 33 and 34, "a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year" is from 100 to 200, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

2. As used in paragraph 35, "a substantial number of the first-class pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors" is from 50 to 100, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

4 A (2) The manner in which the defendant exhibitors combined, as alleged in paragraph 39, is set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, and 43 of the complaint.

4 A (4) The terms of the combination between the defendant exhibitors, alleged in paragraph 39, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, and 43.

4 B (2), (3), and (4) The manner in which Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. and Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. of Texas, combined with the defendant exhibitors, as alleged in paragraph 39, the terms, of which the Government is now informed, on which Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. and Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. of Texas, became a member of said combination, and the means, of which the Government is now informed, agreed upon for carrying out said combination, are set 26 forth in paragraphs 41, 42, and 43.

6 A The defendant exhibitors have combined with each other "by said contracts", referred to in Paragraph 42, by refraining from contracting with the defendant distributors individually and contracting with said distributors only by means of joint contracts covering all of their theatres.

6 B The plaintiff does not claim that the contracts by which the defendant exhibitors are alleged to have combined are exclusively the licensing agreements under which the feature motion pictures were licensed for exhibition.

6 C Paragraph 42 does not allege that the contracts compelled the defendant distributors to grant the exclusive privileges alleged therein. The compulsion was exerted by the defendant exhibitors; the contracts, of course, merely evidenced the privileges granted.

6 D The defendant exhibitors have compelled Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. and Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. of Texas to grant to each of them the privileges set forth in paragraph 42 by refraining from licensing the product distributed by Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. and Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. of Texas for exhibition in the Griffith towns unless the exclusive privileges set forth in paragraph 42 were granted to them.

7 A The exclusive privilege referred to in paragraph A (3) has

a. Prevented other theatre operators from obtaining enough first-class pictures for any run to compete successfully with the defendant exhibitor because they have enabled such exhibitors to license all or as many of said pictures as they need before any of them are even offered to the other operators.

b. Forced other theatre operators to maintain higher admission prices than those warranted by the quali-27 ty of the entertainment they offered by forcing the distributors in licensing pictures to such operators to require such operators to charge a fixed, arbitrary, minimum admission price.

c. Prevented other operators from showing any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with first-run clearance by limiting first-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

d. Prevented other operators from exhibiting any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with second-run clearance by limiting second-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

8 A The combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 44 differs from the combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 39 in the following respect: Paragraph 39 alleges a series of combinations between the defendant exhibitors and with each of the defendant distributors; paragraph 44 alleges a series of combination among the defendant distributors and with each of the defendant exhibitors.

8 B (3) and (4) The manner in which the defendant distributors combined as alleged in paragraph 44, the terms of said combination, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

8 C (2) and (4) The manner in which each defendant exhibitor combined with the defendant distributors, as alleged in paragraph 44, and the means agreed upon for carrying out said combination, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

9. The matters alleged in Paragraph 45 had the effect of permitting each of the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in each of the towns specified in the complaint in the manner set forth in paragraphs 46 and 47.

10 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the exclusive privilege alleged in paragraph 46 as a result of an agreement among the defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in 45, 46, 47 and 48.

11 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the same clearance on feature pictures as alleged in paragraph 47 as a result of an agreement among defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

12 A The term "foregoing uniform restraints", as used in paragraph 48, refers to the restraints described in paragraphs 46 and 47.

13 A and B. The phrase, "more favorable rental terms", as used in paragraph 49, includes prices and all other terms on which pictures are rented or licensed, such as play dates, clearance, method of payment, etc.

II

14. The words "past five years" as used in paragraphs 29, 31, 32, 36, 37, 39, 41, 44, 45, and 47, refer to the five-year period commencing April 29, 1934 and ending April 28, 1939. Each of the years referred to commenced on April 29th and ended on April 28th of the succeeding year.

15. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 41 means concertedly through a common agent.

16. The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 42 means that no other exhibitor in the towns named received the same privileges.

17. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 45 means concertedly, through a common agent.

18 (a) The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 46.

18 (b) The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 46 means that no other exhibitor in the towns referred to received the same privilege.

19. The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 47.

The paragraph headings below correspond to the same headings used in the motion of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corp. of Texas and Loew's Inc.

I

1. As used in paragraphs 33 and 34, "a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year" is from 100 to 200, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

2. As used in paragraph 35, "a substantial number of the first-class pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors" is from 50 to 100, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

4 A (2) The manner in which the defendant exhibitors combined, as alleged in paragraph 39, is set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, and 43 of the complaint.

4 A (4) The terms of the combination between the defendant exhibitors, alleged in paragraph 39, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, and 43.

4 B (2), (3), and (4) The manner in which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corp. of Texas and Loew's Inc., combined with the defendant exhibitors, as alleged in paragraph 39, the terms, of which the Government is now informed, on which Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corp. of Texas and Loew's Inc., became a member of said combination, and the means, of which the Government is now informed, agreed upon for carrying out said combination, are set forth in paragraphs 41, 42, and 43.

6 A The defendant exhibitors have combined with each other "by said contracts", referred to in Paragraph 42, by refraining from contracting with the defendant distributors individually and contracting with said distributors only by means of joint contracts covering all of their theatres.

6 B The plaintiff does not claim that the contracts by which the defendant exhibitors are alleged to have combined are exclusively the licensing agreements under which the feature motion pictures were licensed for exhibition.

6 C Paragraph 42 does not allege that the contracts compelled the defendant distributors to grant the exclusive privileges alleged therein. The compulsion was exerted by the defendant exhibitors; the contracts, of course, merely evidenced the privileges granted.

6 D The defendant exhibitors have compelled Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corp. of Texas and Loew's Inc. to grant to each of them the privileges set forth in paragraph 42 by refraining from licensing the product distributed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corp. of Texas and Loew's Inc. for exhibition in the Griffith towns unless the exclusive privileges set forth in paragraph 42 were granted to them.

7 A The exclusive privilege referred to in paragraph A (3) has

a. Prevented other theatre operators from obtaining enough first-class pictures for any run to compete successfully with the defendant exhibitor because they have enabled such exhibitors to license all or as many of said pictures as they need before any of them are even offered to the other operators.

32 b. Forced other theatre operators to maintain higher admission prices than those warranted by the quality of the entertainment they offered by forcing the distributors, in licensing pictures, to such operators, to require such operators to charge a fixed, arbitrary admission price.

c. Prevented other operators from showing any feature picture released by the defendant distributors with first-run clearance by limiting first-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

d. Prevented other operators from exhibiting any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with second-run clearance by limiting second-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

8 A The combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 44 differs from the combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 39 in the following respect: Paragraph 39 alleges a series of combinations between the defendant exhibitors and with each of the defendant distributors; paragraph 44 alleges a series of combinations among the defendant distributors and with each of the defendant exhibitors.

8 B (2) and (4) The manner in which the defendant distributors combined as alleged in paragraph 44, the terms of said combination, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

8 C (2) and (4) The manner in which each defendant exhibitor combined with the defendant distributors, as alleged in paragraph 44, and the means agreed upon for carrying out said combination, of which the Gov-
33 ernment is now informed, as set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

9. The matters alleged in paragraph 45 had the effect of permitting each of the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in each of the towns specified in the complaint in the manner set forth in paragraphs 46 and 47.

10 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the exclusive privilege alleged in paragraph 46 as a result of an agreement among the defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in 45, 46, 47 and 48.

11 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformily granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the same clearance on feature pictures as alleged in paragraph 47 as a result of an agreement among defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

12 A. The term "foregoing uniform restraints", as used in paragraph 48, refers to the restraints described in paragraphs 46 and 47.

13 A and B. The phrase, "more favorable rental terms", as used in paragraph 49, includes prices and all other terms on which pictures are rented or licensed, such as play dates, clearance, method of payment, etc.

II

14. The words "past five years" as used in paragraphs 29, 31, 32, 36, 37, 39, 41, 44, 45, and 47, refer to the five-year period commencing April 29, 1934 and ending April 28, 1939. Each of the years referred to commenced on April 29th and ended on April 28th of the succeeding year.

34 15. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 41 means concertedly, through a common agent.

16. The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 43 means that no other exhibitor in the towns named received the same privileges.

17. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 45 means concertedly, through a common agent.

18 (a) The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 46.

18 (b) The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 46 means that no other exhibitor in the towns referred to received the same privilege.

19. The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 47.

35 The paragraph headings below correspond to the same headings used in the motion of R-K-O Radio Pictures, Inc.

I

1. As used in paragraphs 33 and 34, "a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year" is from 100 to 200, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

2. As used in paragraph 35, "a substantial number of the first-class pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors" is from 50 to 100, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

4 A (2) The manner in which the defendant exhibitors combined, as alleged in paragraph 39, is set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, and 43 of the complaint.

4 A (4) The terms of the combination between the defendant exhibitors, alleged in paragraph 39, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, and 43.

4 B (2), (3), and (4) The manner in which R-K-O Radio Pictures, Inc., combined with the defendant exhibitors, as alleged in paragraph 39, the terms of which the Government is now informed, on which R-K-O Radio Pictures, Inc., became a member of said combination, and the means, of which the Government is now informed, agreed upon for carrying out said combination, are set forth in paragraphs 41, 42, and 43.

6 A The defendant exhibitors have combined with 36 each other "by said contracts", referred to in paragraph 42, by refraining from contracting with the defendant distributors individually and contracting with said distributors only by means of joint contracts covering all of their theatres.

6 B The plaintiff does not claim that the contracts by which the defendant exhibitors are alleged to have combined are exclusively the licensing agreements under which the feature motion pictures were licensed for exhibition.

6 C Paragraph 42, does not allege that the contracts compelled the defendant distributors to grant the exclusive privileges alleged therein. The compulsion was exerted by the defendant exhibitors; the contracts, of course, merely evidenced the privileges granted.

6 D The defendant exhibitors have compelled R-K-O Radio Pictures, Inc., to grant to each of them the privileges set forth in paragraph 42 by refraining from licensing the product distributed by R-K-O Radio Pictures, Inc. for exhibition in the Griffith towns unless the exclusive privileges set forth in paragraph 42 were granted to them.

7 A The exclusive privilege referred to in paragraph A (3) have

a. Prevented other theatre operators from obtaining enough first-class pictures for any run to compete successfully with the defendant exhibitor because they have enabled such exhibitors to license all or as many of said pictures as they need before any of them are even offered to the other operators.

b. Forced other theatre operators to maintain higher admission prices than those warranted by the quality of the entertainment they offered by forcing the distributors, in licensing pictures, to such operators, to re-37 quire such operator to charge a fixed, arbitrary, minimum admission price.

c. Prevented other operators from showing any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with first-run clearance by limiting first-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

d. Prevented other operators from exhibiting any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with second-run clearance by limiting second-run clearance to the theatres operated by the defendant exhibitors.

8 A The combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 44 differs from the combination to restrain and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize alleged in paragraph 39 in the following respect: Paragraph 39 alleges a series of combinations between the defendant exhibitors and with each of the defendant distributors; paragraph 44 alleges a series of combinations among the defendant distributors and with each of the defendant exhibitors.

8 B (3) and (4) The manner in which the defendant distributors combined as alleged in paragraph 44, the terms of said combination, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

8 C (2) and (4) The manner in which said defendant exhibitor combined with the defendant distributors, as alleged in paragraph 44 and the means agreed upon for carrying out said combination, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

9. The matters alleged in paragraph 45 had the effect of permitting each of the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in each of the towns specified in the 38 complaint in the manner set forth in paragraphs 46 and 47.

10 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the exclusive privilege alleged in paragraph 46 as a result of an agreement among the defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in 45, 46, 47 and 48.

11 A It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the same clearance on feature pictures as alleged in paragraph 47 as a result of an agreement among defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

12 A The term "foregoing uniform restraints", as used in paragraph 46, refers to the restraints described in paragraphs 46 and 47.

13 A and B The phrase, "more favorable rental terms", as used in paragraph 49, includes prices and all other terms on which pictures are rented or licensed, such as play dates, clearance, method of payment, etc.

II

14. The words "past five years" as used in paragraphs 29, 31, 32, 36, 37, 39, 41, 44, 45, and 47, refer to the five-year period commencing April 29, 1934 and ending April 28, 1939. Each of the years referred to commenced on April 29th and ended on April 28th of the succeeding year.

15. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 41 means concertedly through a common agent.

16. The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 42 means that no other exhibitor in the towns named received the same privileges.

39 17. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 45 means concertedly, through a common agent.

18 (a) The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 46.

18 (b) The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 46 means that no other exhibitor in the towns referred to received the same privilege.

19. The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 47.

40 The following numbering corresponds to the numbering used in the motion of United Artists Corporation.

V

The first-run theatres referred to in Par. 25 are as follows:

Oklahoma City: Criterion, Midwest, Plaza, Tower.
Tulsa: Orpheum, Ritz.
Austin: Paramount, State.
Dallas: Majestic, Palace.
Fort Worth: Hollywood, Palace, Worth.
Houston: Loew's, Majestic, Metropolitan.
San Antonio: Aztec, Majestic.

VI

1. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 29 means altogether.

41 VII

1. The first-class pictures referred to in paragraph 30 are the same pictures as those referred to in paragraphs 25 and 29.

VIII

1. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 31 means altogether.

2. Said word has the same meaning as said word in paragraph 29.

IX

1. As used in paragraph 33, "a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year" is from 100 to 200, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

2. At least 104 feature pictures annually are required to operate a first-run theatre in any of the Griffith towns.

X

1. As used in paragraph 34, "a substantial number of the feature pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors each year" is from 100 to 200, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

2. At least 104 feature pictures annually are required to operate a second-run theatre in any of the Griffith towns.

XI

1 & 2. As used in paragraph 35, "a substantial number of the first-class pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors" is from 50 to 100, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

42

XII

1. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 36 means altogether.

2. The word "supplied" as used in paragraph 36 means paid.

XIV

1. (b) and (c). The terms of the combination between the defendant exhibitors and United Artists, alleged in paragraph 39, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry out said combination, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 41, 42 and 43.

XV

1. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 41 means concertedly, through a common agent.

2. The manner in which the matters alleged in paragraph 41 enable and have enabled the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in Griffith towns is set forth in paragraphs 42 and 43.

XVI

1. Paragraph 42 does not allege that "said contracts" compelled the defendant distributors to grant the exclusive privileges alleged therein. The compulsion was exerted by the defendant exhibitors; the contracts, of course, merely evidenced the privileges granted.

2. Paragraph 42 does not allege that "said con-
43 tracts" compelled United Artists to grant to defendant exhibitors the exclusive privileges alleged therein. The compulsion was exerted by the defendant exhibitors; the contracts, of course, merely evidenced the privileges granted.

XVIII

2. The means agreed upon for carrying out the combination between the defendant distributors and each of the defendant exhibitors, alleged in paragraph 44, of which the Government is now informed, are described in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48 of the complaint.

XIX

1. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 45 means concertedly, through a common agent.

2. It was not intended by paragraph 45 to allege that the defendant exhibitors required any specific number of pictures for exhibition in the Griffith towns during the five year period. Paragraph 45 simply alleges that the defendant exhibitors contracted for whatever number of pictures they desired, which would presumably be based on what they considered their needs to be, before such feature pictures were offered to any other exhibitor in the Griffith towns.

3. Paragraph 45, by the words "any other exhibitor" does not refer to any specific exhibitors.

4. The manner in which the matters alleged in paragraph 45 enable and have enabled the defendant ex-44 hibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in Griffith towns is set forth in paragraphs 46, 47 and 48.

5. Paragraph 45 does not allege that United Artists combined with any other distributor and contracted with the defendant exhibitors in the manner set forth in paragraph 45.

XX

1. The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 45.

2. The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 46 means that no other exhibitor in the towns referred to received the same privilege.

3, 4 and 5. It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the exclusive privileges referred to in paragraph 46 by reason of an agreement between said defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agrement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

XXI

1. The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 47.

2. It is claimed that defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the same clearance on feature pictures as a result of an agreement among the defendant distributors only to the extent
45 that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

3. Petitioner is not now sufficiently informed to specify the particular acts relied upon to establish such agreement other than the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

4, 5 and 6. These requests are answered by the particulars furnished in response to XXI, 2 and 3 above.

XXII

1. The term "foregoing uniform restraints" as used in paragraph 46 refers to the restraints described in paragraphs 46 and 47.

4. Said restraints were imposed on competing exhibitions by defendant distributors in the manner set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, and 47.

6(a) The "uniformity of motion" to which paragraph 48 refers is the uniform conduct set forth in paragraphs 46 and 47.

6(b) The action claimed to have been taken by United Artists is the uniform conduct set forth in paragraphs 46 and 47.

6(d) The competitive effect of the uniform action referred to in paragraph 48 is set forth in paragraphs 45, 46 and 47.

46 The following numbering corresponds to the numbering used in the motion of Universal Film Exchanges, Inc.

1. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 36 means altogether.

2. The word "supplied" as used in paragraph 36 means paid.

XIV

1. (b) and (c) The terms of the combination between the defendant exhibitors and Universal, alleged in paragraph 39, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry out said combination, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 41, 42 and 43.

XV

1. The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 41 means concertedly, through a common agent.

2. The manner in which the matters alleged in paragraph 41 enable and have enabled the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in Griffith towns is set forth in paragraphs 42 and 43.

XVI

1. Paragraph 42 does not allege that "said contracts" compelled the defendant distributors to grant the exclusive privileges alleged therein. The compulsion was exerted by the defendant exhibitors; the contracts, of course, merely evidenced the privileges granted.

2. Paragraph 42 does not allege that "said contracts" compelled Universal to grant to defendant exhibitors the exclusive privileges alleged therein. The compulsion was exerted by the defendant exhibitors; the contracts, of course, merely evidenced the privileges granted.

2. The means agreed upon for carrying out the combination between the defendant distributors and each of the defendant exhibitors, alleged in paragraph 44, of which the Government is now informed, are described in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48 of the complaint.

2. It was not intended by paragraph 45 to allege that the defendant exhibitors required any specific number of pictures for exhibition in the Griffith towns during the five year period. Paragraph 45 simply alleges that the defendant exhibitors contracted for whatever number of pictures they desired, which would presumably be based on what they considered their needs to be, before such feature pictures were offered to any other exhibitor in the Griffith towns.

3. Paragraph 45, by the words "any other exhibitor" does not refer to any specific exhibitors.

4. The manner in which the matters alleged in paragraph 45 enable and have enabled the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in Griffith towns is set forth in paragraphs 46, 47 and 48.

5. Paragraph 45 does not allege that Universal combined with any other distributor and contracted with the defendant exhibitors in the manner set forth in paragraph 45.

XX

1. The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 46.

2. The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 46 means that no other exhibitor in the towns referred to received the same privilege.

3, 4 and 5. It is claimed that the defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the exclusive privileges referred to in paragraph 46 by reason of an agreement between said defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

XXI

1. The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 47.

2. It is claimed that defendant distributors have uniformly granted to each of the defendant exhibitors the same clearance on feature pictures as a result of an agreement among the defendant distributors only to the extent that such an agreement may be inferred from the circumstances alleged in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48.

58 The following numbers and letters correspond to the paragraph numbers and subparagraph headings in the defendants' Griffith Amusement Co., Consolidated Theatres, Inc., R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., Westex Theatres, Inc., L. C. Griffith, H. J. Griffith and R. E. Griffith, motion.

The term "first-run exhibition" as used in paragraph 20 is intended to exclude the first exhibition of a given picture in a given town where such exhibition is not coupled with "first-run clearance" as defined in paragraphs 26 and 27.

The term "second-run exhibition" as used in paragraph 21 is intended to exclude the second exhibition of a given picture in a given town where such exhibition is not coupled with "second-run clearance" as defined in paragraphs 26 and 28.

(a) In defining "first-run theatre" in paragraph 22 it is not intended to exclude theatres which customarily exhibit first-class pictures without first-run clearance as defined in paragraphs 26 and 27. Paragraph 22 does not define the term "first run".

(b) The term "first-class pictures" as used in paragraph 22 is defined in paragraph 25.

(a) In defining "second-run theatre" in paragraph 23 it is not intended to exclude theatres which customarily exhibit first-class pictures without "second-run clearance" as defined in paragraphs 26 and 28. Paragraph 23 does not define the term "second run".

59 (b) The term "first-class pictures" as used in paragraph 23 is defined in paragraph 25.

The definition of "first-class pictures" in paragraph 25 is intended to apply to and limit the meaning of that term wherever used in the complaint.

(a) The term "clearance" as defined in paragraph 26 is intended to have the meaning given to it by the definition therein contained. In so far as the Government is now informed, such definition does not differ from the meaning generally attributed to the term in the motion picture industry.

(b) By the definition of the term "clearance" in paragraph 26 it is intended to exclude all clearance other than that "which limits the terms on which the distributor may license films to other competing exhibitors."

(c) By the definition of the term "clearance" in paragraph 26 it is not intended to exclude clearance not resulting from or incorporated into a contract between the exhibitor and distributor.

(a) The term "first-run clearance" as defined in paragraph 27 is intended to have the meaning given to it by the definition therein contained. In so far as the Government is now informed, such definition does not differ from the meaning generally attributed to the term in the motion picture industry.

The term "first-class pictures" as used in paragraph 29 is defined in paragraph 25.

10

61 The words "past five years" as used in paragraph 29 and other paragraphs of the complaint refer to the five-year period commencing April 29, 1934, and ending April 28, 1939. Each of the years referred to commenced on April 29 and ended on April 28 of the succeeding year.

11

(a) The Government is not now accurately advised of the exact number of first-class pictures released by each of the distributor defendants during each of the past five years. On the basis of its present knowledge, however, the Government estimates that the number of first-class pictures released by each of the distributor defendants during each of the past five years was as follows:

Paramount, from 20 to 30.
Loew's, from 30 to 40.
RKO, from 5 to 15.
Vitograph, from 25 to 35.
Universal, from 5 to 10.
Fox, from 25 to 35.
United Artists, from 10 to 20.
Columbia, from 5 to 10.

12

(b) The Government is not now advised of the exact number of feature pictures released by each of the distributor defendants during each of the past five years. On the basis of its present knowledge, however, the Government estimates that the number of feature pictures released by each of the distributor defendants during each of the past five years was as follows:

Paramount, from 55 to 75.
Loew's, from 40 to 60.
RKO, from 40 to 50.
Vitograph, from 50 to 60.
Fox, from 50 to 65.
Universal, from 25 to 45.
62 United Artists, from 15 to 25.
Columbia, from 35 to 50.

(a) As used in paragraphs 33 and 34, the words "substantial number" refer to from 100 to 200 feature pictures, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures. As used in paragraph 35, "a substantial number of the first-class pictures released by three or more of the defendant distributors" is from 50 to 100, depending upon local competitive conditions and the quality of the particular pictures.

(b) The Government makes no claim in paragraphs 33, 34, or 35 that in order to operate a theatre successfully in any Griffith town, an exhibitor must have available a minimum number of the pictures released by each distributor defendant.

(a), (2), (4). The manner in which the defendant exhibitors combined with each other as alleged in paragraph 39, the terms of said combination, of which the Government is now informed, and the means agreed upon to carry it out, of which the Government is now informed, are set forth in paragraphs 40, 41, 42, and 43.

(b), (2), (3) and (4). The manner in which each of the defendant distributors combined with the defendant exhibitors as alleged in paragraph 39, the terms of which the Government is now informed, on which each of the defendant distributors became a member of said combination, and the means, of which the Government is now informed, agreed upon for carrying out said combination, are set forth in paragraphs 41, 42, and 43.

(a) The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 41 means concertedly, through a common agent.

(c) The manner in which the matters alleged in paragraph 41 had the effect of enabling the defendant exhibitors to control and monopolize the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in the Griffith towns is set forth in paragraphs 42 and 43.

(a) The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 42 means that no other exhibitor in the towns named received the same privileges.

(b) and (c) The defendant exhibitors have compelled each of the defendant distributors to grant to them the privileges set forth in paragraph 42 by refraining from licensing the product of the defendant distributors for exhibition in the Griffith towns unless the exclusive privileges set forth in paragraph 42 were granted to them.

(a) The term "first-class pictures" as used in 43 (a) is limited by the definition of said term in paragraph 25.

(b) By agreements with the defendant distributors controlling the admission prices at which pictures licensed from them by competing exhibitors could be shown, the defendant exhibitors forced competing exhibitors to maintain admission prices higher than those warranted by the quality of the entertainment which said competing exhibitors were able to offer.

By paragraph 44 it is intended to charge a combination in restraint of trade and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize other than the violations alleged in 64 paragraphs 39 to 43, inclusive, and paragraphs 49 and 50. The allegations of paragraph 44 are specified and particularized in paragraphs 45, 46, 47 and 48, and paragraph 44 is accordingly limited by them.

The word "collectively" as used in paragraph 45 means concertedly, through a common agent.

23

(a) The term "uniformly granted" means that the defendant distributors have acted similarly in granting the privilege referred to in paragraph 46.

(b) The word "exclusive" as used in paragraph 46 means that no other exhibitor in the towns referred to received the same privilege.

(a) The term "foregoing uniform restraints" as used in paragraph 48 refers to the restraints described in paragraphs 46 and 47.

(d) The "uniformity of action" to which paragraph 48 refers is the uniform conduct set forth in paragraphs 46 and 47.

(e) (1) The competitive effect of the "uniform action" referred to in paragraph 48 is set forth in paragraphs 45, 46, and 47.

(b) The phrase "favorable rental terms" as used in paragraph 49 is not intended to refer only to prices.

(c) The phrase "more favorable rental terms" as used in paragraph 49 includes prices and all other terms on which pictures are rented or licensed, such as play dates, clearance, method of payment, etc.

Answer of L. C. Griffith

Filed June 14, 1940

Comes now L. C. Griffith, and for his answer to the complaint and the bill of particulars, to which reference is hereinafter made as "complaint", states as follows:

I

That he admits the allegations contained in paragraph 1 of the complaint, except that he denies that Griffith Amusement Company operates theatres in the towns of Ardmore, Fairfax, Maud, Tonkawa and Bristow, in the State of Oklahoma, and Gainesville, in the State of Texas.

II

That he admits the allegations contained in paragraph 2 of the complaint, except that he denies that Consolidated Theatres, Inc. operates theatres in the towns of Pauls Valley and Kingfisher, in the State of Oklahoma, and Lubbock, in the State of Texas.

III

That this answering defendant states that he is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the averments contained in paragraphs 3, 4, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 29, 30, 31, 32, 36, and 38.

IV

That this answering defendant admits the allegations contained in paragraphs 6 and 7 of the complaint.

V

That this answering defendant denies the averments contained in paragraph 20 of the complaint, except that he admits that the first run exhibition of a motion picture is generally, with some few exceptions however, the initial exhibition of that motion picture in that town.

VI

That he denies the averments contained in paragraph 21 of the complaint except that he admits that the second run exhibition of a motion picture in a town is an exhibition of that motion picture in that town subsequent to its first run therein.

66 VII

That he denies the averments contained in paragraphs 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 33, 34, 35, 37, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, and 50 of the complaint.

VIII

That he admits the averments contained in the first sentence of paragraph 49; that he is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the second sentence of said paragraph 49; that he denies the averments made in the third and fourth sentences of said paragraph 49.

Wherefore, the defendant, L. C. Griffith, having fully answered the complaint herein, demands judgment dismissing the complaint, together with all costs and disbursements of this action.

Answer of R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc. Westex Theatres, Inc. and R. E. Griffith

Filed June 15, 1946

Defendants, R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc. Westex Theatres, Inc. and R. E. Griffith, for answer to the complaint, as amplified by the Bill of Particulars filed herein, herein referred to as the "complaint," allege:

I

For lack of information they neither admit or deny the allegations of Paragraphs 1 and 2, of Paragraphs 9 to 19, both inclusive, and of Paragraphs 29, 30, 31, 32, 36 and 38.

II

They admit the allegations of Paragraphs 6, 7 and 8 of the complaint.

III

They admit the allegations of the first sentence of Paragraph 3, and of the first sentence of Paragraph 4 of the complaint.

IV

They admit that Defendant, R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., operates one or more theatres in Gallup, Hobbs and Roswell, New Mexico, and Post, Texas, as alleged in Paragraph 3 of the complaint; but in answer to the allegations of said Paragraph regarding the other towns or cities named therein, they allege that R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc. owns only an interest in one or more theatres in each of said other towns or cities, each of which such theatres is operated by said Defendant and the co-owner or co-owners thereof, jointly.

V

They admit that Defendant, Westex Theatres, Inc., operates one or more theatres in Burkburnett, Texas, and Portales, New Mexico, as alleged in Paragraph 4 of the complaint; but in answer to the allegations of said Paragraph regarding the towns of Ballinger, Belton, Clarksville, Georgetown, Hereford, Lampasas, Merkel,
74 Odessa, Plainview, San Saba, Spur, Stamford and

Winters, Texas, they allege that Westex Theatres, Inc. owns only an interest in one or more theatres in each of said towns or cities, each of which such theatres is operated by said Defendant and the co-owner or co-owners thereof, jointly, and that said Defendant, by means of ownership or corporate stock, has an interest in one or more theatres in Brady, Gonzales, Lockhart and Luling, Texas, each of which theatres is operated by the corporate owner thereof. They deny that said defendant operates or has any interest in the operation of any theatre in Decatur, Texas.

VI

That they deny the allegations of Paragraph 20 of the complaint, with the exception that they admit that the first run exhibition of a motion picture, as such term is usually used in the trade, is, with some few exceptions, the initial exhibition of that motion picture in that town.

VII

That they deny the allegations of Paragraph 21, with the exception that they admit that the second run exhibition of a motion picture in a town is the exhibition subsequent to its first run therein.

VIII

That they deny the allegations contained in Paragraphs 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 33, 34, 35, 37, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48 and 50.

IX

That they admit the allegations contained in the first sentence of Paragraph 49; that they are without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the second sentence of said Paragraph 49; that they deny the allegations made in the third and fourth sentences of said Paragraph 49.

WHEREFORE, these Defendants, having fully answered, pray for judgment against the Plaintiff, together with all costs and disbursements and for such other and further relief as to the Court shall seem just and proper in the premises.

In United States District Court

81 Opinion

Filed October 9, 1946

On April 28, 1939, the United States of America filed its complaint against the defendants Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., Westex Theatres, Inc., L. C. Griffith, H. J. Griffith, R. E. Griffith, Paramount Pictures, Inc., Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation of Texas, Loew's Incorporated, RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., Vitagraph, Inc., Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation, Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation of Texas, United Artists Corporation, and Columbia Pictures Corporation, alleging violations of Sections 1 and 2 of Title 15 U. S. C. A., the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, and seeking relief under Section 4 thereof. Prior to the trial of the cause, the action was dismissed as to all of the defendants except Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., Westex Theatres, Inc., L. C. Griffith, H. J. Griffith and R. E. Griffith. Defendant R. E. Griffith died in 1943 and the action was not revived against his personal representatives or his estate.

On motion of the plaintiff, paragraphs 44 to 48, inclusive, were stricken from the complaint leaving paragraphs 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 49 and 50, which charge violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. All of the defendants remaining in the case are what are known in the moving picture industry as exhibitors. The alleged violations follows:

"39. For the past five years the defendant exhibitors have continuously combined with each other and with each of the defendant distributors to unreasonably restrain interstate trade and commerce in motion picture films and to monopolize and attempt to monopolize the first and second run exhibition of feature pictures and the operation of first and second run theatres in the Griffith Towns in violation of Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman Act, in the following manner:

"40. Said exhibitors have refrained from competing with each other in the acquisition and operation of motion picture theatres in said towns pursuant to express or implied agreements to allocate said territory between them.

"41. During each of the past five years said exhibitors have collectively contracted with each of the defendant distributors for all of the feature pictures annually required for exhibition at all of the theatres operated by them in said towns, in advance of the production and distribution of such feature pictures and before such feature pictures or any of them, have been offered to any other exhibitor in said towns, with the purpose and effect of controlling and monopolizing the supply of feature pictures available for exhibition in said towns.

"42. By said contracts said exhibitors have combined with each other to compel each of the defendant distributors to grant to all of them in all of said towns the following exclusive privileges during the entire time they have operated theatres in said towns: (a) The exclusive privilege of selecting from the feature pictures released by said distributors such feature pictures as said exhibitors deemed suitable for exhibition in said towns, as and when prints thereof became available, before said pictures were released to any other exhibitors in said towns. (b) The exclusive privilege of receiving clearance on said feature pictures over competing theatres in said towns.

"43. The foregoing exclusive privileges have en-
83 abled the defendant exhibitors to unreasonably restrain, suppress and entirely eliminate the competition offered by other theatre operators in said towns in the licensing and exhibition of feature pictures by: (a) Preventing them from obtaining enough first-class pictures for exhibition on any run to operate their theatres successfully. (b) Forcing them to maintain admission prices higher than those warranted by the quality of the entertainment they were able to offer; that is, feature pictures previously exhibited or rejected by the defendant exhibitors. (c) Preventing them from showing any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with first-run clearance in any of said towns. (d) Preventing them from exhibiting any feature pictures released by the defendant distributors with second-run clearance in any of said towns where any of the defendant exhibitors operate one or more second-run theatres."

"49. Each of the defendant exhibitors is what is commonly referred to in the motion picture industry as a circuit of theatres. As a result of the acquisition and operation of numerous theatres as herein before alleged, the said exhibitors and each of them have obtained what is commonly referred to in the motion picture industry as a circuit buying power. Said circuit buying power has enabled them and each of them to obtain the exclusive privileges herein before recited from the defendant distributors. Said circuit buying power has further enabled them and each of them to demand and receive from all distributors of motion pictures more favorable rental terms in licensing their motion pictures than can be obtained by competing individual exhibitors.

"50. Said circuit buying power is now so great that its continued existence will tend to subject competing exhibitors in the Griffith Towns to other and additional restraints in violation of the Sherman Act, even if the foregoing restraints are enjoined, unless said circuit buying power is eliminated."

The defendants deny generally these allegations and upon the issues thus joined the cause was tried to the court.

The record is quite voluminous, containing close to 4,000 pages of testimony and many hundreds of exhibits, and exhaustive briefs were filed, which necessitates a much more lengthy opinion then in ordinary cases.

The production, distribution and distribution of moving picture films comprise an industry that has arisen and developed during the past thirty years. In order that we may better understand the situation here, as it has been developed in the trial, it is appropriate to give a brief resume of the background of the development of the industry as it pertains to the defendants, as disclosed by the testimony.

84 During the thirty year period immediately preceding the filing of the complaint in this cause, the motion picture industry has undergone marvelous changes and developments.

These changes have been very marked not only in the production and distribution of pictures, but also in the exhibition of pictures. The showhouse or theater in the smaller towns and in many of the larger ones, at the beginning of this period, consisted ordinarily of a remodeled storeroom equipped, often poorly, for exhibition purposes. Those originally engaged in the exhibition of pictures were persons of little or no experience in the business and usually their methods were as crude and inefficient as the houses in which they operated. The production of better and more attractive pictures called for more efficient methods in their exhibition. All of these developments have required substantial capital for the construction of modern theatres, installation of sound equipment, more efficient personnel, and advertising and exhibiting the production.

In many of the situations in the territory in question, the pioneer exhibitors have been slow to respond to the public demand for better showhouses, more modern equipment and efficient service in the exhibition of pictures. This very positive progress in the development of the business not only has made the well-managed theater a good business proposition, but has resulted in an increased interest in the business by a more progressive element, willing to provide the capital and more efficient service to meet the public demand. In reviewing the evidence, the situations will be treated individually in order to determine whether or not the existing conditions are the natural and logical result of the gradual changes suggested by the demands of the public and the opportunities from a business standpoint, and will be considered only as effecting the territory involved in this action.

85 industry, as it pertained to the exhibition of pictures, from its early inception until about 1928 or 1929 consisted of the exhibition of what is known as "silent films". During this period, very little effort was made by the exhibitors to construct showhouses or theatres adequate to accommodate the public. The accommodations were unsanitary, poorly planned and constructed, and were known throughout the industry as the "storehouse" type of theater. Particularly was this true as to the states of Oklahoma, New Mexico and the outlying districts of Texas. In the principal cities in Texas, however, many modern theater buildings were constructed. In 1928 or 1929 what is known as "sound equipment" was perfected and since that time we have had what is termed "talking pictures." The cost of the construction and equipment of a modern de luxe type of theatre with sound equipment and a seating capacity of 600 to 1,000 was approximately $75,000. The successful installation of sound equipment in old buildings that had been converted into theaters necessitated much and expensive remodelling, at an approximate cost of $14,000. Stages in such buildings had to be reconstructed, ceilings raised or lowered, obstructions that would interfere with sound removed.

As the moving picture industry was so developing, the nation was experiencing what has been termed the "depression", with which all are familiar. Every line of business suffered and there were many failures due entirely to the depression. In order to supply the patronizing public with adequate and comfortable showhouses or theatres, those engaged in the business who kept abreast of the steady and continuing progress and scientific development of the industry sought to provide houses of entertainment, until today there is scarcely a town of 3,500 population that does not have at least one or more modern theater buildings.

Three of the defendants, R. E. Griffith, L. C. Griffith, and H. J. Griffith (hereinafter referred to as the Griffith 86 brothers), lived in the State of Texas. From 1915 to 1919, R. E. Griffith and L. C. Griffith were engaged as traveling salesmen for various distributors selling moving picture films to theater operators, except for about one year during the first World War when L. C. Griffith served as a soldier in the United States Army. As they traveled in the states of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, they grew familiar with the theater situations throughout that territory. They became interested in the exhibition branch of the industry and acquired a lease on a building in San Marcos, Texas, and remodelled it into a theater. From that time forward their interest increased and from time to time they acquired, in whole or in part, other theaters. They financed their enterprises from what they could save from their salaries, supplemented with earnings from their ventures. The two brothers came to Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, in December 1919. At that time they had acquired an interest in the "film exchange" industry with W. G. Underwood of Dallas, Texas. They organized such an exchange business in Oklahoma City under the firm name of Oklahoma Specialty Film Exchange. This organization dealt in and distributed what was then known as "state rights" pictures and was a Griffith brothers enterprise. In this line of endeavor the two brothers traveled extensively throughout the state of Oklahoma and became familiar with the theater situation in the various towns and cities. They conceived the idea of establishing modern theaters with modern equipment in various towns, as opportunities presented. In 1924 or 1925 they acquired the Rialto theater in Oklahoma City and placed their younger brother, H. J. Griffith, in charge of it as operator, where he continued until 1926. During this time each brother developed certain individual qualities for business as he became better acquainted with the industry. R. E. Griffith grew skillful in buying and booking films for theaters, an increasingly technical and difficult task. L. C. Griffith developed as an executive. H. J. Griffith became proficient in hand-87 ling the problems involved in keeping the machinery in operating condition, and the buildings properly lighted, ventilated, equipped and repaired. They possessed in common the ability to recognize and appraise conditions in the industry. Up to 1926 they had worked together as a partnership and had acquired theaters and interests in theaters in several towns and cities. They were handicapped for finances in their endeavor to extend their holdings. An opportunity presented itself in 1926 which they believed would provide them with sufficient capital to carry out their desires of expansion. Consideration of this opportunity resulted in a contract with the Universal Chain Theatrical Enterprises, by the terms of which the Griffith brothers were to organize a corporation to be known as the Griffith Amusement Company. The Universal Chain was to own a series of class B stock in Griffith Amusement Company and was from time to time to furnish funds to the new organization as loans with interest at ten per cent. per annum, for the purpose of acquiring theaters. The Griffith brothers, were to have the actual management of the Griffith Amusement Company and the final decision relative to the acquisition of theaters. L. C. Griffith became president of the corporation and still retains that office. R. E. Griffith continued as buyer and booker of films and H. J. Griffith continued in the capacity heretofore outlined. At the time of the organization of Griffith Amusement Company, the Griffith brothers owned fifteen theaters in various places in the territory, most of which were of the storehouse type. The contract with the Universal Chain continued in force and effect until sometime in 1928 when difficulty was encountered by Griffith Amusement Company in procuring advancement of funds from the Universal Chain, and the contract was terminated. The stock owned by the Universal Chain in the Griffith Amusement Company was purchased by the Griffith brothers.

Some of the stockholders of Griffith Amusement Company did not endorse the acquisition of additional 88 theatres and the Griffith brothers organized another corporation, the Consolidated Theatres, Inc., and later changed to Griffith Consolidated Theatres, Inc. The latter corporation acquired theatres as advantageous opportunities permitted. L. C. Griffith later became president of Consolidated Theatres, Inc., and that organization occupied the same offices as Griffith Amusement Company, with the same clerical force and with one overhead expense.

Griffith Amusement Company organized a department to furnish administrative services to theatres throughout the territory, including those of Consolidated Theatres, Inc. It furnished such services as the buying and booking of films, bookkeeping and auditing services, an auto trailer pick-up service to deliver film reels, and various other services valuable to theatre operators, at a fee of four percent of the annual gross receipts, under what were called administrative contracts.

In acquiring an interest less than the full ownership of a theatre, the purchase contract provided that the Griffith interest would have "exclusive charge of the buying and booking of films."

In the purchase of a theater, the contract usually provided that the seller would not engage in the theater business, directly or indirectly, in that community for a specified period of time, as a part of the consideration for the purchase of the "good will" of the seller.

In 1931, R. E. Griffith left the organization as a regular salaried employee of Griffith Amusement Company and was never thereafter employed by Griffith Amusement Company or Consolidated Theatres, Inc., except as follows. Neither L. C. Griffith nor H. J. Griffith had acquired sufficient experience in buying and booking films to carry on such work successfully for their theaters. The corporations then employed R. E. Griffith to buy and book films for the theaters in which they were interested until the 1938-1939 season, when his services as such were discontinued.

In the meantime, H. R. Falls assisted R. E. Griffith
89 in such service until 1938 when Falls assumed such duties for Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated. From 1938 until his death in 1943 R. E. Griffith was in no way connected with buying and booking films for the two corporations.

At the time R. E. Griffith severed his connection with the organization in 1931, he exchanged his stock in Consolidated Theatres for three theaters owned by that corporation in New Mexico, but retained his stock in Griffith Amusement Company. He removed to New Mexico and formed two organizations through which he conducted the same character of business. One was incorporated December 23, 1931, as R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., and the other was incorporated March 27, 1936, as Westex Theatres, Inc.

The Griffith brothers are shown to have been exceptionally good theater operators, keeping constantly abreast of the development of a rapidly growing industry. Their accounts naturally were coveted by the producers and distributors of moving pictures.

The contentions of the Government, as stated in its brief, are: "that the defendants secured through acquisition of financial interests in competing theatres and by management agreements with them, a film purchasing power far greater than that possessed by any of its local competitors;" "that this power was used to secure contracts for exhibition rights to the films of the major distributors which gave the defendants an unreasonable control over the licensing of such film to others in numerous towns in the states mentioned;" "that this control was used to absorb or otherwise eliminate a number of actual and potential competitors;" and, "that the acquisition of such power by concerted action, apart from its illegal use, constitutes a violation of the Sherman Act." The Government insists that the evidence justifies the conclusion as a matter of law that these contentions are sound, and stresses in its brief twenty-five theater situations to sustain its position. These situations are taken up in detail in the findings of fact filed herein.

90 There are three parties involved in the industry in the exhibition of moving picture films—the producer, the distributor, and the exhibitor. The producer and the distributor are closely allied, so much so that they are frequently one institution with two departments. The distributor has to rely upon the producer for product. The producer has to rely upon the distributor for the exploitation of the product. The production of moving picture films entails the expenditure of vast sums of money to meet weekly pay rolls, et cetera. It is the function and business of the distributor to contact the exhibitors throughout the territory where they desire to exhibit the films. In doing this, the distributor is concerned in securing the best returns for the product he can obtain that will insure a steady income and keep the industry moving. The exhibitor is interested in buying the product at the lowest possible cost and in keeping a steady flow of the product for his theater, or theaters, of the kind and character he desires, at the times and places he desires to exhibit.

The product is copyrighted and is not sold to the exhibitor but is licensed to him for exhibition under certain terms and conditions. This practice has developed what is termed in the industry the "standard form" of contract, the provisions of which control except where they conflict with provisions in the "master" or basic contract. The evidence clearly discloses that the distributor selects his own customers and accounts and the exhibitor has no control over that phase of the industry. Many things are taken into consideration by the distributor in making that selection, such as the ability of the exhibitor to exploit the films in his community, his experience in exhibiting moving picture films, the facilities of his theater, his ability to pay for the product, and his integrity or lack of integrity.

In the development of the trade in the industry, the distributor endeavored to have his exhibitor license the product for a year in a contract called a season contract.
91 The solicitation began about the latter part of July or the first of August in each year. At that time the distributor had determined the kind and character of product he would be able to apply the exhibitor for that season. In most instances, the films had not yet been produced and no one knew how successful they would prove as boxoffice attractions, and in the season contract the exhibitor would be accorded the privilege of rejecting or eliminating a certain percent of the product during the season. Later, and during the time covered by the complaint, the distributor conceived the idea of licensing the product for a longer term than one season, and entered into a contract to license its product for a two, three or five-year period, which was called a franchise. This proved not to be advantageous to the distributor and has been discontinued by practically all of them. At the time the contracts were entered into between the distributors and the exhibitors, the terms and conditions were arrived at by "barter and trade."

Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., and the theatres with whom they had administrative contracts negotiated the licensing of films through R. E. Griffith, as their representative, until the 1938-1939 season. At the beginning of the season, as a matter of convenience, R. E. Griffith would go to the New York offices of the various major distributors, and it was the rule that all licensing contracts were required to have the approval of the New York office. There he would enter into negotiations with each distributor separately for the licensing of such of the output of films on hand, or to be produced, as he deemed would insure a supply which would reasonably meet the needs of the various towns in which they were to be exhibited, at the times they were needed. Such negotiations called for considerable ability and skill, and frequently took weeks to conclude. The negotiations with each distributor would be reduced to a memorandum agreement and 92 later covered by a contract for each theater. These contracts always provided that the exhibition of the films was to be governed by the general provisions of the standard form of contract unless it was provided otherwise in the memorandum agreement.

Beginning with the 1938-1939 season, the negotiating for the licensing of films was done by H. R. Falls, as representative, and in much the same manner as theretofore except as to the place of negotiation. Instead of Falls going to New York, the representatives, or the state or district managers, of the distributors carried on their negotiations with Falls either in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma or Dallas, Texas.

The evidence discloses that in all the contracts with exhibitors, the films were licensed either at a "flat-rental" price or on a "percentage" basis. The contracts of the defendants Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theatres, R. E. Griffith Theatres and Westex Theatres are practically all on a flat rental basis, although there are some percentage deals. The competitors of the defendants, aside from those with whom there were administrative contracts, were inclined more often to deal on a percentage basis. On the flat rental basis the exhibitor took a chance that he might lose on the deal, while on the percentage basis such chance was negligible. The testimony of all the major distributors is that in licensing the films, the Griffith theatres were treated the same as any other exhibitor.

As the industry developed the distributors began to license their films to be run for a second, third or even greater number of exhibitions, in towns and cities where they deemed it to be profitable. This caused some exhibitors to operate theatres for the exhibition of such runs almost exclusively. Such theaters are designated as second and third-run theatres. The second and third-run theaters supplement their product frequently by licensing films produced by other than the major producers, which are called "independents." The distributors alone determined 93 in which localities second and third runs should be licensed and how much time should elapse between the first exhibition of a film and the second and succeeding runs of it.

All of the defendants, except R. E. Griffith who is dead, together with their representatives who took part in and concluded the negotiations for licensing product with the distributors covering the period of time set out in the complaint, have testified that they had no agreement or understanding with such distributors to in any manner control the exhibition of moving picture films in the various towns and theaters. They further testify that what was, or was not, to be licensed to their competitors in the various situations was never discussed or taken into consideration in such negotiations. Their testimony is corroborated by the representatives of the distributors who were present and negotiating with them in the licensing of product. There is no evidence to the contrary. The representatives of the distributors who took part in these negotiations testify that the buying power of the defendants was not considered the controlling factor in their negotiations, and some of them specify towns in the territory where they have never licensed their product first, second or third run to the defendants but have always licensed the product to their competitors.

The defendants further testify that they did not combine or conspire to unreasonably restrain trade in the moving picture films, or to stifle competition in the product, or to create a monopoly in it in the various situations in which they exhibited the films.

This brings us squarely to the consideration of the following propositions and the law as declared by our courts governing such situations.

1. Are the acts and conduct of the defendants, as shown by the evidence, in the acquisition and operation of their theatres in connection with their buying power, and 94 the provisions of their contracts with distributors, such as to justify the inference that a conspiracy or combination exists upon the part of the defendants to control the exhibition of moving picture films, or to unreasonably restrain trade in such products, or to stifle competition in such product, or to create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films in the towns in the territory covered by the complaint, in violation of the Sherman Act?

2. If the court would be justified in concluding that such an inference could be drawn, would the court be further justified in concluding that such inference should control over the positive and direct testimony of the witnesses to the contrary?

3. Is buying power alone, resulting from thrift, fair dealing and industry, sufficient to justify the inference that a combination or conspiracy exists for the purpose of, and is being used in negotiations to, unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, or create a monopoly in a given product, or must it be established by a fair preponderance of the evidence that a combination or conspiracy exists and has for its purpose the use of such buying power to obtain those specific results?

In considering the first proposition it may be necessary to repeat statements contained in our preliminary discussion.

Section 1, Title 15, U. S. C. A., provides, so far as it pertains to the case at bar, as follows:

"Every contract, combination in the form of trust or otherwise, or conspiracy, in restraint of trade or commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations, is hereby declared to be illegal: * * *"

Section 2 provides in part:

"Every person who shall monopolize or attempt to monopolize, or combine or conspire with any other person or persons, to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce among the several States, or with foreign nations shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, * * *."

The Government contends that the defendants have by their acts and conduct in the territory and during the time set forth in its complaint violated the provisions of 95 these sections. The Government assumes that the defendants were acting in unison and in a cohesive combination in their theater operations. The evidence does not sustain this contention.

The undisputed testimony is that the defendants, L. C. Griffith, R. E. Griffith and H. J. Griffith, operated as a partnership in the business of acquiring, operating and developing theaters until sometime in 1926. There was nothing unlawful or unreasonable in that line of endeavor and they are not charged with any irregular conduct in it. In 1926 they incorporated their business as Griffith Amusement Company. Since that time, the acts of the brothers were those of officers of corporate bodies and not those of individuals, except the services performed by R. E. Griffith as buyer and booker of films. In 1928 another corporation was organized by these brothers, known as Consolidated Theatres, Inc. While the evidence discloses that these two corporations maintain their offices at the same place, it also shows that they are distinct entities and have had nothing in common with each other aside from the fact that since their organization, both have engaged in the exhibition of moving picture films. The uncontradicted evidence is that in 1931, R. E. Griffith severed his business connection with both Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theatres and has had nothing to do with the business policies or operation of those two organizations since that time aside from serving them as agent and representative in purchasing and booking films for a consideration agreeable to the parties, until the season of 1938-1939 when he ceased to function in that capacity.

Neither Griffith Amusement Company nor Consolidated Theatres had any control of any character over the operations of R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., or Westex Theatres, Inc. Nor did R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., or Westex Theatres, Inc., have any control of any character over the operations of Griffith Amusement Company or Consoli-
96 dated Theatres, Inc., during the time covered by the complaint, but each has been, and was at the time of this trial, a distinct entity from the date of its organization.

The Government contends that the four corporation defendants were combined into one circuit of theaters and refers to it as "the Circuit." The evidence does not so disclose. It does disclose that each corporate defendant owned and operated a distinct circuit or chain of theaters.

The business or industry in which these defendants are engaged is competitive in many places. We are not concerned with those towns where there was no competition at the time of the filing of this complaint except any incidental bearing it might have upon competitive situations during the time covered by the complaint. "Competition," it has been said, "is the life of trade." The very law we have under consideration, the Sherman Act, has for its purpose the protection of competition. The law in every conceivable way has always favored it, when fairly conducted.

In Sinclair Refining Company v. Federal Trade Commission, 276 F. 686, 688 (CCA 7), the court said:

"Competition is not an unmixed good. It is a battle for something that only one can get; one competitor must necesssarily lose. The weapons in competition are various. Superior energy, more extensive advertising, better articles, better terms as to time of delivery, place of delivery, time of credit, interest or no interest, freights, methods of packing, lower prices, more attractive and more convenient packages, superior service, and many others, are and always have been considered proper weapons. Expense attending the use of any weapon, the foolishness of it, the fact that a method is uneconomical, or that the competitor cannot meet any method or scheme of competition because it will be ruinous to him to do so, have not, nor has either of them, ever been held unfair. Such things are a part of the strife inherent in competition. * * *"

If the battle of competition is carried to its normal conclusion one competitor reaches a point of ascendency 97 over the other, and the losing competitor naturally takes a secondary position or is completely vanquished. They both cannot occupy the same position in the contest at the same time. It is a competitive contest and there is no rule of law, economics, or business that can strike and maintain an even balance between the participants during its progress. In the business in which the individual defendants were engaged, the exhibition of moving picture films, both competitors could not exhibit the same picture at the same time. The licensing of the film was the business of the distributor, and his choice of who should exhibit it and the terms and conditions under which he would license the film were matters that were wholly in his control. The distributor either had the film or was going to produce it; it was his article and was for license. The market was provided by the distributor; the various exhibitors knew where and from whom the article was to be licensed. The methods of the distributor were known to all. The evidence shows that the exhibitor either could go to headquarters direct and bargain or could wait for some representative to call on him and bargain through the representative. If the exhibitor was content to wait for the representative, or depend upon correspondence, he took his chances on supply. If upon the other hand he cared to go to headquarters and bargain, it was possible to get a better choice of product, just as it is in any other line of endeavor where one is engaged in retailing to the trade goods that are provided by wholesale dealers.

The evidence discloses that the defendants took advantage of the opportunities afforded them in the ordinary course of dealing during the time covered by the complaint. That was their privilege and there was nothing illegal or immoral about it, merely because they represented large interests or were able to make large deals. The evidence shows that the licensing was all arrived at by barter and trade, and the exhibitors all placed upon the same footing.

98 The attitude of the Government is one of suspicion. Many of the normal and natural occurrences and situations are given a sinister meaning and argued from that standpoint. The proposition of what "could be done" or "might be done" under given situations is argued vigorously. But we are not concerned with that approach. Our concern is what the evidence discloses was done, and any fair inferences we can gather from those acts regarding the intent of those who acted. A fair indication of this attitude can be gathered from the Government's brief (p. 14) which states:

"The ability of the defendant to withdraw from a particular major distributor the entire revenue from its closed towns was of course a major threat it possessed. When this is controlled by one individual negotiating with a distributor its effect is self evident."

The evidence fails to disclose that any threat was so made by R. E. Griffith or any other defendant in the negotiations for films, but to the contrary. The suggestion that any distributor on account of that ability was intimidated or compelled to sell films to the defendants is not supported by the evidence. If the mere ability to withdraw all purchases from a distributor in noncompetitive situations, unless the purchaser grants favors in competitive situations, is a threat then all exhibitors possessing two theaters, one in a competitive situation and one in a noncompetitive situation, violate the Sherman Act. Such argument is unsound and falls of its own weight.

The Government contends that "Section 1 of the Sherman Act was violated by unreasonable restraints on the interstate distribution of motion pictures resulting from: (a) each of the master deals and franchises between a distributor and the Griffith Circuit; (b) each of the agreements between exhibitors for collective licensing; (c) each of the agreements between exhibitors by which one agreed not to compete with the other either by a pooling arrangement or by a sale of goodwill, and (d) unreasonable restraints resulting from implied agreements between defendants and distributors." These contentions will be considered in order.

99 The Government assumes a state of facts not supported by the evidence. There are no master deals or franchises between any distributor and the "Griffith Circuit" shown in the evidence. The master deals and franchises in their final analysis are between a distributor and each of the four corporate defendants, or between a distributor and some individual exhibitor who is not a party defendant here. They are separate deals negotiated by an agent for the exhibitors upon the one hand and the various distributors individually upon the other hand. There is no evidence that there was any agreement, conspiracy or combination between the negotiators of the deals that had for its object granting to the defendant exhibitors any advantage or concession for the purpose of stifling competition, monopolizing the industry, or occasioning or bringing about any unreasonable restraint in trade in the product in such territory. The undisputed testimony is that such matters were never at any time discussed between the parties.

The master deals consist of either a memorandum agreement at the close of the negotiations signed by the parties, or in some instances, a letter from one party setting forth the terms and accepted by letter by the other party. Later these were approved by the proper officials of the distributors, which were followed by contracts embodying the agreement with the individual theater exhibitors. These is nothing in the evidence that indicates anything abnormal or unusual in these agreements.

As to the franchises, the evidence is that prior to the time covered by the complaint, the distributors conceived the idea of licensing their films for a longer period that one season. They sought out the exhibitors and endeavored to license them for a term of years, which resulted in contracts that were called franchises. They not only sought out the exhibitors operating a circuit of theaters, but also the exhibitor operating one theater. Such licensing became a part of the ordinary method and many operators of theaters had franchises for a term of two, three and even five years. Later most of the distributors concluded that in practical operation, a franchise was not desirable and discontinued the practice.

That such franchises were considered as a part of the ordinary method of contracting for moving picture films by all the trade is borne out by Section IV of the Consent Decree which provides: "The provisions of this decree shall not apply to any franchise which was signed prior to June 6, 1940."

The evidence discloses that the defendants entered into four of such franchise contracts. One executed May 8, 1930, for a term of five years, between Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation (now Loew's) and Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., and two other corporations not party defendants here. It was amended as to Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated on April 20, 1933. At the time of the filing of the complaint it had practically one year to run. It was not renewed. One executed September 15, 1934, for a term of three years, between Paramount Pictures Distributing Company and Griffith Amusement Company, R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., Consolidated Theatres and fifteen other organizations not parties to this action, all represented by R. E. Griffith, agent for such parties. This franchise was not renewed. One executed March 19, 1935, for a term of three years between RKO Distributing Corporation and Griffith Amusement Company, R. E. Griffith Theatres, Consolidated Theatres and five other organizations not parties to this action, all represented by R. E. Griffith, as agent. This franchise was not renewed. One executed September 14, 1937, for a term of three years between Columbia Pictures Corporation and Consolidated Theatres, R. E. Griffith Amusement Company and Westex Theatres, by R. E. Griffith "authorized agents." This was not renewed.

101 During the time covered by the complaint, the defendants did not have franchises in effect with more than two distributors during any season. The franchise with Loew's (MGM) and Paramount were in effect during the 1934-1935 season. The franchises of Paramount and RKO were in effect in the 1935-1936 and 1936-1937 seasons. Franchises were in effect with RKO for the 1937-1938 season, and with Columbia for the 1938-1939 and 1939-1940 seasons. Thus at least six of what is termed the major distributors had no franchises with the defendants during any season covered by the complaint. In view of that situation we fail to see how the franchises held by the defendants could seriously restrain commerce in the films. Certainly they did not unreasonably restrain it, regardless of any of the provisions in the franchises that appear upon their face.

But counsel for the Government insist there are provisions in those franchises that would justify the conclusion that special privileges were given to the defendants, and that by reason thereof, it can be inferred that some kind of an agreement or conspiracy was in effect between the parties to the franchise to restrain commerce, control product or monopolize.

Those provisions have been carefully considered. The argument is not based upon what has been done under the provisions, but it chiefly based upon what could be done, or how the provisions could be interpreted. For instance, in the Government's brief (p. 66), counsel states:

"In the agreement with Columbia Pictures Corporation * * * the following clause appears, "It is agreed that the exhibitor can revise the schedule of allocation by towns, provided the total amount of money by picture, in each classification, for the Circuit, remains the same." * * * The effect on competition of such a right is too clear to require elucidation."

Then counsel proceeds to elucidate as follows:

"Under the terms of such contracts the Griffith Circuit could allocate the entire amount of rental to its most

102 prosperous theatre and utilize all the others in the chain as fighting theatres to drive out the independent exhibitors in the other towns in which it exhibited the distributors' pictures. * * *"

There is no evidence in the record that any such conduct was indulged in by the defendants, or that such sinister thoughts occurred to them. There is a vast difference between what might have been done and what could have been done and what was done.

Counsel argues further in the brief (p. 67):

"In the three-year franchise of Paramount Pictures, * * * the following clause appears, 'Distributor agrees to release exhibitor from the obligation covering any individual town which the exhibitor may find it necesary to close permanently.' The effect of such a clause is similar to that granted to allocate pictures between towns. It is also capable of the construction that a distributor may by entering into a pooling arrangement with a competitor decide to close his theatre in a particular town and thus restrain the interstate distribution of product."

This would be a strained construction of a simple and unambiguous clause in a contract, the ordinary and clear meaning of which is obvious.

Again counsel states (p. 67):

"In the contract between the RKO and the Griffith Circuit * * * this clause appears, 'It is agreed that if the exhibitor shall during the term of this agreement open additional theatres in any of the towns covered herein, with the exception of Oklahoma City, that any of the feature photoplays and short subject photoplays may be exhibited therein in place of the theatres named herein.' The effect of this clause is to arm Griffith with an assured franchise to license pictures in any theatre which he may desire to open even though he decided to open it solely for the purpose of destroying a competitor's business. It is difficult to conceive of greater relinquishment of control of its film distribution than this one and its inclusion in a master deal belies the protestations that each theatre was considered in arriving at the rental prices fixed in the master deals.

"Under the terms of this clause, the Griffith Circuit was empowered to open the flimsiest kind of a converted store show immediately adjacent to its independent competitor and without fear of loss of product play the top pictures of the distributor."

This also is a strained construction. The clause is simple and plain and admits of no inference of a sinister or hidden meaning when the contract is considered as a whole.

103 Counsel has overlooked many contingencies in arriving at such a construction. Here is a contract covering many towns. A theatre may be destroyed by fire or storm; a lease may expire and cannot be renewed; local authorities may condemn a building for theater use. Any number of things might occur to cause an exhibitor to open another theater in a town covered by the contract. The exhibitor has provided himself by license with moving picture films to operate his theaters in a town over a period of time. Thus with good foresight and business judgment he provides for such a contingency. The clause does not give the exhibitor any new or additional product. It simply permits him in such event to use product, that under his contract he has obligated himself to play and pay for, by exhibiting the same film in the same town in a location other than the one named in the contract. This gives him no unfair advantage over his competitor, takes away none of his competitor's product, and certainly in no way unreasonably restrains commerce, nor can it be construed as an intent to monopolize.

Under proposition (b), "the agreements between exhibitors for collective licensing restrain competition and were an unreasonable restraint of trade," counsel for the Government argues as follows; (p. 68):

"In some 48 instances, agreements were entered into under the terms of which booking of pictures would be handled by the Griffith Circuit. Each of these agreements pro tanto reduced the bargaining power of a major distributor and constituted a combination against him for the securing of the special privileges some of which have been discussed above. Moreover, they had the effect of preventing competition between the exhibitors entering into them for the booking was centrally controlled."

Again we have an assumption that all of the defendants were combined in one circuit which is far from being supported by the record. Counsel assumes this position from the fact that all of the defendants, until the 1938-1939 season, negotiated the purchase and booking of films through R. E. Griffith as agent for the parties involved in the deals.

104 There is no difference in principle in the instant case and the case of Appalachian Coals, Inc., et al. v. United States, 288 U. S. 344, 357, 359, 377, except in the case at bar it is contended the defendants were operating collectively by purchasing and booking through an exclusive buying agency and in the case cited an exclusive selling agency was under attack. In the discussion of it, Mr. Chief Justice Hughes said:

"The challenged combination lies in the creation by the defendant producers of an exclusive selling agency. * * *"

* * * * * *

"First: There is no question as to the test to be applied in determining the legality of the defendants' conduct. The purpose of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act is to prevent undue restraints of interstate commerce, to maintain its appropriate freedom in the public interest, to afford protection from the subversive or coercive influences of monopolistic endeavor. * * * The decisions establish, said this Court in Nash v. United States, 229 U. S. 373, 376, "that only such contracts and combinations are within the act as, by reason of intent or the inherent nature of the contemplated acts, prejudice the public interests by unduly restricting competition or unduly obstructing the course of trade." [Citing numerous authorities.]

"In applying this test, a close and objective scrutiny of particular conditions and purposes is necessary in each case. Realities must dominate the judgment. The mere fact that the parties to an agreement eliminate competition between themselves is not enough to condemn it. 'The legality of an agreement or regulation cannot be determined by so simple a test, as whether it restrains competition. Every agreement concerning trade, every regulation of trade, restrains.' Chicago Board of Trade v. United States, supra (246 U. S. 231). The familiar illustrations of partnerships, and enterprises fairly integrated in the interest of the promotion of commerce, at once occur. The question of the application of the statute is one of intent and effect, and is not to be determined by arbitrary assumption. * * *"

"* * * The Anti-Trust aims at substance. Nothing in theory or experience indicates that the selection of a common selling agency to represent a number of producers should be deemed to be more abnormal than the formation of a huge corporation bringing various independent units into one ownership. Either may be prompted by business exigencies, and the statute gives to neither a special privilege. The question in either case is whether there is an unreasonable restraint of trade or an attempt to monopolize. * * *"

If the Act "aims at substance" and if "realities must dominate the judgment" and we apply these principles here, then it is apparent that a similar condition confronted the defendants Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theatres, at the time R. E. Griffith severed his active connection with them. It was good business judgment to procure his services for the corporations. He, by training and experience, was well fitted for it. What is abnormal about such an arrangement? But that is not all there is to the administrative agreements. Counsel apparently overlooks the fact that the agreements provide for many types of service, the buying and booking of films is only one incident, and that for all the services to be performed under it, a specified fee is to be charged.

The administrative contracts are of two general kinds or types. Counsel for defendants quite clearly describe them in their brief (pp. 70-71), as follows:

"One type is an agreement between one of the corporate defendants and a third party with whom it was jointly operating a theatre or theatres in a certain town, setting forth the terms of the partnership operation, the duties to be performed by each party, the compensation to be received by each party, the division of profits, and other details of the operating agreement."

"The second type of contract reflected in those exhibits is a contract between Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theatres, Inc., or Consolidated Theatres, Inc., and its partner, as the owners and operators of theatres, whereby for an agreed percentage of the gross box office receipts Griffith Amusement Company agreed to perform certain services, including the licensing and booking of pictures."

Suffice it to say the objectionable paragraph pointed out by the Government is not the controlling feature of the contracts but is merely incidental. The contracts must be considered as a whole, and when so considered, there is nothing abnormal about them and no hidden or sinister meaning in them. There is nothing in them that signifies any intent to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition or monopolize.

Proposition (c), the agreements between exhibitors by which one agreed not to compete with the other 106 either by a pooling arrangement or by a sale of good will constitutioned unreasonable restraints of trade, calls for a consideration of the facts and circumstances surrounding these two characters of transaction.

The alleged pooling arrangements stressed by the Government are in the situations at Chickasha, Enid and Stillwater, Oklahoma. The defendants designate them as parnership agreements. But regardless of their designations, they are agreements that affected local situations concerning economy, expense and efficiency in operation that called for that character of agreement. In the Chickasha situation, no competition of the two circuits was affected in any manner, and the mere fact that an unprofitable and unsuitable theater was abandoned and one party to the contract finally became the owner of the theater by a mutual and satisfactory sale does not condemn the transaction as monopolistic. In the Stillwater situation, under the circumstances surrounding the transaction, there is nothing sinister or abnormal about it. On account of the depression and the inexperience of Russ, the operator of the competing theater, it is apparent that his proposition to Griffith Amusement Company was reasonable, and the terms of the agreement had the effect of mutually assisting both organizations in the situation which was purely a local one. The Enid situation also was a purely local affair and there was nothing abnormal about the contract or its effect. All of these three contracts are shown by the evidence to have been brought about by efforts to economize and more efficiently operate, with no apparent desire to stifle competition unreasonably restrain, or monopolize. "The mere fact that the parties to an agreement eliminate competition between themselves is not enough to condemn it." Appalachian Coal, Inc. v. United States, supra.

Under this contention, the Government stresses the restrictive covenant found in the contracts in the purchase of theaters. In these contracts, as a part of the consideration, it is provided that in purchasing the good will,
107 the vendor is not to engage in the same business for a specified time and at a specified place. There is nothing abnormal or unusual in this character of contract. What is known as good will, that has been built up by an owner of a business, is a valuable asset, and in the sale of that business he should be able to profit by it. This right has been so recognized and approved by our courts.

A great many of these contracts are Oklahoma contracts and are governed by state statute.

Section 217, Title 15 Okl. St. Ann, provides

"Every contract by which any one is restrained from exercising in a lawful profession, trade or business of any kind, otherwise than as provided by the next two sections, is to that extent void."

Section 218 of the same title provides:

"One who sells the good-will of a business may agree with the buyer to refrain from carrying on a similar business within a specified county, city or part thereof, so long as the buyer, or any person deriving title to the good-will from him carries on a like business therein."

After carefully considering the Oklahoma contracts in view of the state statutes and the decisions of the Supreme Court interpreting them, there can be no question as to their validity in that state. The contracts concern the sale of theaters, leases, equipment, et cetera, as well as good will. The covenants stressed by the Government are all based upon the purchase of the good will of the vendor. Whether they violate the Sherman Act would depend upon the intent of the parties, or the results effected.

In United States v. Addyston Pipe & Steel Company et al., 85 F. 271, 280, in discussing the character of contract under consideration, the court said:

"The inhibition against restraints of trade at common law seems at first to have had no exception. See language of Justice Hull, Year Book, 2 Hen. V., folio 5 pl. 26. After a time it became apparent to the people and the courts that it was in the interest of trade that certain covenants in restraint of trade should be enforced. It was of importance as an incentive to industry and honest dealing in trade, that, after a man had built up a business with an extensive good will, he should be able to sell his business and good 108 will to the best advantage, and he could not do so unless he could bind himself by an enforceable contract not to engage in the same business in such a way as to prevent injury to that which he was about to sell. It was equally for the good of the public and trade, when partners dissolved, and one took the business, or they divided the business, that each partner might bind himself not to do anything in trade thereafter which would derogate from his grant of the interest conveyed to his former partner. Again, when two men became partners in a business, although their union might reduce competition, this effect was only an incident to the main purpose of a union of their capital, enterprise, and energy to carry on a successful business, and one useful to the community. * * *"

And again, in considering whether the contract effected an unreasonable restraint in trade, the court quoted with approval from the case of Horner v. Graves, 7 Bing. 735, as follows:

"We do not see how a better test can be applied to the question whether this is or not a reasonable restraint of trade than by considering whether the restraint is such only as to afford a fair protection to the interests of the party in favor of whom it is given, and not so large as to interfere with the interests of the public. Whatever restraint is larger than the necessary protection of the party requires can be of no benefit to either. It can only be oppressive. It is, in the eye of the law, unreasonable. Whatever is injurious to the interests of the public is void on the ground of public policy."

In Goldberg et al. v. Tri-States Theatre Corporation, 127 F. 2d 26, 29 (CCA 8) an injunction was sought based upon the violation of a restrictive clause in a contract similar to the one at bar. In passing upon the clause as to whether it effected a restraint in trade, the court said:

"The validity of the agreement, as a restraint upon trade, is not seriously open to question under the general contract law of Nebraska. An agreement which places a restriction upon the use of certain real estate is not invalid in Nebraska, as being an unreasonable restraint of trade, where the restriction is purely ancillary to the acquiring of an interest in another piece of real estate for commercial purposes; where it places only a limited restraint as to period and manner of the use of such property; where it does not appear to be greater than reasonably to serve as a protection in accomplishing the legitimate commercial purpose for which the interest in the other real estate involved was acquired; and where it does not have as its primary object or as its direct result the fostering of some illegal monopoly."

109 And in summing up the transaction, the court said:

"Under all the circumstances of the transaction, it must be held that the restricted agreement was intended simply and fairly to protect the interests created by the new sublease and the purchase of the 99 year leasehold; that it was only such a reasonable protection as any purchaser in good faith would have required under the circumstances of the transaction; that the situation which prompted the deal and the relationship in which the parties dealt afford no sound basis for inferring that it was dominated by any purpose of fostering an illegal monopoly under a previous combination and conspiracy, if any such combination ever had existed, as appellants contend; and that, so far as the public is concerned, it was not intended to and did not serve to achieve any such harmful or illegitimate result."

The situation involved in the Oklahoma contracts containing restrictive clauses could not be stated in more apt language. Under all the facts and circumstances surrounding the various Oklahoma contracts, they appear both valid and reasonable.

The Government particularly stresses the covenant in the contract of sale between A. M. Morgan and Jack Pickens, as agent for the Brady Amusement Company, Westex Theatres, and R. E. Griffith Theatres, in which Morgan sold the Ritz theater at Brady, Texas. The evidence clearly discloses that Morgan's purpose in acquiring theaters was not so much with the idea of operating the theater as it was to sell out to a competitor. Under the circumstances surrounding that sales transaction it is quite easy to understand why the purchaser might desire such a covenant in the contract of sale that was agreed upon, which was that Morgan "will not engage in the moving picture business or theatre business of any kind or character, directly or indirectly, in any town in the State of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico in which he might be in competition with Brady Amusement Company, Westex Theatres, Inc., or the R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., for a period of five years from this date." If the provisions in the contract were put to a test, it may be admitted that it would be held to be valid as to the town of Brady, Texas, and invalid as to the other territory attempted to be covered. But so far as it affects the question before us, taking into consideration the facts and circumstances surrounding the transaction, there is nothing that would justify the conclusion that the parties defendant who were parties to this contract were in a conspiracy or combination to control the exhibition of moving picture films at Brady, Texas, or any other place, or that the restrictive covenant in the contract would justify the conclusion that there was an intent upon the part of those defendants to stifle competition in the exhibition of films, or to unreasonably restrain interstate trade or commerce in them, or that it had any such effect. The sale as it was ultimately closed was initiated by Morgan and was satisfactory to him. He was not unreasonably restrained in the town of Brady, Texas, and he makes no complaint that he was so restrained at any other place. The public was in no manner adversely affected by the transaction.

As to proposition (d), that the Sherman Act was violated by unreasonable restraints resulting from implied agreements between defendants and distributors. The court is not required to search for implied agreements in the face of the fact that the agreements are all written, signed by the parties, and are unambiguous in meaning. We are again called upon to speculate and guess at some hidden or concealed perfidy that does not appear in the instruments themselves. Where a conspiracy is charged, it is the duty of the court to scrutinize and consider carefully any and all transactions that would throw any light upon the issue, and where the evidence consists of written agreements, those agreements and the circumstances surrounding their execution should be considered carefully. The purpose of the agreement, the object the parties had in mind and the results accomplished must all be considered. But when that is done and no serious fault found in the instruments, then it is not the duty of the court to speculate and guess as to what could be done or what might be done, or the effect that might be accomplished under the agreement, when the possible purpose was totally foreign to what the parties expressed in the agreement.

The Government contends that "Section 2 of the Act was violated by the defendants monopolizing the business of operating theatres and the supply of major films." Under this contention, buying power and its effect are again emphasized. This question had had consideration in discussing the previous contention. Suffice it to say here that the evidence fails to disclose that the defendant exhibitors in the buying and booking of moving picture films contracted for any greater supply of product than they believed was reasonably necessary to supply the demands of the public in the various situations. In the purchase of their product, the positive evidence is quite clear that there was no intent upon the part of the defendants to control, stifle competition in or monopolize the industry in the territory, or to unreasonably restrain interstate distribution of moving picture films. For that reason it is not apparent how the case of United States v. Aluminum Company of America et al., 148 F. 2d 416, relied upon by the plaintiff, applies here. The distinction is clear. Speaking of the Aluminum Company, the court said:

" * * * It was not inevitable that it should always anticipate increases in the demand for ingot and be prepared to supply them. Nothing compelled it to keep doubling and redoubling its capacity before others entered the field. * * * [Italics supplied.] Id. p. 431.

In the case at bar we have no such situation. There is a vast difference between ingots and moving picture films. Ingots of aluminum are a staple and fixed product. Moving picture films are a fluctuating and uncertain product. Until a film has been exhibited no one knows or can accurately estimate its value as a box-office attraction, either as a first-run exhibition or a subsequent run exhibition. What the demand for its exhibition may by the public is an unknown factor. The market in which it is procured by the exhibitor is a competitive one in which all exhibitors may enter and compete in compliance with the rules and customs of the industry, as they then exist, to obtain the product. Unless some unfair or illegal advantages are taken by one competitor, his rival in business should not be heard to complain because he has been unsuccessful in procuring the product.

Second proposition: If the court would be justified in concluding that such an inference could be drawn, would the court be further justified in concluding that such an inference should control over the positive and direct testimony of witnesses to the contrary?

When conspiracy is one of the elements of the charge against a defendant, the very charge itself is of such a nature that circumstantial evidence may be the character of evidence that will be relied upon to sustain the charge. The law imposes upon the plaintiff the burden of sustaining the allegations of his complaint by a preponderance of the evidence. In a case such as we have here it is the duty of the court to determine whether or not the allegations of the complaint are so sustained. The court is entitled to have presented positive evidence when it is obtainable, and not be compelled to search the record for inferences that may be drawn.

The positive testimony concerning the transactions and conduct of the parties by those who were in a position to know, so far as the negotiations of the defendants and various distributors are concerned, is that no combination, understanding or agreement existed between them that had for its purpose the control of the exhibition of moving picture films by any of the defendants, or any unreasonable restraint in trade in the product, or monopolization by the defendants of the product, or the stifling of competition upon the part of the defendants and the 113 distributors. In fact they all state that the competitors of the defendants were never mentioned in the negotiations for film contracts. The Government, however, from testimony detailing trivial circumstances which in each case is positively denied by witnesses who appear to the court to be worthy of belief, in connection with the documentary evidence, assumes that the court must infer the existence of a combination and conspiracy.

The Government cites United States v. Crescent Amusement Company et al., 323 U. S. 173, and United States v. Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., et al., 63 F. Supp. 22 (D. C., N. Y. Oct. 8, 1945). When these two cases are analyzed they are easily distinguished from the case at bar. In the Crescent Amusement Company Case, many of the things charged by the Government, which are similar to the charges here, the trial court found to be sustained by the evidence. Upon the appeal the only question before the court was whether there was evidence to sustain the lower court, and the court said:

"The crux of the government's case was the use of the buying power of the combination for the purpose of eliminating competition with the exhibitors and acquiring a monopoly in the areas in question. There was ample evidence that the combination used its buying power for the purpose either of restricting the ability of its competitors to license films or of eliminating competition by acquiring the competitor's property or otherwise. For example, the defendants would insist that a distributor give them monopoly rights in towns where they had competition or else defendants would not give the distributor any business in the closed towns where they had no competition. * * *" Id. 181.

"* * * But the vice of this undertaking was the competition of several exhibitors in a plan of concerted action. They had unity of purpose and unity of action. They pooled their buying power for a common end. It will not do to analogize this to a case where purchasing power is pooled so that the buyers may obtain more favorable terms. The plan here was to crush competition and to build a circuit for the exhibitors. * * *" [Italics supplied.] Id. 183.

Although the charge is similar to the charge in the instant case, the proof is not. In the case at bar there 114 is no testimony by any witness to that effect, but the testimony is to the contrary.

The Schine Case, supra, is not applicable here for the same reason and is thus clearly distinguishable. It is true that the Government followed practically the same pattern in its charges in that case as in the instant case. But in the Schine Case it satisfied the court with ample proof to sustain the charges and in the case at bar it has wholly failed to sustain the charges by a fair preponderance of the evidence.

The Government also cites the case of Interstate Circuit, Inc., et al. v. United States, 306 U. S. 208, 213. This case is also easily distinguishable. There the court again was passing upon the sufficiency of the findings of fact to support the decision of the court and stated:

"The case is now before us on findings of the District Court specifically stating that appellants did in fact agree with each other to enter into and carry out the contracts, which the court found to result in unreasonable and therefore unlawful restraints of interstate commerce."

* * * * *

"The trial court drew the inference of agreement from the nature of the proposals made on behalf of Interstate and Consolidated; from the manner in which they were made; from the substantial unanimity of action taken upon them by the distributors; and from the fact that the appellants did not call as witnesses any of the superior officials who negotiated the contracts with Interstate or any official who, in the normal course of business, would have had knowledge of the existence or non-existence of such an agreement among the distributors. This conclusion is challenged by appellants because not supported by subsidiary findings or by the evidence. We think this inference of the trial court was rightly drawn from the evidence. * * * " Id. 221. [Italics supplied.]

And the court further amplified as follows:

" * * * Taken together, the circumstances of the case which we have mentioned, when uncontradicted and with no more explanation than the record affords, justify the inference that the distributors acted in concert and in common agreement in imposing the restrictions upon their licensees in the four Texas cities.

115 "This inference was supported and strengthened when the distributors, with like unanimity, failed to tender the testimony, at their command, of any officer or agent of a distributor who knew, or was in a position to know, whether in fact an agreement had been reached among them for concerted action. When the proof supported, as we think it did, the inference of such concert, the burden rested on appellants of going forward with the evidence to explain away or contradict it. They undertook to carry that burden by calling upon local managers of the distributors to testify that they had acted independently of the other distributors, and that they did not have conferences with or reach agreements with the other distributors or their representatives. The failure under the circumstances to call as witnesses those officers who did have authority to act for the distributors and who were in a position to know whether they had acted in pursuance of agreement is itself persuasive that their testimony, if given, would have been unfavorable to appellants. The production of weak evidence when strong is available can lead only to the conclusion that the strong would have been adverse. Citing authorities." [Italics supplied.] Id. 225.

Even if the court would be justified in inferring from the Government's evidence, consisting largely of a documentary character, that a combination or conspiracy existed upon the part of the defendants and distributors as alleged in the complaint, and the burden was thus cast upon the defendants to "explain away or contradict it," the defendants have met and discharged that burden to the thorough satisfaction of the court with positive evidence from those officers of the distributors who negotiated with the defendant exhibitors.

Third proposition: Is buying power alone, resulting from thrift, fair dealing and industry, sufficient to justify the inference that a combination or conspiracy exists for the purpose of, and is being used in negotiations to, unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, or create a monopoly in a given product, or must it be established by a fair preponderance of the evidence that a combination or conspiracy exists and has for its purpose the use of such buying power to obtain those specific results?

When we come to consider this proposition, the law is well settled that the size of an institution, regardless 116 of a power that might be exercised on account thereof, is not in itself an offense against the statute. The principle is well expressed in United States v. International Harvester Company et al., 274 U. S. 693, 708, where the court said:

"* * * The law, however, does not make the mere size of a corporation, however impressive, or the existence of unexerted power on its part, an offense, when unaccompanied by unlawful conduct in the exercise of its power. United States v. Steel Corporation, 251 U. S. 417, 451." * * *

In Federal Trade Commission v. Paramount Famous-Lasky Corporation et al., 57 F. 2d 152, 157, the court said:

"* * *But the size alone does not give rise to a violation of the law. United States v. International Harvester Co., 274 U. S. 693, 47 S. Ct. 748, 71 L. Ed 1302; United States v. U. S. Steel Corp., 251 U. S. 417, 40 S. Ct. 293, 64 L. Ed 343, 8 A. L. R. 1121. * * *."

In United States v. United States Steel Corporation et al., 251 U. S. 417, 450-451, the court said:

"* * * The Government, therefore, is reduced to the assertion that the size of the Corporation, the power it may have, not the exertion of the power, is an abhorrence to the law, or as the Government says, 'the combination embodied in the Corporation unduly restrains competition by its necessary effect (the italics are the emphasis of the Government) and therefore is unlawful regardless of purpose.' 'A wrongful purpose,' the Government adds, is 'matter of aggravation.' The illegality is statical, purpose or movement of any kind only its emphasis. To assent to that, to what extremes should we be led. Competition consists of business activities and ability—they make its life; but there may be fatalities in it. Are the activities to be encouraged when militant, and suppressed or regulated when triumphant because of the dominance attained? To such paternalism the government contention, which regards power rather than its use the determining consideration, seems to conduct. Certainly conducts we may say, for it is the inevitable logic of the Government's contention that competition must not only be free, but that it must not be pressed to the ascendency of a competitor, for in ascendency there is the menace of monopoly.

"We have pointed out that there are several of the Government's contentions which are difficult to represent or measure, and, the one we are now considering, that is the power is 'unlawful regardless of purpose,' is another of them. It seems to us that it has for its ultimate principle and justification that strength in any producer or seller is a menace to the public interest and illegal because 117 there is potency in it for mischief. The regression is extreme, but short of it the Government cannot stop. The fallacy it conveys is manifest.

"* * * The Corporation is undoubtedly of impressive size and it takes an effort of resolution not to be affected by it or to exaggerate its influence. But we must adhere to the law and the law does not make mere size an offence or the existence of unexerted power an offence. It, we repeat, requires overt acts and trusts to its prohibition of them and its power to repress and punish them. It does not compel competition nor require all that is possible." [Italics supplied.]

In United States v. Standard Oil Company of New Jersey et al., 173 F. 177, 196, in discussing the principle of law under consideration here, Mr. Justice Sanborn said:

"* * * On the other hand, Congress did not intend to impede legitimate commercial activity, nor put a limit to its fruits. The genius and industry of man, when kept to ethical standards, still have full play, and what he achieves is his; and this applies as well to a corporation, in which the energies of many are concentrated under the authority of law in a single organization. A railroad company, for instance, which has extended its line across the continent and conquered the waste or wilderness, is not a monopoly within the statute merely because its capital is great and it alone serves the tributary country; and so of an industrial corporation, the wisdom and business sagacity of whose managers have foreseen and taken advantage of the natural tendencies of trade and caused it to outstrip all competition. Success and magnitude of business, the rewards of fair and honorable endeavor, were not among the evils which threatened the public welfare and attracted the attention of Congress. But when they have been attained by wrongful or unlawful methods, and competition has been crippled or destroyed, the elements of monopoly are present. * * *"

The theories and contentions of the parties have been patiently followed by the court but there is nothing in the evidence to justify the conclusion that any buying power possessed by the defendants was ever exerted by the defendants to "secure contracts for exhibition rights to the films of the major distributors which gave the defendants an unreasonable control in licensing such film to others in the various towns in the territory covered by the complaint. There is nothing in the evidence that would justify the conclusion that the buying power of the defendants was used to absorb or otherwise eliminate a number of actual 118 and potential competitors, nor would that justify the conclusion that the possession of the power or the manner in which it was used is a violation of the Sherman Act.

The Government has failed to establish by a fair preponderance of the evidence that the defendants have purchased or contracted for more moving picture films than they believed were, or in fact were, reasonably necessary to supply their theaters. Competition was fair under the circumstances of each situation involved. The defendants went into the open market and bought their product from the distributors in the same manner as was open to all competitors. The defendants were alert and progressive and took such advantages only as were natural in the industry. There is nothing in the evidence to justify the conclusion that the distributors were overawed or overreached in their dealings with the defendants; or that the distributors were compelled or coerced into entering into any contract with the defendants by reason of the buying power of the defendants, or from any other cause. There is no evidence that would justify the conclusion that any combination or agreement of any character existed between the defendants and the distributors that had for its purpose the stifling of competition in, or monopolization of, the exhibition of moving picture films, or to unreasonably restrain trade or interstate commerce in such exhibition of moving picture films, that has been occasioned or brought about by the manner in which the defendants used any buying power they possessed.

Findings of fact and conclusions of law will be filed simultaneously with this opinion. A form of judgment consistent with this opinion and the findings of fact and conclusions of law may be submitted within fifteen days from this date.

119 In United States District Court

Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law
Filed October 9, 1946
FINDINGS OF FACT

The court finds the following facts:

L. C. Griffith and R. E. Griffith, brothers, engaged in the business of acquiring and operating theaters for the exhibition of moving picture films by the purchase of a theatre in San Marcos, Texas, in 1915. Later in developing this business they were joined by a younger brother, H. J. Griffith, under the firm name and style of Griffith Brothers. By industry, thrift and ability they had acquired an interest in and were operating 16 such theaters in various towns in the states of Oklahoma and Texas in 1926. During that time they had developed certain qualifications in business: L. C. Griffith as an executive, R. E. Griffith as a buyer and booker of films, and H. J. Griffith in keeping the property in proper condition, looking after the lighting, heating, ventilation, accommodations and everything that had to 120 do with the mechanical operations of the various theaters. Each of the brothers possessed one quality in common, the ability to find and appraise opportunities to expand their business. By July 14, 1926, Griffith Brothers owned a 100 per cent. interest in 7 theaters in 4 towns and a 50 per cent. interest in 8 theaters in 4 towns. At that time the Griffith Brothers incorporated their business into the Griffith Amusement Company and transferred their interest in their theaters to that corporation. They issued 1400 shares of Class A stock: 616 shares to L. C. Griffith; 616 shares to R. E. Griffith; and 158 shares to H. J. Griffith. They issued shares of Class B stock to the Universal Chain Theatrical Enterprises with the understanding, as provided by contract, that the Universal Chain Theatrical Enterprises should lend Griffith Amusement Company sufficient funds up to a certain amount, as required to purchase and equip additional theaters, the loans to bear 10 per cent. interest and to be secured by the property so acquired. The acquisition of such theaters was to be dictated by Griffith Amusement Company. L. C. Griffith, at the organization of Griffith Amusement Company, became its president and chief managing officer and has continued as such since that time. R. E. Griffith had charge of the licensing and booking of moving picture films for the corporation and actively participated in the affairs of the corporation until sometime in May, 1931. H. J. had charge of the remodeling, equipping and mechanical operations of the theaters and actively participated in the affairs of the corporation until April 1, 1939.

On April 28, 1939, the date of filing of this action, Griffith Amusement Company owned a 100 per cent. interest in 23 theaters in 10 towns and owned a financial interest with various other parties in 35 theaters in 12 towns.

121 Sometime in 1928, the Universal Chain Theatrical Enterprises declined to make further loans to Griffith Amusement Company. The Griffith brothers desired to continue to acquire additional theaters, but some of the stockholders of Griffith Amusement Company were unwilling to make further acquisitions. This resulted in the Griffith brothers and other associates organizing a corporation known as Consolidated Theatres, Inc., on May 27, 1929. It commenced business April 27, 1930. L. C. Griffith has at all times since its organization owned a majority of the outstanding stock in this corporation and has been its active managing officer. At the death of R. M. Clark in 1934, L. C. Griffith became president of the corporation and has continued as such to the present time. In the early part of 1931, R. E. Griffith disposed of his stock in Consolidated Theatres, Inc., and has never been an active executive officer in the corporation since that time, but was employed by it each season as buyer and booker of films until the season of 1938-1939. H. J. Griffith has been a stockholder and officer and director in the corporation from its organization until the filing of the present action, but at the time of trial was not a stockholder or director. The theaters acquired and owned by this corporation were in wholly different towns or cities from those in which Griffith Amusement Company was operating theaters, except in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, where each corporation owns and operates a theater.

On April 28, 1939, the date of filing of this suit, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., owned a 100 per cent. interest in 14 theaters in 6 towns and a financial interest with various parties in 54 theaters in 25 towns, which included 3 theaters in Lubbock, Texas, owned by Lindsey Theatres, Inc., 50 per cent. of whose stock is owned by Consolidated. Also included in the number are 8 theaters in Cuero, New Braunfels, Refugio and Uvalde, Texas, owned by Jack Pick-
122 ens Theatres, Inc., in which organization Consolidated owns 50 per cent. of the stock, but does not operate the theaters or license pictures for it. And included in the number are 9 theaters in Alvin, Bay City, El Camp,

Texas City, Victoria and Wharton, Texas, in which Consolidated Theatres, Inc., owns a 25 per cent. interest, but does not license pictures for them.

In May, 1931, R. E. Griffith resigned as an officer and employee of Griffith Amusement Company. He also exchanged his stock in Consolidated Theatres, Inc., for three theaters owned by that organization located at Gallup, Roswell and Hobbs, New Mexico, and removed his residence to New Mexico. During that year, 1931, R. E. Griffith acquired three theaters at Carlsbad, Portales and Clevis, New Mexico. In December, 1931, R. E. Griffith organized a corporation named R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., and transferred the said six theaters to that corporation. R. E. Griffith owned the controlling stock interest in, and was the active managing officer of, the corporation until his death in 1943. L. C. Griffith at no time has owned stock in the corporation, or has been an officer or director in it, or interested in it in any manner. H. J. Griffith owned a small stock interest in the corporation but was not a director, officer or employee of the corporation. On April 28, 1939, at the time this suit was filed, R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., owned a 100 per cent. interest in 11 theatres in 6 towns and a financial interest with various other parties and corporations in 12 theaters in 7 towns.

On March 27, 1936, Westex Theatres, Inc., was organized as a subsidiary corporation by R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc.

Since its organization, R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc.,
123 has at all times owned a majority of its stock and R. E. Griffith was in active management of Westex Theatres, Inc., from the date of its organization until his death in 1943. No other corporate defendant aside from R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., by virtue of its stock interest, had anything to do with the acquisition of theater interests or properties by Westex Theatres. On April 29, 1939, Westex Theatres, Inc., owned a 100 per cent. interest in 4 theaters in 2 towns and a financial interest in 40 theaters in 23 towns. Included in the list of partly owned interests is a 25 per cent. interest in 9 theaters in the towns of Alvin, Bay City, Texas City, El Campo, Victoria and Wharton, Texas, in which Consolidated Theatres, Inc., owns a 25 per cent. interest.

At the time of its organization, Griffith Amusement Company located its headquarters and offices in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and has continued to so maintain such headquarters and offices. At the time of its organization, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., located its headquarters and offices in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, in the same offices with Griffith Amusement Company, which have been common headquarters for both corporations, using a common office force, a common agent for licensing and booking moving picture films, and a common administrative service. But the two corporations have at all times been separate entities. The management, control and ownership of theatres and income therefrom have been entirely separate and distinct, and neither corporation has in any manner been connected with R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., or Westex Theatres, Inc., except as above stated. The maintenance of a common office and administrative service of the two corporations, Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theatres, Inc., was for convenience, efficiency and economy of administration alone and for no other purpose.

At no time since their organization have Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., and Westex Theatres, Inc., constituted a single entity in any manner, but have been four distinct entities. All of these organizations have resulted from the ordinary and legitimate growth and development of the business in which those interested were engaged. No two or more of them have combined, conspired or agreed to attempt to control the exhibition of moving picture films, unreasonably restrain trade in them, stifle competition in them, or create a monopoly in the exhibition of such product in any situation shown by the record.

In the acquisition of theaters or interests in theaters by the Griffith Amusement Company, neither Consolidated Theatres, Inc., R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., Westex Theatres, Inc., nor any other defendant had any connection, interest or participation in such theater interest so acquired, aside from any interest they might have as minority stockholders. In the acquisition of theaters or interests in theaters by Consolidated Theatres, Inc., neither Griffith Amusement Company, R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., Westex Theatres, Inc., nor any other defendant had any connection, interest or participation in such theater interest so acquired, aside from any interest they might have as minority stockholders. In the acquisition of theaters or interests in theaters by R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., neither Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., nor any other defendant had any connection, interest or participation in such theater interest so acquired, aside from any interest they might have as minority stockholders. In the acquisition of theaters or interests in theaters by Westex Theatres, Inc., neither Griffith Amusement Com-125 pany, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., nor any other defendant had any connection, interest or participation in such theater interest so acquired, aside from any interest they might have as stockholders.

At no time during the time involved in this action have Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., L. C. Griffith or H. J. Griffith had any connection whatever in the business of R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., or Westex Theatres, Inc., as officers or agents.

R. E. Griffith was employed by and continued as license agent for Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theatres, Inc., up to the 1938-1939 season, the last service as such having been performed by him in the licensing and booking of the 1937-1938 season. On April 28, 1939, the date on which this action was filed, R. E. Griffith had discontinued his services as agent to license and enter into such contracts for Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theatres, Inc., and had performed no services of any kind for those corporations since the 1937-1938 season. He was a stockholder in Griffith Amusement Company, but aside from that has had no connection of any kind as director or agent since that time in either Griffith Amusement Company or Consolidated Theatres, Inc.

10

The defendant corporation employed a joint agent in licensing motion picture films to secure economy and efficiency and to obtain the lawful advantages which normally flow from such co-operative effort. The evidence does not sustain the charge that in so doing they combined or conspired to crush competition, to compel or coerce any 126 distributor, to unreasonably restrain trade in interstate commerce, or to monopolize the industry of the exhibition of moving picture films in the territory set forth in the complaint, or during the time covered by the complaint.

In the 25 theater situations stressed by the Government, the following findings and conclusions are made:

11-1 Ada, Oklahoma

Ada, Oklahoma, has approximately 15,000 population.

In 1903 there was opened a theater named the Hamby, later called the Strand. In March, 1932, Griffith Amusement Company acquired by purchase from Foster McSwain a 60 per cent. interest in three moving picture theaters, the McSwain, the Ritz and the Liberty. The Liberty, at the time of acquisition, was closed. McSwain had been interested with R. J. Killough and Mrs. R. J. Killough who continued to operate the theaters. In 1933 E. H. Kyser and his sister, Nona Kyser, became interested in the Strand and began its operation. In August, 1936 E. H. Kyser died and his sister continued to operate the Strand until the summer of 1941 when she closed it. In 1936 Nona Kyser constructed and began the operation of another theater named the Ada, which she has operated since that time. In 1935 Griffith Amusement Company and the Killoughs remodelled the Liberty and opened it as the Kiva and have operated it since that time.

Nona Kyser testified that sometime after the death of her brother, E. H. Kyser, E. R. Slocum called on her and inquired whether she wanted to sell the Strand and the Ada, to which she replied in the negative, but told him if she did decide to sell, she would contact him. That during this conversation, Slocum said Griffiths did not want competition in Ada. She testified further that numerous other parties during that period sought to buy her theaters; that she did not contact Slocum any further, but in about six weeks 127 he called on her again and inquired if she desired to sell and she again replied in the negative. That at that time Slocum again asserted that the Griffiths did not want competition in Ada.

E. R. Slocum testified that he made the first call because he had heard of the death of E. H. Kyser and thought the theaters might be for sale. That he made the second call but sharply denied that in either conversation he made the statement attributed to him that the Griffiths did not want competition in Ada. After the second call he pursued the matter no further.

Nona Kyser complains that she was unable to buy or procure the pictures of her choice from major distributors. She testified, however, that the Ada has operated at a profit and that the Strand, while not operating at much of a profit, had been able at all times to operate until she voluntarily closed it.

From a careful consideration and analysis of the evidence, there is nothing that would justify the conclusion that any failure of Nona Kyser to procure the moving picture films she desired to exhibit in the Strand or the Ada was brought about or occasioned by any conspiracy or combination upon the part of the defendants to control the exhibition of moving picture films, to stifle competition, to unreasonably restrain trade, or to create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films. Upon the other hand, it is apparent that any difficulties experienced by Nona Kyser in the operation of such theaters were the ordinary problems attendant upon the business in which she engaged in ordinary competition and trade.

11-2 Altus, Oklahoma

In 1936 Altus, Oklahoma, had a population of about 9,000.

Since 1928 Consolidated Theatres, Inc., owned a 50 per cent. interest in two theaters, the Empire (now known as the Plaza) and the Rex (now known as the Delta). W. T. Spears owned the other 50 per cent. interest in these two theaters and operated them. These parties also op-
128 erated a portion of each season a theater called the Paramount which was abandoned in 1936. In July or August, 1936, C. C. Hamm came to Altus and opened a theater he called the Ritz. At that time the Plaza (formerly the Empire) had a seating capacity of between six and eight hundred. The Delta (formerly Rex) had a seating capacity of 400 and the Ritz of 425. The Ritz formerly had been a store building and was remodelled into a theater building by Hamm. At the time the Ritz was opened the Plaza was playing "A" pictures and the Delta, "B" pictures of major distributors. Before opening the Ritz, Hamm had made an investigation as to the moving picture film product available at Altus and found there was no product available of the major distributors for the 1936-1937 season except Universal which he obtained and played. Hamm operated the Ritz for about a year. He and his brother had been in various places in theater operations and had left a trail of unplayed pictures of many major distributors which they had contracted to play. In 1937, Hamm sold the Ritz to W. T. Spears and the contract provided that he would not open another theater or engage in the exhibition of moving pictures in Altus for a period of ten years. The sale price was $7,500 which included the "good will" of the seller. The sale was voluntary and mutually satisfactory.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that the sale of the Ritz theater was brought about or occasioned by any coercion or threats upon the part of the defendants or by any conspiracy or combination upon the part of the defendants to control the exhibition of moving picture films, unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition or create a monopoly at Altus, Oklahoma.

11-3 Blackwell, Oklahoma

Blackwell, Oklahoma, has about 10,000 population.

In 1937 the Bays theater was owned and operated by Laham Theatre, Inc. The Bays had a seating capaci-
129 ty of 1200 and was well equipped. The owners were not theater men but were engaged in other business. They had been unfortunate in the choice of managers and had the misfortunte to lose one manager by death. In 1937, Malcolm Geiger became connected with the Bays as projectionist and in August, 1938 became the manager. At that time, the Bays were playing Monogram, Republic, Gaumont British and Grand National first run and some Universal second run. In 1938 Griffith Amusement Company was operating two well-equipped theaters, the Rivola and the Midwest, in Blackwell and had been operating such theaters since 1936. The Rivola had a seating capacity of 700 and the Midwest of 400. Both theaters were playing first-run pictures from Fox, Paramount, Columbia, Universal Warners and Loew. Geiger attempted to obtain second-run pictures from Fox, Paramount, Warner, Columbia and MGM but was unable to make such deals with those distributors, but was able to make deals for the 1938-1939 season with RKO first and second run and some second runs with Metro. In the Spring of 1939 the Palace theater was opened by Griffith Amusement Company and played second-run pictures of Fox, MGM, Warner, Paramount and Columbia. In October, 1939, the owners of the Bays theater sold it to Griffith Amusement Company. The sale provided for purchase of the equipment at a substantial sum and for an assignment of the lease that had several years to run at a certain sum per month. The sale, so far as the evidence discloses, was voluntary and mutually satisfactory.

After the purchase of the Bays it was operated for a time and then closed. The local authorities called the attention of the owners to the fact that the physical property was in an unsafe condition and it was thought to be advisable to entirely rebuild the theater. But on account of the war, the building program has been suspended until approval from the proper authorities can be obtained and material and labor can be procured.

130 There is nothing to justify the conclusion that the sale of the Bays was brought about or occasioned by any conspiracy or combination of the defendant to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Blackwell, Oklahoma.

11-4 Brady, Texas

Brady, Texas, has about 5,000 population.

In December, 1935, Aubrey M. Morgan acquired the Ritz theater by purchase from H. Ford Taylor. Taylor had under contract unplayed pictures for the 1935-1936 season of United Artists and Universal together with some Columbia product, which were assumed by Morgan. He operated the Ritz until November, 1936, when he sold it to Jack Pickens, agent for Brady Amusement Company, Westex Theatres and R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc. Prior to the opening the Ritz, Morgan had engaged in the moving picture business in the towns of Rule, Eldorado, Odessa, Strawn and Miles, Texas, where he had used product of various major distributors and on leaving each of the towns, left unplayed contracts. At the time he commenced operation of the Ritz, another theater, the Palace, was being operated by Westex Theatres, Inc.

Morgan testified that in a conversation with Len Stocker, who was connected with Westex Theatres in some manner, in either October or November, 1936, he was told that Universal pictures had been purchased by Westex Theatres for the next season. That about or near the same time he was called by Jack Pickens who inquired if he wanted to sell the Ritz to which he replied in the negative. That Pickens told him he was interested in getting "a few little theaters like that against Griff". About six weeks later, Morgan called Pickens and they had another conversation in which Pickens advised Morgan that he was representing 131 Westex Theatres, R. E. Griffith Theatres and the Brady Amusement Company. This conference resulted in a sale of the theater for $2,500 by Morgan to the interests represented by Pickens. Morgan to remove the equipment which was not covered by the sale. The sale was mutually satisfactory. Morgan went to Colorado, Texas, opened and operated a theater for a year and then sold it. He then opened a theater in Snyder, Texas, in 1938. He lost that theater by fire. He then opened and operated a theater at Midlethin, Texas, but failed within the year. From there he opened a theater at Lockney, Texas, operated it for a time and again failed. He then bought a theater in Del Rio, Texas, operated it four months and sold it. It clearly appears from the evidence that Morgan was a speculator in theaters of that character.

He complains that while he operated the Ritz at Brady, he was unable to buy or procure from major distributors the pictures he desired to exhibit.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that the sale of the Ritz was brought about or occasioned by any conspiracy, nor that a conspiracy or combination existed upon the part of the defendants to control the exhibition of moving picture films, unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Brady, Texas.

11-5 Chickasha, Oklahoma

In 1930, the population of Chickasha, Oklahoma, was 14,099; in 1940, 14,111.

In 1937 W. P. Moran and one Isley operated a circuit of theaters under the name of Southwestern Theatres, Inc. Since 1925 they had operated 15 theaters located in Springfield, Missouri, Picker, Pushuska, Tulsa, Chickasha and Oklahoma City, all in Oklahoma. Southwestern Theatres was operating two theaters, the Midwest and the 132 Ismo, in Chickasha in 1937. The Midwest theater was profitable and the Ismo was very unprofitable. At that time, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., was operating the Washita, the Rialto and the Ritz in Chickasha. Sometime during the year 1937 Southwestern Theatres and Consolidated Theatres entered into a partnership contract under the terms of which the Ismo was to be abandoned and the Midwest and the Ritz were to share expenses and profits fifty-fifty. Under this arrangement the Midwest and the Ritz continued to operate until sometime in 1940, when Southwestern Theatres sold its interest in the theaters to Griffith Southwestern Theatres, Inc., not a defendant herein.

The partnership contract and the sale were voluntary and mutually satisfactory and were not entered into with the intent or purpose to unreasonably restrain trade or commerce, stifle competition in, or monopolize the exhibition of moving picture films at Chickasha, Oklahoma, and had no such effect.

11-6 Clinton, Oklahoma

Clinton, Oklahoma had a population in 1930 of 7,512 and in 1940, 6,756.

C. W. Guthrie opened the Ritz theater in 1927. It was later remodeled, but had only a small seating capacity. He continued to operate it until his death in December, 1937. After his death his widow, Myrtle Guthrie, assumed the operation of the theater and has operated it since that time, as she testified, "very profitably". At the time of Guthrie's death, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., was operating, and is still operating, the Rialto and the Del Rio theaters at Clinton, both of which were much larger than the Ritz.

Myrtle Guthrie testified that after the death of her husband many inquiries were made of her by various parties as to whether she was going to continue to operate the theater or dispose of it. That sometime in 1939, more than a year after Mr. Guthrie's death H. J. Griffith, who had been 133 on friendly terms with Mr. Guthrie during his lifetime, stopped at Clinton on his way from Amarillo and called on her. During that call he inquired if she planned to continue the operation of the Ritz or if she intended to sell it. In reply she told him she planned to try to operate it, but if she decided to sell, she would give him the first opportunity to buy. The subject was never again discussed between them.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that the sets or conduct of the defendants brought about or occasioned any difficulties experienced by Mrs. Guthrie in procuring any moving picture films she desired to exhibit in the Ritz theater, nor that any conspiracy or combination existed upon the part of the defendants which had for its purpose the control of the exhibition of moving picture films, the unreasonable restraint of trade, the stifling of competition, or the creation of a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Clinton, Oklahoma.

11-7 Drumright, Oklahoma

In 1926 Drumright, Oklahoma, had about 4,500 population.

On January 1, 1926, James G. Bennett began exhibiting moving picture films in two theaters, the Strand and the Midwest. He had no competition until 1934 when a party opened a small moving picture theater called the Rex. The Rex was operated for four or five months when Bennett purchased it and immediately closed it, leaving only the Strand and the Midwest in operation. In 1936 the Strand was partially destroyed by fire and Bennett ceased its operation and reopened the Rex.

Bennett testified that a few weeks after the fire in the Strand, the latter part of July or the first of August, 1936, E. R. Slocum, representing Consolidated Theatres, Inc., called and asked if his theaters were for sale, to which Bennett replied in the negative. He further testified that Slocum, when informed that Bennett was satisfied 134 with his theater investment, made the remark, "You might be making a little money today and getting along all right but you won't be in six months from now if we come in here;" that Slocum further stated that they planned to build a deluxe theater as they thought the town would support such a theater. In his testimony,

Slocum sharply denied he ever made such statements. Bennett testified that Slocum returned a few days later and again took up the subject of the sale of the theaters. This conversation resulted in Bennett giving Slocum an option for thirty days to purchase the theaters for $16,000. The testimony concerning this is as follows:

"A. Slocum came back. Q. What was that date? A. I don't know the date, possibly a week later, it might have been the 20th of July. Q. A week later? A. Yes, sir. Q. Who was with him on that occasion? A. He talked to me alone: I don't think there was anybody present. Q. Where did that conversation take place? A. In this same little office. Q. What was the conversation then? A. Well, he repeated his— Q. (Interrupting.) Just state what he said— A. I don't know exactly. Q. Well, as nearly as you can recall. Q. He repeated his offer of buying the theaters; he said he came back to buy the theaters. Q. What did you say? A. I said no. Q. What did he respond? A. Well, he gave me a sales talk; I guess we talked maybe 30 minutes about price, and so forth, and finally I gave him an option. Q. What threats or intimidation or anything of the kind were exercised by him at that time? A. Well, I don't remember of any threats or intimidation that time. Q. You signed an option at that time? A. Yes; I signed an option. Q. Who drew it up? A. He did. Q. And that was the option given him, an option to purchase your theaters, or rather your sister's theaters, within thirty days time? A. That's right. Q. (By the Court) Did that cover just the one theater or all the theaters? A. That covered all of the theaters. We still had some salvage at the burned theater; it covered that too. Q. (By Mr. Cochran) What was the date of that option? A. That option was dated August 1st, and it ran until September 1st." R. pp. 1326-8.

Sometime about August 15, a letter was received by Bennett informing him that the option would be exercised, and later the sale was consummated. Bennett testified that when the parties come to exercise the option, Henry Griffing, associated with the law firm of Keaton, Walls and Johnston, was with the party and when Bennett was hesitant about going through with the sale, Griffing 135 made the statement to him, "Well, whether you sell to us or not, we are coming into Drumright and when we come in, you will know what will happen to you." Other witnesses who were present testify that Griffing was never alone with Bennett during the entire time of the transfer and that no such remark was made by him.

There was no occasion for such a remark from Griffing and no reason is apparent why it should have been made, and the fact that such a remark was made is far from being established by a fair preponderance of the evidence. The witness Bennett demonstrated that his memory for details is not good and his testimony is not convincing.

There is nothing that would justify the conclusion that the sale of theaters to Consolidated Theatres, Inc., was brought about or occasioned by any coercion or threats upon the part of the defendants, but that it was fairly and voluntarily made and was mutually satisfactory, nor that it was brought about or occasioned by any conspiracy or combination upon the part of the defendants to control the exhibition of moving picture films, unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Drumright, Oklahoma,

11-8 Duncan, Oklahoma

Duncan, Oklahoma, in 1930 had a population of about 9,000. In that year J. D. Guest opened the Ritz theater for the exhibition of moving picture films. It had a seating capacity of 192. In 1932 he remodelled it and increased the seating capacity to 365. His father, James H. Guest, was associated with him in its operation. At the time Guest opened the Ritz in 1930, Griffith Amusement Company was operating two theaters, the Palace and the Folly, playing first-run pictures of major distributors. The Palace was its "A" house and the Folly was its "B" house.

136 J. D. Guest testified that he did not open the Ritz as a first or second run house exclusively, but for as many runs as he was able to obtain. The testimony discloses that during the years covered by the complaint, Guest played first and second-run pictures of many of the major distributors and a large assortment of first and second runs of Independent distributors. He contends that he could not obtain from some major distributors the films of his choice and in some instances, none at all. His testimony in this regard is unsatisfactory as he was not inclined to be positive.

James H. Guest testified that in 1933, or 1934 he was accosted by a man who said he was one of the "Griffith brothers" who inquired if they wanted to sell the Ritz and if they would be willing to take a few hundred dollars and move to a new location, to which he replied in the negative. The witness was unable to identify any of the defendants as the man to whom he talked and was quite vague in both his description of the man and the time of the conversation.

At the time of the trial, Guest was still operating the Ritz and in 1942 had opened another theater in Duncan named the Tower.

There is nothing here to justify the conclusion that if J. D. Guest has had any difficulty in securing product for the Ritz theater, it was brought about or occasioned by any conspiracy or combination upon the part of the defendants to control the exhibition of moving picture films, unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Duncan, Oklahoma.

11-9 Elk City, Oklahoma

The population of Elk City, Oklahoma, in 1930 was 5,666 and in 1940 was 5,021.

137 In 1930 Frank Hunt opened the Lamar theater at Elk City, Oklahoma, at which time Griffith Amusement Company was operating the Tex theater, which had been acquired by the Griffith Brothers December 1, 1925. There was no other theater operating there at the time the Rex interest was acquired by the Griffiths. In 1935 Griffith Amusement Company built and opened the Elk theater. At that time the Rex was sold to Hunt, who closed the Lamar and continued to operate the Rex until his death. After the death of Frank Hunt, his widow continued to operate the Rex and is still operating it. Since Hunt closed the Lamar, there have been only the two theaters operating in Elk City.

The Government introduced two exhibits—one (Ex. 186) a contract for first-run pictures between Frank Hunt and Paramount for the 1933 and 1934 season, and the other (Ex. 204) a contract between Frank Hunt and RKO for the 1934-1935 season. The Government contends that its Exhibit 3 shows that Paramount "sold away" from Hunt to Griffith Amusement Company its product for the 1934-1935 season, and that its Exhibit 44 shows that RKO "sold away" from Hunt to Griffith Amusement Company its product for the 1935-1936 season. There is no complaint by Mrs. Hunt and the theaters are continuing to operate as friendly competitors so far as the record discloses. It is pure assumption that the films were "sold away" by Paramount and RKO, or that there was anything sinister in the fact that the distributors in those years sold their product to one competitor in one year and the other the next year.

There is nothing that would justify the conclusion that any conspiracy or combination existed upon the part of the defendants to control the exhibition of moving picture films, stifle competition, unreasonably restrain trade, or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Elk City, Oklahoma.

11-10 Enid, Oklahoma

138 Company and opened a theater, The Gray, in Enid, Oklahoma on July 14, 1935, in partnership with Roy T. Shield. At that time Enid was a city of approximately 28,000 population. When the Gray opened, Griffith Amusement Company was operating four theaters, the Aztec, the Arcadia, the Mecca and the Criterion (later called the Chief) and Max Burger was operating the Ritz.

Before Gray opened his theater he contacted the representatives of several major distributors from whom he failed to obtain product. However, he was able to procure and play Universal 1935-1936 first and second runs, some first and second RKO eliminations, some Metro first and second run "cut backs" and various Independent runs. In September, 1936, Gray sold his interest in the Gray to his partner and left Enid but returned in December. In February, 1937, he opened the Ritz under the name of the Rivoli, which formerly was operated by Burger. On July 6, 1940, he sold the Rivoli to Roy T. Shield. In 1938, Griffith Amusement Company had constructed and opened a theater named the Cherokee.

Gray claimed that while he was able to procure sufficient films, he was unable to procure the films he desired. That while he operated at Enid, he was approached by two men, E. R. Slocum and C. O. Fulgham, representing Griffith Amusement Company, who inquired whether he desired to sell his theaters, which inquiries he answered in the negative, and that upon these occasions these two men uttered what he considered threats to cause him to sell. The language he attributed to these two men was as follows:

"Q. What did Mr. Slocum say? A. He just inquired if I would be interested in selling. I said that I wasn't, and that's about all there was to the conversation. * * * The Court. You can state what the conversation was. * * * A. He said: 'John, would you be interested in selling your theater at the open market equipment price?' I said 'No, sir, I wouldn't,' and that's about all there was, sir. Q. (By the Court:) Was there anything else said about the theater business? A. No, sir. We went and had a cup of coffee, sir. * * * Q. (By the Court:) Did he say anything else about the Griffiths or the theater business in any way? A. No, sir, he didn't." R. pp. 936-7.

"Q. (By Mr. Kallis:) What conversation did you have 139 with Mr. Fulgham at the time mentioned. A. Oh, how's business, and this and that, and then he said something to me about wondering if I would be interested in selling, and I told him I wouldn't, and that was about all. * * * Q. Did you later have a conversation with Mr. Fulgham? A. I did. Q. When was that? A. I approached him myself. That was in May, as nearly as I can recall, in May in a coffee shop located underneath the Griffith offices. Q. Here in Oklahoma City? A. Yes. Q. May of what year? A. '39. Q. Will you please state the conversation, in substance? A. I approached him myself; I said, 'Claude, is there anything we can do about these free tickets, double bills, and the price war in Enid?' He said he didn't have nothing to do with it, that he wasn't interested; that is, he refused to discuss it. And I said, 'Well, I have stopped all of mine and went back to single bills, and I am going to try it that way awhile, and maybe the other can come about.' And he never answered me, he wouldn't discuss it. Then he did say this, he says, 'Well, would you be interested in selling now?' I said, 'Well, I might, at my figure.' And he said, 'What figure is that?' So I quoted him a figure and he says, 'No, we'—he used the word, we, he said, 'We will give you open market price for your equipment.' And during the conversation evidently I irked him a little on the free tickets or something, and I got back to that subject again, sir, about eliminating all of them, and he made the remark to me, he says, 'We are out to get all of you boys; you are troublemakers.' And that was about all the conversation, sir." R. pp. 940-2.

E. R. Slocum denied he ever had any conversation with Gray about the sale of the Gray theater and testified that at the time of the alleged conversation, he was not employed by or associated with the Griffith interests in any manner.

C. O. Fulghan gave his version of the conversation with John Gray as follows:

"Q. Do you know John Gray, former theater operator in Enid, Oklahoma? A. Yes. Q. Did you have a conversation with John Gray in Enid in the year 1938 with reference to buying his theater, the Rivoli? A. No. Q. Did you ever negotiate or have a conversation with John Gray with reference to buying the Rivoli theater? A. I never have. * * * Q. Did you later in May of 1939 have a conversation with this same John Gray in a coffee shop underneath the Griffith offices in Oklahoma City? A. Yes, I would't swear to the exact month. * * * Q. Will you please state the conversation you had? A. Gray approached me on the matter of getting me to agree to an adjustment of our admission prices of the theaters in Enid. We were operating four or five theaters, I believe four at the time, and he wanted to get us to agree to adjust the admission prices of our theaters. That is, to raise our prices.

Q. What did you say to him? A. I would not entertain his proposition and told him that we would run our 140 business and for him to run his business. Q. Did you have any further conversation at that time? A. The conversation ended with that remark. * * * Q. Did you ever make the remark, 'We are out to get all of you boys; you are troublemakers'? A. Not to John Gray or any other theatre man." R. pp. 2170-2, 2174.

Upon cross examination of the witness John Gray it was developed that he had entered many towns in the territory covered by this controversy and had left behind a rather bad record as to playing and paying for his pictures, which undoubtedly had much to do concerning the desirability of his accounts with distributors. It was also developed that in Enid he was involved in price wars and display wars as to change policies in the exhibition of his pictures which could not be laid at the door of his competitors.

There is nothing that would justify the conclusion that any sales of Gray's interests in Enid, Oklahoma, were brought about or occasioned by any coercion or threats upon the part of the defendants or by any conspiracy or combination to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, control or monopolize the exhibition of moving picture films.

11-11 Gallup, New Mexico

In 1930 the population of Gallup, New Mexico, was about 6000.

In 1928 William Nagle began the operation of a moving picture theater, the El Morro, at which time two other theaters, the Strand (later the Cairo) and the Rex, were being operated by a Mr. Masters. El Morro was a modern deluxe theater with a seating capacity of 877 and at the time it was opened, Nagle was able to procure pictures of his choice from most of the major distributors. In 1930 R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., entered Gallup as a moving picture exhibitor, purchasing the Cairo from Masters, later naming it the Chief. In 1936 R. E. Griffith Theatres converted a store building into a theater and called it the Navajo. From that time on the Chief exhibited first runs of major distributors and the Navajo exhibited largely second-141 run pictures. The Chief and the Navajo each has a seating capacity of 800.

Nagle testified that after R. E. Griffith Theatres entered Gallup, he was unable to buy or procure pictures of his choice from major distributors as he had been able to do prior thereto, except MGM and Paramount. The evidence discloses that he retained those two accounts throughout the period involved and was from time to time able to procure RKO and Universal pictures. He also testified that R. E. Griffith talked with him on three occasions about entering into some kind of pooling arrangement in their theaters at Gallup and in one of the conversations, about buying or selling, but that nothing came of these conversations and no deals were made between them, and that the conversations were more or less "barter."

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that any failure of Nagle to procure moving picture films of his choice was due to any conspiracy or combination of the defendants to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, control or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Gallup, New Mexico.

11-12 Henryetta, Oklahoma

The population of Henryetta, Oklahoma, in 1930 was 7,694 and in 1940 was 6,905.

Griffith Amusement Company acquired a 100 per cent. interest in the Blaine and Morgan theaters on May 20, 1927, and has continued to operate them since that time. In the latter part of 1937 or the first part of 1938, Joe Love acquired a lease for the purpose of opening and operating a theater. After acquiring the lease he came in contact with C. O. Fulgham, who represented Griffith Amusement Company at Henryetta.

Love testified that he and Fulgham discussed his lease and Fulgham said the Griffith theaters were not making any money and advised him against coming into Henryetta, and in the conversation said if he, Love, came into Henryetta they would "break him out." Love testified that on this occasion he was approached by Fulgham. Fulg-
142 ham agrees that he and Love had a conversation on the subject, but sharply denied that he approached Love or that he said they would "break him out" if Love came to Henryetta. Fulgham testified that Love approached him and asked what he thought of his venture and that he told him that conditions in Henryetta were not good at that time and that the Griffith theaters were not doing well, and that he thought it was a poor venture. Love stated that on account of the discouragement offered by Fulgham, he gave up his lease and did not enter the town of Henryetta.

There is nothing sinister or out of the ordinary in this conversation. These men were on friendly terms and it is apparent the information was being sought by Love. Love testified that Fulgham told him if he did not come into Henryetta, Griffith would be glad to pay the expenses he had been out in the venture. Fulgham denied he made such a statement. It is significant that after abandoning the proposition, no attempt was made by Love to follow up the offer. Love seeks by his testimony to leave the impression that he was afraid to compete with the Griffith company in Henryetta, but immediately thereafter he entered the town of Wemoka in April, 1938, where Griffith Amusement Company was operating three moving picture theaters.

There is nothing that would justify the conclusion that the defendant Griffith Amusement Company, or any of the other defendants, were in a combination or conspiracy to control the exhibition of moving picture films, unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Henryetta, Oklahoma.

11-13 Hobart, Oklahoma

Hobart, Oklahoma, has about 5,000 population.

Charles Mahone entered Hobart in 1918 and began to operate two moving picture theaters, the Palace and 143 the Cozy, with no competition for ten years. During that period he exhibited such pictures as he desired. He constructed another theater which he began to operate in November, 1938, as the Oklahoman. In May, 1928, a Mr. Tolbert opened a theater named the Rialto, operated it for a few months when it was acquired by Consolidated Amusement Company, not a defendant here, remodelled, and reopened on December 6, 1929, under the name of the Kiowa. The lease which Mahone had on the Palace expired and was secured by Jesse James Hale, who operated it from 1929 until sometime in 1936. Mahone and Mary J. James, with whom he had associated himself as a partner in the operation of the Oklahoman and the Cozy, sold the Oklahoman and the Cozy to Consolidated Amusement Company on May 14, 1930, and Mahone went out of the business of exhibiting moving pictures there. This sale was voluntarily made and considered advantageous to Mahone at that time. He had suffered from ill health and wanted to get out of business "for that reason and others." After acquiring the Cozy, Consolidated Amusement Company discontinued its operation and the building was reconverted into a store building and has not been used as a theater since. On July 29, 1932, Consolidated Amusement Company had defaulted on its notes to Mahone on the Oklahoman and a receiver was appointed for the Oklahoman and the Kiowa. Mahone then began to operate the Oklahoman under the receivership, continuing to do so until August 26, 1935, when he and Mrs. James bought the theater at the receiver's sale and again operated it under a partnership agreement. In September, 1932, Griffith Amusement Company acquired the Kiowa from the receiver, and began to operate it in November, 1934. On March 22, 1936, Mahone again began to operate the Palace and continued its operation until April 3, 1943. The Kiowa had a seating capacity of 1,000 and the Oklahoman, of 600, both theaters being good houses for the size of the community.

Mahone complains that he was unable to procure the character of product he desired to play. But the evidence discloses that he always has had good and sufficient product, and is still operating the Oklahoman.

144 There is nothing to justify the conclusion that the sales of the Oklahoman and the Cozy were brought about or occasioned by any conspiracy or combination upon the part of the defendants, or that any of the acts and conduct of the defendants were such as to constitute a conspiracy or combination upon their part to control or stifle competition, unreasonably restrain trade or create a monopoly in the exhibiting of moving pictures at Hobart, Oklahoma.

11-14 Hobbs, New Mexico

The population of Hobbs in 1930 was 596 and in 1940 was approximately 11,000. It was what is known as an oil boom town and from a moving picture standpoint, both exhibitors and distributors went through some hectic days until the population became stabilized. The population fluctuated considerably during the years 1930 to 1940.

In 1930, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., built the Rig theater in what was known as New Hobbs about a mile and a half from Hobbs proper. The Rig was sold by Consolidated Theatres to R. E. Griffith on May 2, 1931 and by Mr. Griffith to R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., on January 5, 1932. The boom in the town of New Hobbs stopped suddenly and the Rig theater was razed and the salvage moved to Carlsbad, New Mexico. In 1931, R. E. Griffith had obtained what he named the Rex theater in Hobbs and operated it until May 6, 1936, when it was destroyed by fire. It was replaced by the Reel which was opened May 26, 1936. R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., built the Rig theater in Hobbs, opening it July 28, 1934. The Rig and the Reel were being operated by R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., at the time this suit was filed. J. T. Whelan in 1935 was operating a theater in Hobbs called the Roosevelt.

On September 29, 1933, R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., licensed a group of pictures from Fox for the 1933-145 1934 season to be exhibited at Hobbs as first-run pictures. On October 1, 1935, J. T. Whelan licensed a group of 23 pictures for second run at the Roosevelt from the 1933-1934 group of pictures for which he contracted with Fox to pay a greater rental than was paid by R. E. Griffith Theatres in 1933 for the same films. Both contracts were arrived at by barter and trade at the time of their execution. Whelan was not produced as a witness. W. J. Kupper, general sales manager for the Fox Company, explained the transactions by stating that in 1933, the date of the R. E. Griffith Theatres contract which was for the whole season's output, the pictures had not been produced and when they were licensed no one knew their real value, but at the time the Whelan contract was entered into two years later, the pictures selected by him were well known box office attractions and were a selected group. This explanation is reasonable and justifies the difference in prices, particularly in view of the fluctuating population of Hobbs during those years.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that a combination or conspiracy existed upon the part of any one or more of the defendants to control or stifle competition, restrain trade or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Hobbs, New Mexico.

11-15 Hominy, Oklahoma

Charles Pettit opened a theater named the Pettit in Hominy, Oklahoma, in 1923 and operated it until his death in November, 1931. During that period, Pettit at one time operated three theaters at Hominy, but at the time of his death was operating only the Pettit. Upon his death, his relatives procured a Mr. Murphy to operate the theater. His management was unsatisfactory and on January 15, 1933, Fred C. Vincent, a son-in-law of Charles Pettit, under an arrangement with the other members of the 146 family, took over the management and operation of the Pettit. Prior to that time, Vincent had had no experience in the moving picture business. He operated the Pettit until it was sold February 8, 1940. When Vincent began the operation of the Pettit, Hominy, which had been a "boom town", had a population of 3,487 but in 1940 the population was 3,267. In 1933 when Vincent began operation, the Pettit was the only theater operating in Hominy and had a seating capacity of 1250, but shortly thereafter, Vincent reduced the seating capacity to about 1000. In 1934, one McClain converted a store building into a theater and opened it as the Ritz. It was later made into a nice theater, seating about 390, and though small, it was a better house in its appointments than the Pettit. Prior to the opening of the Ritz, Vincent always had had his choice of product from the larger distributors, but had difficulty in getting together with some of them on prices, et cetera, and was not using or playing the product of a number of the major distributors. When McClain began operation he made deals with some of those distributors and played their pictures.

On June 15, 1936, McClain sold the Ritz to the Griffith interests.

Vincent testified that he talked with H. J. Griffith about the sale of the Pettit late in 1937; that the conversation was a casual one; that H. J. Griffith asked him if he would be interested in working out a deal; that he, Vincent, at that time submitted some figures on a rental basis and also for the sale of the equipment. The matter dragged along until sometime in July or August 1938, when Vincent saw H. J. Griffith at a convention in Oklahoma City when he told Griffith that he would still accept the price previously made. In a day or so he had a conference with L. C. Griffith in the office of Consolidated Theatres, Inc. Vincent stated that in that conference he expressed his concern about procuring product for the Pettit, and that L. C.
147 Griffith advised him in substance that he would talk to H. R. Falls, who was the buyer and booker of films for Consolidated Theatres, and see what could be done for him. Later Vincent talked with Falls, who asked him if he would be satisfied with Columbia and United Artists product. That later a certain group of approximately twenty pictures was released by Consolidated Theatres and the distributor licensed the group to Vincent.

The record shows that Consolidated Theatres had entered into a money commitment for a large number of theaters for the 1938-39 season, which provided:

"It is mutually understood and agreed that the Exhibitor is not required to exhibit any definite numbers of features, serials, or short subjects in each individual town or theatre. The money commitment is to be payed off in the collective theatres and towns operated by the various above mentioned theatre companies, * * * namely, * * * Hominy, Oklahoma, * * * the exhibitor has the privilege of playing only the twenty (20) top allocated pictures, plus the six (6) westerns, twenty-seven (27) episodes of serials, and forty (40) reels of short subjects * * *.

"The Exhibitor agrees to notify the Distributor of the pictures to be eliminated within sixty (60) days after release."

It is obvious that in order to accommodate Vincent, its competitor, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., rearranged its program and released for Vincent the Picture films that it had contracted to play and pay for. Vincent already had at that time RKO and Universal product.

The matter of the sale of the Pettit dragged along until February 8, 1940, when the deal was consummated. During these negotiations, Vincent's wife had passed away and Vincent was anxious to close the deal as he desired to leave Hominy. The sale was voluntary, sought by Vincent and was mutually satisfactory.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that the sale of the Pettit was brought about or occasioned by any coercion or threats upon the part of the defendants, or by any conspiracy or combination upon the part of the 148 defendants to control or stifle competition, unreasonably restrain trade, or create a monoply in the exhibition of moving picture films at Hominy, Oklahoma.

11 16 Lubbock, Texas

On June 2, 1936, Wendell Beardon and P. E. Smith began operating a moving picture theater called the Tech at Lubbock, Texas, in a building which they had converted from one originally used as a laundry. It was located about a mile and a half from the downtown or business section and was near the Tech College. At the time Lubbock was a rapidly growing city of about 30,000 population aside from Tech College which had about 5,000 students. At the time the Tech was opened, there were five theaters in the downtown district, the Broadway and the Lyric operated by W. A. Mauldin and the Lindsey, Palace, and the Texas operated by Lindsey Theatres, Inc. Consolidated Theatres, Inc., owned 50 per cent. of the stock of Lindsey Theatres, Inc., and bought and booked the moving picture films for Lindsey Theatres at Lubbock.

From March, 1932, to December, 1934, C. B. Akers managed the Lindsey theaters at Lubbock and was familiar with the situation from 1932 to the date of the trial. In June, 1937, Artie Crites became the manager of the theaters operated by Lindsey Theatres, Inc., at Lubbock. In 1938, at the solicitation of Lindsey Theatres, Akers canvassed the situation at Lubbock as to a new theater location and recommended the building of a theater near the Tech College. Upon his recommendation, a lot was purchased near the college, preparations began and plans procured for the erection of a theater, and a sign erected on the lot so procured reading "Home of New Campus Theatre". It developed that the lot purchased was not zoned for business and some of the residents in the vicinity objected to the theater's construction. An attempt was made through the proper authorities to have the lot zoned for business which was unsuccessful. Another build-

148 ing site was procured and about two years later a theater was erected thereon and named the Tower. When difficulty was encountered in the zoning situation in 1938, it had come to the attention of Akers that the owners of the Tech were desirous of selling that theater. Mr. Akers then, at the solicitation of the attorney for Lindsey Theaters, Inc., accompanied by Artie Crites, had a conference with Wendell Beardon. The parties were unable to get together on a price and the matter was not again discussed.

Wendell Bearden testified that during the conference some threats were made by Akers about controlling the theater business in Lubbock. That testimony is as follows:

"Q. (By Mr. WRIGHT:) What was the conversation you had with him? A. Mr. Akers commented on the theater we had there, about it being nice, and what good sound system we had, and first one thing and another of that nature; then he mentioned the fact about them planning to build a theater out by the campus and asked me if I had heard of it. I told him yes, I had heard of it, and I had also noticed the sign posted on the lot around the corner, and he asked me if I thought there was enough business out by the college to furnish or supply two theaters. I told him I didn't know, but I doubted it. And he says, 'Well, we have intended to have a theater out here for a long time, and we feel like this part of town really belongs to us because we have been in the theater business a long time.' And he says, 'We plan to control the theater business here, if we have to put them here as thick as service stations. Q. (By the COURT:) If we have to what? A. If we have to put them here as thick as service stations. So I told him it was a free country, and that I could do nothing about it. He then asked me if I would be interested in selling. I told him yes, that I would. And he asked me what I would take for it. I told I would take $20,000. He said, "That's unreasonable; we can pay only about $10,000." And I told him we couldn't accept that, that wasn't enough that we had more money in it than that.' That was about the extent of the conversation until he got ready to go. And he stated he would give me until Monday morning, which was the 10th, to call him up and accept the offer that he made, else they would start immediately to construct a theater on the lot that they had the sign on. So I told him that he already had my answer, that I couldn't take $10,000; that sometime he might have the theater, but I wouldn't give it to him. So that's the last time that I saw Mr. Akers. * * * Q. At that conversation you had with Mr. Crites and Mr. Akers in the Fall of '38, was anything said as to what kind of pictures would be put into the new theater? * * * A. Yes, Mr. Akers told me that when he said they were going to control the theater business if they had to build them as thick as service stations, he said: 'Besides, we are going to put first and second run pictures in our theater that we build out here.'" R. pp. 681-2, 685.

C. B. Akers and Artie Crites testified concerning this conversation and both sharply denied the threatening statements attributed to Akers. Akers testified that he took Crites along as a witness to the conversation for the reason that Bearden had been complaining about the manner in which Lindsey Theatres, Inc., had been operating as to product and he was fearful that any conversation had with Bearden might be misconstrued. His version of the conversation was as follows:

"Q. I wish you would state briefly your recollection of that conversation. A. When we first went in I was introduced to Mr. Bearden by Mr. Crites and I commented on the sound and the appearance of his theater—it was a little larger at that time than it was the last time I have seen it—then I told him that Mr. McWhorter had informed me he wanted to sell and asked him if that was so and he said yes, he would sell anything he had if the price was right. I asked him what he considered a right price and he told me $26,000. I said that was considerable more money than we had in mind and that we had in mind a price of ten or twelve thousand dollars. I told him that we figured on a larger theater and the remodeling cost on top of the $26,000 purchase price would make it prohibitive for the type theater that the Lindseys and I thought should be erected out there. Then he asked me about this lot around the corner, where we had purchased this lot, which was just half a block from there, and asked me if I thought another theater would be profitable in Lubbock, and I told him I thought it certainly would, and even another theater down near Avenue Q might be profitable venture because that section of town was growing. He repeated that his price was $26,000, and I thanked him and left. As well as I remember, that is all that was said there." R. pp. 1981-2.

Artie Crites testified as to his recollection of the conversation as follows:

"Q. Please state the substance of the conversation as you recall it. The COURT: State as nearly as you can just what each one said. A. In this conversation, we met at the Tech Theater, and I introduced Mr. Akers to Mr. Bearden. We met in the lobby, or inside of the theater, and we discussed a few improvements that Mr. Bearden had made in the theater since I had been in the theater the last time.

We talked for a few moments, and Mr. Bearden in-151 vited us upstairs to his office. In the office I distinctly remember that Mr. Akers explained to Mr. Bearden that he had heard that he might be interested in selling the properties or the Tech Theater, and if so, that perhaps Lindsay Theatres, Inc., might be interested in the purchase of those properties. I remember Mr. Bearden stating that he would be interested in selling, provided he could get his price. And he quoted a price of $26,000. That I remember Mr. Akers distinctly saying was too much, was much too high in his opinion, and that it was more than Lindsay Theatres, Inc., would be interested in paying, that they would not be interested in paying over ten or twelve thousand. That's the essence of the conversation, that's the important parts of it as I remember. Q. (By Mr. DUDLEY:) That is the way you recall it? A. Yes, sir. Q. To refresh your recollection, I will ask you was there any discussion with reference to making any improvements or modifications of this Tech Theater? A. Well, Mr. Akers at that time stated he would have to make improvements on the theater by enlarging it because it wasn't as large as Lindsey Theatres had planned for their site at the campus theater. Q. In that conversation, was anything said with reference to the new theater which you contemplated building? A. I believe Mr. Bearden made reference to the previous publicity we had given, that a new theater would be built on the Campus theater site, where we had the sign erected, and Mr. Bearden asked if we were planning on building in the near future, or starting construction, and Mr. Akers informed him that we had planned to. So Mr. Bearden asked Mr. Akers particularly if he thought that two theaters could be operated profitably, Mr. Bearden asked Mr. Akers particularly if he thought two theaters could be operated in that locality only, on or near the campus of Texas Technological College, and I distinctly remember Mr. Akers saying, 'Yes,' he thought that two theaters and perhaps even more could be operated profitably because of the increase in enrollment and the extension of the city in that direction. Q. Is there anything else now that you recall, Mr. Crites? A. That's all I recall that was discussed. It was a friendly meeting." R. pp. 2090-2.

In June, 1939, Mauldin sold the Lyric and the Broadway to Lindsey Theatres, Inc., after Mauldin had advertised them for sale together with other theaters owned by him in Tulia and Crosbyton. The sale was voluntary and mutually satisfactory.

When the conduct and acts of the operators of the theaters in which the defendants were interested are narrowed to the last analysis, it seems to have been a controversy with reference to the decision of some of the distributors that having licensed their product for Lubbock, they could not also license the same product to the Tech
152 theater. Bearden and Smith contended that an exception should be made as to the territory in which they operated. Upon this controversy they could not agree.

The court finds nothing in the situation at Lubbock as to leases, sales or contemplated sales that was brought about or occasioned by coercion or threats upon the part of any of the defendants. The court also finds no credible evidence that would justify the conclusion that any conduct or acts upon the part of any of the defendants show that a conspiracy or combination existed upon the part of the defendants to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition or monopolize the exhibition of moving picture films at Lubbock, Texas.

11-17 Mangum, Oklahoma

The population of Mangum, Oklahoma, in 1930 was 4,806 and in 1940 was 4,193.

Pat Duffy started to exhibit moving picture films at Lone Wolf, Oklahoma, in 1926. In 1927 he began to operate the Rialto theater in Mangum, Oklahoma, in competition with the Empress and New Show operated by Sam Fringer. In 1929 Fringer closed the Empress and began operating the Temple, which he continued to operate until 1932 when it was foreclosed by the National Theater Supply Company. A Mr. Ortman bought the Temple, operated it for about eleven months until September, 1933, when Duffy purchased it. Upon acquiring the Temple, Duffy began operating the Rialto only on Friday and Saturday of each week. He operated the Temple and the Rialto with no competition until sometime in 1937.

Duffy testified that in 1935, W. T. Spears, who was interested with the Griffiths at Altus, Oklahoma, called on him and proposed to buy the Duffy theaters at Mangum. Duffy priced the theaters at $50,000 which Spears thought was too high. Later Spears returned and suggested that he sell "Griffith Brothers" an interest in the theaters.
153 Following that, Duffy came to the office of Consolidated Theatres, Inc., at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, to a meeting which was attended by L. C. Griffith, H. J. Griffith and B. J. McKenna. It was suggested that he sell a 25 per cent. interest in the theaters but he did not care to sell. In that meeting, L .C. Griffith stated that "they both needed each other for protection." Duffy further testified that sometime in 1936, E. R. Slocum called on him at Mangum and proposed to buy a 51 per cent. interest in the theaters for the Griffiths and he stated his willingness to sell the 51 per cent. interest "if the film rental wouldn't exceed 25 per cent. of the gross," which did not suit Slocum; that during the year 1936, Slocum conversed with him many times about the sale of the theaters and in one of the conversations made the remark that Duffy "was on the spot and slated to go and that he had better make the best deal he could." E. R. Slocum denied that he ever made the statement so attributed to him in any conversation with Duffy. Duffy testified that in the latter part of 1936 Slocum and E. J. Griffith called on him and offered $20,000 for the theaters and at that time said they "wanted a theater in Mangum and if they couldn't buy Duffy's theaters, would put one in." This statement also is denied by both Slocum and Griffith. Later Duffy came to Oklahoma City and took up the matter of the sale of the theaters at a meeting in Consolidated Theatres, Inc., offices on January 5, 1937. This meeting resulted in Duffy executing an option for thirty days on his theaters at the sale price of $22,000. The option was not exercised because Duffy's lease on the Temple could not be renewed at the same rental provided in the lease. Consolidated Theaters, Inc., then opened the Greer theater. The building had formerly been used as a theater, converted into a mercantile building, and was re-converted into a theater.

The evidence discloses and the court so finds that during all of the time of the negotiations of the sale of his 154 theatres, Duffy was hardpressed for finances in his theater operations, and that the condition of his finances was caused by the general conditions in his community and not by any acts or conduct of the defendants, or any conditions over which the defendants had or exercised any control. The evidence is undisputed that Duffy had all the product for exhibition that he desired to pay for and play during his entire operations. He finally sold his theaters to Consolidated Theatres, Inc., in April, 1939, for $12,000.

There is nothing in the evidence that would justify the conclusion that the sale of the Duffy theaters was brought about or occasioned by any threats or coercion upon the part of the defendants, or by any conspiracy or combination of the defendants to control the exhibition of moving picture films, stifle competition, unreasonably restrain trade, or monopolize the exhibition of moving picture films at Mangum, Oklahoma.

11-18 Norman, Oklahoma

Norman, Oklahoma, the seat of the State University, has about 10,000 population exclusive of the student body which during the time involved here was between three and four thousand.

In 1928, S. G. Ambrister erected a building, one part of which was constructed as a theater. He leased the theater to J. E. Halbut and Ted Colbert who equipped and operated it as a moving picture house. They later sold their interests to Ray Berry who, with his wife Jaunita Berry, operated the theater as the Campus. Ray Berry died in 1932. When the lease terminated the tenants were in arrears about $1,300 which was absorbed by Ambrister and a new lease dated January 12, 1933 was made to Millard K. Boldman, the brother, and Minnie H. Boldman, the mother of Jaunita Berry, for a five-year term. Jaunita Berry, the active operator, and Ambrister had some difficulties over the lease; she got behind with the rental payments and Ambrister refused to renew the lease. Ambrister then approached the Griffith Amusement Company to 155 lease it. A deal was consummated in 1938 between Ambrister and Griffith Amusement Company for a lease and the name of the theater later changed to the Boomer, but due to remodelling was not opened until November, 1940.

Since 1929 Jaunita Berry has been connected with the operation of another theater called the Oklahoma. Her husband became associated with her in its operation in July, 1930, and continued until his death in April, 1932. During this period of time, the Sooner theater and the University theater were being operated by Griffith Amusement Company. The Oklahoma and the Campus each had a seating capacity of approximately 432, the Sooner of 1100 and the University of between eight and nine hundred. In 1937 Griffith Amusement Company remodelled the old University across the street from the Sooner and opened it as the Varsity.

A considerable amount of testimony has been introduced concerning prices charged, playing change policies, et cetera, none of which has been of any material aid to the court in considering the issues involved. Jaunita Berry has two major complaints: that the Campus was "leased out from under her" and that her inability to buy and play the product of her choice is in some manner the fault of her competitors in controlling the exhibition of moving picture films.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that the lease of the Campus theater by Griffith Amusement Company from Ambrister was brought about or occasioned by any coercion or threats upon the part of the defendants or that there existed any combination or conspiracy upon the part of any of the defendants to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, control or monopolize the exhibition of moving picture films at Norman, Oklahoma.

11-19 Phillips, Texas

The population of Berger, Texas, in 1940, was about 12,000 and of Phillips, Texas, was about 6,000. The business district of Berger is about one and a half or two miles from the business district of Phillips. Berger
156 is the older town, Phillips in reality being its residential district. Phillips Petroleum Company's refinery is located at Phillips and the two towns are connected by a paved street or highway built up with residences and business houses.

In December, 1939, Wendell Bearden and P. E. Smith, who were theater operators at Lubbock, Texas, procured a lease on some lots at Phillips and in January, 1940, began the erection of a theater which they completed and began to operate on March 12, 1940, as the Phillips. At the time of procuring the lease, Bearden and Smith contacted by correspondence and telegrams the various major distributors in an effort to procure first-run moving picture films for their theater. They procured a season deal with Warner and a part season deal with Metro, the Warner first runs to be played thirty days after they were played at Berger, but had no offers of product from any other major distributor. At the time they procured their lease in December, 1939, long after the filing of this suit, Griffith Amusement Company had and was operating three theaters in Berger. Soon after Bearden and Smith began to build the Phillips. Griffith Amusement Company began the erection of a theater at Phillips which they called the 66. The 66 was completed and opened about a week prior to the opening of the Phillips. About six months after the Phillips opened, it was damaged by fire but was repaired and reopened about six or eight weeks thereafter. Later in 1941 it was again damaged and almost completely destroyed by fire. Bearden and Smith removed what fixtures were saved to Lubbock, Texas, and sold the salvage of the building for $250 and abandoned the theater. Phillips Petroleum Company expanded its refinery and in doing so, it became necessary for Griffith Amusement Company to abandon the location of the 66 and procure a new location. It got in touch with the owner of the 157 lots upon which the Phillips had been located and later abandoned, rebuilt the theater and located the 66 there, where it is still being operated. During the time these two theaters were in operation, the owners at one time had a meeting and discussed "buying or selling" but nothing was consummated in that regard.

All of these transactions occurred after the filing of the action here and are considered only for whatever bearing they might have as to prior transactions disclosed by the evidence.

There is nothing in this situation that would justify the conclusion that there existed any combination or conspiracy upon the part of any of the defendants to control or stifle competition in the exhibition of moving picture films, to unreasonably restrain interstate commerce, or to create a monopoly in such exhibitions at Phillips, Texas.

11-20 Plainview, Texas

The population of Plainview, Texas, in 1930 was 8,834 and in 1940 was 8,236.

Dennis Scaling operated a moving picture theatre at Hale Center, Texas, from 1921 until 1929. He then became associated with Paramount Publix Theatre Corporation in two theaters, one at Enid, Oklahoma, and one at Fort Worth, Texas, as assistant manager of those theaters from 1929 to 1931. In 1932 he went to Plainview, Texas and became associated with C. C. Lindsey of Lubbock, Texas, in the operation of the Plainview theater which they renamed the Ritz. At that time there were two other theaters, the Grenada and the Palace, owned by Oscar Korn, of Dallas Texas, but only the Grenada was operating. Scaling and Linsey, under a partnership arrangement, operated the Ritz from 1932 to the middle of the year 1933, playing some Paramount, United Artists and Independent product. In July, 1933, Scaling and Lindsey transferred their 158 lease on the Ritz to Foster McSwain, R. E. Griffith and Lindsey, with Scaling continuing to operate the theater which they renamed the Texas, as manager until sometime in June, 1935. The Texas, during that time, continued to play Paramount, United Artists and some MGM, RKO and Columbia product. In the meantime, the

R. E. Griffith interests had acquired by purchase the other two theaters, the Grenada and the Palace, from Kora.

The building in which the Texas was being operated was owned by J. H. Massie. R. Q. Silverthorne was the agent of the Massie interests. At the time Scaling was discontinued as manager of the Texas (formerly the Ritz), the lease had expired on the building and had not been renewed but its occupancy was continued under an oral arrangement. The R. E. Griffith interests were notified late in 1935 to vacate the Texas premises, which they did in the latter part of December, moving to a new location where they continued to operate as the Texas. During the controversy over the lease of the premises where the Texas was located, Tower Theaters, Inc., was organized by R. Q. Silverthorne, Dennis Scaling and J. H. Massie, which organization secured a lease on the building where the Texas was operating, and in January, 1936, opened the Fair theater there and operated it for 42 weeks, playing the 1935-1936 Universal product and some United Artists and Independents. The R. E. Griffith interests then continued playing product of the large distributors, which they already had under contract, in the Grenada and Texas theaters.

The Grenada was classed as an "A" theater, with a seating capacity of 1,100, the Fair was next in size and equipment, with a seating capacity of 650, while the Texas, in its new location, was the least pretentious, with a seating capacity of 450, and was classed as a "B" house.

159 Tower Theatres, Inc., opened the Fair in January, 1936, on a policy of four changes of picture per week and continued on such policy until it ended its operation. At that time the Griffith theaters went from three changes per week to four changes per week.

It is claimed that Tower Theatres, Inc., in 1936, was unable to make a 1936-1937 season contract with Universal, MGM and RKO. In October, 1936, Tower Theatres, Inc., sold the Fair to the R. E. Griffith interests for $12,000 and made a ten-year lease to them on the building at a satisfactory rental. Since that time the R. E. Griffith interests, under Westex Theatres, Inc., have operated all of the theaters in Plainview.

The Government, in addition to the acts and conduct of the Griffith interests in acquiring and operating their theaters at Plainview, has stressed two conversations. One was between R. Q. Silverthorne and Foster McSwain in which they were discussing securing product and Silverthorne testified McSwain made the remark, "we might be interested in buying that property" and he submitted him an offer of $15,000 and McSwain told him he would let him know. The other was a conversation testified to by Dennis Scaling in which he conversed with R. E. Griffith as follows:

"I asked Mr. Griffith if he had any cutback pictures that he was not going to use. He asked Mr. Lockhart if he had made a list of the pictures they were going to cut back for the year. He said no, he hadn't. He said, 'Well, I wish you would make up a list and notify the exchanges to release them for my use.' Mr. Lockhart left the room and then I asked Mr. Griffith if he would let me have some second-run pictures and Mr. Griffith looked at me and said 'No.' He said, 'The town is too small for second-run pictures,' so then I asked him, 'Well, what about your changes since 1936, since I opened the Fair. You have jumped from three changes a week in each theater to four changes, consuming two extra first-run pictures.' He said, 'Well, I had to do that to consume the product that I had under contract.' So I got up to leave and he walked to the door with me. He said, 'Tell your partners, Mr. Silverthorne and this fellow Massey', who was another partner, 'when they get ready to close the Fair Theater, rent the building out for a store building, we will try to buy the equipment.' I said, 'Mr. Griffith, I don't think that will ever happen,' and that was the end of our conversation." R. pp. 190-1.

Since this purported conversation took place alone with R. E. Griffith, who died after this action was filed, there could be no denial, but taking into consideration the cross-examination of the witness and the circumstances surrounding the situation, his testimony is not convincing. Here were two competitors conversing about the business in which they were engaged. One is asking a favor of the other, who quite readily shows a desire to accommodate and grant. They then discuss a policy of exhibiting pictures—the change from three to four pictures a week. The evidence conclusively shows that Scaling opened the Fair on four changes per week, before the Griffith theaters made the change, and thus was in no position to complain about the policy. Then one competitor proposes a sale and the other submits a counter proposition, which is liable to happen any time between competitors.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that the conduct or acts of any of the defendants were of such a character as to coerce the owners or occasion or bring about the sale of the Fair theater. It was a voluntary sale upon the part of the Scaling interests and was mutually satisfactory. The court further finds that the sale was not brought about or occasioned by any conspiracy or combination upon the part of any of the defendants to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, control or monopolize the exhibition of moving pictures in Plainview, Texas.

11-21 Sapulpa, Oklahoma.

Sapulpa, Oklahoma, had a population of 10,533 in 1930 and 12,249 in 1940.

Alexander Moulder, owner and manager of the Criterion theater, has been engaged in the exhibition of moving pictures at Sapulpa since 1900 and always has had competition. He operated the Empress from 1911 to 1932 and began operation of the Criterion September 12, 1931. In 1931 Charlie Blaine and James Zartaludes were operating the Yale theater. The Criterion has a seating capacity of 1,200 and the Yale, of 750. Sometime in 1931 and 1932 Griffith Amusement Company acquired an interest in 161 the Yale. In 1931 and 1932, Moulder was playing in the Criterion and the Empress first-run pictures of Fox, Paramount, MGM, United Artists and a few from Columbia.

Moulder testified that sometime in April or May, 1937, E. R. Slocum, representing Griffith Amusement Company, inquired if he would sell the Criterion and he stated that he would if he could get his price, which was $75,000. The price was not agreeable to Slocum. Moulder states that in that conversation, Slocum remarked: "We're going to eliminate competition in Sapulpa." That later in the year, in June or July, defendant H. J. Griffith, accompanied by another party (he thinks McKenna at one time and Fulgham at another time), talked with him on two occasions, once about a partnership agreement and once about a sale of the Criterion, that testimony being as follows:

"Q. What was said then? A. Well, there was quite a bit of conversation went on. At that time he wanted to buy us out. He offered me $25,000 and I wanted $75,000. Q. When you say 'he', whom are you referring to? A. Mr. Griffith, H. J., and we could not come to terms. Then I suggested to him, 'How about a partnership', and he 'Well, we don't want two partners in the same town; but we are satisfied with the one we have' and later he says, 'Well, Speedy, we will lower the admission price in the Yale Theater and build another theater in the town and buy your pictures out from under you,' and he says 'Where will you be then?' I said, 'Well, that is for me to worry about.' I believe he told me at the same time that I didn't have a good lease, and I told him that I did."

E. R. Slocum denied that he made the statement Moulder attributes to him and testified that the visits alluded to, occurred in 1936 and that at that time he was representing Consolidated Theatres, Inc. That sometime later he again visited Moulder in company with H. J. Griffith but denied that either he or H. J. Griffith made the statement that the price would be lowered at the Yale and another theater be built and buy Moulder's product away from him.

H. J. Griffith testified that his visits with Moulder were in 1938. That on one visit, which was purely social,
162 he was accompanied by McKenna and upon that occasion he did inquire if Moulder wanted to sell and Moulder said he would if he could get $75,000. He told Moulder it was too much, that the theater was worth $25,000, equipment $15,000 and bonus $10,000. In a later visit, when he was accompanied by E. R. Slocum, he asked Moulder if he had changed his mind about the price and Moulder said he had not. Moulder then suggested a partnership but no deal was made and was never discussed further. He denied that he ever made the statement that Moulder's lease was not good.

C. O. Fulgham testified that he never accompanied anyone on a visit to Moulder and never discussed with Moulder the sale of his theater or was present when it was discussed.

Griffith Amusement Company began the construction of the State theater May 31, 1939, after the filing of this suit, and it was later opened on a second-run policy—playing second runs on its first-run pictures and some second runs of Columbia after the first runs by Moulder. Moulder testified that at the present time he was playing at the Criterion first runs of Paramount, Fox, Columbia, United Artists and some Independents.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that the defendants conspired or combined to unreasonably restrain trade, control or stifle competition, or monopolize the exhibition of moving picture films at Sapulpa, Oklahoma, but on the contrary that all the things that occurred in the situation were the natural and ordinary result of barter and trade between competitors.

11-22 Seminole, Oklahoma

Seminole, Oklahoma had a population of between ten and eleven thousand.

In October, 1936, Joe Love began the operation of a theater, the Chief, and was still operating it at the time of this trial. It had been an old building which he 163 remodelled into a theater with a seating capacity of 562 and opened it as a first-run house. At the time he entered Seminole, Griffith Amusement Company was operating three other theaters, the Rex (later called the Seminole) the State and the Rialto. The Seminole played "A" pictures first run of many of the major distributors, the Rialto second runs of the "A" pictures and the State first run "B" pictures. Before going into Seminole, Love learned that of the major distributors only Universal first runs for the season had not been sold. It does not appear in the evidence why he was unable to obtain those pictures at that time. Soon after he opened the Chief, a "price war" developed, together with other inducements to gain patronage for the theaters, for which Love was equally responsible with his competitors.

Love complains that he was unable to procure product he desired to play for some considerable time and had to play the pictures he could procure, but testifies he operated at a profit.

No third-run pictures were being exhibited at the time he entered the town and he was unable to procure them from major distributors for some time, but later the distributors did make sales of such films to Love and his competitors.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that any conduct or acts of the defendants were the cause of Love's failure to procure product of his choice, or that a conspiracy or combination existed upon the part of the defendants to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, control or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Seminole, Oklahoma.

11-23 Shawnee, Oklahoma

The population of Shawnee, Oklahoma, in 1930 was 23,383 and in 1940 was 22,053.

Jake Jones opened a theater, the Cozy, on premises he owned, and operated it as a silent film theater from 1914 to 1926. The Cozy was the only theater operated by with." The sale price of the theater was $13,000 and it was agreed that Jones would lease the theater building to the vendees for a period of five years from September 1, 1926 for $450.00 per month. By the same instrument, Jake Jones agreed to lease them the building where the Savoy was located, when he obtained possession of it, for a term of five years for a stipulated sum per month. The Griffith Brothers, on taking over the Cozy, renamed it the Ritz.

In 1927 Jake Jones and associates organized the Seminole Amusement Company, Jones being made president. This company built the Criterion theater which it operated for eighteen months, until on June 14, 1929, it was leased to Griffith Amusement Company for a term of ten years at a rental of $561.61 per month. In 1931 the rental was reduced to $500 per month and in 1932 it was reduced to $400 per month for a period of two years, at the end of which period it was continued at $561.61 until the term expired.

In 1927 Griffith Amusement Company purchased lots and erected the Bison theater at a cost of about $75,000 and which later was equipped for sound. The Bison was a modern deluxe theater, one of the finest in the state for a city of that size.

Either in January or February, 1935, or on June 23, 1934, a conference was held in the Aldridge Hotel in Shawnee, Oklahoma, with reference to the amount of rent on the Criterion for the remainder of the term of the lease.

This conference was arranged at the instigation of 165 B. J. McKenna through Allan F. Hornbeck, Griffiths' agent at Shawnee, who contacted Jake Jones. Jones testified that those present at the conference, besides himself, were H. J. Griffith, R. E. Griffith, B. J. McKenna and Lawrence C. Bocher. His testimony with reference to the conference is as follows:

"A. They first talked about more cut on the Criterion lease and then Mr. R. E. Griffith got up after that and said, 'We want you to cut the rent to $250, and if you don't cut it, we are going to build another house and take your second run away from you, all of your second run pictures away from you.' Q. (By Mr. Wright:) What did you say? A. I swore, and picked up my hat, and got out." R. pp. 326-7.

Lawrence C. Bocher gave his version of what occurred as follows:

"A. Along in the first part of 1933, either in January or February, Jake called me, that is Jake Jones, called me up one day. * * * A. All right. A meeting was arranged at the Aldridge Hotel, and I didn't know what the meeting was supposed to be for. Those present at the meeting, as far as I remember, was Jake Jones and myself, McKenna, and R. E. Griffith and H. J. Griffith. L. C. wasn't there. Q. And what occurred at that meeting? A. We met in a room in the Aldridge Hotel on the second floor. * * * H. J., he broke the ice as regard to what the meeting was called for, and he stated that they had to have some relief, and the rent should be reduced. Q. Was there any further conversation? A. Yes, sir. I immediately told him that we had already reduced the rent twice, and that when L. C. had met with us that he had promised us that no further reduction in the rent would be asked. * * * So I immediately told him about our former agreement, and I said, 'Possibly that is why L. C. isn't here, because he made the agreement with us that there would not be any more reductions in the rent.' Then R. E., he stated at that time that there would have to be a substantial reduction in rent. In fact, he says, 'We can't pay over $250.' Q. Was there any further conversation? A. And then when I told him there wouldn't be a chance at all to reduce it to $250, he says, 'We will open up another theater and buy all the second run pictures in Shawnee,' and the meeting busted up right then. Q. Do you recall any conversation on the part of Mr. Jones? A. Well, Mr. Jones, he grabbed his hat and said something, well, he swore a little bit, and he said, 'Come on, let's go,' and we walked out, and they were still sitting there.'' R. pp. 3561-2.

166 Both Jake Jones and Lawrence C. Bocher testified that there was but one meeting, concerning the reduction of the rent on the Criterion, and fix the time as January or February, 1933, more than six years prior to the filing of this suit.

The evidence is clear that R. E. Griffith did not attend that conference. He had severed his relations, so far as the conduct of the business of Griffith Amusement Company was concerned, in 1931 and there was no occasion for him to be present at that conference or to engage in it. He was then residing in New Mexico and aside from the testimony of these two witnesses, there is no evidence that at that time he was in the state of Oklahoma. The other persons present at the conference all testify that R. E. Griffith was not present. It is evident that no such statements in that conference were made by R. E. Griffith.

On May 1, 1933, Griffith Amusement Company opened the Victory theater, which had been acquired by it in 1931 in the settlement of a debt and had been closed for some time, and renamed it the Rex. The Rex had a seating capacity of 400 and the Ritz of about 550 or 600. Prior to the time Jake Jones sold the equipment and rented the Cozy (later the Ritz) to the Griffith Brothers three theaters were operating in opposition to him, the Savoy and the Odeon operated by A. B. Momond and the Victory, by Ray Wellman.

During the time Griffith Amusement Company was operating the theaters it had leased from Jake Jones, the distributors sold Griffith Amusement Company the film product they had formerly sold to Jones. Jones complains that some of these accounts he was never able to recover when he again engaged in the business.

There is nothing in the evidence to justify the conclusion that any leases or sales of theaters to any of the defendants were brought about or occasioned by any coercion, conspiracy or combination on the part of the defendants to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, control or monopolize the exhibition of moving pictures in Shawnee, Oklahoma. It is apparent that all the leases and sales to the defendants at that place were voluntary, 167 that the lessors or sellors were the primary movers, and the contracts were mutually satisfactory.

11-24 Stillwater, Oklahoma

In 1928 Stillwater, Oklahoma, had a population of approximately 6,000 aside from the Oklahoma A & M College which had a student body of about 2,500, and at the time of the trial of this action, the population was about 10,000 and the student body, about 4,500.

Claude Leachman, who had been a student at the College and who had had considerable experience in the exhibition of moving picture, became interested in the theater situation at Stillwater, and acquired the Abbott theater (later the Mecca), in May, 1926. Also in 1926 he had made arrangements to open and operate the Aggie theater but was unable to finance it. He sought out Griffith Brothers for assistance, which resulted in a partnership arrangement in which the Griffith Brothers were to have a two-thirds interest and Leachman a one-third interest in the two theaters, Leachman to operate them, which arrangement continued to the time of the trial. When Leachman began operating the Mecca and the Aggie, there was one other theater, the Camera, operated by F. M. Tull. In October, 1928, Ray H. Russ took over the operation of the Camera, with no prior experience in the exhibition of moving picture films. In 1931, about the middle of the depression, none of the theaters was making money, and Russ, experiencing difficulties in the operation of the Camera, sought out Griffith Amusement Company, which resulted in a partnership contract in which he and Griffith Amusement Company were to participate fifty-fifty in the operation of the Camera and the Mecca. Russ was to continue the active management at a stipulated salary and Griffith Amusement Company was to do the buying and booking of product. Shortly after the contract was made and during its operation, the Mecca was closed. This 168 arrangement continued for about twenty months when Russ became dissatisfied. Over the objection of his partner, Russ bought certain product, which act, he testified, caused the dissolution of their partnership arrangement.

Russ testified that during the partnership, he had a conversation with R. M. Clark, a representative of Griffith Amusement Company, in which Clark stated: "We are going to make it tough on all independent exhibitors and close them out by controlling the product." Clark is now deceased. Claude Leachman testified that he was present throughout the purported conversation and that Clark made no such statement.

In 1939 the Campus theater was built by Griffith Amusement Company and Leachman, and at the time of this trial was being operated by them.

The Aggie is classed as an "A" house, with a seating capacity of 710; the Mecca is a "B" house, with a seating capacity of 432; the Camera, a "D" house with a seating capacity of 432; and, the Campus has a seating capacity of 432 but is a model theater, classed as an "A" house. The Aggie plays A pictures first run; the Mecca, B pictures first run; the Camera, A and B pictures subsequent run; and, the Campus, A and B pictures second run.

There is nothing that would justify the conclusion that the partnership arrangement between Griffith Amusement Company and Russ was brought about or occasioned by any threats or coercion upon the part of the defendants, or that a conspiracy or combination existed upon the part of the defendants to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, control or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Stilwater, Oklahoma.

11-25 Wewoka, Oklahoma

In 1930, Wewoka, Oklahoma, had a population of 10,401 and in 1940, 10,315.

Joe Love, who was operating a theater, the Chief, at Seminole, Oklahoma, acquired a theater, the Pix, at 169 Wewoka, Oklahoma, in April, 1938, from Ward and Nave who were then operating it. At the time Love acquired the Pix, Griffith Amusement Company was operating three theaters, the Key, the Paramount and the State. The Key was playing A pictures first run using the product of some major distributors; the State was playing A pictures second run; the Paramount was playing B pictures first run; and, the Pix was playing United Artists pictures first run and pictures of independent exhibitors.

After Love entered Wewoka, a "price war", together with other special inducements to procure patronage in the theaters, developed. The parties were equally responsible for this situation. Love sold the Pix on May 5, 1940 to Chet Humphries and when Humphries began to operate it, the price war and other special inducements to procure patronage ceased.

There is nothing to justify the conclusion that any of the acts or conduct of the defendants brought about or occasioned the sale of the Pix theater from Love to Humphries, or that any combination or conspiracy existed upon the part of the defendants that had for its purpose to unreasonably restrain trade, stifle competition, control or create a monopoly in the exhibition of moving picture films at Wewoka, Oklahoma.

The defendants did not condition the licensing of moving picture films in any competitive situation upon the licensing of such films in any other situation, or in any non-competitive situation upon the licensing of such films in any competitive situation.

13

The defendants, or any of them, did not acquire or maintain a closed theater in any of the situations covered by the complaint for the purpose of discouraging or eliminating competition.

14

The theaters and the interests in any theater acquired by the several defendants were acquired in the course of ordinary, normal and legitimate growth and development of the business in which they were engaged, and none of the theaters or interests so acquired were acquired by wrongful means, predatory practices, or with the intent to unreasonably restrain trade, or to stifle competition, or to monopolize the licensing or exhibition of moving picture films in such situations.

15

The defendants, or any of them, did not acquire any competing theater by virtue of any combination, conspiracy or agreement upon the part of the defendants, to control, stifle competition, unreasonably restrain trade, or monopolize the exhibition of moving picture films in such situations. Such acquisitions were for lawful purposes and in the normal course of business, and in each such acquisition, the sale by the owner and operator was voluntarily made upon his part and was not occasioned by any threats, coercion or predatory act or practice upon the part of any of the defendants.

In the contracts of sale in which the defendants acquired theaters, there was frequently inserted a clause that the vendor was not to compete with the vendee for a specified time within a specified area, based upon the sale of the good will of the vendor, and in each situation the clause in the contract was reasonable as to time and territory, (except in the situation at Brady, Texas) and such agreements were for a lawful purpose and in conformity with the state statutes in such situations, and were not entered into by the defendants, or any of them, for the pur-
171 pose or with the effect of unreasonably restraining trade or commerce, stifling competition in, or monopolizing the exhibition of moving picture films in any such situations. In the contract of sale in Brady, Texas, the territory covered was unreasonable and the contract was void as to all territory covered except Brady, Texas. As to the time limit and the territory consisting of Brady, Texas, the clause in the contract was reasonable.

All joint operation contracts were partnership contracts and were entered into by the parties in good faith and for the purpose of economy and efficiency in operation caused by local conditions. Such contracts were not entered into with the intent or purpose of unreasonably restraining trade or commerce, stifling competition, or monopolizing the industry and they did not have any such effect. All such contracts were reasonable and the result of ordinary business dealing.

18

Griffith Amusement Company entered into what is designated as administrative contracts with its associates and with Consolidated Theatres, Inc., and its associates, by the terms of which it agreed to perform certain administrative services such as keeping all necessary books covering theater expenses; rendering the necessary auditing and bookkeeping services required in the management of theaters; making available preferred operating methods and exhibits and advertising plans; advising with managers of theaters in respect to advertising and exhibition of attractions; rendering tax and insurance services; acting as agent in licensing and booking of pictures and other attractions; furnishing transportation services in delivering film reels; and many other services, for all of which it received 172 four per centum of the gross receipts of such theaters so serviced. R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., entered into like contracts with its associates and its subsidiary, Westex Theatres, Inc., and its associates. These administrative agreements were entered into for legitimate purposes and were not entered into upon the part of any of the defendants with the intent or purpose of unreasonably restraining trade or commerce, stifling competition, or monopolizing the exhibition of moving picture films, and they did not have such effect. Such administrative contracts were not entered into or used by the defendants or any of them for the purpose of compelling or attempting to compel any distributor or distributors of motion picture films to license pictures to the defendants, or to grant the defendants any special privileges, or to unreasonably restrain, restrict or interfere with the licensing of moving picture films to any other exhibitors.

The defendants, or any of them, did not compel or attempt to compel any distributor named in the complaint to grant to them, or any of them, any privileges or concessions which were not granted to their competitors, or which gave them any substantial advantage over their competitors.

20

The defendants, or any of them, have not conspired or combined with each other, with their operating associates or with the distributors, for the purpose or with the effect to unreasonably restrain or restrict the terms upon which feature pictures were to be, or were, distributed by such distributors, or made available for exhibition in theaters competing with the defendants.

The evidence does not establish the existence of 173 any agreement, express or implied, between the defendants, or any of them, and any distributor which unreasonably restrains interstate commerce in moving picture films, and the licensing agreements between the defendants and the several distributors contain no agreement, privilege or concession which unreasonably restrains interstate commerce in moving picture films in the territory covered by the complaint.

22

There was no agreement between the defendants, or any of them, and any distributor which unreasonably prevented, restricted or restrained the licensing of feature pictures which were not used by the defendants.

23

The defendants, or any of them, did not monopolize or attempt to monopolize, the licensing or the supply of feature motion pictures for either first, second or subsequent run exhibition in any situation. The defendants licensed only such supply of pictures as they reasonably believed would be necessary in each situation to satisfy the demands of the public which they served.

24

In the operation of theaters, both the defendants and their competitors have indulged in the use of bargain prices, price reductions, policy changes and other ordinary policies usually practiced in such situations to secure patronage in their theaters, particularly in Ada, Enid, Seminole, Shawnee, Wewoka, Sapulpa, Oklahoma and Lubbock, Texas, and these practices were acts which normally flow from competition and particularly in abnormal times when competition becomes keen, such as existed during the period involved herein. The parties were equally responsible for such practices and none of such practices upon the part of the defendants, or any of them, was indulged 174 in with the intent or purpose to crush or destroy competition, but was done for the purpose of meeting in the ordinary and natural way the prices of rival exhibitors.

There was no agreement between the defendants, or any of them, with the distributors, or any of them, granting to the defendants, or any of them, in their theaters unreasonable clearances over the theater of a competitor.

26

In their contracts with the distributors, the defendants and their associates have not conspired or combined with each other to compel such distributors to grant to them the exclusive privilege of selecting feature pictures released by such distributors, as the defendants deemed suitable for exhibition in the situations where they operated theaters, as and when prints thereof became available, before said pictures were released or made available to any other exhibitor in such situation.

27

The defendant exhibitors did not conspire or agree to refrain from competing with each other in the acquisition and operation of moving picture theaters, or the exhibition of moving picture films, or to allocate territory among themselves in the territory or during the time covered by the complaint.

28

In the licensing of moving picture films, the terms and conditions under which such moving picture films were licensed for exhibition in every situation were dictated and controlled solely by the various distributors, and 175 the exhibitors of the films had no control over the terms and conditions granted.

29

The court finds generally that the defendant exhibitors have not conspired or combined with each other, or with Columbia, Fox, Loew's, Paramount, RKO, United Artists, Universal or Vitagraph, the distributors named in the complaint, to unreasonably restrain interstate commerce or trade, or to stifle competition, or to monopolize or attempt to monopolize the exhibition of such films in either first, second or subsequent runs of feature pictures, and the operation of first and second run theaters in the various towns and situations during the time covered by the complaint.

30

In support of findings of fact numbered, 12, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 25, 26, 28 and 29, without reciting the testimony of various witnesses in detail and thus unreasonably extending these findings, reference is made to the testimony of certain witnesses by pages of the record as follows: William J. Kupper, sales manager of Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation, pages 2344, 2347, and 2510; William F. Rodgers, General sales manager of Loew's, Inc., page 2307; Paul N. Lazarus, manager of Contract Department of United Artists Corporation, page 3656; Neil F. Agnew, Western sales manager for Paramount Pictures Distributing Company, pages 3484, 3486-3490, 3499 and 3500; Cradwell Sears, Vitagraph agent in charge of distribution, distributor for First National Pictures, Inc., and Warner Brothers Distributing Company, pages 2680-2682, 2696, 2701-2703, 2705, 2710 and 2714; Ned E. Depinet, RKO vice-president in charge of distribution, pages 2724, 2725, 2736, 2737, 2745 and 2746; Abraham Montague, vice-president, and general sales manager of Columbia Pictures Corporation, pages 2752-
176 2758; Frank J. A. McCarthy, Southern sales manager of Universal Pictures, pages 2733, 2763, 2773, 2776 and 2777; and H. R. Falls, purchasing agent for Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theatres, Inc., 1938 to 1946; pages 3190-3193, 3196-3198, 3202-3204, 3207-3213, 3215-3218, 3221, 3222, 3225, 3226, 3232, 3233, 3238, 3239, 3243, 3244, 3246, 3259, 3260, 3274-3276, 3278, 3279 and 3307.

Conclusions of Law

From the above and foregoing findings of fact, the court makes the following conclusions of law:

The defendant exhibitors, in their acquisition of theaters and interest therein, had no intent or purpose to build up or buying power to unreasonably restrain interstate commerce or trade, stifle competition, or to monopolize the exhibition of motion picture films, and said defendants have not by reason thereof violated Section 1 or Section 2 of the Sherman Act.

The defendant exhibitors, in the operation of their theaters, have not conspired, combined or agreed with each other, or with the distributors, or any of them, to unreasonably restrain interstate commerce in motion picture films in the various towns and territory covered by the complaint, and have not violated Section 1 of the Sherman Act.

The defendant exhibitors have not conspired, combined or agreed with each other or with the distributors, or 177 any of them, to monopolize, or attempt to monopolize, the exhibition of first and second-run feature pictures, in the various towns and territory covered by the complaint in which such defendant exhibitors operate theaters, and have not violated Section 2 of the Sherman Act.

The Court concludes generally that, due to the failure of the proof to establish by a fair preponderance of the evidence that the defendant exhibitors have conspired, combined and agreed among themselves, or with any distributor, or distributors, to unreasonably restrain interstate trade and commerce, stifle competition, or monopolize the exhibition of moving picture films in the various towns in the territory covered by the complaint during the time so covered, or attempted so to do, the defendants have not violated Section 1, and Section 2 of the Sherman Act, and by reason thereof, the issues generally are adjudged in favor of the defendants.

To all of which findings of fact and conclusions of law, exceptions are allowed the plaintiff.

Decree

Filed October 24, 1946

Now on this 24th day of October, 1946, this cause having come on for final hearing and rendition of judgment on the findings of fact and conclusions of law which were filed herein on the 9th day of October, 1946:

It is ordered, adjudged and decreed that plaintiff has established no violation of either Section 1 or Section 2 of the Sherman Act by the defendants, or either of them, and the plaintiff's prayer for relief under Section 4, Title 15, U. S. C. A. is denied. It is further ordered and decreed that the defendants, Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theatres, Inc., R. E. Griffith Theatres, Inc., Westex Theatres, Inc., L. C. Griffith and H. J. Griffith have judgment against the plaintiff dismissing the complaint upon the merits.

Petition for Appeal

Filed December 19, 1946

The United States of America, plaintiff in the above-entitled cause, considering itself aggrieved by the final order and decree of this Court entered on the 24th day of October, 1946, does hereby pray an appeal from said final order and decree to the Supreme Court of the United States. Pursuant to Rule 12 of the Rules of the Supreme Court the plaintiff presents to this Court herewith a statement showing the basis of jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to entertain an appeal in this cause.

The particulars wherein the plaintiff considers the order erroneous are set forth in the assignment of errors and prayer for reversal accompanying this petition and to which reference is hereby made.

Plaintiff prays that its appeal may be allowed and that citation be issued as provided by law, and that a transcript of the record, proceedings and documents upon which said final order and decree was based, duly authenticated, be sent to the Supreme Court of the United States under the rules of said Court in such cases made and provided.

Assignment of Errors and Prayer for Reversal
Filed December 19, 1946

The United States of America, plaintiff in the above-entitled cause, in connection with its petition for appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, hereby assigns error to the final order and decree of said District Court entered on October 24, 1946, in the above-entitled cause, and says that in the entry of the final order and decree the District Court committed error to the prejudice of the said plaintiff in the following particulars:

1. The Court erred in dismissing the suit against each of the defendants.
2. The Court erred in finding that none of the defendants had violated the Sherman Act.
3. The Court erred in finding that the defendants had not agreed to divide theatre-operating territory among themselves.
4. The Court erred in finding that the defendants did not condition licensing of films to one upon the licensing of films to others.
5. The Court erred in finding that the defendants did not intend to restrain competition unreasonably or obtain a monopoly in the areas where they operated theatres.
6. The Court erred in finding that the defendants Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theatres, Inc. combined their film licensing activities "for convenience, efficiency and economy of administration alone and for no other purpose."
7. The Court erred in finding that the defendants had no interest in each other's theatre acquisitions except as stockholders.

181 8. The Court erred in finding that in jointly licensing films the defendants did not combine or conspire to crush competition, compel or coerce any distributor or unreasonably restrain trade or monopolize motion picture exhibition in the area and during the time covered by the complaint.

9. The Court erred in finding that the defendant did not condition the licensing of films in any competitive situation upon the licensing of such films in any other situation, or in any noncompetitive situation upon the licensing of such films in any competitive situation.

10. The Court erred in finding that the defendants' admission price cutting, give aways, and other predatory practices were not intended to eliminate competition or create a monopoly.

11. The Court erred in finding that the defendants' acquisitions of competing theatres and agreements made in connection therewith were not intended to eliminate theatre-operating competition or create theatre-operating monopolies.

12. The Court erred in finding that the sales of theatres made by independent competitors to the defendants were free and voluntary and made without coercion.

13. The Court erred in finding that such sales were not occasioned or brought about by illegal acts of the defendants.

14. The Court erred in finding that the license agreements made between the defendants and the major film distributors did not unreasonably restrain competition in and of themselves.

15. The Court erred in finding that the competitive effects of said agreements was not unreasonably to restrain competition or create a monopoly.

182 16. The Court erred in finding that the terms of said agreements were dictated by the major distributors and that the defendants did not compel or attempt to compel such distributors to give them substantial advantages over their competitors.

17. The Court erred in finding that there was no conspiracy or combination among the defendants to eliminate competition or create a monopoly.

18. The Court erred in finding that there was no conspiracy or combination between the defendants and the major film distributors to eliminate competition or create a monopoly.

19. The Court erred in finding that closed theatres were not acquired or maintained by the defendants for the purpose of discouraging or eliminating competition.

20. The Court erred in finding that partnership agreements with independent operators were not made for the purpose of eliminating competition or creating a monopoly.

21. The Court erred in finding no agreement among the defendants not to compete with each other in operating theatres or licensing films.

22. The Court erred in finding that the independent competitors involved in the twenty-five towns covered by the oral evidence were not subjected to film licensing restrictions in the communities where they sought to operate as a result of a combination or conspiracy among the defendants to control the exhibition of films, stifle competition, unreasonably restrain trade or create a monopoly in said towns.

23. The Court erred in excluding testimony of independent theatre operators in said towns as to conversations with representatives of the major film distributors relating to the exhibition of their films in competition with theatres operated by the defendants.

24. The Court erred in excluding letters passing between these independents and the major film distributors relating to such exhibition.

183 25. The Court erred in permitting witnesses called by the defendants who had not negotiated with these independents for such exhibition to testify as to why such negotiations did not result in a contract.

26. The Court erred in excluding memoranda prepared by representatives of the major film distributors in the ordinary course of business and kept in their files which related to their negotiations of film licenses with the defendants and with independent exhibitors in competition with the defendants.

27. The Court erred in excluding prior written statements signed or authorized by defense witnesses which contradicted their testimony.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays that the final decree of the District Court dismissing the suit may be reversed and the cause remanded for entry of a decree finding that all of the defendants violated the Sherman Act and granting appropriate relief.

Reporter's transcript of hearing

Now on this 7th day of May, 1945, the above cause comes on for trial before Hon. Edgar S. Vaught, Judge, at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

APPEARANCES

Mr. Robert L. Wright, Special Assistant to the Attorney General; Milton A. Kallis, Special Assistant to the Attorney General; Mr. Posey T. Kime, Special Assistant to the Attorney General; Mr. John Brett, Assistant U. S. District Attorney, for the Government.

Mr. Charles B. Cochran, Mr. J. B. Dudley, Mr. Henry S. Griffing, all of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and Mr. L. M. Rice of Dallas, Texas, for the defendants.

195 PROCEEDINGS

10:00 o'clock a. m.

The COURT. Are the parties ready in No. 172?

Mr. WRIGHT. The plaintiff is ready.

Mr. COCHRAN. The defendants, Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theaters, Inc., and H. J. Griffith and L. C. Griffith, are ready.

Mr. RICE. The defendants, R. E. Griffith, Incorporated, and West-Tex theaters, Incorporated, are ready. The defendant R. E. Griffith is deceased.

The COURT. Has any order been made with reference to R. E. Griffith?

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't think so. I don't think his death at this time has been officially suggested of record. I assume, of course, he is automatically eliminated as a defendant.

The COURT. Let the record show that the death of R. E. Griffith having been suggested in open court the case is dismissed as to him. Now, gentlemen, we have had quite a few sessions in the nature of pre-trial conferences, a number of conferences on this case. I have spent quite a little time in the last few weeks going over this record and it seems to me that this trial can be very substantially shortened but I would like for the record a rather com-

196 plete statement by counsel of the Government's contentions as to the violations of this Act by each of the defendants, and after we get these statements then a similar statement from the defendants, and we can then make some further suggestions.

197 Statement on behalf of plaintiff

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, your Honor will recall this suit is one of a series of three that were filed by the Government in 1939, shortly after the interstate Circuit case was decided by the United States Supreme Court against three different groups of motion picture theater operators who combined their theaters together for film licensing purposes, each of those groups being known to the trade as a theater circuit. All of these three suits charge the various defendants with using the power resulting from combining their theaters together and buying films for the purpose of excluding theater operators outside the circuit from any opportunity to compete with the circuit theaters in licensing feature films distributed by the so-called major distributors. That power is referred to in the trade and in the complaint as the competitive buying power. The principal relief asked in all suits was the dissolution of each circuit in a manner which would deprive those theaters or circuits of that power. The case against the Crescent circuit, involving a group of motion picture operators operating theaters in small towns in Tennessee, Alabama and Kentucky, was finally decided in favor of the Government by the Supreme Court, last December. The case against the Schine Circuit a similar group to that operating in New York, Ohio, and Kentucky, was tried last year at Buffalo, New York, in the Federal Court, and is now under advisement in that court.

198 The defendants in this case are charged with using their circuit buying power to monopolize theater operations in a large number of towns in Oklahoma, West Texas and New Mexico. The corporate defendants are the Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theaters, Inc.

of this city and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and Wes-Tex Theaters, Inc., both of Dallas, Texas. The individual defendants are H. J. Griffith and L. C. Griffith of this city. As has been pointed out, Mr. R. E. Griffith was originally named as the other individual defendant, but he has died during the pendency of the lawsuit. In addition to the theaters that are wholly owned by the corporate defendant, the circuit includes a number of theaters operated by other companies.

199 I say, I shall refer to the whole group, First, the Griffith circuit, all of the circuit, although each of these defendant corporations, and its affiliated interests would be what are commonly referred to as a circuit in itself. The theory of the Government, briefly stated, is that these defendants have collectively acquired and used the film buying of the circuit with the purpose and effect to eliminate theater operating competition wherever they encounter it in these various towns involved in the complaint, and that such collective activity violates the Sherman Act under the principles announced by the Supreme Court in the Crescent case decided last December and the Interstate Circuit case decided before the case was filed, to which I previously referred. I think the most useful thing I could say at this time would be not to attempt to elaborate on the legal theory but to try and give your Honor a picture of the whole factual proof that the Government intends to put in which would enable you to follow all the evidence as we offer it.

The relationship of the various defendants to each other will be principally proved by interrogatory answers which have already been supplied by the various defendants. I think it is sufficient to say here that the four defendant corporations are interlocked through stockholdings and common officers. Mr. R. E. Griffith was, during most 200 of the period here involved, that is the five years preceding the filing of the suit, the president and general manager of the two Dallas companies. That is of Griffith Theaters, Inc., and the West-Tex, and I believe that Mr. L. C. Griffith was the president of the Oklahoma City companies during this period, and during most of the same period Mr. H. J. Griffith was the general manager of those companies. In general, it might be said that all of the theater operations in which the defendants were interested were operated as a single unit, insofar as film buying was concerned during the five year period preceding the filing of the suit with the exception of a period in 1938 when the Dallas companies made deals with some of the major distributors separately from those made by the Oklahoma City companies, but at no time have any of these defendants operated theaters in competition with each other.

The COURT. Do they operate in the same territory?

Mr. WRIGHT. In the same geographical territory, yes. They do not operate in opposition in any particular towns, although they have joint interests in many towns. In general, the theaters which are only partially owned by the defendants are operated by local partners except for the bookkeeping and the buying and booking of films which is handled by one of the defendant corporations. The arrangement under which those services are rendered 201 is generally in payment of a percentage of the gross receipts in the theaters in question, to one of the defendant corporations for those services, and both payments are charged as an operating expense, and then the net profits are divided between the local partners, and the defendants based upon the respective percentages of ownership in the theaters involved. The major sources of the feature film supply, that is to say the films which are the principal feature of the entertainment offered by these motion picture theaters are the eight companies which are respectively referred to as Columbia, Twentieth Century Fox, sometimes referred to as Fox; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, also referred to simply as M-G-M or Metro or Loew's; Paramount, RKO, Universal, United Artists, and Warner. During the period involved here the Warner films were distributed by a subsidiary, Vitagraph, Incorporated, and First National was also used to designate some of the films distributed by this company. All feature films produced by this company were generally released at weekly intervals throughout the year and grouped together for the purposes of sale in a one year period known as motion picture seasons and those seasons generally began in August or September of each year. That is, the designation of the 1934-1935 season, for example, would refer to the group of films to be released. That is, made available for 202 exhibition in theaters during the one year period beginning in August or September of 1934 and ending in 1935. The films were made available to exhibitors in the territory here involved, and for that matter, throughout the country, through branch offices called "film exchanges" which are separately maintained by each of these distributors but those which serve the areas we are interested in here were located principally at Oklahoma City and Dallas, although some of the area was served with respect to some companies by exchanges at Denver, Kansas City, Missouri and some other point.

203 Each of these offices, or exchanges, are in charge of a branch manager who has under him a group of salesmen soliciting the theaters in the area covered by his branch, and also a booker or bookers, whose duty it is to fix the dates when specific films will be available for exhibition in the theaters licensed and arrange for the delivery of the actual films themselves to the theaters in the territory with which the contracts were made. The form of contract used in making what is commonly referred to in the trade as a sale, of the film product, is actually a license agreement, under which the distributor retains title to the film used and merely grants to the exhibitor the privilege of using the positive print for exhibition in his theater for a specified period of time, after which the print is returned to the exchange for redelivery to another theater. In this way a large number of theaters are served with a relatively small number of prints, kept at each exchange. The negotiations for these license contracts with the small theater operators in the area is generally handled by the salesmen and branch manager, although they do not have authority to approve the contract, the method of negotiation with these exhibitors is generally with the salesmen or branch manager as to the right for a licensing agreement, as to the printed form, which specifies the terms, and so forth. Then, after the exhibitor
204 signs the license agreement, the exchange forwards it to New York City where the principal officers of all of these distributors are located, for rejection or approval there. If the contracts are approved, a copy is signed by the distributor and returned to the exhibitor and then prints are delivered to him in accordance with the terms of the contract, and arrangements are made from time to time with the booker at the exchange in question.

The Court. These defendant corporations, are they strictly exhibitors?

Mr. Wright. Yes, your Honor, the defendants are engaged only in the theater operating end.

The Court. They have nothing to do with production or distribution?

Mr. Wright. Of course, under our theory, they have a great deal to do with the distribution in the sense that we expect to show that the function of distributing films in this territory, by virtue of the contracts that were made, were virtually turned over to these theaters.

The Court. But they purchased them as exhibitors?

Mr. Wright. Yes, that's right.

The COURT. Now, these producers, do they limit their offer of the sale of these films to any particular class or group, or are they open to everybody?

Mr. WRIGHT. In general I think it is safe to say
205 the distributor desires to get the widest possible distribution of his films, and is interested in getting the maximum revenue out of any territory, and the obvious way to get the maximum revenue, would be to have the film exhibited and seen by as many people as possible.

The COURT. Do you contend that under the law the producer would have the right to sell his films to anyone that he desired?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is a qualified right, that's right, but it is subject to many limitations. He really does not have the right to refuse to sell films to some one simply because that person's competitor has asked them not to do it. I don't think there is any question about that.

The COURT. Suppose there are two theaters in a city and the producer desires to sell a picture, his feature picture to either one of them. Do you question the right of either one of them to enter into a contract for the purchase without regard to the other?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, not at all. We do insist that he does have the right to dispose of them competitively, but he must make them available under a competitive basis where competitive factors must be considered.

The COURT. Assume that there are five theaters in a city and here is an important picture which the producer 206 is offering for sale, do you contend that he would have to dispose of that to the highest bidder, or on what basis would the competition be?

Mr. WRIGHT. Normally, I suppose that in the ordinary course of business, he would first offer any particular film to an account that had been using his films on a particular run, and I suppose that if he could not make satisfactory agreement out of that account he would then offer it to another account.

The COURT. It is largely as any other commodity would be sold?

Mr. WRIGHT. It is quite different to an ordinary commodity, if the Court please. I was going to discuss the terms of the license agreement later on, but—I was going to continue on with the method of negotiation and then cover the terms of the agreement actually made. In dealing with large circuits of theaters, such as these defendants, which operate in several exchange territories, the negotiations are usually handled by the regional office executives, who have supervision over the territory involved, with the assistance, of course, of the branch manager, who supervises the performance of these contracts in their respective territories. In the ordinary license agreement made during this period, the films were generally designated simply as those to be released during a particular 207 season as contracts were frequently made before any of the pictures that were sold or licensed had been made. Generally the license only specifies the number that are covered by the license, and the terms are based simply on various classifications in which the numbers of films are to be placed when they are released. The license will just say two productions at thirty-five per cent, or four at $50 flat rental and so on down the line. Then those films are designated in those various brackets as they are released. These terms may be a percentage share arrangement or a fixed flat rental, or a guaranteed flat rental against the percentage of gross receipts that the theater takes in during the exhibition of the film. The printed agreement, and when I say form agreement, I don't want to be understood as suggesting that all these distributors use one printed form—there are variations in the forms used by all, but the characteristics that I am about to discuss are present in all of them. In those printed forms there is generally a space for the specified run, the clearance, and the particular theater or theaters in which the film is to be exhibited, and the minimum admission price that is to be charged during the time that that clearance is licensed or exhibited. The runs specified is usually designated simply as first, second, third, and so forth indicating the sequence in the towns in which the theater is located, and the theater which is licensed to exhibit the 208 picture. The clearance period specified in the license is generally a statement of the number of days that must elapse before the film shown on the run licensed may be exhibited in another theater in the town or on a later run or in some other town. The admission price provision is generally a statement of the minimum admission price that must be charged for children and adults respectively at matinee and evening performances respectively. The printed forms also provide for the maintenance of the admission prices specified in the contracts by the theater enjoying the particular run and clearance privileges granted by the license agreement. Of course, one obvious result of such clearance and admittance price restrictions is to prevent the subsequent showing of the film in a competing theater, and attracting business from the prior run theater. The clearance and admission price restrictions are in that sense a very particular protection from competition, which is granted to the prior run theater, and attracting business from the prior run theater. The clearance and admission price restrictions are, in that sense, a form of protection from competition which is granted to the prior run theater. Another form of such protection is found in provisions which prevent the distributor from licensing a run to a competing exhibitor on any terms after the conclusion of the run licensed to the prior exhibitors. In legal theory such restrictions have 209 been justified as essential to the distributors to exploit particularly the limited monopoly granted to him by the copyright law, as he owns the copyright on each of the pictures he distributes. However, it is obvious that restrictions of this character are subject to abuse if they are controlled by exhibitors instead of by the distributors under the copyright. Our proof will show that such restrictions have been used by the defendants in this suit to suppress competition of exhibitors who have attempted to compete with the circuit theaters. Some of these restrictions can be spelled out of the express terms of the agreement that these theaters collectively made with the major distributors. Others rest on implied agreement, which must be inferred from the conduct of the major distributors in dealing with the defendants and with their competitors during this period. The five-year period with which the complaint is primarily concerned begins with April, 1934 and ends with April, 1939, when this suit was filed. That, therefore, overlaps six motion picture seasons, and we shall offer in evidence the principal agreements which the circuit made with each of the distributors mentioned during those seasons, with the exception of United Artists.

The COURT. Are those uniform?

Mr. WRIGHT. I beg pardon?

210 The COURT. Are those contracts uniform?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, those agreements are not uniform. Those are specially negotiated typewritten agreements made by the defendants with each distributor. Your Honor may recall that the suit was originally filed, that in addition to the charge of conspiracy among these exhibitor defendants, there was a charge of conspiracy among the distributor defendants also, but that was eliminated from the complaint by us, and there is no charge that is to be tried of collective action by the various distributors, except, of course, as such action might have been produced by the concerted action of the defendants. With respect to each of these seven distributors we will show that during most or all of these six seasons their feature films were licensed to the circuit by the so-called master agreements which simply provided for the exhibition of the films in most of the towns where the circuits operated theaters for a blanket annual rental, which was allocated among these towns by the defendants, and the payment for the films was made in accordance with the allocations.

211 These agreements in each case included a substantial number of what are called closed towns, as well as towns in which there is competition. By "closed towns" I mean in which the circuit owns or operates all of the theaters. The competitive towns are those where someone operates in opposition to the theaters of the circuit. Of course, the aggregate rental for the circuit, involving as it did a very large number of towns, always greatly exceeded any particular rental which any single operator in any of these competitive situations might offer for films. These special agreements generally license the films for first run in all of the towns that were covered with the exception of Oklahoma City and Tulsa, which are not involved in the suit.

The allegations of the complaint are limited to the communities outside those large cities but they didn't specify any particular theater at which the film had to be played at any particular time. Generally, they would simply make a film available for use in the theater the circuit operated in these towns, and they also did not compel the independents to play the films in any particular order. In this connection, it should be noted that the printed license form on which the independents are normally licensed provide that the films must be played in the order of release. Frequently, under minimum admission prices as specified in the blanket agreements that were made with the de-

212 fendants, or if they were stated they were generally as low as any theater playing the film licensed to that run subsequent to the circuit theaters, would be permitted to charge. The result of this method of doing business was that no regular exhibition of major films on subsequent runs by exhibitors outside the circuit who operated theaters in the circuit's towns was possible. There is no way of determining when or under what conditions the films would actually be exhibited by the circuit theaters until either after the season in which they were released had ended or at such times during the season as the defendants might see fit to release or make available films which they had under contract. These contracts, I will not attempt to outline in any detail at this time, as I think each of them will speak for itself when it is offered. I will only summarize here the periods that were covered. As to Fox, Columbia and Warner, separate master agreements were made as to each of the six seasons, 1933-34 through 1938-39. As to Loew's, the pictures released through the 1933-34 and '34-35 seasons were served under the agreement called a franchise which covered the five seasons beginning with 1931-32. There were separate master agreements. Thereafter, a separate master agreement was made with Loew for each of these succeeding seasons. The circuit 213 deal was not made by these defendants with Paramount for the 1933-34 season and the three succeeding seasons were covered by another franchise made with it, and the '38-39 season was covered by master agreement made with the Dallas defendants, and with the Oklahoma City defendants respectively. A master agreement was made by the circuit for Universal for each of these six seasons except for the 1935-36 season. RKO made a master agreement with the circuit each season with the exception of 1934-35 and 1938-39 as to the Oklahoma City defendants. In 1938-39 Dallas bought RKO. The Oklahoma City companies did not. The five operating seasons were covered by another franchise which included both the Dallas and Oklahoma City companies. United Artists operated on a somewhat different basis from the other distributors that are involved here, and they do not produce the pictures that they release but merely act as a distributing agent for a number of producers, but generally make only a few films apiece of each season. They ordinarily sell, or sold the films they release on separate contracts made for the pictures produced by each distributor producer and did not sell any smaller groups than used by the other defendants, and they also released a much smaller number of pictures each season, generally from 15 to 20 or 25 as against the 50 or 60 features that these other distributors would release. However, in the 1937-38 season

214 a circuit deal was made for the United Artists product released during that season with the Oklahoma City defendant and a full deal was made for the 1938-39 season with all of the defendants. We expect, in short, to show by these contracts themselves that there was no opportunity for competitors of the circuit to make regular season deals for current films of these major distributors except during such seasons when these deals were not desired by the defendants for their circuit. In addition to the master agreement and the franchises which the defendants made with the major distributors, we will offer the testimony of independent theater operators intended to show the effect that this method of doing business had upon them. They fall into three general classes. First, those who attempt to compete with the circuit theater and then were either bought out by the circuit or joined it by a pooling arrangement. Second, those which were bought out by the pool before there was any opportunity for licensing discriminations to occur. As to those, the defendants acquired interests in more than 100 theaters during the four years immediately preceding the filing of this suit, and our proof will be limited to representative cities of each class. Third, those independents still in business who have attempted to compete with the defendants during the period in question. Most of those will be called as there are only a comparatively few number of 215 them left. The situations where the independents attempted to compete are of two general types. One where the circuit came into an independent town. That is the one where the independent was established, and two, where the independent entered the town where the circuit was established. In each case the circuit's buying power was used to prevent the independent from licensing major films, and to see that those they did get were licensed on the discriminatory terms which gave the circuit theaters unfair advantages.

The COURT. Did the defendant exhibitors have anything to do with the contracts made by the distributors and these independent exhibitors?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. The master agreements which we shall offer by their very terms imposed severe restrictions on agreements which the distributors could make with the independent competitors of the circuit. The form of this discriminatory treatment would sometimes be a refusal to license the independent opposition feature pictures which were not used by the circuit theaters at all, and sometimes they refused to license a subsequent run in the independent theater of product which the independent circuit used on a prior run. In other cases, the distributors would refuse to negotiate with the independent for a continuance of a run that he was then enjoying butw ould sell the run to the circuit with no opportunity for a competitive negotiation of any kind. In other words, 216 the license granted to the independent would compel the independent to charge admission prices for a run following the circuit theater which is as high or higher than the price charged by the circuit at prior exhibitions of the same pictures.

The COURT. Just in that connection, in order that I may understand, assuming that we have a very valuable picture, say, "Gone With The Wind", and the price is fixed for the first run on that picture. Now, if they were to contract to run that same picture at a later date at a greater reduced price, would not that affect the first run?

Mr. WRIGHT. Oh, inevitably. I suppose that the licensing of films on subsequent runs, but that in itself would affect the revenue received from prior runs. Generally, I think it will appear where a number of runs are licensed, however, that the normal practice is to have a purported admission price differential which is related to the value of the difference in value of the film to the public, as to whether it has the first chance to see it in the town or the second or third or fourth.

The COURT. Would the first chance to see the picture entitle the exhibitor to charge a higher price than the second chance?

Mr. WRIGHT. Normally the licensing agreement with the prior one, that the first run exhibitor will require him to charge a maximum price, which is the highest 217 price charged in the town, or area in which there are tentative theaters involved.

The COURT. For instance, here is a downtown theater which runs this picture "Gone With The Wind." I merely use that as an illustration, and they have a charge we will say of 25 cents. Now, say there are some fifty theaters out in the outlying sections of the city which the people attend, and if they found out that they could see that picture for 15 cents 60 days later or 90 days, and they were permitted to run that picture say at 15 cents instead of 25, would not that affect the first run?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it probably would but I suppose the theory on which the distributor would license several runs of the picture in every situation is that he can better his over-all revenue he gets from the area by having it shown in a number of theaters instead of one theater on an exclusive run, although it may cut down the receipts. I suppose the receipts of the prior run theater would be less under any subsequent run arrangement than if he were given an exclusive first run.

The COURT. Suppose the producer or distributor makes a contract for exclusive showing of a picture in a town. Do you think that would be a violation of the Act?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it would depend on the circumstances under which it was made. I can conceive 218 of situations in which I think an exclusive run might be perfectly proper. In no case would the regular season deal for first run product which the circuit had been playing be offered to independent competitors, except in the season when the defendants declined to make a split deal which was confined to the area interest I have already noted and the exceptional years in which some of these distributors did make a circuit deal with the defendants. In cases where independent theaters were acquired by the circuits, that is, interests in independent theaters were acquired by the defendants prior to any actual theater competition between them in the same town, the defendants' known power to control the film supply in the seller's town was sufficient to induce him to sell the pool his theater prior to an actual demonstration of what that control could do to him in his town. In such cases a mere suggestion that the defendants were going into the independent town if he didn't sell or pool was generally enough to induce a sale to the defendants and pool his theater with the circuit.

Our proof will also show the manner of the defendants' control of major film supply exercised collectively through the making of these circuit deals, and they will then determine how many films a town ought to take and how many a theater ought to get and what the admission prices should be. In conclusion, I think it must be said 219 there cannot be any real dispute as to the actual extend to which the defendants succeeded in eliminating theater competition in the towns where theaters in the circuit are operated or the agreements which were in effect made with respect to terms on which films were to be licensed between them and the major distributor in these written agreements. Similarly, there cannot be much dispute as to the licenses made between the independent competitors and the same distributors. As we said in the trial briefs we filed in December, 1943, from the acquisition of these theaters, it is apparent from the terms of these master agreements and franchises which made them possible, that these agreements with major distributors are illegal per se. By offering the testimony of complaining witnesses in addition to these agreements, such additional proof is necessary, in our view, because the relief sought here is not merely an injunction against the making of such agreements by defendants in the future, but actual dissolution of the defendants, circuit as well.

The Court. In that connection, let me get your theory. Do you question the legal right of the circuit to deal with the distributors or a number of theaters?

Mr. WRIGHT. Why, I think it depends again on the circumstances under which the deal was made. The purpose and effect of the deal would determine its legality. I suppose if there were no competitors involved and it was simply a means of saving film rental, there might be nothing illegal in that, but that is not the case we have here.

The COURT. Supposing with that condition existing an independent theater owner said "Well, I am going to enter a town where the circuit has exclusive control at this time." What would you say as to the effect upon him?

Mr. WRIGHT. I should say the theory of the Sherman Act is that anybody should have an opportunity to enter any town, at least compete with the man who is there for the privilege of licensing film.

The COURT. But if the other man has a contract for the exclusive showing of a picture in that town, do you think that contract then should be violated in order to give the new man an opportunity to show the picture?

Mr. WRIGHT. If he has an exclusive contract of that kind I think it would depend on the circumstances under which that contract had been made. If that contract had been made for the purpose of excluding people from entering those towns, I should say that was not a valid agreement and that it would not be a proper excuse for refusing to serve the independents. I think that is the situation we have here. In short, we expect to show by the testimony when taken as a whole that the competitive opportunities, theater operations that the Sherman Act was intended to guarantee not only illegally eliminated in the circuit towns in the five year period preceding the filing of this suit by this agreement, but that these opportunities cannot be restored until the defendants are compelled to divest themselves of theater holdings illegally acquired and dissolve the ties which bind their 200 theaters under any film buying and each of their theaters stand on its own feet in competing for films. That is all I have.

The COURT. The defendants may make their statement.

Statement on behalf of defendants

Mr. COCHRAN. Unless your Honor particularly desires to have our statement at this time we would like permission to reserve our statement. The statements which have been made by counsel for plaintiff have been largely general statements such as we have in the trial brief and do not offer the opportunity for a statement by the defendants relative to the facts expected to be proved in each particular situation. Now, I think it would be of much more value to your Honor if we reserved our statement until we see just what testimony is produced as a result of this general statement. We attempted to get particulars for a long period of time and we still do not have them in this statement of facts.

The Court. What the Court has in mind is, the Court has to determine sooner or later what the law suit is 222 about. The plaintiff has stated in rather general terms its theory of the case and the Court would prefer to have some statement, even though it might be general, as to the position of the defendants with reference to the claims made by the plaintiff. I think it would be helpful to the Court in understanding the issues.

Mr. Cochran. Very well. At the outset it will be our contention that the Griffith Amusement Company was the outgrowth of the exhibition of motion pictures by the Griffith Brothers starting in a very small way down in Texas, in probably about 1917, or maybe before. There were three of these brothers, L. C. Griffith, R. E. Griffith and H. J. Griffith. R. E. Griffith is now deceased. The other two are living. The Griffith Amusement Company was organized about 1926 or 1927, and at that time the three Griffith boys were operating several theaters in Oklahoma and a few in the state of Texas; operating them as acquired. The corporation over the next few years acquired additional theaters. Its activities and acquisitions practically ceased along about 1932 or '33. At the time of the organization of the Griffith Amusement Company there was a corporation organized, I think, under the laws of the State of Delaware known as Universal Chain Theatrical Enterprises which was organized for the purpose of acquiring interests over the United States in theaters just as an investment 223 proposition and a deal was made by the Griffith Brothers with this concern whereby the Universal Theatrical Enterprises would advance a certain sum of money which would be used in the acquisition of theaters by the Griffith Amusement Company. The control of the operations of this Griffith Amusement Company was by the contract placed in the Griffith Brothers. In other words, they did not permit this outside corporation to have the control of the operation of those theaters. The idea of Griffith Brothers in acquiring these various theaters was, of course, to make profitable investments. At that period the motion picture industry, although it had been in existence for probably ten years, was still in the period of uncertainty, we might say, and also in the pioneering stage, particularly in the state of Oklahoma. At that time there were very few first class places of exhibition outside of the principal cities. This corporation acquired its interest primarily in the smaller towns in Oklahoma, the thought being they would be able to bring to these towns theaters and physical equipment of the type and character which would give the people of the smaller towns the opportunity to enjoy the same type of amusement, of motion pictures, as the people in the cities, and that prices would be such as would enable them to see these pictures. Their idea was that a venture of that kind would prove to be successful replacing what was at that time commonly referred to as the "shotgun" type of operation. That is where 224 they would take a store building and move such equipment as they had in and out and place a few chairs in there and a screen and without much other equipment to install a projector and exhibit motion pictures. Also, they had in mind that in the state of Oklahoma, as in some of the other southwestern states, there were periods when one section of the state or one section of the community would be enjoying prosperity and other sections would be going through dust storms and drouth and so forth, and that a spreading of the investment would offer an opportunity to better cope with these conditions which were periodically occurring and which might bring disaster to a person operating in one section alone.

These acquisitions, as I have stated, were continued until along about 1932 or '33 when the Universal Theatrical Enterprises got into financial difficulties, and had to commence to sell off the interests which it had in theaters in the various parts of the country. It held on to its interest in the Griffith Amusement Company until about 1934 when the properties were ordered sold at a receiver's sale, or a bankrupt sale, and at that time Mr. L. C. Griffith decided that he wanted to make this an entirely local or state owned operation and get away from any outside connections whatever, and so he brought in capital and 225 raised the amount of money that was necessary to acquire the interests that had been outstanding in the Universal Theatrical Enterprises, and that stock was acquired and since that time the ownership has been entirely in the Griffith Brothers and in those people who were brought in, at that particular time, living in various places in Oklahoma. I believe all of them live in Oklahoma at this time, and there has been very little change in the stock ownership in the Griffith Amusement Company during that period of time. Along in 1930 or 1931, Universal Chain Theatrical Enterprises declined to put up any additional money under the terms of this contract, so for a while the Griffith Brothers in acquiring new interests where an opportunity came to purchase a theater which looked like a good investment, they would place that before the Universal Chain Enterprises and give them an opportunity to come in as a Griffith Amusement Company investment, and if they declined to do so, then the Griffith Brothers, if they desired to make the investment, went ahead and acquired the property. Those properties, so acquired, became the neuclus of all the Consolidated Theaters, Inc., the name of which is now Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Inc. The ownership of the stock in that company is also entirely local with the exception of the interests which R. E. Griffith or R. E. Griffith Theaters has in that corporation.

Those acquisitions have continued to some extent
226 on down to the present time, although there have been comparatively few acquisitions since the filing of this suit, and in connection with the development of these theaters, I think it is important that the Court bear in mind that the motion picture industry has been a developing industry. Changes have been numerous and important. As I said a moment ago, at first the exhibition of motion pictures started off in any kind of a building with a few chairs, and a screen and projecting machine.
227 To a large extent, until Griffith Amusement Company started acquiring and improving and building theaters in this state, that was the type of exhibition that existed in most of the smaller towns in this state.

Upon entering the theater business in this state, the Griffith Amusement Company commenced to remodel and to build additional theaters throughout the state, and have built theaters which have furnished the small towns with places of amusement which compare favorably with places of amusement in the larger cities.

Then in those days, the exhibition of pictures was the exhibition of silent films. We have been accustomed for a long time to talking films, but those were the days of the silent films. There were several companies, producing films, but in the early days those films would be sold to some person exhibiting films or to some person who had some kind of an exchange in a local area, and he, in turn, would sell those pictures or license those pictures to various persons engaged in the motion picture industry. At that time there were very few of the companies, which are now engaged in the distribution of motion pictures, engaged even in the production of pictures. There have been great changes in the production and the distribution and in the companies engaged in it during that period of time. Before the end of the silent days, however, the producers of motion pictures, most of them, decided that it 228 would be more economical and that the public could be better served if they would arrange for the distribution and licensing of their own pictures, and so several of the companies who were engaged in the production business, at that time, embarked on the distribution of motion pictures and established in cities, such as Oklahoma City, Dallas, and Kansas City, throughout the United States, exchanges which, as Mr. Wright has explained, were in charge of a local manager, and through which these producers would distribute the pictures which they produced, the contract being made, and made only, upon the approval of some home office executive, and not by the branch manager. Some of the companies that had been engaged—some of the larger companies that had been engaged in the exhibition of pictures entered on the production and distribution of pictures, and so finally the pattern developed where there were several companies engaged in the distribution and exhibition of motion pictures.

In this particular area there have been very few theaters operated by companies which are engaged in the production and distribution of motion pictures. Exhibition companies of that kind are referred to as affiliated or producer-owned circuits. Outside of Okhahoma City, I believe there is no operation of theaters by any concern that is connected with any producer or distributor. The 229 Griffith Amusement Company, the Consolidated Theaters, the Wes-Tex and the R. E. Griffith Theaters have no connection whatever with any producer or distributor.

Along in 1928, or about that time, talking motion pictures were produced, whereby there was a synchronizing of sound with the exhibition of the motion picture. That development was something new, and something which brought great debate in the industry as to whether it would be a success or whether it would be a failure. The initial exhibition of pictures with sound effects were not any too successful. The sound equipment was patented and the installation of the equipment of that kind was extremely expensive. The question came to the producer and distributors as to whether they were going to acquire licenses and produce talking pictures, or whether they were going to stay with silent pictures. The controversy was very heated. During the year of 1928 Warner Brothers was, I believe, the first to successfully produce a talking motion picture, and it was the first to put on the market the season's product of talking pictures. That was for the season of 1928-29. The other companies were not prepared to go ahead at that time, and it was not until the following season that the other major producers of that day were able to offer any substantial number of talking pictures.

From the exhibition angle the question immedi-
230 ately presented itself to the various exhibitors as to whether that particular exhibitor was going to make the investment which was necessary, if he was to exhibit talking pictures, and that was a very serious problem. Griffith Amusement Company has, throughout the history of its operation, and the other companies operated by them or any or all of the Griffith brothers, have always been willing to back their judgment with money, if they could acquire the money, to go ahead. They believed in the future of these talking pictures, and they immediately commenced to take advantage of what they thought to be a turning point and a great change in the exhibition of motion pictures. They arranged just as rapidly as they could to install sound equipment in their theaters. They were among the first in this state, Oklahoma City and Tulsa not excepted, to make contracts with the holder of the patent for the installation of talking equipment. And we find in the towns in which they operated their patrons were enabled, almost as soon as the patrons in any city, in Oklahoma City, to see and hear Al Jolson in his first talking picture that was presented, and which was such a great hit, a production of Warner Brothers licensed by Vitagraph, I believe.

That development in the motion picture industry presented another opportunity. Here were these exhibitors 231 who were either not properly financed or who were unwilling to venture further investment which would have to be made on talking pictures who tried for a time to operate their theaters on silent basis and found it to be unsuccessful and unprofitable, and who desired to sell out. Griffith Brothers took advantage of the opportunity which was presented to acquire theaters which they thought would be a profitable investment, and so additional theaters were acquired. At that time it was believed, and we believe it still the law, that they had the perfect right to acquire these theaters, that it was a legitimate business, and the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States had specifically held there is no objection to the size, there is no objection to the person who has judgment and foresight and initiative and courage, to spread out, and not limit his operations to one particular area, and certainly this record will abundantly reveal that Griffith Brothers possessed all of these qualifications. It will further reveal that they did not exhibit, during that period of acquisition or since that time, the various practices which were found to exist in the Crescent case, which Mr. Wright referred to, and which was the basis of the holding of the Court that certain relief should be granted in that particular instance.

About this time, the time of the development of the talking picture, or probably shortly thereafter, we 232 had a further development in the motion picture industry where the producers started to advertise their various stars in order to build up say, Will Rogers, or Shirley Temple or Al Jolson, or those various stars who were under contract with the several producers, to build up for them such a reputation that there would be a desire on the part of the public to see and hear those particular stars, and therefore a demand on the part of the public that the exhibitor produce that particular star for their benefit. As a part of the exploitation of these stars some distributor developed the idea of what is commonly referred to in the industry as block booking, probably a rather inaccurate expression, but the producers, some individual producer in the first instance, desirous of taking the greatest possible advantage of his stars, would condition the licensing of his better pictures showing these stars, that the public desired to see, conditioning the licensing of those pictures on an agreement that the other pictures of stars of lesser value or persons who were not stars at all would be licensed, and probably other product of that particular producer. In other words, each produced started into the licensing of just as much of his product, features, Western, two-reel subjects, news, and so forth, as it possibly could, but no producer had enough of the feature product to supply any one theater. Probably they had an idea at one time,
233 some producer did, that it would produce enough profit, but anyhow it didn't happen. That venture on the part of the producer, which started it, I don't remember which one it was that started it, that venture was followed by others, by other producers in the industry, and it has been sustained as being legal by the Circuit Court of Appeals in the case which involved Paramount Theaters. They sustained that method of licensing pictures, that is, that they had a right to attempt to sell all of their product to an exhibitor before they attempted to sell anything else than the entire amount of their product. Also the other producers were in competition with Paramount and with each other in attempting to license their product, and the various smaller companies. At that particular time, I think Paramount, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Warner Brothers and Fox, and RKO, were among the so-called major producers and distributors of motion pictures. There were other companies that were producing a large number, but they were not generally recognized as being quite as large, but nevertheless they had pictures, which were perhaps just as good, but they were coming on. It has been by competition between the various producers and distributors that there has been a development where companies have risen from a small beginning to larger producers, and that has continued. We have in recent years, other companies, the Republic, PRC., Monogram, Grand National,

234 and other companies that are coming along by a process of growth and development, natural growth and development in the industry, and are producing pictures and offering them to the public. The point I desire to particularly emphasize is the fact that the exhibitor, whether it was one of these distributors or someone else, in the licensing of motion pictures had to try to adjust itself to conditions which existed in the industry over which it had no control. It was a growing industry, a developing industry, and it had to do the best it could, under conditions under which pictures were made available.

Most of these producers at that time wanted to license their pictures at the beginning of the season, or as near the beginning of the season as possible, in order that they might have contracts which they could use for the purpose of raising money, most of which they were borrowing, and I think most of them still borrow large amounts of money that go into these costly productions of pictures. They would license these pictures in advance production of the pictures for the season, specifying the number. It was a practice over which the exhibitors had nothing to do, and which, if the exhibitors had had anything to do with, it probably would have vetoed it because they naturally would prefer not to have what was commonly referred to in the industry as blind buying or blind selling, that is 235 the selling or licensing of these pictures by the producers, a season's product, without knowing what the picture was going to be like. But that was the condition in the industry. These defendants had nothing whatever to do with it.

Going back, far back in the history of licensing of motion pictures, and incidentally all of these motion pictures are copyrighted, they are works of art, and are copyrighted, and as Mr. Wright stated, they are merely licensed to the exhibitor—going away back in the history of the industry, the pictures have been licensed on a series of runs where more than one run is to be exhibited in a town. The first exhibition is commonly referred to as the first run of the picture. In a town such as Oklahoma City there may be fifteen runs, each being licensed on some basis which will enable the subsequent run to follow the runs which proceed it. In a place like Shawnee, say, there will probably be three or four runs now, speaking as of this date. In a town like, say, Maud, Oklahoma, only one run is licensed in a town, and so forth.

The runs which would be licensed in a town prior to the entry of the consent decree in 1940, in the case of United States vs. Paramount and the other distributors, was determined entirely by the particular distributor, the individual distributor. That distributor might decide that he didn't want but one run of his picture in Oklahoma 236 City, and if that was his position or decision, he had a perfect right, under the law, not to license but the one run of his picture. Or that distributor might decide that a picture like "Gone With the Wind" that he is going to first bring it on as a road show, and make terms and conditions under which he would guarantee the exhibitor that that picture would not be returned at all until say a year or two years after the exhibition of that road show. And there would be various other terms and conditions, all of which that distributor had the perfect right to impose under his copyright. He didn't have to license it at all, he owned that copyright, and owning the copyright he could dispose of a part or all of it, and dispose of it under the conditions which he wanted to dispose of it on.

The COURT. Is it your theory, say that here is a valuable picture shown in Oklahoma City, we will say the distributor decides to exhibit it at the State Theater, now if some of the other theaters in the city want to run that particular picture, is it your contention that they have or have not the legal right to demand that they have that picture to run?

Mr. COCHRAN. Prior to the consent decree there was no legal right in any exhibitor to have the picture on any run, and that was exhibited by another exhibitor, to have it on a run subsequent to that time, he had no right—237 in other words, that right was in the owner of that copyright.

The COURT. When was that consent decree?

Mr. COCHRAN. November 20, 1940. In that consent decree it was provided in substance, it recognized the theory of licensing pictures on runs, but it provided that unless for good cause shown each of the five company distributors who were parties to that decree, must license its product on some run to any exhibitor in any town desiring that product. That was by reason of an agreement between the parties and it was entered into by the five distributors who were parties to the consent decree. Universal, Columbia, and United Artists, although parties to the suit, were not parties to the decree, and the order was never made as to them, but as to the others, that is the order, and it has been complied with since that time. The decree provides that in the event a party claims he is entitled to a run and it has been denied him, that he makes his application for arbitration and it is heard and the machinery is set up whereby the determination is made as to whether or not he is entitled to a particular run, and whether or not he has the right to make the demand under the particular circumstances existing in that town.

The distributors, during that period prior to November 1940, went through several different periods in 238 regard to their methods of determining what runs they would license in a particular situation, or rather not particular situations, but under certain conditions, and various distributors had different ideas in regard to that matter. These are practices that the distributors decided upon and the exhibitor had no control over it whatever.

For instance, there was a time when one of the distributors decided that in certain of its towns, I think probably that does not enter into any situation that is involved in this suit, but in certain of its towns, it decided it was going to sell an exclusive run, that it was not going to license its product to any other exhibitor in the town. That was not stopped by reason of any governmental action; it was not stopped because it was a violation of law; it was stopped simply because that distributor decided that that was not the best way to handle its business. It was trial and error proposition, and after they tried it, it was abandoned.

Also some of these distributors had, at another time, a practice that they would not license more than one run in a town of less than a certain population, unless the conditions in that town showed that an exception should be made. That may be considered as a rather arbitrary method of fixing the thing, whether or not it is, these defendants have nothing to do and had nothing to do with that 239 practice; it was a practice that existed and applied both to these defendants and everybody else. I think that practice continued probably until the time of the consent decree and was one of the things that caused the Government to desire to have the agreement that they would not apply that particular rule. Anyhow it was departed from, so you have those various stages, and you may have other various methods that entered into the picture.

Back around 1930 the distributors of motion pictures had what is commonly called a standard form of exhibition contracts. Two of the provisions in that standard form of contract were attacked by the Government in suits brought under the anti-trust law, and the Supreme Court of the United States, somewhere in the early 1930's, held that those provisions of the standard contracts were illegal restraint of trade.

The distributors were acting at the time they drew that complaint, the history will show, they were acting under advice from counsel who were giving them the benefit of their best judgment under the decisions that existed at that time, and they thought those were proper restraints. They proved to be wrong. There again the distributors had nothing to do with it; they simply had licensed their pictures pursuant to the terms of those contracts as long as they were sued.

240 As soon as this decision came out, or even prior to that time, I believe as soon as the government questioned that practice by the filing of the suit, that the distributors, several distributors abandoned that standard form of contract, and each of the companies through their legal department produced its own version of a printed form of contract.

Those forms of contract have been changed from time to time for each of the years involved in this case. Some of the companies have a different form of contract; some of the distributors have made changes only two or three times during that period. I think that since the consent decree was entered, that each and every one of the distributors have changed their printed form of contract in the licensing of motion pictures, and none of the distributors have any set formula or price. In other words, they would have a difficult job, the OPA would, in marking up a ceiling price on a motion picture, because there had been no fixed price over the years. The licensing of motion pictures from the very beginning of the industry has been a matter of bargaining between the individual exhibitor and the individual distributor. The witnesses commonly refer to it as a horse-trading proposition. The distributor starts in with the idea that he wants to license to an account that he has decided to sell. Mind you, as your Honor suggested, there is no duty or obligation that this motion pic-

241 ture of the season's product of any company shall be placed on the auction block. They are not licensed that way. But even if the law required it, so far as the defendant exhibitors are concerned, they have no control of it, but the law does not require it.

The COURT. What do you say to this: Suppose, say in Oklahoma City the Criterion, dealing with a distributor, and makes a contract for its picture, and he wants to impose a condition say that that picture will not be shown in certain other theaters, what do you say to a contract of that kind?

242 Mr. COCHRAN. Your Honor, answering it directly with the privilege of an explanation, I will say that an exhibitor has the privilege of making that identical contract. The Government, I imagine, will contend that he has not.

Now, in the Interstate case, the United States versus the Interstate Amusement Company, the court there held the exhibitor did not have the right to enter into an agreement with the distributor that it would not license a picture to the opposition if it were to be played on a double bill. That is where two features were to be played on the same bill. There the distributor entered into an agreement with the Interstate that it would not license its picture to some opposition theater to be played on a double bill. Also in that case I believe the agreement provided that it would not be licensed to an opposition theater to be played for less than a certain down price. The Court held that those agreements were not agreements which were properly a part of the copyright privilege. In other words, they went too far there because there the exhibitor who had the product licensed on certain runs was attempting to prescribe that the picture should not show on a double bill or should not show for the minimum admission, but the courts recognize that so far as provided that the picture was not to be exhibited by the opposition until a certain period had 243 expired, which is known as clearance, and that conditions of that kind they have the absolute right to impose those conditions, and I maintain they have also held that it is a proper part of the copyright, that they can say "We are going to license this picture entirely and exclusively to one person." That is largely academic in this case because I think we are not going to have any such a situation of that kind. I say that our theory is in this case that there will be no competent evidence showing or tending to show that these defendants, or either of them, have imposed any conditions on the licensing of product by a distributor to their opposition. In other words, the limitations that have been placed in these contracts have been limitations that have been placed by the distributor in making its deal with the opposition or refraining from making its deal with the opposition.

Going back for a moment, as I say, the individual exhibitor has a right to bargain for the best terms he can obtain, and the distributor has the right to get the very best terms it can, and the changes are, from our standpoint, that the distributor has exacted terms from us that have been harsh and they have exacted from opposing theaters terms that have been harsh, but we are not in any way responsible for those terms. I mean the terms imposed on the opposition, and so far as we are concerned, we 244 obtained the very best contract that we could, from a standpoint of terms and conditions which are recognized as legal and binding provisions.

Going back and stating our theories in regard to some of the things that have been stated here by counsel for the Government, I will answer first the proposition that it is charged that there was an agreement between these several corporations for allocation of territory, and that they would not compete with each other. We say that there was no such agreement. The history of the development of these corporations will show why it is that the Griffith Amusement Company is operating in certain towns and why the Consolidated Theaters Company happens to be operating in other towns, and why it is that R. E. Griffith Theaters is operating in certain towns and the Wes-Tex in other towns. Generally speaking, and just as a general historical background, L. C. Griffith and R. E. Griffith, who were the older brothers, and H. J. Griffith, the youngest of the three, were acting jointly in the management of the Griffith Amusement Company and the Consolidated Theaters. I mean so far as the actual administration of the companies was concerned, up until about 1930. I may be off a year or two on some of those propositions. During that period of time, R. E. Griffith was what was known as a buyer of pictures. That is, he was the man who 245 was recognized as the best equipped to deal with and cope with the highpowered salesmen of these national distributors of motion pictures in trying to arrive at a deal acquiring and licensing motion pictures. He was recognized as a man of fine ability in that particular line. The distributors all recognized him as being a hard trader, but they also recognized that his companies which he had represented since the organization of the first companies, and the partnership which it had represented since about 1917 in dealing with these various companies, that when their contracts were made that they could rest assured they were going to be fairly carried out. There were adjustments made and modifications made, but they were made on the basis of the contract being deviated from only if a mutual and satisfactory agreement could be entered into. About 1930 or 1931, for personal reasons, which I think it will not be necessary to go into, it was decided by L. C. Griffith and R. E. Griffith that they should go their separate ways. Rather, that R. E. Griffith should cease to be connected with the management of the Griffith Amusement Company and the Consolidated Theaters. At that time R. E. Griffith disposed of his ownership of stock in the Consolidated Theaters Company. He maintained his investment in the original company. He also maintained his connection as a director, and I believe an officer of that company but he left Oklahoma City. He 246 moved to Roswell, New Mexico, and when he disposed of his interests in Consolidated Theaters it was largely an exchange whereby Consolidated Theaters traded to him for his stock in Consolidated the theater interests which it had in Roswell, Clovis, Hobbs and possibly some other New Mexico towns.

Now that was the beginning of the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc. Then R. E. Griffith left what we call at the present time the L. C. and H. J. Griffith Association, or the Griffith Brothers Association here at Oklahoma City, and went into a new territory with the idea of starting anew for himself. I think after that he probably went to Denver for awhile and then finally went to Dallas, Texas, where his home was at the time of his death, and where the home of R. E. Griffith Theaters and Wes-Tex Theaters is. R. E. Griffith was a genius along certain lines, a man of great ability, a man of great weaknesses and a great plunger, a gambler if you please, so far as the industry was concerned, having the greatest confidence in the world in the industry and its future, and in his ability to meet the situations as they came up. He borrowed money and bought theaters. He expanded his R. E. Griffith Theaters Company. Then the time came when he wanted to expand still further and it was deemed advisable that he organize the Wes-Tex. I am getting on to the other part of the defense and I may not have this exactly correct but generally speaking it is. He 247 organized the Wes-Tex Theaters which had other ownership and money came in from other sources in addition to that, which he could borrow and which he had in it. After he left the Griffith Amusement Company organization, or after he left Oklahoma City, the question came up as to his participation, future participation in the licensing of product for the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated. Up to that time, as I will explain to you, he was the principal buyer and Horace Falls was his first assistant. L. C. Griffith and his associate in the operation of the Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated, decided that Horace Falls, and I believe that H. J. Griffith should take over the buying for the Griffith Amusement Company, and Consolidated. R. E. Griffith was going to buy for the R. E. Griffith Theaters but contended that because he still had an investment in the Griffith Amusement Company, that he should stay in and participate in the licensing of the pictures for that company, and he did so for some years, the licensing of the pictures being negotiated by R. E. Griffith and Horace Falls and for a period by H. J. Griffith. There was no thought at that time or at any other time that by licensing pictures all at the same time for the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated and R. E. Griffith Theaters, and then later Wes-Tex, there was no thought of any coercion or intimidation of any distributor, and 248 there was none. These distributors were all national organizations. While the amount of rentals which were paid on these licensing contracts by the Griffith circuit were substantial amounts, nevertheless, so far as the total amount of rentals received by any or either of these distributors in their national licensing of pictures, it was just a small amount so there was no thought, there was no purpose or intent of using the so-called buying power or in combining the licensing of these pictures in order to coerce or intimidate, or as counsel has said in his trial brief, boycotting, and there was none. The joining of these companies was a matter of convenience. First let me say, up until recent years there had been no difference in the way the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theaters, R. E. Griffith Theaters and Wes-Tex licensed in 1937-38 from the way Griffith Brothers licensed their pictures when they had a circuit of two towns or when they had a circuit of 25 towns or a circuit of 15 towns and when Griffith Amusement Company had a circuit of 22 towns and R. E. Griffith had a circuit of say 20 towns. No difference whatsoever. It was the same way of handling and no more coercion, no more power by reason of the number of theaters they had to force terms, force conditions, force schedules of competitors or anything of that kind. Counsel has referred to the fact that they combined and made 249 so-called master contracts. Now, up until about 1931-32 there were none of these so-called master contracts made. Separate contracts were written for each of the towns but they were negotiated all at the same time. In other words, if you are dealing with Paramount and trying to license pictures for 15 towns you are certainly not going to consume the time in making an absolute separate deal in regard to each one of them. I mean by that, set up a separate date and talk to Shawnee and another date and talk to Norman. You are going to go ahead with the entire deal bargaining in regard to the whole thing as one proposition, and initially they made just several contracts, beginning about 1931-32 with one or two of the distributors. When they made this deal they simply wrote a letter and said "Here is the substance of the agreement which we have entered into after negotiating in regard to all these towns", and they made a memorandum. That is all, these so-called master agreements are. They are memoranda of the agreements which had been negotiated with the understanding that as the branch manager had time he would write out a separate contract for each one of these situations and they would become the contract gotten under the memorandum. Other companies adopted that policy later. Probably Griffith thought it was a good idea. However it came about that was the way it was handled. Some of the companies later instead of writing their separate contracts first wrote a little memorandum contract, and then they wrote a contract in more detail but relating it to all the various towns. There is no difference in the way those contracts were made than a separate contract made for each individual town. The bargaining was done in the same way, but it is just a situation such as if you and I were representing some oil company in regard to the drilling of a well, we would sit down with our clients and decide on the essential terms of the contract, and then we would dictate a memo in connection with it, and then afterwards we would draw up a more formal contract. Counsel has referred to the fact that these contracts do not provide for the theaters where the pictures are to be played, the minimum admissions and things of that kind. I think you will find that the contracts either cover the essentials or provide that a standard form of contract be hereto attached, which becomes a part of it or that individual and separate contracts were later to be entered into, and they were, so far as the allocation of rentals was concerned.

I think the testimony will show in most instances the distributor negotiated on the basis of amounts for certain towns. Griffith may have had a different amount in mind. When they got through the distributor doubled up the amount it was willing to deal for. Griffith did not agree.

The double amount was placed in there with the 251 understanding that the Griffith Amusement Company then might make the allocations of those rentals to the particular towns, subject to the approval of the particular distributor, and those allocations were made for each and every individual town, and either allocation sheets were made later, or in some instances there were so-called work sheets or deal sheets which show the details of the arrangements which were made. So far as those allocations are concerned, that certainly cannot constitute any violation of the law. It cannot result in any injustice to anyone. Griffith, of course, after the agreement had been made with the distributor preferred to make those allocations because a distributor frequently would have a very different idea about what the rental in the particular situation should be than Griffith would have. Griffith's idea would depend upon the amount that had been grossed in the individual situations for the particular period and prospects for the coming season. Things might influence it which the distributor would care nothing about whatever, and so the exhibitor, simply in the matter of the allocations for its own use and benefit for the payment of these pictures would make these allocations to the various towns and would pay for the product on that basis. So far as the minimum admission price is concerned, my understanding is that in this territory, regardless of what con-
252 ditions may be in the east, in this territory in the towns in which there is competition and towns in which there is no competition in the Griffith circuit, there is no distinction in the way they arrive at the admission prices which are to be charged. Their admission prices are low. By all standards they are low. They have not been placed low in order that they might eliminate competition. They have been placed low for the reason that these defendants have always believed that they should keep the price of admission in the towns in which they operate as low as they could with the thought of trying to give the greatest number of members of the public the opportunity to witness and to see these motion pictures, but I think in this particular territory that the distributors have never been interested, certainly until recent years. In most of these small situations, in prescribing the amount which should be charged by an individual exhibitor, most of the distributors have understood that they would not permit the exhibition of their pictures, whether it was by Griffith or by anybody else, for a less admission price than 10 cents for children and 15 cents for adults, but with that limitation and except in cases where their product was to be licensed on the basis of a payment of a percentage of the admission price, they have not been interested in fixing the maximum amount or the amount which was to be charged just so it ex-253 ceeded the 15 cent admission price. Further, Griffith has never made any contract with any distributor or had any understanding with any distributor, with any opposition, that it should charge any particular price. The distributor may have made a mistake in judgment as to what price it would fix for some exhibitor to charge the Griffith Amusement Company or one of these defendants, but it was not by reason of any threat to coerce, or intimidation of any kind or character on the part of these defendants or any of them, but it was the act of the distributors pursuant to its well recognized right to fix the terms and conditions on which it would license its product. Reference has been made here to the fact that these defendants operate theaters in many instances in which they own 100 per cent, and in other instances they operate theaters for interests in theaters in which there is a joint ownership with others and where others operate the theaters. It is true that there are towns which will be involved in this case in which the defendants own 100 per cent of the theaters which they are operating and the theaters are operated by the particular defendant which owns them. There are now and have been since the very beginning of the operation of Griffith Brothers, even prior to the Griffith Amusement Company, towns in which they operate jointly with some other person. For instance, one 254 of its early ventures was at Fairfax, Oklahoma, where Griffith Brothers own the Tall Chief Theater, I believe it is, with a man by the name of Moore, away back in the early days before the Griffith Amusement Company. There was a case where in some small town, I forget the name of it, Griffith Brothers owned a theater jointly with Adam Hornbeck, Hornbeck, I believe, and Griffith Brothers, and Hornbeck sold his interest in the theater and Hornbeck went to Shawnee, and decided Shawnee was a good town to move to and induced Griffith Brothers to go in with him in the operation of a theater. That was back in 1926, and Adam Hornbeck is still operating with Griffith Amusement Company jointly in the town of Shawnee. We might go on down the line. There are a number of those situations where arrangements have been made on a basis of that kind, not where they have coerced any man who is operating a theater to permit them to have a joint interest, but where the party who went in with them either desired to go in and requested to join them or where some man operating in the same town decided he would like to be made a so-called partner in the operation and they went into the operation and have continued to operate throughout the years. One of the outstanding features of this case, I think, will be the fact that all of these partnerships with these various defendants, that these partners have been satisfied and have gone 255 ahead managing these theaters, and as local managers they are part of the community in which they live. They have been a party in the management of the Griffith Amusement Company and there has been no monopolistic practice or coercion or intimidation. It is just simply a proposition of a concern which has vision and foresight, which has the advantage of its qualified men it can draw on to go and license and book films and to administer the various operations and various phases of the operations where they have gone in with individuals in the joint operation of this theater.

256 AFTERNOON SESSION

May 7, 1945, 2:00 o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS

Mr. COCHRAN. Shall I proceed, your Honor?

The COURT. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. There is another matter that I failed to mention in regard to the allegations relative to the licensing of product by these defendants. I understood Mr. Wright to say that but for the season 1938-39, the pictures were licensed by all these defendants jointly from each of the distributors. I may have misunderstood him, but if that was his statement, it is erroneous, because beginning with the season 1938–39 the R. E. Griffith Theaters and Wes-Tex Theaters licensed their product by separate negotiations, and separate contracts with the various distributors, and Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theaters licensed their product by a separate contract with the various distributors, and negotiations were separately had. That arrangement was started prior to the time that this suit was instituted, in April 1939, and had no connection whatever with any suit or threatened 257 suit. L. C. Griffith and R. E. Griffith simply could not agree on the plan for licensing the pictures, principally because R. E. Griffith liked to go to New York City and carry on his negotiations with the various distributors there, and L. C. Griffith and his associates in the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theaters felt that it would be less expensive and more satisfactory all the way around if they would carry on their negotiations here in Oklahoma City, and that the managers, the general sales managers, or the district sales managers could come from New York down here and negotiate with them instead of them going to New York where there was a lot of distractions and so forth which might take their minds and their time off of the negotiations for the product. So, beginning with the '38-'39 season there was a separation of the licensing of the product. Which is another evidence of the fact that these parties did not consider that there was the so-called buying power advantage in a large number of theaters, from the standpoint of obtaining better terms, but merely a matter of convenience and economy in the licensing of the product that was being licensed by a group who were financially interested in the same group of theaters.

Another important matter to bear in mind is the fact that in the early part of 1939 and prior to the time this suit was threatened and was filed, and prior to the time that 258 there was any knowledge of any such suit would be filed, Mr. H. J. Griffith, the youngest of these brothers, who had been for a time the general manager of Griffith Amusement Company, decided that he was going to leave the State of Oklahoma and leave, we might say, the dominating influence of his elder brother, L. C. Griffith, and he was going out for himself. So he left Oklahoma City and removed to Kansas City, and established his home there and acquired him a few theaters, and he has owned and has been operating those theaters since that time. And subsequent to that time he has not participated in any way in the management or operation of the Griffith Amusement Company, or the Consolidated. And about that time, or shortly thereafter, he disposed of all his stock interest in both the Consolidated and the Griffith Amusement Company, not because of anything connected with this suit, but because he wanted to get some money to go out and get some theaters of his own. I believe the evidence will show that the only interest which he has in any of these theaters, of Griffith Amusement Company or Consolidated, and I forget which company it is he is interested in, is that he is trustee for his children in a small stock ownership which is carried as an investment in one or the other of these companies. Since that time he has not been a director or officer of either of those companies.

Also, R. E. Griffith, after he left Oklahoma City,
259 did not attend, while he was a director and I believe, assistant secretary or something of that kind, he attended none of the meetings and did not participate in the management of the Griffith Amusement Company or the Consolidated.

In November 1943 R. E. Griffith died, and his estate does not have any representation on the board of directors and, in fact, since the time of his removal he has not controlled or managed in any way the Griffith Amusement Company or Consolidated, the only participation in its affairs being, as I have stated before, that for the period from about 1931 until 1936 he did participate, along with Mr. Falls, in the licensing of product where these companies negotiated and licensed at the same time.

Reference has been made to certain franchises. The Government, I think, refers to a franchise as being a licensing agreement which covers a period of more than one year. It might be for two years or three years or five years, and there have been franchises for longer periods than that.

In the Crescent case, which has been mentioned, there were a number of those franchises. Practically all of their contracts, I mean their licensing agreements, with the various distributors during, at least, a portion of the time, and for most of the time, was in the form of long term 260 licensing agreements, I think most of them for five-year periods.

Counsel for the Government has not stated whether he considers the franchise to be illegal in and of itself. I think he makes no such contention. At any rate, we contend there is nothing illegal about the making of a licensing agreement by an individual company, licensing its product for a period of five years, and that separate distinct, from an intent and purpose to monopolize, an illegal monopolization, franchise might be taken with all of the distributors with which a distributor might be dealing, or it will be a question of intent.

In this case, however, we have no franchise situation that, in my judgment, calls for any serious consideration. There are very few franchises in any of the Griffith situations. There was a period in the history of the motion picture industry when franchises were the order of the day. The distributors seemed to want to make contracts tying up an exhibitor for a number of years to take their product. That probably was a part of the development that I have outlined heretofore, where each was attempting to be sure he was going to have certain outlets for his product. At any rate, they negotiated franchises with circuits and with independent exhibitors.

The evidence in this case will disclose there was no
261 distinction between individual exhibitors and circuits so far as negotiations and making of contracts, franchise contracts, were concerned. It was just a thing that the distributors were doing if they could agree on satisfactory terms with the exhibitor with whom they were dealing and with whom they felt they were safe in making long time contracts. But the defendants in this case were not very favorably inclined to franchise arrangements and made very few of them. Their first experience in entering into a franchise was one they made with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in 1930. That was the first franchise they made. That was before the R. E. Griffith Theaters were organized, and it was at a time when it was a comparatively small circuit of theaters. It was at a time when the Universal Theatrical Enterprises had an interest in the Griffith Amusement Company, although they were having very serious differences at that time for reasons heretofore stated. But the Universal Theatrical Enterprises had nothing to do with the making of the franchise; that was a negotiation by and between R. E. Griffith and L. C. Griffith, for the Griffith Amusement Company and by representatives of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the distributor. They entered into a memoranda for a franchise, a five-year franchise, and the testimony, I think, will show that franchise was never placed in any formal shape, because they 262 were not able to agree to some of the details of that franchise, so that in practical operation what happened was that for the first year the product was served under that memorandum agreement and for each succeeding year a separate memoranda was entered into, which amounted practically to the making of a separate contract. That was the Metro franchise, and that was the only five-year contract. Mr. Wright was in error in saying that it extended from the seasons of '31-'32 for five years. The first year was the 1930-31, there were five seasons, four subsequent to the 1930-31 season.

The next franchise that was entered into was one that was made—now, at the time of the Metro franchise, that it was entered into, Griffith Amusement Company could have made franchises with each and every one of the distributors, if it had desired to do so, if satisfactory terms could have been agreed upon, but it didn't do it, and at the time this contract was made, this franchise was made, it had no other franchise, and it was not until the season of 1934-35 that it made its next franchise, which was a three-year franchise, with Paramount. In other words, it covered the product of the 1934-35 season and for the 1935-36 season, and the 1936-37 season. At the expiration of that franchise it was not renewed, and the usual annual licensing contracts were made thereafter.

The record will show that for the season 1933-34 Paramount did not license its product to Griffith Amuse-
263 ment Company or Consolidated in any of their situations. That was not due to the fact that Griffith Amusement Company or Consolidated were insisting that it license its product in all its situations, and if it didn't do so in all of them, they would not take it in any of them. In other words, there was nothing resembling a boycott of Paramount product at all, but it was this situation: Paramount at that time considered themselves to be the big boys in the distributing end, and probably incorrectly, it thought it had the finest pictures, and such a large number of pictures with stars with such magnitude, that no exhibitor could afford to do business without their pictures, if it could license them. Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated before that time had preferred to license their pictures largely on what we call a flat rental basis as distinguished from a percentage arrangement, and that was particularly true in regard to Paramount. Paramount decided it was not going to license its product to Griffith Amusement Company on a flat basis for the season 1933-34, and in addition to that, it decided that it was going to have its best pictures played on what is referred to as preferred playing time, that is, Saturday, and Sunday and Monday, and Saturday and Sunday primarily, preferred playing time and good holiday days, that it was going to have its pictures played then; it didn't make any 264 difference about Metro or Warner pictures that Griffith might want the public to see; it was interested in seeing that its pictures should be played during those times. And it had a right to do that, it was perfectly within its rights, but it was the difference between the parties in their bargaining positions, Paramount insisting on certain things and that it would not deal on any other basis and Griffith saying, we cannot do that, in fairness to the public, we cannot do that, so they could not get together, and for that reason their product was not licensed in 1933-34, but for the season 1934-35 they were able to get together and made this three-year franchise, and Griffith Amusement Company had a franchise with Metro and with Paramount.

The next franchise that was acquired by Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated was a franchise with RKO, that was entered into in 1935. In March 1935, for the 1935-36, 1936-37, and 1937-38 product, three years there. And at the end of that franchise it was not renewed, so that when this suit was filed, the three franchises I have mentioned had expired and they had not been renewed, and I believe the record will show today that so far as the franchises with any distributor, I mean by that, contracts for more than one year, it has no such franchises.

Again I want to emphasize the fact that during that period no one considered the making of franchises il-265 legal. It was not for the purpose of excluding any opposition or anything of the kind; it was simply a matter of making contracts that were considered perfectly legal, and I think they were legal.

In the consent decree the five major distributors, consented that so far as the franchises were concerned, they would not enter into any future franchises, but it didn't attempt to disturb the franchises made prior to April 1939.

Counsel has made some reference to clearance provisions in the contract. I had thought that the clearance provisions would probably be considered moot in this case, so far as the five distributors are concerned who were parties to the consent decree, for the reason that the consent decree provides that in the event the distributor shall impose on any so-called independent theater operator and exhibitor clearance provisions in favor of some other theater which he considers unfair, that he can take that before the arbitration board and they can determine what is a reasonable clearance. In other words, the government has never contended that as a part of the copyright privilege the distributor can impose clearances between these runs, and the distributors have uniformly done so. On the other hand the Government in the consent decree took the position that because of the capacity in 266 which the defendants in that case were operating as producers, distributors and exhibitors, they should have an arrangement whereby an arbitration board should have the privilege of determining what a reasonable clearance provision should be in any particular situation. That is a question of fact, and so, they consented to it; they said, yes, that is all we want, is a reasonable clearance provision protecting the first run or any prior run against encroachment such as has been mentioned by your Honor this morning. In other words, it is recognized that the subsequent run should not be permitted to be exhibited and displayed in such a manner as to destroy that thing which the prior run has licensed and paid for, so the conditions are imposed.

Back a number of years ago the distributors, about the time that the standard contract that I mentioned this morning was put into effect, the distributors started a movement, attempting to have meetings with the exhibitors, in the various zones in which they operated, to see if some kind of mutual agreement could be reached to what would constitute in that particular area, a reasonable clearance, and there were some agreements of that kind worked out in various parts of the country. In one case that went to the courts and it was held that the parties, while they had a right to fix the thing separately in the exercise of their independent judgment or as an agreement between 267 it and the person acquiring the right, under the agreement, that the various distributors should not and could not get together and agree on what clearance would be imposed in a certain situation. But the facts are that in the Oklahoma City area there were never any such agreement entered into by the distributors or any of the exhibitors, and the facts will further disclose that so far as the Griffith interests were concerned, when the question came up they opposed the matter of any such arrangement at all, and they wanted to leave the matter in the hands of the distributors to determine what should be a reasonable clearance, and where necessary, by agreement with the party who acquired an interest under a licensing agreement.

268 So that there was no agreement among distributors in this area so far as I have been able to ascertain, and I believe there was none. In the Crescent case and Schine case and perhaps in the Paramount case in New York the Government contended all the amount of clearance that was granted pursuant to agreement between a distributor and individual exhibitor, the defendants in those cases when they came to looking into the situation so far as these defendants are concerned they found that most of the contracts had absolutely no provision in regard to clearance at all, so now, as I understand their position, they say that because the defendants did not have a clearance agreement written into their contract, that is evidence of the fact they were violating the law and so forth. I haven't been able to follow it. The fact is that in the Oklahoma territory, without regard to whether it was a man operating one little theater in one small crossroads town in Oklahoma, or an independent circuit such as Griffith, or whatever the situation was, that they are just back in the days prior to the consent decree and that there are no clearance agreements. There were isolated cases and a few contracts where you found most of these, but very few, indeed, and it was just the normal course of business.

In Oklahoma City and Tulsa where they had a number of runs and probably in some of the territory, one or 269 two of the larger towns, there were some clearance provisions, so there will be nothing in this record to show any violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act in regard to clearance. We think the evidence will also show that so far as the Oklahoma situation is concerned, that the clearance was already taken care of in the matter of the number of prints that were available for use. Counsel for the plaintiff has explained to you that a certain number of positive prints are made in California, or in New York, and are shipped to these exchanges, and a varying number of positive prints are sent by the several distributors, and as to each distributor the number will vary, depending on the picture which is to be licensed. The distributor has absolute control over that. The number of prints that are sent depends not only on any attempt to restrict or restrain trade in any way, but is a matter of economy because these prints are expensive to make. At any rate, they control those prints.

Now, say that Paramount will furnish, or coming back to that picture "Gone With The Wind", say that the Oklahoma City exchange, because of the importance of the picture, was furnished with five films. Those five films must make the rounds of every theater in this state in which your picture is licensed and that particular picture would be licensed in practically all of them;
270 where the town had a first run theater it would be licensed first run. Then after the first runs had been served it would come back for a number of more important towns and run second run and then come to others and run third run, and so forth, until at Oklahoma City it would make about 15 runs in all. Manifestly, those five prints cannot be available for every theater on the same day. It just cannot be done. Therefore the distributor in its license agreement says that the film will be booked into the various theaters after the print is available, provided there is a print for use at that time. That is a matter in the control of the distributor, so we have the distributor controlling those availability dates and there will be nothing in this case to show that there was any unfairness in the method in which the distributors exercised that privilege, and they try to do it in a capable manner, and I think there will be no evidence to show it was not done, but whether or not that is the case, it was handled, so far as the defendants in this case are concerned, by the distributors and without any compulsion and without any agreement on their part with the distributors as to what should be done with the opposition, but by reason of the lack of a sufficient number of prints it usually happens that for any particular distributor a print would not be available in any situation for second run until about 90 days, 271 from 60 to 90 days after it had been exhibited first run. Well, that would ordinarily be considered sufficient clearance between the two runs. They couldn't get it earlier if they wanted to, and so there was no agreement in regard to it, therefore no violation of the law in that regard.

Some reference has been made to closed towns. That is the expression that is used, "closed towns." That term, which is true in regard to many of these expressions which the Government used in this case and will use, and I may say use to a considerable extent in the industry, is a misleading statement. I believe counsel said that it did refer to a situation in which there was no competition, and in that sense I am willing to accept the use of the term, but I am not willing to agree that any of the towns in the Griffith circuit were closed towns in the sense that there was any exclusion of anybody from that area. There are a number of these towns in which there never has been but one theater. There are towns in which the Griffth Amusement Company has been operating since the early days of the Griffith Brothers in which there has been no opposition whatever, and some of them in which there is but one theater. Again I want to say, that wherever the situation presented an opportunity to increase the number of theaters in a town in order that there might be a broader exhibition of pictures at prices which would be 272 within the range of everybody, these defendants provided those facilities. For instance, an ideal setup, say you have a situation in which you have no competition, an ideal setup in the town if it is of sufficient size to warrant it, is for the exhibitor to have a nice, deluxe theater with all the modern equipment of every kind and convenience for the benefit of the public, and in order that the pictures may be shown to the best advantage and where there might be exhibited the very best picture produced by the exhibitors in making motion pictures. That would be called an A house. Then there would be another theater representing not such a large investment, but notwithstanding a fine theater building and place of exhibition as compared with the olden days where they would have exhibited the pictures first run of a type which is known as the B type pictures. That is, a picture which is not of such value and magnitude as the first run, as the A pictures which would be played in the A theaters.

Then coming along to later years, after a lot of experimentation there would be places where the distributors would license the product for the second run exhibition and where the product could be handled there in such a way as not to unusually check the operation of the first run house. There would be a second run place where these better pictures might be brought back a considerable time 273 after exhibition in the first run house and there exhibited at a lower price for the benefit of those who felt they were not able to see them at the higher prices. That would be an ideal situation, regardless of whether there was competition or no competition, and the Griffith Amusement Company in all of its situations has always attempted to broaden its base of activity wherever it could legitimately do so, in order that the public might have the advantage of this broader operation. So there have been a number of theaters built and acquired. We take the position that there is nothing in the law that says there is any limit on the number of towns in which the Griffith Amusement Company can operate theaters. There is nothing in the law that says there is any limit to the number of theaters that the Griffith Amusement Company may operate in a given situation. It is the method of operation that would be in conflict with the anti-trust laws and not the fact that it acquired theaters in a number of towns that would be controlling. There is nothing in the Sherman Act to prevent them acquiring a number of theaters in several of their situations and nothing that would require them to place an additional theater in any town where they felt conditions did not warrant it. Also we contend that these defendants have a perfect right to license the product they are able to license, so far as is necessary to meet the require-
274 ments of these various theaters. There again we state this in order to show that the policy of the operation of these theaters has nothing whatever to do and has not been related to the fact they had competition or no competition. The policy has been geared to the economic and efficient operation of the theaters, giving the type of service that the public seems to require and at prices they require.

In that connection, there has been very little of so-called double billing of product in the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theaters. Now, mind you, this double billing has been another development that has come along with the years. Some of us wonder why it is that any person would want to go to a moving picture theater and sit through two six reels or more of film along with the shorts and so forth, which exists, but motion picture exhibitors in various parts of the country, mainly in the east and on the west coast in their experiments have found there are members of the public, the theater going public, who will give up their amusement dollar more readily to see a double bill than they will to see a single bill, so many of them have gone to double bills.

Where there has been a charge of attempting to monopolize product there has frequently been a charge that the exhibitor whom a charge of that kind is made against, would attempt to double bill for the purpose of 275 wasting product as they say. In other words, licensing more product than they needed to use on their normal program and then double bill in order to waste that product. There will be no evidence of that kind in this case. The policy of these theaters has been based entirely on efficient and economy of operation with the purpose of drawing the largest box office they possibly could in the various theaters.

Again referring to these closed towns, as I have said, there are towns, in which there is no competition and where there has never been any competition and there was no competition when Griffith put in the first theater that was ever put in the town. There has never been any competition since that time and there has been no exclusion. There are towns where there are concerns opposing the defendants that decide to sell out for various reasons and where Griffith or other defendants felt they could use that particular theater and in their normal expansion and growth they acquired it. They acquired it properly. They have a perfect right to make acquisitions of that kind so there will be no proof, as I take it, by any credible evidence that the Griffith Amusement Company or the Consolidated Theaters have on any occasion excluded anybody from coming into the town so as to come within the illegal monopolization defined by Section 2 of the anti-trust laws. In other words, that monopoly there 276 does not mean that you are the only one who is operating a theater but the authorities all say that is an exclusion of persons from coming in by a means in unlawful restraint of trade, but there is nothing of that kind in this case.

The statement was made that the Griffith circuit in the licensing of its pictures was able to license a product in every situation in which it operated. Again, attempting to emphasize the fact that by reason of the economic position in which it found itself it attempts to boycott any distributor that would not license it its product in every situation in which it operated. Now that will not be the evidence. We will have situations and in that particular it is far different from the evidence in the Crescent case and far different from the evidence in the Schine case. The evidence will disclose in this case that the theaters—first that these defendants are people with whom many of these distributors have been doing business for a period of nearly 30 years. There is that same kind of relationship between these defendants, and some of these distributors up there would be between the groceryman that has been running the corner grocery for a period of 30 years, and he has patrons and customers who have been doing business with him from the day he first opened his doors, and they each rely on the integrity and good business operations of the other and they continue to do business with each 277 other and there is nothing wrong about that, so these defendants in this case occupy that position in regard to most of these distributors. They are just people who have grown up with this industry. They have established themselves by their industry, by their integrity as being people who are good customers and who they wanted to do business with. Now that cannot be said for all of the so-called independent opposition. "Independent" as used here, I take it, is being used in the sense of the meaning of that term in the industry. That is, a person who operates one theater or theaters in one town as opposed to operating theaters in more than one town. It cannot be said of all of the independent operators that they are people that the distributors care to do business with. As has been suggested already in this case, the distributor has a right to select his customers. Acting independently it can absolutely refuse to do business with any exhibitor that it desires not to do business with, and its reason can be a good sound reason or not. It doesn't make any difference. On the whole they have preferred to do business with the Griffith Amusement Company, or because, as I say, they have a history behind them, a record behind them of good showmanship, of good theaters, of integrity, good business management and things of that kind that have naturally caused them to be selected as customers if the dis-

278 tributor could once get over that question of how much they were going to require them to pay for the product and how they were going to require them to pay for it, and the facts further show that so far as Griffith is concerned, it will appear that in every situation, in the towns in which these defendants are operating, that they are operating the best theaters in the town with the exception of possibly one town in the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theaters district, and the testimony will further show that in that town there are some of the distributors who for years have preferred to do business with the opposition and others who prefer to do business with Griffith, and they have come on down to this same date, some of them preferring the one and some of them preferring the other. In several of the other towns where individual distributors were doing business with some customer other than Griffith they have continued down to this present time to do business with that opposition. In other words, they continued to do business with the opposition until that opposition decided to go out of business and sold their theater to Griffith, and so it is not a fact that the distributors have licensed Griffith in all of their situations in all of these years, and there isn't anything to the proposition that there is any boycott or any coercion in regard to the matter.

279 The statement was made that pictures were licensed to Griffith without an opportunity being given to the opposition to make a contract to license these pictures. There again the exhibitor has nothing to do with it. These defendants haven't anything to do with that. That is a matter that is within the discretion of the individual distributors. Through the years they have determined that it is not good business on their part to go to one exhibitor and say, "What will you give me for this picture?" And then go across the street and say, "What will you give me for it?" and then back again and so forth. They have found pictures cannot be successfully licensed on that basis from their standpoint. They don't want to do it and no court has ever required it ever be done, and I don't think any court will ever require they license their pictures on that basis, but at the beginning of the season that distributor determines the exhibitor to whom it desires to license its product, and it tries to make a deal with that concern before it approaches the other exhibitor at all, and if it can make a contract it does so, and if it cannot, it doesn't leave the thing in the air. It goes on over to the other man and tries to make a contract with him, so there is nothing different in the way the Griffith defendants are treated in this particular than 280 the manner in which the product is licensed to exhibitors of every kind and character operating throughout the United States.

Then there was a statement made that there is a clause in these various licensing agreements with the Griffith Amusement Company that constitutes an illegal restraint of trade and some violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, that provision which in many of the contracts provides that these defendants are not required to play the pictures in the order of their release. Now, I imagine your Honor has grasped the meaning of that, but I will briefly explain it. As I told you before, under the old practice these pictures were licensed at the beginning of the season before they were produced. Then they would be produced along during the season. Some of the pictures would not even be produced during the one-year period. They would be produced throughout the season at no regular intervals. They might promise you sixty pictures and release forty. They were not obligated to release the full number of pictures that were licensed. They didn't specify how many they would license in a week and when they would make them available. They were doing the best they could, but that was just one of the problems the exhibitor was up against in these contracts.

First, I will say that some of the contracts of the distributors carried clauses during a portion of this 281 period, but printed contracts, in which it was provided that the exhibitor agreed to exhibit these pictures in the order of their general release as available, subject to availability. They might not be made available. In other words, they might be released in a certain order and then when the exhibitor would go in to book that picture, said he wanted that picture in his theater on a certain date, the distributor will say, "Sorry, but we only have three prints of that picture and it is already booked for the period of a month and we can't give you a date until a certain date," so it just could not be booked in the order of its release, and there was the exhibitor agreeing he was going to book it in the order of release, the distributor having a complete out by saying that the picture was not available. Now, as a matter of practice, it will be shown that none of these distributors ever invoked that clause against any exhibitor who had an agreement of that kind in his contract, ever invoke that rule if that man was playing his pictures in a bona fide manner. In other words, if he was not delinquent, or he was going ahead and trying to do the best he could to carry out the contract, they never invoked the rule that it had to be played in the order of release, if the picture was available, but the man who licensed pictures beginning with the season and along about 282 March 1st it appeared where he had licensed sixty pictures and there had been forty of them released up to that date and he had played only two of those pictures, maybe had not dated any of them and was not fulfilling his contract at all, then it was the habit to say: "Here is a good picture; here is Gone With the Wind, that is a good picture. You surely want to book that and we will not let you book that picture in your theater until you have booked these pictures on which you are delinquent." That was ordinarily the way they carried out their contract in regard to booking in the order of release. In addition to that, the contract itself carried a clause which gave them the privilege of not booking in the order of release. Every one of those contracts contains exceptions which are going to be very material in this case. In these contracts that the Griffith Amusement Company made after about 1930, at a time when they were a comparatively small circuit, there was coercion there at all, but just as a matter of horse trading, and as a matter of practical operation of their theaters, and tied in with another agreement—mind you, I said the distributors liked to license their pictures at the beginning of the season in order that they might finance their production over the season, borrow money. It took a lot of money to carry on these operations. To the exhibitor who was not entirely 283 financially responsible these pictures would usually be shipped out C. O. D. and sent out for exhibition and the money would come in in driblets throughout the year. They were very much interested in getting as much of this money in from any exhibitor at an early date as possible, and so with independent exhibitors and with affiliated circuits and with the independent circuits, anybody that was responsible, that they could make a deal with, they provided for those payments in weekly installments, a weekly payment plan for the money, and so they proposed this proposition to these defendants, "That we would like to have you pay for these pictures on a weekly payment plan so as a part of that same agreement, it was written into these contracts that the exhibitor would pay for these pictures, so much at various periods, but provided that you need not play these pictures in the order of their release for the reason that that provision for them to pay for these pictures at intervals, which required them to pay for pictures as fast as they had been released, there was no incentive for them not playing these pictures as speedily as possible, and of the desire of the distributor for results, the playing in order of release clause had been fully complied with." In addition to that, the Griffith Amusement Company had, it is provided in another part of the contract provided they would make these pic-284 tures available, one-third of them I believe, within a certain number of days after national release day, another one-third within a certain number of days and another one-third within a certain number of days, in order that they might have a little protection on this question of when pictures would be made available for them. In practical operation, the distributors handle their product with the Griffith circuit just as they did with anybody else and the pictures were played off promptly and played off satisfactorily and there was no discrimination and no violation of the law in connection with the clause in playing the pictures out of order of release.

The statement is also made by counsel that one of these distributors, United Artists, distributed pictures which it did not produce, and that is true. In other words, United Artists produced no pictures. It is not true that all of the pictures distributed by the other distributors are pictures which that particular distributor produced. In other words, throughout the years you will find that each one of these distributors has distributed pictures made by others, but for which it is acting as an agent in licensing. In other words, most of them licensed pictures which they produced themselves and pictures which others produced, and in addition to that there are many pictures produced and licensed through other channels entirely and the channels through which various pictures are licensed 285 from year to year, that is, pictures produced by others than the so-called eight majors which might be licensed this year by Universal and next year by PRC and another year by Republic and so forth. Now I think it is well to close with this observation. There is much more to the matter of licensing a picture than the booking of pictures into the theaters than the ordinary person realizes. I think even those of us who have been connected with these cases for a considerable time do not fully appreciate the work in detail involved in the licensing of pictures even for one single theater. Then when you come to the matter of booking pictures, that is, arranging the play dates, the date on which a picture is to play and the particular play date to occupy what program and grouping other amusements along with that particular program, making up the program, that is indeed a big job when you come booking into a particular theater the product from some eight different distributors over the period of a season without having information as to just when those pictures can be available for you until you go to the distributor and ascertain when the picture will be available. That was a big job. The licensing of pictures was a big job under the old method of licensing by the five distributors who were parties to the consent decree and it is a bigger job now. Under that consent decree it is 286 provided no picture can be licensed by the parties to that consent decree—the distributor cannot license any of its pictures until they have been produced and trade shown. In other words, Paramount now, before it can license a picture to anybody in this exchange area must produce that picture. The positive print must be here in Oklahoma City. They must pick a time to exhibit that picture down there in that exchange or some other place where it is available for the exhibitor or all of the exhibitors of this trade area, this exchange area, to come in there and see that picture and determine whether that is a picture they want to license for their theater. In consenting to that decree it broke down to some extent the manner of block booking. It was broken down to this extent: On the operation prior to the consent decree the distributor would license all of its product for the season at one time. Now the consent decree provides that Paramount, for instance, cannot license any one group more than five pictures. That is, it will produce five pictures and place them in one group, and offers those five pictures to an exhibitor to license. Now manifestly, while those terms of the consent decree were presumably imposed for the benefit of the exhibitor, all exhibitors, and while it certainly has its advantages, it is certainly an advantage I take it for the experienced picture show man to be able to see the picture before he 287 licenses that picture. Nevertheless, there is a great deal of additional work to the licensing of those pictures where you are going to have to go down to that exchange and night after night view those pictures, and you can see what a tremendous job that is, therefore, as a matter of convenience these circuits utilize the services of a man like Horace Falls, who is the buyer for the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated. They use his services as a man who is experienced over the years and who lives here and can conveniently go down there and license those pictures instead of having the manager from Shawnee or the manager from Guthrie and all over the state come in here and do that particular work. They can stay at home and attend to the physical operation of those theaters and do a good job there. The Griffith Amusement Company through Falls can attend to the job of licensing those pictures and booking those pictures into the theater. In addition to that, the percentage of gross receipts that the Griffith Amusement Company receives for those services in licensing those pictures for theaters are administrative services such as keeping the books and records and attending to the wage and hour law requirements and a multiplicity of reports which are made to the various bureaus that all business men have to make and which an individual theater owner couldn't attend to.

288 The COURT. Do I understand you to say the consent decree provides it is necessary to show a picture to a prospective purchaser before it is licensed to him?

Mr. COCHRAN. He doesn't have to see it but it must be trade shown so far as five distributors are concerned. Columbia, United Artists and Universal do not have to trade show their pictures.

The COURT. How would you license a picture before it is produced?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think there is one correction that should be made. There was a trial period of one year when that method of trade showing in blocks of five was pursued. The method has been continued by them since the '41-42 season, since they find they can make more money licensing pictures that way. It is now a matter of choice.

Mr. COCHRAN. I will correct that to this extent: Under that consent decree, Universal, United Artists and Columbia were not parties, and the requirement of the Government in regard to the method of licensing and trade showing, was limited to a period and to be continued if in the meantime they went ahead and tried their lawsuit and forced those three companies to do the same thing. They did not proceed with that lawsuit, therefore the compulsory feature of that thing has expired, but those distributors have gone ahead. That case is still pending 289 and feeling that since the Government required it before they still insist that ought to be done, they have voluntarily gone ahead and followed that method of licensing their product, so that as to all the companies except the three I have mentioned, their pictures are not now licensed until they are produced and trade shown. I hope I have made that clear. I think maybe I confuse your Honor in describing conditions prior to the consent decree. That was the period in which they were licensed prior to production. That is why I said it was important to bear in mind the change which took place prior to the consent decree.

The COURT. The consent decree was in 1940, wasn't it?

Mr. COCHRAN. November, 1940. So far as Universal and United Artists are concerned, they have continued to license their pictures very much in the same way that they always did. In other words, they did not agree to the requirement of the Government. They said we have a right to license them in this way. That is the way we are going to continue to license them, and they have gone ahead and licensed their pictures. In the first place, they took the position that, "We are not as strong as those other companies. We are smaller. We need to license these pictures in this way to properly finance our operations 290 and we are going to do it if it is not a violation of the law," and they have continued to license their pictures before they are produced, and the contracts are made very much as they were in the past, so far as the contracts with Griffith Amusement Company and the Consolidated are concerned. These three concerns where they did have contracts with them, they are principally selective contracts under which a certain number of pictures are licensed, and there is a clause in there that provides that within a certain length of time many of the pictures they make which are not selected they are automatically cancelled and they can go ahead and license them from anybody they want to.

In this rather disjointed way I have tried to give you a history of the situation. I am sorry to have taken so much time. If there are any particular matters your Honor would like to ask me about I would be glad to have you do so.

The COURT. I think I have a very clear conception of the position of both sides. I think that while this has taken time, it has been time well spent.

291 Mr. RICE. Your Honor, the only excuse I would have to trespass further on your time would be to give you a little more of the history of the Griffith interests in Texas and New Mexico. I shall not do so, if you would rather I would not.

The COURT. You cannot trespass on the Court's time. You have to try your lawsuit.

Mr. RICE. May I say that giving a lawyer who represents these people the opportunity to talk is like a salesman with his foot in the door, there is no telling what is coming next.

I shall try not to cover these specific points which Judge Cochran has so fully discussed.

In 1930 business, of course, was not good anywhere, in any line. In fact, in that year, however, R. E. Griffith left the group with which he had been associated for years in Oklahoma and went to New Mexico, and as a starter in the enterprise which he invisioned then, he secured by trade certain theaters in New Mexico, small in number, and located in several towns, the details I will not touch. He carried with him a friend, Fred Morley, of long acquaintance, a skilled showman, and other persons skilled in the performance of duties relating to the industry, and within a short time set up an office where he bought 292 pictures or through which he bought pictures, as we say, from the distributors from which he booked pictures into his theaters, and which office bought supplies and the like for his theaters and in general supervised the operation.

He was an ambitious man, not of money, not a greedy man, but a man who was a builder, to the last moments of his life he was a builder. In fact, he practically went off and left the theater business and built something new. That was the characteristic of him, and when he went out, so to speak, for himself, and he did go for himself, he went into a new country, New Mexico, practically a business frontier, and in his last venture he went to Nevada. One by one he gathered around him certain associates, each with a particular flare, a particular competence, to each of whom he assigned a particular job. He believed then that to serve the community in which his theater might be located, or his theaters might be located, whether one or more, he must give to the public the best service, in the sense of good seating, good lighting, good projection, good ventilation, good air cooling, and so forth, and upon the screen he must have the best pictures he could buy. So, in dealing with the public, through his theaters, renting to the theaters his seats, and that was all he had to sell, he wanted to give to every theater he owned the best service available, and that meant manpower.

292a He didn't grow so rapidly. In 1933 he acquired no theaters; in 1934 two. I have skipped a year. In 1930 he went out by himself, and in January 1932 he started business by contributing to his new corporation, the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., these theaters which he had acquired, and from then on, it became the corporate entity. In 1932 he had just a few; in 1933, he acquired none; in 1934 a few. And nearly all of those theaters which he acquired immediately after '32 were built by himself. Then he made several arrangements which in the aggregate gave his group a larger appearance, at least. He bought minority interests, twenty-five per cent or less in several groups of theaters which were already in operation, under common management or associated management.

Now, as he went into each of these towns he did what Judge Cochran has so fully told you, he examined the properties to see if they were the kind of theaters he wanted to operate. We will show the Court that they ranged from adobe houses in New Mexico, ninety feet deep and very narrow, to great barns or houses that had not had anything done to them in several years; that instead of having installations in them to prevent echo and so forth, they had tin roofs, and some flat floors, and instead of having air conditioning or cooling, they didn't have adequate ventilation, and many of them had no rest rooms. They 293 were theaters of people who had let the parade pass them. They were operated as they had been operated for twenty years before; all they had to do was to put up a bed sheet, get a projection machine and let the show run night and day. They had no ideas of exploitation of the product by selling the pictures to their community; they had limited ideas, many of them. They didn't know how to book pictures. Incidentally R. E. Griffith, we will show you, never told, nor did anyone with authority, of him or of his board of directors, ever tell anybody that he was coming into his town, nor did he ever tell anybody from whom he bought or with whom he became associated that he, R. E. Griffith, could buy pictures better or cheaper than the man he was buying from. He did tell them he knew how to run theaters; he did tell them he knew how to sell his wares to the public; he did tell them he knew how to book pictures. We will show you, your Honor, that in some cases men who were operating along, from lack of experience, had the habit of booking the cheapest pictures they had on week-end engagements, because they thought "If I can buy a $12 picture and do $100 worth of business, I have made $88, and that is real money." By showing them the error of their ways, he got them to book the best pictures for the week-ends, and maybe paying $100, but making $200. He showed them how to sell their programs to the com-
294 munity a month in advance; he showed them how to sell pictures that should be shown, but wouldn't be shown, if left to the determination of the little fellow who was afraid of highbrow pictures; he showed them how to sell them. He furnished them with information on the construction of theaters and the remodeling and re-decoration of theaters. With this difficult problem of sound, his services were important; he showed them what sound to get and how to install it, and through the services furnished through his home office he helped these people get back up with the times which had gone past them. Some of these people, your Honor, are now operating in towns with one theater, and in more than one instance, the man who is Griffith's partner in that town built the theater, and being the very first theater in that town.

There seems to be something sinister in the mind of the Government about the aggregation of a group operating units together. Shall we eliminate, shall we start eliminating units in New Mexico where there was one theater built originally by this pioneer alone, one theater in one town, and other towns, several in number, where there was one theater built by somebody else who gladly sold his interest in such theater to Griffith to get the advantage of his experience, his vitality, his vigor, and the organization
295 which he created? We will show to the Court, I think, that far from just wanting theaters which were to possess some mysterious power over the distributors, he would go to the people with whom he was negotiating and say, "I don't want the theater unless I can get you; I don't want an interest in your house, you couldn't give it to me, unless I can get you", because he knew he was dealing with problems which only manpower could solve.

It is interesting here to note that Mr. Wright, so far as I remember from his opening statement, never accused these people of buying more pictures than they could use. Am I right? Did he ever say in his opening statement that they ever bought more than reasonable programs of exhibitions? If so, I know not where he said it.

It will be interesting to see how far apart these facts which we shall develop to the Court, will show, not as I have done here hastily, the acquisition, if the Court permits, of every theater in the towns of the circuit, acquired and why they were acquired. It is interesting to see how far from the real reasons for the acquisition of these several units, one by one, is the statement by Mr. Wright that they were acquired, I suppose he said that, I know he said they were operated, with the purpose and the effect of eliminating competition, suppressing competition, injuring competition, not in the disjunctive but in the conjunc-296 tive, with the purpose and effect of eliminating it.

My friend, John Caskey, over here is a Methodist preacher's son. I guess the Court has realized that I am a Methodist or Baptist preacher's son myself, but we remember when we used to sit listening to the old men preach that the only interesting thing was the illustrations, the stories they told. John Caskey's remark illustrates the experience of the real economic field in which we have been working for all these years and through which the Government, through the complaint in this case, seems to want to attack.

I walked into a drugstore to get a package of cigarettes. Not having followed my father's teaching, I have the habit. I stood there in a long line. As I got there the man ahead of me bought the last package and he was a monopolist, he got all there was, there wasn't any more, and he automatically excluded me from enjoyment. John puts another illustration. When Nero had the circus and the Christians were gored by the bulls, that was exclusive entertainment, he had a monopoly, not on bulls, but certainly on Christians; and one of my associates injected the remark that there was no second run for the Christians.

Now, Mr. Wright talks about exclusive contracts, and he didn't talk about them very satisfactorily, to me, at least, and perhaps not to himself, to tell the truth.

297 The Court said: Would it be all right to make a contract for the exclusive exhibition of a motion picture? Well, would it be all right to make a contract for the exclusive appearance of Heifitz or Deanna Durbin? I think so. Would it be all right to make a contract for the exclusive exhibition of one of them? If so, would it be all right for three or four or five? Just when does it get to be wrong?

It was significant to me, and I am still interested and waiting to hear what Mr. Wright meant by saying under some conditions it would be all right. What are those conditions? Is it one of the conditions that no more than fifteen theaters can do it? Why not five, why not one? Who is to determine these things except the law of competition?

Now this circuit so-called, that R. E. Griffith built up, is in two parts. We can assure you that we will show the division of the interests between the Wes-Tex Theaters Corporation and R. E. Griffith Theaters Corporation is entirely proper, done on sound business methods and for sound business reasons, and with no sinister implication whatsoever. We shall show the same thing as to the buying of pictures for these two comparatively new enterprises 298 through the person of R. E. Griffith, now conducted through Ray Higdon, that it was done for sound reasons and worthy purposes.

We shall show in this circuit that far from being guilty of predatory practices, such as hinted, of going into a town and buying or erecting a theater and thereupon taking away from exhibitors enjoying a certain product, taking that product away from him.

You remember the Supreme Court mentioned the scared mules. I don't think you will find any scared mules in this case. I don't think that Mr. Wright, with all of his astuteness and his assistants will dig up any scared mules who got so scared that the fellow had to sell them. It doesn't exist. These men bought what they needed in the area.

The fellow in front of me got a package of cigarettes, I didn't get any, or I got one and he didn't get any.

I went into five stores trying to buy a shirt; I got one, and it was the last size 16 in this shirt company's store, and it is a shirt shop; the last shirt, and I am a monopolist because there was not enough for Mr. Wright, if his laundry didn't come back like mine didn't, or Mr. Cochran's.

Of necessity, anybody who deals in motion pictures for exhibition gets certain exclusive rights and of necessity not through our control, not through any fault of any exhibitor. There are not enough pictures at any time so that everybody can buy them at his will and run them at his will. The exhibitor deals in intangibles; he should have some assurance that he has something to sell; he has nothing but vacant seats. If I am opening a theater, I certainly want to establish myself and I want to establish a stock of merchandise sufficient to take care of the people I expect to serve, with reasonable reservations available. When a motion picture theater operates, when it builds a house or when it gets a house, is there something wrong in his saying to those who make these things, which he doesn't and there are only so many of them, "Let me contract with you, and with you, and with you, and with you, until my shelves are full, until I know that the people who want to see entertainment in the form of motion pictures will be reasonably—in reasonable quantities or excessive quantities, if you like, so they may come into my house to see your pictures on days that I determine." If it is wrong for a man to be farsighted, to buy what he can get at a price he can pay, sufficient to offer his people assurance of entertainment and the variety of entertainment, then everything is wrong in the business and we better know it. Remember, we can not make pictures. We might try it, and we are at liberty to try it, but we cannot make them. They are made by other parties. Those that are made, we have no interest in. If Mr. Wright buys a dozen shirts and he sells no shirts today, his shirts are on the shelf for tomorrow. That is a far cry from the conditions with the motion picture theaters. No matter at what price he buys them, if the exhibitor puts upon the screen what we call a motion picture today and nobody comes his investment is forever lost in the particular film for that day, and his investment per diem in the theater has become sterile for that time. There is no tomorrow at the box office.

A great many of the practices which Mr. Wright complains about come out of the very nature of the business, starting with the creative dream of the producer or author and winding up in celluloid in the form of pictures, with the natural desire of people to escape from realties, and every step of it, as we will show the Court, harassed by uncertainties.

If I could tell the producers, any producer of motion pictures within five per cent or ten per cent or forty per cent of what the picture he is working on will yield at the box office, I wouldn't work three days a month, and I wouldn't have to practice law; I would be filthy rich. I am saying that because nobody can tell, even with the skill of L. C. Griffith, he couldn't sit in a studio and watch a 301 picture being planned and shot and tell that producer what it is going to be like at the box office, and after the picture is made he couldn't tell very well, but whatever he could tell about it through his experience is most valuable not only to him financially, but to the public whom he desires to serve. He couldn't tell whether a picture, at Clinton or Duncan or Lovington, New Mexico, whether the people will stay away enthusiastically or not, but the producer who made it thought everybody in the world would rush to see it, that all the exhibitor had to do was to open the door and stand to one side.

From the characteristics of the uncertainty, and based upon the uncertainty in the production problem itself everybody in this business is somewhat of a gambler; if they were not, they would go broke today. When we draw a picture of these things, where we find good theaters, that have the best equipment possible to obtain for the money, you just josh that the thought of a man who puts that kind of money into a rat hole and makes it work, who has the initiative and that ability, and that is the kind of initiative which the Government would seek to destroy.

I don't think of anything else that Judge Cochran did not cover. As I say, being a Methodist, I had to give my testimony, your Honor. And this is interesting to me that here in this room is Fred Morley or Ray Higdon who 302 now does the buying for R. E. Griffith circuit, and Rip Payne is around here somewhere, and my associate here, and myself also, and I get enthusiastic about R. E. Griffith, and of the success of that circuit, not what he is talking about, not any power they had, except the vitality and the vigor and the venturesome spirit that led them to take chances that ordinary business men would not take. We have seen how the theaters have helped the war drives and the Red Cross drives and helped the war effort, and it is a far cry from the day when R. E. Griffith started in the theater business. It has become a respectable, dignified institution and was made such through the efforts of these men throughout Texas and Oklahoma.

We will show your Honor by positive proof, not upon mere denial, not upon a negative pregnant or otherwise, but affirmatively, that we have actually not restrained commerce but we have stimulated commerce between these United States of America.

THE COURT. Anything further for the defendants?

303 (Hereupon Court adjourned until May 8, 1945, and it was agreed the following proceedings might be had outside of the presence of the Court.)

Offers in Evidence

Mr. WRIGHT. Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 for identification is an agreement produced by counsel for the WesTex Theaters, Inc., dated October 15, 1936, between Mrs. J. N. Massey, Foster McSwain, C. C. Lindsey, WesTex Theaters Incorporated, by R. E. Griffith, president, for the lease of the Fair Theater at Plainview, Texas, for a period of ten years beginning November 1, 1936.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 2 for identification, is a stipulation of ownership and operating agreement dated June 25, 1935, between Foster McSwain, R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., by R. E. Griffith, President, C. C. Lindsey, concerning the operations of the Granada and Palace Theaters at Plainview and properly known as the Ritz Theater in Plainview, referring to a prior contract dated June 13, 1933, made between the same parties.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 3, for identification, is a bill of sale dated October 15, 1936, from Tower Theaters, Inc. to WesTex Theaters, Foster McSwain and C. C. Lindsey, of equipment in the Fair Theater at Plainview, Texas, containing an agreement that neither the Tower Theaters, Inc., nor Denis Scaling or R. Q. Silverthorn, will engage in, directly or otherwise, the theater business in Plain-304 view. Signed for Tower Theaters, Inc., by R. Q. Silverthorn, President and Denis Scaling, Secretary and Treasurer.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 4, for identification, is a memorandum agreement between Westex Theaters, Inc., Foster McSwain, Hazel Lindsey, Layette Lindsey Thompson, relating to the operation of the Grenada and Fair Theaters at Plainview, Texas, which provides for the making of booking contracts with R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., or other firms or corporations, compensation paid said persons not to exceed 4 per cent of the gross of said theater for such buying and booking services. The term of the contract is 21 years. It is dated March 25, 1938, signed by F. L. Stocker, Vice-President on behalf of Wes-Tex Theaters, Inc. and by the other parties individually.

305 Mr. WRIGHT. The exhibits marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 5 through 49, inclusive, and 49-A for identification are all of the agreements produced in response to the subpoenaes duces tecum served upon L. C. Griffith, H. J. Griffith, Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Inc., and Griffith Amusement Company, returnable May 7, 1945, which called for each written agreement (excluding film licenses) made by you since January 1, 1934, with any other defendant or defendants which relates to the ownership, operation or control of one or more motion picture theaters, the licensing of films for exhibition therein, including joint ventures, pooling agreements, booking contracts, etc.

Each written agreement (excluding film licenses) made with you between January 1, 1934, and January 1, 1940, in which one or more parties agreed to restrict the use of premises owned or controlled by them to non-theatrical purposes or agreed to restrict the operation of theatres owned by one or more of them in any way, or agreed not to compete in operating theatres.

Each written agreement (excluding the film licenses) made with you between January 1, 1934, and January 1, 1940, in which you agreed to license or book films for exhibition in motion picture theatres operated by other parties to said agreements.

Each written agreement made with you between 306 January 1, 1934, and January 1, 1940, by which you receive any share of the profits of motion picture theatres operated by other parties to said agreements.

In response to the subpoena duces tecum served upon Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation, return-
317 able May 7, 1945, paragraph six thereof calling for all license agreements made by it with Jake Jones for the exhibition of feature films released during the 1931-1932 season for exhibition in the Ritz Theater at Shawnee, Oklahoma, none have been found after June 1st, and none have been produced.

318 (The following proceedings were taken before the Court.)

Mr. WRIGHT. Last night we had a number of documents marked for identification which appear in the record, and I now offer eight stipulations that we have just had marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 94 through 101 for identification, which relate to the documents or the photostatic copies of documents which were subpoenaed from the distributors' files, and identified in pre-trial depositions in the spring of 1944. There is one stipulation covering each company. No. 94 is the one relating to Paramount Pictures; No. 95 is RKO; No. 96, Loew's; No. 97, United Artists; No. 98, Twentieth Century Fox; No. 99, Universal; No. 100, Vitagraph and Warner; No. 101, Columbia.

The COURT. Will you state just briefly the substance of those. I think you can do it without referring to each one of them.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't think they need to be read into the record at this point. I might outline——

The COURT. Those are the agreements between the producers and defendants?

Mr. WRIGHT. The stipulations cover more than that. Here is in substance what they cover: These stipulations between the Government and defendants cover——

Mr. COCHRAN. May I interrupt? I think you missed
319 the point of the Court's question. He wanted to know if they are stipulations between the producers and the Government, and they are stipulations between the defendants and the plaintiff relating to the documents taken from the files of the producers.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is correct.

The COURT. These photostatic copies of contracts are contracts between the producers and the defendants?

Mr. COCHRAN. They are documents in the files of the producers and he is not now offering the documents themselves but he is merely offering the stipulations relating to the documents.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. COCHRAN. I think it would be well for him to go ahead and state the scope of the stipulations, which can be done in a very general way.

320 Mr. WRIGHT. Each of these stipulations covers master agreements made between the defendants and each of these distributors during the seasons 1933-34 through 1938-39, and some others, and it also covers certain memoranda and correspondence which was found in the files of these distributors, which relates to those contracts, and it also covers correspondence found in their files passing between the distributors and these defendants, and it also covers correspondence found in their files passing between the distributors and some independent competitors of the defendants and it also covers certain contracts found in their files which were made between the distributors and independent competitors of the defendants.

Now, the scope of the stipulation varies as to each class of document. As to the contracts which are signed——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting): Will you pardon me? Inasmuch as there are some eight of these stipulations and each of them is substantially the same, would it not be well to read the portion of the stipulation found in paragraphs 4, 5, 6, and 7 which cover the various classes that you have been talking about? Would you mind stating it that way?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. I can do that. Plaintiff's Exhibit
321 94 for identification, for example, relates to Paramount. I think I may as well read the whole stipulation, and it will give your Honor the best idea of the scope.

Stipulation re exhibits

"Whereas, representatives of the plaintiff herein have had photostatic copies made of certain contracts, letters and other documents taken from the files of Paramount Pictures Incorporated; and

Whereas, each photostat has had an identifying number or letter placed on its face; and

Whereas, these identifying numbers begin with P-1 (A to AA, inc.), and end with P-120-(1 to 39 inc.)."

I might explain there that in numbering each of the company's documents, a preface was attached corresponding to the name of the company, and then where a document is given one number consisting of one or more pages, the pages were successively numbered as a, b, c, and so forth.

"Whereas, some photostats have been riveted or stapled together and carry a numerical number for the entire group so fastened together and carry alphabetical designations for each and every page thereof;

Now, therefore, the parties hereto do hereby stipulate as follows:

1.

That the photostats above referred to were made
322 from originals as found in the files of the above named company, which were assembled and produced by it pursuant to subpoena duces tecum issued by the plaintiff, and each is a true and exact reproduction of the original of the document as such existed in the files of such company at the time the photostat was made.

2.

That in the trial of this case no objection will be made to the admissibility in evidence of such photostats on the ground that the originals of the documents photostated are not offered.

3.

Documents identified as P-120 (1 to 39, inc.), are the respective printed forms of licensing agreements used by the distributor in licensing its product during the seasons 1933 to 1942, respectively; that wherever any contract described in this stipulation contains an agreement that 'distributor's standard license agreement', 'standard form of exhibition contract', or other words of similar import shall be a part of such contract, the standard form for that year as identified in this paragraph shall be considered a part thereof as if it were physically attached thereto."

That was made necessary because in originally photostating the documents in some cases the at-323 tached standard forms are the backs which contained many of the provisions were not originally photostated.

Mr. Cochran. In that connection, I think it well to note for the record that the printed forms of contracts for Universal have not yet been attached. We were not able at the time the stipulations were signed to attach those contracts and we signed the contracts with the understanding that during the course of the trial you would get copies, if you could, and, if not, we would in some way manage to get for the record and for the use of the Court copies of the Universal contracts.

Mr. Warner. We wrote for those some months ago and have not as yet received them but hope to get them for you before the end of the trial, and as soon as they are received, we will incorporate them into the record.

Paragraph four reads, "that the documents identified as P-1 (A to X, inc.), P-2 (A to C, inc.), P-3 (A to G, inc.), P-4 (A to G, inc.), P-5 (A to AA, inc.), P-6 (A to K, inc.), P-7 (A to J, inc.), P-8 (A & B), P-10 (A to L, inc.), P-11 (A to D, inc.), P-12 (A to C, inc.), P-13 (A to D, inc.), P-16 (B to E, inc.), P-20 (D, E, F & G), P-23 (D to G, inc.), P-114C, P-119 (A to E, inc.), are photostatic copies of contracts which were duly executed on behalf of said distributor and which were signed on behalf of the 324 respective exhibitors by the representatives thereof whose names appear signed thereto, except that such portions of said contracts as do not appear in said photostats are contained in exhibits P-120 (1 to 39, inc.)," those are the standard forms "that said documents were executed on or about the respective dates of said instruments and the authority of the persons executing such documents will not be questioned by either party.

That documents identified as P-4 (k), P-90 (A, C, D & M), P-96 (A & B), P-99 (A & B), P-101 (A), P-102 (B), P-103 (B, C & D), P-110 (A), P-111 (A, B & C), and P-112 (F), are photostats of letters written by officials, employees or agents of or on behalf of one of the defendant corporations to the respective addresses thereof, and on the dates respectively appearing thereon." That paragraph refers to correspondence passing between these defendants and the distributors.

325 hibits P-120 (1 to 39, inc.)."

That paragraph, I believe, refers to the contracts made between these distributors and independent operators competing with the defendants.

"That the documents identified as P-1 (Y to AA, inc.), P-4 (H, I, J, L & M), P-14 (A to D, inc.), P-15, P-16 (A), P-17, P-18 (A & B), P-19 (A to C, inc.), P-20 (A to C, inc.), P-21, P-22, P-23 (A to C, inc.), P-24, P-25 (B), P-26 (A), P-28 (C to F, inc.), P-29 (B), P-31 (A & B), P-33 (B & C), P-36 (A & B), P-38 (B), P-39 (A to D, inc.), P-40 (A to D, inc.), P-41 (B), P-45 (A & B), P-46 (A & B), P-47 (A & B), P-48 (A & B), P-49 (A & B), P-52 (A & B), P-53 (A to D, inc.), P-54 (A & B), P-56 A to E, inc.), P-57 (B), P-59 (A to D, inc.), P-60 (A & B), P-61 (B), P-64 (A to D, inc.), P-65 (A & B), P-66 (A & B), P-76 (A), P-77 (A), P-81, P-82 (A & B), P-83, P-84, P-85 (A to D, inc.), P-86 (A to L, inc.), P-87, P-88 (A to D, inc.), P-89 (A to E, inc.), P-90 (B, E to L & N to BB, inc.), P-91 P-92, P-93, P-94 (A to L, inc.), P-95 (A & B), P-96 (C to E, inc.), P-97 (A & B), P-98 (A to D, inc.), P-99 (C), P-100 (A to D, inc.), P-101 (B, C & D), P-102 (A, C & D), P-103 (A & E), P-104 (A & B), P-105 (A to E, inc.), P-106 (A to D, inc.), P-107, P-108, P-109 (A to D, inc.), P-110, (B), P-112 (A to E, inc.), P-113 (A & B), P-114 (A, B, C, D & E), P-115 (A & B), 326 P-116 (A to D, inc.), and P-117 (A to E, inc.), P-118 (A to D), are photostatic copies of documents which were made from the originals in the files of the above named company and which were assembled and produced pursuant to subpoena duces tecum issued on behalf of the plaintiff. It is understood, however, that the defendants do not agree that the documents were signed by the persons by whom they are purported to have been signed, or that the statements contained in said documents were made by persons having authority to make the statements. It is further agreed that when the documents described in each and all of the foregoing paragraphs, are offered in evidence they shall be subject to all objections which might be urged if the original documents were offered in evidence."

Now, this last paragraph relates to the inter-office correspondence of the distributors which was found in the files and their correspondence with persons other than the defendants.

Mr. COCHRAN. Except the clause which gives the right to make objections to all documents, that relates to all documents.

The COURT. In other words, the force and the effect of this stipulation is to make these photostat copies the same as if they were the originals that you are offering and they would be subject to the same objections.

327 Mr. Wright. I think it goes further than that. Of course, as to the contracts, there is no question about the execution and the authority to execute.

The Court. If there is some objection, then it will be with the same force and effect as if being urged to the original document?

Mr. Wright. Yes, sir.

Mr. Cochran. My point as to all of these documents, they will be subject to the same objections as if the originals themselves were introduced in evidence, except as to those documents where we specifically agree that they were executed with authority and so forth.

Mr. Wright. Yes.

328 Mr. Wright. I offer the stipulations of evidence.

Mr. Cochran. Mr. Wright, you were to furnish us three copies of each of those stipulations.

Mr. Wright. Very well. I will offer in evidence the document previously marked as P-1, A to AA, inclusive, described on its face as an agreement dated September 15, 1934, between Paramount Pictures Distributing Company, Inc., and Griffith Amusement Company.

The Court. That will be Exhibit 94, A what?

Mr. Wright. I think for the sake of keeping our own records in order it would be preferable if these exhibits that are identified this way could be admitted under the same numbers.

The Court. I don't mean that but that comes under the stipulation——

Mr. Wright. The stipulation relating to it is 94.

The Court. That is the stipulation. What are your numbers there?

Mr. Wright. P-1, A to AA inclusve, 27 pages.

The Court. Is there any objection to the offer?

Mr. Cochran. That is a document covered by the stipulation, but I think in presenting this case now in order that we may follow the testimony as it goes through,

329 and not be completely in the dark, that counsel should refer to the portions of this contract which he thinks are material to the issues here, and its purpose in relationship to the points he is making in the case so we can follow him. In other words, this is a contract between some of these defendants and involving certain towns and also certain supplemental agreements. He is just offering it as a lump and the several documents should be separated and each one of them may be explained to the Court in order that you may grasp the thing as we go through.

Mr. Wright. I shall be glad to follow that procedure.

If we do that with each of these documents we are going to consume a very considerable amount of time.

The COURT. Just so that we may understand each other, how do you expect the Court to know the portion of this exhibit which you consider material?

Mr. WRIGHT. I regard the whole exhibit as material. I am offering it in its entirety and there are no parts that I would single out and say they are material and that the others are not material in any event.

Mr. COCHRAN. Counsel has made the statement in his opening statement and trial brief that there are certain clauses in these various contracts that he considers illegal per se. As we go through, certainly somewhere in this case we ought to get down to particulars and we 330 haven't had them yet, and we just cannot follow that.

The COURT. Perhaps it would be better to go ahead and introduce the documents and then at a later time analyze the various documents which will give you the information before you have to meet them.

Mr. DUDLEY. We prefer that analysis take place now. It will help us in preparation and it will help the Court to get the theory as this case goes forward. If they go in here in bulk and come back later on we will not save any time. It will certainly help us in the preparation of our theory of the case. I think you should analyze them now.

Mr. WRIGHT. I assumed that is what we did when we made an opening statement and when we filed the trial brief here sometime ago, in which we gave a general description of these documents and described in general terms the particular provisions and the characteristics of the documents that we thought made them illegal.

The COURT. Then you are relying on the entire exhibit?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

The COURT. Then I see no occasion for an analysis. If, however, there are certain portions of them on which you rely and certain portions on which you do not rely, I think the analysis should be made, but if you are 331 relying on the whole document I see no occasion for any analysis.

Mr. COCHRAN. He is offering several different documents jointly. I am objecting to that because to some of them I may want to make objections. For instance, the documents which he is offering cover some documents which are in paragraph 4; some documents which are in paragraph 7. It is just impossible to follow him in his method of presentation. I still think the Court should try to give us an opportunity to grasp this thing as we go through.

The COURT. Just state what it contains, then, Mr. Wright.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will first want to comply with Mr. Cochran's suggestion and first offer the document identified as Exhibit P-1, A through O, inclusive. That is this agreement I have referred to and which covers the general terms of exhibition of the Paramount pictures in the various theaters in towns operated by the Griffith Amusement Company which are listed on page B and page E, Griffith Theaters, Incorporated, which are listed on the same page and Consolidated Theaters, Incorporated, listed on the same page, and then a number of affiliates. Lowenstein Theaters operating at Ardmore; North Central Oklahoma Theaters operating at Blackwell and on page C, it covers Blackwell Amusement Company operating at Blackwell;
332 Cleburne Theaters, Inc., at Cleburne, Texas; Clinton Theaters, Incorporated, operating at Clinton, Oklahoma; Gainesville Amusement Company operating at Gainesville, Texas; Charles Blaine Theaters operating at Henryetta, Oklahoma; Lindesy Theaters Incorporated, operating at Lubbock, Texas; Coleman Interests operating at Miami, Oklahoma; Fred Morley Theaters operating at Midland, Texas; Reno Theaters, Incorporated, operating the Reno Theater in Oklahoma City; Eastern Oklahoma Theaters, Incorporated, operating the Yale Theater at Okmulgee; R. H. Williams interests operating theaters at Tonkawa; W. J. Moore, operating the theater at Fairfax; Walmur Amusement Company operating two theaters at Bristow. Those parties are collectively designated as the exhibitors.

Mr. COCHRAN. Did you give the date of that contract?

Mr. WRIGHT. I have already, yes. It is September 15, 1934, and on page D it appears that the seasons covered are the three years commencing respectively on August 1, 1934, August 1, 1935, and August 1, 1936, and the 1934-35 '36-37 seasons inclusive. The document covers all of the distributors short subjects, news reels and features to be released during those periods except for such photoplays as to which the distributor would be required to ob-
333 tain the consent or approval of the producer or other party to the terms and conditions of licensing the exhibitions thereof.

There is also a provision that the road showing or prevue or pre-release of any photoplays during these seasons shall not be deemed a general release.

Mr. COCHRAN. I am just wondering if at this time it might be agreed that all of the pictures released by the various producers of motion pictures are subject to the copyright laws of the United States and are copyrighted under the copyright laws of the United States?

Mr. WRIGHT. They are all in fact copyrighted. I haven't any information as to whether or not they were properly entitled to the copyright at the time it was granted. Of course, there is no question about the fact they are copyrighted when made.

This page D then provides for the terms of rental to the exhibitor. That is, all of these companies that I named, collectively agree to exhibit each flat rental feature, short subjects and news reels, licensed hereunder for the exhibition period of one to four consecutive days, and the exhibitor shall have the privilege of prevuing all or any of such photoplays on the night prior to the regular engagement upon making a request to the exhibitor for such privilege.

The agreement also provides that in each of the 334 following cities the class A feature photoplays are to be exhibited for an exhibition period of two to four consecutive days each. Two of the class A features are to be exhibited for three or four consecutive days; two of the class B features are to be exhibited two to four consecutive days and two of the class B features are to be exhibited for three or four consecutive days. Then the towns named are Lubbock, Texas; Shawnee, Oklahoma; Okmulgee, Oklahoma; Bartlesville, Oklahoma; Ardmore, [illegible]rman and Blackwell.

[illegible]he agreement further provides that in the City of [illegible]da, each class A and each class B feature shall be exhibited for two or three consecutive days. I am now referring to the page marked E, and the exhibitor agrees to pay the distributor as licensees for the license to exhibit the features licensed hereunder during the first year of the agreement, that is the 1934-35 season, the following sums: In the class A, meaning the best theaters and on preferred playing times, which includes Saturday or Sunday, in Lubbock and Shawnee, Okmulgee, Bartlesville, Ardmore, Ada, Norman and Blackwell, the exhibitor agrees to exhibit four features in all as class A features to be designated by the distributor from those licensed and four more to be known as class B features also designated by the distributor from those licensed. The exhibitor agrees to pay for the license to exhibit these class A features the 335 sum of 35 per cent of the gross receipts, and in addition a recording charge of $5 per photoplay, and to pay for the license to exhibit each class B feature, a sum equal to 30 per cent of the gross receipts, in addition to the recording charge of $5 per photoplay.

The next paragraph provides for the prevue privilege of any class A or class B feature on the night prior to the opening of a regular engagement on the same terms, except that no recording charge is to be made.

F provides that each class A and each class B feature shall be designated by the distributor prior to play date thereof, and one half of the class A and one-half of the class B features shall be designated during each six months of the first yearly period. The exhibitor agrees to exhibit in the following towns, and I believe those are the same towns as these already designated, the remaining 56 feature photoplays to be released by the distributor during the 1934-35 season, and to exhibit all of the feature photoplays released by the distributor during the same period in the other towns embraced within this agreement, and for the license to exhibit the photoplays referred to in this subdivision, 2-A, the exhibitor agrees to pay to the distributor the sum of $88,364. That is in summary. It appears that in these designated eight towns there were eight class A and class B features that were to be 336 exhibited on percentage terms, and that the rest of the features be exhibited in those towns and all of the features exhibited in all of the other towns would be paid for by this $88,364.

The COURT. That $88,000 item does not include the percentage basis?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, sir.

The COURT. That is in excess?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is right. In subparagraph B or section 2, the exhibitor agrees to exhibit in each of the towns embraced within the agreement all of the short subjects and to pay for them the sum of $11,064. Then C covers the news reel for which $14,972 was to be paid in all of the towns covered and sub paragraph D—I am now reading from the page marked G—the sum total of all the license fees referred to is $114,400, and that the exhibitor agrees to pay any weekly installments as follows: Beginning with the week ending August 18, 1934, and four consecutive weeks thereafter for four months, the exhibitor shall pay the distributor the sum of $800 per week. Beginning with the week ending September 15, 1934, and each consecutive week thereafter for weeks consecutively, agrees to pay the sum of $1600 per week. Then for the next four weeks, $3000 a week. For the next eight weeks, $2800 per week. For the 32 weeks, $2200 per week.

337 Section 3 provides that if the distributor shall not release during the yearly period hereinabove referred to—that is the '34-35 season—the total number of feature photo plays, short subject photo plays and news reel set forth hereinabove the distributor shall refund to the exhibitor on August 15, 1935, any over payment made by the exhibitor computed on the following basis:

A schedule shall be attached and made a part of this agreement, in which schedule shall be set forth a table classifying the feature photo plays as follows: Class "A" 4, Class "B" 4, Class "C" 20, Class "D" 20, Class "E" 16, and under each of these various classifications the amount to be charged per photo play for each town shall be listed.

The lowest classification shall be Class "D" and Class "E". The total of the "D" classification shall not exceed an average of $1400 per picture, and the total of the "E" classification shall not exceed an average of $1000 per picture, and any deductions to be made shall be made equally from these two groups. If the number of photo plays not released shall be an odd number, then such odd photo play shall be deducted from Class "E", that is, should the distributor fail to release three subjects, two would be deducted from Class "E" and one from Class "D", or should 338 the distributor fail to release five subjects, two would be deducted from Class "D" and three from Class "E".

Then it provides that shorts are to be broken down on the same schedule as follows; and as to news reels and individual price for each situation shall be shown, and a rebate to be made on August 15, 1935.

Paragraph 4th covers the remaining two years of the agreement, that is, the '35-36 and '36-37 season, during which the exhibitor agrees to exhibit in each of the towns embraced within this agreement, for the same exhibition periods and subject to all of the conditions hereinbefore specified for the first year hereof, namely, August 1, 1934, to July 31, 1935, all of the feature photo plays, feature pictures released by the distributor not exceeding 64, all of the shorts not exceeding 100, and all of the news reels not exceeding 104. Those, I believe, are issued twice a week, and for the privilege of exhibiting these photo plays released during the 1935-36 season, the exhibitor agrees to pay the same percentage terms as specified for the 1934-35 season, and for all of the other pictures licensed he agrees to pay $125,840.00, payable in 52 equal weekly payments of $2,420.00; then for the 1936-37 season they agreed to pay the same percentage terms as provided for the other two years and for the flat rental pictures a total of $132,132.00 is to 339 be paid, payable in weekly installments of $2,541.00 each.

Fifth, it is understood and agreed that the distributor is not obligated to release in any year hereof the number of feature photo plays, short subject photo plays or news reels set forth hereinabove, but if the distributor should release less than such number of photo plays, rebates are to be accorded to the exhibitor as hereinabove provided.

In the event the distributor's short subject releases shall not consist of the same unit set forth in the attached schedule, the exhibitor agrees to exhibit and to pay for any substituted short subjects, upon the average license fees per reel. The exhibitor shall not be obligated, however, by reason of such substitutions, to accept a greater number of one-reel short subject photo plays than is hereinbefore provided for.

The distributor agrees that no substitutions shall be made for news reels licensed hereunder.

It is agreed further that for the purpose of determining and computing the license fee to be paid by the exhibitor for the license to exhibit the photo plays licensed hereunder and for all other purposes hereunder the distributor shall have the right to classify from time to time the photo plays licensed for exhibition hereunder. That refers to the A, B, C, D, and E designations.

340 Sixth: It is agreed that since the exhibitor is obligated to pay license fees (except for the percentage pictures) on a weekly payment basis, the exhibitor shall not be required to exhibit photoplays in the order of their general release; provided, however, that the exhibitor shall not exhibit photo plays out of the order of general release, if in so doing it shall interfere with or delay the exhibition of photoplays to be exhibited by other exhibitors with whom the distributor may contract or has contracted for the exhibition of the distributor's photoplays.

Seventh: (a) The exhibitor agrees to charge an admission price of not less than twenty-five cents per adult and ten cents per child during evening performances in Class "A" theaters, and not less than fifteen cents per adult in Class "B" theaters.

Then, with respect to photoplays exhibited first run in Oklahoma City for a night adult admission price of forty cents or more for the entire lower floor, the exhibitor agrees to charge at the Rialto and Reno Theaters, Oklahoma City, a minimum adult admission price of twenty-five cents, provided the Victoria, Circle, Ritz, Empress and Folly Theaters also charge a minimum adult admission price of twenty-five cents during the exhibition of such photoplays.

Eighth: It is agreed that the exhibitor shall be released from his obligation to exhibit photoplays in 341 any town covered hereunder where the exhibitor shall permanently close all of his theaters therein. However, the weekly sums payable to the distributor hereunder shall not be diminished by reason of any such permanent closing. In the case of such permanent closing as herein provided during any year of the three yearly periods hereinbefore referred to, the exhibitor shall be entitled to a credit from the distributor on the August 15th next succeeding the particular year when all of the theaters in any such town shall be permanently closed for photoplays not exhibited in such towns, equal to the respective sums payable for such photoplays, in accordance with the sums specified for such towns in the schedule hereto annexed.

Ninth: It is agreed that this agreement shall not include any foreign made feature photoplays. For all purposes of this agreement a foreign made feature photoplay shall be deemed to be a photoplay produced in a foreign country with feature players therein other than those generally recognized as stars or feature players in the United States of America.

Tenth: (a) The clearance to be granted to the exhibitor hereunder shall be mutually agreed upon; such clearance, however, shall be expressly subject to any zoning and clearance schedule which may be adopted in pursuance of the Code of fair competition for the motion picture 342 industry and any clearance herein provided for shall be deemed modified in accordance with any such schedule, amendment or modification thereof.

(b) It is agreed that feature photoplays shall be available for exhibition in the Reno and Rialto Theaters, Oklahoma City, seven days after they have completed the first run downtown exhibition or exhibitions in Oklahoma City and the following subsequent run theaters, namely, the Victoria, Circle, Ritz, Empress, Folly and Liberty Theaters, but in no event more than one hundred and eighty days after such first run exhibition or exhibitions.

Section (c) provides: That newsreels shall be made available to one-third of the exhibitor's towns within seven days after general release thereof, to one-third of exhibitor's towns within fourteen days after general release thereof, and to one-third of the exhibitor's towns within twenty-one days after general release thereof, and that feature photoplays and one-reel shorts shall be made available to one-third of exhibitor's towns within twenty-three days of general release thereof, to one-third of exhibitor's towns within forty-six days of general release thereof, and to one-third of exhibitor's towns within seventy days of general release thereof. And the availability of feature photoplays to the exhibitor's theaters in Oklahoma City is 343 covered specifically in sub-division (b) of this article.

The next paragraph is one by which it is agreed that any pre-release or any picture opening in key cities ahead of other towns but not generally released for the balance of the exchange territory, shall not be considered available hereunder until such pre-release or key city booking is completed.

Eleventh: The distributor agrees that so long as the Code of Fair Competition for the motion picture industry adopted under the National Recovery Act shall be in effect and exhibitors generally shall be entitled to elimination privileges thereunder, the exhibitor shall likewise be entitled to such elimination privilege hereunder, it being expressly agreed that any such eliminations are to be and shall be from the lowest priced releases, the exhibitor, however, to have the privilege of later reinstating any pictures so eliminated by other pictures of the same classification which the exhibitor might prefer to eliminate.

Twelfth: (a) The distributor agrees that all New Mexico towns may be served from the distributor's Dallas exchange. Some of those were normally served, I think from Denver.

(b) The distributor agrees that whenever requested it will furnish to the exhibitor without additional charge therefor, except in Oklahoma City, a second run for 344 not exceeding each of twenty towns embraced within this agreement.

Thirteenth: It is agreed that if the exhibitor shall during the term of this agreement open additional theaters in any of the towns covered herein, with the exception of Oklahoma City, that any of the flat rental feature photoplays, short subject photoplays or newsreels may be exhibited therein in place of any of the theaters named herein. It is further agreed that in the towns where the exhibitor has agreed to exhibit eight pictures on percentage, should the exhibitor build or acquire a theater which in the distributor's opinion is better than the present Class "A" theater, that such eight percentage pictures shall be exhibited in such new theater.

Fourteenth: It is agreed that all of the terms and conditions of the distributor's standard license agreement, form 3440-J, attached hereto, and all changes or modifications thereof made from time to time during the term of this agreement, shall apply to this agreement as if such terms and conditions were incorporated herein except where such terms and conditions may be inconsistent with the provisions hereof, in which event the provisions of this agreement shall prevail.

Fifteenth: The exhibitor's obligation hereunder
345 shall be joint and several with the exception of the Griffith Amusement Company which shall be obligated only with respect to photoplays to be exhibited hereunder in theaters owned and/or operated by said Griffith Amusement Company.

Mr. COCHRAN. That completes that document.

Mr. WRIGHT. All right.

Mr. COCHRAN. Would you mind now turning to your standard form of contract which has been produced and let us identify the particular contract which is referred to in paragraph 14, in order that there may be no misunderstanding. Your Honor, the purpose of that is to try to aviod any misunderstanding as to these documents which were identified by certain numbers, and which cannot be readily connected, with these particular contracts, and I just wanted to be sure that we were talking about the same thing.

Mr. WRIGHT. At this time, with this agreement, we will offer all of the forms which have been identified as P–120–1 to P–120–39, inclusive, and the three which I believe apply specifically to this agreement are those numbered P–120–11 for the 1934-35 season, P–120–12 for the 1935-36 season, and P–120–17, for the 1936-37 season. That completes the offer in connection with P–1 A to O inclusive. Do you want to make an objection?

346 Mr. COCHRAN. No.

The COURT. They will be admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. These are admitted under the same numbers as they now bear?

The COURT. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. We offer the schedules here that begins on P, I think it extends through P, Q, R and S, and I will offer these together. The schedule is headed at the top August 1, 1934 to July 1, 1935, and then has these columns headings, town, theater, then 4-A, 4-B, 20-C, 20-D, 16-E. It is headed 64 scores, 70 miscellaneous one-reel, 12 Betty Boops, 12 Pop-Eyes, 6 color class, 104 newsreels. Under those columns respectively appear the names, Yale or Palace, Claremore, Oklahoma, and opposite Yale or Palace, Claremore, under the 4-A column is the figure $22.50, under 4-B $13, under 20-C, $12, under 20-D, $11, under 16-E $10, under 64 scores $2.50, under 70 miscellaneous, $2, under 12 Betty Boops, $2.50, under 12 Pop-Eyes $3, under 6 color class $4, and under 104 newsreels, $2.50. Then continuing under the town and theater column are listed the names of the various theaters covered by the agreement, in Fairfax, Hobbs, New Mexico, Maud, Tonkawa, Vinita, Wellington, Texas, Wink, Texas, Portales, New Mexico, Oklahoma City, Hugo. Then the statement appears underneath the various other columns "All remaining theaters 347 in this bracket with the exception of the Rialto, Oklahoma City, are the same price as on Claremore, Oklahoma." Those are the prices that are read. Then beginning with the Rialto, a separate list of prices is made for the Rialto Theater in Oklahoma City. That completes page P. On Q of the schedule then are listed Chandler, Elk City——

Mr. COCHRAN. (interrupting): That is just a continuation of a similar schedule for other towns?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is right.

Mr. COCHRAN. In other words, this particular exhibit is the schedule which is referred to in the contract where it shows the towns and the theaters in each town in which the picture to be shown and the price of the picture for each town.

Mr. WRIGHT. And the towns are arranged in various price brackets.

The COURT. I don't think it is necessary to go into detail with all that, gentlemen.

Mr. WRIGHT. We are offering them with the attached schedules.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. There being no objection, let it be admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. Then T is the front of the license agreement for the group S-6, which is similar to the 348 standard forms already offered.

Mr. COCHRAN. The reason for the production of the standard forms of agreement which have already been identified was because in photostating this contract and other contracts the standard form contract which was referred to was not fully photostated and this exhibit P or T is simply one page of the standard form of contract for a certain year which was attached and which duplicates in part the document which has already been offered, and referred to as the standard form of contract for that year, is that right?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir. Then, we will also offer in evidence pages U, V, W, X, Y, Z and AA, which are the remaining pages of Exhibit P-1, which is called a supplemental agreement between Paramount and Griffith Amusement Company, dated September 22, 1936.

Mr. Cochran. We want to make an objection, but probably we had better wait until you state it. There is no objection to P-1 U to X, inclusive, but as to Y, which is being offered——

Mr. Wasson (interrupting): I beg pardon, I thought it was one agreement. I meant to offer first U to X, inclusive. This agreement modifies a prior agreement referred to as a franchise covering film service in Oklahoma, Texas
349 and New Mexico, in the theaters specified there and recites whereas, paragraph twelfth, subdivision (b) of said agreement, that is the franchise, provides that the distributor agrees that whenever requested it will furnish to the exhibitor without additional charge therefor, except in Oklahoma City, a second run for not exceeding each of twenty towns embraced within this agreement, and,

Whereas, the parties have never operated under said provision of the agreement in the manner and forms therein stated but in certain instances second run product has been furnished by the distributor to the exhibitor and other persons or corporations for whose benefits said agreement was made, in specified theaters, under the provisions of said franchise agreement, and,

Whereas, it is the desire of the parties to modify said franchise agreement, executed as of September 15, 1934, in certain particulars,

Now, therefore, in consideration of the sum of One dollar and other valuable considerations in hand paid, paragraph twelve is modified to provide that the exhibitor shall be furnished 40 feature length pictures and 80 one reel shorts for second runs in the following towns: Lubbock, Borger, Pampa, Ardmore, Shawnee, Seminole, Bartlesville, Okmulgee and Ada, Oklahoma, and in addition, subsequent runs in the Rialto and Reno Theatres in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and that no other theatres or 350 locations shall be embraced within the terms of said franchise agreement for second run exhibition.

2. That all of said feature and short subject product for the towns herein specified that shall not be selected for exhibition by the exhibitor within sixty (60) days after the national release date of each feature or short subject shall, at the end of said sixty-day period, be automatically released.

Then Y, Z and AA are a supplemental memorandum between Paramount and Griffith Amusement Company, dated September 22, 1936.

Mr. Cochran. We are objecting to that document for the reason that it is not in the class of documents described in paragraph 4 but it is simply described as a document found in the files which were produced pursuant to the subpoena. It appears to be a copy of the exhibit which was just introduced, but it is not signed, it has some typewritten signatures to it and it is immaterial and a duplication.

Mr. Wright. Then there is no need to offer it and I will withdraw the offer, in that event. Then, I take it that Exhibits P-1 A through X is received in evidence? I had, if the Court please, intended to offer all of these agreements between the defendants and the exhibitors before we put on any testimony, but we have some wit-
351 nesses here who have been waiting and I think I will go ahead and present oral testimony so they can be released.

The Court. Let all the witnesses who expect to testify stand and be sworn.

(Witnesses sworn.)

Testimony on behalf of the plaintiff

Dennis Scaling, called as a witness by and on behalf of the plaintiff and having been first duly sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination, by Mr. Wright:

Q. Will you state your name?
A. Dennis Scaling.
Q. Where do you live?
A. Hale Center, Texas.
Q. What is your occupation?
A. Stock farming.
Q. Were you formerly in the theater business?
A. Yes.
Q. Where?
A. Plainview.
352 Q. Operating what theater?
A. The Fair Theater.
Q. Were you in the theater business before that?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Whereabouts?
A. In Hale Center.
Q. That was during what period?
A. Starting with 1921.
Q. Until when?
A. About 1929.
Q. You operated a theater there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then were you in the theater business after that?

A. Yes, sir, I was associated with Paramount Publix Theater Corporation.

Q. Whereabouts?

A. In Forth Worth, Texas, and Enid, Oklahoma.

Q. That was during what period?

A. That was from '29 up to 1931.

Q. In what capacity were you associated with them?

A. I was assistant manager in Forth Worth and city manager in Enid, Oklahoma.

Q. And then you left the Paramount Theater Company in 1931?

A. Yes, sir.

353 Q. Did you return to Plainview then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go into the theater business there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. Along in '32.

Q. Who were you associated with in that operation?

A. Mr. C. C. Lindsey of Lubbock, Texas.

Q. Did you and Mr. Lindsey lease a theater there then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What theater was that?

A. It was the old Plainview Theater.

Q. What other theaters were operating there then?

A. The Grenada and the Olympic. The Grenada was the only one that was operating.

Q. Who operated the Grenada?

A. Mr. Oscar Korn from Dallas.

Q. During what period did you and Mr. Lindsey operate there?

A. From 1932 up until approximately the middle of '33.

Q. And then that was the Plainview Theater?

A. That was the Ritz Theater, in the old Plainview Theater building.

Q. You renamed the theater the Ritz when you and Mr. Lindsey opened it?

354 A. Yes, sir.

Q. You operated the Ritz until when with Mr. Lindsey?

A. From 1932 until along in the spring or early summer of '33.

355 Mr. Wright. At this time I will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit 4 for identification, the operating agreement between Foster McSwain and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Incorporated, and C. C. Lindsey, dated June 25, 1935, relating to the operation of the Ritz Theater at Plainview, and referring to the purchase of the Granada and Palace Theaters at Plainview from the O. K. Theaters Corporation through Oscar Korn.

Mr. Rice. No objection.

Mr. Cochran. As to the defendants Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated Theaters, L. C. and H. J. Griffith, we object to the introduction of the document insofar as it may be considered evidence against them, for the reason that they are not parties to the agreement.

The Court. It will not be considered as to them unless it is connected up.

Mr. Wright. Of course, it is offered against all defendants on the theory that they are all engaged in a combination.

The Court. Of course, it would not be competent as to the objecting defendants unless it is connected.

Mr. Wright. Yes.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Now, Mr. Scaling, while you and Mr. Lindsey operated the theater at Plainview, what sort of policy did 356 you operate it under?

A. We just operated as a partnership.

Q. I mean with reference to major film product.

A. I did all the booking and buying.

Q. What did you have there, what product?

A. I had Paramount, the last two contracts were not played, first run. I had some United Artists outbacks. I had a few independent pictures and what second run on Paramount that I wanted to play.

Q. When the operation of yourself and Mr. Lindsey terminated, do you recall about what date that was?

A. I recall along about April, 1933; along at that time.

Q. I show you this exhibit marked for identification as Exhibit No. 104, and ask you if you recognize the signatures at the bottom of the second page.

Mr. Cochran. May I inquire what that exhibit is, the one that has been admitted in evidence?

Mr. Wright. That was No. 4.

Mr. Cochran. This one is 104.

Mr. Wright. Yes.

By the Witness:

A. Yes, I identified that.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Those are your signatures and those of Massey, Silverthorne, Mr. McSwain, Mr. R. E. Griffith and Mr. Lindsey?

A. Yes, sir.

357 Q. Is that the assignment of the lease that was made from you and Mr. Lindsey at the time the operation was taken over by Mr. McSwain, Mr. Griffith and Mr. Lindsey?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright. I offer that in evidence, Plaintiff's Exhibit 104.

Mr. Rice. You are offering the attachment also?

Mr. Wright. Yes, sir. The document I refer to is on the second page and is the agreement dated July 1, 1933, under which the lease was assigned from Mr. Scaling and Mr. Lindsey to Mr. McSwain, Mr. Griffith and Mr. Lindsey.

Mr. Rice. Of course, we don't see either the relevancy or materiality of it at this time and reserve that objection. It is a lease of real property in Plainview, Texas, made to Mr. Scaling and his associates by the owner of the property in 1932.

The Court. What is the purpose of it?

Mr. Wright. I think they want to fix the date of the transfer of the theater from Mr. Lindsey and Mr. Scaling's hands to Mr. Griffith, Mr. Lindsey and Mr. McSwain. That is all the agreement does.

The Court. That only involves the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Incorporated, and that is the only defendant that applies to.

Mr. Wright. Yes.

358 The Court. Unless you connect it.

Mr. Wright. It is offered against all.

The Court. It will be admitted subject to the same ruling as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 4.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Is this Exhibit 104 which bears the date on the second page of July 1, 1933, is that the date on which the operation was taken over by Griffith, Lindsey and McSwain?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you continue with the theater in any capacity then?

A. I continued with the theaters as manager.

Q. For how long?

A. Until the latter part of June, 1935.

Q. During that period that you managed the theater what major film product did it play?

A. I continued to play the Paramount product that I had, first run, and what I wanted off the second run. I secured the cutbacks of United Artists and second runs off of United Artists and second runs of M-G-M, RKO, and Columbia besides a few independents.

Mr. Cochran. We object to that testimony and move it be stricken for the reason that the contracts themselves will be the best evidence as to the product which he had. I have found that in these cases it is very indefinite 359 and uncertain for these witnesses to say that they had a certain product when the product which they did have is covered by a written license agreement and definitely shows what product they had. The Government has had access to the files of each of these corporations and has obtained such documents as it wanted and those documents would be the best evidence, and a statement by this witness does not constitute the best evidence as to the product which was licensed to him at that time.

The Court. Overruled. Exception allowed. He has testified to what he did; not to the substance of the contract. I don't think it is material one way or the other. I think I just as well tell you now you are assembling quite an aggregation of material here that I don't think affects the issues in the case.

Mr. Cochran. One reason why I am anxious that your Honor get the purpose of the offering of this testimony as it goes along and follow it, is because that which now to your Honor seems to have no bearing on the theory on which the Government is trying its case may later prove to have a bearing if competent——

The Court. The objection will be overruled at this time and exception allowed.

Mr. Cochran. Let me finish this statement just a moment. Here he is having this witness testify that 360 during this period of time he operated a theater in Plainview that he had certain second run product from four or five different distributors which I say is not competent evidence of that fact. The Government will expect to follow that up by having this witness testify and attempting to prove otherwise that he sold this theater and that later he came back into that situation and they will contend that when he came back that he was not able to obtain from these various distributors product, second run——

The Court. I am sustaining the objection, Judge Cochran. He was a partner of R. E. Griffith and the third owner of this particular theater.

Mr. Wright. No, he wasn't the owner, he was the manager.

The Court. He was the manager for the different owners. This defendant was an owner. That is why I asked that. Overruled. Exception allowed. I will permit you to raise the same question if it becomes material later.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Do you recall when it was you were replaced as manager of the theater there in Plainview?

A. Sure, the 25th of June, 1935.

Q. That was after the operators had purchased the other theaters in the town of Korn?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then did you again go into the theater
361 business at Plainview?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was in connection with what theater?

A. That was in connection with the Fair Theater.

Q. When did that theater open?

A. It opened along in January, 1936.

Q. With whom were you associated in operating that theater?

A. I was a third partner of Mr. R. Q. Silverthorne, J. H. Massey in Tower Theaters, Incorporated.

Q. That was the name of the corporation that operated the Fair?

A. Yes, sir, the Fair Theater.

Q. How long did you operate the Fair Theater there?

A. We operated the Fair Theater for about 42 weeks.

Q. Can you describe for us the general theater situation in that town at the time you opened the Fair, with reference to the size and general character of theater and the other theaters there and their mode of operation?

A. Yes, sir. Mr. Griffith operated the Grenada Theater, a theater of about 1100 seats. We operated the Fair Theater with approximately 650 and Mr. Griffith operated the Texas Theater with approximately 400 or 450 seats.

Q. The Texas Theater, was that one you had formerly managed, and where was the Texas Theater located?

362 A. The Texas Theater was located in the same building with the Fair Theater. Just changed the names. The Texas Theater had moved out of the Fair Theater building down the street.

Q. And your Fair Theater was opened in the same building that the Texas Theater had occupied when it was operated by Griffith?

A. Correct.

Q. And did you describe the new Texas Theater, or the Texas Theater which Griffith was operating at the time you opened the Fair Theater?

A. The Texas Theater that he was operating was approximately 650 seats, in the Fair Theater building.

Q. I am talking about the Texas Theater that was being operated at the time you opened the Fair Theater in January, 1936.

A. It had approximately 400 seats; maybe more; just a class B house or C, whatever you class it.

Q. What would class the Granada?

A. Class A.

Q. The Granada was the A house?

A. Yes, sir, it was the best theater.

Q. Then what was the next best theater?

A. The Fair Theater.

Q. And after that?

363 A. The Texas.

Q. Those were the only three that were then operating?

A. Yes.

Q. Just before you opened the Fair, can you tell us what policy Griffith was operating the Granada and Texas under with reference to programs?

A. He was operating on a period of six changes a week; three at each house.

Q. You mean the changes of features?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is, each theater would use six first run pictures a week?

A. Six in the two houses, yes, sir; three to each house.

Q. Three at each house?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you state the date when you opened the Fair theater?

A. I opened the Fair Theater on January 11, 1936.

Q. What major product, if any, did you have when you opened it?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that as not the best evidence. That goes right back to the same proposition.

The COURT. What do you mean by that? I am not fully acquainted, you understand, with the technical terms in this art and we will have to approach it gradually.

364 Mr. WRIGHT. That is a phrase used, an expression they use for features and pictures and product interchangeably, but I will withdraw the question and we can eliminate that objection because I have the contracts here.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I show you the contract that has been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 102, and I will ask you if you recognize that contract?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is a contract for Universal pictures to be exhibited at the Fair Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright. Your Honor, that covers the Universal features, first run, in Plainview for the 1935-36 season, and I believe attached to it is a schedule of serials and shorts.

The Court. That is the contract between the witness and Universal.

Mr. Wright. Yes. I offer that in evidence.

The Court. It will be admitted.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Now in addition to the feature pictures available to you under that contract that has just been admitted as Exhibit 102, what major product, if any, did you play in the Fair Theater during that period you operated it, from January 1936 on?

Mr. Rice. He has already introduced one contract
365 with Universal that he played——

The Court. What was the question?

(Question read.)

The Court. You mean the pictures included in this particular contract?

Mr. Wright. In addition to this I asked him what features were released by major companies and played during that period.

The Court. You may answer.

By the Witness:

A. I played United Artists, first run, cutbacks from the 1934—35 contracts, and I played second run off the United Artists and I played some independent product and whatever I could get, and I played back off of my Universal contract a few of their pictures.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Second run?

A. Second run, yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell the Court what you mean by a cutback? A. A cutback is a picture that has been rejected by the exhibitor under the terms of his contract. For instance, if a picture is not of a box office value or is not any good, a lot of times the exhibitor has the right to cut that picture back and not play it, if he figures the box office value is not there. After it is cut back it is offered to other exhibitors.

Q. After it is cut back it is offered to other exhibitors?

366 A. Yes, if they want to buy it.

Q. Did you make any effort during that period to license any other second run product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. From whom?

A. Well, I contacted RKO. I was in their office along in, I believe in March of that year, 1936.

Q. Their office where?

A. Dallas, Texas.

Q. You went to Dallas to buy films?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was in March of that year, 1936?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whom did you see at the RKO exchange?

A. I asked Mr. Sacks, the manager whom I talked to, Mr. Wheeler, the assistant manager, and booker, and Mr. Cummings, the head booker.

Q. What was said there?

Mr. Cochran. We object to that for the reason it is hearsay evidence so far as the defendants are concerned, each and every one of them.

The Court. Sustained. Exception allowed.

Mr. Wright. If the Court please, the only way we can show what the course of business was between these witnesses and the distributors in attempting to license films, of course, is to put in hearsay evidence; evidence 367 that is admittedly hearsay as to the transactions between them.

The Court. You are alleging a conspiracy and the rules of evidence are very definite that a conspiracy can only be proven by the word or act of a conspirator. You are offering evidence here of a conversation between the witness and someone not a party to this action in any way. Objection sustained.

Mr. Wright. If the Court pleases, conversations similar to this have been admitted without exception in the other cases that we tried by the district courts of New York and Tennessee, and in which exactly the same issues were involved.

The Court. This will be an exception.

Mr. Wright. May I tell Your Honor the theory on which I believe the evidence is admissible?

The Court. Yes, sir. I will hear you on that point.

Mr. WRIGHT. Certain statements have been made here, and you can see from counsel's opening statement, to the effect that these contracts that the defendants made with the exhibitors, their method of dealing with them, did not prevent independents from getting certain pictures in opposition to them. Now, we propose to show that the effect of those contracts and dealings between the exhibi-
368 tors and the distributors, that is, one effect of that conspiracy was to prevent the independent from operating in opposition and obtaining pictures, and that is the only way I know of in which those effects may be shown, and in which we have every intention to show them, as by showing exactly what the dealings were between the independent and those exhibitors who——

The COURT. If you ask this witness if he got certain pictures from a certain company I will permit him to answer, but you are asking him for a conversation with a representative of another company not a party to the suit. The Court's ruling is positive on that.

Mr. WRIGHT. I am not sure that Your Honor is aware of this fact, that each of these distributors, while not a party is also named in the pleadings as a co-conspirator. I don't think the rule of admissibility is any different as to co-conspirators who are defendants and those who are not defendants. At least, that is the rule that has been followed in the trial of these other cases where we have had exactly the same situation, and I submit that certainly the evidence is admissible under the conspiracy rule at this time, subject to connection, of course.

The COURT. I don't know of any such rule. We have tried a great many conspiracy cases in this court. I think I have read every opinion on a conspiracy case that 369 is available. I know of no way of connecting a man with a conspiracy except by a statement of an alleged conspirator or by an act of his. That cannot be proven by what somebody else said.

Mr. WRIGHT. May I ask if Your Honor has read the decision of the Supreme Court on the question in the Crescent case?

The COURT. No, I haven't.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it clearly appears from that decision, from those findings and from the decision of the Supreme Court that the evidence on which the Government relied to sustain its case, and the evidence which the Supreme Court in the Crescent case found had been properly admitted, was evidence which consisted of testimony by the complaining witnesses as to what there dealings had been with the distributors who contracted with the defendants.

The COURT. You need not argue that question any more. The Court is positive in his position. If I am not right the Supreme Court will have to say so, but I do not know of any such rule.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think the Supreme Court has already stated as clearly as it can in the Crescent case that this testimony is admissible.

The COURT. The objection is sustained and exception allowed. That is as far as we will go on that point. I 370 think I know what the law of conspiracy is. Are you going to say here that hearsay testimony is admissible in a conspiracy case? I do not know of any reason why a different rule should be applied to one class of cases than to another.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court pleases, I do not propose to attempt to discuss the reasoning any further except to say that in the Crescent case decided by the Supreme Court in December of last year, that it was plainly held that evidence of this character is material and properly admissible. That is all I can say.

The COURT. The Court has ruled. The Supreme Court may have said that. I don't know what it will do next week, but this Court has spoken.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't know what it will do next week either, but I suppose until they change it, this ruling stands.

The COURT. The Supreme Court has laid down some very definite rules on conspiracy, and in one case a very eminent chief justice said that of all the cases filed a conspiracy case is the most difficult to defend. Therefore, the rules of evidence certainly should not be departed from in a conspiracy case any more than any other. I don't think it is competent evidence.

Mr. WRIGHT. No one is attempting to depart from the rules of evidence. I am merely pointing out the rule 371 as announced by the Supreme Court which holds that this type of evidence is admissible.

The COURT. It is not in this court. They may do it in some others but there are certain rules of evidence that are fundamental and one of them is that hearsay evidence is not competent.

Mr. WRIGHT. I want to make an offer of proof to the record, Your Honor.

The COURT. Very well, you can make your offer.

Mr. WRIGHT. We would propose to show by the testimony of this witness, not only with respect to this particular distributor—I will cover this particular conversation—first. I think it would be better, if Your Honor wants to do it, to simply get the testimony in the record so we could make the record for the purposes of an appeal, and then Your Honor I assume will strike it out of the record in rendering his decision. I believe at this time we should be allowed to at least record the testimony and make the record.

The COURT. You can state what you intend to prove.

Mr. WRIGHT. What I am thinking of is this, Your Honor. Insofar as we are concerned, if all we are doing here is going through this trial and then having the privilege of appealing and simply securing a reversal which will send the case back for another trial, in view of the ex-
372 traordinary length of time that has already elapsed before trial, but that would mean a complete and ultimate victory for the defendants. I think in the interest of all parties that we should at least make a record here on which the case can ultimately be disposed of, and the only way I think we can do that is to actually receive the testimony, and then let it be so disregarded by Your Honor in reaching a decision.

The COURT. You can make your tender of the testimony and state what you are offering to prove by this witness. I don't know of any reason why the general rules of procedure should be changed to meet a particular case. You can state what you propose to prove by this witness. That protects your record.

Mr. WRIGHT. That only protects it to this extent. It establishes ground for reversal and retrial but it does not afford an opportunity for final disposition on an appeal, and I think we clear our title too in a case of this character. I think further that when other evidence is offered and you see the picture as a whole you might have quite a different idea as to the admissibility of this evidence than you now entertain. I don't see why you, yourself, should be foreclosed at this time from at least having a record of what this testimony is.

The COURT. I will permit you to do this: I am not receding from the ruling at all. I will permit you, 373 in order to make your record, to examine the witness so these statements can go into the record.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is all I would like to do.

The COURT. I do not want to foreclose you from making a complete record.

Mr. COCHRAN. In other words, he is just simply permitted to ask the witness the questions and obtain his answers in lieu of making an offer in the customary way?

The COURT. Yes, sir.

(Hereupon court adjourned until 2:00 o'clock p. m. this day.)

374 AFTERNOON SESSION

May 8, 1945, 2:00 o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS

The COURT. In order that the record may be clear, the Court has sustained an objection to the question that has been asked. The plaintiff's attorneys asked permission, in order that the record may show what the testimony of this witness would be, were it competent, to examine the witness and the Court is permitting them to do with that limitation.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I would like to say I think I was probably at fault this morning in presenting the issue of the admissibility of the conversation so boldly. There is no question about your Honor being absolutely right that any conversation of that kind, taken by itself, is certainly inadmissible hearsay, and I would not want to suggest now that it were anything else. I perhaps also failed, however, to give you the general picture of how we tried these cases and how the evidence like that was admissible in these other cases, such as the Crescent case.

375 The COURT. As to the Crescent case, I have examined that case since we adjourned and the Supreme Court in that case does not go as far as is suggested by counsel. Now, after offering these letters the Court says the United States asserts these letters or reports were declarations of one conspirator in furtherance of a common objective, therefore admissible as evidence against all under the rule. It was argued that it makes no difference that these distributors were dismissed out of the case, since they were charged with being open conspirators and since the findings are with certain exceptions adequate to support the charge. We don't come to that question. The other evidence established the position of the distributors and their relationship to the theaters involved, what the distributors in fact did in combination with the defendants, the character and extent of their buying power and how it was, in fact, used. This other evidence was sufficient to establish the restraint of trade and monopolistic practices. The purpose, character and extent of the combination are inferably made; thus, if any error be assumed in the introduction of letters and records, the right of showing prejudice has not been sustained.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is quite right, your Honor, but the other evidence that was referred to there as to what 376 the distributors did, of course, constituted very largely the evidence as to what the distributors did in their dealings with the independent competitors who were in opposition to Crescent, and such evidence of that kind. You will find in the record the Judge's findings were based upon evidence as to what efforts these independent exhibitors had made to get pictures from the distributors who dealt with the defendants. Now, of course, in all these cases, what we were proposing to show here briefly is simply that he had the second run product there while he was operating in opposition to Korn, and the theater was one in which Griffith was interested, but that when he operated in opposition to Mr. Griffith he could not get second run. Of course, in all these cases we would expect to connect up his dealings, or the dealings of any witnesses offered, with the distributors by showing dealings between the same distributor and the defendants, and it may be that on this question of showing reasonable efforts to get product, we have wasted a lot of judicial time, I don't know. We have fallen into a sort of rigid pattern of showing these negotiations, and your Honor may be more right than these other judges were in excluding that sort of testimony. As I understand it, you said that you would permit us to show how the product was actually distributed and it may be sufficient for our purposes to show how the pictures were distributed, 377 provided, of course, there is no claim when we get through that while the reason that these people did not have the pictures, they didn't get the pictures, was because they didn't make any efforts to get them. All we do really, when we offer this sort of evidence to the negotiations with exchanges in turn to get pictures, I suppose is to anticipate that sort of claim.

The Court. Here is the theory now on which the Court makes its ruling. A conspiracy is a very difficult defense to make because you can never tell what to anticipate. Now, one of the fundamentals in a conspiracy case, so far as evidence is concerned, is that one cannot be connected, you cannot show a man's connection with a conspiracy except by some statement, or some act of his, some statement that he may have made. You have to connect him with it before you have a conspiracy. Now, in this case the evidence that you sought to introduce is merely a conversation between him and one not even a party to this action.

Mr. Wright. Right.

The Court. Now, the general rule of conspiracy, under that rule, I cannot see its competency. There are different reasons for that. If this man that he was talking to made a statement that would involve one of these defendants the Government has the opportunity of bringing that man into court and letting him testify. That might not be his testimony.

Mr. WRIGHT. I suppose by that, your honor is referring to the distributor's representatives?

The COURT. I don't know who it was. The RKO man.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. This conversation I think he started to testify to was with Wheeler. I would suppose, as far as the hearsay rule is concerned, whatever Wheeler said to this witness would be hearsay, insofar as the defendants are concerned, whether Wheeler gets on the stand and testifies or whether Mr. Scaling testifies to the conversation.

The COURT. No, if Wheeler were to testify that Mr. Griffith, or one of the Griffiths said to him they would not take their product if they sold to somebody else then you would have evidence connecting one of the defendants with it, but just to ask his men what Wheeler said would be pure hearsay.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, but assuming that we asked Wheeler, not what Griffith said to him, but if we asked him what he said to this man, I suppose such testimony is hearsay as to Mr. Griffith, just the same as this witness' testimony would be as to what Wheeler said to him. It is hearsay in either case. When it comes to connecting it up, of course, the problem is simply this: In all these cases, of course, we have a problem of order of proof. In this matter I had hoped to present first of all these agreements they 379 claim the Griffiths and various distributors had which in my view establish a prima facie case of conspiracy in themselves, and if this were a question of order of proof I suppose we might withdraw the witness and complete the introduction of that documentary evidence, but I do not think that the courts have insisted that the connecting up be done prior to the reception of the witness' testimony in evidence. I did not understand that your ruling was based upon the order in which this was offered. I had understood you had regarded it as hearsay, no matter when we offered it.

The COURT. It is pure hearsay. I cannot conceive of how that would be competent at any stage of the case.

Mr. WRIGHT. And that you would not admit conversations between a complaining witness and a representative of a distributor under any circumstances after any foundation was laid. Is that correct?

Mr. COCHRAN. That is not the question that was before the Court at the present time. Here we have a plain hearsay statement and counsel has admitted it is not competent at this time; as to what the problem will be when they reach some other stage is another matter, that is not fair to the Court.

The COURT. I don't know what the other questions will be. I can't tell.

Mr. COCHRAN. In view of counsel's statement which 380 is made now, I think it is clearly not necessary that we go into this preliminary examination because the rules of civil procedure say that when testimony is offered and objection is sustained that the Court may permit the examination to proceed, as is contemplated here, unless the evidence is clearly inadmissible, and under the statements that have been made here at the present time, this is clearly inadmissible. I think we should proceed with something else.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't want to be understood as conceding it is inadmissible. I insist it is admissible and I was trying to clarify the procedure in this case at this time by trying to determine, as far as we could, the extent to which this ruling must be a precedent for other rulings.

The COURT. The Court does not hesitate at all to state to you that in its judgment any testimony between a complaining witness and any conversation between a complaining witness and a representative of anyone other than the defendants would not be admissible. Now, of course, there might be exceptions to that. There might be conditions which would suggest a modification of the rule but it is not apparent at this time.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think, of course, the exception we rely on is the general exception to the hearsay rule that such conversations are admissible when they occur with 381 one who is charged as a co-conspirator and are connected up by a showing of conspiracy between, in this case, the distributors and the defendants, to deprive the witness of product. On the order of proof question, the courts have always held, I think, that we are not limited to any rigid order; that there is a matter of convenience to be considered in receiving the testimony when it is available and that is why it was offered at this time.

The COURT. The court does not care to modify his ruling at this time.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Mr. Scaling, when you went to the exchanges in Dallas in March on this occasion you have referred to, did you also call on Mr. R. E. Griffith?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was that?

A. In his office in Dallas.

Q. Who else was present?

A. Mr. Lockhart, the booker.

Q. What was said there?

Mr. Rice. Just a moment, Your Honor. Mr. R. E. Griffith is not a party to the suit, Your Honor. R. E. Griffith is dead. Neither is Lockhart a party to the suit. This witness is now attempting to testify to a conversation with R. E. Griffith. No predicate is laid to make it admissible. This also is nothing more than hearsay.

382 The Court. Was it with the deceased?

Mr. Cochran. From the standpoint of the Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated Theaters, L. C. Griffith and H. J. Griffith, the objection is made that the testimony is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial and hearsay as to them.

The Court. What do you say as to its competency, being with a deceased person?

Mr. Cochran. I think that would not come under our statutory prohibition against the declarations of a deceased person, due to the fact that the proof is not against an administrator of his or his estate. That rule does not preclude the admission of a declaration of a deceased person against a corporation of which he was an officer or agent, is my understanding of the rule.

The Court. If there is no objection to it, then, it will be understood as being binding only upon R. E. Griffith or the corporation of which he was an officer, and not as to the other defendants at this time.

(Previous question read as follows: "What was said there?")

A. I asked Mr. Griffith if he had any cutback pictures that he was not going to use. He asked Mr. Lockhart if he had made a list of the pictures they were going to cut back for the year. He said no, he hadn't. He said, "Well, 383 I wish you would make up a list and notify the exchanges to release them for my use." Mr. Lockhart left the room and then I asked Mr. Griffith if he would let me have some second run pictures and Mr. Griffith looked at me and said "No." He said, "The town is too small for second run pictures," so then I asked him, "Well, what about your changes since 1936, since I opened the Fair. You have jumped from three changes a week in each theater to four changes, consuming two extra first run pictures." He said, "Well, I had to do that to consume the product that I had under contract." So I got up to leave and he walked to the door with me. He said, "Tell your partners, Mr. Silverthorne and this fellow Massey", who was another partner, "when they get ready to close the Fair Theater, rent the building out for a store building, we will try to buy the equipment." I said, "Mr. Griffith, I don't think that will ever happen", and that was the end of our conversation.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. During this period of operation of yours from January, 1936, through—what month was it that you ceased, October?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. As I understood your former testimony you played Universal product first run and second run and United Artists first and second run?

384 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that still true with respect to United Artists in the summer of 1936?

A. No, sir; they refused to sell me.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that and move to strike it for the reason that is hearsay. The same problem we had awhile ago, only he is giving his conclusion now instead of his statement.

The COURT. It will be sustained but you can state whether or not you bought product. I will let you state the facts without the conclusion.

A. Judge, Your Honor, you mean Universal?

Mr. WRIGHT. This is United Artists you are being asked about.

A. Did I buy the product?

The COURT. No, I did not.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you offer to buy it?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will ask to have these letters marked separately with the next exhibit number. Mark the letter of August 12 on United Artists stationery from Roy Sachs to Mr. Scaling attached to which is a copy of a letter from Mr. Scaling to Mr. Roberts dated August 13, 1936, as Government's Exhibit No. 105 for identification, and then mark the letter on the United Artists stationery from 385 Roberts to Scaling dated August 14, 1936, as Exhibit 106 for identification.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I hand you Exhibit 105 for identification and ask you if you received that letter from United Artists on or about the date it bears?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is that date?

Mr. WRIGHT. August 12, 1936.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And is the attached letter dated August 15, the copy of your reply?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is Exhibit No. 106, for identification, the reply you received from the United Artists?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I offer those two exhibits in evidence.

The COURT. What is the date of that last letter?

Mr. WRIGHT. August 14, 1936. They are dated respectively August 12, 13, and 14.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the introduction of each of those exhibits for the reason that each exhibit is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial, and hearsay, and further the authority of the person signing has not been established and these defendants, the parties to this case, these are merely statements in writing, merely purporting to be statements in writing of a purported representative 386 of these producers. The same proposition we have been dealing with.

Mr. WRIGHT. There is one preliminary question.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. This pencil writing at the bottom of this Exhibit 106 for identification, was that on there when you received the letter?

A. No, sir.

Q. That was a notation you made in your handwriting later?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. Your reply to this letter does not bear an exhibit number.

Mr. WRIGHT. No, they were just together.

The COURT. The objection will be sustained and exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Were you able to make a contract with Universal for the first run of the 1936-37 season pictures?

A. No, sir.

Q. I will ask to have this letter of September 1, 1936, from Universal pictures branch at Dallas, signed by Smith, the branch manager, to Mr. Scaling, marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 107 for identification. I will ask you if that is the letter you received from Universal on or about that date?

387 A. Yes, sir.

Q. The attached copy there is a letter from you to Universal dated the 18th?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 107 for identification, in evidence. I am not offering the letter attached on the back. I just didn't remove it.

Mr. Cochran. Objection is made to the offer in evidence of Plaintiff's Exhibit 107 for the reason the same is incompetent, irrelevant, immaterial and hearsay, and for the other reason stated in the objection to the preceding exhibit.

Mr. Rice. For the record only, it is, of course, clear that the four defendants, corporate defendants, and the individuals are charged with being a part of a combination. Judge Cochran appears for part of them and I for another. Some objections as to Mr. R. E. Griffith might apply in their behalf and not in mine but unless that arises, when an objection is made can it be considered made on behalf of all defendants?

The Court. The objections will be considered made on behalf of all defendants. Objection will be sustained. It is hearsay.

388 Q. I show you a letter from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures, Dallas, dated June 20, 1936, to you, marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 108 and I will ask you if you received that on or about the date it bears?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. After you received that letter was any first or second run Metro product offered to you?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Wright. We will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit 108 for identification.

Mr. Cochran. We object for the same reasons as previously stated to the preceding exhibit.

The Court. The objection will be sustained and exception allowed.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. I will ask you if you received this letter dated June 10, 1936, from RKO Distributing Corporation of Dallas on or about the date it bears, marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 9?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Cochran. What is the date of that instrument?

Mr. Wright. That is June 10, 1936. We offer that in evidence.

Mr. Rice. The same objection, your Honor.

The Court. Objection sustained.

389 Mr. Wright. One thing I wanted to ask your Honor, in so far as the objection being based on who these people were who wrote the letters, now that will be covered, of course, in later testimony. I understand your Honor's ruling, however, to be based upon the hearsay feature.

The Court. The hearsay testimony.

Mr. WRIGHT. And not because of any question of authority or anything of that sort, is that correct?

The COURT. That is right.

Mr. COCHRAN. We are not waiving the objection on the ground of lack of authority of the person who signed it or the lack of proof that the person purporting to sign it was the person who in fact did sign it, or any of the objections that were made, we are not waiving any of those objections.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, calling your attention to this Exhibit 108 for identification, do you recognize that signature there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was whose signature?

A. Bickel.

Q. Do you know who he was at that time?

A. Branch manager.

Q. He was the man, was he, that you dealt with in licensing films in Plainview before?

A. Yes, sir.

390 Q. Do you recognize his signature on Plaintiff's Exhibit 109 for identification?

A. Yes, sir, Mr. Sachs.

Q. Who was he?

A. He was the branch manager of RKO.

Q. Was he the person that you had dealt with before in licensing films for Plainview?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recognize the signature on Exhibit 107 for identification?

A. Yes, Mr. Oldsmith.

Q. Who was he?

A. The branch manager of Universal at Dallas, Texas.

Q. And he was the man that you had been dealing with in licensing Universal films, was he?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recognize the signature on this Exhibit 105 for identification?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was that?

A. Mr. Roy Sachs, United Artists.

Q. Who was Mr. Sachs who signed this Exhibit 105 for identification?

A. He was the office manager.

Q. Where?

391 A. For United Artists.

Q. For United Artists?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had you dealt with him before in licensing films?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recognize the signature on the letter from United Artists, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 106 for identification?

A. Yes, sir, it is Doak——

Q. Who was that?

A. Mr. Doak Roberts.

Q. Who was he?

A. He was the manager.

Q. Where?

A. Of United Artists.

Q. In Dallas?

A. Dallas, Texas.

Q. And he was the man that you was then dealing with in licensing films?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you got this last letter dated September 1, 1936, Plaintiff's Exhibit 107 for identification, what film product did you then have for the Fair Theater?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that, if your Honor please, as calling for a conclusion of the witness and not 392 the best evidence. It gets back to the same objection we made this morning, that is, that the contract is the best evidence, and counsel, after the objection had been made, counsel abandoned that trend and asked him what he played and that was permitted, but now he is asking what contract, what product he had under contract, and I am making that objection.

The COURT. Read the question.

(Last question read by the reporter.)

The COURT. Was that a written contract?

The WITNESS. I beg pardon.

The COURT. Did you have a written contract for films you were playing?

The WITNESS. Yes, sir.

The COURT. The objection will be sustained as not the best evidence.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. At that time did you have any contracts for product to be released after September 1, 1936?

A. No, sir.

Q. What films were you then playing?

A. I was playing Universal, United Artists, a few cutbacks from Columbia, a few cutbacks from Paramount, and some independent, and Gaumont.

Q. After you got that letter, marked for identification as

Plaintiff's Exhibit 107, did Universal offer you a 393 feature contract for the first run of the 1936-1937 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that contract for a full first run deal such as this Exhibit 102?

A. No, sir; there was no contract issued on any of the dealings. It was an agreement that they would split the contract, but the contract was never offered for my signature.

Q. What was offered to you?

A. Nothing except 50%, and whenever taken up it was never offered to me.

Q. I don't quite understand you. As I understood it, you say 50% of the 1936-37 pictures were orally offered to you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By whom?

A. By Mr. Oldsmith, in Dallas.

Q. But no contract application was written up or anything of that sort?

A. No, sir.

Q. Why not?

The Court. If you know.

Mr. Cochran. We object unless it is shown that this witness knows.

The Court. Do you know why the contract was not written up?

394 The Witness. Yes, sir; I know what he told me.

Mr. Cochran. If it involves the statement of a conclusion or the statement that Mr. Oldsmith made, that is really hearsay.

The Court. He said it wasn't written up and it wasn't offered to him.

Mr. Cochran. The important thing, he says he didn't make out any application, and these contracts are always preceded by written applications, made by the person who wants the product.

Mr. Wright. If there is going to be any claim made that he could have had the pictures, but just didn't sign an application, I think we should be entitled to go into what, into just what the substance of this offer was.

Mr. Cochran. He can state what he did.

The Court. Did you file an application?

The Witness. A written application?

The Court. Yes.

The Witness. No, sir, I had no chance.

By Mr. Wammit:

Q. Was any opportunity given to you to file a written application?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was it a fact that after you opened the Fair Theater the Griffith houses went from three to four changes?

A. Yes, sir.

395 Q. And used eight pictures a week instead of six?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they continue during the entire time you operated?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And by the first of October 1936, did you then have enough pictures to operate the theater?

A. No, sir.

Mr. Cochran. We object to that as calling for a conclusion of the witness, if the Court please.

The Court. Overruled.

Mr. Cochran. Exception.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Now, I will show you this document, dated October 15, 1936, marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3, and ask you if that is a document that you and Mr. Silverthorne signed on or about that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Silverthorne was your partner?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright. I will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit 3 for identification.

The Court. What is the date of it?

Mr. Wright. That is October 15, 1936.

Mr. Rice. May I ask if the purpose of the offer is to show the passage of title of the subject matter therein?

396 Mr. Wright. It shows that at that time they took over and also to show the agreement contained therein, which Mr. Silverthorne and Mr. Scaling made, not to compete in the future in Plainview.

Mr. Rice. We think that in so far as any purpose contained in the offer to establish something within the scope of this lawsuit, to control all competition or the like, that this contract is clearly inadmissible because, first, it is local in effect and in area, confined to the State of Texas and to Plainview in the State of Texas and does not directly or indirectly affect interstate commerce. It is an ordinary covenant not to compete in the area in which the business existed at the time of the transaction. Your Honor, there is another objection, that in order that any such covenant or like matter be used under the allegations of this petition, it should be shown that the instrument is designed and does tend to exclude, not Dennis Scaling or R. Q. Silverthorne individually, nor the corporation, in this instance, but to exclude all the world from such competition; that such exclusive or restrictive covenants can form no basis of proof of any charges in this case, if they are confined to an individual.

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, I want to make a statement.

The COURT. Well, the objection has been sustained
397 and it is in the record.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right.

The COURT. And exception allowed. I don't see, I don't know of any reason why a contract like that cannot be made by two people.

Mr. WRIGHT. It obviously can be and was made, but in every anti-trust suit we have ever tried covenants of this kind have always been admitted to show an intent to exclude competitors, even though taken by themselves they might be legal.

The COURT. Here is a man in a small town that has two drugstores there, one of them is very successful and the other is having a pretty hard time of it, maybe for different reasons, he may be financially embarrassed, he may not have credit sufficient. They make a contract and one store purchases the other and he purchases the good will, and the good will carries with it his agreement, the agreement of the seller, not to engage in like business in that community for a definite period. Now, that is treated as a legal contract. I don't think you can establish a conspiracy by mere inferences or possibilities of existing facts; I think there must be something there that will show intent.

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, for the purpose
398 of the record, may I make a brief statement?

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. COCHRAN. It is our position, so far as Griffith Amusement Company and Griffith Consolidated, L. C. Griffith and H. J. Griffith, that the purpose for which this document has been offered in evidence as stated by counsel for the plaintiff is not within the issues made by the pleadings. There is nothing in the pleadings in this case that charges an overt act in the acquisition of theaters, or restrictive agreements in connection with the acquisition of theaters or anything else. This complaint very definitely charges the things which the Government contends in themselves constitute the restraint of trade and attempts to monopolize, and this thing that is being referred to now is not referred to in any way whatever in the pleadings and it is not within the issues.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, with reference to this document and what we have charged, we have charged these people with monopolizing theater operations in these towns with the intention of excluding competitors. We have charged them with acquiring these competing businesses for the purpose of excluding them in this case closing and converting a competitive town into a closed town. Now, under a charge of that kind in determining the defendants' intent the very best evidence obtainable is 399 what the defendants did in connection with those acquisitions, the agreements they themselves made with competitors at the time the theaters was acquired, even if they were legal agreements within themselves, which I don't think it is because there is absolutely no time limitation in it whatsoever, and it would be admissible together with many similar agreements made in Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma, which we will offer before the case is through, for the purpose of showing an intention to monopolize theater operations in the area in question. I don't think there is any evidence which could possibly be offered on the intent issue more persuasive than agreements like this, whereby the sellers must stay out of Plainview forever.

The COURT. Of course, in a conspiracy case there are two elements. One must be the agreement, there must be some connection, combination, and that is really the essence of the offense. However, before there is a completed offense there must be some overt act, but the courts have all held that a conspiracy cannot be shown by the overt acts. There must first be an agreement, a combination, of some character. A mere overt act might be absolutely lawful and at the same time if it were made pursuant to an agreement to do certain things then it would constitute a part of the offense.

Mr. WRIGHT. Right.

The COURT. But you have made your record of 400 offering it.

Mr. WRIGHT. Of course, we have charged this monopolization is pursuant to an agreement between these four corporate defendants.

The COURT. An agreement is ordinarily proven before the overt act.

Mr. WRIGHT. Do I understand your Honor to say, again, that there is not a matter of the order of proof involved, that your ruling would be the same if we offered this after we had introduced the documents which we say makes our prima facie case?

The COURT. If you show there was an agreement between the parties which involved the elimination of all competition in a certain town and then you show this act which was a part of it, it might be competent. As it is now, it is not competent in my judgment.

Mr. WRIGHT. We think Exhibit P–1, which is already in evidence is precisely that, an agreement showing all of these defendants combined.

The COURT. You say that, but does the contract show it?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it does, about as clearly as any contract can.

The COURT. I haven't read the contract, I haven't
401 had an opportunity to examine the contracts, but from the statements that were made by counsel in the presence of the Court, I see no evidence of an agreement which would constitute a conspiracy. I don't know of anything that is in that contract that you have read so far that is not absolutely legitimate between people engaged in that line of business.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't think people engaged in any line of business can make an agreement of that character without a limitation of both the time and the place, and regard it as a lawful agreement. There is no limitation as to time whatsoever.

Mr. COCHRAN. The Court is referring to your Exhibit P–1.

The COURT. I am talking about Exhibit P–1. I don't know what the Texas law says about the selling of good will, it may be that it must be limited to a certain time. I think in Oklahoma there is a limitation, but I am not sure as to the Texas statute.

Mr. WRIGHT. In any event, we offer it.

The COURT. Exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you continue in possession of the theater after this agreement marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 3 for identification was made?

A. No, sir.

402 Q. Did the purchasers take possession and operate as of the 15th?

A. No, sir, they took possession the first, following, 15 days later.

Q. What was done with reference to playing pictures during the period from the 15th to the 1st?

A. Mr. McSwain was present when that contract was signed, and I mentioned the fact to him that we didn't have enough product to finish out, and he says, "I will take care of that, I will call the Griffith office and have them book in some product for you." I believe he talked to Mr. Lockhart.

Q. Who was Mr. Lockhart?

A. He was the head booker at the Griffith office.

Q. Was that done?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And possession was surrendered on November 1st?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, during this period of operation from January, when you opened, to October 15th, can you tell us what the relative admission prices were of the three theaters there?

A. As I recall, the admission price was 10 and 25 at the Grenada, 10 and 25 three days of the week at the Fair, and 10 and 15 in the last four days, and 10 and 15 at the Texas the latter part of the week, and 10 and 20 the 403 first part of the week.

Q. When you say 10 and 15 or 10 and 20, you refer to children and adult prices respectively?

A. Yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. What was your charge?

A. Sir?

Q. What was your charge in your theater?

A. 10 and 15 the latter part of the week and 10 and 25 the first part of the week.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Those prices that you have named for all three theaters were evening and matinee prices?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There was no change?

A. No change.

Q. Do you know what major product was being played at the Grenada and the Texas?

Mr. RICH. Your Honor please, I think that has gone pretty far, when he is talking about what pictures played at the two other theaters. Obviously, he could not have been there and at his own theater also.

The COURT. If he knows, he may answer.

Mr. WRIGHT. I asked him if he knew.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know?

A. Yes, sir. At the Grenada Theater they played the Class A product of the major companies; at the 404 Texas Theater they played their Class B or C product.

Q. What do you mean by the major companies?

A. I mean Paramount, RKO, Columbia—I mean Paramount, RKO, Warner, Fox, MGM and Columbia.

Q. Then as to the Class B pictures?

A. Of the same companies.

Q. Were played first run at the Texas?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did they play any major second runs at those theaters?

A. Not at the time I operated.

Q. I am referring to this period from January 11th, was it, when you opened?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Until October 15th when you made that agreement.

A. Yes, sir. No second run, no, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I want to re-offer those exhibits which were rejected. Those were Exhibits 106, 107, 105, 109, and 108, for identification.

Mr. COCHRAN. The same objection is made as previously, your Honor.

The COURT. Objection sustained and exception allowed.

Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross-examine.

405 Cross-examination by Mr. RICH:

Q. Mr. Scaling, before I begin questioning, before I finish the question I started, may I ask you what you have in your hand that you have been referring to?

A. Just some notes.

Q. Did you make those notes?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you make them?

A. I made them the last three or four days.

Q. In conference with the attorneys for the Government?

A. Well, no, these notes were made by myself.

Q. Alone?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. No one helped you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Mr. Scaling, where is Plainview located?

A. Plainview is located in the Panhandle of West Texas, south of Amarillo, in Dale County.

Q. How far from Dallas is it?

A. Well, it is approximately 370 some odd miles, depending on which way you go.

Q. How do you reach there by train from Dallas?

A. You can reach there by the Fort Worth and Denver from Dallas by way of Wichita Falls, or you can go 406 over the Sante Fe to Sweetwater, and go north from Lubbock, or you can go over the Fort Worth and Denver to Amarillo and down over the Sante Fe south.

Q. It is a full overnight journey, is it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What sort of country is there around Plainview, is it agricultural, or a cattle raising country?

A. It is agricultural and some stock feeding.

Q. They raise cotton and wheat and small grain and feed stuff up there, don't they?

A. Correct.

Q. It is a region in which they practice dry farming, is it not?

A. Not necessarily, no, sir.

Q. Have you had any rain there since last December?

A. We have had showers, but we have irrigation wells.

Q. You have pretty uncertain crop seasons in Plainview, don't you, and all over the Panhandle, isn't that true?

A. If you take in the dry farming, it is; if you take in the irrigation, it isn't.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, this is interesting but I don't see the relevancy it has to the direct examination.

The COURT. I don't see how it is material.

Mr. RICH. All right.

407 Q. Where is Hale Center?

A. Hale Center is eleven miles south and a little west of Plainview.

Q. As I understand, that is your home?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Scaling, when you went into Plainview at whose invitation did you go, in 1932?

A. In 1932?

Q. Yes.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't see how that is relevant either.

The COURT. I don't either.

Mr. RICH. All right, your Honor, I will withdraw the question. I was just trying to lay the background.

Q. You did form a partnership with C. C. Lindsey of Lubbock to operate the Ritz Theater in Plainview?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Describe that house, please, with reference to size, decorations, and the front particularly.

A. At what time, the time we took it over?

Q. In 1932.

A. In 1932? It is a house of approximately 650 seats, with two small balconies on each side; it has a complete stage.

408 Q. I am not talking about what it has, I am talking about what it had in 1932.

A. That is what it had in 1932. It had a complete stage, large enough to take care of a stage show, it has a long lobby, it had a long lobby, with a barber shop on one side and a confectionery on the other side; it had the box office in the center of the lobby on the north side as you go in, it had front doors that closed at the front of the theater.

Q. Did it have rest rooms in it?

A. Yes, sir; it had rest rooms on the side.

Q. What do you mean by on the side?

A. On each side as you go into the foyer.

Q. Into the foyer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How old was that theater?

A. I think the theater approximately was built sometime back in the '20's, I couldn't tell you exactly.

Q. You bought some of the equipment from the landlord, didn't you?

A. No, sir; I didn't.

Q. How about the seats?

A. The seats went with the building.

Q. Didn't you owe the landlord some money on those seats in 1933?

409 A. Not those seats, no, sir.

Q. What seats did you owe him money on?

A. We bought some seats later.

Q. You didn't owe that money to Mr. Massey?

A. We did on the seats we bought, but not on the seats that were in the theater when we took it over.

Q. You bought them later on?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Massey was your landlord, wasn't he?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was agent for him at Plainview?

A. R. Q. Silverthorne.

Q. By agent, you mean the man who collected the rent and dealt on the property for the landlord, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember when Mr. Lindsey first told you that he wanted to sell or to rearrange somehow the operation in Plainview because you were not doing any good?

A. I approached Mr. Lindsey along that line.

Q. What did you tell him?

A. The theater wasn't doing any good at that time, and Mr. Lindsey had a few more hundred dollars in the theater than I did.

Q. At that time, Mr. Korn was operating the Grenada Theater, wasn't he?

410 A. Correct.

Q. Did I understand you to say that he had a second house which was not in operation?

A. Correct.

Q. Did he then have what was later known as the Palace Theater?

A. He had the Palace Theater at that time, the Olympic.

Q. You called it the Olympic, and it was also named the Palace, is that right?

A. I think that is correct.

Q. You were broke, weren't you, in May 1933?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't quite see the relevancy of that.

Mr. RICE. I will withdraw the question.

Q. In May 1933 you and Mr. Lindsey decided to make a change; whom did you approach or did Mr. Lindsey approach about helping you out on making the change you were talking about?

A. He approached Mr. R. E. Griffith.

Q. Or Mr. Foster McSwain?

A. Mr. Foster McSwain didn't come into the deal at that time; he came in later.

Q. Mr. McSwain came to Plainview and made a deal with Mr. Lindsey, is that right?

A. Yes, sir, he made a deal with Mr. Lindsey.

411 Q. By that deal, whatever interest you had in the theater was sold?

A. I sold my interest to Mr. Lindsey.

Q. And you stayed on as manager as of the house until June 1935?

A. Correct.

Q. During those two years the theater was operated by Griffith, Lindsey and McSwain under a lease from Mr. Massey or the Massey estate, is that right?

A. That's right.

Q. And during that time Mr. Silverthorne was agent for the estate, wasn't he?

A. That's right.

Q. Do you have a copy of that lease under which you were operating at the time of the sale?

Mr. WRIGHT. I thought we offered in evidence the lease that was signed. Isn't that in evidence?

Mr. RICE. I will get back to it.

412 Mr. WRIGHT. I offered that in evidence, the lease.

Mr. RICE. I want to know the lease he was operating under.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it is here somewhere.

By Mr. RICE:

Q. You stayed on until a change in management was made by Mr. Griffith at Plainview. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. He brought in Mr. Chester McSwain from Albuquerque and made him manager?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. He offered you another job elsewhere, is that right?
A. He tried to work out a deal on another town.
Q. And that didn't go through?
A. Correct.
Q. And you left the employment?
A. That is correct.
Q. And went to Hale Center to live, is that right?
A. No, sir.
Q. Where did you go?
A. In 1935?
Q. Yes.
A. I stayed in Plainview.
Q. What were you doing there?
A. For a short time I did nothing.
413 Q. When did you and Mr. Silverthorne, the agent for Mr. Massey, negotiate the lease on what later became the Fair Theater? I don't mean when the lease was made but when did you start negotiating?
A. On the Fair Theater?
Q. Yes.
A. It was in November, 1939, that the contract was signed.
Q. I know that. I am asking you when it was negotiated.
A. It was along the latter part of August. I beg your pardon, the latter part of September.
Q. You left the employ of Mr. Griffith in January and in the latter part of August you began to negotiate for a lease on what was then the Texas Theater?
A. No, sir.
Q. What were you negotiating on?
A. I started negotiating a lease on another building which is now the Texas Theater.
Q. When did you begin negotiating with Mr. Massey or Mr. Silverthorne?
A. I didn't negotiate with them. They asked me.
Q. When did they begin negotiating with you?
A. It was in November.
Q. That was the first time?
A. It was along about the first of November or the last of August.
414 Q. Or the last of August?
A. Yes, sir, I can't give you the exact date.
Q. And you and Mr. Silverthorne together——
Mr. WRIGHT. You mean the first of November?

Mr. Rice. Don't tell him what he means.

Mr. Wright. I think it is quite obvious here. He misquotes the testimony.

The Court. He said the first of December or last of August. Is that what you mean to say?

A. I said we negotiated on the Fair Theater in November.

The Court. Your last answer, as to when you commenced to negotiate, you said it was the first of December or the last of August.

A. Would you repeat that question?

Q. (Testimony read as follows:) "When did they begin negotiating with you?

"A. It was in November.

"Q. That was the first time?

"A. It was along about the first of November or the last of August.

"Q. Or the last of August?

"A. Yes, sir, I can't give the exact date."

A. It was in October.

By Mr. Rice:

Q. You began to negotiate for what was then the Texas Theater in October. Is that right?

415 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Griffith's company was operating the Texas Theater at the old location of the Ritz which you had sold in 1933 to Mr. Griffith, Mr. Lindsey and Mr. McSwain. That is correct, isn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The motion picture season in that year began about July 1, or up to August 31. Is that right, sometime between July 1 and August 31?

A. I believe that is correct.

Q. That is when the buying of film in your experience took place for such a theater as that theater, is that true?

A. That is true.

Q. You say Mr. Griffith had bought product for the Texas Theater at the location of the old Ritz Theater, had he?

A. I don't know.

Q. You said a moment ago you knew what was going on in Plainview?

A. Yes, sir, but he had nothing to do with it while I was running it.

Q. I don't believe you understood me. I will pass it, however. At any rate, let me ask you if you know Mr. Silverthorne, agent for Mr. Massey, notified Griffith, McSwain and Lindsey when they acquired possession of what was then the Texas Theater. Do you know when that was done?

416 A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. Mr. Silverthorne will be on the stand.

Mr. RICE. I expect to ask Mr. Silverthorne that question.

By Mr. RICE:

Q. You expected to get a lease in November of the theater occupied by Griffith. Is that right?

A. No, sir, I did not get any lease.

Q. What did you get?

A. I said we negotiated with the corporation in November, 1935.

Q. You mean you didn't get the lease but the corporation did?

Mr. WRIGHT. The lease is in evidence. I am quite sure I put it in on his direct examination.

By the COURT:

Q. What is the name of the corporation?

By the WITNESS:

A. Tower Theaters, Inc.

Q. You were a part of that corporation?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. RICE:

Q. You owned one-third of the stock, I believe you said?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you say you tried to negotiate the lease on the property now known as the Texas Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

417 Q. From whom, the Great Southern Life Insurance Company?

A. I believe that was the insurance company. Mr. Harder and Dicer, their agents.

Q. In November and December, 1935, you know, do you not, that Mr. Griffith, Mr. McSwain and Mr. Lindsey—and when I say Mr. Griffith, I mean R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc. —got a lease on that location, what is now the Texas Theater, is that right?

A. I don't know the exact date when they got it.

Q. Do you know when the Texas Theater opened up at that location?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did it open?

A. Right at the first day of January, 1936.

Q. It opened about the first of January, 1936, after they had received notice that you were going to take possession of the theater on January 1, of the old Texas Theater, January 1, isn't that right?

A. Well, they opened up on January 1.

By the COURT:

Q. Let me understand. Did you get a lease on the building that was being occupied by the Griffith interests?

A. No, sir; I didn't get any lease at all.

Q. Well, your corporation.

A. The corporation was organized, the exact date
418 I just couldn't tell you.

Q. What I am getting at, is this lease you got on the old Texas Theater, is that the Texas Theater at that time occupied by Griffith?

A. Yes. It was occupied by Griffith at that particular time.

Q. That is the building you got the lease on, your corporation?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. RICE:

Q. Isn't it a fact when the new Texas Theater opened on about January 1, 1936, that the product that had been used in the old Texas location was switched to the new location by Mr. Griffith?

A. It probably was. I wasn't working for him. Yes, the pictures were shown down there. I don't know about the product.

Q. Will you look at that exhibit, which is Plaintiff's Exhibit 102, that is the contract made with Universal Film Exchanges by Silverthorne and Scaling for the new theater at Plainview before the theater had been obtained by you, and it is dated October 3, 1935. Is that correct? Does that refresh your memory?

A. It must be the correct date, yes, sir.

The COURT. Has that exhibit been offered in evidence?

419 Mr. RICE. It is in evidence, this contract with Universal Film Exchanges, Exhibit 102, dated October 3, 1935, prior to taking possession by the witness.

By Mr. RICE:

Q. Now, Mr. Scaling, you then opened up on January 11 in what you named the Fair Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Griffith, in the meanwhile, since you had sold him or them the old Ritz Theater, had acquired the Grenada which was operated, I think, by Mr. Korn, and the Palace and Olympic.

Mr. WRIGHT. Objected to as stating facts that are not so. There isn't any testimony that he sold Mr. Griffith the Ritz Theater.

The COURT. I don't know. This is cross examination.

Mr. RICE. He didn't sell him. You just misunderstood. The original Ritz was sold by Mr. Scaling to Mr. Lindsey.

Mr. WRIGHT. I understood he sold it to Mr. Lindsey and Mr. Lindsey then made the deal.

Mr. RICE. Maybe I misunderstood it.

By Mr. RICE:

Q. At any rate, after you sold your interest in the Ritz, and while you were working for Griffith, he acquired the Grenada Theater and the Palace Theater. Isn't that right, from Mr. Korn?

420 A. The transfer was made, I think, the next week after I was removed as manager.

Q. So when you opened up on January 7 in this theater in which Griffith had formerly occupied, the Grenada Theater was operating and the new Texas Theater was operating. Was the Palace Theater operating?

A. No, sir; I don't think so.

Q. You don't remember?

A. No, sir.

Q. You remember each product everybody was showing but you don't remember whether that theater was open?

A. Not on these particular dates, no, sir.

Q. You testified about a conversation with Mr. Lockhart and Mr. Griffith, who is deceased, in Mr. Griffith's office in Dallas. See if I recall your testimony correctly. You testified that Mr. Griffith offered to compute the number of pictures which he had a right to eliminate from his contract; sent Mr. Lockhart out to make a list of them. Is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And the other conversation, not the one I have just finished talking about, the other conversation occurred with nobody else in the room but you and Mr. R. E. Griffith?

A. Correct.

Q. Do you remember what Mr. Griffith or Mr.

421 McSwain did about the Ritz Theater after they took possession by way of remodeling or redecorating or reequipping or anything of that sort?

A. You mean in a financial way?

Q. No, I mean in July, 1933, did they do any work on the building?

A. Yes, sir, he came down and had us change the box office and move it out in front.

Q. Build a new marquee?

A. Yes, sir. We remodeled the old marquee. We didn't rebuild it.

Q. And put in some rest rooms?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And put in some new signs calling it the Texas Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You redecorated it and repainted it?

A. Yes, sir, but Mr. McSwain didn't do that. The Theater did that but he was there to supervise it.

Q. I didn't mean that Mr. McSwain used the brush. I mean he supervised it.

A. Correct.

Q. When you took over January 1, 1936, or thereabouts, the improvements which your employees while you were manager had put on there were still in place, weren't they?

422 A. Well, as far as the physical building was concerned, yes.

Q. And you and your partners used those improvements?

A. We moved in.

Q. That is all.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I would like to get a better idea of the theater situation in the town of Plainview at the time you were operating the Ritz Theater, when you first became interested in the Ritz Theater, and to that end I will ask you first to state again when you first came to live in Plainview.

A. In 1932.

Q. And was that the first time you had lived in Plainview?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you acquainted with the theater situation in Plainview before you came to live there in 1932?

A. Well, my home has always been in Plainview but that was the only time I visited there. I had lived previously at Hale Center in 1921.

Q. How far is Hale Center from Plainview?

A. Eleven miles.

Q. Were you acquainted with the theater situation in Plainview before you became interested in theaters in that city?

423 A. Oh, yes.

Q. Just immediately prior to 1932 when you entered into the theater business at Plainview, what theaters were being operated in that town?

A. Just the Grenada.

Q. The Grenada was being operated by the OK Theater Company, was it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was commonly referred to as the Oscar Korn circuit of theaters, was it not?

A. That is right.

Q. That theater had a seating capacity of 1400 at that time, didn't it?

A. I couldn't say exactly. I don't know.

Q. Would you say approximately that?

A. I would say approximately 1100. I don't know the exact number of seats.

Q. You were just assuming about 1100?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was a large, fine theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had there been a theater operating in that town known as the Plainview?

A. There had been, yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember where that theater was located?

424 A. Yes, sir. It was located on Broadway, the main street.

Q. That theater had a seating capacity of 800, did it not?

A. I don't know what it had under the Plainview, about 650, I judge.

Q. Were you ever in it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By whom was it operated?

A. At what time?

Q. When did you first know of that theater being operated?

A. Well, that theater, to the best of my recollection was operated or opened away back in the twenties sometime. I don't know the exact date.

Q. And in 1931 was it being operated?

A. In 1931, no, sir.

Q. When did it cease to be operated?

A. I couldn't tell you. I wasn't in Plainview at that time.

Q. How do you know then it was not operated in 1931?

A. Because the last part of 1931 was when I left Enid, Oklahoma, and went back to Hale Center.

Q. Were you familiar with this situation in Plainview at that time and know that the Plainview Theater 425 was not being operated in 1931.

A. Well, I couldn't tell you the exact date on it, no, sir.

Q. What had become of it?

A. It was closed up when I first saw it. Had been closed up for some time.

Q. Was it ever thereafter operated as a theater?

A. After 1931?

Q. Yes.

A. It was opened by Mr. Lindsey and I in 1932.

Q. So the Plainview, then, is the theater which was opened by you as the Ritz?

A. Certainly.

Q. That is what I was trying to get at. It took us a long way around. The old Plainview then became the Ritz in 1932 when you acquired an interest in it?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now, then, relative to the number of seats, you have heretofore told us the Ritz Theater had a seating capacity of about 650. Is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know that is accurate or are you simply estimating that?

A. That is correct.

Q. Did you and Lindsey equip that theater?

426 A. Yes, sir, all but the seats. The seats were in the theater when we leased it.

Q. Just prior to 1932 was there a theater in that town which had been known as the Olympic?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you first become acquainted with that theater?

A. That theater was in Plainview when I moved there around 1914.

Q. Was it being operated when you went there in 1932?

A. No, sir.

Q. What became of it?

A. It was just closed up.

Q. Had it been abandoned as a theater?

A. I couldn't tell you. I haven't been in the theater; never was in the theater after 1932.

Q. Do you know whether it was open subsequent to 1932?

A. The doors were closed, that is all I know. I don't know whether there was any equipment in it or not.

Q. Did that later become the Palace Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether at any time between 1932 and 1937 that theater was operated by anyone?

A. Yes, sir, it was operated a short time.

427 Q. During what period of time and by whom?

A. I can't tell you the exact date but it is sometime between 1933 and 1935, and it was opened up I think for a couple of weeks.

Q. By whom?

A. I believe a fellow by the name of Mitchell.

Q. Roy E. Mitchell?

A. I believe that is the man, yes, sir.

Q. And after he had operated it for a few weeks, who operated it?

A. Well, to the best of my recollection it was closed.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the OK Theaters operated that theater for a period of several years after that time?

A. I don't know.

Q. How is that?

A. What year?

Q. Well, what year did Mitchell operate it?

A. I believe sometime between 1933 and '35.

Q. Can you be any more definite than that?

A. No, sir.

Q. All right, immediately after Mitchell ceased to operate it?

A. It was closed up.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the OK Theaters operated it?

A. I don't know whether it was the OK or not.
428 There was a boy by the name of, I believe it was Aylsworth who operated the theater there for a few weeks.

Q. What do you say about whether the OK Theater, that is, the Oscar Korn circuit theaters operated that theater shortly after Roy Mitchell ceased to operate it?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. You say he did not?

A. I said he did not, as far as advertising is concerned.

Mr. WRIGHT. It seems to me we are away outside the scope of the issues in the case and direct examination. I don't know what significance this examination by Mr. Korn can have.

The COURT. You are taking the position here by your evidence that this man was eliminated from business in Plainview because of a conspiracy?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir.

The COURT. Now, they have a right to show, and that is what they are attempting to show, that he was eliminated for other reasons than a conspiracy.

Mr. COCHRAN. We are offering it for this additional reason: This witness has attempted, after trying to reconstruct some notes which he has testified from, to testify specifically to certain things which he alleged transpired many years ago and now we are showing just how much memory he has in regard to the operations that took 429 place. Also, the matter of the product that was licensed in those situations. He has stated that at the time he operated them and during the period involved there was only one other theater operating in that town.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is not his testimony. The period he operated was after this period that counsel is now going into. At the time he operated he said there were two other theaters operated by Griffith at the time. Counsel is not asking him at all about the period of competition between him and Griffith. This is prior to that date.

The COURT. Proceed.

By the COURT:

Q. When was it opened as the Palace?

A. I believe it was opened sometime the last part of 1935, I believe the name was changed. The exact date I just don't know.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. It is not a fact that Mr. Korn prior to the time he sold out the OK Theater sold out to R. E. Griffith and his associates, had not changed the name of the Olympic to the Palace and licensed pictures for it under the name of the Palace?

A. Well, it was running under the name of the Palace Theater, yes, sir.

Q. When Griffith acquired it?

A. Yes, sir.

430 Q. And Griffith acquired the Grenada when?

A. In 1935.

Q. What part?

A. It was along the first of July.

Q. How long before Griffith acquired the Grenada that the Olympic was changed to the Palace?

A. I just don't know; don't recall.

Q. At that time wasn't Korn operating that theater?

A. Well, if Korn was operating it he had a man by the name of Aylesworth who was running the theater, and as far as his advertising or buying was concerned, I couldn't swear to that. All I know, the theater was operating and if Mr. Korn had anything to do with it—he may have, but Mr. Aylesworth was running it.

Q. Have you tried to make up your notes in regard to your testimony from advertisements being made at that time? Is that how you get the data from which you are testifying?

A. No, sir.

Q. You are referring to advertisement, and this theater not having advertisements. Just what significance does the advertisement have in connection with your testimony?

A. Well, my statement on that, Mr. Korn might have been operating, I don't know. I am just telling you the man that ran the theater, with whom I was acquainted. That was Mr. Aylesworth who was operating it.

431 Q. So the Palace Theater was being operated in 1935 at the time the Griffiths acquired the Grenada?

A. I don't believe it was operating at that particular time. It might have been prior to that time.

Q. When did Aylesworth quit operating?

A. I couldn't tell you.

Q. When did he start to operate?

A. Sometime in 1935.

By the COURT:

Q. Was the Palace owned by the same party who owned the Grenada?

A. It was prior to the time. At the time Mr. Korn was operating it I don't know, but Mr. Aylesworth was operating the theater, supposedly an independent.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you know of any operation of the Palace Theater after Griffith acquired the Grenada?

A. No, sir. I left after that.

432 Q. Is it not a fact that while you were operating the theaters for the Griffith interests, Amusement interests, in Plainview, you managed and operated the Palace Theater, the very one we are talking about, and operated it and exhibited pictures there?

A. That I operated the Palace Theater?

Q. Yes, sir, for Griffith and McSwain?

A. No, sir.

Q. That is not true?

A. That is not true.

Q. Did Griffith and McSwain own that theater during the period you were managing it for them?

A. No, sir, Mr. Korn owned it.

Q. Did you work for Griffith at any time after Griffith acquired the theaters from Korn?

A. No, sir.

Q. What time did you cease to manage theaters for Griffith?

A. On the 25th of June, 1935.

Q. You say they acquired the Grenada in July?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But you at no time managed the Palace?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was there another theater in that town known as the Fair?

433 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there any Fair Theater in Plainview prior to the time you went into the town in 1936?

A. No, sir.

Q. The theater which you acquired in the name of the Palace Theaters, Inc., in 1936, was the former Plainview and Ritz and the Fair. Is that correct?

A. The former Texas?

Q. Texas. In other words, that had been the Plainview, and a different owner owned and operated it previously. It had been the Ritz and when Griffith took it over and when Lindsey took it over it became the Texas. And you acquired the lease on it shortly after you ceased to work for Griffith and started to operating it as the Fair. Is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. What was your testimony in regard to the product of United Artists which you played in 1935-36 in the Fair Theater?

A. I played some first run that had not been played in Plainview and some second run.

Q. I thought your testimony was that at that time you only played cutbacks, the first run, and that you played some second run?

A. I did.

434 Q. Don't you know, as a matter of fact that so far as the United Artists is concerned that there were no cutbacks; that its pictures are licensed individually, and there were no eliminations or cutbacks of United Artists' product?

A. Well, in the way you term it there, they are all made on a separate contract. That is true, but as far as the term "cutback" as I use it, were pictures that were rejected by your competition. They didn't want it. That is the term cutback.

Q. You are attempting to say that in your opinion they were pictures they didn't want?

A. Certainly.

Q. Do you know they didn't want them?

A. They didn't buy them.

Q. So all you mean to say is that the pictures of United Artists which you didn't license are pictures which had been licensed to somebody else?

A. The pictures, I believe they are off the 1934-35 contract which Mr. Korn did not play.

Q. But you say you did not play in the Fair Theater first run pictures of United Artists and carrying fine stars which have not been licensed to anyone in the town, of the 1935-36 product?

Mr. WRIGHT. He said B. Of course, he did play
435 United Artists first run, on direct examination and cross-examination.

The COURT. Answer it again.

Mr. COCHRAN. I want to get that straight. He said he played 1934-35 product, which had not been played by Korn. That was your answer, wasn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. That is correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you play any 1935-36 United Artists releases?

A. Yes, sir, I played some 1935-36.

Q. And those were pictures which had not been licensed to anyone else?

A. Some of them were, yes, sir.

Q. When was it you ceased to operate the Fair Theater?

A. I ceased to operate the Fair Theater, it was the latter part of 1936.

436 Q. I believe your testimony was that your contract was to give possession on October 15th, but as a matter of fact you didn't give it until November 1st, is that correct?

A. Correct.

Q. So then you were operating on behalf of yourself and your associates the Fair Theater in August and September of 1936?

A. That's right.

Q. Isn't it a fact that on August 15th, 16th, and 17th, 1936, that you played in the Fair Theater a first run picture, "Modern Times", starring Charlie Chaplin and Paulette Goddard?

A. Judge, your Honor, to answer that question correctly on that date I would have to refer to my files.

Q. You wouldn't forget—so far as the date is concerned just forget that for the present—do you remember that was a 1935-36 release and one of the outstanding releases of United Artists for that year?

A. I played the picture, yes, sir, it was one.

Q. You remember that was one of the outstanding releases?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you played it first run?

A. Yes, sir.

437 Q. On July 11th and 12th and 13th, 1936, did you play the picture "These Three", starring Miriam Hopkins and Merle Oberon?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. First run?

A. I don't recall whether that was first run or second run. I would have to look at my record.

Q. Did you have any record that you can tell?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Please look at it.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, there wasn't any suggestion on his direct examination that he didn't play United Artists' pictures first run. I don't know what the purpose of this cross-examination is.

Mr. Cochran: I will state the purpose to be this.

Mr. WRIGHT. Did he say he couldn't buy them second run?

Mr. COCHRAN. The record shows he has already testified that he was merely playing cutbacks. The record will show he played more first run United Artists' Pictures for that season, and product that was not licensed by the other parties and better pictures than the other pictures.

Mr. WRIGHT. Maybe we can shorten it by putting in what pictures he played.

438 The WITNESS: What was the name of the picture?

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. "These Three."

A. "These Three"; yes, sir.

Q. And you played it first run?

A. Second run, $17.50 film rent.

Q. Did you also play it first run?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. Will you say that picture played at all in the opposition theater?

A. Yes, sir, it played at the Grenada Theater.

Q. When, do you know?

A. No, sir I couldn't give you the exact date.

Q. How do you know it played?

A. Well, I bought it second run for the town.

Q. I beg pardon?

(Answer read by the reporter.)

Q. Just exactly what I am trying to get at is if it didn't play the other places and you played it first run or not, it would be the first run of the town, wouldn't it?

A. It played the Grenada Theater, I made that statement.

Q. I asked you how you knew it played the Grenada, other than that you say you had it licensed second run?

A. Mr. Korn played the picture.

439 Q. On what date?

A. I couldn't tell you the date.

Q. Didn't you play the picture "Dark Angel" for the 1935-36 release, first run?

A. No, sir.

Q. Beg pardon? What are you referring to to try to ascertain whether or not you played it?

A. My contracts.

Q. Will your contracts show whether you played a picture or not?

A. My booking sheets will.

Q. Do you have your booking sheets?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Let's refer to those. The booking sheets won't show whether it played or not, will it, it merely shows whether you booked it, isn't that true?

A. I have my box office.

Q. All right, do you have your box office on that particular picture?

A. That is what I am looking for. "These Three" was played on the 12th and 13th.

Q. First or second run?

A. It was played first run.

Q. (By the COURT) The 12th and 13th of what?

A. July, your Honor.

440 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. 1936?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now look at "Dark Angel"—no, not "Dark Angel"—"Things Come" and tell me if that was played first run at the Fair Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. On what date? Also referred to as "Ghost Goes," and the real title to it is "Shape of Things to Come," produced by Corda, starring Raymond Massey and Ralph Richardson?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was played first run, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir; it was a foreign made picture.

Q. But you played it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was one of the United Artists releases?

A. It was one of United Artists releases.

Q. The picture "Condemned" was played first run on July 25th, 26th and 27th, 1936, was it not, first run?

A. On what dates did you say?
Q. July 25th, 26th and 27th.
A. Yes, "I Stand Condemned."
Q. Played first run?
A. Second run.
Q. Did you play it first run also?
441 A. No, sir.
Q. The picture "Melody" was played in the Fair Theater, first run, on July 19th and 20th, 1936, was it not?
A. "Melody Lingers On"?
Q. Yes.
A. 19th and 20th of July, it was played, yes, sir.
Q. And the picture "One Rainy Afternoon" was played on August 9th and 10th, first run?
A. It was played August 9th and 10th.
Q. The picture "Amateur Gentleman" was played first run in the Fair Theater on May 23rd, 24th, and 25th, 1936, was it not?
A. 24th and 25th, yes, sir.
Q. Will you say that those pictures were cutback pictures?
A. I will say outside of, outside of about three of them, they were not very good box office attractions.
Q. Well, which ones did you say were not good box office attractions?
A. Well, you take this "Things to Come," it was a nationally known flop, I believe you will agree with me.
Q. There were stars in it of recognized merit, were there not?
A. It was a foreign made picture.
Q. I asked you if they were stars of recognized merit?
442 A. If I remember the stars correctly, it was Raymond Massey.
Q. Yes.
A. At that particular time I don't think he was much of a box office attraction.
Q. What do you say about "One Rainy Afternoon," that was a picture produced by the Pickford-Laskey Producers, was it not?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. That was the star Ida Lupino, wasn't it?
A. Well, I would say it was just a fair picture, a fair program picture; there wasn't nothing outstanding about it.
Q. Can you tell us any of the pictures released by United Artists which you didn't play that were superior to "One Rainy Afternoon," "Amateur Gentleman," "Modern Times," and "These Three"?

A. Well, there was "Strike Me Pink," and "Barbary Coast" that were a lot superior to them.

Q. Was that better than "Modern Times"?

A. Yes, sir, it sure was.

Q. Will you let me have and see these contracts which you had with United Artists for the '35–36 product?

Mr. WRIGHT. I have the approved contracts here.

443 The COURT. Gentlemen, the time has come that you have designated that the Court should recess.

Mr. WRIGHT. We can probably shorten this up by arranging to put into the record whatever he wants to show.

Mr. COCHRAN. I can examine these after we adjourn.

The COURT. We will recess until ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon at four o'clock p. m., court took a recess until May 9, 1945, at ten o'clock a. m.)

444 PROCEEDINGS

May 9, 1945, 10 o'clock a. m.

DENNIS SCALING, recalled, further testified as follows:

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you have in your possession all of the contracts which were made with the corporation in which you were interested, and which was operating the Fair Theater subsequent to the time you commenced to operate that theater in January of 1936 until you ceased to operate it in October of 1936?

A. You mean film contracts?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I don't believe I have all of them in my possession at the present time.

Q. From the contracts of United Artists which you do have in your possession it appears that you were able to license first run product of United Artists for the 1935-36 season and of the '34-35 season by the contracts dated in February, or rather on February 4, 1936, February 24, 1936, and May 12, 1936. Is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was during the period in which R. E. Griffith and Mr. McSwain were your opposition in the town?

445 A. Correct.

Q. Do you have a copy of the contract with United Artists dated November 29, 1935?

A. I couldn't say without checking them over first, that exact date.

Mr. WRIGHT. Is that one that was checked last night?

Mr. COCHRAN. It wasn't in those he handed to me.

A. It is for the picture "I Stand Condemned." I don't think it was found yesterday when we were looking for it if it was pertaining to that particular picture.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Will you say on December 29, 1935, you did not make a contract with United Artists for four pictures of the 1935-36 season?

A. If I did I did not play them.

Q. I asked you if you made a contract.

A. I made a contract——

Q. Just give me that date, whether you made a contract on that date. If not, we will pass it. If you don't know, say so.

Mr. WRIGHT. There isn't any dispute here at all but what he played United Artists first run for 1935-36. That has been testified to at least four or five times.

The COURT. He can answer the questions. I don't know the reason.

446 Mr. COCHRAN. I will state the purpose. Counsel for the Government has stated that their contention in this case against R. E. Griffith or the companies that he represented, if he did represent any companies there, is based on the fact that when the Korn circuit was operating in opposition to this man that he was able to obtain product, both first and second run, and when Griffith came in there he wasn't able to get any product. Griffith came back in there in January, 1936. Griffith was then operating theaters in opposition to him. I am simply showing that after Griffith came in he did get the product.

Mr. WRIGHT. There isn't any contention at all he couldn't get United Artists first run for the 1935-36 season. We have never made that claim.

Mr. COCHRAN. With that statement, instead of going into detail, I will ask some general questions.

447 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I had intended, by reason of the fact that you produced certain contracts here under the dates that I have mentioned, which were with United Artists for first run and some second run product, I had intended to show that in addition to those contracts you licensed United Artists' product for the 1935-36 season on 12 additional contracts during the period from February 1936 to and including September 16, 1936, but with the statement of counsel for the Government, I will shorten that examination by asking if you will admit that the contracts with United Artists, which were made by you after you came into Plainview in opposition to R. E. Griffith were the only contracts which you had with United Artists during that period or made with United Artists?

A. Yes, sir; the contracts that you have here.

Q. You say they are the only ones you made and you didn't make additional contracts as I have indicated with United Artists?

A. I don't know how many pictures you have reference to, but the contracts I made covered some 32 or 34 pictures.

Q. For two different seasons, both first and second run?

A. That is first and second run, yes, sir.

Q. I am asking you if you will state it to be a fact that you made no other contracts with United Artists
448 during the period from January 1936 to October 15, 1936, other than those which you have exhibited to me?

A. I played some of their short subjects.

Q. I am talking about feature subjects.

A. The feature subjects are what I have listed here, the only contracts I signed with United Artists.

Q. There are no other contracts with United Artists for the period, for that period, you are certain of that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So you didn't make any contracts with United Artists on November 29, 1935, February 14, 1936, June 22, 1936, July 6, 1936, July 29, 1936, August 3, 1936, and September 16, 1936?

A. These contracts are dated in 1936, but in regard to your question, the way I understand it, was on the 1935-36 pictures. I made a number of these contracts in 1936.

Q. What I am asking you is that in addition to the contracts which you have produced here dated February 4, 1936, February 24, 1936, and May 12, 1936, you didn't make any contracts with United Artists during the period you were operating the Fair Theater on your last venture in that city on a number of other occasions?

A. Your Honor, I would have to check my records before I could give the exact dates on those. It has been such a long time that it would be impossible for a man to 449 remember the exact dates.

Q. What I am trying to get at is will you say there were no other contracts during that period with the United Artists other than those you have presented here?

A. I couldn't say there wasn't.

Mr. WRIGHT. I might say, your Honor, we have made every effort to get all of the United Artists' contracts for that seasons here. We subpoenaed them from United Artists. However, the contracts they produced are considerably less complete than those produced by the witness.

If there is any question about trying to show exactly what United Artists' pictures he played during that year and when they were contracted, we will be very glad to see that whatever records there are that anybody has be put in to show what those contracts were. I don't see any point in harrowing the witness about it.

Mr. COCHRAN. I don't want to harrow the witness.

Q. At the time you disposed of your Fair Theater in October 1936, did you have any United Artists' feature contracts on feature pictures, under contract which you had not, or which had not been played?

A. I don't recall at this time.

Q. At page 173 of the transcript you stated "I played United Artists first run cutbacks for the 1934–35 contracts." Now, the feature pictures which you li-450 censed first run of the 1934–35 season were pictures which had not been licensed to anyone else in the town, were they not?

A. The first run pictures were, yes, sir.

Q. As I recall, your testimony is that the first time you were in the theater exhibition business in Plainview you operated the theater known as the Fair from a period in 1932 to a period in 1933, is that correct?

A. Incorrect.

Q. What is correct?

A. It was the Ritz from '32 to '33.

Q. It was the same building——

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which you used in operating your Fair when you came back the second time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But the material fact that I want to get correct during which you were operating the theater in Plainview on your first venture in that city as a theater operator. It is correct that it was for the period from 1932 to 1933, is that right?

A. That is correct.

Q. And after you ceased to operate the Ritz Theater you continued to manage a theater operated in the same building for R. E. Griffith and McSwain?

A. Correct.

451 Q. For a period from the time you discontinued operating it as the owner until June of 1935, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir, I believe on the 25th of June, approximately; it was right in the latter part of June.

Q. Of 1935?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the period in 1933 when you commenced to operate as manager was what date?

A. I beg pardon?

Q. Of the period in 1933 when you ceased to operate the Ritz as owner and commenced the Texas in the same building as manager, was what date?

A. In July.

Q. July, 1933?

A. Yes, sir.

The COURT. Pardon me just a minute. Was the Texas an entirely different theater?

Mr. COCHRAN. Your Honor, the testimony shows that the theater which Mr. Scaling operated as a part owner had formerly been known as the Plainview, and when he acquired it he operated it under the name of the Ritz.

The COURT. That was from '32 to '33?

Mr. COCHRAN. That was from '32 until July 1933. R. E. Griffith and McSwain acquired from Mr. Scaling and his associates the theater which was being operated under the name of the Ritz by Mr. Scaling, in July 1933 and changed its name to the Texas. Correct?

452

Mr. WRIGHT. Right.

The COURT. That was from 1933 until June, 1935?

The WITNESS. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. June 1935. And R. E. Griffith and associates operated the Texas Theater in that building with Mr. Scaling as manager until about January of 1936.

Mr. WRIGHT. No, that is incorrect.

Mr. RICE. Mr. Scaling was manager up to about July 1st.

Mr. COCHRAN. Up to July 1, 1935?

Mr. WRIGHT. Right.

Mr. COCHRAN. And thereafter Mr. Scaling and associates acquired a lease on the building which had been occupied by the Texas, the same building which he had previously used for operating the Ritz Theater, and opened a theater in January of 1936 under the name of the Fair. Am I correct?

Mr. WRIGHT. The Fair Theater was the same theater that had been operated by Griffith as the Texas.

The COURT. Just in that connection, did the Griffiths' lease expire on the Texas in 1935?

MR. WRIGHT. If the Court please, we will have Mr. Silverthorne on the stand who handled the leasing arrangement. I think it will appear.

453

The COURT. Do you know?

The WITNESS. Yes, sir.

The COURT. Do you know whether or not the lease expired?

The WITNESS. Mr. Silverthorne has the details of the lease.

The COURT. You don't know the facts about that?

The WITNESS. No, sir.

454 Mr. WRIGHT. I think I can tell it to you now. The lease expired, as I recall, at the end of 1934, and then there was an attempt to reduce the rental by the Griffiths. The landlord did not agree and they continued in opposition without any written lease because of that dispute, and then were finally ousted by the landlord and took the equipment out of this theater, moved it into another building; kept the name Texas, and the theater they formerly operated as the Texas theater became this witness' Fair Theater.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you have any of the records pertaining to the operation of the Ritz Theater during the period from 1932 until July, 1933?

A. No, sir. They were all left in the theater.

Q. Do you have any of the contracts which were made by you for your feature product with any of the distributors during that period?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you have any record of any kind pertaining to the product which was licensed or used by you as manager, or by persons for whom you were acting as manager in the operation of the Texas Theater from July, 1933, until June 25, 1935?

A. No, sir.

455 Q. Is it not a fact that during the period of your operation of the Ritz as part owner and your operation of the Texas as manager, and up until you ceased to operate it as manager in June of 1935, that there was no RKO feature picture licensed for use in either the Ritz or Texas, second run?

A. I don't recall about the license proposition, whether there was a contract license or not. I couldn't say. They had at that time a spot booking arrangement.

Q. Were there any RKO pictures spot booked in either of those theaters during that time, second run?

A. I think so but I could not verify it because I have no record to check, it has been so long ago.

Q. During the same period, is it not a fact that there was not a picture of Universal played in either the Ritz or Texas, first or second run?

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't recall that he testified there was during that period. I don't know the purpose of the examination.

Mr. COCHRAN. I am asking him now.

The COURT. Answer the question.

A. Well, I don't believe there were any Universal pictures played. I cannot recall it.

By Mr. COCHRAN.

Q. During the same period, is it not a fact that there was no Paramount picture played second run, in either the Ritz or the Texas?

456 A. Yes, sir, Paramount was played second run in 1932-33, spot booked.

Q. Was that during the period that you were operating the Ritz as owner?

A. Yes, sir, in 1932 and '33.

Q. Did you have any contract with Paramount for second run pictures for that period?

A. I don't recall having any specified second run contracts. I spot booked some pictures back and played them.

Q. A few Paramounts were spot booked by you during that period for second run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But you had no established second run account with Paramount?

A. I just couldn't say.

By the COURT:

Q. What do you mean by spot booked?

A. Your Honor, you have a picture you played, first run, or you want to play second run, and there used to be the policy in the exchanges, back nine or ten years ago, in place of making your contract on that picture they just sent you an invoice on it, and they just put it in without a contract.

Q. They just bought one picture for a special time?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Isn't the difference, that in places where 457 there is no second run house and no established second run account that occasionally where there is an outstanding picture that the exhibitor desires to have returned, the exhibitor may be able to make a deal to license that individual picture for exhibition on a second or repeat run?

A. Yes, sir, called spot booking.

Q. That is spot booking. It is not a fact that during that period neither the Ritz nor the Texas had any Fox feature picture license for either first or second run?

A. Well, I can't recall.

Q. Will you say they did?

A. I said I can't remember of any specified picture.

Q. Is it not a fact during that same period neither the

A. We played some Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures sec-licensed for either first or second run?

A. We played some Metro-Foldwyn-Mayer pictures second run.

Q. Was that on spot booking also?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You had no established Metro-Goldwyn Mayer account?

A. I don't recall whether we did or not. We might have had.

Q. Isn't it a fact during that same period of time neither the Ritz nor the Texas had any first or second 458 run feature pictures from Columbia?

A. I believe we played some Columbia pictures between 1933 and '35, second run.

Q. Spot booking?

A. A few cutbacks. I wouldn't say they were spot booked. We might have had a contract.

Q. You would not say you played any, would you, during that period?

A. We played "It Happened One Night" second run.

Q. What year's release was that?

A. I can't recall the exact release date of Columbia.

Q. Can you approximate that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you think you played it in the Ritz or Texas?

A. I played it in one of the two theaters. I can't recall the exact date on it.

Q. That was an outstanding picture starring Clark Gable, was it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you ceased to operate the Ritz Theater 1936, you had some Columbia product which you had licensed for the 1935-36 season, either the 1934-35 or the 1935-36 season, still unplayed, did you not?

A. I don't recall without checking up.

Q. Is it not a fact you were due Columbia an un-

459 paid amount for the product that you licensed under the contract of March 25, 1936, and which had not been paid when you disposed of the theater, and which you never paid?

A. Well, now, I didn't owe them a penny, as far as money was concerned, because pictures are not played on credit. You either pay for them before you play them or you don't get them.

Q. If you license a picture and agree to play it and then dont't play it, they charge you for it, do they not?

A. When I sold out in 1930, Mr. Griffith and Mr. McSwain agreed to take over all unplayed contracts or any pictures thereof.

Q. Is that in your contract of sale?

A. I cannot state at this time.

Q. They acquired your theater in October. I am asking you prior to that time, if you didn't have unplayed feature product of Columbia which had been licensed to you in March of 1936, for which you had not paid and which you had not played?

A. I might have. I don't recall at this time, if it was for the Class B or C product.

Q. Did you also have a considerable amount of independent pictures, or pictures produced by so-called independent producers which had not been played prior to October 15, 1936?

A. I believe that is true but the quality of the 460 pictures just couldn't stand up at the box office.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike out the part of the answer which is not responsive to the question. That is, the quality of the pictures would not stand up at the box office.

The COURT. Overruled. He can explain why he didn't run them.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Scaling, you ceased to be manager for R. E. Griffith and his associates in June of 1935, according to your previous statement. Is it not a fact that for sometime thereafter R. E. Griffith continued to carry you on the pay roll of that theater?

A. Yes, sir, that is true.

Q. For how long?

A. Approximately, I can't say for how long; maybe six or eight weeks, and I have a letter stating that he could not place me, and that we were figuring on a deal at a little town, Memphis, Texas, and that deal fell through and then he wrote me in August——

Q. Never mind. The letters are the best evidence if they are admissible at all. I am not calling for that. When was it that you commenced negotiating, what is this man's name, Silverthorne, the man who was the agent for the estate which owned the building in which the Texas Theater was being operated—what was his name?

461 A. Silverthorne. Massey owned the building.

Q. But Mr. Silverthorne was the agent, was he not?

A. That is right.

Q. For the owner of the building?

A. That is right.

Q. When did you commence to negotiate with him for the opening of a theater in the building?

A. He talked to me along in the latter part of August about it?

Q. Of what year?

A. Of 1935.

Q. And you commenced to plan on putting a theater in that building?

A. I planned on putting a theater in another building up the street where Griffith moved the Texas Theater. Silverthorne had nothing to do with that.

Q. After speaking with him you and he decided you were going in together and put in a theater in that building?

A. No, sir. After talking to him, he later asked me and approached me to come in on that proposition.

Q. When was that?

A. That was along the last of August or the first of September, sometime in there.

Q. When did you agree with him you would go in with him?

A. We agreed along in, I believe it was in November.

462 Q. So in November, after you had severed your relations as Manager with R. E. Griffith, and a short time after you had ceased on the pay roll of R. E. Griffith, you entered into an agreement with Silverthorne to take possession of the building which your former employer was using to operate his theater?

A. It was in November, 1935.

Q. That is what you did. That is right, isn't it?

A. I went in as a partner with him, yes, sir.

Q. In the building?

A. In the building, yes, sir.

Q. And that your former employer was using to operate a theater?

A. That is correct.

Q. I assume that the relationship between you and R. E. Griffith and McSwain was very cordial after that, was it not?

A. Well, I know of no fights that we had.

Q. I didn't ask you that. Was the feeling good or bad between you?

A. Well, I would say it was very good, it was not bad.

Q. There were no hard feelings because of your actions in leasing this building and causing the moving of the theater?

Mr. WRIGHT. Are you asking about hard feelings on his part or on the part of Mr. Griffith or Mr. McSwain?

Mr. COCHRAN. On either side that he knows about.

463 A. Well, as far as speaking to each other is concerned, we always spoke and visited with each other. There was no knock down and drag out fight; any more than from a business standpoint.

Q. You continued on friendly terms?

A. Well, I didn't see very much of either one of them after that time.

Q. And had very little business transactions with either one of them?

A. I had some business transactions with Mr. R. E. Griffith in his office.

Q. Just leading up to that, had you had any other transactions with him prior to March, 1936? What was your answer to that?

A. Yes.

Q. You had had other transactions with him?

A. Yes.

464 Q. When?

A. I had had a transaction with him when I sold out to C. C. Lindsey in 1933.

Q. I am talking about after you were let off of the pay roll and during the time that you were operating the Fair Theater?

A. Well, I saw him in Dallas on two occasions, and I saw him at Plainview on two occasions.

Q. Did you have any transactions with him other than one in March, 1936?

A. No business transaction, no, sir.

Q. Did you have any conversation with him other than that one time?

A. I recall speaking to him in Plainview a couple of times after that.

Q. Any conversations with him prior to March, 1936?

A. All I recall of any conversation with Mr. Griffith in Plainview is merely speaking to him, that's all. He called at my theater one time.

Q. When was that?

A. Along in 1936.

Q. Well, that was after March, wasn't it?

A. I don't recall whether it was before March or after March.

Q. We are coming to this conversation in March.

465 Your statement is that you went to see R. E. Griffith, is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. To discuss with him the matter of releasing from contracts which he had for pictures to be played in his theaters some product so that you might have it?

A. That is right.

Q. And Mr. Lockhart, who was at that time a booker for R. E. Griffith, you say was present when you went in?

A. No, he wasn't present when I went in. Mr. Griffith called him in.

Q. And you state there was no one present at the time that you had your conversation with R. E. Griffith in which he made the statement in regard to the second run, and in which he made the statement in regard to the closing of the theater and the change of policy in regard to pictures.

A. In the conversation between Griffith and I after Lockhart left the room.

Q. Along in 1936 you made a complaint to the Department of Justice, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have a copy of your letter which you wrote to the Department of Justice?

A. Yes, sir; I think I have the files on that.

466 Q. Will you let me see it, please?

A. Under what date did you say it was?

Q. Any and all letters which you wrote to the Department of Justice in 1936.

A. Any and all of them?

Q. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. We could have saved a lot of time on this, it seems to me, if counsel had said he wanted to read this correspondence when we were going over the United Artists' contracts.

Mr. COCHRAN. I will admit that I am very negligent in not doing it.

The COURT. Couldn't you arrange for him to get those letters during the noon hour?

Mr. COCHRAN. I just imagine there was one, and that he has only a small file.

The WITNESS. You asked for all the correspondence.

Mr. COCHRAN. I don't want all of the correspondence; I want your letters to the Department of Justice, just your letters to the Department of Justice.

The WITNESS. Under what date?

Mr. COCHRAN. During 1936.

The WITNESS. You want all of them?

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes.

The WITNESS. O. K.

467 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. May I look at these now?

A. This one doesn't go.

Mr. WRIGHT. I suggest that we have these identified as they are produced here so we will know what we are talking about. I think they should be identified. Let's mark those.

Mr. COCHRAN. I am not offering to identify anything.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think they should be identified if you want to inspect them.

The COURT. Well, he is asking him the questions.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think we ought to know what he is handling and what he is talking about.

Mr. COCHRAN. If I ask a question in regard to a document, I will.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think regardless of whether you ask a question or not, we should have in the record a statement of what he is examining, with an identification mark.

The COURT. I think that is entirely up to the man who is offering it.

Mr. WRIGHT. The witness, I submit, is not bound to just turn over his documents to these gentlemen without any identification at all in the record of what he is turning over and what he is looking at.

The COURT. Nothing is going into the record.

468 Mr. WRIGHT. I certainly object to this strongly, I object to the examination of them in this manner without any identification.

The COURT. Overruled. I think he has a right to examine them. He asked him for the letter, if he had it, and he says yes, and he is now asking him to show it to him.

Mr. WRIGHT. I say it should be given an identifying mark and described so that we will know what he is examining.

The COURT. There is no necessity of that unless he attempts to put it into the record.

Mr. COCHRAN. I think we can proceed now.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did you in any of those letters which you wrote to the Department of Justice mention in any way this conversation which you claimed to have had with R. E. Griffith on March 26, 1936?

A. I mentioned it, yes, sir.

Q. Find that letter, please.

A. I mentioned it in an affidavit.

Q. I am not asking about an affidavit; I want the letter.

A. I have no letter, I don't believe, of that. Just a minute, though. Your Honor, I will have to read quite a few of these letters to find the statement in it.

469 Mr. COCHRAN. It will be satisfactory with me to wait until the recess.

The COURT. You can look it up at the noon hour. Just tell him what you would like to have, Judge Cochran.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You understand, Mr. Scaling, what I want, don't you? I want any letter which you wrote to the Department of Justice during 1936 in which you mentioned this conversation which you have detailed from the witness stand on your direct examination, with R. E. Griffith. During the time you were operating the Fair Theater, what was your operating policy?

A. In operating the Fair Theater, we operated on a policy of four changes a week.

Q. Beg pardon?

A. We operated a first and second run policy.

Q. I mean how many changes a week?

A. Four.

Q. Did you play any double bills?

A. No, sir.

Q. And you maintained a policy, that policy up until the time you ceased to operate the theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you commence to operate on a policy of four changes per week immediately upon opening your Fair Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

470 Q. And you stayed with it during the entire time you were operating it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You mentioned the fact that R. E. Griffith and McSwain didn't take over the operation of the theater on October 15th, but waited until the first of November, is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. Well, was it during that period from October 15th to November 1st, that you had the conversation with Mr. McSwain about booking in pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The booking of pictures into the theater, which you referred to, was the matter of furnishing to the distributors play dates for those pictures in the particular theater, was it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the pictures which he arranged to have booked in during that period, that 15-day period, were pictures which you had at that time under contract?

A. No, sir; the pictures that he booked in, "My Man Godfrey" was a picture that he booked in.

Q. What did you say that was, "My Man Godfrey"?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And the distributor?
471 A. Universal.
Q. What else did he book in; just give us the pictures that were played during that 15-day period?
A. Just give you some pictures that were played?
Q. No, give us all the pictures that were played during that 15-day period.
The COURT. Gentlemen, is it necessary to go into all of those details?
Mr. COCHRAN. I think not, your Honor.
The COURT. I think we are taking a lot of time.
Mr. COCHRAN. I will abide by the Court's suggestion. That's all for this witness until he produces the information which I requested, and which he is to get during the recess.

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I want to call your attention to the testimony on page 249 of the transcript—no, I beg your pardon, page 248 of the transcript here, in which you gave this testimony. Mr. Cochran asked you, "The picture 'Condemned' was played first run on July 25th, 26th and 27th, 1936, was it not, first run", and your answer was, "On what dates did you say?" and he repeated, "July 25th, 26th and 27th", and 472 your answer, "Yes, 'I Stand Condemned'." "Question: Played first run", and your answer was, "Second run", "Question: Did you play it first run also", and your answer, "No, sir". Now, since checking over your United Artists' records there do you want to correct that statement about it being played second run?
A. It was first run.
Q. Now, these other pictures that were played under contracts of various dates, as I recall the contracts that were checked over with Mr. Cochran, there was only one which was dated after July 3, 1936, was there not? Would you look there and see? According to my record of those and as I understand it, the second run contract for "These Three" is the only one where the application is dated after July 3, 1936. Can you check that?
A. I believe that is correct.
Q. Have you got the two "These Three" contracts there, as to the first and second run?
Mr. WRIGHT. Maybe we can save time by asking Mr. Cochran, does that check with your listing of those contracts that he had? The only one with the application after July 3.
Mr. COCHRAN. Of those he exhibited to me, I don't have anything after May 1936. You understand my interrogation went to the proposition that there were other contracts with United Artists which he didn't have in 473 his possession. I was interrogating him on that.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, that's right. We are perfectly willing to have in the record all of these United Artists' contracts which have been produced, but unless there is some desire on the part of counsel or the Court to have them in the record I wasn't going to offer all of these contracts. However, I thought I would put in those which would cover this picture.

The COURT. Is there any necessity for having this in the record?

Mr. COCHRAN. We are not asking it.

Mr. WRIGHT. I merely wanted to establish that fact, that the first run contract, I believe he previously testified that he played "These Three" first and second run, and his first run contract application is dated July 6, 1936, and the second run is dated October 6, 1936.

Mr. COCHRAN. It will be satisfactory with us, instead of making those exhibits, those two contracts that you are reading from, if you will just state the dates as you have done under pictures which were covered by those two contracts or applications.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it is in the record. Read it back.

Mr. COCHRAN. It doesn't state the pictures.

Mr. WRIGHT. Read it back.

474 (Statement read by the reporter.)

Mr. COCHRAN. I see I am in error.

Mr. WRIGHT. It is understood that other than this application for first and second run of "These Three" that I just referred to, there were no United Artists' contracts under which these pictures that we have been referring to played, made later than July 6th?

Mr. COCHRAN. We do not concede that, but say that the contracts which Mr. Scaling says he has in his possession do not cover any date and are not for pictures licensed subsequent to that date.

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, in that case, I think it would be necessary to cover those pictures which you have covered on your direct examination by particular license—I mean on the cross-examination by particular license agreements.

Mr. COCHRAN. I have not attempted to cover all of the pictures and only inquired in regard to certain pictures. This morning I inquired about contracts of certain dates, one being as late as September of 1936. Mr. Scaling has produced no such contract and says he has no contracts in his possession other than those he has produced.

Mr. WRIGHT. As I understand, there is no claim made that there was any contract made with United Artists
475 dated September 3, 1936.

Mr. COCHRAN. On September 16th, 1936, I contend there is.

Mr. WRIGHT. September 16, 1936?

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes, but Mr. Scaling has produced no such contract.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You were subpoenaed, were you not, to produce all of your contracts while you were operating the theater there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are these contracts which you have produced all of those which you could find?

A. This is absolutely the complete file that I could gather together.

Mr. WRIGHT. Perhaps I can cover this by a statement for the record. The contracts between the Fair Theater of Plainview and United Artists, made for the 1935-36 and 1937-38 seasons, were, I believe, subpoenaed from United Artists Corporation and a folder has been produced in response to that subpoena by Mr. McKenzie which contains in it only contracts for "Call of the Wild", "Dark Angel", "Red Salute", all dated February 14, 1936, "Ghost Goes West", dated February 24, 1936, "Things to Come", "Amateur Gentleman", dated May 12, 1936.

Mr. COCHRAN. May it be stated into the record
476 that those contracts produced do not cover all of the contracts with United Artists made by Mr. Scaling during that period which he has produced?

Mr. WRIGHT. That's quite right. This is all that United Artists was able to produce. I take it there is no dispute about that.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Just give us your best recollection as to whether or not subsequent to July of 1936 you made any contract with United Artist Corporation for pictures to be played at the Fair Theater there, either first or second run, other than this one that is identified here for second run, of "These Three"?

A. Yes, sir, I played, I played quite a few after that; I played approximately——

Q. (Interrupting.) I don't think you understood the question. Will you read the question? I didn't ask you what you played; I asked you about making contracts.

A. May I hear the question repeated?

Mr. WRIGHT. Read it.

(Last question read by the reporter.)

A. After that time I made no contracts.

Q. Can you state that you have a record of the pictures you played after that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you read that into the record, the United 477 Artists' pictures?

A. "Les Miserables", October 28th and 29th, "These Three" October 21st and 22nd, second run, "Escape Me Never" was played September 16th and 17th, "Things to Come" played September 30th and 31st, "Scarlet Pimpernel," played September 1st and 2nd, "Thunder in the East", played August 25th and 26th, "Clive of India", played the 27th, "Modern Times", August 16th and 17th, "Bulldog Drummond", August 19th and 20th, "One Rainy Afternoon", August 9th and 10th, "Follies Bergere", August 11th and 12th, "Sanders of the River", August 2nd and 3rd, "Dark Angel" August 5th and 6th, "I Stand Condemned" July 26th and 27th, "Transatlantic Merry go-Round", July 29th and 30th, "The Bowery" July 31st and August 1st, "Melody Lingers On", July 19th and 20th, "These Three" July 12th and 13th, first run, "Let 'em Have It" July 7th and 8th, "Mighty Barnum" July 10th and 11th, "Kids Millions" June 1st and 2nd.

Q. Can you tell us, and perhaps you had better do this during the recess, which of those pictures you have listed as having played you got contracts for, and then read the date of the contract that covers the picture into the record, or you can do that now, if you prefer.

The Court. Do you want the contract under which these pictures were furnished?

Mr. Wright. Yes, sir, I thought I would have him read the date of the contract into the record, that's all, 478 so far as he has contracts for them.

The Court. He can prepare that at the recess.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. As I recall, on your cross examination, you were asked by Mr. Rice about films being bought in July or August and you said that was generally when the contracts were made?

A. Yes, sir, usually started the latter part of July or the first of August for the new season.

Q. It is a fact you dealt with the exchanges throughout the years for whatever product was available. Is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. I notice the Universal contract you made for the 1935-36 season was made in October?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then insofar as buying second run pictures was concerned, when, with reference to the beginning of the season, are those generally made?

A. In some cases on contracts they are made most any time of the year.

Q. That is when you were buying second run of the old season. Those would be made at any time. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How about when you are getting second run of the current product?

A. That would be made when you bought the current product, first run.

Q. I mean if you didn't buy it first run. If they 479 had product where somebody else had the first run.

A. Well, you could buy it at any time.

Q. It might be made any time after the first run deal was made?

A. Any time.

Q. Will you be able to state—I don't know whether you can do it now—I think you had better be prepared to answer, which of these United Artists pictures you mentioned there as having been played in July, August and September, were foreign made pictures?

A. I can check it right here.

Q. If you will do that.

A. Did you want me to do that now?

Q. I think that is all the direct examination now until that is completed.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Right about the time that you were making a licensing agreement for pictures, the dates which have been mentioned here, July, August and September, is it not a fact that very few licensing contracts for the current product were made as early as August?

A. Well, I can't answer that. The season is considered in the industry as starting along about July, August and September.

Q. The season doesn't begin until the first of September, does it?

480 Mr. WRIGHT. I think you might ask him with respect to which company. I think there are some variations.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. During the time involved here is it not a fact that each and all of the major distributors you have been refering to, their season commences the first of September?

A. Well, all I know about their seasons, some of them negotiated in August and some of them waited until September.

Q. Did you, during the period you operated in Plainview, have a contract with any distributor for the product of the coming season which was negotiated as early as August?

A. That was negotiated as early as August, no, of 1936.

Q. No, I mean preceding the season when the releases would commence. In other words, for the season say of 1936-37, or the season of '32-33 or '33-34, for those seasons' products did you make any contract with any distributor which was dated or the application dated as early as August preceding the commencement of that season?

A. I will have to check that.

Q. All right. You have bought a lot of pictures, haven't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What I am trying to get at is this: You don't mean to say it was usual and customary that all contracts for pictures would be executed prior to September 1 of any year?

481 A. Certainly not. We started in July and August; different companies at different dates.

Q. I mean where you are making a written contract.

A. There would be no specified time.

Q. And negotiations might last over a considerable period of time?

A. That is true.

Q. And contracts might be dated much later than September 1st?

A. Yes, they can be dated later than September 1st.

Q. And frequently are?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is all.

The COURT. This witness can be excused until after recess.

(Witness excused.)

R. Q. SILVERTHORNE, called as a witness on behalf of the Government, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. State your name.

A. R. Q. Silverthorne.

Q. Where do you live?

A. Plainview, Texas.

482 Q. What is your occupation?

A. Insurance, loans and property management.

Q. How long have you been so engaged?
A. About 20 years.
Q. At Plainview?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Were you acting as agent for Mr. Massey there in 1934?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And handled the leasing of the property that was then being operated by Mr. Griffith, Mr. McSwain and Mr. Lindsey, as the Texas Theater?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you recognize this document, Government's Exhibit 104 for identification as the lease the Texas was then being operated under in 1934?
A. Yes, sir.
Mr. WRIGHT. I offer that in evidence. I guess it is already in.
Mr. COCHRAN. What is the date of that lease?
Mr. WRIGHT. This is dated, the original, April 19, 1932, the lease between Dennis Scaling and C. C. Lindsey as lessees and Massey as Lessor. Then there is an assignment made July 1, 1933, which is an assignment from those tenants to Foster McSwain, R. E. Griffith and C. C. Lindsey.

483 By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. When this lease, Exhibit 104, expired December 31, 1934, was a new lease made?
A. No, sir.
Q. Why not?
A. I started negotiating with Mr. McSwain in the fall of 1934——
Q. Which Mr. McSwain?
A. Foster McSwain, and we were unable to agree on the terms. He wanted to reduce the rental and we could not agree on it.
Q. What is the rental called for there?
A. $250 a month. We were unable to agree on an extended contract so we gave him an additional year at $250 a month and asked for the contract, which was never executed. They remained on the property on the basis of $250 a month during 1935.
Q. They paid you the monthly rental without any written lease?
A. That is right.
Q. Then you formed a partnership with Mr. Massey and Mr. Scaling, and organized the Tower Theater Company?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. And later in the same year took it over?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why was it that you organized that?

484 A. We had never been contacted about a renewal of the lease. It came to my attention in the early part of the fall that they had purchased some other property down the street.

Q. Who had?

A. Mr. Foster McSwain, the Griffith interest. Naturally, we thought they were going to move out of this property which was built exclusively for theater operation, so we immediately advised them, on September 6, 1936, to vacate the property.

Q. Then they stayed in there, however, until——

A. They sent me a registered letter on September 27 for the October rent and remained in the property until the end of the year.

Q. And vacated it then at the end of December?

A. At the end of the 1935 season, yes, sir.

Q. You said in the meantime they bought a theater?

A. They bought a building down the street and started remodeling it for a theater.

Q. Then when they vacated they took the equipment out of your building and moved it over to this other building they bought?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And took the name along with it, of the Texas Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

485 Q. Then you and Mr. Scaling and Mr. Massey re-equipped and remodelled the theater before you opened it as the Fair in January of 1936?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Calling your attention to September, 1936, did you have any conversation with Mr. Foster McSwain about the theater?

A. None that I recall. I wrote him a letter demanding possession of the property.

Q. I am referring now to the month of September, 1936.

A. 1936. I met Mr. Foster McSwain in Wichita Falls in September, 1936.

Q. Where did you meet him there?

A. I met him at the coffee shop at the Kemp Hotel.

Q. You went over there to see him?

A. Yes, sir. I went over there to talk to Mr. McSwain and see if I could get some pictures released so we could remain in business.

Q. Will you tell us what was said in that conversation?

Mr. RICE. We submit the answer should be stricken as it is not responsive.

The COURT. Just state the conversation.

A. I met Mr. McSwain in the coffee shop of the Kemp Hotel and we discussed pictures. At least, that was my mission to Wichita Falls, and my appointment with 486 Mr. McSwain. He made it clear to me that Mr. Griffith had bought the product, and as far as getting any released, it would be impossible. He said, "We might be interested in buying that property" and I submitted him an offer of $15,000, and he told me he would let me know.

Q. Was that the conversation?

A. That was all the conversation.

Q. When was the next time that you saw him or had any conversation with him?

A. The next I heard from Mr. Foster McSwain was on September 22.

Q. Where was that?

A. I was in Plainview.

Q. Did you see him on that date?

A. No, sir; just a telegram.

Q. He sent you a telegram?

A. That is right.

Q. Making another appointment?

A. Making an offer of $12,000. He said he was unable to get the deal over and made an offer of $12,000 with a lease of two years at $200 and another two years at $250.

Q. Then did you do anything about that offer at that time?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then when was the next time you wanted to talk
487 to him about the deal?

A. October 15, 1936.

Q. Where was that?

A. In my office.

Q. At Plainview?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And he came over to see you then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was anybody else present then?

A. No, sir.

Q. What was that he said at that time?

A. After several hours of conversation we sold out.

Q. And what was the price that you received?

A. $12,000.

By the COURT:

Q. You sold the real estate and all?

A. No, sir. We sold the equipment and the theater. We didn't sell the physical property at all, not at $12,000.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. That was when you signed this bill of sale here marked Exhibit 3?

A. Yes, sir, that is the bill of sale.

Q. Then you made a lease on the theater with the Griffith interests?

A. A 10-year lease.

Q. Do you have a copy of that with you?

A. It is in the record. The lease is in the record.

488 Q. That was identified, I think, as our Exhibit No. 4. I don't seem to be able to locate it.

Mr. COCHRAN. In connection with the statement the witness made that he made a lease with the Griffith interests, we are objecting to the statement for the reason that the defendants represented by me were not parties to that deal and had no connection with it.

The COURT. That would only apply to R. E. Griffith and his associates in that particular deal.

By the COURT:

Q. You went over to see Mr. McSwain about pictures. McSwain was not a distributor was he?

A. I would think he would be a distributor. They had the product. They were exhibitors, not distributors. They had the product bought and were exhibiting it in Plainview.

Q. Why did you ask him to release certain pictures?

A. Mr. Scaling had contacted Mr. Griffith and had not been able to get any, and I didn't know Mr. Griffith.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike the statement as to what Mr. Scaling did.

The COURT. He is not making any statement as to what he said. Go ahead.

A. Mr. Scaling was unable to get any product through Mr. Griffith and I felt like I might be close enough to Foster McSwain to get him to go to Griffith and get Griffith to release the product.

489 By the COURT:

Q. Griffith and McSwain were exhibitors just like you were?

A. They were exhibitors and partners in Plainview.

Q. And they had purchased certain pictures?

A. That is right.

Q. You thought you could get them to release some of their pictures?

A. Cutbacks or second run pictures, yes, sir.

Q. Did you contact various distributors?

A. Mr. Scaling handled that part of it.

Q. Did you, though?

A. I made a trip with Mr. Scaling through film row, I think they call it in Dallas, just as a listener. That is all. Personally, I made no direct contact other than the time when we got ready to start in business, which was in the fall of 1935 before we took Mr. Scaling in. That was by correspondence only.

Q. Well, ordinarily you got your pictures from the distributors?

A. I didn't handle that end of it. That was up to Mr. Scaling to work that out.

Q. You don't know how that was handled?

A. Nothing more than the trip I told you about, with one exception. I want to say on these letters I refer to, in September, 1935, prior to the time we got our cor-
490 poration in operation, I signed a Universal contract with Mr. Scaling. They required that.

Mr. WRIGHT. That contract, I believe, is the one in evidence. I have located this Plaintiff's Exhibit 4 for identification, and I will ask you if you recognize that as the lease that was then made with Foster McSwain, C. C. Lindsey, and the Westex Theaters, Inc., by R. E. Griffith for the sale of equipment to them?

A. Yes, sir.

The COURT. Is that the contract?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. That is Exhibit 1 instead of Exhibit 4. I was mistaken in saying Exhibit 4.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. This exhibit I just referred to is Plaintiff's Exhibit 1 for identification. This is the current lease on the theater, is it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It is a 10 year lease, isn't it?

A. It expires November 1, 1946.

Q. And began on November 1, 1936.

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit 1.

By the COURT:

Q. Is this theater now being operated?

A. It is under lease to McSwain and the Westex Theaters.

Q. Operated as what theater?

491 A. The Fair Theater.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What was done with reference to the operation of the three theaters there, the Fair, the Texas and the Grenada after this lease was made?

A. You mean as to whether they all remained open or not?

Q. Yes.

A. The Texas Theater after a certain period, I don't remember the exact dates, was closed down to a week end house.

Q. You say "operated." Are you talking about weeks or months?

A. A matter of weeks.

Q. It was closed to what?

A. What we would call a week end house. That is what I would call it. They would operate perhaps Friday, Saturday and Sunday; something like that.

Q. Then they continued to operate the Fair and Grenada?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Since that time has the Texas been operated continuously as a week end house?

Q. Not lately, no. Part of the season it doesn't operate at all.

Q. Part of the season it has been closed each year?

492 A. That is right.

Q. Do you remember what, if anything, occurred there with respect to admission prices at the Grenada after that lease was made?

A. I don't recall the exact price set up on that well enough to give you the exact figures.

Q. In any of the theaters?

A. In any of the theaters.

Q. Now has there been any theater opposition in the town since that lease was made?

A. It is a closed town.

Q. What do you mean by "closed town?"

A. What I mean by that is there are no other picture shows there. They operate all of them.

Q. And have since November 1, 1936?

A. That is right.

Q. That is all.

Cross-examination by Mr. RICE:

Q. Mr. Silverthorne, I understood you to say you went to Dallas in September, 1935?

A. No, I did not say that.

Q. When did you go down there?

A. I said Wichita Falls.

Q. I am not talking about 1936. In 1935 didn't you say you went to Dallas?

493 A. I said I wrote some letters to Dallas. September 12 was the exact date.

Q. Which you wrote to the film companies about product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I understood you to say your interest in it was due to the fact that Griffith had bought a lot down the street, McSwain or Griffith.

A. No, I didn't say that. I said some property.

Q. Where was that property?

A. The second block. The first block below that theater. The second block below the Grenada.

Q. That was the property that was occupied by your Texas Theater later on?

A. That is right.

Q. They bought that before you started getting interested in operating the Fair Theater?

A. I was apprised by Harder & Dicer, agents for the Great Southern Life Insurance Company they were negotiating a deal and closing a contract for that property.

Q. Did I understand you to say they bought it?

A. That is what I said.

Q. Would you be surprised to know they didn't buy it until 1941?

A. No.

Q. Would you be surprised to know they didn't 494 lease it until 1935?

A. They might not have executed a contract before that time.

Q. Anyway, they went over after you gave them notice and began work on the property, getting it ready to open about January 1?

A. I suppose that is right.

Q. Do you remember the date when you first gave them notice?

A. September 6, 1935. I think that is right.

Q. To whom did you give such notice?

A. Foster McSwain.

Q. Was it in writing?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you got a copy of it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Let me have it, please.

A. I am mistaken. It is to the R. E. Griffith Theater.

Q. On September 6. Is that the date?

A. September 5, 1935.

Q. Did you notify Griffith you were requiring possession when?

A. October 1.

Q. Did I understand you to say they had an arrangement to stay in there a year?

495 A. That is right.

Q. How could you get possession on October 1?

A. We couldn't.

Q. You mean to say you, as a man experienced in the real estate business in Texas tried to get a man out several months before his lease ran out?

A. I did what my attorney told me to do.

Q. At any rate you started to try to get possession?

A. That is right.

Q. In October?

A. That is right.

Q. And you finally gave notice on October 5, didn't you, or thereabouts?

A. I have the return receipt here—just a minute— November 23 we gave them final notice and requested return receipts at that time.

Q. You accepted the October rental first?

A. They sent that out a little early, after I notified them by Registered mail.

Q. They paid you up right now?

A. They took care of it.

Q. When you gave them notice they really paid you quick?

A. They got high.

Q. At any rate, yon went in there with Mr. Scaling and somebody else, organized a corporation and took over 496 the Fair Theater on January 1?

A. That is right.

Q. The Fair Theater had been improved some by Mr. McSwain and Mr. Griffith along in 1933, hadn't it?

A. You might call it improvements.

Q. You didn't?

A. That is right.

Q. Then it was the same while it was operated by Griffith as it was when you took it over on January 1, without the equipment, of course?

A. What was that?

Q. I say, whatever kind of building it was, obviously you took it over on January 1 as the Fair Theater?

A. That is right.

Q. You didn't get possession until January, did you?

A. That is right.

Q. And opened it on January 11?

A. That is right.

Q. In the meanwhile, do you know when Griffith remodeled the house that later became known as the New Texas or Texas Theater?

A. I didn't pay any attention to it.

Q. But you do know he got that house completed for theater use and the equipment moved in to open on January 2?

A. I think he moved in right on the date, yes, sir.

497 Q. That is all.

Mr. COCHRAN. No questions.

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know what those improvements were that Mr. Rice was talking about?

A. Mr. McSwain had the ticket booth moved. It was on the north side of the lobby and Mr. McSwain moved it out in front, and the doors on the front, he moved them directly back of the booth. The marquee was half moon shaped and he took some ceiltex and wood and straightened that up.

Q. Were those all the improvements that were made?

A. At that time, yes. I believe he put in new rest rooms down there right back of the seats. The rest rooms were formerly upstairs.

Q. Was there anything other than that?

A. I think that is about all; maybe a little painting; I don't remember.

Q. When they moved the equipment out there was something in the way of unimprovement, wasn't there?

A. Yes, sir. They moved some equipment but we got that back by letter. We wrote Mr. Lindsey about it and they returned that.

Q. That is all.

Mr. RICE. That is all.

(Witness excused.)

(Hereupon court adjourned until 1:45 o'clock p. m. this day.)

498 AFTERNOON SESSION

May 9, 1945, 1:45 o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS

DENNIS SCALING, recalled for further examination and testified as follows:

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. During the recess, Mr. Scaling, have you checked those United Artists' contract dates and whether the features were foreign made, or not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, will you just read—you have already read the play dates—will you just read the name of the feature and the date of the contract that you have produced under which it was licensed, of those that were played beginning in July and from there through October?

A. Just the ones that were played from July on?

Q. Yes.

A. "Transatlantic Merry-go-Round" was played July 29th and 30th; the contract signed May 12, 1936.

Q. I think you have already given the play dates; if you will, just give the contract date.

499 A. The "Bowery" May 12, 1936.

Mr. COCHRAN. Excuse me; if you are going into the foreign made pictures, why not have him state as he goes along, whether it was a foreign made picture.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. As you go along just say foreign made, if it is a foreign made picture; otherwise nothing.

Mr. COCHRAN. He has already mentioned "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round."

A. That was the first one. The "Bowery" was the second one.

Mr. COCHRAN. He hasn't said whether it was foreign made.

The WITNESS. No.

Mr. WRIGHT. It is my understanding that if nothing is said it is not foreign made, but if it is foreign made he will add the word "foreign."

A. "Dark Angel" February 14, 1936; "Saunders of the River" February 14, 1936; it is a foreign made picture; "Follies Bergere" February 14, 1936; "One Rainy Afternoon," I haven't any confirmed contract date on that, the picture was played August 9th and 10th; "Bulldog Drummond" contract May 12, 1936; "Modern Times," contract June 21, 1936; "Clive of India" contract August 3, 1936; "Thunder In The East" August 3, 1936.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Was either "Clive of India" or "Thunder In 500 The East" a foreign picture?

A. It was a Reliance release. I don't know whether it was, on the contract it is shown as Reliance release.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. "Clive of India" was a Twentieth Century-Fox release, wasn't it?

A. The contract just said Reliance release. "Scarlet Pimpernell" was a foreign picture.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. What was the name of that?

A. "Scarlet Pimpernell." Contract February 14, 1936; "Escape Me Never," I could not find the contract confirmation on that, played September 16th and 17th; "These Three" October 6, 1936, second run. "Les Miserables," contract dated October 6, 1936. Those are all the pictures from July up until October 28th that were played.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Those are United Artists' pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There were only two of those that you could not locate contracts for. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I meant to ask you on direct examination. What is the size of Plainview; what was it during this period you have covered in your testimony from 1932 through 1936, approximately?

A. Well, it ran approximately between nine and ten thousand.

501 Q. About the same during the whole period?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you know what the 1930 census was on the Plainview population?

A. I don't recall it at the present time, no, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. You stipulated that the population figures in the 1930-40, United States Official Census will be judicially noticed in all of the towns that we produce testimony from.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You have examined the letters which you wrote to the Department of Justice in 1936, have you?

A. Yes, sir, I read them over.

Q. I will ask you if in any of those letteks you stated to the representatives of the Department of Justice, that R. E. Griffith, in a conversation which you had with him in March of 1936 stated in answer to your question asking him if he would let you have some second-run pictures in which he said, "The town is too small for second run pictures," and that you then asked him, "Well, what about your changes since 1936, since I opened the Fair. You have jumped from three changes a week in each theater to four changes consuming two extra first run pic-502 tures," and he said, "Well, I had to do that to consume the product that I had under contract." Is there any letter in which that statement appears?

A. Not that direct statement, no, sir.

Q. Turn to any letter which you wrote the Department of Justice during 1936 in which any part of that statement was made. There is only one letter in which any reference was made to any statement by R. E. Griffith, is there not?

A. June 20th.

Q. June 20, 1936. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Just state to the Court the statement which you made in that letter to the Department as to any statement R. E. Griffith made to you. Just read it.

Mr. WRIGHT. If we are going to have this correspondence go in, I would be glad to have it all go in, but I don't see any occasion for picking parts of it out of the context. I think in order to understand the correspondence it should be seen as a whole.

The COURT. I don't think any of it would be competent, excepting that part.

Mr. COCHRAN. We are introducing this for impeachment purposes, and that alone, in regard to the statements which he claimed R. E. Griffith made to him.

The COURT. Proceed.

503 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Just read that part of it.

Q. Mr. Griffith himself has told me the town wouldn't support a second run show and he didn't think it good business to run second run pictures.

The COURT. What was the last part?

A. Mr. Griffith himself has told me the town wouldn't support a second run show, and he didn't think it good business to run second run pictures.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Was that the only statement contained in any of those letters to the Department of Justice as to any statement made by R. E. Griffith to you?

A. Yes, sir, that is all I referred to.

Q. During the period from June 20th, 1936, throughout the year 1936, you were carrying on quite a correspondence with the Department of Justice, were you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have a voluminous file of correspondence?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Calling your attention to the month of July 1936, do you recall whether in that month you gave an affidavit, you supplied to the Department an affidavit, the De-504 partment at Dallas?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have a copy of it there?

A. I have a copy some place.

Q. Will you look at that and see on what date you made that?

A. Dated July 4, 1936.

Q. And that was a sworn statement you made at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was later turned over to the FBI at Dallas, was it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Will you just read what you said in there with reference to this conversation with R. E. Griffith?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that as a self-serving declaration. If they will submit it to me I might agree that it go in, but I want to see it, but otherwise I object to it as being a self-serving declaration.

The COURT. Overruled; let him read it.

A. Do you want the paragraph or just the statement?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Well, read the statement you made as to the conversation you had with R. E. Griffith in March. I think it begins here starting with "After lunch on the same date, March 26th".

A. "After lunch on the same day, March 26th, I
505 decided it would be a good idea to go up and talk with Mr. Griffith and see what I could do. I called his office and he told me to come on up. We talked for some time regarding business in general and then I asked him this question. Mr. Griffith, I need some pictures in Plainview and I was wondering if you had a few cut backs first run that you were not going to use? He looked at me rather funny and made this statement. There are too many picture shows in Plainview and I don't think I have anything I can give you, however, I will see what Mr. Lockhart (the Booker) has to say. Mr. Lockhart came in and Mr. Griffith asked him if he had made out a list of the cut backs he was not going to use in Plainview first run. Mr. Lockhart told him he had not made out the list but that he thought there would be about fifteen or twenty pictures that would be cut back. Mr. Griffith told him to get up a list and notify the film companies to let me have them. Mr. Lockhart left the office. I then asked Mr. Griffith if he could let me have second run pictures and this is the statement he made.

No, I think the town is too small to run second run pictures in and that he did not see why the prestige should be set up at this time. I told him that other towns in Texas about the same size were running second run pictures and he told me it might be true, but that it was not good business. I then asked him what was a man going to do if he could not get pictures and he told me he did not know. I reminded him of this fact, that prior to January first, 1936, he was running only six first run pictures in both houses in Plainview, but after January first, 1936, he set a policy of eight first run pictures in both houses in Plainview, thereby using two extra first run pictures per week. He told me yes, that was true but he had to do this in order to use up the pictures he had under contract. We talked on for awhile and when I got ready to leave his office, he walked to the door with me and made this statement. (Tell your partner, Mr. Silverthorne and this fellow Massie, referring to my other partner) and owner of the theater building, that when they got ready to close the theater and rent the building to some store, that we might buy the equipment at a reasonable figure. I answered his statement in this way, 'Mr. Griffith, I am afraid that will never happen.'"

506

Q. Is that all the conversation there?

A. With Mr. Griffith, yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You spoke of making this affidavit. That affidavit was prepared by some representative of the Department of Justice and submitted to you for your signature, was it not?

507

A. No, sir, it wasn't.

Q. Who prepared it?

A. I prepared that before a notary and submitted it; it was submitted to the Dallas office.

Q. Did you write it yourself?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You mean you wrote it, you did the typewriting?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. Who assisted you in the preparation?

A. The girl that worked at the theater typed it.

Q. Prior to that time had any representative of the Department of Justice visited you in Plainview?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you furnish them any statement at that time?

A. I will have to refer to my records. What date?

Q. Prior to the date that you prepared and sent in this affidavit?

A. On June 20th, my letter of June 20th.

Q. That is a letter which you wrote to the Department of Justice, but I am talking about a statement you made verbally to agents for the Department of Justice who came to Plainview to interview you. Do you have to look through your letters in order to tell whether you had a conversation with representatives of the Department of Justice?

A. I had several conversations with representatives, yes, sir.

508 Q. Prior to the time you sent in this affidavit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who were those representatives you talked to prior to making this written statement?

A. There was Mr. Plummer who called on me from the Department of Justice from Los Angeles. There was one other representative that called.

Q. Can you tell us who the other representative was?

A. Well, the main investigator was Mr. L. T. Plummer.

Q. Turn again to your letter of June 20, 1936. Was your conversation with Mr. Plummer before or after June 20, 1936?

A. It was before.

Q. So, after you had talked with Mr. Plummer you wrote the letter of January 20, 1936, and thereafter you prepared and sent in this affidavit which has been referred to in your examination, that you mailed to the Department of Justice?

A. It was made after it, yes, sir.

Q. In this letter of June 20, 1936, in addition to the one statement you have stated was made by R. E. Griffith, you referred to statements made by the local manager and various other statements which you contended supported your contention in regard to the violation of the law by R. E. Griffith?

509 A. That is right.

Q. That is all.

Re-direct-examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. The contentions you were making there in your correspondence were with reference, primarily, were they not, to violations by distributors?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is all of the regular examination. Now, I wanted to make an offer of proof here on these other conversations that preceded the conversation with Mr. Griffith, and if we are going to get the benefit of a record at this time on that at all, I suppose there would have to be full cross examination——

The COURT. I will permit you to offer the testimony with the limitations that I stated yesterday. I don't think the evidence is competent. I think it is hearsay and when you go to make your record I will permit you to examine him.

Mr. COCHRAN: It seems to me in view of the statement counsel made in the record, it is not necessary at all to go into this examination for the reason that he has admitted that his offer is not proper at this time. Therefore, there is no reason why we should burden the record with the testimony. If he thinks it is proper at a later time let him offer it at that time.

510 Mr. WRIGHT. I understood it was proper at this time.

The COURT. Just eliminate the discussion. I will permit you to offer it; merely make your offer and the Court has stated that the evidence is incompetent and will not be permitted in evidence, but you can make your record.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you tell us just how you happened to go over to see Mr. Griffith that day?

A. Yes, sir. I had been told by the distributors that I had called on that Mr. Griffith had the product bought, and if I wanted to make a deal with them on second run of the 1934-35 product, which at that time I was trying to get, they said then, "You will have to go over and talk to Mr. Griffith, and if he wants to release it we will be glad to make a deal with you."

Q. What distributors were those that you are referring to?

A. I talked to RKO and I talked to Columbia; talked to Fox; I talked to the manager of Warner Brothers and I talked to Republic, and went to M-G-M and Paramount.

Q. That is all.

The COURT. Any cross examination?

Mr. COCHRAN. I take it on an offer I am not required to cross examine him. If the testimony were admitted I would cross examine.

511 Mr. WRIGHT. Unless he cross examines him now I suppose then we are still no better off insofar as making a record on which we can have final disposition of the case on an appeal, because I suppose at best whatever he would claim, if the upper court should rule that evidence had been erroneously excluded and the case would be sent back for retrial so that he would have the right to cross examine——

The COURT. He has the right to cross examine now and if he waives it I don't think that condition would exist.

Mr. COCHRAN. My position is this: The rules say if they make an offer and the testimony is not clearly inadmissible, the party offering it shall be permitted to examine the witness in order that he may fully develop what he would answer but there is no requirement anywhere where the other party, if the Court overrules the proffered testimony, which requires that cross examination shall be had. In other words, if it is offered and rejected, then there is nothing to cross examine on until the testimony is cross examined on. Until the testimony is in we have nothing to cross examine on.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court pleases, in any view of the Crescent decision it is perfectly obvious that the admissibility of testimony of this type, that when it is 512 admitted it is clearly not reversible error. As the Court knows in that case, there was testimony which, under the conspiracy theory, they didn't feel it was necessary to decide, whether there was a proper exception to the hearsay rule involved there or not, insofar as that conspiracy argument was concerned, and it seems to me in a situation of this kind the clearest way to prevent error is to submit testimony subject to the connection——

The COURT. No, the Court is not going to admit the evidence because the Court thinks it is incompetent, and the Court has not found any case, not even the Supreme Court case which you referred to, that sustains your position. The Court rules it is incompetent but he has permitted you to offer it in order to make your record. So far as cross examination is concerned, it is immaterial. If counsel wants to cross examine, he has that right, and if he does not want to cross examine, he has that right. Is there anything further with this witness?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is all.

(Witness excused.)

513 JAKE JONES, called as a witness by and on behalf of the plaintiff, and being previously duly sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Will you state your name, please?

A. Jake Jones.

Q. And where do you live?

A. Shawnee.

Q. How long have you lived there?

A. I went there in 1903.

Q. You are engaged in the theater business there, are you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you first open a motion picture theater in Shawnee?

A. In 1914.

Q. What was the name of that theater?

A. The Cozy.

Q. And how long did you operate that?

A. I operated it until 1926.

Q. And then what did you do with the theater in 1926?

A. I leased it to Griffith Brothers.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will ask to have this lease
514 dated July 6, 1926, marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 110, for identification.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit No. One Hundred was marked by the reporter for identification.)

Q. Do you recognize the signatures at the bottom of the lease, the last page, as those of yourself and L. C. R. E. and H. J. Griffith?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer the lease in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection. Will you state the substance of the part that you think is material?

Mr. WRIGHT. The lease is for a term of five years and that is only a preliminary matter to the next question.

Q. Was that the only theater that you had in Shawnee then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you sold, you were out of the theater business there?

A. For awhile.

Q. How long?

A. I don't exactly know. I went down to Seminole and built a theater.

Q. In 1927 did you and some other associates build a theater there, a new theater?

515 A. Sometime in 1927, the Seminole Amusement Company, that I was interested in, built the Criterion Theater.

Q. The Seminole Amusement Company built the Criterion Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was your connection with that company?

A. I was the president of the company.

Q. Who else was interested in it with you?

A. Lawrence Sporcher, and I think Mr. Cline, I don't know what his initials are now, I don't remember his initials, but Mr. Cline.

Q. How do you spell Lawrence Sporcher? A. Spell it for them, Johnnie. I don't remember; I don't remember.

Q. Then the Criterion Theater was operated by the Seminole Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For about how long?

A. I think it was a year and a half.

Q. Then you leased that?

A. To Griffith Amusement Company.

Q. To the Griffith Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will ask to have this lease between the Seminole Amusement Company and the Griffith Amusement Company, dated June 14, 1929, marked for 516 identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 111.

Q. Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 111 for identification, signed by you on behalf of the Seminole Amusement Company, and by L. C. Griffith on behalf of Griffith Amusement Company, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. What is the date of that?

A. The Criterion.

Mr. WRIGHT. That lease is dated June 14, 1925, and runs for ten years, from May 31, 1929.

Mr. COCHRAN. May I see that just a moment.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir. (Handing instrument to Mr. Cochran.) I offer that in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 111 was thereupon admitted in evidence.)

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. By the way, when you leased the Cozy to the Griffith did they change the name of it?

A. To the Ritz.

Q. To the Ritz?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When the lease on the Ritz expired in 1931, did you take it back?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you continued to operate it under the same name?

517 A. The Ritz, yes, sir.

Q. Then when you resumed the operation of the Ritz in 1931, what, if any, major feature films did you play there, from what companies?

A. Fox, Paramount, and Metro-Goldwyn.

Q. And what run?

A. Second run.

Q. Now, during the year 1930, can you tell us what the monthly rental was that you received under this lease on the Criterion, Exhibit 111?

A. What year was it?

Q. This would be during 1930.

A. In 1929 I received $561.61 a month; then they asked for a reduction and I reduced it to $500 a month.

Q. When was that?

A. In 1931.

Q. Then did you reduce it any further?

A. Yes, in—I reduced it again in 1932, down to $400.

Q. Then after those reductions did you have any further conversation with the Griffiths about a further reduction?

A. Yes, sir; there was one time they called me up and made a date with me at the Aldridge Hotel in Shawnee.

Q. When was that that you saw them?

518 A. That was in the early part of '33.

Q. And you met them at the hotel there?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the statement "met them"; let's find out who it was.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Just tell us who it was that came over to see you then.

A. Well, sir, I think—it was L. J. Griffith, R. E. Griffith and [illegible]uett McKenna.

Q. Who else was present at this conversation besides then.

A. Me and Mr. Sporcher.

Q. Just tell us as near as you can, as best you recall, the substance of what was said then.

Mr. COCHRAN. And by whom.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And by whom, if you remember.

A. Well, there was—first they were talking to Mr. L. C. Griffith—I mean Lawrence Sporcher, who was the secretary-treasurer of the company.

Q. Of the Seminole Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The secretary-treasurer of what company?

A. They first talked about more cut on the Criterion lease and then Mr. R. E. Griffith got up after that and 519 said "we want you to cut the rent to $250, and if you don't cut it, we are going to build another house and take your second run away from you, all of your second run pictures away from you".

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What did you say?

A. I swore, and picked up my hat, and got out.

Q. After that conversation did they open up another house there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the name of it?

A. The name was the Victory when they got it, and they changed the name to the Rex.

Q. When was it opened as the Rex, do you remember?

A. I think it was in April or May, sometime in April or May, I am not for sure.

Q. Of what year?

A. In 1933.

Q. You say that was opened under the name of the Rex?

A. The Rex, yes, sir.

Q. And it had been operated formerly under the name of the Victory?

A. When it was operated, but it was closed at that time.

Q. How long had it been closed?

A. Quite awhile; I couldn't say how many months.

Q. Months?

A. Yes.

520 Q. Or years?

A. Two or three months.

Q. Can you give us a comparison of those theaters, your Ritz and their Rex as they exist at this time.

A. My Ritz has always been about 600 seats. From 550 to 600 seats, and always has as many as 500 upholstered seats, and their theater, I think it runs between three and four hundred wooden seats.

Q. How do they compare as to location?

A. I am on Main Street. I am considered one of the best locations in town and they are on a side street, on Broadway.

By the COURT:

Q. This new theater that was built, was that in Shawnee or Seminole?

A. You mean the Criterion?

Q. No, the Rex.

A. That is in Shawnee, the Rex.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. All of these theaters, I understand, that you have testified about are in Shawnee?

A. In Shawnee.

By the COURT:

Q. The Criterion.

A. That was built by the Seminole Amusement Company, yes, sir.

Q. In Shawnee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did Griffith continue to operate the Criterion?

A. Yes, sir.

521 Q. And the Rex?

A. And the Rex and Bison. They had three.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I will ask to have this Metro, second run contract for the 1931–'32 season pictures marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 112. I will show you this Exhibit 112 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that as the contract for the exhibition of M-G-M features released during 1931–32 season, second run, in your Ritz Theater at Shawnee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The contract was made on or about that date there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. October 6, 1931. I will ask to have marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 113 this document. I show you this exhibit, Plaintiff's Exhibit 113 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that as a second run contract for the Ritz at Shawnee, for a picture called "Emma" starring Marie Dressler.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that was made in February, 1932?

A. Yes, sir.

The COURT. That was the same company, M-G-M?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, same season's features, '31-32.

Mr. COCHRAN. You understand, your Honor, the period he is going into now is not within the time that is 522 covered by the complaint in this case, but I am not objecting to these documents going in just because of the background that it might furnish, but it is not within the period. I just wanted to call your Honor's attention to that.

Mr. WRIGHT. I take it for granted that as to the R. E. Griffith and Westex theaters, there was no specific objection.

Mr. RICE. No, sir, in regard to these transactions and conversations in Oklahoma.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, Mr. Jones, did Metro offer you any season's contract, second run, for the 1932-33 releases?

A. No, sir.

Q. And were you offered any Metro product for the 1933-34 season, second run?

A. No, sir.

Q. And you know what theaters in Shawnee played those Metro pictures second run?

A. Well, it is the Rex that played them second run until they moved the Rex and called it the Vaughn; moved it on Main Street.

Q. When was that?

A. I think they moved that in 1935; I am not positive; I don't know exactly.

Q. But the second-run Metro played in the Griffith
523 Theatres?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will ask you if you recognize this exhibit, Plaintiff's Exhibit 114 for identification, as a second run contract for the Ritz at Shawnee for the 1931-32 season features?

A. Of Paramount?

Q. Of Fox.

A. Yes, that is Fox.

Q. That was made on about January 1, 1932?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you offered a Fox contract for second run at the Ritz on the succeeding 1932-33 season features?

A. No, sir.

Q. Had you played Fox films at the Ritz prior to the time Griffith had come into Shawnee?

A. No, sir.

Q. Had you played Metro pictures I am talking about, before 1926?

A. Before 1926, I played Fox, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, that is, first run and the company now known as Columbia.

Q. That was when you were operating the Cozy?

A. Yes, sir, when I was operating the Cozy.

Q. I show you these exhibits that have been marked for identification, Plaintiff's Exhibits 115, 116, 117, 118
524 and 119 for identification, and ask you if you recognize those as Paramount contracts for the exhibition of feature pictures at your Ritz Theater in Shawnee?

Mr. COCHRAN. Let's take those up one at a time and not all together.

Mr. WRIGHT. All right.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you recognize the Plaintiff's Exhibit 115 for identification, as a contract for the 1931-32 product, second run?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Cochran. Paramount?

Mr. WRIGHT. Paramount.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you recognize Plaintiff's Exhibit 116 for identification as the Paramount Contract for the 1932-33 season, first run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the Ritz, and Plaintiff's Exhibit 119 for identification as the second run contract for the 1932-33 season?

A. 1933-34.

Q. I beg your pardon. This Exhibit 119 has a contract for a second run of the S-4 product, 1932-33 season.

A. Yes, sir.

The COURT. What company is that?

Mr. WRIGHT. This is all Paramount.

525 By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And Plaintiff's Exhibit 116, do you recognize that as a contract for the 1932-33 product, first run, for that same season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then do you recognize these several contracts attached here together as Exhibit 117 for the 1933-34 Paramount releases, first run, at Shawnee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And this Exhibit, Plaintiff's Exhibit 118, for identification, the contract for the Marx Brothers picture?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Second run, in Shawnee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. This is a single contract picture——

Mr. COCHRAN. What is the number of the exhibit?

Mr. WRIGHT. This is 118 and it has two pages. Both of these are dated November 3, 1933, and the first is for the Marx Brothers production and the second page is for three photoplays classified as (A) and the remaining classified as (B), 52, altogether of the 1933-34 season.

Mr. COCHRAN. First run?

Mr. WRIGHT. These are second runs. The first contract contracts for the same season.

Mr. COCHRAN. Just a moment ago you identified Exhibit No. 119 as the 1933-34 season, second run.

526 Mr. WRIGHT. 119.

Mr. COCHRAN. You started off by saying '32-33, and Mr. Jones corrected you and said '33-34.

Mr. WRIGHT. 119 says on its face the features generally released in the year commencing August 1, 1932 and ending July 1, 1933.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right. 117 is second run for the '33-34 season, is that correct?

Mr. WRIGHT. That's correct. No. 117 is first run for the '33-34 season; 118 is second run.

Q. Now, were you offered either first or second run of Paramount for the '34—say the seasons' contracts, first or second run of Paramount, for the 1934-35 season?

A. No, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I ask to have this document marked as the next number.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 120 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Q. I will show you this letter from Paramount Pictures Distributing Corporation, addressed to you, office of Neil F. Agnew, dated October 2, 1934, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 120 for identification, and ask you if you received that shortly after that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. May I see it?

527 Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir. (Handing.) Mark this as the next number.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 121 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Q. I will show you this document, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 121 for identification, consisting of three sheets, all dated September 7, 1934, and ask you if you recognize—

A. (Interrupting.) What is that?

Q. Those——

A. (Interrupting.) That is the 1934-35, is it?

Q. The '34-35 season deal with RKO, first run, at the Rex.

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. In connection with this offer of Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 120, we object to that document on the ground that it is hearsay evidence.

Mr. WRIGHT. I hadn't made any offer as yet.

Mr. COCHRAN. Oh, excuse me.

Mr. WRIGHT. I was identifying them all and then I thought I would offer all of this material together.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right, I will withdraw the objection, if it is not offered. I think it would be much simpler, your Honor, if they would offer them as they go, because this way I have to try to keep in my mind the documents that

I am not going to object to, and those that I
528 am going to object to.

Mr. WRIGHT. I suggest that I ask him one more question and then I will offer all of those.

Q. Mr. Jones, were you offered the season's first run contract of the 1935-36 RKO pictures for first run at the Ritz?

A. '35-36?

Q. Yes.

A. First run? That is the season following the contract here, Exhibit 121.

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, may I be permitted to inquire what the gentleman is referring to? He has some kind of notes in his hand that he is referring to.

Mr. WRIGHT. He wants to know what you are referring to.

A. Well, to the dates.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Where did you get those dates?

A. I made them.

Q. That is memoranda that you made?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. From what records?

A. Of those things, so I can remember them.

Q. Is that a memo that your son or daughter made for you?

529 A. No, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. Now, would you read the question?

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Are they in your handwriting?

A. No, sir, I typed them.

Q. They are typewritten?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you typewrite them?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. Now read the question.

(The last question by Mr. Wright was read by the reporter.)

A. '35-36?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer in evidence then these exhibits that have been identified. Do you want to take these up individually or by companies?

Mr. COCHRAN. I would like to have them to be offered individually so I may have a chance to object to any that I want to object to.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will take them up in the order in which they were marked. I think the first one was the MGM. We will offer first Exhibits 112 and 113, as to the '31-32 MGM product.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

530 Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer next the Fox '31-32, Plaintiff's Exhibit 114.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. Then we will offer in evidence the Paramount contracts numbered 115 to 119 inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. And then the letter from Mr. Agnew, that is Exhibit 120.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the introduction of Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 120 for the same reasons that have been advanced in connection with these other statements made by the representatives of the distributor, as hearsay and incompetent.

The COURT. On what theory do you assume that this letter is competent?

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, we have already shown that by the franchise agreement which was put in here as P-1, I believe, made between Paramount and all of these defendants, acting collectively, together with all of their associated and affiliated companies, that they took away the first run product from this little man in Shawnee, and the evidence will show from other independents in other situations who had been regularly playing the product, with no opportunity whatsoever for them to negotiate for a continuance of the run they then had of runs, in this 531 case first and second.

The COURT. Do I understand you that you question the right of the distributor to sell to whom he pleases.

Mr. WRIGHT. Of course, we do, your Honor.

The COURT. Objection sustained.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is what the case is about.

The COURT. You will have to find out some more about it. If it comes to the point in this country where a man cannot make a contract, a simple contract, you will have to produce some law that I don't know anything about.

Mr. WRIGHT. Your Honor, this is more than a simple contract.

The COURT. It isn't a public utility at all, it isn't selling gas or light; it is selling something like clothing. That letter refers to the fact that they regard it as good business on their part to sell these to the Griffiths. There isn't a line in there that Griffiths requested it, or anything they said; there isn't anything there that would be binding on any of these defendants in any way. How could that be competent against the defendants?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I think it shows quite clearly why that procedure was adopted. Let's look at the matter in this way. If the Sherman act means 532 anything in the motion picture field, and I think the Supreme Court has said that it does, it means, that motion pictures must be distributed upon a competitive basis, town by town, if there is going to be any opportunity at all for the independent operator to survive, to compete with the chain or circuit operating.

The COURT. This is a conspiracy, you have alleged a conspiracy here. You are offering a letter here that was written by one of the distributors, and it merely refers to one of the defendants; it doesn't tend to bind the defendants in any way, it just simply refers to a contract it made with the Griffith Amusement Company. Objection sustained and an exception is allowed.

Mr. WRIGHT. In view of the position that has been taken, if the Court please, the foundation that we have laid for the introduction of that letter, I think, is about as clear as any that could be made.

The COURT. Well, that is in the record.

Mr. WRIGHT. If your Honor is not satisfied with the foundation as made now on that letter, I think we had better discontinue offering the independent witnesses and then proceed to put in our documentary evidence, in other words, our entire basic evidence of the combination between the defendants, before we proceed further with the examination of the complaining witnesses. That's all the 533 direct testimony I have at this time of this witness.

Mr. COCHRAN. While you are at it, don't you want to offer 121?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, I will offer that also.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. Cross-examine.

Mr. COCHRAN. I imagine probably you will expect to put this witness on again, won't you?

Mr. WRIGHT. Why, I don't think so. I think what more we have in Shawnee would be put on through Mr. John Jones, his son.

Mr. COCHRAN. Well, I will examine him on what he has testified to up to this point.

Mr. WRIGHT. I said I am not promising to bring him back. Of course, he will be available if you want him. I intend to call his son to complete the Shawnee picture on his theater.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Prior to the time you sold the equipment in the Cozy Theater to Griffith Brothers, there were two theaters, there were three theaters in Shawnee operating in opposition to you, were there not?

A. Repeat it, please; what do you say?

534 Mr. COCHRAN. Read it.

(Question read by the reporter.)

A. I don't think there was only two.

Q. A. B. Momand was operating the Savoy and the Odeon, was he not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And there was a theater by the name of the Victory being operated by Roy Wellman?

A. I don't remember that, that wasn't at that time. However, later Roy Wellman opened up, but not in '26, I don't believe. I am not for sure about that.

Q. Don't you know that the Victory, being operated by Roy Wellman, was a theater which afterwards became the Rex, operated by Griffith?

A. Well, that was the original one, all right, but I don't think it was in '26. It may be, now, I am not for sure; it may be three theaters, you may be right.

Q. In 1926 you erected a theater in Seminole, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. About the same time A. B. Momand erected a theater there?

A. No, I went there first; I was the first man.

Q. And at the same time that you leased the Cozy in Shawnee to Griffith Brothers, you leased the theater which you had constructed in Seminole to Griffith Brothers, 535 didn't you?

A. No, sir, I sold it to them. I sold them the entire building and everything.

Q. In Seminole, instead of leasing the building to them, you sold them the fee title to the property?

A. I sold them everything.

Q. You sold them everything?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In Shawnee you merely leased the building which you owned?

A. I leased the building and sold them the equipment.

Q. You owned the building in which the Cozy was located, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You also owned the building in which A. B. Momand was operating the Savoy, did you not?

A. No, sir. I do now. After, I think in '20, during the bank failure, and the bank took it over, that is the government took it over, I bought it from the government.

Q. You acquired a lease contract on it prior to that time, didn't you?

A. No, I was, I bought it from H. T. Douglas in the early days, and he couldn't deliver it, he couldn't deliver it.

Q. You attempted to get possession of that building from A. B. Momand, didn't you?

536

A. I bought it from the owner.

Q. How's that?

A. I bought it from the owner, H. T. Douglas.

Q. When did you buy it?

Mr. WRIGHT. Excuse me, what is the name of this theater?

Mr. COCHRAN. The Savoy Theater.

A. I can't remember the year, but it was in the early days, a long time ago.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When did you become the owner, approximately when did you become the owner of the building in which the Savoy was located?

A. The owner?

Q. Yes.

A. Oh, I think after the bank closed, I don't know. '30—I don't know what year it was. I didn't get it until about '37 or '38.

Q. Do you recall that in 1931, that A. B. Momand didn't renew his lease on the Savoy Theater, and it was turned over to you?

A. It wasn't turned over to me, no, sir.

Q. Who was it turned over to?

A. A. B. Momand wouldn't give it up.

Q. When did he give it up?

537

A. He gave it up when the banks went broke.

Q. You attempted to obtain possession of it in 1931, didn't you?

A. No, I tried to buy it, I tried to buy it from the man that owned it, that is, owned the building, H. T. Douglas, and he made, I made a deal with him, but he couldn't make delivery on it. I paid him $5,000 down and he couldn't deliver the building. A. B. Momand held it.

Q. Did you ever lease that building to A. B. Momand?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ever collect the rent on that building from A. B. Momand?

A. A. B. Momand sued me for $40,000 for trying to buy it. The suit hung for ten years.

Q. When did Mr. Momand discontinue the operation of the Savoy?

A. I do not know.

Q. You have no idea?

A. No.

Q. And you say now that it is not a fact that in 1931 the Savoy Theater was turned over to you and you leased it to other persons who operated it until you later took it over and operated it as the State?

A. No, sir, not the Savoy Theater.

Q. All right.

538 A. I bought it later, in '27—in '37, from the Government.

Q. After having leased the Cozy to Griffith Brothers in July of 1926, you then erected, later erected the Criterion Theater on real estate which you owned, is that right?

A. Yes, sir—not that I owned, the Seminole Amusement Company bought the land and built the building, and I was the president of it.

Q. And you owned most of the stock, didn't you?

A. Yes, I think I owned 51%, that is, in my family.

Q. When was that Criterion opened for operation?

A. Let's see, I think later '27, I operated it around a year and a half, and I leased it to Griffith Amusement Company.

Q. After you leased the Cozy Theater to Griffith Amusement Company, most of the companies that you had been obtaining product from during the time you operated the Cozy licensed that product to the Griffith Amusement Company, did they not?

A. Do you mean when I leased it to them?

Q. After you leased it to them.

A. Do you mean they got the product?

Q. Yes, I suppose.

A. I suppose so, I didn't pay any attention to it. In the contract this says they will take it over.

539 In 1928 and '29, after you had opened the Criterion in 1927, talking pictures were introduced, were they not?

A. Well, I don't know what year it was exactly, but I was operating silent pictures; I didn't have any talking pictures.

Q. Don't you know that in 1928 Griffith Brothers installed the first sound equipment in Shawnee, in the Ritz Theater?

A. Well, I don't know what year they did, but they had sound in there, yes, sir.

Q. Do you know that Griffith Brothers installed the first sound equipment which was installed in Shawnee?

A. Well, I can't say yes or no.

Q. You do know that when you built the Criterion——

A. (Interrupting.) I know—I think—I don't remember.

Q. You do know that when you built the Criterion, when you opened the Criterion Theater, you didn't install sound equipment?

A. No; there wasn't——

Q. And you do—go ahead.

A. Sound didn't come until I think in '28 or '29 or something like that.

Q. It came in '28?

A. '29 or '28, I don't remember.

Q. And you opened it in '27?

540 A. Late '27, yes, sir.

Q. So, while you had the Criterion, you didn't install sound equipment.

A. No.

Q. You continued to try to play silent pictures?

A. I was playing silent pictures, yes, sir.

Q. And you continued to do that until even after sound equipment had been installed in the Bison and the Ritz Theaters of the Griffith Amusement Company, and in the Savoy and Odeon Theaters operated by Mr. Momand, did you not?

A. No, there wasn't that many talkies; I leased it to them before that many talkies came. I think probably the Bison was the only one, I think they got it in about a month before I leased the Criterion to them.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the Ritz was the first theater that had any talking equipment?

A. Maybe so, I don't remember. I believe you are right.

Q. Isn't it a fact that by the time you made your deal on the Criterion with Griffith Amusement Company, that sound equipment had been installed in practically every town in the State of Oklahoma.

A. I think that the only town I ever heard of it being in, outside of the one theater in Shawnee, was in Tulsa.

541 They were selling it for twelve or fifteen thousand dollars a set. There ain't many towns that could afford it.

Q. In other words, at that time it was very expensive to install?

A. About twelve or fifteen thousand dollars, I think, the first ones.

Q. You realized that if you continued the operation of the Criterion, it would be necessary for you to install sound equipment, did you not?

A. Why, I suppose so. I don't know what I would do every day.

Q. You leased the Criterion Theater to the Griffith Amusement Company fully equipped, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you leased the Criterion Theater to the Griffith Amusement Company there was then being operated in Shawnee the Bison and the Ritz by the Griffith Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Savoy and Odeon by Mr. Momand?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the Victory Theater by some person?

A. I think so, I am not for sure, I never paid any attention to the Victory. We called that an opened and closed house, they opened and closed it, it was a shotgun house.

542 Q. In other words, there were at that time being operated in Shawnee six theaters?

A. Yes; there are five theaters operating there now.

Q. But at that time there was six theaters being operated, were there not?

A. I am not for sure, no. That opened and closed, the Rex.

Mr. WRIGHT. What time is referred to by "that time"?

Mr. COCHRAN. At the time he leased the Criterion Theater to the Griffith Amusement Company.

A. I couldn't say the Rex or Ritz, I mean the Victory, whatever you call it, was running, but I know there was five, and there is five there yet.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The depression commenced in 1929, did it not?

A. I don't know what year. It commenced in '29 or '30, I think; '30, wasn't it?

Q. Isn't it a fact that it commenced in 1929 and by mid 1930, it was being seriously felt in the theater operation in Shawnee?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't see what relevancy this has. He is asking for broad economic conclusions here, but I don't suppose this witness is qualified to testify about anyway.

The COURT. It may be an economic conclusion or 543 a matter of history. It might be competent to show the conditions. We are covering a lot of territory in this case.

Mr. COCHRAN. Your Honor, I will try to be brief.

A. He was trying to drive at that I was not doing any business, but I have the book, and we made $9,000 in eleven months. I didn't lease it because it wasn't doing any business. R. E. Griffith and that Lowenstein, or whatever his name was, from Ardmore stayed with me three days to rent it.

Q. It was 1929 that you made your $9,000, wasn't it?

A. No, in eleven months I made $9,000 clear.

Q. I am asking you if in 1939 by mid-year, if business in the picture industry——

A. (Interrupting.) I wasn't in business then.

Q. Don't you know that the oil business in Shawnee had fallen off?

A. I wasn't in the oil business.

Q. Well, do you know that was a fact?

A. There was plenty of oil, big gushers, in Seminole; there never was in Shawnee. I don't know anything about the oil business.

Q. In 1930 don't you recall that Griffith Amusement Company closed down the operation of the Ritz Theater, 544 about August?

A. No, I don't know when they closed, but it was closed when I bought it back.

Q. Don't you know that they closed along in the summer of 1930, and then re-opened as a second run house along about December 1930?

A. No, I don't, I don't know.

Q. And didn't Mr. McKenna during that period see you and tell you that on account of conditions which existed at that time, that it was impossible for them to continue to operate that theater on a first run policy, and requested a reduction in the rental on that Ritz Theater?

A. I don't remember that either.

Q. Then in December of 1930, it was reopened as a second run house and operated for awhile, and then isn't it a fact that Mr. McKenna approached you and told you that they had found that even under the second run policy under existing conditions, they couldn't continue to operate it on the rentals being paid you, and requested a reduction in the rental?

A. I don't remember that. Mr. McKenna never has mentioned about the rents.

Q. Isn't it a fact that—well, did Mr. Clark carry on any negotiations?

A. I was going to tell you, Mr. Clark used to come
545 and see me, but Mr. McKenna wasn't there. Mr. Clark never said anything about any reduction; he was a fine man.

Q. Didn't he carry on negotiations with you for several months trying to reduce the rentals, and as the basis for exercising the option under that contract which you had with him on the Ritz Theater?

A. No, sir; the only thing Mr. Clark ever negotiated with me on was to try to get me to go into partnership in the City of Shawnee. He never mentioned anything about rent that I can remember.

Q. At any rate, when this lease expired, about September 1931, on the Ritz Theater, you took it over?

A. I went over to see Mr. L. C. Griffith, and I bought the equipment back, and he turned around to the telephone and called all three companies and told them—he called Paramount, MGM and Fox—and he says, "Now we are not operating any more second run theaters and Mr. Jones can have it", and I gave him a check.

546 Q. Don't you know that the product or the pictures of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Fox, and Paramount, which you licensed second run, after you opened that theater, that those pictures had been previously licensed to the Griffith Amusement Company for use, second run, in the Ritz Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when they did not renew the lease with you and you bought the equipment, then they released that product from their contract?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you licensed the product for that season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You know, as a matter of fact, that from 1926, the season of 1926, that you sold your Cozy Theater to Griffith Brothers, that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer had licensed its product to Griffith Brothers for the Griffith Amusement Company, and that was their regular account in the City of Shawnee?

A. No, I will tell you what happened there. In 1926 we lost the M-G-M pictures, Momand had them, and then they finally got them later. I don't know what year they got them but they had them.

Q. You didn't even have Metro pictures in 1926?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. When you sold out to Griffith?

A. I had 25-26 product, but they told me not to 547 buy any product. They made the deal with me in June. They said we do our buying, and so Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer man came up to sell me. I said, "No, you go see Griffith Brothers," and he sold it to Momand.

Q. The material thing I am attempting to develop is that you knew several years before you re-acquired the Ritz Theater, that Metro had not licensed its product to the Griffith Amusement Company.

A. First run. When I took it over they were running Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, first run.

Q. And also a portion of the product second run?

A. Well, I don't know. Maybe he was getting some second run, yes, sir.

Q. And don't you know that Fox had been licensing its product to the Griffith Amusement Company since the time they came in to the town until the time you re-acquired the Ritz, except for the season 1927-28. I believe after you had obtained the Criterion you licensed the Fox product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when you played that one year and after that time the Fox product was licensed to the Griffith Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that condition continued until you re-acquired the Ritz?

548 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, the Paramount product was licensed in 1926-27 to Momand, was it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In 1927-28 it was licensed to Griffith?

A. I don't know about that. I didn't pay any attention to it after I got out of business.

Q. You know at the time you re-acquired the Ritz, the Griffith had been the account of Paramount in Shawnee for several years, and until the season 1932-33?

A. They was until I bought the Ritz back, and then they turned over the second run stuff to me.

Q. That is right, but Griffith had their regular account?

A. I suppose so.

Q. In 1932-33 and '33-34, do you know that Paramount was unable to make a deal with the Griffith Amusement Company?

Mr. WRIGHT. As to their inability, that is objected to.

The COURT. He can state if he knows.

Mr. WRIGHT. He knows whether he made the deal or not, but he doesn't know whether they were unable to make the deal.

Mr. COCHRAN. I will withdraw the question.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will agree with him they didn't
549 make a deal, the entire circuit didn't make a deal with Paramount for 1932-1934 seasons.

Mr. COCHRAN. That statement is sufficient.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. At this time you are operating two theaters in Shawnee, are you not?

A. What time?

Q. On the 9th day of May, 1945?

A. I don't operate two theaters. I operate one and my daughter owns one. She bought Momand out.

Q. You manage the theaters for your daughter, do you not?

A. No. She does the managing. I have been sick for three or four years. I don't do any managing.

Q. You bought the Odeon Theater?

A. I didn't do any such thing. She bought it.

Q. You furnished the money, did you not?

A. No, sir.

Q. Your daughter owns it then?

A. Every cent of it.

Q. The theater which was formerly the Odeon Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The name of it now is the Jake?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your name is Jake Jones?

A. Yes, sir. She named it after me.

550 Q. And you still operate the Ritz Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have continuously operated the Ritz Theater from 1931 to this good date?

A. Thank God, I have.

Q. And isn't it a fact that you are playing more than 200 pictures a year in the Ritz Theater?

A. I don't know.

Mr. WRIGHT. Just a minute——

Mr. COCHRAN. I will withdraw that. That is not cross-examination.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. In the early part of 1933 you stated that you had a conversation with H. J. Griffith, R. E. Griffith and Bennie McKenna?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was that conversation?

A. In one of the rooms in the Aldridge Hotel in Shawnee, Oklahoma. I think it was the Palace room.

Q. You know H. J. Griffith?

A. Yes.

Q. Is that the gentleman over there?

A. Yes, that is him.

Q. Do you know R. E. Griffith?

A. You bet your life.

Q. You did know him?

551 A. Yes, sir.

Q. He is dead?

A. I am sorry he is dead.

Q. You understand he is dead?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. You say he was present?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. L. C. Griffith was not there?
A. No.
Q. Bennie McKenna was there?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. This gentleman right here is Bennie McKenna?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You say R. E. Griffith was present and made the statement which you have stated into the record, on that occasion?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You cannot be mistaken about that?
A. No, I am sure R. E. made the statement. Mr. Bocher was there.
Q. Where does Mr. Bocher live?
A. He lives in Shawnee.
Q. When Mr. R. E. Griffith made that statement, H. J. Griffith and Bennie McKenna were present?
A. Yes, sir.
552 Q. It was made in their presence?
A. They were there, yes, sir.
Q. What time in 1933 was that statement made?
A. The early part. I couldn't say what day it was.
Q. You know, as a matter of fact, that the Griffith Amusement Company had acquired the Victory Theater sometime prior to that, do you not?
A. You mean since or before?
Q. Before.
A. I don't know anything at all about it. I didn't know until the other day the man that owns the building told me they closed and paid them for six or seven months rent at $225 a month.
Q. Don't you know that at the time they gave up the Ritz Theater, which was in 1931, or shortly prior to that time, they acquired the Victory Theater and then changed it to the Rex?
A. You mean they gave it up shortly afterwards?
Q. Shortly before or shortly afterward.
A. I don't know when they got it but I know they opened it up. It used to be the Victory Theater and they changed the name.
Q. Just answer my question. If you don't know, say so.
A. What was it?
553 Q. The question is, if you don't know that before the Cozy was re-acquired by you in 1931, the Griffith Amusement Company had acquired the Victory Theater?

A. No; I didn't know.

Q. You don't know that?

A. No, I didn't until here not long ago I heard it, about a month ago.

Q. You have all the contracts that you made with Metro during the years of 1932-33; 33-34; 34-35 and 38-39?

A. Yes, and I can furnish you up to 1945.

Q. Will you produce the contract which you made in 1934-35 with Metro?

A. 1934-35, I don't know whether I have got any 1934-35. '34-35, I have third run.

Q. In 1932-33, don't you know that some of the Metro product was played at the Momand Theaters, second run?

A. I didn't know anything about it.

Q. You don't know anything about what was played there?

A. Played where?

Q. At the Momand Theaters.

A. I don't know. I don't keep track of anybody else's business.

Q. In 1933-34 season, did you license any Metro product?

A. '33-34?

554 Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. I am not asking you about second run particularly. I want to know if you licensed any product.

A. I didn't get a picture that year.

Q. Do you know what product was licensed that was licensed to Momand for that season?

A. I don't know a thing about it.

Q. Of the 1934-35 product, how many pictures of Metro did you license, of third run?

A. Third what?

Q. '34-35.

Mr. WRIGHT. There is a contract there which shows it.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is in all of them.

(Question read.)

A. I don't think I have the contracts. I don't know.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Are these all the contracts you had?

A. I guess, if you have '34-35.

Q. This is a folder that counsel for the plaintiff handed me. I know nothing about it. I just wanted to know if these are all the contracts you made with Metro covering product?

555 A. Do you want to know just about '34-35 or all of them?

Q. '34-35?

A. That is all.

Q. You say that is the only contract you had with Metro, or do you mean to say the only ones you had?

A. That is the only one I know anything about.

Q. Will you say it is not a fact that for that season you licensed from Metro 39 pictures, second and third run?

A. Yes, I could——

Q. I am talking about feature pictures, now, not shorts but feature pictures.

A. Well, I couldn't say how many.

Q. Couldn't say how many?

A. No.

Q. So they did license pictures to you?

A. Yes.

Q. For the 1934-35 season?

A. For the 1934-35 season, yes, sir, third run; I know that.

Q. And some of those pictures were for second run also, weren't they?

A. I don't know. I don't think we got second run that year.

Q. Don't you know as a matter of fact for that season the Griffith Amusement Company played the top 556 pictures, some of the top pictures, second run, and that you licensed the remainder of the pictures second run and other pictures which Griffith played second run you licensed third run?

A. That is when I don't think we got any second run feature with it at all. We have the lower group of second run some year, but that year I think all we got was third run. I am not positive about that. My boy Johnny over here can tell you. He did all the booking.

Q. And for the 1936-37 season, is it not a fact that you licensed 29 feature pictures, second and third run from Metro?

A. From Metro?

Q. Yes.

A. '36-37?

Q. Yes.

A. How many pictures?

Q. 29 feature pictures.

A. The '36-37 product?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No, sir, I did not. I just got the lower group of second run, about 15 pictures; no third run at all. That is the year I wrote to the President of the United States. I had only four pictures to run in one month, thank God. I would have been out of business if he hadn't come to my——

Q. You know of the '36-37 product you did not 557 license the regular product for second and third run, 30 pictures, of which seven were not released, leaving a net of 23 and you spot booked for second run nine pictures, making a total of 32.

Mr. WRIGHT. He has already testified that his son John took care of the booking. He will be on the stand later.

A. My boy knows more about it than I do. I don't have anything to do with the books.

Mr. COCHRAN. You say he will be on the stand. That is what I wanted to know awhile ago, if we couldn't pass this. This witness has attempted to testify he did not receive any second run product for the 1931-32 season.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think the last one with Metro he covered was '33-34 on his direct examination.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You know that you have also received during the '35-36 season, and subsequent to that time, you received some second run and such third run product as you needed from Paramount, did you not?

A. What year is that, please?

558 Q. '34-35, '35-36 and subsequent?

Mr. WRIGHT. Let's take it by seasons here so we can understand what he is talking about.

A. '34-35, I had MGM third run.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I asked you about Paramount.

A. Paramount?

Q. Yes.

A. I didn't have any Paramount.

Q. None whatever?

A. No, not '34-35. No, sir, not at any time.

Q. I will ask you if it isn't a fact that you spot booked thirteen pictures of the 1934-35 Paramount product?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, he has already testified that his son handled the bookings there and he doesn't know anything about the spot booking.

A. I don't know.

Mr. COCHRAN. He has just been saying he didn't have any.

The COURT. He said he didn't know

The WITNESS. I don't know.

Mr. WRIGHT. If you have some charts for the distribution of the product shown, if you want to submit them for our checking, we can probably stipulate as to who played what or any season you are interested in.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. For the season '35–36, you obtained Paramount product, did you not?

559 Mr. WRIGHT. Your Honor please, this is beyond the scope of the direct examination. He didn't give any testimony with respect to Paramount past the '34–35 season.

The COURT. I don't think it is material; you have opened up the subject, however.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You did obtain Paramount product, third run and some second run product, after the season of '34–35, did you not?

A. Do you mean we got some second run from who?

Q. Paramount?

A. After when?

Q. '34–35.

A. '34–35? I didn't get a one that I know of; I don't know what we got.

Q. Do you know as to the other years?

A. What?

Q. If you don't know——

A. (Interrupting) I don't know.

Q. Do you know that at the present time the pictures are being licensed for the Jake Theater and the Ritz Theater at the same time?

A. I don't get that.

Mr. COCHRAN. Read it.

(Question read by the reporter.)

A. Do you mean we are buying the same season?

560 Q. Buying the same contract at the same time, negotiate the contracts at the same time?

A. No, because she hasn't owned it long enough to go into the season and buy it. She has only had it four or five months.

Q. You bought pictures for both theaters from Paramount, Metro, and various others, and carried on negotiations at the same time, haven't you?

A. I don't know that.

Q. Who buys the pictures for those two theaters?

A. Those two right there (pointing).

Q. Your son is in the army, isn't he?

A. My son and my daughter.

Q. Your son is in the army, isn't he, and he cannot buy them now?

A. He comes back every week end, and advises on it.

Q. Anyhow, they both buy for both of these theaters, do they?

A. Yes, but the girl does most all of the buying.

Q. Do you know that at the present time you are obtaining Paramount product third run and some second run?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, this is away beyond the scope of the direct, and beyond the theory that was covered. If we have managed to do anything at all with this suit, we have, of course, improved conditions 561 that are now in effect.

The COURT. I don't know.

Mr. WRIGHT. There is no question about it.

The COURT. This is supposed to cover what period?

Mr. COCHRAN. To April of '39.

The COURT: '34 to '39?

Mr. COCHRAN. April '34 to April '39. Counsel has gone back of that period; however, so far as this witness is concerned, we will not urge that question.

The COURT. Anything else with this witness?

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You were speaking of not obtaining any RKO product, first run, for the season 1935-36. Do you know that Griffith Amusement Company had been the regular first run account for the RKO for the season immediately prior to the season of 1934-35?

A. RKO never sold Griffith for the last ten years two years at a time, I don't think; they sold them one year and they jumped over to me one year.

Q. That wasn't the question; I asked you if they hadn't sold regularly to Griffith for a number of years prior to the season '34-35?

A. I don't know.

Q. Now, your statement is, that beginning in 1934-35 RKO hadn't sold to either you or Griffith regularly for any two years; they switched back and forth?

562 A. For '34-35 product?

Q. Was that your statement a moment ago?

A. I had that first and second run.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, we will offer the RKO franchise which shows exactly the succeeding three seasons that Griffith bought, and I don't see any point in pursuing the matter with this witness.

The COURT. I don't think it is necessary to go into that.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right, that's all.

(Witness excused.)

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 168: Allocation of rentals on Twentieth Century Fox product, season 1939-40 on a styled "Film work sheet" pursuant to contract on letterhead of Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation dated August 17, 1939 (K-7 product).

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 169: Allocation of rentals on 40-41 product of Twentieth Century Fox, bearing notation that it is for 39 towns plus six, second runs on 28 pictures
572 made pursuant to contract on letterhead of Twentieth Century Fox Film Corporation dated August 7, 1940 (K-8 season).

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 170, allocation of film rentals, '40-41 product, Twentieth Century Fox, Westex Theaters only, being a continuation of allocations begun on Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 169 for identification.

573 Exhibit No. 171: Allocation of film rentals, Columbia product, 1940-41 season, consisting of six sheets allocations being made pursuant to franchise agreement between Columbia Picture Corporation and R. E. Griffith as agent for R. E. Griffith Theaters, dated September 27, 1940. This document is produced pursuant to subpoena with the belief it is Exhibit D called for in paragraph 4-C of the franchise agreement, but it bears no identification and is the only office record of the defendants purporting to cover such allocations. There will be no claim that is not the true allocations.

Exhibit No. 172: Allocation of rentals on Universal product 1941-42 season, pursuant to contract dated January 23, 1942, between Universal Film Exchanges, Inc., and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., et al., styled "Deal sheets" and believed to be the document called for by paragraph 60 of the subpoena, unidentified with reference to the contract expressly but being the only material related to allocations in the company's file. No objection to be made as to its validity or identity, consisting of six sheets.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 173, which is the letter contract dated November 2, 1939 and signed by Oscar A. Morgan for Paramount Pictures, Inc., as called for under paragraph 8 of the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc. subpoena.

574 Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 174, which is the letter dated September 16, 1938 and the page attached thereto headed "Situations recently acquired", as called for in paragraph 7 of the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., subpoena.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 175, which is the contract of September 28, 1938 for Group S 10, Paramount Pictures with Westex Theaters, as called for by paragraph 1 of the Westex subpoena.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 176, which is the contract dated September 28, 1938 for Men With Wings being the contract called for under paragraph 2 of the Westex subpoena.

575 Plaintiff's Exhibit 177 for identification, which is the contract of September 28, 1938, for six Hop Along Cassidys as called for under paragraph 3 of the Westex subpoena.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 178 for identification, which is contract for Group S-10, Paramount Pictures, dated September 28, 1938, as called for under paragraph 9 of the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., subpoena.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 179 for identification, which is contract for Men With Wings dated September 28, 1938, as called for under paragraph 10 of the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., subpoena.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 180 for identification, which is contract for six Hopalong Cassidys, dated September 28, 1938, as called for under paragraph 11 of the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., subpoena.

The Court. Court will take a recess until ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon court recessed until May 10, 1945, at ten o'clock a. m.)

576 PROCEEDINGS

May 10, 1945, 10:00 o'clock a. m.

The Court. You may proceed.

Mr. Cochran. May it please the Court, I notice a few errors in the transcript of the testimony on yesterday, which I would like to state in the record. Some of them I would like to correct now. There will be others, but while this is fresh on my mind I would like to call attention to them. On Page 326, Mr. Jones, in answer to a question by Mr. Wright, "Just tell us who it was that came over to see you then." The answer was, "Well, sir, I think it was L. J. Griffith, R. E. Griffith and Bennett McKenna." It should read H. J. Griffith, R. E. Griffith and Bennie McKenna.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is right.

The COURT. Is there any objections to making the correction on the transcript?

Mr. WRIGHT. Not at all. That is correct.

Mr. COCHRAN. Further, on the same page, the question by Mr. Wright," And by whom, if you remember?" Answer, "Well, there was—first they were talking to Mr. L. C. Griffith." That should be R. E. Griffith. Is that correct, Mr. Wright?

Mr. WRIGHT: That is all right.

577 Mr. COCHRAN. On page 330, the second answer from the bottom of the page, "Well, it is the Rex that played them second run until they moved the Rex and called it the Vaughn." It should be "the Avon."

Mr. WRIGHT. That is right.

Mr. COCHRAN. I told counsel for the plaintiff this morning I desired to recall Mr. Jake Jones for a few questions on cross examination. He said Mr. Jones had gone home. We would like to have him recalled sometime within the near future.

The COURT. Very well. Will you kindly notify him to return.

Mr. WRIGHT. I said yesterday I thought we would go ahead with more of our documentary evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. I thought that was the understanding, then counsel corrected me to say he was going to get through with these witnesses he had here, the witnesses from Shawnee. I understood Mr. Johnny Jones and possibly his sister would take the stand this morning.

Mr. WRIGHT. If you want to examine further with respect to Shawnee today I can put Mr. John Jones on the stand.

The COURT. I really feel, in view of your theory of the case, I think it would be better to follow your suggestion on this and lay this foundation before you put on this correspondence.

578 Mr. COCHRAN. I am not objecting to that, but I am telling counsel I want Mr. Jones here.

The COURT. You can notify Mr. Jones to come back in a few days.

Mr. WRIGHT. Very well. Before resuming the offer of these agreements that the defendants made with the distributors, I would like to attempt to answer a question your Honor asked yesterday, as to the distributors' right to sell or not sell anyone, at some more length than I did on that occasion, because that is, of course, fundamental of our theory of what these agreements mean.

The COURT. Let me make myself clear to you. What the Court had in mind is this: That hearsay testimony as an elementary proposition is not competent. Now, the second proposition, assuming that the distributors did something that they should not do, that they made contracts that they should not make, unless there is some agreement between the distributors and certain of the exhibitors, say the Griffiths in this case, that they would do the thing that was done for the purpose of excluding competition, then there would be no conspiracy. An individual act under certain circumstances might be nothing more than an act of the one performing it. At the same time, if that act can be connected with some one else who was seeking to have that done, and it was done pursuant to that agreement, that presents a very different situation. And 579 so, we have gone far enough in this case now that I think I see the theory of the Government. I think there should be, if you have the evidence, you should develop the evidence along this line first to lay the foundation for some kind of connection between the two parties, because if the foundation is laid, certain testimony might be competent, otherwise it would not be.

Mr. WRIGHT. Quite right, your Honor. In that connection, I would like to call attention to the doctrine that was announced in the Interstate Circuit case, with reference to the activity in that case, which I think is quite parallel to that involved in this case, that is, the agreements there involved, I would like to compare with what I am about to offer here. Your Honor, may recall that that case involved dealings between these same eight major distributors and a large circuit in Texas, called the Interstate Circuit, which was affiliated with the distributor Paramount. They were in effect the Texas partners of Paramount, and a number of theaters there operating, in some cases under the name of Interstate Circuit, Inc., others under the name of Texas Consolidated Theaters, Inc., and in that case their position was one of dominance in the principal larger cities of Texas, Fort Worth, Dallas, Austin, Galveston and Houston. They owned all or substantially all 580 of the first run theaters, and then they operated second or subsequent runs theaters in those cities and then they also operated theaters in smaller towns in other cities in Texas and in New Mexico, particularly in the Rio Grande Valley in Texas. In some cases they owned all of the theaters in those cities, in others they had subsequent run competition. Of course, in this case in dealing with a circuit which in so far as its Texas operations were concerned, was confined very much to the towns in West Texas between about five thousand population up to towns as large as Lubbock, but there were also a similar patterns in that in many of these circuit situations there was no competition, in others there were competing first runs and in other towns there were so-called subsequent runs competitors. Now, in the Interstate Circuit case, what was attempted there was this, the Circuit wrote the same letter to each of the eight distributors in which they told the distributors that they would not agree to purchase the distributors' features for exhibition in their so-called eight theaters, their first run houses, to be shown at an admission price of 40 cents, unless the distributors agreed not to sell their pictures to subsequent run competitors of the Circuit on terms which would permit them to charge a smaller admission price than 25 cents, both of these prices being adult evening prices, or permit them to 581 double feature those pictures.

The COURT. These letters referred to were written by the exhibitors?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir, the letter is quoted in full at pages 216 and 217 of the Supreme Court opinion.

The COURT. What is that?

Mr. WRIGHT. 306 U. S. This letter appears at pages 216 and 217 in a footnote. Then they also requested that in the Rio Grande Valley towns the pictures that the Circuit showed at 35 cents admission price would not be shown subsequent run in the same Valley area at prices less than 25 cents.

The action taken by the distributors in response to that was this, two of them made an express agreement with the Circuit to put these restrictions into effect in certain of the towns involved, and not in others; then they did put them into effect by incorporating in the license agreements they made with the independents a 25 cent restriction; whereas, some of those people had been charging 15 and 20 cents before that.

582 Six of the distributors did not make an express agreement with the circuit to impose the restrictions but simply put them into effect. That is, they went ahead and made the requirements in substantially the same manner as they did under the express agreement. With this exception, that one distributor, Paramount, agreed to impose the restrictions in certain Texas and New Mexico towns that were operated by the circuit where all the other distributors refused, so as to those towns and that distributor there was no conspiracy among distributors who opposed the restrictions and the trial court found none.

Now, it appeared in the trial of the case that the effect of these restrictions insofar as both the distributors and circuits were concerned, had been beneficial in that they increased the license revenue of the distributors overall from the area in which they were imposed, and had also increased the circuit business in the area. However, at the expense of the independent competitor, who of course lost business to the circuit as a result of having to increase their prices in that manner, but the increase gained to the distributors over the additional license fees they got from the circuit more than offset the loss of license fees from the adverse effects on the independents' ability to pay fees. The trial court in disposing of the case found, (1) A conspiracy between the distributors to impose, and the 583 defendant exhibitors to impose restrictions in all of the towns where they jointly imposed them, and ordered that all these agreements by which the restrictions were imposed be declared void and repetition of such agreements in the future was enjoined, and it also enjoined Paramount and the exhibitor defendants. It also declared void the restrictions imposed only by Paramount in the other towns in Texas and New Mexico, and enjoined the exhibitor defendants and Paramount alone from imposing further restrictions of that nature in that area so when the case came up on appeal it presented those two questions. The defendants insisted first that there wasn't any evidence of conspiracy between distributors in the situations where the conspiracy was found and in the case where no conspiracy between the distributor was found, the restriction having been imposed by a single distributor in the exercise of whatever privileges it had under the copyright laws. That was a perfectly valid restriction, and the decree must be reversed in any event regardless of the finding of conspiracy insofar as the restrictions which Paramount alone imposed are concerned. When it came up to the Supreme Court, in dealing with this point, which is the one which is applicable here, as there isn't any charge in this case of conspiracy as between the exhibitors, "We are only concerned with allegations of combination and conspiracy between the circuit and each

584 distributor singly." The Court said this, with respect to the separate agreements:

"The decree below enjoined enforcement and renewal of the separate agreements between each distributor and Interstate and of the contract between Paramount and Consolidated imposing the restrictions upon later-run theaters in certain cities in Texas and New Mexico, although the court found no conspiracy among the distributors to effect this latter restriction. Appellants assail this part of the decree on the ground that such separate agreements, if entered into without agreement or concert monopoly secured to the distributors by their copyrights."

The court then went on to say: "Under section 1 of the Copyright Act, 35 Stat. 1075, 17 U. S. C. section 1, the owners of the copyright of a motion picture film acquire the right to exhibit the picture and to grant an exclusive restrictive license to others to exhibit it. See Manners v. Morosco, 252 U. S. 317. Appellants argue that the distributors were free to license the films for exhibition subject to the restrictions, just as a patentee in a license to manufacture and sell the patented article may fix the price at which the licensee may sell it. Bement v. National Harrow Co., 166 U. S. 70; United States v. General Electric Co., 272 U. S. 476. That the parallel is not complete is obvious.

585 Because a patentee has power to control the price at which his licensee may sell the patented article, it does not follow that the owner of a copyright can dictate that other pictures may not be shown with the licensed film or the admission price which shall be paid for an entertainment which includes features other than the particular picture licensed."

Those statements were made because the Government in its brief had challenged the right of the copyright owner individually to fix admission prices in the license, then they went on to say:

"We have no occasion now to pass upon these or related questions. Granted that each distributor, in the protection of his own copyright monopoly, was free to impose the present restrictions upon his licensees, we are nevertheless of the opinion that they were not free to use their copyrights as implements for restraining commerce in order to protect Interstate's motion picture theater monopoly by suppressing competition with it. The restrictions imposed upon Interstate's competitors did not have their origin in the voluntary act of the distributors or any of them. They gave effect to the will and were subject to the control of Interstate, not by virtue of any copyright of Interstate, for it had none, but through its contract with each distributor. Interstate was able to acquire the control and impose its will by force of its monopoly of 586 first-run theaters in the principal cities of Texas and the threat to use its monopoly position against copyright owners who did not yield to its demands."

The COURT. In that case, in addition to the Interstate the distributors were made parties, were they?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, they were parties defendant.

"The purpose and ultimate effect of each of its contracts with the distributors was to restrain its competitors in the theater business by forcing an increase in their admission price and compelling them through the double feature restriction to make their entertainment less attractive, and to preclude the distributors for the specified time from relaxing the pressure of the restrictions upon them."

The significance of that language as applied to these agreements here is this: These agreements which this circuit was able to make with these distributors and which are offered in evidence, are not just agreements which determine the terms upon which the circuit exhibits pictures. All of them go further and control, to a very large extent, the terms on which the same pictures that are covered by those licenses shall be made available to competitors of the circuit. In other words, you do not have here just a series of agreements like the ordinary film license——

587 The COURT. I think in presenting those you should call attention to those portions of these agreements——

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, I think the best thing to do is to take that up as your Honor suggested, in concrete fashion.

Mr. COCHRAN. Are you through with your statement in connection with Interstate?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. I would like to make a statement——

Mr. WRIGHT. Shall I finish my answer first?

Mr. COCHRAN. I would like to reply to your argument. I want to correct some mistakes in order that your Honor may try to follow our theory in regard to it. I want to say that so far as the Interstate case is concerned, it has no similarity whatever to the situation that exists up to the present time, and counsel by these documents, these contracts, is going to present nothing that is in any way related to the Interstate case. I am going to hand your Honor some references, two or three cases in which that Interstate case has been distinguished along the very line we are insisting on here——

The COURT. I was going to suggest that if you gentlemen have a trial brief the Court will be glad to have it.

Mr. COCHRAN. I have it assembled in a way but not in the form of a trial brief, but I will call your 588 Honor's attention to the cases as we proceed on these various points, but at the present time I want to state this: This Interstate case involved an entirely different situation. There the primary question was on the conspiracy end of it. Several of the distributors were parties to the case. The testimony showed that Interstate, through its officers, wrote a joint letter to each of those distributors, making a demand that it impose certain conditions on the competitors. The distributors who were found to be parties to the conspiracy complied with those requests. The argument was made in the Supreme Court by the distributors and by Interstate that there was no showing of an agreement between the parties. The court in that case simply held this: That inasmuch as a joint demand had been made by each exhibitor on the distributors, which was followed by uniform action on their part of each one of them complying with the request, that that was sufficient, in the absence of direct testimony; that there was no agreement that created an inference of agreement, concerted action or conspiracy. In that case the Supreme Court said that the testimony which had been offered in that connection was merely the testimony of the branch officers, whereas the joint demand had gone to the home office, and that the distributors had produced only the branch managers and had not produced the officers
589 who were at the head and to whom the letters were addressed, and who were responsible to the company and, therefore, they had not overcome that presumption of conspiracy.

590 Now, that is the conspiracy feature.

The Court further said this in regard to certain of the conditions that were in the contract referring to the agreements between the Interstate and an individual distributor, in which it was agreed between them as to what should be done in contracts which the distributor made with the opposition theater. There is nothing like that in any of these contracts, but they said in regard to certain of those things that they constituted an unreasonable restraint of trade. You will notice Judge Roberts' dissenting opinion on that, but that wasn't a conspiracy. So far as these statements made by representatives of the distributors we take the position that even though a contract existed in which there was an unreasonable restraint of trade, that that doesn't amount to a conspiracy. You may have a contract in unreasonable restraint of trade without having the conspiracy, and it is quite different from a conspiracy to have an agreement in a contract which is an unreasonable restraint of trade; broadly speaking that is my position.

The COURT. The Court will give you ample authority to discuss the law questions. After the introduction of these contracts, and an explanation or disclosure of what they contain, will be very proper at this time.

Mr. WRIGHT. I would like to offer next, if the 591 Court please, a document previously identified as P–3, pages A to G inclusive, which I really should have offered before P–1, because it precedes it in point of time. This is an agreement dated July 17, 1934, between Paramount and all of these various exhibitor companies composing the circuit, including three of the defendants.

Mr. COCHRAN. Is that the document that you explained at length to the Court?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, it isn't. This is an agreement which was entered into, which preceded the making of the franchise agreement marked as Exhibit P–1, which was the one that I explained to the Court.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is what?

Mr. WRIGHT. P–3, A to G inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is not a document which we agreed had been executed by the parties. It comes in under clause 7, and we object to its introduction. I think I am right about that. We object to its introduction, if it is not included in paragraph 4, and we object to it for the reason that it appears to be an incompleted contract and evidently was followed by the instrument which was introduced here covering that same period, which was fully executed.

Mr. WRIGHT. There is no question about its having been followed by the execution of P–1. I take it there is 592 also no question but what the document P–3, A to G, was signed on behalf of the defendants by R. E. Griffith.

Mr. COCHRAN. It was not signed by the other party and is followed by a contract which is signed by both parties.

The COURT. You can offer it and we will see what it is.

Mr. COCHRAN. Wait just a minute; counsel says P–3 was stipulated. (Referring to exhibit.) I withdraw the objection.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. COCHRAN. In that connection, I will say that some of these documents, which were presented originally, where they were not signed, we agreed that if Paramount would assure us that that was an executed document that we would go ahead and stipulate, and that is the reason for some of these documents.

The COURT. You are offering Plaintiff's Exhibit P–3, A to G, and it is admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. Now, this document, if the Court please, as I say, is one that was dated July 17, 1934, and it sets forth the preliminary agreement which was later formalized in this three-year franchise, P–1. The principal differences are that by the time the franchise was executed, it included other theaters and acquisitions in the meantime, and there are also some changes of phrase-
593 ology, but I particularly wanted to trace the development of this agreement that first appears in this P–3 by this distributor, to furnish the circuit with runs, subsequent runs as it might want to use in its towns for no additional consideration.

Now, that particular provision as it appears in this Exhibit P–3 is on the page marked E, and reads this way:

"Distributor agrees that where requested subsequent runs are to be furnished in any or all situations without additional charge, except in Oklahoma City, where such runs are excluded for the Rialto and Reno Theaters only."

Now, let us consider exactly what that meant. This agreement between——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting): If the Court please, I object to the argument on each one of these. Just let the purpose be stated.

The COURT. He can tell us his theory in connection with it. Let me understand you. That agreement is to furnish certain first run pictures?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, this agreement covers the distribution of all of the Paramount pictures in the Griffith circuit during the succeeding three seasons; that is, it provides the first runs on percentage in certain specific limited 594 number of situations, and then all runs, in the other situations, first runs, at certain blanket rentals, payable, I believe, at weekly intervals.

The COURT. Let me understand. Let's suppose that the Paramount enters into a contract with certain distributors whereby it agrees to furnish them their entire product.

Mr. WRIGHT. With certain exhibitors.

The COURT. To furnish their entire product to certain exhibitors over a period of time.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir.

The COURT. And that is a part of the agreement, if they desire to re-run pictures at any time, then they may do so without additional cost. That is practically the substance of that, isn't it?

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, the substance of it is that, but you have to consider the background of the agreement itself.

What are you doing in these situations. These are not towns where there are no competitors.

The COURT. I am not considering the competitive feature at this time, but say there are competitors, but they agree now to sell their entire product to certain exhibitors.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

The COURT. And if they carry out that contract so
595 far as their production is concerned, the competitors would be denied the privilege of having the product. Do you say that would be an illegal contract, even under the Sherman Act?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it would. I think that under these circumstances, clearly where you have an area of this kind covering, let us say, 50, 60 or 100 towns in three states; they have been distributing pictures there, Paramount has in this case, and selling them to a large number of independents, attempting to compete with the circuit theaters and they have been selling first runs and subsequent runs in various situations. Now, what this agreement is, is simply from now on, even though we may not decide to use a single picture of yours, subsequent runs, in any situation we control, you cannot sell our competitors a run behind us because under this agreement you are bound to give us a subsequent run of a picture for our theaters wherever we may happen to want it. Now, this is a far more effective device, much simpler and much more drastic in its effect on independent competitors of this circuit than the agreements which Paramount made with Texas Consolidated was in the Interstate Circuit case. All that was agreed to there was that they would protect that circuit from competition, from subsequent run competitors, by seeing that there was a maximum 15-cent price dif-
596 ferential in the admissions of the circuit's first run theaters and the competing subsequent run.

The COURT. What does that contract there say about second run?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think the only thing it says is what I have read your Honor.

The COURT: What is that again?

Mr. WRIGHT. The distributor agrees that where requested subsequent runs—it isn't limited to second run, it is any run after the first—are to be furnished in any or all situations without additional charge, except in Oklahoma City where such runs are excluded at the Rialto and Reno Theaters only.

The COURT. Do you think that, within itself, would constitute a prohibition of them selling the second run to another theater?

Mr. WRIGHT. How could they possible sell a subsequent run to another theater, and how could another exhibitor possibly buy a subsequent run under that, following the circuit theaters, as long as the circuit has the right to the subsequent run?

The COURT. What would be the objection to the independent having the second run and these circuit theaters running it too, if they wanted to?

Mr. WRIGHT. There wouldn't be any objection, except from the circuit, of course, but the circuit very plainly, by this provision, has tied up that subsequent run as effectively as under any provision you could draw.

597

The COURT. Suppose the distributor should say to the circuit: "We have an application to buy second run on certain pictures. Under the contract you have a right to these runs, if you require them. Now, do you require them?"

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

The COURT. And they would say, "Well, we don't desire to run them."

Mr. WRIGHT. All right.

The COURT. Is there any reason why they couldn't sell to the independents?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, but when that has been done, what kind of chance has the independent got in any situation, if his fate as to what runs he can buy from Paramount is going to be determined by this circuit at its pleasure? You know exactly the thing that is going to happen, will be what did happen, where they try to get but they don't get the runs.

The COURT. Suppose one independent should say, "We want first run on one of these pictures," and the distributor says, "We can't furnish you that; we have sold that to this circuit; you can't have it unless they release it." Is there any reason why they couldn't take it up with the circuit and say, "Do you want to release this; if so, we will sell it to somebody else."

598

Mr. WRIGHT. Where a run is sold, that is a different matter.

The COURT. They have sold a right?

Mr. WRIGHT. They have sold an option, an optional right.

Mr. COCHRAN. I can't see the point of counsel arguing at length on this provision, when it is admitted that this document was followed by the franchise which was executed, and under which the operation was had, by the supplement of 1936. He said he is simply giving that as a background. If he is going to discuss anything, he should turn to the provisions of the other document.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will be glad to do that, but as an evidence of intention, this is what these defendants and the rest of their circuit were interested in doing, tying up the subsequent run, and the right to say in any situation in which they operated, whether the opposition should be able to play Paramount pictures behind them or not.

The COURT. Do you think the distributor would be under any obligation to furnish second run to the independent or anybody else unless they wanted to.

Mr. WRIGHT. I should not suppose so, but normally he would be offering to sell such runs that he 599 had not already sold by actual specific contract.

The COURT. Say in Oklahoma City there would be a certain brand of clothing, say Steinbloch; they sell that to one retailer; here comes another merchant and says, I cannot get certain brands that I want, like Hickey Freeman or something else, and I want Steinbloch. They say we have agreed to sell Steinbloch to only one merchant in the town. Is that an illegal agreement?

Mr. WRIGHT. It is quite a different agreement. I haven't any idea whether it is legal or not; I would assume it is. But the difference between that and this, when he sells Steinbloch clothes, or suits, to one dealer, he doesn't use it and then the distributor sell it to someone else; there is no succeeding use of the same merchandise. They are not selling anything here at all.

The COURT. Here is the right to sell the product to a single person. I can't see that the distributor would be under any obligation to sell second run unless he wanted to.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, that is precisely the argument made and rejected by the Court in the Interstate Circuit case. They say we have a complete right here to say whether we are going to deal with Interstate.

The COURT. That is a law question and we will take care of that later. I will give you ample time on it.
600 Mr. WRIGHT. We understand what the facts are, that the effect of this was simply to put the determination in the hands of the circuit as to who should operate second run against them and who should not. I would like to follow this particular clause through the agreement and evidence here.

On page L of P-1, the clause takes its form in the following final agreement, as follows; this is 12 (b).

"The distributor agrees that whenever requested it will furnish to the exhibitor without additional charge therefor, except in Oklahoma City, a second run for not exceeding each of twenty towns embraced within this agreement". In other words, between this preliminary draft and the final form, the distributor had succeeding in narrowing down the scope of the privilege to this extent, and I think it is quite apparent from the terms itself that the narrowing down was the result of pressure from the distributor's and not from the exhibitor. Of course, the distributor has nothing to gain whatsoever by making a provision of this kind; it simply ties his hands in advance and prevents him from realizing such additional revenue as he might get out of the free, unrestricted sale of subsequent runs involved. In any event, that is the form, and it is limited to twenty towns.

The COURT. You will admit that is the interpretation and construction placed upon the clause to which you referred in P–3?

601

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, it was more in the nature, I suppose of a superseding agreement. I don't think there is any question but what the clause, as originally written in P–3, was broader than this, than it was narrowed down in the subsequent agreement.

The COURT. At least, that supersedes P–3?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, clearly. Then that clause again was modified by a subsequent agreement, dated September 22, 1936, which is pages U, V, W, and X of Exhibit P–1.

The COURT. U, V, W, and X?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir. That, I think you will recall, was after there had been complaints to the Department of Justice as to what was happening here with respect to this circuit, and also was about the time that the Interstate Circuit suit was filed in the District Court at Dallas. Now, this agreement of modification refers to this paragraph 12, and then as a whereas, it says,

"Whereas, the parties have never operated under said provision of the agreement in the manner and form as therein stated but in certain instances second run product has been furnished by the distributor to the exhibitor and other persons or corporations for whose benefit said agreement was made, in specified theaters, under the provisions of said franchise agreements."

That is legal language that is beyond me. They haven't operated under it and they have operated under it. We expect to show that they did unquestionably furnish runs under that option.

Then they say they desire to modify the agreement for a nominal consideration, and they then put a further limitation on the exercise of the privilege by modifying it to the extent so they only furnish 40 feature pictures and 80 shorts for second run in the following towns, naming nine specific towns. That is in addition to the subsequent runs in the Rialto and Reno at Oklahoma City.

Now, that modification, while in form was one which was supposed to, at least, make the agreement look somewhat reasonable, at least, as to licensing of some specific runs in specific situations, although there is still no additional compensation involved, but that modification in itself was a pretty clear recognition by the parties that, at least, in its prior form it had been restricting reasonably the rights of the competitors who were trying to operate against the circuit, and, of course, it came at a time that was too late to save many of them who already were then on their way out of business, such as the exhibitor in Plainview, which testimony we heard on Tuesday.

603 The COURT. Do you think there was a combination of circumstances controlling the Plainview situation.

Mr. WRIGHT. I suppose there is always a combination of circumstances in any situation which will determine whether or not any particular enterprise will succeed or fail, and we do not purpose to show, your Honor, in any event that any illegal restriction of which we complain was the sole cause of anybody's staying in or going out of business. All we propose to show by this Exhibit testimony is how these restrictions operated, what they did. In this case they kept a competing exhibitor, who needed the product, from even negotiating for second run of Paramount films in the town. Mr. Griffith didn't think he ought to have them, he didn't think the town ought to have second run, and the town didn't have. I say under this agreement he had assumed the functions that the distributor normally performs. In the ordinary performance of a contract, the distributor decides where he is going to sell the first run, second run, or third run, and how many runs he will sell, and how the pictures may be distributed, but by agreement that function has been turned over to the circuit itself, and, of course, the fate of the competitors of the circuit, under those conditions, is a foregone conclusion.

The COURT. It isn't the right of the distributor, but is the right of the exhibitor, to say whether or not he will release certain productions. You may proceed.

604 Mr. WRIGHT. We will next offer in evidence a document marked P–4 with the lettered pages A to D inclusive.

The COURT. What exhibit are you referring to?

Mr. WRIGHT. I am referring to P–4, pages A to D inclusive. This is the master agreement between Paramount and the circuit for the exhibition of the '37–38 films. That is, including features, shorts and newsreels for a total rental payment of $240,386. That covers a schedule of towns that are attached, and it provides that the pictures are broken down in classification for the total rental of $42,000 odd dollars over the $8,055; ten at $45,000; 15 at $25,000; 15 at $21,000; and the total feature payments are $189,000 odd dollars and the rest is made up by shorts, news and "Hop-Alongs" which I believe are western pictures. Then the attached schedule shows the towns covered and second run is noted opposite Bartlesville, Berger, Texas, Enid, Norman, Okmulgee, Pampa, Texas, Seminole, Shawnee, Chickasha, Lubbock, Texas. Then it provides for two subsequent runs in Oklahoma City, altho this agreement on page A, the letter is simply signed Griffith Amusement Company, by R. E. Griffith, which covers towns in which the other four defendant companies and their affiliates operated theaters.

Mr. COCHRAN. What was that last you offered?

605 P–4, A to G?

Mr. WRIGHT. A to G, yes. Then the "G" relates to the subsequent runs, and that provision says: "It is agreed that the exhibitor is to be allowed second or subsequent run on thirty Paramount features, six Hop-Along Cassidy westerns and a selection of 90 releases of short subjects in the second or subsequent run towns and theaters as listed on the attached schedule A." Rentals on this product are included in the first run rentals as set forth in this agreement. The effect of that agreement on those second run pictures in these towns is to prevent any competitor from distributing second run produce in those situations, although in many of them competing theaters were operating.

The COURT. That was for the distributors of Paramount?

Mr. WRIGHT. These are still Paramount, yes. Under this agreement, of course, there was no obligation to pay anything for any of these features if they used 30 or if they used none. The obligation under the license agreement was exactly the same, so that in effect the exhibitor was prevented by this agreement from selling second runs in those situations, even though this circuit might not decide to use the film at all. Counsel in his opening statement pointed to the situation which he describes

606 as over-buying, which he apparently believes is the only way the Sherman Act can be violated, by an exhibitor over-buying; where you contract to pay for more films than you use, which is the hard way of restraining or suppressing competition, the expensive way. The simplest, most effective way is to buy up the product without having to pay for it.

The COURT. That might be true with respect to this producer. There are dozens of producers. Is there any reason why the independent couldn't get pictures from any other producer?

Mr. WRIGHT. The reason why, as to other distributors, of course, will be apparent when we put the other agreements in.

The COURT. I get your theory.

Mr. WRIGHT. Even as to this distributor we would say that in itself is an agreement which restrains trade unreasonably and is a violation of Section 1 of the Act because it is collectively made on behalf of all these exhibitors. Some of it was closed and some of it was competition. The effect of it would be to exclude the competitors from any opportunity to compete with them in showing Paramount films second run.

The next agreement I will offer is one previously marked for identification as P–5. The page numbers are marked —I don't believe I offered P–4 in evidence. Is 607 there any objection to that?

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection to P–4.

Mr. WRIGHT. I am now offering P–5, A to AA, inclusive. That is a master agreement dated October 18, 1938, between Paramount and the defendants, Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theaters, Inc., the Oklahoma City defendants, signed by H. R. Falls and covers not only their theaters, but a large group of theaters affiliated with them.

The agreement covers the 1938–39 season, Paramount features, shorts and newsreels as outlined in the schedule attached, and it also includes an agreement for one special product called "Men With Wings" for which a separate price is specified. The total to be paid over the circuit for "Men With Wings" is approximately $9600; then five more features in next rental classification were sold for a total of $36,000, $7,000; twelve more on the next bracket for a total of $6,000; ten more for a total of $31,000; twelve more for $14,000 and twelve more for $11,000. I am simply quoting round numbers, and the total in the feature deal is $153,000 and six Hop-Along Cassidy westerns were sold for $5600 and the grand total of the deal is $159,000. Then it is almost similar to the prior agreement provisions we have brought over and provides for certain deductions in case Paramount releases less pictures than are licensed,

52 in this case, and no foreign made pictures
608 are included, and there is an elimination privilege specified of 10 percent to be made from the lowest bracket, and the payment for the shorts is put on a weekly basis, to start in November, '38, and it is agreed that the circuit is not required to play the product in the order of release, and for that privilege it is required to play or pay for 25 percent of all the product sold during each 13 weeks period, quarterly payment.

Then there is an agreement as to when the subsequent runs from the Rialto and Reno here at Oklahoma City are to be made available. Then it is understood the standard form of exhibition contract attached becomes part of the agreement and the physical operation should be governed by the terms of the contract. In case of conflict, of course, the provisions of the typewritten agreement prevails.

Attached to that are schedules which show the towns operated by the Griffith Amusement Company and by Consolidated Theaters and by theaters affiliated with them respectively and the number of exhibition dates that are sold, and then in situations which are starred with an asterisk, the exhibitors are permitted to play 40 of the features, plus six Hop-Along Cassidys, and in the others the commitment is all.

Page D of the schedule is headed "Griffith, second or subsequent run deal," and that specifies 13 towns 609 in which second run is sold, and the two subsequent runs in Oklahoma City and it says: "In the above listed towns the exhibitor has to second or subsequent run privilege on 30 Paramount features, and six Hopalong Cassidy westerns and 90 reels of short subjects, excluding shorts in the Oklahoma City theater." Rentals for these second or subsequent runs are included in the first run monies outlined within this agreement. In that respect it is substantially as the preceding agreement. There is no additional rental charge for the payment of such second runs as they choose to use. Then there is a schedule of payment for shorts; separate schedule for news and then a schedule, pages G to L here, of the breakdown of the rentals by towns, how much of the total is to be allocated to each town in each of the five classifications used to designate the features, A, B, C, D and E, and then attached is the face of the standard form M, which simply contains the name of the two defendant exhibitors involved; to start on or before December 1, 1938, and to be played at the rate of release. Neither the agreement nor the sample standard form fixes any minimum admission price. Then attached are further schedules and then the schedule breakdown of the picture "Men With Wings" and the schedule breakdown for the Hopalong Cassidy westerns, and that completes the exhibit, and that is offered in evidence.

610 Mr. RICE. The Dallas defendants object because they are obviously not parties to that. It is just an Oklahoma contract involving towns not operated by R. E. Griffith.

The COURT. The objection will be noted.

Mr. COCHRAN. P–7 covers R. E. Griffith Theaters, doesn't it?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. Of these documents, the first one P–6, A to K, inclusive, which is a license bearing the name of Westex Theaters, Inc., and dated September 28, 1938. It is unsigned, but it was agreed it represented the agreement under which the parties operated, and that contains a schedule of the Westex towns and then the similar general provisions about including no foreign made pictures, and deductions for failure to release the full amount, and the elimination privilege of 10 per cent to come out of the bottom or E bracket, and the exhibitor is not required to play the product in the order of release, but pays for that privilege 25 per cent of the money due each 13 week period. Then the distributor agrees to serve the New Mexico towns from the Dallas branch, and it is agreed the standard form becomes a part of it, and governs the physical operations, and that form is attached. It shows this limitation of pictures starting playing on or before October, 1938, and to be played at the rate of release; adult admission 611 prices to be not less than 15 cents.

Mr. COCHRAN. There is no second run clause in that contract is there?

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't see one.

Mr. RICE. I wish you would find it if you can.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think not. Most of the towns covered by this P–6 contract were towns in which there were virtually no competing theaters, if any.

Mr. RICE. What was that statement?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think there are no competing theaters in most of these towns that are covered by the contract P–6.

P–7 is a similar unsigned agreement with R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., operating the same way and covers that company's towns, which are mostly in New Mexico, and the provisions, I believe, are just the same as those on P–6, the general provisions, although, of course, the schedules allocating the film rental specify different amounts.

Mr. RICE. No second run agreement.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is right. And the provision, the standard form, is also at the same date, September 28, 1938, as all admission prices to be not less than 15 cents. I offer those in evidence. I take it they are admitted without objection.

612 Mr. RICE. No objection.

The COURT. That is P-6?

Mr. WRIGHT. 6 and 7.

Mr. COCHRAN. It will be noted by the Court, of course, that those contracts are for the 1938-39 product by R. E. Griffith and Westex and relates to no Griffith Amusement Company or Consolidated Theaters towns.

The COURT. What pages did you offer in P-7, all of it?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. They are offered in their entirety, both P-6 and 7.

The COURT. What are the dates?

Mr. WRIGHT. The dates of both agreements are the same, September 28, 1938.

Mr. COCHRAN. P-7 covers pages A to J.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is right. Then I believe there is a ratification of the R. E. Griffith agreement dated September—not a modification but a preliminary agreement between R. E. Griffith and J. J. Unger of Paramount, dated September 13, 1938, which has been marked as P-8, A and B. A is a letter agreement from Mr. Unger to Mr. Griffith dated September 15, 1938, which outlines the blanket total of the deal which is $76,000 for the features and westerns and then about $17,000 additional for what is a news and then the attached sheet is a detailed breakdown of 613 the feature rentals for each bracket in each situation prepared by Mr. Lockhart. That was apparently simply the preliminary work sheet.

Q. Which was later incorporated primarily in P-6 and 7. Is that correct?

Mr. COCHRAN. Right.

Mr. RICE. There is no second run provision in that is there, Mr. Wright?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think this provides, "I wish to confirm and summarize herewith our understanding with reference to the deal agreed upon for our 1938-39 (Group S-10) product, for the forty towns now operated by you, including one second run; namely, Victoria."

A carries the Paramount master agreement with the defendants through the 1938-39 season.

I will now offer a series of agreements between the defendants RKO——

The COURT. What is RKO?

Mr. WRIGHT. RKO Distributing Corporation. Those letters stand for Radio, Keith, Orpheum. The first RKO document offered will be RKO-43, consisting of pages A to G, inclusive.

The COURT. 43?

Mr. WRIGHT. RKO 43. Labeled "RKO, Griffith franchise."

614 This is a letter agreement dated March 18, 1935, in the form of a letter from Herb McIntire, Southern Division Manager of RKO to Mr. R. E. Griffith at Dallas, and bears the notation "Accepted. Griffith Amusement Company by R. E. Griffith" and approved by RKO by Jules Levy, Vice-President.

This is a preliminary agreement which is later incorporated primarily in the franchise.

Mr. COCHRAN. Your RKO A to G is the shorts for the 1934-35 season?

Mr. WRIGHT. You are quite right.

615 Mr. WRIGHT. This agreement is dated March 18, 1935, and is short, so I think I may as well read it.

"Dear Mr. Griffith: In accordance with our agreement, I am attaching hereto Schedule 'A' showing list of the situations in your circuit together with the allocated prices per group, on features and per unit of product on short subjects.

"These allocations are on the same basis as the 1933-34 season"—I think your Honor will recall the evidence here, that the circuit didn't buy RKO in '34-35; that was the year they were out of the circuit—"these allocations are on the same basis as the 1933-34 season with the exception of the towns of Cushing and Gainesville, which situations are based upon the same allocations as set up for the 1935-1936 franchise deal." In addition to that deal, is the one that I will introduce in a moment, numbered RKO 44. "In addition to these situations, a price set up is indicated in certain situations on one reel subjects, for which no price was agreed upon for the 1933-1934 deal. There is also indicated on the attached Schedule 'A' a price set up for single reel color subjects.

"You are to have the privilege of using the 1934-35 product in these situations on the following terms:"

—this was near the end of the 1934-35 season—

616 "You are to play or pay for 1934-35 product as used based upon the allocations in a minimum amount of $20,000.00, with the right to use 100% of our releases based upon these allocations.

"2. You are not definitely obligated to any given number of features or short subjects in any one situation but are to have the privilege of playing product in the minimum amount of $20,000.00 over the entire twenty-five first run and seven subsequent run situations as listed on the attached Schedule 'A'." In other words, under this agreement, the product is really distributed over the towns by the circuit as it sees fit, and not bound to use any particular number in any particular situations.

"3. Starting date of the play off of the commitment to be March 15, 1935, and to be completed by November 1, 1935.

"4. We are to have the the privilege of designating rentals on feature releases." That designation refers to the classification of features in the various rental brackets.

"5. Playing time is to be the same as provided for in the 1933-34 deal.

"6. Becky Sharp and La Cucaracha made with the three color process are not included in this deal."

617 Then the last page says, "The above is a memorandum of the 1934-1935 agreement and you agree to sign whatever form of contract or agreement the home office may decide is necessary to cover the provisions of this deal."

Attached are schedules showing the allocations in the Griffith Amusement Company towns, the Consolidated towns and the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc. towns and a schedule of the production numbers of the pictures released for that season.

Mr. COCHRAN. You say it covers the Griffith Amusement Company and the Consolidated Theater towns. It covers only certain towns.

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, I don't mean to suggest that it covers all the towns. The schedule shows such towns of those defendants as are included in the agreement. And the last schedule "B", appearing on page F are the production numbers and titles of the features for the season covered, and on page G is the schedule "C" of the shorts. This agreement provides for subsequent runs in certain specified towns.

Mr. COCHRAN. On what page?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is schedule "A", pages D and E.

Mr. COCHRAN. There is nothing of that kind in the document covered by our agreement that I can see so far.

618 Mr. WRIGHT. Pages D and E?

The COURT. You are referring to Exhibit 44?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, I am referring to Exhibit 43.

Mr. COCHRAN. I beg your pardon; proceed.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is offered in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. In view of the reference to the '33-34 agreement, I suppose we ought to have a copy of that. Mr. Kime calls my attention to the fact that we do have that, and I think I had better offer it. It is marked No. 42, A to O, inclusive.

The COURT. RKO?

Mr. WRIGHT. RKO, No. 42, pages A to G.

The COURT. A to G?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir. It is an agreement made between the RKO and Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theaters.

The COURT. Dated when?

Mr. WRIGHT. Dated August 25, 1933, signed on behalf of the——

The COURT. That merely fixes the schedules as referred to in the other?

Mr. WRIGHT. This is a prior agreement, and covers the '33–34 season. You will recall that tihs agreement that I read, P–43, which referred to pictures released for 619 the '34–35 season, incorporated some of the terms of this agreement. I now offer it. This agreement, as I say, covers the 1933–34 season and it has attached to it a schedule of the towns supplied, showing the number of features, two-reel comedies and single reelers committed in each, and it also provides for some subsequent runs in five towns, two of them in Oklahoma City. The general terms of the agreement are that the exhibitor contracts to play or pay for features and shorts varying in number, as set out opposite the towns in Exhibit A attached—that is the schedule I referred to—with the privilege of playing any and all of the pictures in the theaters in the towns for the minimum or maximum number of days in keeping with the policy of the theater. Then it refers to the subsequent runs in the listed towns and the amount to be received by the distributor for the features and shorts licensed under the agreement, including the first and subsequent run situations, is $53,000 odd, and that sum is arrived at: It is understood that the sums are arrived at in the following manner, and for the first run situations only, and the Lucky Seven as announced by the distributor, in groups of two pictures, at a rental of $2550 each, and five pictures at a rental of $1630. These pictures are included in all of the thirty-three first run situations. Then it specifies the pictures, specifying according to 620 stars, two Wheeler and Woolsey, one Ann Harding, one Constance Bennett, two Irene Dunne, and each picture is priced at $924. Then the distributors to select and designate during the life of the agreement six other pictures to be played at the same rental for the twenty towns in which the contract is for fifty-one pictures and the balance of the fifty-one pictures in the twenty towns, thirty in number, are to be furnished at a rental of $455 each, and in the thirteen first run situations, where only twenty-six pictures are committed to each, there is a group to be designated by the distributor, six in number, at a rental of $207 each; then for the same number of thirteen towns where the twenty-six pictures are licensed first run, the balance of the twenty-six pictures are to carry a total allocation for the thirteen towns of $151 each. Then the agreement includes three two-reel comedies, Amos and Andy cartoons, and the rental specified for those, then the total money commitment for the features, comedies and cartoons in the subsequent run theaters, six in number, listed on the schedule, is twenty-six features, twenty-six two-reel cartoons, two-reel comedies, and thirteen cartoons. And then it states the total number for the combined subjects—I think that means rental instead of number—$2,960 odd. Features and shorts to be played are to be selected by the exhibitor, the runs in each theater to 621 be second run except Oklahoma City, the runs to be the same as the '32-33 season. A color special is excluded from the agreement, and then the short subjects are specified with the price stated; then there is an elimination privilege, that the exhibitor has the privilege of eliminating six pictures from the lower allocations in any or all towns contracting for fifty-one pictures. It is understood that the lump sum of the agreement, $53,000 will be broken down and allocated against the various groups of features and shorts; the exhibitors required to make the allocations against each town. And they have signed individual contracts prepared by the distributor in Oklahoma City. Then the exhibitor is required to play or pay for twenty-five per cent of the features and shorts in each situation, each thirteen weeks; and then the starting date of the contract in twenty situations is fixed at October 15, 1933, and the balance of the towns begin November 15, 1933, and subsequent runs when and as available.

"It is understood and definitely agreed that the exhibitor is not required to date or play pictures in order of release, in the towns and theaters where the exhibitor has not contracted for the product, the exhibitor is required to select or reject pictures within ninety days after national release date." That is the date on which the pictures become generally available. And the commitment excludes foreign made pictures.

622 The three-year franchise that I have referred to is RKO 44–A to S, inclusive; that is the deal that was made for the three seasons beginning with '35–36 and ending with '37–38.

The COURT. What is the date?

Mr. WRIGHT. This is dated March 19, 1935, and that is a three-year franchise deal between RKO and the defendant corporations, except Westex, which was not then organized, and certain interests affiliated with them, operating other theaters in Oklahoma and Texas, and this covers the entire fifty features and thirty-six shorts, thirty-six two-reel shorts, thirty-six one-reel shorts, for first run in the towns that are listed on pages G and D; then thirty-two features and a number of shorts are licensed for exhibition in another group of towns, and twenty-six features and some shorts are licensed for exhibition in a third group of towns which are listed on page E, and the features described are those generally released by the distributor for the seasons I have mentioned, '35-36, through '37-38.

The agreement excludes the color features and Pathe News is also excluded; and there is an agreement, and I believe, your Honor, it will become significant in connection with the testimony of one of the witnesses:

"It is further agreed that the Kiowa Theater of 623 Hobart, Oklahoma, is to be added to this franchise agreement effective with the 1936-37 season at rentals that are agreed upon and included herein as part of schedule 'A' commitment of 45 feature length photoplays, 36 two-reel short subject photoplays, and 36 one-reel short subject photoplays".

We expect to show that the exhibitor who had then been RKO's customer in Hobart, this product by this agreement was taken away from him and included in the franchise deal without his having being given, of course, any opportunity to even negotiate for a continuance of his run.

Then on page F there are 45 features and some shorts licensed for three other specified towns. The general provision is that for the number of playing dates, shall be one to four. The total rental to be paid is $62,000 odd for the features and about $7600 for the shorts. I beg pardon, $7600 for the two-reel shorts and about $4000 for the one-reel shorts, making a total commitment of $74,000, which is to be paid in installments at the rate of about $700 a week for ten weeks beginning in September of '33, then $2000 per week for ten weeks, beginning in November of '33, and $1400 a week for 32 consecutive weeks, then finishing out the year. There is also a provision for a refund or credit in the event all features licensed are not released, and then a schedule classifying the features released in groups of four for Class A, eight for Class B, ten for Class C, and 624 twenty-eight for Class D; then the features in each group are allocated in the schedules among the towns covered by the license. Then similar provisions are made for the '36–37 and the '37–38 seasons, of the increase in the total rental of each year, the rental for '36–37 to be about $83,000 and for '37–38, a total of $87,000.

There is also the provision on page J that in the event the exhibitor decides to close his theaters in any town, he is relieved of the commitment in that town providing, however, that their weekly payments are kept up as provided in the agreement, unless there is a permanent closing and then he receives a credit, and foreign made pictures are excluded and defined.

The statement about clearances is that it will be mutually agreed upon, subject to any zoning and clearance schedule which may be adopted pursuant to the code of fair competition for the motion picture industry and any clearance herein provided for shall be deemed modified in accordance with any such schedule. That was the set-up under the National Recovery Act.

625 Then there is a provision for the subsequent run theaters operated in Oklahoma City, and a provision as to the time in which the prints are to be made available to the theaters covered by the circuit, one-third covers 23 days of the total release; the other third covers 46 days and the last third 70 days of the general release, and the agreement found in the other master deals with towns in New Mexico which are to be served from the Dallas exchange. 11- An agreement that if the exhibitor shall, during the term of that agreement open additional theaters in any of the towns covered herein, with the exception of Oklahoma City, any of the feature photoplays, short subject photoplays, may be exhibited therein any place in any of the theaters herein. In other words, they give the circuit complete flexibility to transfer product from such theaters as they might drop those they might acquire. The terms and conditions of the standard form are incorporated and controlled, subject, of course, as modified by the typewritten agreement, and this is signed in the name of the three corporate defendants, Griffith Amusement Company, R. E. Griffith, Consolidated Theaters, by R. E. Griffith, and also signed by him on behalf of the dozen or so affiliated operators whose theaters are included in the deal. The schedules I don't think need to be referred to in any detail. They are similar to those we have already discussed. I offer that in evidence.

626 The Court. We will recess at this time until 2:00 o'clock.

Mr. Rice. In yesterday's transcript beginning with Exhibit 137, they are marked Plaintiff's Exhibits. They should have been marked Plaintiff's Exhibits for identification from then on.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 181, for identification, is an agreement by R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., Raymond O. Bartlett, individually, and as trustee, and covers operation of the Cactus and Tower Theaters in Carlsbad, New Mexico, dated July 1, 1940.

(Hereupon Court adjourned until 2:00 o'clock p. m. this day.)

627 AFTERNOON SESSION

May 10, 1945, 2:00 o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS

Mr. COCHRAN. Your Honor please, I have here a few cases which I would like to call to your Honor's attention, in connection with the Interstate case. I will hand you the list. I have given the Government's counsel a copy.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, in connection with the documents I have offered and which are already admitted, RKO–43 and RKO–44, those are respectively the so-called short deal for the '34–35 product and the franchises for the three succeeding seasons, I want to offer a letter marked RKO–11, pages A to C inclusive, which is dated February 23, 1935, New York, New York, addressed to Mr. Griffith and is unsigned, but bears the notation at the bottom "O. K. R. E. Griffith", in his handwriting. The stipulation with respect to this document says only that it is a document which was found in the files of the RKO Company and produced by them pursuant to subpoena and we offer it not as an actual agreement, the agreements being reflected 628 in the documents I have already offered, but merely as explanatory of the negotiations.

Mr. COCHRAN. We are objecting to that document for the reason that it is not a signed agreement, and the agreement, whatever the negotiations were prior to that time, is reflected in the instrument which was duly signed. That is the reason we didn't agree to this document.

The COURT. Overruled, let it be admitted, and an exception allowed. It perhaps would not be prejudicial, if covered by a later contract.

Mr. WRIGHT. Then the next document that will be offered is RKO 45, consisting of pages A to E inclusive. That is an agreement between RKO and the four corporate defendants and their affiliated theaters.

The COURT. What is the date?

Mr. WRIGHT. It is dated May 14, 1937, and refers to a group of towns evidently acquired since the original franchise covering that period was made.

629 The towns are listed on page A and the agreement is to pay approximately $6500 for pictures to be played for the period September 1, 1936, to September 1, 1937, to be selected from the 1936-37 product, and that is broken down by character of the films.

There is a provision that the exhibitor shall have the privilege of using short subjects to apply against the money commitment of $6,585. That was the commitment I referred to as having been made in lieu of features where such is necessary in order to met this commitment. The rentals to be agreed on the same as the 1937-38 short product.

There is a provision whereby the distributors and exhibitors agree generally on the reclassification of the product and the payments as the pictures are played, and the amounts allocated to the respective pictures for the respective theaters, the full payment to be made in any event by September 1, 1937, and the agreement excludes "March of Time" and Disney cartoons, and certain other special shorts.

Then it is agreed that attached allocation sheets showing the breakdown on the feature product for each situation, the number of days of exhibition of each subject, and so forth, and shall be part of the agreement, and it is again understood there is no commitment as to the amount
630 of product to be played in individual towns, the money commitments and obligation over the circuit as a whole, the minimum or maximum of the amount of product used in individual towns will be jointly computed in arriving at the total money commitment.

It is also understood the exhibitor is not required to play films in the order of release and foreign pictures are excluded, and the license agreement is incorporated by reference.

The schedule for the towns is attached as page (D) and the standard form of license in front of it is page (E). I offer that in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. Did you state that covered non-franchise towns?

A. I said on its face I don't think it describes them, but I believe they will appear from the other evidence later. these towns acquired since the franchise was made.

Mr. COCHRAN. At any rate, they are towns not covered by the franchise with RKO, which was executed and which has been referred to as RKO A to F.

Mr. WRIGHT. It appears on the face of the exhibit. I take it that will be admitted.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. I next offer an agreement of the same date, May 14, 1937, which has been marked RKO–47, A to 631 F, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. What are you doing with No. 46?

Mr. WRIGHT. I am trying to offer these in chronological order rather than in the order of the exhibit numbers.

Mr. COCHRAN. In (A) to what?

Mr. WRIGHT. (A) to (F) inclusive. That, as I said, bears the same date as RKO.

632 Mr. COCHRAN. Is that a duplicate?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, I think it covers certain additional towns under the Westex Theaters.

Mr. COCHRAN. No, I think the difference is, Mr. Wright, that RKO–45 covers the same towns, but as to the product of the 1936-37 season, and this is the product of the 1937-38 season.

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, it also appears on the first page, A, of both of those agreements that there are towns listed under Westex Theaters, Inc., on RKO–47 which do not appear in the similar listing on RKO–45.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's right; there are some variations as to the towns, because hardly any of these contracts, I believe none of these contracts, cover all of the towns. There is a variation in the towns.

Mr. WRIGHT. In any event, the towns covered by each are listed on the face there, page A, and in this agreement, RKO–47, is the same parties and dates as the other. The agreement is to pay RKO a minimum guarantee of $23,500 odd for the pictures released in the '37–38 product, to be played between November 1, 1937, and October 1, 1938; and the other provisions, the general provisions, I think, are substantially identical with those that are found in RKO–45. We offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit 47.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

633 Mr. WRIGHT. RKO 46, A to E, for identification, is an agreement dated September 16, 1938, between RKO, the two Dallas corporate defendants and several of their affiliates, which covers the towns listed on the first two pages, and which provides for a minimum guarantee of approximately $40,000 for pictures to be played and paid for in the named theaters; the schedules shows the names of the towns with the theaters in each, within the period from November 1, '38, to October 31, '39, to be solicited from the following '38–39 product. Then the product is broken down as five "A" features, six "B", nine "C", twenty-eight "D", and six O'Brien westerns with a blanket price for the circuit for each feature. The rest of the provisions I think are substantially similar to RKO–47 and 45, relating to the preceding seasons. The schedule is attached as page D showing the allocations by towns, and "E" is the face of the standard form of license. We offer that in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. They will be admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. That completes the offer with respect to RKO, with the exception of on these forms. We have assembled here all of the forms of agreements, the standard forms, that were used by each of these companies during the period in question. However, inasmuch as part 634 of these standard forms are already in evidence, I think it might be better to simply agree that such of these other forms which have been identified as RKO 67, one to twenty-five inclusive, that either party who may wish to may refer to them and they may be put in evidence, rather than to go into the record at this time all of the forms. Is that agreeable?

Mr. COCHRAN. That is not agreeable. It is agreeable wherever one of these documents that has been offered and admitted in evidence refers to the standard form of contract for that year, and we are objecting to the introduction of that unless they put in the standard form applicable to that period. I don't want every printed form they have, but where it is referred to in the document introduced in evidence, the understanding was that it was to go in to complete the agreement, because they are offering things that are going to be material.

Mr. WRIGHT. So far as we are concerned, we are perfectly content to rely on these provisions here. As I say, it seems to me——

Mr. COCHRAN. (interrupting): That being true, we move to strike each and every one of them because they refer to the standard forms, and part of the standard forms were copied and parts were not, and we made our stipulation based upon the fact that the complete document would be used. Otherwise we move to strike all of the documentary evidence.

635 The COURT. Does each of these contracts refer to the standard form?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, and in most cases the forms are attached. The reason this came about here, instead of photostating all the attached standard form they only photostated the faces.

Mr. COCHRAN. The backs constitute the material part.

The COURT. Are you offering the others?

Mr. WRIGHT. I am perfectly willing to offer all the forms and have them to go in the record if counsel prefers it that way. It seems to me it makes a needlessly complicated record, but if there are going to be objections we will offer them all.

Mr. COCHRAN. We threshed that out at the time of the agreement and I refused to stipulate until they were completed.

Mr. WRIGHT. I offer the standard form, RKO–67, numbered 1 to 25, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is the next one?

Mr. WRIGHT. Fox. I might say, with respect to the RKO offer, that is completed and there were no master agreements produced for the 1938–39 season between RKO and the Oklahoma City defendants and their affiliates, so there was apparently none made for that season.

636 The first Fox document that will be offered is F–2, A to C inclusive, which is a letter agreement dated September 7, 1934, a letter to Mr. R. E. Griffith at New York, signed for Fox by Mr. W. J. Kupper, and also by Mr. Griffith. This simply states: "This will confirm our understanding relative to various points of the negotiations we have just concluded for RKO–K–2 product for the season of 1934–35. K–2 is simply a designation employed by Fox to indicate product of that season."

The contract is based on all the Fox pictures, presuming there will be 52 features, and those 52 are allocated in various rental brackets beginning at $5500 each over the circuit, for the top five brackets and goes down to $742.50 apiece over the circuit for the bottom 18.

Mr. COCHRAN. That doesn't say the whole circuit. It says the following named towns, naming the towns.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is correct. In such circuit towns as are named in the agreement. The towns appear on page A of the letter. Then are listed, first, 31 towns located in Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. Then follows the statement: "In the following ten towns we have a definite understanding there is to be a definite commitment of 44 Fox pictures." Then they have a special arrangement made up for a picture called "Cat's Paw" to be taken first-

637 run in each of the forty situations for a flat rental of $3000 over the forty towns, and for four George O'Brien pictures sold on the basis of $1218 for each picture on one run in the entire forty towns, and then it says that these two units, the "Cat's Paw" and George O'Brien pictures are separate from the regular Fox product contracted for. "It is understood and agreed in these situations where the entire product is bought—" those would be the first thirty-one towns listed there— "you have the right to elimination as set up by the code offers and which is part of our regular contract." Then there is a contract as to score charges that they paid $2.00 a subject for booking in each of the situations, except 18 that are then specifically mentioned. As to those 18 towns it is provided that the price finally agreed upon for the lowest allocated pictures—that is, the lowest bracket on rental application—is to be set up on a minimum of $12 per booking and a proportionate share of this charge shall be set up as a score charge at the rate of $2.00 per subject. As to the Fox news, "We agreed the same situation would be supplied, the same number of runs and the same rentals. Those contracts are to follow the present existing contracts in those situations. We had agreed, however, we might substitute some other town or towns for a town or towns previously contracted and at the same price and run, provided, of course, that the sit-638 uations are comparable." As to the short product the set-up appears to be identical with the '33–34 season's contract. Incidentally we subpoenaed the '33–34 contracts also, but no signed agreement was furnished and I don't believe that is included in the stipulation. We have, also, I think subpoenaed it from the defendants, and it has not been furnished or produced, so we have nothing but the unsigned agreement for the previous season. This page B of this Exhibit F–2 then goes on to provide for repeat runs, which is another name for second or subsequent runs following the first run. It states that as to repeat runs we agree to the following: Lubbock and Shawnee forty pictures at $17.50 each, Chickasha forty at $12.50 each, plus the $2 booking score charge, then some shorts. Then in the following situations we have set up the prices allocated against these for repeat bookings, no definite commitment being agreed upon; however, these would be the prices for all subjects plus the usual $2.00 score charge for booking, and those towns are Bartlesville, $12.50, Enid $17.50 and Okmulgee $12.50 and Pampa $12.50; Then there is the provision with respect to the two subsequent runs in Oklahoma City and the provision that they follow the Warner and the Cooper Publix runs, those are the prior run theaters in Oklahoma City. Then there is an agreement for a third run at Albuquerque at $17.50 per subject plus the 639 score charge. And this paragraph provides: "We also agree to the continuation of the product allowing you to play some subjects out of order of release; however, we further agree that 25% of the commitment will be played in all situations every thirteen weeks; and it is further understood that this privilege is allowed and agreed upon only as a measure and means of expediting bookings to prevent congestion, and is not to be abused". Of course, the possible abuses in that situation, of not playing pictures in the order of release is quite apparent in so far as any following runs are concerned. Under a deal like this, where the circuit towns are the towns included in the deal, I don't have to play the pictures as they are made available. No competitor ever knows until the end of the season which pictures the circuit is going to play under this deal and which it is not, with the result that even though the circuit does not use the entire product in these situations during the season, the extent to which it is made available to the competitors during the season is determined by the circuit rather than by the distributor. And in so far as competitors who might seek to buy subsequent runs are concerned, that is, runs of films which are played first run in the circuit theaters, again, there is no assurance and no obligation here on the part of the exhibitor to play a picture that may be released at the beginning of the season 640 at that time or any later time, so that any subsequent run that was sold to a competitor who was trying to follow one of these runs, he would never know when any particular picture would be released and would be available to him, and that the circuit again, rather than the distributor, would determine the availability of those films, all the films covered by this license.

Mr. COCHRAN. May I make a statement with reference to that, inasmuch as counsel has gone ahead and stated his theory on the order of release, may I state my view of it now or later?

The COURT. You may do so now.

Mr. COCHRAN. It is our contention that this provision in this contract is not any more favorable to the exhibitor than the printed provisions in the standard form of contract which is attached and made a part of it. An examination of those provisions will show that the purpose of that agreement, as stated in my opening statement, was to see that the product was played reasonably in the order of release, or paid for; the distributor wanted pay for his product. This clause here which grants the privilege of playing out of order of release provides that payments shall be made for 25% of the product every thirteen weeks, in other words every quarter it must be paid for a fourth of that product;

641 therefore, so far as the distributor is concerned the purpose of this order of release provision has been complied with. We expect to show that under the printed form of contracts there were no provisions for the exhibitor, other exhibitors, the ordinary exhibitor, to be excused from playing that product in the order of release, providing his account was in good condition, and so forth; in other words, that provision was for the purpose of requiring the product to either be played or paid for in each of the contracts; therefore, it was just a normal provision.

Mr. RICE. On this particular contract, your Honor, I think Mr. Wright unintentionally misquoted it. It doesn't have the provision—it says 25% of the commitment would be played in all situations: it doesn't say paid for, but played in all situations; therefore, they couldn't be held over to the end of the year.

Mr. COCHRAN. Some of them read paid and played, and so forth, but the purpose of all is the same.

The COURT. The contracts would speak for themselves.

Mr. WRIGHT. As far as this privilege is concerned, there is no question but what it was paid for by all the exhibitors, and what they were paying for was a very severe competitive weapon so far as the opposition trying to compete with them is concerned. It did give them control over the opposition booking.

642 Attached to F–2 is a photostat complete, front and back, of a standard form marked F–2–D for identification, which is simply a sample agreement of an individual agreement, the individual agreements which were subsequently entered into pursuant to this master deal for each situation, and we have attached this in acordance with an agreement with counsel that rather than putting in all of the individual agreements which were made pursuant to this deal, we would just put in one representative one and this, I think, was for the town of Ada, which is generally characteristic of the others.

Mr. COCHRAN. You understand, your Honor, that this contract says that individual contracts for each town will be made up and signed, pursuant to this memorandum. The attorneys for the Government wrote me and asked me if I was going to object to the introduction of the memoranda without having the separate agreement, and I told them I would. Then the question came up as to the large number of those separate contracts which, so far as the printed forms were concerned, would be the same and would vary only in the typewritten part, which would be set up in accordance with the allocation agreement so, in order to make it unnecessary to produce all of those separate contracts we agreed that a typical contract might be photostated 643 and that except for the typewritten parts it would be substantially the same for the others, with changes for the amounts and other matters which were written in, which would harmonize with the allocation agreement. Is that correct?

Mr. WRIGHT. Right.

Mr. COCHRAN. My copy only shows one page and somebody is compromising, which is all right, and the one going in is complete.

Mr. WRIGHT. The front of the standard form there is marked F–2–D and the back F–2–E, so I will offer in evidence F–2–A through E, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. The next Fox agreement is marked for identification as F–3–A through C.

The COURT. Now, this F–2–D, that is a form of contract with the exhibitor?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir, the same exhibitors.

The COURT. You mean a contract with each town?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir; make the master agreement first here, and then pursuant to that agreement a license agreement in this standard form is prepared for each town and again signed apparently by the exhibitor and the film company, incorporating the individual rental terms as outlined in the master agreement.

644 The COURT. And made a part of the original contract?

Mr. WRIGHT. It is all a continuous deal.

The COURT. A break-down of the contract?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

645 Mr. COCHRAN. As a matter of fact, the original contract was simply a memorandum, and as they had time they would prepare these separate contracts for each town.

Mr. WRIGHT. The next Fox contract is a letter agreement dated August 22, 1935, marked F–3, pages A to C, inclusive, that has a letter again signed by Mr. Kupper to Mr. R. E. Griffith and addressed to Mr. Griffith, care of the Park Central Hotel, New York.

The COURT. What is the date?

Mr. WRIGHT. August 22, 1935, and it covers the K–3 product for 1935–36.

The COURT. What is K, the number of the film?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is purely an arbitrary designation by Fox for its season's product. They use K–3 to designate the '35–36 product and K–4 to designate the '36–37 product, and so on. The letter reads: "This will confirm our understanding relative to the various kinds of negotiation we have just concluded for K–3 product for the season of 1935–36. The contracts are based on all Fox product, presuming there will be 51 features plus 4 O'Brien pictures." The O'Brien pictures, I believe, are western pictures. "Also the short product for the season will have a separate deal incorporated." Then the 51 features and the O'Brien pictures are allocated in various price brackets for all the towns covered by the agreement, the top three 646 pictures at $750 each; the bottom features at $870 each and the O'Brien pictures at $1560 each, and a total amount of the feature deal is $138,490. Then they agreed to buy shorts in the amount of $18,720. That includes no newsreels and it says, "short subject contracts to be worked out on a weekly payment plan and any shortage on delivery of product is to be deducted." Then as to the newsreels, the contract is $5790 and includes the same situations as the K–2 deal, plus some additional issues that are sent up for those towns recently acquired in the Dallas territory.

Then the towns to be served with features are divided into two lists. Those to be served out of the Dallas office and those served out of the Oklahoma City office, the latter are listed on page A and the former on page B, and the 10 per cent elimination privileges provided in accordance with the regular form, and there is an agreement including the score charge in the feature price. Then there is the following with respect to subsequent runs, that they are to have the privilege of using 30 Fox feature pictures and the price is to be allocated on the first run showing price. The towns which are to have this privilege are as follows, and then are listed eleven towns in Texas and Oklahoma.

Then the statement is made with respect to including the two subsequent runs in Oklahoma City. The 647 foreign pictures are excluded and the deduction is arranged for if the projected number of features are not delivered. The same provision is continued with respect to playing out of order of release in the same form as the prior agreement, and then specially there is an agreement as to the allocations per town per subject as to the prices for features to be set up at "your headquarters". That is "Griffith at Oklahoma City, or immediately upon your request so we can properly bill all subjects immediately." The allocations are divided among the theaters and the films are billed to the theaters in accordance with the allocation. On Twentieth Century Fox that was simply a designation for some of the features released by the Fox Company that year. "We agree to accept the following proposition, first run, in each of the situations listed," and there are three of those allocated at $3,750; four at $2,750; and five at $1,750. I don't think this D is included in our situation. I will omit that. Then, attached to this letter agreement F–3, A to C inclusive, are two forms of the licensing agreements which were later made for each town, one designated as F–3, F–E and F, which includes the front and back respectively of the form used for the Twentieth Century Pictures, and again Ada, Oklahoma, has been used as a sample form. And also attached is the form marked on the front F–3–G and the back F–3–H used in each of the 648 towns for pictures designated as Twentieth Century Fox pictures.

I offer in evidence F–3, A to C, and E to H, inclusive.

We have here a sheet marked for identification as F–4, which is headed "Original Griffith Deal, K–3 product" and shows the allocations for the towns included in the deal. The only stipulation with respect to this sheet is that it was found in the files of the Fox Company and produced pursuant to the subpoena calling for the contract.

The COURT. Is it anything more than a compilation of the contents of the contract?

Mr. WRIGHT. All of it is to show what the various allocations were. F–3 does not show those towns by town allocations on its face, and we offer it simply for the purpose of showing the allocation as per the Fox records.

Mr. COCHRAN. We did not stipulate in regard to those for two reasons. First, it does not appear to be complete, and second, it was not attached to the document which he has been offering. It is a document—whether that is the allocation that was made I do not know, so we do not stipulate it was correct, and there is nothing to show that was the allocation they had in fact made, and it is not complete. It covers only some of the towns.

Mr. WRIGHT. We offer it for what it is worth.

The COURT. Let it be admitted. I think we can 649 save time.

Mr. WRIGHT. The next Fox document is a letter agreement covering 1936–37 or K–4 product dated August, 1936, and marked F–5, A through E inclusive, given in the form of a letter from Mr. Kupper to Mr. Griffith and signed by both Mr. Kupper and Mr. Griffith. Incidentally, with respect to each of these letters, although I believe the names of all the defendant corporations do not appear in the agreements, actually the agreements cover towns in which all of them and many of their associates operate theaters.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is not true as to all of them. I think it is true as to each of the other points you have produced up to the present time. In other words, the material portion, insofar as Fox is concerned, in 1938–39 they did not cover all the towns. In no case did they cover all the towns, but in 1938–39 there was a separate contract for the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated.

Mr. WRIGHT. That will appear when the contracts are offered. This is F–5 and is similar in general terms to the F–3 exhibit that is offered for the preceding season, and based on 52 pictures and 6 westerns; 4 Rogers reissues and it is again divided into rental classifications for each of the various types of features covered. The total amount of the deal is $165,000, and the towns covered are listed on page B according to whether they are served out 650 of the Dallas or Oklahoma City office, and a similar elimination privilege and a subsequent run privilege on 30 pictures in 11 named situations, subsequent runs in Oklahoma City, foreign pictures excluded and a deduction for failure to release all the pictures contracted for, and the same privilege with respect to playing out in order of release, and the allocations per town per subject, and the same provision with respect to that to be set up by the exhibitors at Oklahoma City, and the deal was divided into two groups of towns.

The statement is made that the additional towns acquired since the last deal are listed and incorporated separately, and those are the towns listed on page D of the agreement, and no allocations were produced with respect to this season, although I believe they were subpoenaed.

Mr. COCHRAN. If we had each one of those separate contracts, the necessity for allocation would be eliminated because the full contract is contained in that separate contract. I overlooked the fact we did not have the allocation when we stipulated. I don't care because I think it gives a sufficient idea of what the agreement is for the purposes of the case.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think so. Attached is a sample contract made pursuant to this agreement for the K–4 and it is marked on the front 5–F and on the back F–5–G and 651 again the town is Ada, Oklahoma.

The COURT. That is in two pages, is it?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir. The 5–F is the front and F–5–G is the back.

Mr. COCHRAN. I thought where there was a second run we were going to have one of each.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it would be a good idea. In any event we will offer what we have.

Mr. COCHRAN. I think our agreement for two contracts applied as to 1938–39.

Mr. WRIGHT. I wanted to call attention to the fact under the terms of the agreement made heretofore, that is, for the 1935–36 and 1936–37 seasons, those are the exhibits just introduced there under minimum of admission price restrictions in the master agreement sheet sample, individual license form.

Mr. COCHRAN. For what season?

Mr. WRIGHT. These are for '35–36 and '36–37. I believe they were contained in the prior season, at 10 and 25 cent evening adult admission prices specified.

The next Fox agreement is marked for identification as F–7, A through D, and it is dated September 23, 1937, and is in the same form as the other letter agreement and is signed by Mr. Kupper for Fox and Mr. R. E. Griffith, and relates to the '37–38 deal and breaks down the——

652 The COURT. That is F–6?

Mr. WRIGHT. The exhibit number is F–7. The letter is A through D, inclusive. F–7 is the 1937–38 deal, dated September 23, 1937, and that is based on 55 features and four westerns and two Tarzan specials, and also short product, and then the features are broken down into brackets and the towns are listed which it covers, and a similar elimination of the 10 per cent clause is granted and there is an agreement for subsequent runs in the twelve named towns with the provision that the price is to be allocated on the first run showings. The other provisions with respect to schedules for foreign made pictures, and the payment of the 25 per cent of the total commitment, playing out of order of release and allocations, I think are substantially the same as before.

Then there is a list of 19 towns which are called one theater towns, and for which the commitment is only 42 subjects, and attached to it is a recapitulation marked (E) which shows a total deal of $202,000.

Mr. COCHRAN. There is no agreement in regard to that document. The agreement will speak for itself. This is something that was in the Fox files, but it is not part of the agreement and it is a recapitulation that anybody could make from the contract, if it is correct, but it is not binding on us.

653 Mr. WRIGHT. I merely offered it as a convenient recapitulation. The contract itself does not state the totals. The recapitulation does. For that reason I thought we might use it.

Mr. COCHRAN. No, the defendant objects to the admission of that exhibit on the ground it is not part of the contract and it is not contended it is part of the contract. It is admitted by counsel for the Government that the document referred to as F–7–E was not attached to the contract as it was found in the Fox files, and is a separate document.

Mr. WRIGHT. It was produced with the contract pursuant to the subpoena. We will also offer a letter agreement dated September 24, 1937, which simply supplements the agreement already identified and signed by the parties and I believe covered by the stipulation. That is F–7–F.

The COURT. What was the recapitulation, (E)?

Mr. WRIGHT. The recapitulation was (E), yes. F–7–E.

Mr. COCHRAN. Do you want to state what that is?

Mr. WRIGHT. All it says is "Supplementary to our agreement dated September 23, relative to the K–5 product and to which this becomes attached and part of, as to the four Rogers Reissue productions for the 1937–38 season, 654 we agree the price to be established at $2500 each, with a two picture cancellation to one or all situations and for the situations in accordance with the aforesaid agreement, with the exception of the nineteen (19) one show towns, where there will be a one picture cancellation."

Mr. COCHRAN. In regard to the statement made by Mr. Wright that F–7–E was produced pursuant to subpoena requiring the production of contracts, that document was not produced pursuant to that subpoena but was produced as part of the subpoena which requires the production of any memoranda of——

Mr. WRIGHT. Relating to the contracts.

Mr. COCHRAN. In other words, we have no objection to the introduction of documents which are signed by us, which are documents which involve some action of ours, but where it is some document that Fox has in its files, and with which we had nothing to do, we are objecting to that.

The COURT. It will appear on its face if it is not competent evidence and the Court will disregard it.

Mr. WRIGHT. The next agreement we have offered is this standard form that was executed for Ada, Oklahoma, subsequently that is marked F–7–Y on the front and Z on the back, which is representative of the forms that were made pursuant to the agreement.

655 Mr. COCHRAN. Is that E–6?

Mr. WRIGHT. This is group K–5, '37–38 season.

Mr. COCHRAN. F and G?

Mr. WRIGHT. F–7, Y and Z. In the intervening letters there is a whole series of correspondence.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right Y and Z.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. I again call attention to the fact there appears to be no minimum admission prices filled in here either. Then for the '38–39 season, there are two letter agreements, one for the Oklahoma companies and their affiliates, and the other for the Dallas companies and theirs; the first one dated August 8, 1938, is marked F–8, A to C, inclusive, and is a letter from Kupper to Horace Falls of the Griffith Amusement Company, Oklahoma City, and accepted by Falls, which is for 52 features, and then lists the towns, lists eight towns, for which the terms are given somewhat similar to the others, except that in this agreement, I believe, for the first time there are pictures to be played on percentage in those towns.

Mr. COCHRAN. Eighteen instead of eight.

Mr. WRIGHT. The top six pictures are to be played at thirty-five per cent each; that is, the rental is thirty-five per cent of the gross receipts; the next eight at thirty per cent; the next twelve at twenty-five per cent; and then the last twenty-six pictures are at varying flat rentals.

656 Mr. COCHRAN. You said there were eight, when there were eighteen.

Mr. WRIGHT. Eighteen is right.

Mr. KIMP. Seventeen.

Mr. COCHRAN. Seventeen, all right.

Mr. WRIGHT. Then, in another group of towns, classified on page D, classified on page D as B situations, the terms are stated, which call for flat rentals only, varying with the various feature classifications, from $2,185 each down to $359.50 each; then the following situations which are subsequent run showings, we agree to take picture commitments on the following basis, subsequent runs, ten are to be played at $450, eight at $245, and eight at $205. Those blanket prices cover the second run or subsequent run in thirteen named Oklahoma and Texas cities, plus the two subsequent runs in Oklahoma City. Then the same general provisions, as to excluding foreign pictures, granting the ten per cent elimination privilege where the whole product is bought, and providing that in six towns the commitment is for only 42 features, and a continuation of the privilege of playing out of order of release, and the twenty-five per cent quarterly payment of the total commitment and the allocation of the rentals among the towns by the exhibitors in Oklahoma City. Then attached to this letter agreement is a standard form for that 657 season, F–8–D on the front and E on the back for Ada, Oklahoma, which is a representative form of those made in all of the situations covered, which again contains no minimum admission price restriction.

The deal with the Dallas defendants is August 24, 1938, another letter agreement marked F–10–A to D, inclusive a letter from Kupper to Mr. Griffith, signed by Mr. Griffith, and is similar, I believe, to the other agreement, except that this covers different towns, that is Griffith for the Westex towns, and the terms for the features are all on flat rentals.

The COURT. Did you offer F–9?

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't believe I did. I was going to offer it with this one. Both of them over the '38–39 season.

The COURT. All right.

Mr. WRIGHT. This agreement has the same provision as the others about playing out of order of release and paying the total commitment quarterly, and similar allocations privileges and break-down provisions for incorporating individual contracts. Attached to this we have a sample form executed pursuant to that agreement, which is marked F–10–E on the front and F on the back, which is for Roswell, New Mexico, and contains no admission price restrictions. Now, then, we will offer the complete set of 658 standard forms that have been assembled. F–96–1 through 19, inclusive.

The COURT. Is that F–11?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is F–96, 1 to 19, inclusive which covers all the standard forms involved. That, I think, completes the Fox offer.

The COURT. You didn't offer F–9?

Mr. WRIGHT. No. F–9 wasn't offered. The next Company is Loew's. This entire stack here should all be marked as admitted, physically.

The COURT. Let's see it begins there, with P–3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 46, 42, 43, 44, 11, 45, 46, 67; Fox F, 2, 3, 4, 5. 7, 8, 10, 96, are all admitted in evidence.

Mr. WRIGHT. Now the Loew agreements begin with the five-year franchise marked L–1–A to D, which is a memorandum agreement dated May 8, 1930.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is the number?

Mr. WRIGHT. L–1–A to D. The memorandum is signed on behalf of Consolidated Theaters, Inc., and Griffith

Amusement Company and Walmur Amusement Company by R. E. Griffith, and by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation by a signature that I cannot make out. Do you know who that is?

Mr. COCHRAN. W. J. Zoellner (spelling) Z-o-e-l-l-n-e-r.

Mr. WRIGHT. The first paragraph simply sets
659 forth, this is headed details of agreement for a five-year franchise beginning with the 1931-32 season, and paragraph 1 sets forth the towns in Oklahoma and Texas, that it covers. It specifies second run in Enid.

Mr. COCHRAN. You stated it details that franchise beginning with the '31–32 season, when it is '30–31.

Mr. WRIGHT. What's that?

Mr. COCHRAN. The franchise begins with '30-31 instead of '31-32.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think you misunderstood me, I mean '30–31.

Mr. COCHRAN. What did you get, Mr. Reporter?

(Previous statement read by the reporter.)

Mr. WRIGHT. It should be '30-31. And the second run downtown or third run city in Oklahoma City based upon 52 features, for which there is a guaranteed film rental of $125,000 for such year; for the next year the guarantee is an increase of 10%, and then 5% for each year thereafter. The product to be paid for on a weekly basis. The exhibitors have the right to eliminate not to exceed five pictures each year from the total of 52, and for each such picture eliminated the distributor receives one-half of the average film rental allocated against the picture.
660 The exhibitor must elect to eliminate within 90 days after the nationally advertised release date. Then there is a provision for sharing, which reads as follows: "The distributor agrees that the exhibitor is to have his operating overhead plus a profit of 70% of the guaranteed film rental paid to the distributor after which time the grosses in excess of those amounts to be divided equally, 50% to the exhibitor and 50% to the distributor." The agreement is thus simply a profiteering agreement where, after the exhibitor has received a certain amount of net profit in showing the films, then the excess profits are split between the distributor and the exhibitor. Then there is a provision that in computing exhibitor's home office operating expense, it is agreed that this item shall not exceed an average of 4% of the grosses during the five years. In this connection we will offer the agreements which show that these affiliated situations which were receiving the benefit of this group licensing paid 4% of the gross to one of the defendant companies for that privilege, and that is charged as an expense. It is agreed that there should be a proportionate reduction in the event that less than 52 features are released, and then the distributor has the privilege of auditing the exhibitor's books so that the expense figures can be established, if necessary to compute that profit sharing film rental, 661 if any. Then, there are detailed auditing provisions.

Paragraph 12 provides that if certain towns are disposed of during the life of the franchise the exhibitor is liable for the total amount of the revenue allocated as film rentals against that town or towns for the ensuing year.

In 13 it provides that in the event the exhibitor acquires any additional town or towns, it is mutually agreed that those can be added to the franchise agreement and it is understood between the exhibitor and distributor that the rental for those additional towns are to be agreed upon, the total amount of the rental involved in an added town is to be added to the guaranteed price, the guaranteed film rental, and it is understood that the agreements covering the features and shorts in all situations for which the franchise is being made will apply to the additional situations acquired.

Mr. COCHRAN. To the additional situations acquired if it is agreed that they shall be added.

Mr. WRIGHT. I read the entire thing. The short product is then covered, and the number of days the product may be exhibited, the features and shorts, is one to four days in certain listed towns, and two to five days in certain other listed towns and for additional days the exhibitor is to pay an additional pro rata rental. Then this fran-662 chise was modified by a series of amendments, the first of which is dated April 20, 1933, and is in the form of a letter from Conners of the distributor to L. C. Griffith and signed by Conners and Griffith.

The COURT. What is that number?

Mr. WRIGHT. The number on that is L–1, C and D. In order to have these chronologically I ought to first offer L–1–G, which is, I believe, the first amendment in point of time; that is dated October 20, 1932, and is a letter agreement from Conners to R. E. and L. C. Griffith signed by L. C. Griffith and Conners. This provides for certain reductions in certain towns and the elimination of certain towns from the franchise. Then the agreement I have previously described, marked L–1–C was made on April 20, 1933, which provides for certain modifications of rental terms, changing the profit sharing arrangement to straight gross percentages of the gross receipts in certain situations for certain pictures and modifying the elimination privileges, and it has the provision requiring the playing of the films in the order of national release, and then there is some provisions for reductions on short subjects.

The next modification is L–2–A through C, which is a letter agreement dated September 12, 1934, and signed by Conners and R. E. Griffith; and it sets forth the understanding for change of terms in respect to the '33–
663 34 and the '34–35 product. Those are the last two years of the five-year deal.

Then it again provides for the payment of percentages of the gross receipts, instead of profit sharing, and an elimination of certain pictures from each percentage bracket. It again provides that the feature pictures are to be played in all situations in the order of territorial release, this time. The other referred to national release. And the playing arrangement is specified to be a proportionate share of the playing time in each situation. For example, if there are three changes a week in a situation, one-third of the product to be played on each change, it being understood as a minimum that we are to have thirty per cent of our product played on week-ends, including either a Saturday or a Sunday showing. By thirty per cent pictures it refers to those on which the rental was thirty per cent of the gross.

Mr. COCHRAN. You omitted the first part of that.

Mr. WRIGHT. Which?

Mr. COCHRAN. No. 2, the elimination part, right at the bottom of the page.

Mr. WRIGHT. Page what?

Mr. COCHRAN. The first page, in the last paragraph on the page.

Mr. WRIGHT. I mentioned that there were certain 664 elimination privileges. I didn't undertake to recite them in detail.

Mr. COCHRAN. Proceed.

Mr. WRIGHT. Then there is a section similar to the one dealing with the 1934–35 product. The provisions I just read dealt with the '33–34 product. And then there is a provision that the eliminations there provided are in lieu of any privilege of elimination under the code of fair competition for the motion picture industry or otherwise.

The final paragraph provides that a regular form of contract is to be signed in this case for each theater covered. The others are for each situation or town. And the sample form that has been attached here is marked L–2–D on the face and E on the back, and is a contract for first run at the McSwain-Ritz Theaters at Ada, Oklahoma.

The COURT. What letter is that?

Mr. WRIGHT. That relates to the letter agreement of September 12, 1934.

The COURT. L–2–A to Z?

Mr. WRIGHT. L–2–A to Z. That agreement provides for the making of individual license agreements for the '34–35 season for each theater covered, and this is a sample. This contains the individual rental terms and restates 665 the provision that features are to be played in the order of territorial release, and also contains admission price restrictions; the evening adult prices specified are 25 cents at the McSwain, and 15 cents at the Ritz. That I think, completes the modifications of the franchise.

L–2–A to Z, L–2–D and E, are offered in evidence. I am offering all of L–1–A and B, L–1–G, L–1–C and D, L–2–A, through E, inclusive. Is there any objection?

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. They will be admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. The next agreement is one dated September 12, 1934, the same date of the modification, the last modification of the franchise, and is a letter between—signed by Conners and R. E. Griffith, marked L–3–A to C, inclusive. This reads as follows: "The following sets forth our understanding of the terms for each of your non-franchise situations as per list attached in respect to the '34–35 features and short product." The last prior exhibit covered the modifications of the franchise situation for '34–35 product. Then it sets forth the provisions for playing features on percentage terms and according to various franchises ranging from 35% down to 20% of the gross, and there is a guaranteed rental of $20,000 for the franchise and non-franchise situations. If the percentage on these two pictures for which there is a guar-666 anteed rental of $20,000, the two pictures are licensed at 35% of the gross, and there is a $20,000 rental guarantee, and if the percentage exceeds the $20,000 guarantee, the balance of the receipts are to be shared 50–50. The others are a straight percentage agreement.

667 This again provides that the pictures are to be played in the order of territorial release, and has the same provisions for the proportionate Saturday and Sunday playing time, and then also provides that individual contracts for each theater and situation are to be signed on the regular form contract. Exhibit C leases the so-called non-franchise situations, which are ten towns in Oklahoma and New Mexico, and of course, this covers the same season as the last exhibit there, and we haven't added any additional standard form. The form that would apply to this L–3, A to C, inclusive, is the one that is designated as L–2, D and E.

The COURT. D and E are contracts?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, the individual theater contracts. Then the document marked L–4, A to H, inclusive, is a letter agreement with attachments, signed by Mr. T. J. Connor of Loew and R. E. Griffith for the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theaters, R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and their affiliated companies.

Mr. COCHRAN. E and F are not included in the situation.

Mr. WRIGHT. Perhaps we had just better offer A through D first then, and describe that.

The COURT. What is the date of that?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is dated August 27, 1935, and 668 covers the 1935–36 features and shorts.

The COURT. You are offering A and L?

Mr. COCHRAN. A to D.

Mr. WRIGHT. The agreement provides for general rental of shorts and features of $168,000 and in addition, $5000 is paid for first run exhibitions, in the 51 listed situations in the schedule marked A and for second and subsequent run in the 13 situations listed in the schedule marked B, and the individual allocations for the feature product are shown on the work sheets, and this agreement provides for the first time in the Loew series that the exhibitor is permitted to play the product out of order of release, but guarantees to "completely exhibit or pay in full for each feature and for each one and two reel production not later than 13 weeks after schedules release date, and for news and trailers as billed."

It also provides for the execution of individual contracts on the regular printed form, in this case for each situation or each theater, and there is to be no elimination privilege.

Unreleased pictures that are not designated in the work sheet by title or by personalities and allocated at a $900 or $1,200 rental are to come equally from each such allocation. Foreign pictures are excluded, and then the schedules are attached including the Griffith Amuse-
669 ment Company situation, the Consolidated Theaters situation, R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and a number of so-called affiliated situations.

Schedule B provides for second and subsequent run, and second run and 11 named and 6 second run in Oklahoma City, 30 features, 30 two-reel shorts, 30 one-reelers to be selected, the same number of days as at present. I take it there is no objection to A through D.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. Then L-4, I and J is a sample of 1935-36 feature printed form agreement which was provided for in the document just introduced as to each situation. This contains the minimum price restrictions of 10 cents for children, 15 cents for adults, matinee and evening.

L-5-A to D inclusive, is a letter agreement from Connor to R. E. Griffith and to Horace Falls signed by R. E. Griffith and dated September 22, 1936. This covers the 1936-37 season and provides for the cancellation of unreleased '35-36 product, and is included in this agreement for release during this period. The prices to be paid are different flat rentals in various classifications, $12000 each for the top four, running down to $1100 for the bottom 11, and the total amount of the deal is $198,450. The exhibitor is to pay for the feature product as exhibited 670 but has to play it in order of release and guarantees to completely exhibit it or pay in full for each feature not later than 17 weeks after scheduled general release date and for news and trailers as billed. It also provides for the signing of individual contracts for each situation on the regular printed form. Clearance to be the same as for the 1935-36 season. Then the exceptions covered are outlined on the schedules, pages C and D, for the first run; news service on E; trailers on page F and second and subsequent runs are played on page G where second run is licensed in eleven towns in Oklahoma and Texas, 72 subsequent runs in Oklahoma City. That covers 30 features and 90 releases of shorts; film rentals for the above to be included in the first run film rentals with the exception of the two Oklahoma City subsequent runs, which rentals have been allocated.

Then H is an unsigned recapitulation which shows a total of $231,000; for the feature deal alone the total is $198,000.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that document, because the latter part of the contract is not signed by the defendants.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

Mr. KIME. It is stipulated.

Mr. COCHRAN. If it is stipulated the objection will be withdrawn.

671 Mr. WRIGHT. I is an agreement dated September 23, 1936, signed by R. E. Griffith and Connor for Metro in which an agreement was made with respect to the various films licensed shall be allocated in the rental bracket, four are to be $12,000; six at $7500; six at $56,000; seven at $4000, with the provision that these are to correspond with the distributors national allocation, and the last provision provides that the seven designated at $4000 each are to be designated at this price only if they are delivered nationally as 25 per cent pictures. That is, if Loew would charge nationally 25 per cent of the gross receipts. This arrangement does not apply to "Piccadilly Jim" and "His Brother's Wife." Then the attached is a sample form for the 1936–37 season marked L–5, J and K, and this sample form contains no minimum admission price restrictions.

(Hereupon court adjourned until 10 o'clock a. m., May 11,.1945.)

672 PROCEEDINGS

May 11, 1945, 10 o'clock a. m.

The COURT. You may proceed.

Mr. KIME. If the Court please, continuing the offering of exhibits from the Metro stipulation, L–6, A to L, which has been stipulated, and I and J, which have not been stipulated but will be offered because it is a part of the same contract.

This is a contract between the Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theaters, Incorporated, R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and other affiliated interests and Loew's Incorporated, dated August 25, 1937, providing among other things that it covers first run exhibits for the 1937–38 theater product generally released by Loew's, and provides that it shall consist of not less than 44 or more than 52 features, the runs and number of exhibition dates are shown on the attached schedule including second and subsequent runs. The total amount of the contract as figured at that time was $232,587. It provides the distributor shall have the privilege of designated rental classifications that shall apply to each picture on a national basis, and that the exhibitor shall have the privilege of eliminating 10 per cent of the total number of feature productions released, and those eliminations shall be made equally between certain 673 classifications. Also the exhibitors to pay for feature product as exhibited and permitted to play said feature product out of order of release, and guarantees to completely exhaust or pay for any C–1 feature production not later than 17 weeks after national release date. The exhibitor to sign individual contract for each situation on Loew's standard forms and the clearance to be the same as obtained during the preceding season. Signed by T. J. Connor on behalf of Loew's and R. E. Griffith on behalf of all the exhibitors.

674 Page C of that number provides for second and subsequent runs in twelve situations in Oklahoma City; it provides the film rentals for the above runs are included in the first run film rentals with the exception of the two subsequent runs in Oklahoma City against which rentals have been allocated.

Page G provides for the term of the run in each location, and provides the play time for the top four may be increased not to exceed two days, which would be six days if the exhibitor so desired, and the next sixteen may be increased one day, which would mean that the exhibitor could exhibit it for five days, if he so desired. The recapitulation show that the total is $265,540.50, instead of $232,587.00 as estimated in the main portion of the contract.

Mr. COCHRAN. What page is that you are referring to?

Mr. KIME. Page H. Pages I and J have not been stipulated, but clearly show that it is the allocation I mentioned in the contract and we offer that, plus K and L, which is the individual situation contract which, in this instance, is for the town of Ada, and does not fix any admission prices but provides that the exhibitor has the privilege of prevue of any of the above subjects.

Mr. COCHRAN. Those that you said had not been agreed to?

675 Mr. KIME. I and J.

Mr. COCHRAN. Let's see what you have there (referring to exhibit).

Mr. KIME. For four A pictures as provided on page A of the contract.

Mr. COCHRAN. Was that attached to the contract and filed?

Mr. KIME. That I cannot say. I didn't take it from the files, but it clearly keys in and is no doubt the allocations provided in the contract.

Mr. COCHRAN. Inasmuch as this shows that it is not an allocation sheet but shows that it is an office work sheet, we make no objection.

The COURT. It may be admitted.

Mr. KIME. The next one is L–7, A to H inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. Just a moment, do you intend to offer the standard contract?

Mr. KIME. I did, I included that.

Mr. COCHRAN. What are those numbers?

Mr. KIME. In that one I think it was K and L. (Referring to Exhibit), that's right. All of which has been stipulated except page G, which I will detach. This is a contract between R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., Westex Theaters, Inc., signed by R. E. Griffith.

Mr. COCHRAN. Wait just a minute, I still haven't 676 gotten that standard form of contract.

Mr. KIME. Excuse me.

Mr. COCHRAN. On these matters, your Honor, that were not included, in the original stipulation, I don't have them marked.

Mr. KIME. Dated August 25.

Mr. COCHRAN. L-6?

Mr. KIME. L-6-K on the front and marked L-6-7 on the back.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right.

Mr. KIME. This is dated September 9, 1938, and provides, among other things, that it is for first run exhibition of the '38-39 season's product for not less than 44 nor more than 52 features.

Mr. COCHRAN. Did you say with whom that was?

Mr. KIME. Yes, sir, I did.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right.

Mr. KIME. And that the exhibitor agrees to exhibit in the situations for the number of days shown on the attached schedule A, for a total amount as here estimated of $69,026, distributor to have the privilege of designating the rental classifications which shall apply to those pictures released on a national basis and exhibitor has the privilege of eliminating 10% of the feature productions, the eliminations to be made equally between two classifications, the ex-677 hibitor to pay for the feature production as exhibited, but is permitted to play such feature production out of order of release and guarantees to complete exhibit or pay in full for each feature production not later than seven weeks after national release date, clearance to be the same as provided in the last contract. The exhibitor is to sign each individual contract for each situation on Loew's printed form. It is understood this agreement and the conditions of printed forms shall constitute the agreement. The recapitulation shows $81,696.96 instead of the $6926.00 on page A. Page D of this exhibit shows the situations and the theaters and the runs, as does E, which also provides that the exhibitor has the right to play the four top pictures for two additional days which gives him the right to, in some instances, play them five days in succession, and one additional day on the minors, which means four days spread.

Page H is the allocation. Page I is the individual situation contract for the town of Roswell, New Mexico, dated 10-6-38 and provides a minimum——

Mr. COCHRAN. As to H, we object to the admission of that for the reason it is not stipulated. You didn't mention G, did you?

Mr. KIME. No, I didn't mention G because it is not stipulated. I thought H was stipulated.

678 Mr. COCHRAN. No, H was not stipulated.

Mr. KIME. You are right. It was not stipulated. Let's see what it is. I submit, your Honor, these allocations as made from the contract and the page itself, show there were four feature productions allocated to the towns as shown on pages D and E of the exhibit, and that eight productions, four series of eight productions, one of ten shown on (A) and one of six, and the totals shown on that.

We offer L–7, A to F, H, I and J.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the offer as a whole for the reason that some of them are stipulated and others are not.

The COURT. All are stipulated except H?

Mr. KIME. All are stipulated except H.

Mr. COCHRAN. There is no I in that stipulation.

Mr. KIME. I is the individual stipulated contract for the town of Roswell, New Mexico, dated 10–6–38, providing minimum admission prices shall be 10 and 15 cents and a prevue privilege of features and junior features.

Mr. COCHRAN. November 4, 1938?

Mr. KIME. That is when it was approved.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is the L–7?

Mr. KIME. L–7, I, and the back is J.

The COURT. Objection overruled, exception allowed. Let it be admitted.

679 Mr. KIME. The next one is designated as L–8, A to N. The stipulation covers all except I, J, K, and L, which I will eliminate, leaving A to H, inclusive, and M and N, which is the individual situation contract, dated November 17, 1938, for Ada, Oklahoma. The individual situation contract is dated November 17, 1938. The main contract is dated October 15, 1938, signed on behalf of the Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theaters', Inc., and affiliated theaters by H. R. Falls and bearing the initials of T. J. C., for T. J. Connors of Loew's, Incorporated. This provides among other things that it is for the first run exhibition of the 1938-39 season feature product released by Loew's, except "Gone With The Wind." The runs and number of exhibition days are shown on the attached schedule, including second and subsequent runs for a total of there estimated $174,880, the recapitulation showing a total of $201,759.00, as shown on page C. It provides the distributors will have the privilege of designating classifications that shall apply to each picture on a national basis. The exhibitor has the privilege of eliminating the 10 per cent of feature production, the exhibitor to pay for feature productions as exhibited, and to play it out of order of release and to pay for it in full not later then seventeen weeks after national release date, the exhibitor signing individual contracts. The clearance to 680 be the same as preceding season, which was the same as the two preceding ones as per the last three contracts.

Page D is the subsequent run sheet referred to in the main portion of the contract and provides 13 second run situations, in addition to Oklahoma City, and provides film rentals for the above runs are included in the first run film rentals, with the exception of Oklahoma City.

Page E sets out the towns and runs and provides that play time may be increased two days on the top four and one day on the next sixteen, which increases it to five days in succession on the top four pictures if the exhibitor so desires.

We offer this Exhibit A to H and M and N.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is that date?

Mr. KIME. The date of the contract is November 17, 1938, and approved by Loew's on December 9, 1938. It does not provide any minimum admission charge, although that gives the right of prevue.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is that next document, October 28? Is that L and A, M on the front and N on the back?

Mr. KIME. That is right. We have the standard forms identified as L–129, one to 19 inclusive, and these have been stipulated, if your Honor please.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

681 The COURT. They will be admitted.

Mr. KIME. The next is the Warner series. These all have been stipulated and are W–3; A to M, inclusive; W–4, A to D inclusive; W–5, B and C.

Mr. COCHRAN. Well, I would rather we take these up separately.

Mr. KIME. I thought I would dispose of the stipulation at one time. I will take them up separately if you desire.

The first one is W–3, A to M, contract dated September 28, 1933, between Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theaters, Inc., R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and Allied Theaters. All of these Warner contracts are in the same one except W–4, which has an additional paragraph thrown in. I had planned to refer to these as a series——

The COURT. Suppose you go over the first one and it will not be necessary to go over the others.

Mr. KIME. All right. This first contract, W–3, provides that it is for all the production of Warner for first and second run, and contains the provision that new towns as acquired may be serviced——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the statement it is first and second run. It is not for feature product first and second run. It specifically shows first and second runs are listed in the schedule.

682 Mr. KIME. "This will constitute the agreement between you and the undersigned in respect to the matters covered herein:

"We hereby grant you and you hereby accept a license and agree to exhibit all Warner Brothers and First National feature motion pictures, excluding 'foreign made' pictures and 'Gold Diggers of 1933,' the scores and trailers in connection with each thereof and all Vitaphone short subjects released for such motion picture season 1933–34 by us."

Mr. COCHRAN. For the specified run or runs set opposite each said town in schedule A, and schedule A is attached, and it shows the towns second run.

Mr. KIME. That doesn't follow. "You will exhibit each motion picture, short subject and trailer in each of the towns listed on the schedule attached hereto, and made a part hereof and marked schedule A, at the respective theaters for the number of days and for the specified run or runs set opposite each town."

Mr. COCHRAN. I submit, when you file schedule A and it shows Ada, Oklahoma, first run, one to three days, and Bartlesville, Oklahoma, first and second run one to four days, that means it is first run in the town where it is listed as first run, and second run in the town where it is listed as second run.

683 The COURT. I think, gentlemen——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting): I just wanted to call your attention to that.

The COURT. The Court will examine them.

Mr. KIME. The statement I made, your Honor please, was that this covered all of the feature releases except "Gold Diggers", I didn't include that, and that, I submit is exactly what the contract provides.

The second paragraph in this contract, and generally throughout this series, provides that the film rental shall be paid $100,000.16, to be paid in equal weekly installments of whatever proportion it bears.

Paragraph 1-B of this exhibit provides that should there be release of less than 52 pictures, then there shall be a reduction in the mathematical formula therein set out.

Paragraph 3 provides that they shall commence the exhibition of each motion picture, short, trailer and so forth on the dates determined as follows, and then they set out a formula: that they shall notify the exhibitor in writing from time to time as they become available, and such available dates may be different for different towns, "and thereafter you agree to give us reasonable notice of the date you want to play, subject to the terms of prior runs and clear-684 ances heretofore or hereafter granted to other exhibitors", and they agree to make each motion picture available, one-third or more, if possible, of the towns served out of each exchange within a period of thirty days, the next one-third in sixty days and the last one-third in ninety days.

Paragraph 4 of this contract, and all of the series except W–4, provides that they shall have the right to prevue each picture.

Paragraph 5 provides that they agree to play all of the pictures licensed first run prior to December 15, 1934, made available, and all second runs prior to February 15, 1935, and none after those dates.

"You agree not to exhibit any motion picture licensed hereunder as part of a double feature."

That is signed for Vitagraph Incorporated by Sears, and for Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated by Falls, and R. H. Griffith by R. E. Griffith, and for the others by Falls and Griffith.

Schedule A sets out the towns, and theaters, the runs, and the period.

Page F is the first page of the standard form; on page C is a contract dated August 24, 1933, between Griffith——

Mr. COCHRAN. Can't we get the standard form for that particular season?

Mr. KIME. I propose to offer all of the standard
685 forms as stipulated at the conclusion, but I can offer them now.

Mr. COCHRAN. It doesn't make any difference just so we can have time to identify them.

Mr. KIME. I will give you the form number, it is 90–W, July 1933, FR–25,000.

Mr. COCHRAN. How do you have it designated, W what? 60 what?

Mr. KIME. W–3–F is marked on the face of Exhibit A, bearing the initials——

Mr. COCHRAN. That is the first sheet.

Mr. KIME. Bearing the initials REG, HRF, and something else.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is the first page, the first sheet of the contract, but that is not the complete standard form for the season 1933–34.

Mr. Kime. I never suggested it was; I said it was the first sheet.

Mr. COCHRAN. I was asking about the complete form. If you don't care to introduce it now, we can take it up later.

Mr. KIME. We don't have the complete form. We agreed to substitute a standard form.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is what I am asking for, the standard form for that particular season. I seem to 686 have difficulty making myself understood.

Mr. KIME. Your Honor please, I will offer what has been designated as W–60, 1 to 11, being all of the standard forms referred to in any of these exhibits, and the one Judge Cochran is now inquiring about in this series is W–60–1.

Mr. COCHRAN. Go ahead.

Mr. KIME. The next contract in this series is one dated August 24, 1933, between Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Company, R. E. Griffith and affiliated interests, signed by R. E. Griffith for all of those named and by Sears for Vitagraph, and provides for the picture "Gold Diggers".

The COURT. What page is that?

Mr. KIME. That is G.

The COURT. That is a part of W–3?

Mr. KIME. Yes, your Honor, G, H, I, J, and L, of that series, L being the first page of the standard form of that same year, which is exactly the same as the standard form on F.

And a further amendment of the contract, dated October 11th, between the same parties, relating to "Gold Diggers" in additional towns.

Mr. COCHRAN. What page is that?

Mr. KIME. M and N, of W–3, and that concludes 687 W–3. That is signed on behalf of the exhibitors by Falls and there is no signature for Vitagraph, but we have been informed that it was exhibited, and we have so agreed, your Honor please. We offer that.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. Admitted.

Mr. KIME. Exhibit W–4 is the only one of this series that contains the additional paragraph data.

The COURT. That is A to G?

Mr. KIME. W–4 A to G, inclusive.

The COURT. And the date.

Mr. KIME. And the date is September 4, 1934, between Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated, R. E. Griffith and affiliated interests, signed by R. E. Griffith for all of the affiliated interests and his own companies, and by Mr. Sears for Vitagraph.

Paragraph 1 of this contract is very similar, if not exactly the same as, and I won't say it is exactly the same, but is in content. It says: "We hereby grant you and you hereby accept a license and agree to exhibit all Warner Bros. and First National feature motion pictures, excluding foreign made pictures, the scores and trailers in connection with each thereof, and all Vitaphone short subjects released for the motion picture season 1934-35 by us.

688 You will exhibit each motion picture short subject and trailer in each of the towns listed on the schedule attached hereto, made a part hereof and marked schedule A at the respective theaters, for the number of days and for the specified run or runs set opposite each town. You will pay us film rental in the amounts of $110,000.28, at certain specified times, for certain mathematical installments of that total amount.

Paragraph 1–B provides: "In addition to the total sum mentioned in subdivision A of this paragraph, you agree to pay us, on or before the 31st day of March, 1936, 50% of the aggregate gross box office and all of the receipts representing admissions derived in all theaters during the exhibition of the feature motion pictures licensed hereunder, after deducting only the following items, applicable to the theaters in which such motion pictures were exhibited, for the number of days during such exhibition took place:

"1. Admission taxes imposed by governmental authority.

"2. Actual rent payable to persons or corporations unaffiliated with you.

"3. Interest on mortgages, if any.

"4. Taxes other than income profit taxes, insurance, license fees, and other governmental or municipal charges.

689 "5. Depreciation and/or amortization of the basis reported by you in your federal income tax report.

"6. Actual operating expenses.

"7. An amount equal to the sum mentioned in subdivision A of this paragraph, minus all deductions under subdivision C of this paragraph, if any.

"8. A sum equal to 50% of the amount defined in subdivision 7 of this paragraph 2 (B).

"9. Fair allowance for home office expense, allocated on the basis of gross box office and other receipts."

On page C, "should there be released for the motion picture season 1934–35 less than a total of 52 Warner Bros. pictures then there shall be deducted the same mathematical formula as obtains in all of these Warner series.

"3. You agree to deliver to us, on or before the 15th day of March 1936, a statement, certified to as correct by a duly authorized officer, showing, with respect to all theaters in which the feature motion pictures licensed hereunder were exhibited during the period of their exhibition.

"A. The gross box office and all receipts representing admissions derived at all such theaters from the exhibition of the feature motion pictures licensed hereunder and 690 "And (b) the amount paid or allowed for each of the deductible items listed in subdivision b of paragraph hereof for all theaters in which such motion pictures licensed hereunder were exhibited for the period of their exhibition.

"We shall have the right for a period of three months after the 31st day of March, 1936, to inspect and audit all your books and records, pertaining to and affecting the exhibition of the motion pictures licensed hereunder, and the theaters in which said exhibition takes place."

Then follows, paragraph 4, which is similar to paragraph marked 3 in all of the other contracts of this Warner series. Now, if your Honor cares to have me do so, I will read those.

The COURT. It is not necessary at all.

Mr. KIME. Now, what has been designated at W-9, A to E, is a contract for one picture, known as "Border Town", dated January 27, 1938, between Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated and Westex, R. E. Griffith and affiliated theaters.

Mr. COCHRAN. 1938?

Mr. KIME. January 27, 1938.

Mr. COCHRAN. Aren't you out of order on that? The last one was '34-35?

Mr. KIME. W-4, A to G, inclusive, is a contract

691 dated September 4, 1934.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is the one you have just gone over.

Mr. KIME. We offer in evidence W-4.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. Admitted.

Mr. KIME. W-5 is a contract, two contracts, for three pictures, the first contract is on page B of that exhibit dated May 14, 1935, and is a letter to Vitagraph signed by R. E. Griffith for the picture "Forty-Second Street". It says, "I hereby agree to use 'Forty-Second Street' in the following towns at a price of $12.50 per town with a score charge of $2.50. This agreement is subject to your standard exhibition form of contract." And it lists the towns of Blackwell, Berger, Duncan, Enid, Guthrie, Hobart, Stillwater, Altus, Oklahoma City twice, Miami and Ada.

The next contract is dated the same date, page C of that exhibit, for the pictures "Public Enemy" and "Smart Money". It is likewise a letter addressed to Vitagraph, signed by R. E. Griffith, whereby they agree to exhibit that picture for $10 with a score charge of $2.50, subject to the standard exhibition form contract, in a series of towns, and opposite the town of Hobart is a question mark, which may appear in some of the testimony of one of the later witnesses.

692 We offer in evidence W-5, B and C.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KIME. W-6 is a contract, this is A to G, a contract dated August 15, 1935, between Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated, R. E. Griffith and affiliated interests, signed by R. E. Griffith, for all of the exhibitors, and Sears for Vitagraph.

693 The COURT. What is that date again, please?

Mr. KIME. August 15, 1935. This has the same provisions as W-3. With your Honor's permission I will not read it.

The COURT. You need not. I think you have identified them properly.

Mr. KIME. We offer Exhibit W-6.

The COURT. It is admitted.

Mr. KIME. W-7, A to F, inclusive is a contract dated September 1, 1936, between——

Mr. COCHRAN. Just a minute. You are offering W-6, A, B, C and D?

Mr. KIME. No.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is what you described.

Mr. KIME. No, I did not describe A. I took A out at the outset and told you I would not offer that. I took A out of 5. Six is offered, A to G, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KIME. W-7, A to F. which has been stipulated in toto, is the contract dated September 1, 1936, between the Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theaters, R. E. Griffith, Westex and affiliated interests signed by Griffith for all the exhibitors and Sears for Vitagraph, and contains the same provisions as I enumerated relative to W-3 and 6. I offer W-7, A to F inclusive.

694 Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KIME. W-8, A to I inclusive, which has been stipulated in toto, is a contract dated September 8, 1937 between Griffith, Consolidated, R. E. Griffith, Westex and affiliated interests, and signed by Griffith for all of the exhibitors and Sears for Vitagraph, to which is attached the first page of the standard form, marked page G, the form G. W. F. 37–38 and page H of this is an amendment to the contract which is described provides that:

"This will further amend the agreement between you and us dated September 8, 1937, licensing the exhibition of the features, the scores and trailers in connection therewith, and the Vitaphone short subjects released by us for the motion picture season 1937–38 in the theaters and towns specified in the aforesaid agreement as follows:"

And it modifies the agreement to be paid for film rentals on page H and that, except as otherwise specifically provided are the terms and conditions of the aforesaid agreement to remain in full force and effect.

I offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit W–8, A to I inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KIMR. W–9, A to E, as they have stipulated, is the contract of January 27, 1938, between the Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theaters, Westex and 695 R. E. Griffith Theaters and Vitagraph, Inc., signed by G. W. Sears, per (somebody) and agreed to for the exhibitors by H. R. Falls.

By the COURT:

Q. What is the date of that?

Mr. KIMR. The date is January 27, 1938. This is for one picture, 'Border Town" for the sum of $1000 in the situations set out on page D, which is schedule A of that contract.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KIMR. Exhibit W–10 is an instrument dated January 13, 1938, between Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated, R. E. Griffith, Westex, and affiliated interests signed by Falls for the exhibitors and says:

"This will further amend the agreement between you and us dated September 8, 1937, licensing the exhibition of the features, the scores and trailers in connection therewith and the Vitaphone short subjects released by us for the motion picture season 1937–39 in the theaters and towns specified in the aforesaid agreement, as follows:

"1. There shall be excluded from the license granted under the aforesaid agreement for exhibition, second run, at the theaters specified in the town of Shawnee, Oklahoma, the features released by us for the motion picture season 1937–38 bearing the following release numbers:"

And certain short subjects, and I think that is all 696 of the vital provisions of that. I offer Exhibit W–10, A and B, which have been stipulated.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objections.

Mr. KIMR. W–11 A to E, is a stipulated contract dated August 22, 1938, between the Griffith Amusement Company,

Consolidated, and Westex Theaters, signed by H. R. Falls for all of the exhibitors, and for Vitagraph by the same man or person who signed the preceding contract, whose name I cannot distinguish. This contains the same provisions as all of the preceding contracts except for individual films and W–4 as heretofore explained.

Mr. COCHRAN. The same as W–4 or W–3? You have been referring to W–3.

Mr. KIME. The same as W–3. This is not the same as 4. I offer Exhibit W–11, A to E inclusive.

Exhibit W–12, which is the last of the Warner series is identified, A to E inclusive, which has been stipulated in toto is a contract dated September 14, 1938, between R. E. Griffith Theaters, Westex, and the Long Griffith Theaters signed by R. E. Griffith for exhibitors and Vitagraph by Sears, and contains in general the same provisions as W–3 and all the others except the individuals and W–4. I offer Exhibit W–12, A to E, inclusive.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

Mr. KIME. The next one is the Columbia and first I will offer the forms which have been designated C–27–1
697 to C–27–21, which are the forms referred to in the contract.

The COURT. Both are standard forms?

Mr. KIME. Yes, referred to in contracts which I will offer, C–1, A to F, which has been stipulated in toto is a contract entered into the 8th day of August, 1933, between Columbia Pictures and Griffith Amusement Company for the towns set out in the opening paragraph and for certain affiliated corporations in the town in which they exhibit.

Paragraph 1 of this agreement, or the first paragraph after the opening paragraph of the subsequent agreements provide: "It is understood and agreed by and between Columbia Pictures Corporation and the above corporations that the output of Columbia Pictures to be released during the season of 1933–34 shall be exhibited in the above named theaters or paid for under the following arrangement. The exhibitor agrees to pay the distributor as a minimum commitment not less than $33,000 for pictures to be played and paid for in the following theaters within the period from September 1, 1933 to December 31, 1934, on terms listed as to each individual theater, and they are set out, the run of each situation and the amount that was to be paid for the specials and features and westerns and two-reelers and one-reelers and also provides second run in six situations. The standard form is made a part 698 of the contract and is attached hereto, one page of which, I should say, and is marked pages E and F. I offer in evidence C–1, A to F, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KIME. C–2, A to D, inclusive, is stipulated in toto and is a contract dated August 8, 1933, the same date as the preceding one between Columbia and R. E. Griffith Theaters and Westland Theaters. Paragraph 1 is very similar to the paragraph of C–1 and provides they shall take the output of Columbia to be released during the season of 1933–34 to be exhibited and paid for under the following arrangements, which sets out the run and the amount for each situation and provides for first and second runs and provides the standard form shall be part of the contract and attached to or two pages of that standard form but not the back of each third page. I offer Exhibits C–2, A to D, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KIME. C–3, A to E inclusive, as stipulated in toto, is a contract dated August 29, 1934, between Columbia and the Griffith Amusement Company and R. E. Griffith Theaters for the theaters and towns set out on page A, and B continues the affiliated theaters. Page C, the first paragraph thereof is the same as the two preceding. The output of Columbia Pictures to be released for the 699 1934–35 season shall be paid for under the following arrangements, and it then sets out they shall be paid for as to certain amounts and for certain towns and gives the runs available to those towns, three and four days. It provides for second run in six situations. It also provides they may be previewed and no foreign pictures; not required to be played in order; obligated to play the 10 specials in every town except Sapulpa, Oklahoma, and exhibitors can revise schedules or allocations by towns provided the total amount per picture in each application remains the same, and the standard form to be a part of the contract, the first page of which is attached hereto bearing the signature of R. E. Griffith and Rube Jackter. We offer Exhibit C–3, A to E, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KIME. Exhibit C–4, A to E, inclusive, has been stipulated to, pages H and I.

The COURT. What is the date of that?

Mr. KIME. C–4 is dated September, 1935 between Columbia and Consolidated Theaters, R. E. Griffith and Griffith Amusement Company and associated interests. I started to say, your Honor, it has been stipulated as to A to E, inclusive, F, G, H and I, are allocations on a film work sheet for '35–36, and will be offered with the others, since 700 they are clearly applicable to and a part of this contract.

Page 1 sets out the theaters and the runs, the number of days and provides for first and second run in several situations. The first contractual paragraph on page B is the same as the first contract, as the other contracts heretofore offered, and is not numbered, and provides for the output of Columbia to be released during the season of 1935–36 with the exception of "The Voice of Experience," and shall be exhibited in the above named theaters and paid for under the following arrangements, and in quotations "All Columbia product is excluded from Sapulpa, Oklahoma except eight Dick Foster reissues and eight Ken Maynard Westerns."

A provides the exhibitor agrees to pay as a minimum the amount of $6000, and allocations for each picture at page C provides for the prevue privilege and no foreign made pictures. He is not required to play any; not required to play pictures in order of release; is obligated to play the four specials except in Sapulpa; is obligated to deliver to the distributor immediately after receiving the approval of this contract detailed allocation which we submit are those on pages F to H, inclusive, and that the standard form shall be a part of the contract. That was signed by R. E. Griffith and Rube Jackter for the Columbia Pictures Corporation. We offer Exhibit C–4, A to I inclusive.

701 Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the introduction of any part of the offered documents except A to E inclusive, for the reason that the other documents offered are not within the stipulation and have not been properly identified or designated.

The COURT. Objection overruled and exception allowed.

Mr. KIMP. Next I offer Exhibit C–5, A to J inclusive, A to F and J, which have been stipulated to, and G to I have not been stipulated but clearly are the allocations referred to in the main portion of the contract. This is a contract dated August 31, 1938, between Columbia Pictures and Consolidated Theaters, R. E. Griffith, Griffith Amusement Company, Westex and associated interests for certain situations set forth on page A and B, the bottom of B is the opening paragraph common to all the output of Columbia to be released during '36–37 and shall be exhibited in the above named theaters and paid for under the following arrangement, containing a number of exceptions that all Columbia product is to be excluded from Sapulpa, Oklahoma, except eight Tim McCoy reissues and eight westerns and eight Peter B. Kyne westerns. In C the exhibitor agrees to pay a minimum of a certain amount as allocated to certain production and is also given the prevue privilege and the exhibitor is not obligated to play any foreign made pictures, and not required to play pictures in the order of their release, and there is a special provision that the two special productions allocated at five must be Capra productions and all such Capra productions delivered under this contract in addition to the other specials to be designated to play at $2100. They must play in each and every town with the exception of Sapulpa. It is understood first, that special production shall be "Lost Horizon." The exhibitor is obligated to deliver to the distributor immediately after receiving the approval of this contract detailed allocation which we contend are the allocations heretofore described and that the standard form shall be made a part of the contract.

We offer Exhibit C–5, A to J—let me describe J in brief. That is a supplemental contract by which the distributor agrees to allow the exhibitor the privilege of using product offered by the above contract in the following theaters, and then it says, "Over" but there is no "Over" page or the back page of this contract has not been photostated and signed by R. E. Griffith and Rube Jackter.

Mr. COCHRAN. We have no objection to the admission of C–5, A to F and C–5, J, but we do object to the admission of the remainder of the documents for the reason they are not signed by the defendants, or either of them; not a part of the contract. They have not been indenti-703 fied as such and not properly authenticated.

The COURT. Overruled. Exception allowed. They are the same allocations referred to heretofore.

Mr. KIME. The next I will offer is C–6, A to M and five has been stipulated to. N, O, P, Q, R, T and V are allocations mentioned in the contract and which we contend are the allocations properly belonging to this contract. 6–K is a contract for a particular picture "You Can't Take it With You."

Mr. COCHRAN. What was for a particular picture?

Mr. KIME. P–K–6 it starts on. F–6, K, L and M is the contract for the picture "You Can't Take it With You." C–6–A is the first page of the contract dated September 3 1937, between Columbia, R. E. Griffith Theaters, Consolidated Theaters, the Griffith Amusement Company, Westex and associated companies, the first page setting out the exhibitions involved, or runs, which includes first and second runs in certain situations, first in all, of course, and second in some, and the number of days to be shown.

The first paragraph on B "It is understood and agreed that Columbia Pictures Corporation, the distributor and the exhibitor agrees as follows: That the output of Columbia Pictures to be released during the season of 1937–38, shall be exhibited in the above named theaters and paid for under the following arrangements," and that all 704 Columbia product is excluded from Sapulpa, Oklahoma, except the westerns.

The first paragraph on page C, the exhibitor agrees to pay a certain amount in certain allocated places for the features and graduated down. He is to have the privilege of prevuing the product in all towns and not obligated to play any foreign made picture and not required to play pictures in order. Four specials must be played in every town with the exception of Sapulpa; no capital productions in this agreement. The exhibitor is obligated to deliver immediately after the approval of the contract the detailed allocation on all subjects enumerated in this agreement, standard form to be attached and made a part of it.

Mr. COCHRAN. E is the first page?

Mr. KIMR. E is the first page of the standard form. (F) provides for the subsequent run.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is the page, photostatic page number in your left-hand corner?

Mr. KIMR. Of F?

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes.

Mr. KIMR. Ninety-five.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is a rider.

Mr. KIMR. That is a rider which is signed by H. R. Falls and Rube Jackter for second run for certain 705 pictures in certain situations, setting out about a dozen towns and Oklahoma City, dated October 5, 1937.

G is a contract dated September 14, 1937, between Columbia and all four corporate defendants, signed by R. E. Griffith for them and Rube Jackter for Columbia and provides:

"1. You agree to license to us for exhibition hereunder, all the photoplays of feature length generally released by you for distribution to motion picture theaters in the United States during the period commencing September 1st, 1938, and ending August 31, 1939, as part of your 1938–39 product and embraced in your groups B–4 and B–5.

"2. We hereby accept such license and agree to pay to you a minimum sum of money which minimum sum of money shall be five per cent more than the minimum sum payable us to you for your 1937–38 product. The license herein granted is limited to the same number of pictures and in the same theaters and for the same number of days playing time as specified in the agreement between us dated September 3, 1937, with respect to our 1937–38 product.

"The individual price allocation for the 1938–39 product in accordance with subdivision "A" of the typewritten portion of our agreement is to be determined by you.

"3. You agree to license to us for exhibition
706 hereunder, all the photoplays of feature length generally released by you for distribution to motion picture theaters in the United States during the period commencing September 1st, 1939, and ending August 31, 1940, as part of your 1939–40 product and embraced in your groups C–4 and C–5."

Then follows a similar provision as to the designation and it provides for 5 per cent more than the minimum of the preceding season, and the individnal price allocation in accordance with subdivision "A" of the typewritten portion of our agreement is to be determined by you.

"3. We agree that all the terms and provisions of your form of 1938–39 and 1939–40 exhibition contracts shall be deemed included herein and all the terms and provisions other than the film rental terms of our 1937–38 agreement shall be deemed included herein."

The agreement not to be assigned without the consent in writing of Columbia.

I, is a supplemental contract dated August 31, 1939, providing that the distributor agree to allow exhibitor to use any product from contracts 144, 145, and 146 at the prices listed on said contracts, and apply same against money commitment for the 1939–40 season for Columbia. This is in consideration of Consolidated Theaters Inc., and Griffith Amusement Company having disposed of three other towns, namely, Mangum, Frederick and 707 Wewoka, Oklahoma, which were to have applied on the 1939–40 money commitment." That is signed by Falls and Rube Jackter.

Page J is a rider to the 1938-39 contract providing for eight runs of certain product in certain towns listed, about six, plus Oklahoma City, and signed by Rube Jackter and H. R. Falls.

Page K is a contract dated October 10, 1938, between Columbia and Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated Theaters, R. E. Griffith, Westex and affiliated or associated interests, setting out the towns and the corporation involved and the runs, which is first in all cases, and second in certain situations.

Page 2 provides that "You Can't Take It With You"—that is what this contract is about—will be released in those theaters named above and paid for in the following manner: $7500.

Standard form to be made a part of the contract; assigned by Horace F. Falls for the defendant corporate interests, and Rube Jackter for Columbia. The succeeding pages are N, O, P, Q and R, and are the allocations as referred to in the contract and are keyed into the contract S is page 1 of the standard form, and it is the first page of the standard form of the "You Can't Take It With You" contract. T sets out the towns in which "You Can't Take It With You" is to be exhibited and the runs, which includes first 708 and second, and the theaters. U and V are the allocations for the '38–39 season and we offer them. The last two pages of the allocations are for the '38–39 season.

The COURT. What is the date of this?

A. The first contract is dated, on page A of the exhibit, September 3.

The COURT. What year?

A. 1937.

Mr. COCHRAN. The trouble is he is mixing up a number of different contracts, the way he is offering them.

Mr. KIMR. I did not assemble these and only came into the case after they were assembled.

The COURT. Is there another contract?

Mr. KIMR. Yes. There is another one on page C-6-G, which is a contract for the '38–39 season and the '39–40 season, and that is dated September 14, 1937, about a year before it was to become effective.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to C–6, N, O, P, Q, R, U and V, for the reasons stated in connection with other documents which are not included in the stipulation and which have not been identified or authenticated.

The COURT. Overruled and exception allowed.

709 Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, we only have two more of these series.

Mr. COCHRAN. What was the last you said?

Mr. WRIGHT. I now offer the Universal contracts. The first number is U–1 and page A of that is a letter agreement dated September 10, 1934, between Universal——

The COURT. That date again?

Mr. WRIGHT. September 10, 1934. This is made with the defendant corporations, two of them, signed by R. E. Griffith, and covers the product for the '34–35 season in a schedule of towns and theaters appearing on page B.

The contract provides for a minimum money commitment of $60,000 on the features and shorts plus a money commitment of $5,000 on the newsreels, payable as and when the pictures are dated and played; however, it was understood and agreed that, at least, $15,000 was to be paid quarterly; there is a privilege of playing out of order of release, foreign made pictures excluded, individual prices allocated by Griffith; and then there is a definite commitment to deliver two pictures named here, "Show Boat" and "Sutter's Gold" at $2250 per picture.

"It is also understood and agreed that in any individual situation exhibitor has no commitment as to the 710 number of features or shorts played, as this contract, with the exception of the newsreel, is a money commitment transaction.

"Should the distributor release less than the amount of product specified on the attached schedule, commitment to be reduced proportionately."

And then attached as page C is a break down of the feature rental brackets according to classifications.

On page D the starting date is shown as December 1, 1934.

Page F is a memorandum that I will detach as it was not included within the stipulation.

There is one thing I would like to explain about this contract in this Universal series. In these cases you will note that all that the exhibitor agrees to do is to pay a certain amount of money for the product over the season. The allocations that are set up are set up on the basis of all the product to be released, if the circuit should play all the product released by the distributor, which is covered by the contract, they would pay an amount in excess of the guaranteed figure. For example, on this particular deal the allocated rentals on all of the features that are covered, if played in all situations, would amount to perhaps 711 more than $100,000. The only commitment is to pay $60,000 in accordance with such product as used, without any obligation to play any particular number of features in any one situation, or in all situations except with these special commitments that are made with respect to certain numbers of higher bracket features, so that the result of the agreement of this character is that during the entire season until the end of the season when it has been finally determined which pictures the circuit is going to play and where, the entire product has been excluded from any competing theater, although there has never been at any time an obligation on the part of the circuit to mutually use it in its theater.

Mr. COCHRAN. Did I understand you to say that U-1-E was the first page of the standard contract?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir, it is labeled "Schedule of feature contract". It also has the signatures on it of R. E. Griffith and J. E. Grainger.

Mr. COCHRAN. Let me check that.

The COURT. What letter is that?

Mr. COCHRAN. I am just trying to get my lettering straight.

Mr. WRIGHT. This is U–1, page E.

The COURT. What letters do you have in that exhibit?

Mr. WRIGHT. U–1 consists of letters, pages A
712 thro[redacted] inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. Our stipulations covers A through F.

Mr. WRIGHT. You did cover F?

Mr. COCHRAN. No, I didn't intend to cover F.

Mr. WRIGHT. All right.

Mr. COCHRAN. Let's check that again.

Mr. WRIGHT. All right.

Mr. COCHRAN. Our stipulation is not intended to cover F. You are offering A to D?

Mr. WRIGHT. A through E.

Mr. COCHRAN. A through E is right, and there is no objection.

The COURT. They will be admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. No master agreement was produced for the '35–36 season. The next agreement is U–2, A through D, inclusive, which is dated August 26, 1936, and covers the '36–37 season, and is executed on behalf of the defendants by R. E. Griffith, all four corporate defendants being included, and affiliates. The towns and theaters appear on the first two pages, and in this case the circuit agrees to play a commitment of $80,000. Then the feature product is allocated by class features in various rentals brackets, and subsequent run situations are specified on page C, and 713 the circuit agrees to pay a minimum of $20,000 against the commitment quarterly. The standard form of exhibition contract is made a part of the agreement, as are the allocation sheets. There is a special schedule of one-theater towns, attached and marked as page D. I will offer that exhibit in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. The '36–37 season is covered by the agreement dated October 1, 1936, pages A through D.

The COURT. That is U–3?

Mr. COCHRAN. U–2 is for the '36–37 season.

Mr. WRIGHT. I beg pardon.

Mr. COTHRAN. U–2 covers the '36–37 season you said a moment ago.

Mr. WRIGHT. Ours is marked U–3.

Mr. COCHRAN. Look at U–2. U–2 is dated August 26, 136, covering the '36–37 season.

The COURT. U–2 is dated October 26, 1936, and this one is dated 10–1–36.

Mr. WRIGHT. Both U–2 and U–3 refer to the '36–37 product. This last one I referred to is dated 10–1–36, is U–3, and page A is the contract itself, on the one page. It is signed by R. E. Griffith for the circuit, and it refers to the same money commitment of $80,000, but the allocations and towns covered are apparently changed here.

714 Mr. COCHRAN. It also provides that definite contract price allocations shall be submitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. It provides that there are to be twenty-six top pictures allocated at twenty-eight one-theater towns of this release, and thirty-six top pictures in the balance of the towns, and it says six westerns are a definite commitment in all situations, and the eight top pictures and six westerns are definite in twelve subsequent run situations.

Mr. COCHRAN. Didn't you say U–3 was dated October 26?

The COURT. October 1st.

Mr. COCHRAN. The date shows August 26.

Mr. WRIGHT. August 26.

Mr. COCHRAN. It shows it is a memo. It shows it is the original memo of the contract which was more drawn at length and dated the same day, which has been introduced as U–2–C.

The COURT. U–3 is dated August 26?

Mr. COCHRAN. It is dated August 26. In other words, it is a preliminary memo and is to be considered with U–2. Mr. Wright also, I believe, failed to call attention to page B of U–2, which provided that the exhibitor agrees to notofy the distributor of pictures to be eliminated within sixty days after release.

715 Mr. WRIGHT. Do I understand that both of these bear the same date?

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes, sir. We that situation to come up in connection with one of the other customers. You remember when there was a preliminary contract and apparently U–3 was the preliminary contract and it was followed by U–2.

Mr. WRIGHT. U–3 should have been offered first.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all right.

Mr. WRIGHT. With that understanding, it is agreeable to us that U–3 was a preliminary deal and was superseded by U–2, covering the '36–37 season.

Mr. COCHRAN. Do we have the individual contracts which were referred to in that preliminary agreement? It says that it is further agreed that definite contract shall be submitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. This is all that was produced in response to the subpoena.

Mr. COCHRAN. I imagine, that doesn't say a definite contract for each situation, but refers to U–2. In other words, that is the contract, and the allocations are the ones that were to be submitted by October 1. All right.

Mr. WRIGHT. We offer in evidence U–3.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

716 Mr. WRIGHT. And the allocation sheets attached, marked B, C, and D, to which I believe there is no stipulation, except that they came from the files of Universal.

Mr. COCHRAN. The same objection in regard to those as heretofore interposed.

The COURT. Overruled.

Mr. COCHRAN. Exception.

Mr. WRIGHT. The '37–38 season is covered by an agreement marked U–4, A to C, and is the agreement, itself being dated October 14, 1937, signed by and on behalf of all corporate defendants and affiliated companies by R. E. Griffith; the towns and theaters are specified on the first two pages, and the total money commitment for the circuit is $50,000; then there is an allocation of features to be released in the various price allocations.

The COURT. Let me ask you, all of these master agreements provide for the execution of the individual contracts with exhibitors, do they?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, they all do not.

The COURT. Some of them do?

Mr. WRIGHT. Some of them do and some don't, but in any event, the contracts are subject to the terms of these agreements, and these typewritten agreements control where there is any conflict.

The COURT. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. I don't agree with that statement.

717 Where there is a specific contract drawn and executed, they supersede, if there is any difference, they supersede the memorandum.

The COURT. That is a law question.

Mr. WRIGHT. I was simply stating our theory in that respect. Then the circuit is given the privilege of playing subsequent runs in about twelve specific situations, for twelve top pictures, and five westerns.

Mr. COCHRAN. You are overlooking the fact that this contract on page B only covers twelve.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is what I said.

Mr. COCHRAN. No, not second run, but first run; first run.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's right.

Mr. COCHRAN. Twelve.

Mr. WRIGHT. The $50,000 commitment relates to twelve top pictures, and the same twelve are referred to in the subsequent run privilege there, plus five westerns, and in addition to the twelve features, it also covers five westerns designated by name; then there is other additional product specified on page C for four named towns, and the circuit agrees to pay quarterly $12,500 during each thirteen-week period; the allocation sheets to be made are incorporated in the agreement and it is agreed that the standard 718 form of exhibition contract attached becomes a part of it and to govern the physical operation and in the event of any conflict the provisions of this agreement control. Then attached as page D is the front of a standard feature contract.

Mr. COCHRAN. Page D you have it marked, is the first page of a schedule of feature contracts.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, and page E is the printed form for the four Buck Jones and Bob Baker pictures.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right.

Mr. WRIGHT. Page F is the reverse side of the form, containing the initials REG, and the signature of Mr. Grainger for Universal. The succeeding pages, G and H are the allocation sheets.

We offer Exhibit U–4, A through H, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. Admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. Exhibit U–5, A through C, is a master agreement dated September 17, 1938, covering the '38–39 season, and that is signed by R. E. Griffith on behalf of the two Dallas defendants and affiliated theaters, and it covers the towns and situations specified on pages A and B, and in this case the circuit agreed to pay a minimum guarantee of $30,000 for product to be played and paid for in the named theaters and towns during the period from December 15, 1938, to December 14, 1939, to be selected 719 from the following '38–39 product. Then there is listed the features, westerns and shorts in graduated rental bracket classifications, and there is a further agreement that the top eight pictures named in those brackets shall be certain named productions. Then the exhibitor agrees to pay, provided sufficient product is made available, $7500 on his commitment each thirteen weeks; and the privilege permitting the playing out of order of release, and to exclude foreign productions, is also included, and other provisions with respect to the allocation schedule, and it is agreed that there is no commitment as to the amount of product to be played in the individual towns, the money commitment being the obligation of the circuit as a whole. The standard form of exhibition contract is to become a part of this agreement, and the physical operations to be covered thereby; in case of conflict, this form to prevail, or rather, this typewritten agreement to prevail. The form is attached, the face of it marked D and the allocations are attached, marked E.

We offer in evidence Exhibit U–5, A through E, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. Page D, according to your list, is the page of the standard form contract?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. And E is the allocation sheet?

Mr. WRIGHT. Right.

720 Mr. COCHRAN. The same objection is made to U–5–E which has heretofore been made to the documents which are not included within the stipulation.

The COURT. Overruled. Exception allowed.

Mr. WRIGHT. U–6–A through D inclusive, is an agreement dated September 1, 1938, made with the Oklahoma City corporate defendants and their affiliates signed by H. R. Falls on their behalf and covers also the '39-39 seasons. The towns and theaters are specified on pages A and B, and the commitment of the theaters and towns involved here is $70,000 for product to be selected from the '38–39 releases, and those releases are then listed in rental classifications A, B, C, D and E, western pictures, shorts, serials with a blanket rental for each.

It is also provided that the exhibitors are not required to exhibit any definite number of serials or shorts in each individual town or theater, and in twelve towns designated on page B, known as "one-theater towns", the exhibitor has the privilege of playing only the twenty top allocated pictures plus the six westerns, twenty-seven episodes of serials and forty release sheets. In the balance of the towns the exhibitor has the privilege of playing thirty-four top allocated pictures plus six westerns, twenty-seven serials and seventy-eight shorts. The exhibitor

721 agrees to notify the distributor of any pictures to be eliminated within 60 days after release. In the following, second and subsequent run situations then are listed, about 14 towns and the exhibitor has the privilege of playing eight top allocated features, six westerns and 28 reel shorts. There is a special provision for the Rialto and Reno Theaters in Oklahoma City, and the agreement to pay the total amount of the commitment in quarterly installments of $17,500 each, and the pictures are not required to be played in the order of release. Foreign pictures are excluded, and the standard form is incorporated in the agreement the same as in the others. There is also an agreement with respect to providing prints, one-third within 23 days after national release, one-third within 45 days and one-third within 70 days.

I offer Exhibit U–6, A through D, and that completes the Universal offer.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

(Whereupon court adjourned until 2:00 o'clock p. m.)

722 AFTERNOON SESSION.

May 11, 1945, 2:00 o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS.

The COURT. You may proceed.

Mr. WRIGHT. The last distributors to be dealt with here is United Artists and the first documents that we will offer are those dated September 30, 1937. There were other United Artists' contracts which were subpoenaed and produced as to prior seasons, but this, I believe——

Mr. COCHRAN. (interrupting). Not covered by stipulation?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, there are others included in the stipulation of prior years.

Mr. COCHRAN. This is '33, you say?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, this that I am about to introduce is dated September 20, 1937.

Mr. COCHRAN. I beg pardon. What is the number?

Mr. WRIGHT. The first exhibit number is U–A–69, A to D, inclusive. These that I am about to introduce represent the first of the circuit deals made with United Artists.

723 comparable to those made with the other distributors. This 69, A through D, inclusive, is a contract for the single picture "Nothing Sacred", a Selznick international production, for a flat license fee of $5300.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is the date of that?

Mr. WRIGHT. "Nothing Sacred."

Mr. COCHRAN. What is the date of the contract?

The COURT. 9–20–37.

Mr. WRIGHT. Right.

Mr. COCHRAN: I don't find that date here.

Mr. WRIGHT. The date is on page B.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right.

Mr. WRIGHT. The exhibitor parties are the four corporate defendants and some affiliated companies, and the contract is signed for them by R. E. Griffith. It consists merely of the printed form of license, plus this rider which is attached, and lists the towns and the theaters and runs, and number of days of playing time in the various theaters, where the picture is to be exhibited. The rider also contains the statement that the exhibitor is granted the privilege of playing a prevue in any of the above listed situations.

Then U–A–70, A to D, inclusive, bears the same date, is made between the same parties, but is for seven features designated as Walter Wanger productions, with a blanket price for each one ranging from $2150 to $5300. That is again on a similar standard form with a typewritten 724 rider, signed by Mr. R. E. Griffith, listing the towns, theaters, runs, and number of days of playing time in the various situations, and contains an additional provision on the last page D that in these 19 situations, in 19 situations the productions "Meet My Love Again" and "Personal History" are sold and that there is to be deducted from the total annual rental on each picture the same amount of money on these two pictures that is allocated by the various theaters listed herein, with "Kiss in Paris" and the "Man with Ten Models."

725 Also the same date on the same form and between the same parties is an agreement for the exhibition of six Samuel Goldwyn productions at a flat rental of $5300 each.

The COURT. That is U–A–70?

A. That is numbered U–A–71, A to D inclusive. The rider there is also signed by R. E. Griffith and it is substantially the same form as the other one. Then the next United Artists contracts are the series dated December 30, 1938, the first of which is U–22, the pages are A to I, inclusive. On page A is a statement of the titles of the two features that are licensed, both Selznick productions, one at a flat rental figure for all of the situations covered which are listed on page B, and this agreement is made on behalf of the Dallas corporate defendants.

Mr. COCHRAN. Is U–A–22–G included in that stipulation?

Mr. KIME. No, it is not.

Mr. GRIFFING. It is A, B and F.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the introduction of the pages being offered other than U–A–22, A, B and F. Those other pages are not allocation pages.

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, I think it appears on their faces
726 that they are. C is entitled "Contract Change Report" and bears the date of January 25, 1939.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is true, but that is a document not signed by the defendants in this case at all, and it is not an allocation that is referred to. It is one of these documents about which there is controversy.

The COURT. What is there about it that identifies it as a part of this?

Mr. WRIGHT. I was going to read what it said. This page C of U–22 is on United Artists form called "Contract Change Report" and it is dated January 25, 1939, and it is signed only by Roy Sachs, exchange manager, and the only stipulation is that it was found in the files of his company and produced pursuant to subpoena. It does, however, appear on the face of the report that the picture referred to is "The Young at Heart." It is one of the pictures in this contract, U–A–22, and broken down opposite each situation is a separate rental figure, and then the statement "The blanket contract reflects the rental as $11yy.50, which is the amount shown on the first page of U–A–22. (Reading) "It is necessary to put this form No. 51 through to all of the contracts which the records will reflect as the allocated rental as outlined herein."

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that document for the reason it purports to be a report made by a man by the name of Sachs, who I understand was not even a branch
727 manager but was a booker. It is a report of a past transaction. It has not been authenticated. It is purely a hearsay statement of a report by an agent purporting to be a report by an agent to a transaction which is not connected with these defendants or relating to some of these transactions.

728 The COURT. How is it material?

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, I offer it only because it was produced by the United Artists Corporation, apparently, as we thought, a part of or supplement to this document that has been identified as U–A–22, A and through B.

The COURT. Suppose it was not allocated; how would it be material?

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't think it makes any difference as far as we are concerned whether the allocation was actually made in the form shown or not.

Mr. COCHRAN. I am objecting. We are not willing that the document be admitted simply because they appear in these files, and the statement that it was produced as a part of this contract is not correct, because the numbering on the pages, which was made by the company delivering them, shows it is not consecutive numbers.

Mr. WRIGHT. It apparently refers to this contract on its face. I don't think it makes any great difference to us whether it is in, or not; we are simply offering the material.

The COURT. Suppose it be left out. I don't see its materiality, that is, how it could affect the issues in this case one way or the other.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will detach B, D, and E. Was G, H, and I covered by the stipulation?

729 Mr. GRIFFING. B, D, E, G, H, and I are not covered by the stipulation.

Mr. COCHRAN. Well, G——

The COURT. What are these that you have eliminated?

Mr. GRIFFING. G, H, and I are not covered by the stipulation.

The COURT. C, D, and E, and what?

Mr. GRIFFING. C, D, and E and G, H, and I are not covered.

Mr. WRIGHT. So the document as it goes in consists of U–A–22, pages A, B, and F.

The COURT. A, B, and F?

Mr. WRIGHT. The next number is U–A–23. Page A is another contract on a similar form dated September 30, 1938, for five Edward Small productions, to be played at a flat rental for each picture over the circuit in accordance with a rider which specifies the towns and theaters covered, which appears on page B. This again, the only defendants making this contract are the Dallas defendants. I will remove C to H, which are similar allocations by United Artists.

Mr. COCHRAN. C through H?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir, and the exhibit as offered will then be U–A–23, A, B, and I.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

730 Mr. WRIGHT. U–A–24 is a contract of the same date between the same parties, for three Samuel Goldwyn productions, to be played in the situations covered by a rider which is page B, for a blanket rental of $1780 each.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is for the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Westex Theaters, and the Long Griffith Theaters also?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir. The document offered is just U–A–24, A and B.

Mr. COCHRAN. I believe G is included in the stipulation.

Mr. WRIGHT. Is it included?

Mr. COCHRAN. I believe it was.

Mr. WRIGHT. G appears to be a duplicate.

Mr. KIME. G is a rider.

Mr. WRIGHT. I know, but it has exactly the same data that appears on B, as far as I can see.

Mr. COCHRAN. I don't see it here. Is it a duplicate?

Mr. WRIGHT. It appears to be.

The COURT. It will be A and B then?

Mr. WRIGHT. A and B.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right.

Mr. WRIGHT. The next is another contract on similar form, the same date, the same parties, for five 731 Walter Wanger productions.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is your number, please, sir?

Mr. WRIGHT. The number is U–A–26.

The COURT. You don't have 25?

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, I am not offering it.

The COURT. All right.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't know offhand just what it is.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. WRIGHT. A is the contract specifying the pictures covered and the flat rental for each one in the situations covered by the rider; B is the rider which specifies the towns, theaters, and runs.

Mr. COCHRAN. Is the date of that contract the same as the other?

Mr. WRIGHT. The same as the preceding U–A–24. The rider in this case consists——

Mr. COCHRAN. (interrupting): That is page B, is it?

Mr. WRIGHT. B. And then are these succeeding pages C to X covered by stipulation.

Mr. GRIFFING. Only A, B, M, N, and V.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will remove C to L and the riders M and N includes the same pictures at other specified rentals, for a number of other situations, which I believe 732 are those operated by the Oklahoma City defendants.

Mr. COCHRAN. Did 26 cover the Oklahoma City?

Mr. WRIGHT. 26, U–A–26, A, B, M, and N.

Mr. COCHRAN. That covers the Dallas defendants, doesn't it?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, there are two riders, one rider, B, for the R. E. Griffith Theaters, and Westex situations, and the rider M and N, which covers other Oklahoma and Texas situations without naming the exhibitors.

Mr. COCHRAN. It should be a part of the other contract, Let's look at that a minute. In other words, we are not agreeing that that is a part of that contract, but will agree that the documents were properly executed. That belongs with the other contract which you are going to introduce next. M, for instance, numbers M and N are pages 241 and 242, as they are numbered by the company and L bears the number 240, and 239 is 26–K. You have certain contracts all bearing No. 26 that relate to separate contracts with Oklahoma City and with Dallas, isn't that true?

Mr. WRIGHT. The only 26 contract that we have, the only number with the number U–A–26, is this one signed by R. E. Griffith and then there is the rider with the names of R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., Westex Theaters, Inc., and Long Griffith Theaters, with a list of Westex and R. E. Griffith situations, and then the rider of two 733 pages, bearing the same date, showing the other Oklahoma and Texas situations.

Mr. COCHRAN. Your Honor, the point I am making is this. We are not stipulating and the stipulation doesn't so recite, that these pages in the '38–39 contract which he is now introducing, and which showed the heading that they relate to the Oklahoma towns, we are not agreeing that they were any part of these contracts, which were made with R. E. Griffith and Westex, and in the documents as they were presented to me at the time the stipulation was made, these documents, although bearing the number 26, did not follow the contracts in such a way as to indicate that the Government would contend they were a part of the contract, so our stipulation only goes to the effect that we are admitting they were signed by the parties, and we are not raising any question—by the parties whose names appear thereon, but we are not agreeing that these pages relating to the Oklahoma City situation have anything to do with the Dallas contracts because the contracts were separately executed during those seasons, with United Artists.

734 Mr. WRIGHT. I think the documents speak for themselves. We are offering them as they are found here. I think it will appear on the contracts what contracts were made.

Mr. COCHRAN. The point is that counsel has done the placing of documents and they are not in the condition they were in when received from United Artists.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer 26–A, B. You have no objection to the admission of those, do you?

Mr. COCHRAN. None at all.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer the others 26–M and N, and if I can find a contract of the other companies I will offer that with them. Maybe that will solve the problem.

Then there is another contract marked UA–27–A, which is between the same parties, the Dallas defendants, and United Artists signed by R. E. Griffith and the same date, December 30, 1938, covering five Hal Roach productions to be exhibited at a flat rental over these situations that are set forth on schedule B attached, and will offer 27–A and B.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. And the next is the contract of the same date for two Selznick International productions at a flat rental.

735 Mr. COCHRAN. What is the number?

Mr. WRIGHT. UA-18. It is for the situations of the Oklahoma City defendants and attached are allocations made by United Artists marked B through F inclusive, which we will offer and which if objected to I assume will be excluded. Do you object?

Mr. COCHRAN. Oh, yes, but I am first trying to find out if any of this is included in the stipulation.

Mr. KIMR. I imagine not because they do not appear to be signed by anyone for Griffith.

Mr. WRIGHT. It appears to be signed on page H by H. R. Falls for the Griffith Amusement Company and Consolidated Theaters. There is no one signing for United Artists Corporation.

Mr. KIMR. Oh, yes. There is a perforation signature there.

Mr. COCHRAN. Where is the perforation?

Mr. KIMR. On A.

Mr. COCHRAN. That page is not signed by Mr. Falls.

Mr. KIMR. The rider.

Mr. COCHRAN. You are now offering A.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will separate them for convenience. I first offer UA-18-A-G-H-I- and J.

Mr. COCHRAN. Even though it is not included in the stipulation, I see no reason why it should not be 736 admitted. We have no objection to its introduction.

The COURT. Let it be admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer also the United Artists allocations for that contract which are marked as sheets B, C, D, and E, L, M, N and O.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is the same thing we objected to awhile ago, the same type?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that because they are change reports and Mr. Wright said he is not insisting on them.

Mr. WRIGHT. I said I am offering them. I just want to get a ruling on them.

The COURT. Very well. You both agree they are not material.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't say they are not material. They may become material. I am offering them because they are necessary to a complete understanding of the contract. They do not change the essential character of the deal at all, but I think they are material to the extent that they show the manner in which the parties actually carried out the deal.

The COURT. They were attached to the contract?

Mr. COCHRAN. No. They are dated January 24, 1939, months after the contract was made and an ex parte 737 statement.

The COURT. Of course, it might have been just an office memorandum.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is all it purports to be, is a memorandum made in the United Artists office signed by United Artists. There is no question about that.

The COURT. The objection will be sustained. I don't think it would be material.

Mr. COCHRAN. The numbers we have admitted, that were admitted on this, then, are A, G, H, I, and J, and that document dated December 30, 1938, is that right?

Mr. KIME. That is right.

Mr. WRIGHT. And the next one is another document of the same date marked UA–19–A, which is a contract for the five Edward Small productions and the flat rentals to be played in the situations listed in the rider, taking B, C, and E, signed by H. R. Falls on behalf of the Oklahoma City companies.

Mr. COCHRAN. That also was not included in the stipulation but we have no objection to its admission.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. The next is a contract of the same date, in the same form, same parties for the three Samuel Goldwyn productions No. UA–20–A the contract form. The rider is B and C signed on behalf of the Oklahoma City
738 companies by H. R. Falls.

The COURT. Let it be admitted. What is the date of that?

Mr. WRIGHT. December 30, 1938. The next is a contract of the same date between the same parties for five Hal Roach productions marked UA–21–B and C, signed by H. R. Falls and we offer it in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

Mr. WRIGHT. And the next is a contract bearing the same date and between the same parties for the five Walter Wanger productions, consisting of three pages. That is UA–25, A, B, and C, signed by H. R. Falls.

Then we are also offering the series of standard forms furnished by United Artists which cover the period in question, marked Exhibits UA–68–1, through 14, inclusive. We have one document here which I believe should have been offered with the Fox exhibit. It had been stipulated but was apparently overlooked at the time we offered the others. That was the document marked F–1, A through E. It is the deal for the 1933–34 season, dated August 11, 1933.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is not covered in the stipulation. That is an unsigned document and we question its authenticity, and Fox has advised the Government it was not a document which was operated under that year, so 739 Mr. Caskey advised me. All I know is I did not stipulate to it.

Mr. WRIGHT. There is no doubt it is not signed. I understood they had advised us that it was one of those they did operate under.

Mr. COCHRAN. Let's check it. If we find it was operated under we will go ahead.

Mr. WRIGHT. We were furnished with a sample form in this situation marked F–1, which was apparently for that season.

Mr. COCHRAN. I understand what happened. You made a request after I agreed that typical contracts, separate contracts, might be introduced for each year, and that we would request Fox to furnish you those typical contracts, and the Fox office advised Mr. Nickerson, who was here in Oklahoma City, who had those contracts to make photostats of them and furnish them to you. That does not mean this document. There is a signed contract for every town for that year. That is what Mr. Caskey says.

Mr. WRIGHT. May we offer F–1? That is a signed contract that was made for that year.

Mr. COCHRAN. I think we had better wait until we can find out whether there was a master deal, and if there was not, I do not see any way we can avoid having all of the contracts for that season, if we are going to find out what was done. In other words, if there was no master 740 contract signed we will have to have separate contracts, of course. The agreement as to these typical contracts on my part only provides where there was a master deal, which referred to the contracts which were to be executed. If they have a master deal, let's get it.

(Discussion off the record.)

Mr. WRIGHT. We will withdraw the offer.

Mr. COCHRAN. Between now and the next session I will check it.

Mr. WRIGHT. The next thing I think we will offer will be the interrogatories and answers of the defendants. I don't know whether you want those read into the record.

The COURT. Yes, read them into the record.

741 Mr. KIMP. Your Honor please, I propose to read first the answer to the second paragraph of the interrogatories as propounded to Griffith Amusement Company, in their answer. I assume there is no need, since these interrogatories are in the record, to read the interrogatory itself, is there?

Mr. COCHRAN. I believe you will have to read the interrogatory in order to understand it.

Mr. KIMM. All right. The second paragraph says:

"State the respective addresses of the principal executive offices and all branch offices of defendant (excluding the respective offices of each theater operated by defendant) indicating the nature and extent of the business which is carried on at each office. Further, with respect to each such office, give the following information:

(a) The name of each manager of each such office since April 28, 1934, and the periods during which each such manager was so employed;

(b) The duties and authority of each such manager."

Mr. COCHRAN. Do those answers show the date as of which those are answers?

Mr. KIMM. I had proposed to read that as I concluded.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all right.

742 Mr. KIMM. The time it covers, is, sworn to before me this 5th day of August, 1943.

Mr. COCHRAN. The time it covers.

Mr. KIMM. The time covered is from April 28, 1934, to April 28, 1939.

The answer is:

One principal office, namely: 11½ North Lee Avenue, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

No branch offices.

Nature and extent of business carried on at office: General administration, bookkeeping and executive duties performed at principal office.

(a) R. M. Clark (now deceased) was General Manager from April 28, 1934, to November 17, 1934, (date of his death).

H. J. Griffith, General Manager, November 17, 1934, to March 1, 1939.

B. J. McKenna, General Manager, March 1, 1939 to Present.

(b) Duties and authority of manager: Duties of General Manager are those generally exercised by administrative officer, has charge of personnel, designation of duties for other employees.

743 No. 3 is: Give the names and addresses of all persons who have been directors or officers of the defendant, or persons performing similar functions, at any time since April 28, 1934, indicating in each instance the office held and the term thereof.

758 Mr. KIMB. Interrogatory No. 11: List the names of all other corporate defendants in the above-entitled cause or subsidiaries therof to which the defendant has been indebted at any time since April 28, 1934, with the date each such corporate defendant or subsidiary became a creditor, the amount of the indebtedness involved, and the date when payment was made or the date when payment is due. (As used in this respect, the term "indebtedness" shall not include any amounts due for current film rental.)

Answer: The only indebtedness due other corporate defendants is a running account indebtedness due to Griffith Amusement Company. Said indebtedness was incurred for supplies, maintenance, services, etc. The amount of the running account due each year is as follows:

April 28, 1934—Records do not disclose amount due on that date.
Beginning of fiscal year 1935	$10,960.41
	5,219.79

" " " " 1939	1,275.00
	836.50

In response to interrogatory 12: Answer: Griffith Amusement Company was the only corporate defendant indebted to Consolidated Theaters, Inc. for said period.

759 The indebtedness was in the nature of a running account for supplies, maintenance, services, etc. The amounts per year are as follows:

April 28, 1934—Records do not disclose the amount due on that date.

These are sworn to by B. J. McKenna on the 5th day of August, 1943.

764 The next are the answers of R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc.

Answer to Interrogatory No. 2 is as follows:

The principal office of the corporation was in Denver, Colorado from April 28, 1934, to September 28, 1934, at which time it was moved to the Tower Petroleum Building, Dallas, Texas, where it has since been maintained continuously. General administration, accounting, booking and the like are carried on here. No branch offices other than theater offices have been maintained. Mr. R. E. Griffith, President of the Corporation, was and is General Manager, negotiating and approving all major contracts and deals, leases, acquisitions and sales, counseling with all department heads as to general operations such as booking of pictures and policies of operation of the various theaters.

In answer to Interrogatory No. 7 the answer is:

The ten principal stockholders all hold common stock, the amount held by each being listed below. All of such stock was acquired between the date of incorporation and April 28, 1939, except in the case of R. E. Griffith, while stock was acquired by several of the individuals at different dates, no transfers have taken place and the amount stated opposite each name, therefore, gives the amount of stock held by each person on April 28, 1939.

Name of stockholders	Number of shares held
R. E. Griffith, Dallas, Texas	2,095
765 Griffith Employees Investment Company, Dallas, Texas	250
Marcello Griffith, Dallas, Texas	300
Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma	250
Associated Investment Company, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma	250
Foster McSwain, Ada, Oklahoma	150
H. J. Griffith, Kansas City, Missouri	125
Fred Morley, Dallas, Texas	110
F. L. Stocker, Dallas, Texas	100
Dorothy V. Payne, Dallas, Texas	97

R. E. Griffith during this period disposed at various times of a total of 349 shares.

The answer in response to Interrogatory No. 15 is as follows:

All of the following corporations were organized for the purpose of engaging in the operation of motion picture theaters.

CONSOLIDATED THEATERS, NOW GRIFFITH CONSOLIDATED THEATERS, INC.

March 18, 1935	90 shares
March 29, 1937	463 shares
June 9, 1937	407 shares

June 27, 1936, the corporation transferred 10 shares of this stock to R. E. Griffith.

PUEBLO THEATER, INC.

September 23, 1936, the corporation acquired from the issuing corporation 18 shares of the Class A common stock of the par value of $100.00 each of the Pueblo Theater, Inc., Pueblo, Colorado. On March 4, 1937, the corporation acquired from the issuing corporation 18 shares of the same stock. May 22, 1937 it acquired 99 shares from the issuing corporation. July 3, 1937, it acquired 44 shares from said corporation. On January 31, 1938, all of the above stock was cancelled and in exchange therefor the 769 corporation acquired from Chief Investment Corporation, a Colorado Corporation, 85 shares of Common stock of Chief Investment Corporation of the par value of $100.00 each. Pueblo Theaters, Inc., was then dissolved.

Mr. WRIGHT. I wanted to call your attention to the fact that we had prepared a tabulation of these acquisitions by years in towns so as to give the total number on specific dates and then we served on defendants on the form of a notice to admit, on May 2nd. Now they have served an answer which does not admit or deny the facts but simply say they are not bound to admit them and do not regard them as material. I think your Honor might be interested in having our tabulation in any event.

The COURT. You can submit that in the nature of a brief.

Mr. COCHRAN. I will say this, if your Honor please; I think that counsel should furnish that stipulation and we will furnish ours. I think we entirely agree there will not be many points of departure. When we get a chance to examine it we can then submit our brief.

(Hereupon Court adjourned until ten o'clock a. m. May 13, 1945.)

789 PROCEEDINGS

May 14, 1945, 10 o'clock a. m.

Mr. KIMB. Continuing reading the interrogatories from where I left off. I am reading 23 from R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., the answer is:

CARLSBAD, NEW MEXICO

A competitive theater was operated here for some time but its name and the dates of its operation are not known.

CLOVIS, NEW MEXICO

This defendant has no financial interest in the Lyceum Theater but the theater is included with the properties of this defendant in an operating agreement.

Gallup, New Mexico—El Morro Theater.

Hobbs, New Mexico—Roosevelt Theater.

Roswell, New Mexico—El Capitan Theater.

That concludes the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc.

ANSWERS TO INTERROGATORIES OF WESTEX THEATERS, INC.

Mr. KIMB. The next answer I desire to read is paragraph 2 of Westex Theaters, which is as follows:

The principal executive office has been at Dallas, Texas, in the Tower Petroleum Building, since organization of the corporation. No branch offices other than theater 790 offices have been maintained. Mr. R. E. Griffith, President of the Corporation, was and is General Manager, negotiating and approving all major contracts and deals, leases, acquisitions and sales, counseling with all department heads as to general operations such as booking of pictures and policies of operation of the various theaters.

The next is the answer to interrogatory No. 3:

Incorporating Directors: R. E. Griffith, Dallas, Texas, B. J. McKenna and G. M. Bond of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, Foster McSwain, Ada, Oklahoma and H. J. Griffith, Kansas City, Missouri. (McSwain and H. J. Griffith resigned May 4, 1936). R. I. Payne and F. L. Stocker of Dallas, Texas were elected to the Board of Directors to replace McSwain and H. J. Griffith, May 4, 1936. For the other years involved the officers and directors except as above set out held office continuously.

The next is the answer to interrogatory No. 4.

By its charter the authorized capital was 15,000 shares without par value.

On March 1, 1939, the charter was amended so as to provide for 25,000 shares without par value.

On April 28, 1939, there were 17,376 shares of stock outstanding.

The answer to interrogatory No. 7 is as follows:

The amount of stock held by the nine stockholders is listed below. All such stock was acquired between the 791 date of incorporation and April 28, 1939. No transfers have taken place and the amount stated opposite each name, therefore, gives the amount of stock held by each person on April 28, 1939

Name of stockholders	Number of shares held
R. E. Griffith, Dallas, Texas	50
R. I. Payne, Dallas, Texas	1,596

[1] In the last four situations mentioned there are various small stockholders inactive in the business and not known to this defendant. The above are the only active stockholders in each case.

The next is the answer to interrogatory No. 22, which is as follows:

BURKBURNETT, TEXAS
PORTALES, NEW MEXICO
HEREFORD, TEXAS
SAN SABA, TEXAS
795 SPUR, TEXAS
BELTON, TEXAS
CLARKESVILLE, TEXAS
LAMPASAS, TEXAS
WINTERS, TEXAS
BRADY, TEXAS
GONZALES, TEXAS
LULING, TEXAS.

This answer is prepared largely from the recollection of officers and agents of the defendant. It may be that errors occur in it due to imperfect recollection.

The next is the answer to interrogatory No. 23.

PLAINVIEW, TEXAS

Ritz Theater operated during most of 1937. Dates of operation not known.

GEORGETOWN, TEXAS

Aztec Theater opened for a time unknown before this defendant acquired interest in the situation.

BALLINGER, TEXAS

Ritz Theater opened in 1935, Texas Theater opened January 29, 1939.

MERKEL, TEXAS

In 1938 a small theater opened and ran for sometime. Name and details not known.

ODESSA, TEXAS

Rio Theater opened in 1936. Details not known.

STAMFORD, TEXAS

Palace Theater.

BRADY, TEXAS

Ritz Theater opened until sometime in 1937,
796 date not known.

The COURT. What is the interrogatory to which these are the answers?

Mr. KIME. That is the one on opposition, I assume. The interrogatory is: "State the name and address of each theater operated at any time since April 28, 1935, in the towns in which the complaint alleges the defendant operates one or more theaters in which the defendants have not owned a financial interest at any time since that date. If such theaters were not operated during the entire period from April 28, 1934, to the present, state the approximate dates of their operation."

The COURT. This is what you call the independent theaters in operation in the towns where the Griffith interests have theaters?

Mr. KIMR. That's right, your Honor.

LOCKHART, TEXAS

Square Theater operated in 1938. Details not known.

This answer is prepared from recollection as in the case of the answer to Interrogatory #22.

This was sworn to by R. I. Payne on the 20th day of August, 1943.

The next are the answers of the individual defendants, and I only care to read the answer to Interrogatory
797 No. 5 in each case.

Interrogatory No. 5 is as follows: "Describe any financial interests, including any interest in theater properties owned by the defendants in any motion picture enterprise other than the ownership of securities issued by any of the corporate defendants and with respect to such interests, state the nature of the interest, the date when it was acquired, the name and address of the person from whom it was acquired, and the consideration paid therefor."

Mr. H. J. Griffith's answer to this is: Ardmore, Oklahoma.

H. J. Griffith acquired joint venture interest in theaters in Ardmore, Oklahoma, in July, 1932. He paid $2,988.36 to H. M. Lowenstein, Ardmore, Oklahoma, for 6% interest.

Chickasha, Oklahoma

On September 4, 1934, H. J. Griffith acquired 76 shares of stock in Chickasha Amusement Company, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, from Texas-Oklahoma Enterprises, Inc., for the consideration of $10,000.00. On September 5, 1934 this corporation was dissolved and on September 6, 1934, H. J. Griffith acquired from the dissolved corporation one-half interest in the Sugg Theater lease, one-half interest in the Rialto Theater, lease, and one-half interest in the Kozy Lease; and one-half interest in the Ritz Build-798 ing and equipment lease. On April 2, 1936, H. J. Griffith acquired from the Sheriff of Grady County one-half interest in title to Ritz real property for $4,000.00.

H. J. Griffith acquired from Glen W. Dickinson, Kansas City, Missouri, 625 shares of stock in Glen W. Dickinson Theaters, Inc., and certain real estate for the total consideration of $116,474.61.

The next is the answer of L. C. Griffith to Interrogatory No. 5, and the answer is as follows:

L. C. Griffith acquired joint venture interest in theaters in Ardmore, Oklahoma, in July, 1932. He paid $14,623.99 to H. M. Lowenstein, Ardmore, Oklahoma, for 28% interest.

This likewise was sworn to by L. C. Griffith on the 5th day of August, 1943.

799 The answer of R. E. Griffith to Interrogatory 5 is as follows:

Prior to the year ending January 2, 1937 the books of this corporation were imperfectly kept. It is therefore not possible to detail from the records available the indebtedness inquired about. Attached are schedules of such indebtedness as of January 2, 1937, January 1, 1938, December 31, 1938 and December 30, 1939. For the year 1938 some records are missing and the statement for that year is therefore not complete. However, all such indebtedness was incurred on account of the acquisition of property or the financing or improvement of such acquisitions.

That was signed and sworn to by R. E. Griffith on the 25th day of August, 1943.

Mr. WRIGHT. At this point we will resume with oral testimony.

MALCOLM GEIGER, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. WRIGHT.

Q. State your name and address.

A. 152 Beechwood Drive, Wichita, Kansas.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. At the present time I am working for the Beach Aircraft Company as radio technician.

800 Q. At Wichita?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were formerly connected with the Bays Theater at Blackwell, Oklahoma?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. I first went to work for them as projectionist in August, 1937.

Q. You later became manager of the theater?

A. Yes, sir, it was just about a year later.

Q. That was the theater owned by George Lahan?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of Lahan Theaters, Inc.?

A. Lahan.

Q. That theater you say opened in 1937?

A. Well, I am not positive of that. I believe it opened in 1937.

Q. At the time it opened then you were the projectionist there?

A. No, it was already running when I went to work there.

Q. You went to work in 1937 after it opened. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you went to work can you tell us what other theaters were operating there then?

801 A. The Griffith Amusement Company was operating the Rivoli and Midwest Theaters.

Q. Well, there were then only those three theaters operating, the Rivoli, Midwest and Bays?

A. Yes, the Rivoli, Midwest and Bays.

Q. How large a town was Blackwell then?

A. To the best of my knowledge it was 10,000 population. That is the way we always considered it.

Q. About 10,000?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you give us a general description of those three theaters with respect to seating capacity and general characteristics?

A. Well, to the best of my knowledge the Rivoli seats about——

Mr. COCHRAN. I think he should say whether he knows or not. He says to the best of his knowledge. I don't know what knowledge he has. He should show what his acquaintance with those theaters is.

Mr. WRIGHT. You know the approximate seating capacity of the three theaters there, or what it was at that time?

A. Yes, I think so.

Q. What was it?

A. The Rivoli was 700 seats; the Midwest was 400

802 and the Bays was 1200.

Q. How about the equipment in those theaters. Were you generally familiar with the character of that equipment?

A. Well, I was familiar with the Bays. We had one of the finest sound systems and projecting machines that money could buy, and I was in the Rivoli booth once or twice and also the Midwest when I was working there at the Bays as an operator. I got acquainted with the boys there and to my belief we had the best sound system and projection equipment.

Q. You mean the best of the three theaters?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know what the relative ages of those theaters were?

A. Sir.

Q. Do you know what the ages of the three theaters were, which was the oldest?

A. Well, I don't know. I was not in Blackwell at the time any of them were built. I think I remember somebody saying——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that.

The COURT. Yes, unless you know of your own knowledge, don't answer.

Mr. WRIGHT. If you don't know, don't answer.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. How did they compare in appearance at that time?

803 A. Well, the Bays had a stucco front to it, and the Rivoli is brick. All the other fronts were brick, that is, the Midwest and the Rivoli were brick and the Bays was stucco on top of brick.

Q. You became manager of the Bays you say in 1938?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time you became manager there, what major product, if any, was the Bays using?

A. Well, the only major product we were using was a few second runs, that we were using.

Q. From what company?

A. Well, there was a few second run from Universal——

Mr. COCHRAN. I think his statement in regard to the product of the major companies is too indefinite, and vague, and also calling for a conclusion. It does not show what product they were using, and also what contracts were used. In other words, we have no idea what they were running from this general statement of his, and also as I have said before, these general statements about product they were using proved to be rather indefinite.

The COURT. Well, if he knows what they were using he can state.

A. We were using Monogram. That was the first run. We were using Republic, first run; Grand National, first run; some Universal, second run, and some Gaumont 804 British, first run. That is all I definitely know anything about.

Q. Do you know whether you had any other second run product from any of the major companies other than Universal at that time, in 1938, when you became manager?

A. No.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object because it calls for a conclusion of the witness.

The COURT. He said "No."

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. What did you say?

A. No.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike that as being a conclusion and also not identifying the companies he is talking about.

The COURT. Overruled. He ought to know.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you make any efforts to buy any other second runs from the other major companies?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. From what companies?

A. Well, Fox was one.

Q. What others? Just name the ones you tried to get second run from.

A. Fox, Paramount, Warner Brothers, Columbia and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Did I mention Paramount?

Q. You said Fox, Paramount, Warner, Columbia and Metro. Was the Rivoli or Midwest playing any second runs of those companies?

805 Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that; there is nothing to show that he knows what was playing.

The COURT. If he knows. You may state of your own knowledge, but not what anybody told you.

A. I don't believe the Rivoli was playing any second runs; I am not positive about Midwest.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know what, in general, kind of program policies the Rivoli and the Midwest were then operating under?

A. Well, it was a first run policy.

Q. For what companies?

A. All of them, all of the major companies.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that, as too indefinite and calling for a conclusion.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. By the major companies, you refer to what companies?

A. Well, I am referring to Fox, Paramount, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Universal, Warner Bros. Columbia, did I mention RKO?

Q. I don't think so.

A. RKO.

Q. Now, you say you played Universal second run. That was after a first run at one of the Griffith houses?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You attempted to secure a second run from 806 Fox, Paramount, Warner, Columbia, MGM, is that right?

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as repetition. He has already covered that.

The COURT. Overruled, but he has stated that.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you get a second run with any of those companies, Fox, Paramount, Warner, Columbia, or MGM?

A. Not right at that time, no, sir.

Q. And was any reason given to you by any of these companies as to why you could not have a second run?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that as hearsay.

The COURT. Sustained and exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. At the time you were refused these second runs by these companies, did you observe whether or not the Griffith houses were playing their product on second run?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the form of the question, because he is assuming that they were refused. He says at the time they were refused.

The COURT. Sustained. I think the question is hardly fairly stated.

Mr. WRIGHT. It already appears, if the Court please, that he tried to get the second runs and didn't get them at that time.

The COURT. There may be some other reason for it, but I think the word "refused" is not proper.

807 By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you tell us just what, if any, negotiations you had with these companies?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to any statements that were made between them.

The COURT. Yes, just state what you did.

A. I went into Fox and talked to the manager. He told me that they were not selling——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting): We object to the statement.

The COURT. Yes.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Say what you did.

A. I asked for product, for second run product for Blackwell, the Bays Theater.

Q. And did he take an application from you?

A. The first time, no.

Q. When was that?

A. Well, I believe that was in—I can't recollect the exact date, I believe it was the latter part of '38 or the first part of '39.

Q. And did the Fox man later take an application?

A. Well, he told me—is this right?

The COURT. Don't say what he said. Just state what you did.

A. No, he didn't take an application for the first two times that I asked him. The third time I asked him
808 for the product the second run product was at Blackwell, and he said he would have to take it up——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting): We object to the statement.

The COURT. Don't say what was said.

The WITNESS. All right.

Mr. COCHRAN. The question was whether he took an application.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. When was it he took an application from you?

A. It was in '39, I believe.

Q. Do you remember when in '39?

A. I don't recall if it was in September or not.

Q. I didn't hear the answer. You will have to speak louder.

A. I do not know whether it was in September or not.

Q. What is your best recollection; sometime in the summer or fall of '39?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, calling your attention to the spring of 1939, did another theater open there then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the name of it?

A. The Palace Theater.

Q. And who operated it?

809 A. Griffith Amusement Company.

Q. Can you describe that theater?

A. Well, it had 600 seats, was the seating capacity.

Q. Was it a new theater or was it converted or what?

A. No, it was an old theater building, that the equipment had been taken out sometime before, and the building had been setting idle, and the Griffith Amusement Company leased it and re-equipped it and opened it up.

Q. Do you remember about when it was they opened it?

A. Well, it was in '39.

Q. Do you remember what part of '39?

A. Well, I would say it was in the early summer of 1939.

Q. When it opened, what kind of program policy did it have?

A. It was a second run house.
Q. Of what product?
A. Well, of all the major product.
Mr. COCHRAN. We again object on the ground that that is a conclusion.
The COURT. I didn't get his answer.
A. I said all major product, but I would say——
Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting): If he knows.
A. (Continuing). I will say Fox, Metro, Warner's Paramount, Columbia—let's see—I forget which ones—
810 MGM.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. That's the same as Metro, isn't it?
A. Well, that's right.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What, if any, second run did you finally get for the Bays?
A. We had a few cut backs on the Universal contract that the Griffith Amusement Company didn't take. It was their cut backs.
Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that statement and move to strike it, as that is not the best evidence of whether Griffith had those pictures or not.
The COURT. Well, you said you had some cut backs?
A. Yes, sir.
Mr. COCHRAN. He got some pictures.
The COURT. Eliminate that portion of the answer where he says Griffith didn't take them. I think that is a conclusion.
Mr. COCHRAN. Yes, but as to the statement, cut backs, you recall the witness Scaling was talking about cut backs and it finally developed he was applying that to pictures not licensed to the other parties. Cut backs as the Government will contend and as commonly known to the trade refers to pictures which have been licensed and which are eliminated under some provision of the contract. Now, that goes into the terms of the contract.
811 The COURT. Do you know that any of the pictures that you got had been under contract with Griffith?
A. No, I do not know that.

By the COURT:

Q. Then you got some pictures from Universal?
A. Yes, sir. I might state in connection with that that in my dealings with the film companies, where Griffith had the first run, that I was told——
The COURT (interrupting): No.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to what he was told.

A. All right. I was able to pick up a few pictures which they did not use. I didn't understand the Government's ruling on that, or what they were supposed to do.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you know that they had these pictures under contract?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you see the contract?

A. Just how do you mean that, your Honor?

Q. I mean did you learn—now, I don't mean from information from the Universal, but did you know your own knowledge that these were pictures which had been under contract to the Griffith Company?

A. Well, I don't know whether they had been under contract or not, but they didn't use them.

Q. Well, they were not used by anybody but you, were they?

812 A. That's right, these ones.

The COURT. Proceed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I show you these exhibits that have been marked for identification here, the first one is Plaintiff's Exhibit 197 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that as the first run contract you had with RKO for the Bays Theater for the '38-39 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Plaintiff's Exhibit 198 for identification, is that the second run deal with RKO for the same season (handing)?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And these contracts were signed by you on or about the dates, that appear on there, November 28, 1938?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, in addition to this RKO second run that you bought with the first run, you also finally made a deal for some second run Metro, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By the way were you able to locate any of the contracts or records that were called for in the subpoena served upon you?

A. No, sir, I wasn't.

Mr. WRIGHT. We subpoenaed the contracts from Loew's, the contracts in question, but they were not 813 produced when the material was identified Saturday, and perhaps Mr. Nickerson will tell us if they have arrived.

Mr. NICKERSON. They have not arrived yet.

Mr. COCHRAN. When you refer to Loew's, that's the same as Metro, isn't it, Mr. Wright?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir.

Q. That Metro, do you remember the seasons——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting): Let's get the record straight on that. The pictures which are distributed by Loew's are the pictures produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is that correct?

Mr. WRIGHT. Correct.

Mr. COCHRAN. Sometimes referred to as MGM.

Mr. KIMR. And Metro.

Mr. COCHRAN. And Metro.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you remember the seasons covered by the Metro deal which you finally made?

A. Well, I had to buy two different season's product.

Q. What seasons were they?

A. The '37–38 and the '38–39, second run.

814 Q. And then you were playing the 1937–38, second run in the summer of 1939?

A. Yes. That is the order that I had to play them, was the 1937—'38 contract first.

Q. So that in the summer of 1939 then you were not playing any Metro current second run, second run of the current season?

A. No, sir.

Q. How long did the operation continue there of the Bays Theater?

A. Well, it was sold in October, 1939.

Q. Then what was done with the theater?

A. It was locked up.

Q. It was sold to Griffith, was it?

A. Yes, it was sold to Griffith.

Q. That is the year the theater was closed?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know how long after that it remained closed?

A. Well, it is still closed to this date.

Q. Now, you played the RKO pictures there at the theater under these Exhibits 197 and 198?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the Bays?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For the 1938–39 season?

815 A. Yes.

Q. Then did RKO offer you any opportunity to negotiate for a continuance of those runs for the 1939–40 season?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that. Let him state what was done, if anything.

The COURT. Sustained.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Well, what did you do, if anything, about getting RKO for the '39–40 season?

A. Well, I believe the theater was—we didn't attempt it at that time, prior to the time the theater closed.

By the COURT:

Q. When was the theater sold?

A. It was in October, 1939.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. October, 1939. Wasn't the selling season early in the summer of each year and the early fall?

Mr. COCHRAN. Object to leading the witness, if the Court please.

The COURT. Yes, I think it is leading.

Mr. COCHRAN. It has been testified here that the selling season extended over a considerable period of time.

The COURT. Overruled.

Mr. COCHRAN. Exception.

A. I don't recall offhand about that.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you make any effort to get contracts for the 1939–40 season?

A. With RKO?

816 Q. Yes.

A. I am a little mixed up on my dates. I have the first run for '38 and '39. Now the next year—what are you wanting to know about?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. 1939 and '40.

A. I do not recall negotiating or trying to.

Q. You remember whether anybody from RKO came to see you about the '39–40 product?

A. No, I do not.

Q. You don't know whether they did or not?

A. Well, I am sure they didn't—they did not.

Q. There was no offer made to you with respect to the 1939–40 product, is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, with respect to the Fox, Paramount, Warner and Columbia second run that you say the Griffith Theaters had that you did not get, do you know why it was they would not license those pictures to the Bays for second run but did license them to Griffith?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that. That should be restricted to what he did.

The COURT. Sustained. That would be calling for a conclusion. You can state anything you did.

A. Am I allowed to say what they told me?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think that is part of our case. It
817 is perfectly proper for us to show when he tried to buy second run from these companies and they told him the town was too small for second run, a perfectly spacious reason.

The COURT. You can put some of them on the stand and show that, but this is hearsay, so far as this witness is concerned.

Mr. WRIGHT. It is no more hearsay than if we put somebody on the stand from the company to testify to the fact they told him that than if he testified they told him that. As far as the hearsay rule is concerned the situation is exactly the same.

The COURT. I do not agree with you.

Mr. WRIGHT. A conversation is being testified to——

The COURT. He can let him state what they did. You can ask him, "Did you sell him?"

Mr. WRIGHT. He establishes the fact they did not sell him.

The COURT. You can ask him if they refused to sell him but you can't prove by this witness what somebody else said.

Mr. COCHRAN. Also the reasons for it.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, let's understand ourselves on this now. As I understand your ruling, the exclusion of conversations between this witness and RKO would apply equally whether we call the RKO man 818 to testify to the conversation or whether we call this man. Isn't that right?

The COURT. That is true so far as the conversations are concerned, but if you wanted to prove that the exhibitor refused to sell this man you should prove it by a witness from the distributor. He can say, "I refused to sell him and my reasons for refusing to sell him are so and so," but for this man to state what someone else said to him is pure hearsay.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think I am entitled to show what the reasons given to him were for not dealing with them. We have in evidence here the contracts which show the method of doing business that was pursued between these defendants and these distributors, and it is our claim that method of doing business prevented the independent competitors of Griffith from having an opportunity to negotiate on a competitive basis for product Griffith might want to use. I don't see how that can be done without going into the negotiations.

The COURT. Show it by the distributor.

Mr. WRIGHT. The distributors are not more competent than he is to testify to any conversation between him and the distributors.

The COURT. You can ask the distributor "Did you sell this independent theater?" and he can say "No."

819 Then you can ask him "What were your reasons for not selling him?" You can show that by them.

Mr. WRIGHT. I would not accept his answer as to what his reasons were.

The COURT. That is unfortunate.

Mr. WRIGHT. We say under our theory of the case that the distributors gave completely specious reasons for refusing to sell him and he would say so from the stand today. We do not propose to call them here to give that kind of testimony.

The COURT. They are the ones that made the contract with Griffith and they are the ones you say refuse to make the contracts with this man.

Mr. WRIGHT. We are entitled to show the effect of these contracts by the testimony of Griffith's competitors, what they did, what they tried to do, and their negotiations with these distributors. I want to call your Honor's attention to one more aspect of the Crescent decision before we leave this matter because I think it squarely controls the precise issue here. In this case, as in that case your Honor may not have noticed, we have not pressed the argument before, but there are two charges involved here, a charge of restraint of trade in violation of Section 1, and a charge of Monopolization in violation of Section 2. Now, in that case, 820 and you have the same in this one, where they said, assumming that there isn't any showing of conspiracy between these distributors and these defendants, and for that reason the inter-office correspondence passing among the representatives of the distributors is not admissible in evidence, assuming that, that the evidence was competent, the evidence of negotiations between the independents and the distributors is perfectly competent to show what the relations were between the independents and the distributors and what the effects of this monopolization that was charged solely against the defendants were.

The COURT. The distributors were parties to that action, weren't they?

Mr. WRIGHT. Three were parties. Two were dismissed out and one was finally found guilty, but it should be borne in mind by that that the court's discussion of it related to inter-office correspondence passing between the distributors who were not defendants to the action and in disposing of that question the court said we do not have to decide whether or not the court's finding those non-defendant distributors were actually co-conspirators was correct or not, because in any event there was ample evidence in the record to show what the relations of the distributors were with this combination of defendant exhibitor corporations; what their relations were with the theaters involved in the suit.

821 That is, the theaters of the defendants and theaters of the complaining witnesses, that there was evidence they referred to which they said would sustain the judgment of what the dealings were between the witness and the distributors, and also evidence of what the dealings were between the defendant exhibitors and the same distributors. That is the evidence on which the court rested its judgment in that case, and assuming that there was no proof of conspiracy which would connect any particular distributor with the charge, and I don't see how your Honor could exclude

---

The COURT. It is a fundamental principle that hearsay evidence is incompetent. This is hearsay. Exception is allowed.

Mr. WRIGHT. There are numerous exceptions to the hearsay rule. In addition to the conspiracy exception theory, I merely want to call your Honor's attention to the other exception. That is, whenever proof is made of the effect of a certain charge of monopolization, much of the evidence that goes in any anti-trust suit to show those effects necessarily concerns matters which occurred outside of the presence of the defendants who are charged with monopolization——

The COURT. Is it your contention that the exhibitors in this case or in any other case, would not have the right to make a purchase of all of the pictures which they 822 deemed were necessary to operate their theaters from the distributors?

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, the charge of monopolization goes much further than that. The claim is here that there has been an actual monopolization of theater operating, the operation of theaters in this area; that it has been accomplished by controlling the film supply through these contracts we have put in evidence.

The COURT. That is the contention, but the Court must rely on the evidence which is introduced. Now the substance of the evidence which you have introduced so far is this: That these defendants made contracts with the various distributors and they apparently were able to make contracts with distributors for any of the products they desired. Now, was that an illegal contract on its face? Your contention is that those contracts were made for the purpose of preventing any other theater from getting that product. I assume from the pleadings and from the statement of counsel that those contracts were made in good faith in order to have sufficient pictures to meet their requirements and that they tried to get all the good pictures they could. Now if they contracted those pictures, the mere fact that they were able to contract them, and that someone else could not contract for them, to say that constitutes a conspiracy, I think is a conclusion. I see your theory of the case all right, but of course, we must decide 823 cases not on theories but on evidence introduced.

This witness testified he made a contract for 1937–38 with RKO, and he made a contract for 1938–39 and that he made no effort to get a contract for 1939–40. That is his testimony. Now, you ask him the question, "What reason did they give you for not furnishing you a contract in 1939–40?" He said he didn't have any talk with them at all. He didn't ask for any contract for 1939–40.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think I am also entitled to show what the negotiations were with reference to the second run product. What happened here is, if we are permitted to produce the evidence to show it, is that here was a town in which a second run operation on major product was a perfectly legitimate and feasible operation. The independent comes along and attempts to set up that kind of operations. He cannot do it because these distributors just simply refuse to negotiate with him. Then Griffith comes along and opens up another old house and he puts the same policy in there. Now the independent sells out; his house is closed and Griffith continues with the other three houses. Now, if the court please, I think an essential part of any understanding of what happens in that situation is the actual negotiations that the independent had for the second run product. In the absence of that, I don't see how your Honor can properly evaluate at all what the legal effect
824 is of this course of dealing between these defendants.

The COURT. I am not questioning the importance of that testimony if it were offered by a competent witness, but you cannot prove it by hearsay. This witness can say they didn't do so and so, but certainly what these parties who are not defendants said would not be binding on these defendants.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court pleases, it would be equally hearsay if the distributor representative testified to the conversations. There is no difference as far as the hearsay rule is concerned.

The COURT. As to the conversations, but he could state whether or not he sold and why he didn't sell. He could make that statement.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't see why he is any more competent to draw a conclusion than the witness here.

The COURT. Because he is telling what he did and you are asking this witness for what somebody else said to him.

Mr. WRIGHT. He knows what the distributors have done with reference to his theater. He is certainly competent to tell that.

The COURT. You can prove that by the distributors. They are available I assume. You could put them on the stand and ask if they sold him and if they did not, why.

825 If they want to say "We didn't sell him because we had an arrangement with these defendants", and you contend——

Mr. WRIGHT. As far as I am concerned they won't say anything of the kind. I would not vouch for any of the distributor representatives negotiating and dealing with them because, as far as we are concerned, our charge is they were part of this combination and cooperating with Griffith in suppressing his independent competition. Under those circumstances, I don't think your Honor could say to us the only way we can prove an unlawful combination is by calling the parties to the combination. In any of these cases we have to rely for our proof on the unlawful intent, based largely on circumstantial evidence. We show what the circumstances were and what happened by outside testimony. We do not prove it by the testimony of the people who are charged as conspirators.

The COURT. If these distributors were party defendants in this case your testimony would be competent.

Mr. COCHRAN. They also have not proved any conspiracy or combination of any distributors.

The COURT. I see no occasion to change my ruling, Mr. Wright. Objection sustained. Exception allowed.

826 Mr. WRIGHT. I will go ahead and make my record on these conversations anyway, if your Honor please.

The COURT. Very well. The plaintiff is permitted to ask the questions objected to and sustained, in order to make the record complete.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, with respect to Fox, do you recall what was said—by the way, who did you deal with at Fox, if you remember?

A. Mr. Clark, I believe. The manager.

Q. The Oklahoma City manager?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell us what, if any, reason he gave to you for not negotiating with you for a second run deal there?

A. Well, there were two times that I talked to him about it, two different times. The first time, he said that they were not selling any second run product at Blackwell; that it would hurt their first runs. The second time that I approached him on the subject, he stated that Blackwell was too small a town to have second runs.

Q. Now, do you remember who you dealt with at Paramount?

A. Oh (hesitating), I forgot whether it was Mr. Brunk or not.

Q. Was it the manager there or booker, or who?

A. A booker, I believe.

827 Q. Do you remember what he told you?

A. Well, he stated that the town was too small.

Q. How about Warner?

A. Well, they were not selling any second runs.

Q. That's what they told you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Columbia.

A. They were not selling second runs.

Q. Now, with respect to Universal, I believe you said you had second run with Universal in '38?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How about '39; what, if any, efforts did you make to continue the Universal second run?

Mr. COCHRAN. Is this still on the offer? The trouble about it is, he is getting off of the questions that he offered, that was made in connection with that. Now, he is asking about efforts. We are objecting to the testimony that has been offered up to this time in connection with Fox, Paramount, Warner and Columbia, I think we should dispose of that.

The COURT. Objection sustained.

Mr. COCHRAN. He said Warner said they were not selling second runs.

The COURT. Objection sustained.

Mr. COCHRAN. On Universal, he is asking him a

828 question about what attempts he made to obtain

Universal, as I understand it, and we are not objecting to that, if he limits it to what he did.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Just say what, if anything, you did to try to keep the Universal second run that you had in '38.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the form of the question, "trying to keep."

By the COURT:

Q. What did you do with reference to securing the Universal contract for the season of 1939–40?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, this should be, I think—he had it for '37–38, and it would be the '38–39, isn't that right?

Mr. COCHRAN. Your question said you had it for '38. I don't know.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What season was that; was that the '37–38 season product?

A. Yes, sir, it was the '37–38.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you have the '38–39?

A. That I had first.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. That you had second run on?

A. Yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you have a contract with Universal for '38–39?

A. Well, it reverts back to what I would call cutbacks, those pictures that Griffith didn't play, didn't accept.

829 By the COURT:

Q. You said a while ago, as I understood you, that you had a two-year contract with Universal, '37–38 and '38–39.

Mr. WRIGHT. That was RKO, your Honor.

The COURT. RKO; oh, I beg pardon.

The WITNESS. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. The two seasons he testified to, I believe, was the Metro contract.

Mr. COCHRAN. That was second runs, made in '39.

By the COURT:

Q. What effort did you make yourself to securing the contract for '39–40?

A. Well, one of them was with Universal. I was told——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting): "We object to what he was told.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Just say what you did first.

A. Well, I asked them for the '39–40 product, second run, and their cutbacks.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Is this '38–39 or '39–40?

A. This is '39–40, I believe.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you get a second run contract from them then?

A. No, because, they wouldn't know what was or would be available until later in the season.

Q. Now, as I understood your testimony, you had a second run, a regular second run Universal for the '37–38 season, is that right?

830 A. That's right.

Q. But you didn't have the second run Universal for the '38–39 season?

A. No, sir.

Q. The last year you were there?

A. That's right.

Q. Now, what, if any efforts did you make to get the second run for the '38–39 season?

A. Well, I asked for it.

Q. Who did you ask?

A. Well, I can't recall whether it was the manager or the booker.

Q. At the Oklahoma City exchange?

A. At the exchange, yes, sir.

Q. And did you get it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you told why you couldn't get it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the reason they gave you?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that question, your Honor.

The COURT. Sustained; but you may be permitted to answer it on the request of the Government to show what the testimony would be in order that the record may be complete.

A. Well, sir, maybe somebody could explain to me
831 what this Government ruling was, that this cutback business means; then, maybe I can explain myself a little better.

The COURT. Well, just state what was said.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Just state what was said. I think you may have been confused.

Mr. COCHRAN. This, as I understand, is merely an offer.

The COURT. This is the offer.

A. The Griffith Amusement Company had not decided on what pictures they were going to buy.

By the COURT:

Q. Just state what was said.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Is that what they told you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Just say what was said to you?

By the COURT:

Q. Who told you that?

A. Well, I am not positive if it was the booker or the manager.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. One or the other?

A. One or the other, yes, sir.

Q. Was that all that was said?

A. That was all.

Q. And did you see them again about it?

A. I, I did. Yes. And I was able at that time to buy some of the pictures that had been cutback.

Q. That is picture that had not been used in the 832 Griffith houses?

A. That's right.

Q. That's what you mean when you say cutbacks?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that offered testimony in regard to statements which were made by any representative of the Universal to this witness.

The COURT. Objection sustained and exception allowed.

Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross-examine.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When did you first go to Blackwell to live?

A. In 1937.

Q. What month?

A. Well, it was in August, I believe.

Q. Had you ever been to Blackwell before?

A. I had been through there several times.

Q. But you had never lived there?

A. No, sir.

Q. You were not familiar with the theater situation in Blackwell until you went there in August 1937, were you?

A. Well, not fully familiar with it, no, sir.

Q. You were not sufficiently familiar with it to 833 know what the history of the Bays Theater was, and its numerous, and the numerous changes of ownership and management of that theater over the period from 1919 until you went there in August of 1937?

A. Just what I had heard is all.

Q. You didn't know about the operations, you were not familiar with who, you didn't know who operated it say in 1919?

A. Well, I presume Mr. Bays.

Q. I am not asking you that; I am asking you if you know?

A. Well, now, I wouldn't know.

Q. You knew nothing about its operation under Dudley Tucker?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know anything about——

Mr. WRIGHT (interrupting). If the Court please, I don't see how this is cross-examination.

The COURT. Well, he said he didn't know anything about it except what was told him.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did you know anything about it? As I understand your testimony, Mr. George Layham was the owner of that theater when you went there in August 1937?

A. That's right.

Q. Of your own knowledge you do not know how 834 long he had operated, had been operating the theater?

A. Not definitely, no.

Q. Your first connection with that theater was as an operator of the projection machine?

A. That's right.

Q. In August of 1937, Mr. Johnson or Johnston was the manager of the theater?

A. That's right.

Q. Mr. Alvin Johnson?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that correct?

A. That's right.

Q. How long did he continue to be manager of that theater?

A. Well, it was a year, because I took his place the next August, in '38.

Q. Wasn't it December of 1938 when you took his place?

A. No, sir.

Q. Are you sure it was in August?
A. I am sure it was August.
Q. During the period from August 1937 to August 1938, where was Mr. George Layham living?
A. At Wichita.
Q. Do you know what business he was engaged in at that place?
A. Well, he was in the shoe repair business.
835 Q. Also he was engaged in the shoe repair business in Oklahoma City, was he not?
A. That's right.
Q. Do you know whether he had had any experience in the operation of motion picture theaters?
A. No, I don't.
Q. Did you know a man by the name of Royston or Royster?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. He was connected with Columbia pictures, wasn't he?
A. I believe he was.
Q. Do you know in what capacity?
A. I believe as a film salesman.
Q. He had some kind of an interest with Mr. Layham in that Bays Theater at Blackwell during the year 1938, did he not?
A. Well, some kind of an interest.
Q. Do you know that during 1938 that he licensed pictures for the Bays Theater?
A. Well, what do you mean 1938, sir?
Q. Well, I will say during the period from August 1937 until the time Mr. Royster was killed.
A. Yes.
Q. He licensed product that was used in the Bays Theater?
A. Well, he was, I take it he done the buying and booking.
836 Q. When you say buying, that means licensing of the picture?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When you speak of buying pictures, they are not in fact bought, are they; they are just licensed?
A. That is right.
Q. But in the language of the trade they speak of licensing and buying.
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And he also booked those pictures into that theater, did he?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. He was living at Oklahoma City, wasn't he?

A. Well, I don't know where he was living.

Q. Living at Kansas City?

A. Well, I wouldn't know that.

Q. He was not living in Blackwell, was he?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, that plan of licensing and booking of pictures by Royster, the salesman for Columbia, continued until Royster was killed, is that true?

A. Well, it seems to me that was discontinued before he was killed.

Q. Do you remember about the time of his death?

A. No, I don't, exactly.

837 Q. He was killed in an automobile accident?

A. I remember that, yes.

Q. Do you know the approximate time?

A. No, I wouldn't say the approximate time.

Q. Was it in '38 or '39?

A. Well, I couldn't, I wouldn't be positive of it.

Q. Well, now, can you definitely say that the buying and the booking of pictures for the Bays Theater by Royster was discontinued before Royster's death?

A. To the best of my knowledge, it was.

Q. Do you know when that was?

A. It was during sometime while Mr. Johnson was there, before I took over the management of it.

Q. Let's answer this question first. Did Mr. Royster's death occur before you became manager or after?

A. Well, I couldn't be positive of that, because I don't remember just what the date was on that.

Q. Do you know anything that would fix in your mind the reason why Royster had discontinued the licensing and booking of those pictures prior to the time of his death?

A. No, I do not.

Q. Now, after Royster discontinued the licensing and booking of pictures, did Mr. Layham come to Blackwell and make some changes in the set up; was there any change made at that time?

838 A. Yes, there was some changes made. Mr. Johnson took over the licensing of the product.

Q. Did he also book it?

A. Yes.

Q. Can you give us the approximate time he commenced to license and book pictures?

A. Well, I would say two months.

Q. Two months before you became manager?

A. Yes, sir; possibly longer than that, I don't know for sure.

Q. Shortly after Mr. Johnson became manager Mr. Layham came up there and found, or rather charged Mr. Johnson with having some kind of an affair up there with some woman, and also stealing from the theater, did he not?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, that is wholly objectionable. I don't see how it is proper cross-examination or what it has to do with the case.

The COURT. It would only go to the reputation or standing of the theater.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is what it is offered for.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, if we are going to go into the question of reputation or standing on the basis of who might have had an affair with whom, or what the morals or conduct of any of these people on either side were, it seems to me we are away outside of the 839 issues of the pleadings.

The COURT. Overruled. Here is a theater changing managers every year, and changing ownership, and it might be a basis. I don't know the basis of it, or the purpose of it, but overruled.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't suppose it would be any more proper for him to go into any internal difficulties with the theater's conduct than for us to do the same thing for the film companies or the defendants. It is clearly improper.

The COURT. This is cross-examination. Overruled and exception allowed. I don't think it is material.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. What was your answer?

A. I don't know anything about that at all.

Q. You know that he was fired?

A. No, I don't know that.

Q. You know that he ceased to be manager and that you became manager, is that right?

A. That's right.

Q. Now, during the time, or at the time you became manager you had no experience whatever in licensing and booking of pictures or the operation of the theater, had you?

A. Yes, I had.

Q. What experience?

840 A. I used to work for the Griffith Amusement Company.

Q. Where?

A. At Yale, Oklahoma.

Q. In what capacity?

A. First, I was projectionist.

Q. Then what other capacity?
A. I was appointed manager.
Q. How long did you manage the theater there?
A. Well, I do not recall; it was for a period of four or five months, I believe.
841 Q. Then where did you go?
A. I terminated and went to the opposition, Mr. Weaver across the street.
Q. When was that?
A. Well, it was sometime in 1926 or '27, I believe.
Q. Now, is it not a fact that the Griffith Amusement Company never operated in the town of Yale?
A. No, sir.
Q. But it was one of the Griffith Brothers before the Griffith Amusement Company was ever organized. Do you know that to be a fact?
A. Well, R. E. Griffith is the one I had my dealings with.
Q. Is he the one that owned and operated in the town of Yale during the time you were there?
A. The way I understand it, Mr. Hornbeck was interested too.
Q. So far as you know, it was R. E. Griffith and Adam Hornbeck?
A. Our receipts and everything was sent to the Griffith Amusement Company in Oklahoma City.
Q. Don't you know at the time you worked up there, there was no Griffith Amusement Company?
A. Well, maybe it was Griffith Theaters. I don't remember for sure.
842 Q. What other experience did you have? How long did you continue to operate for Mr. Weaver?
A. Until he bought the Rex out.
Q. How long was that?
A. I would say six months.
Q. In what capacity?
A. I was manager.
Q. Then what did you do?
A. Well, it seems to me I went to Cushing about that time. I don't know. I worked at Cushing as an operator.
Q. And up until the time you went to Blackwell your connection with theaters was entirely in operating machines other than the experiences you have already given us?
A. Well, that is the general policy of a lot of theaters, where they get their managers.
Q. I am not asking you that. I asked you if you had any other managerial experience?
A. No, sir.

Q. At the time you took over the management of the Bays Theater, it was operating on a policy of three changes a week, was it not?

A. I believe it was, yes.

Q. That is, you had a program which extended over Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and then a change on Wednesday which continued through Thursday and a change on Friday that continued through Saturday. Is that correct?

843 A. I believe that is right.

Q. Then at that time the theater was operating on a policy of playing double films; that is, two feature pictures on two of the changes each week. Is that correct?

A. That is right. Two on two changes.

Q. With two changes, on two of the three changes; two double bills during the week and one single bill.

A. Well, as far as I remember I run a double bill, three changes, I am not positive.

Q. In other words, your recollection is you were using six pictures a week, feature pictures.

A. I couldn't swear to it——

Q. That is your recollection?

A. That is my recollection.

Q. You know that you were using as many as five feature pictures a week, don't you?

A. Yes.

Q. On occasion you used three pictures on a program, did you not, what you call a triple bill?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. You don't recall they were operating a triple bill?

A. No, sir.

Q. The policy of operating those two double bills and one single bill each week continued right up until the time that theater was taken over or was sold to Griffith Amusement Company?

844 A. Yes.

Q. And you were able to obtain sufficient pictures to fill the bill every play date during that period?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, there was a part of that time when you were playing Metro pictures, that you played Metro pictures, second run, that you played those pictures on a single bill. Do you recall that?

A. I don't recall. I might recall the name of the picture if I heard it.

Q. The point I am making is, don't you know that you didn't obtain any Metro pictures second run, until you discontinued exhibiting, or rather until you adopted the policy of exhibiting Metro pictures on second bills?

A. I don't recall.

Q. You don't recall that?

A. No, I don't.

Q. You stated that the Bays Theater after it was acquired by the Griffith Amusement Company was immediately closed. Do you recall that they operated that theater for a time after it was acquired?

A. No, I don't.

Q. How long did you stay in Blackwell after that theater was sold?

A. Well, I was in and out of Blackwell up until 845 the time I went in the service.

Q. When did you first leave?

A. These things before I went in the service are kind of hazy. I was working out of the jurisdiction of the Arkansas City local, and I was dividing my time between Arkansas City and Winfield. I was living in Blackwell and driving up there to work.

Q. On October 14, 1939, were you still in Blackwell? That was the date the theater was sold?

A. Yes, I was still there.

846 Mr. COCHRAN. Is there an unanswered question?

(Last question and answer read by the reporter.)

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You immediately took a job which carried you out of town a good part of the time, did you not?

A. No, sir.

Q. What did you go into immediately after ceasing to be manager of the Bays Theater?

A. I do not recall immediately, right after, just what.

Q. Do you know, will you say then, that immediately after it was acquired by Griffith, that theater was not opened up and operated for a time?

A. To my knowledge, no.

Q. Do you say it has not been operated since that time?

A. I wouldn't say that.

Q. You wouldn't say that?

A. No.

Q. You don't know whether or not it has been opened and operated at various times since the date of its acquisition?

A. It has been leased; I presume that is the way it has been worked.

Q. Will you say it has not been operated at various times during that period?

A. No, I wouldn't say that.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all at this time.

847 Mr. WRIGHT. I don't believe I offered in evidence these two exhibits that were identified as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 197 and 198 for identification, the RKO contract.

Mr. COCHRAN. May I see them, please.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir (handing). Your Honor, we also offer at this time the agreement made between Griffith Amusement Company, George S. Layham and Layham Theaters, Inc. at the time the theater was sold, which has been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 13.

The COURT. This Exhibit 197 is the contract between Bays and Universal?

Mr. KIMB. RKO, your Honor.

Mr. WRIGHT. RKO.

The COURT. 198 is the same? And 197, the date is what, what season?

Mr. WRIGHT. The application is dated November 28, 1938, to cover the 1938–39 season, and they were approved December 16, 1938.

The COURT. And Plaintiff's Exhibit 198 is the next year?

Mr. KIMB. No, sir.

The COURT. The same year?

Mr. KIMB. The same year.

Mr. WRIGHT. One is first run and the other is second run. They are both the same year. Exhibit 197 is the 848 first run contract and 198 is the second run contract.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection to 197. I want to call your Honor's attention to the fact that on the face of this contract it says: "Preview privilege on all product. No extra charge will be made for any short subjects playing a fourth day with an RKO feature."

The COURT. It will be admitted.

Mr. COCHRAN. We have no objection to Exhibit 198. I call your Honor's attention to the fact that it is for 32 features, second run, with stamped clause which reads: "The exhibitor agrees to play and pay for 32 feature pictures generally released by the RKO Radio Pictures, Inc. during the 1938–39 season, and further agrees that he shall be entitled to a selection only from such pictures as are identified by production numbers running from 901 to 948. It is further agreed that the exhibitor's rate of rejection shall be limited to one picture out of each four released, and the exhibitor further agrees that the acceptance or rejection of a feature shall be given to the distributor within twenty-one days after its date of availability in the exchange territory. Any picture not rejected in writing within such twenty-one day period shall be deemed conclusively to have been accepted by the exhibitor. Also it says, "second run, preview privilege."

The COURT. Exhibit 198 is admitted.

849 Mr. COCHRAN. No objection to Exhibit No. 13.

Mr WRIGHT. I might add that we will offer the Metro contract that was referred to when and if it is produced, also.

The COURT. That is what number?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is No. 13.

The COURT. That is the contract to sell to Griffith of this run?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is an agreement not to compete, and so forth, signed by the Layham Theater.

Mr. COCHRAN. In that connection, your Honor, in this contract, clause 4, is the agreement that: "That the first parties agree that they will not engage in the theater business in Blackwell, or Kay County, Oklahoma, for a period of ten years, either directly or indirectly as an individual, corporation, member of a co-partnership, or a stockholder in any corporation or as agent, manager or otherwise, or so long as the second party or any person deriving title to said good will from it, carries on a like business therein." We are not objecting to the introduction of that clause. We contend that that is a perfectly legal contract and yet under some of the decisions it has been held they are entitled to put it in, but that there must be a showing that the arrangement was used for some unlawful purpose.

850 The agreement itself is lawful. We have had in this court a number of times that kind of arrangement. So I am not objecting to that clause. Also, while on that, we will say in connection with the Plainview, Texas, where an agreement not to compete was objected to by Mr. Rice for some reason, and we objected to it, not on the ground that it should not be admitted, but we objected, and we are withdrawing our objection. Do you withdraw your objection?

Mr. RICE. We will withdraw our objection, and it is in the record for other purposes. We are sure the Court will control the effect of it.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. COCHRAN. We will supply that number. The agreement is dated October 15, 1936, Tower Theaters, Inc., executed by Dennis Scaling and R. Q. Silverthorne, identified as Exhibit 8, I think.

Mr. WRIGHT. No, it is Exhibit 3.

Mr. COCHRAN. Exhibit 3?

Mr. WRIGHT. For identification. We are through with the documents now.

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, Mr. Geiger, why was it that you ran these double feature programs at the Bays Theater?

A. Well, the reason for doing that was we had to,
851 we didn't have any major product first run, and to build the bill up and make it stand up, we ran a second run of one of the major products. That was what we were endeavoring to do.

Q. I didn't quite understand your answer there. Do you mean you are talking about second run or a second feature?

A. Well, a second feature.

Q. Now, you say the independent product that you had; by that you refer to what companies?

A. Well, Monogram, Grand National, and Republic.

Q. You say that wouldn't stand up at times, it wouldn't attract customers by itself?

A. The majority of it, yes.

Q. And in order to attract people to the theater you then ran double bills?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. As I understand it, when you had a good major feature, you were able to play that as a single bill?

A. Yes.

Q. Did the opposition theaters there double bill at all?

A. I am not positive of the Midwest. The Rivoli did not, but I am not positive about the Midwest, but after the Palace opened up, they did.

852 Q. And they double billed what kind of product?

A. Well, it was the second run of the major product.

Q. The major product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. They were running, were they, at the same admission prices as you?

A. I do not recall; I presume that's what they were doing.

Q. You don't remember their prices?

A. I don't remember their prices.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Geiger, will you say all through 1938 and '39 you were not running RKO product, first run, double bill, at any time?

A. No, I didn't say that.

Q. So you did run the first run pictures at times on a double bill?

A. Yes.
Q. Of the major product?
A. Yes, sir. All major——
Mr. COCHRAN. Do you have, Mr. Wright, your Exhibit No. 199 and 200, which you identified for Blackwell?
853 Mr. WRIGHT. I gave them to the reporter. No, we can get them for you. You want 199 and 200?
Mr. COCHRAN. 199 and 200, yes. Judge Kime has gone for them.
Mr. WRIGHT. All right.
The COURT. Gentlemen, we will continue until twelve-thirty this week, as we announced last Friday.
Mr. COCHRAN. I am through with this witness, except I want to see those exhibits as to Blackwell, and I don't know what they were.
Mr. WRIGHT. We have them and we are bringing them up.
The COURT. Do you have the originals?
Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir, we have the exhibits he is referring to and we will have them up here in a minute. You say there is nothing more, and we may go ahead with some of this documentary material?
Mr. COCHRAN. You may go ahead. I don't know whether these two exhibits have any relation to him or not. I just wanted to see what they are.
Mr. WRIGHT. That should appear in the transcript.
Mr. COCHRAN. Don't take this.
(Proceedings off the record, then the following proceedings were had and recorded:)
Mr. COCHRAN. That's all right; go ahead.
854 There is just one question I want to ask.
By Mr. COCHRAN:
Q. Mr. George Layham, who was the owner of that theater was here with you in the office of the attorneys for the Government last night, was he not?
A. I wasn't there last night.
Q. Well, the night before?
A. No, sir.
Q. Has he been here with you?
A. He came down with me, yes, sir.
Q. When was that?
A. Saturday afternoon.
Q. Saturday afternoon?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And you and he were in the Government's office together, were you?
A. Yes, sir.
Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.
Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. WRIGHT. We had planned following this witness to use Mr. Bearden, but I understand that Mr. Bearden has gone to lunch, apparently thinking we were going to adjourn at twelve. I think we can use this time by offering some documents, however, so we won't waste it.

855 The COURT. My reason for continuing to twelve-thirty was in order to give you full time this week.

Mr. WRIGHT. We appreciate that, your Honor.

Mr. COCHRAN. Are these documents that we have photostatic copies or other copies of?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. What companies?

Mr. WRIGHT. I will begin with those produced by your companies. I think they are marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibits 5 through 49-A inclusive. The first one I think that we would want to offer would be the one identified as No. 8. That is the agreement between——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting): Just a minute. The Government has both sets of photostats.

Mr. WRIGHT. Both sets?

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think you can identify it from this description. No. 8 is the agreement between J. G. Long, Consolidated Theaters, Inc., and Westex Theaters, Inc., providing for the joint operation of the number of theaters in Texas and it is dated February 26th, 1938, at Victoria, El Campo, and Wharton, Bay City, Alvin and Texas City, Texas.

The COURT. It is twelve-fifteen, if you gentlemen want to check up on your records.

856 Mr. COCHRAN. We are willing to proceed. Go ahead.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 8 for identification, under the same number.

Mr. RICE. You also subpoenaed that from me and it has been given a number.

The COURT. What number do you give it here?

Mr. WRIGHT. We have been giving them the same numbers as they carry for identification, without change, so this would be Exhibit 8, if received.

The COURT. Exhibit 8?

Mr. WRIGHT. Exhibit 8, yes, sir.

The COURT. You don't have a duplicate number for the Plaintiff's Exhibits, do you?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, that is the only Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 8.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will also offer the contract identified as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 10 for identification, between Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Inc., and W. T. Sears at Altus, Oklahoma, dated June 1, 1942, reducing to writing the terms under which the Griffith Amusement Company has been rendering certain auditing and bookkeeping service in the licen-
857 sing and booking of films and so forth. We had subpoenaed the agreements of this character made between January 1, 1934, and January 1, 1940, but I take it this agreement dated June 1, 1942, was produced in response to that subpoena, and it purports to reduce to writing an agreement under which the parties had been operating during the prior period covered by the subpoenas, is that correct?

Mr. GRIFFING. That was the contract between the defendants, no limitation on the dates.

Mr. WRIGHT. In any event, the extent to which it represents a prior agreement appears on the exhibit itself.

The COURT. You are offering Exhibit No. 10?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. We are also offering Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 11, which is a contract of a similar nature dated August 15, 1942, between Griffith Amusement Company three Lowensteins, Frank Herzmark, and the three Griffith Brothers relating to theaters at Ardmore, Oklahoma.

The COURT. That is Exhibit 11?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. And we are offering Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 12, an agreement between W. L. Berryman and 858 J. S. Berryman of Bartlesville and the Griffith Amusement Company, dated December 30, 1939, which relates to the Rex Theater at Bartlesville, and provides that the Berrymans will not engage in or become interested in any motion picture or vaudeville enterprise for a period of twenty-five years in Bartlesville or Washington County or so long as the second party, that is the Griffith Amusement Company, or any person deriving title to said good will from it, carries on a like business therein.

The COURT. That is Exhibit No. 12?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. I want to check that (referring to exhibit). No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. No. 13 was the one, the agreement we just introduced while the witness was on the stand, relating to Blackwell.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 15 we will offer, which is a contract dated November 30, 1942, between Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Inc., and W. J. Moore, of Claremore, Oklahoma, relating to the operation of the Yale and Palace Theaters there, and for the booking and licensing of films of Griffith Amusement Company for a percentage of the gross receipts.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 16, we 859 will offer, which is a similar agreement between Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Inc., Mrs. H. J. Griffith, Jr., Helen Lowenstein, and Wilma Bethurum, formerly Wilma Roberts, H. J. Griffith, and the First National Bank & Trust Company of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, trustee, dated August 8, 1944, relating to the operation of the Rialto and Del Rio at Clinton, Oklahoma, and provides a similar booking arrangement.

860 Mr. COCHRAN. What is the date of that contract?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is dated August 8, 1944. We will offer Exhibit No. 18, which is a similar contract between the Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated, Mrs. H. J. Griffith, Jr., Helen Lowenstein and F. G. Roberts, dated September 30, 1942, relating, I believe, to two theaters in Clinton, Oklahoma. Both 16 and 18, I believe relate to Clinton.

We offer in evidence No. 19, which is a bill of sale from Mrs. B. Tessin, to Consolidated Theaters, Inc., transferring the Rex and Strand Theaters at Drumright to that company, whereby she agrees not to engage in the theater business there for a period of ten years.

The COURT. That is dated when?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is September 2, 1936.

No. 20, which we will also offer, is the bill of sale of the same date signed by J. G. Bennett, transferring his interest in the same theaters, whereby he makes a similar agreement.

We offer in evidence Exhibit No. 23, which is an agreement between E. R. Slocum of El Reno, and the Consolidated Theaters, Inc., dated June 29, 1939, which provides for certain transfers of interests in theaters at El Reno, Oklahoma, and film buying and booking by the Consolidated Theaters for a percentage of the gross recepits.

861 We offer Exhibit No. 24, which is an agreement between the Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated and E. R. Slocum, dated May 29, 1942, reducing to writing a prior booking agreement under which Griffith Amusement Company gets a percentage of the gross receipts.

The COURT. What town is that?

Mr. WRIGHT. That relates to El Reno also.

We offer Exhibit No. 25, which also relates to the El Reno situation, and is an agreement to which the Consolidated Theaters, Inc., the defendant, was a party, and the other parties are F. E. Loomis, O. E. Enloe, of El Reno, which contains an agreement not to engage in the motion picture or vaudeville business in El Reno or Canadian County for ten years, or so long as the second party, which is the Consolidated Theaters, or any person deriving title to such goodwill from it carries on a like business therein.

We also offer in evidence No. 30, which is an agreement between the Griffith Amusement Company and Texas-Oklahoma Enterprises, Inc., dated April 22, 1938. That relates to theaters at Enid, Oklahoma, and provides for the transfer of interest and booking by the Griffith Amusement Company for a percentage of the gross.

We also offer Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 31 for identification, which is a contract between the same parties on the same date, modifying No. 30 and containing provis-862 ions not to compete for a period of 10 years in the event of a sale by either party to the other.

No. 32, which we will offer in evidence, is an agreement between the Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated and Foster McSwain dated November 17, 1942, reducing to writing an agreement for the operation of theaters at Holdenville, Oklahoma, whereby the Griffith Amusement Company books the films for a percentage of the gross.

We offer Exhibit 33, a similar agreement between the Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated and Josephine B. Falls, dated December 30, 1942, relating to the operation of the theaters at Hominy, Oklahoma, whereby the Griffith Amusement Company buy the films for a percentage of the gross.

We also offer Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 34 for identification, which is an agreement between the Consolidated, Josephine Falls, Lindsey Theaters, Inc., and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated October 1, 1938, providing for joint operation of the theaters at Hominy with Consolidated Theaters buying and booking the films for a percentage of the gross and the various parties agree to a transfer of goodwill for a ten year period from date of sale in the event of a sale by either party.

(Hereupon Court adjourned until 2:00 o'clock p. m. this day.)

863 AFTERNOON SESSION

2:00 o'clock p. m.

WINDELL BEARDEN, called as a witness by and on behalf of the plaintiff, and having been first duly sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Will you state your name and address.
A. Windell Bearden. I am living in Lubbock, Texas.
Q. What is your occupation?
A. I am in the theater business.
Q. What theater?
A. The Arcadia in Lubbock, and the Sunshine in Clovis, New Mexico.
Q. How long have you been engaged in the theater business in Lubbock?
A. Since June 2, 1936.
Q. You were formerly associated with the operation of the Tech Theater there?
A. I was at that time, that's when I started.
Q. With whom?
A. With P. E. Smith.
Q. You and Smith built the Tech, did you?
A. We built the Tech in 1936, when we opened it,
864 by remodeling the building. The building was already there, it was a laundry building.
Q. Where was that in Lubbock?
A. That was out by the Tech College, about a mile and a half from downtown, adjoining the campus.
Q. The campus at the Texas Tech?
A. That's right.
Q. At the time you built that, were there any other theaters in that neighborhood?
A. No, there wasn't.
Q. The other theaters were in downtown Lubbock?
A. They were all downtown.
Q. What were those theaters?
A. We had the Lindsey Theater, the Palace Theater, the Broadway Theater, the Lyric and the Texian.
Q. The Lindsey, Palace, Lyric, Broadway and Texian?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Those were the only other theaters in Lubbock?
A. Those were the only other ones.

Q. How big was Lubbock at that time?

A. About 30,000.

865 Q. And at the university there are about how many students?

A. The enrollment ranged from about 3000 to 5000.

Q. Do you know who operated those downtown theaters?

A. W. A. Maulden operated the Broadway and Lyric and Griffith Amusement Company the Lindsey, Palace and Texan.

Q. When was it you and Smith opened the Tech?

A. June 2, 1936.

Q. What sort of program policy were you able to establish there?

A. We started out with running four run pictures from Metro and third run from Universal.

Q. When you say "third and fourth run" you are referring to in the city?

A. That is right. It was first run out by the college.

Q. Then later you got some other major product, didn't you?

A. The first year we secured United Artists product, which was third and fourth run, whichever was available to us.

Q. Any others?

A. Not of that year.

Q. That was the year 1936–37 you are talking about?

A. That is right.

Q. How about '37–38?

866 A. '37–38 we had some product and the latter part of that year we secured some Columbia. That was third run.

Q. Calling your attention to the fall of 1938, did you notice any activity in your neighborhood with respect to the construction of another theater?

A. Ever since we had opened our theater at the college, we had heard rumors of another one going in out by the college, but in 1938 we noticed a sign posted on a lot around the corner from us which read: "Home of the new Campus Theater."

Q. Did it say who was going to build it?

A. It was rumored that Griffith Amusement Company——

The Court. Don't say "it was rumored."

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Just answer the question. What did the sign say?

A. I misunderstood the question. "Home of the new Campus Theater."

Q. Did the sign say who was going to own or operate it?
A. No, it didn't.
Q. Then after you saw that sign did you receive a call from anybody as to the other theater?
A. On the evening of June 6, Arlie Crites called me and told me he would like to come out and talk to me——
Mr. COCHRAN. We object. There is no testimony showing this connection with these defendants or either of them.
867 Q. Did you know Arlie Crites?
A. Arlie Crites was the local manager of Griffith Theaters in Lubbock.
Mr. COCHRAN. We object to any statement that Mr. Crites made, for the reason there is no showing of any authority on his part to represent either or any of these defendants. Those theaters out there were not being operated by Griffith Amusement Company; they were being operated by Lindsey Theaters, Inc. There is no showing as to whose employment this man was in or what authority he may have had.
The COURT. Who was actually operating the Griffith Theaters then, do you know?
A. Arlie Crites was the general manager.
Mr. COCHRAN. May I ask the witness a question?
The COURT. Yes.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Don't you know that those theaters out there were being operated by Lindsey Theaters, Incorporated, don't you know that Lindsey Theaters, Incorporated, was the corporation owning and operating those theaters?
A. I don't know that.
Q. Why do you say that Griffith Amusement Company was operating them?
A. I only say that because that is what was com-
868 monly known in Lubbock.
Q. So you have no knowledge as to who was operating them, of your own knowledge?
A. All I know is that Arlie Crites was the general manager of the theaters and he seemed to be in charge there.
Q. You don't know of your own knowledge by whom he was employed, whether by Consolidated Theaters, Griffith Amusement Company theaters, Lindsey Theaters, or the Lindsey estate, or what not?
A. No, that's true.
Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the testimony, the witness stating what Mr. Crites said, until it is shown what connection he had with some of these defendants in this case.

The COURT: Yes, unless you can show that Crites—is it Crites?

The WITNESS. Crites. C-r-i-t-e-s.

The COURT. Unless you show that Crites was employed by one of the defendants in this case, the testimony would not be competent.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, there is no dispute, I believe, in the record as to the fact that these particular groups of theaters were operated by Lindsey Theaters, Inc.; however, Griffith Amusement Company or Consolidated Amusement, I don't remember which, had a 50 per 869 cent interest in them and bought and booked the films for those theaters. That appears from the contract already in evidence and the interrogatory answers.

Mr. COCHRAN. They had a 50 per cent stock interest in another corporation, which operated the theaters. In other words, Consolidated had a 50 per cent stock interest in Lindsey Theaters Corporation.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is what I said.

Mr. COCHRAN. And did not operate the theaters. The Lindsey Theaters Corporation operated the theaters.

Mr. WRIGHT. It also appears from the material in evidence that the Griffith Amusement Company bought and booked the films for those theaters. It also appears they covered those theaters in contracts made with the major distributors; they were not made by Lindsey Theaters but by Griffith on behalf of those theaters.

Mr. COCHRAN. This conversation he is asking about is not a conversation in regard to booking and buying.

The COURT. Let me understand you. Your record so far shows that Consolidated owned a 50 per cent interest.

Mr. COCHRAN. In Lindsey Theaters.

The COURT. In Lindsey Theaters.

Mr. WRIGHT. And that they bought and booked the pictures for it from the major distributors.

The COURT. But the theaters were operated by 870 Lindsey Theaters.

Mr. COCHRAN. Operated by the Lindsey Corporation.

Mr. WRIGHT. With the exception of the film buying and booking, and the bookkeeping I believe was also done by the Griffith Amusement Company. It is a local partnership operation.

The COURT. What does the record show as to the officers or the range of the corporation?

Mr. COCHRAN. I don't know.

Mr. WRIGHT. The Lindsey Theaters is not a defendant. I don't believe its officers are shown in the interrogatory answers.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is a separate corporation, and had nothing to do with acquisitions, and Griffith Consolidated and Griffith Amusement had nothing to do with the acquisition.

Mr. WRIGHT. Let's find out just what they did have to do with it. We cannot find out until we have the conversation.

The COURT. You cannot have the conversation until you lay the proper foundation. Is it admitted that Mr. Crites was employed by the Lindsey Corporation?

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't know whether he was employed by the Lindsey Corporation or by Griffith. The only thing the witness apparently knows is that he was managing 871 the theaters there, which, according to the records Griffith Amusement Company or the Griffith Companies had a half interest in. They bought the films and booked them, the record shows that.

Mr. COCHRAN. The record does not show that Griffith had an interest in those theaters. It had a half interest in the Lindsey Corporation, which is a separate corporation.

Mr. WRIGHT. You don't deny the fact that the record shows that Griffith bought and booked films for those theaters, is that right?

Mr. COCHRAN. That's correct.

Mr. WRIGHT. And had an interest in the profits of those theaters?

Mr. COCHRAN. Had an interest in the profits of the Lindsey Theaters Corporation.

Mr. WRIGHT. I take it there is no dispute but what the business of the Lindsey Theaters Corporation was operating those theaters in Lubbock.

Mr. COCHRAN. The record shows who operated them.

The COURT. And Mr. Crites was in the employ of Lindsey. Lindsey was a corporation. Does the record show so far who owned the theaters, these particular theaters?

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, the record shows, I believe, that they were operated by Lindsey Theaters.

872 The COURT. I know, but who owned them?

Mr. WRIGHT. Lindsey Theaters.

The COURT. 100 per cent.

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes.

Mr. KIME. No, 50.

Mr. COCHRAN. There is an agreement in there, I think, which covers the various interests.

Mr. WRIGHT. Here is the answer: "These theaters are owned by Lindsey Theaters, Inc. That refers to the Lindsey, Palace, and Texan at Lubbock, Texas. Griffith Consolidated Theaters own 50 per cent of the stock of this corporation and Mrs. Betty Lindsey owns 50 per cent of the corporation."

The COURT. Overruled and exception allowed. I question very seriously the materiality of this, but later it may be excluded if the Court decides it is not competent. You may answer.

The WITNESS. Will you repeat the question, please?

Mr. WRIGHT. I will repeat it.

Mr. COCHRAN. He was answering your question when I objected and said he had received a call on June 6, 1938, for Arlie Crites, local manager of the theaters.

A. I received a phone call on the evening of October 6, 1938.

Direct examination resumed by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. October 6?

873 A. October 6, 1938, from Mr. Crites, wanting to come out and talk to me. He came out and came into my office and had another fellow with him, whom he introduced as Mr. Akers.

Q. Mr. Akers with what company?

A. With Griffith, or "with our company" he said; "Mr. Akers, with our company."

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did he say with what company he was, or just said "Our company"?

A. He said, "our company".

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What was the conversation you had with him?

A. Mr. Akers commented on the theater we had there, about it being nice, and what good sound system we had, and first one thing and another of that nature; then he mentioned the fact about them planning to build a theater out by the campus and asked me if I had heard of it. I told him yes, I had heard of it, and I had also noticed the sign posted on the lot around the corner, and he asked me if I thought there was enough business out by the college to furnish or supply two theaters. I told him I didn't know, but I doubted it. And he says, "Well, we have intended to have a theater out here for a long time, and we feel like this part of town really belongs to us because we have been in the theater business a long time." And he says, "We plan to control the theater business here, 874 if we have to put them here as thick as service stations.

By the COURT:

Q. If we have to what?

A. If we have to put them here as thick as service stations. So I told him it was a free country, and that I could do nothing about it. He then asked me if I would be interested in selling. I told him yes, that I would. And he asked me what I would take for it. I told him I would take $20,000. He said, "That's unreasonable; we can pay only about $10,000." And I told him we couldn't accept that, that wasn't enough; that we had more money in it than that." That was about the extent of the conversation until he got ready to go. And he stated he would give me until Monday morning, which was the 10th, to call him up and accept the offer that he made, else they would start immediately to construct a theater on the lot that they had the sign on. So I told him that he already had my answer, that I couldn't take $10,000; that sometime he might have the theater, but I wouldn't give it to him. So he shook hands with me and said he would be going, and that's the last time that I saw Mr. Akers.

Q. Now, did construction start on the new theater there?

A. No, it didn't.

Q. At that time?

A. It did not.

875 Q. Did it later start there?

A. It didn't start on that particular location.

Q. A theater was built at a later time on another location?

A. That's right.

Q. And when and where was that?

A. The location that the theater was built on is two blocks north of the Tech Theater, on College Avenue, which is beyond the business district, the little business district by the college, right north of it.

Q. And when was that theater built?

A. I don't remember just exactly when the construction started, but it opened on August 22, 1940.

Q. Now, the name of that theater was what?

A. The Tower Theater.

Q. Do you know who operated that?

A. I beg pardon?

Q. Do you know who operated it?

A. Well, I presume the same company operated it.

Q. It was operated with the——

A. (Interrupting) With the other theaters.
Q. The other downtown theaters?
A. The Palace, Lindsey, and Texan.
Q. By the time that theater was built was Mauldin still operating the Lyric and Broadway?
876 A. No, Mauldin had sold out previous to that time. Mauldin sold out in June 1939.
Q. To whom?
A. To Griffith.
Mr. COCHRAN. We object, as that is not the best evidence.
The COURT. Well, if he knows of his own knowledge.
Mr. COCHRAN. The record shows it was not sold.
The WITNESS. I might answer that in this way, to that same company who was operating there.
Mr. COCHRAN. That's all right.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. That was operating what theaters there?
A. The Palace, Lindsey and Texan, and had then secured the Broadway and Lyric.
Q. The Broadway and Lyric. And had they also secured the Cactus Theater from another independent?
A. They had purchased the Cactus Theater from Tate Sanders in May just previous in that year, May before June of that year.
Q. May 1939?
A. That's right, in May of 1939.
Q. That Cactus Theater, was that a downtown theater?
A. The Cactus Theater is about a mile south on Avenue H, which is a rough part of town; it is not in a 877 desirable, I mean the better part of town; it is in the part of town where there are junk yards out more or less at the edge of town.
Q. How far was that from the theaters which you operated out there on Tower Avenue?
A. It is about two miles.
Q. As to the product that you played at the Tech, what did you have for the '38-39 season?
A. It was the third year of our operation. We secured in addition to Metro, Universal, United Artists, and Columbia, we secured RKO and Warner Bros. RKO was third run and Warner Bros. was fourth run.
Q. At that conversation you had with Mr. Crites and Mr. Akers in the fall of '38, was anything said as to what kind of pictures would be put into the new theater?
A. Yes, sir.
Mr. COCHRAN. The same objection as previously made.
The COURT. Overruled and exception allowed. He may answer.

A. Yes, Mr. Akers told me that, when he said they were going to control the theater business if they had to build them as thick as service stations, he said: "Besides, we are going to put first and second run pictures in our theater that we build out here."

878 Q. Now, after you had that conversation did you make any efforts to improve or advance the runs on which you played this major product at your Tech Theater?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. What did you do in that connection?

A. From the time we opened we had complained to the film companies we needed earlier pictures, due to the fact our patrons were college trade, and higher class people, and they demanded newer pictures and when we learned they were opening the new theater our demands increased, because we then had to have them, and we wrote letters to every individual film company asking that——

Mr. COCHRAN. Wait just a minute——

Mr. WRIGHT. Don't attempt to say what the letter was. Just tell us what you did. You wrote letters?

A. Wrote letters to the film companies.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you also make contact with the exchanges personally?

A. Yes, we did, on visits to Dallas, to their offices in Dallas, and with the salesmen of each company. The salesmen called on us and we discussed it.

Q. Called on you at Lubbock?

A. That is right.

Q. Then you went into Dallas to see the exchange managers?

879 A. That is right.

Q. Did any of them give you a better run?

A. No, they didn't.

Q. Did any of them offer to take an application for a better run?

A. No, they didn't.

Q. When the Tower opened in 1940, what kind of a policy did it operate under?

A. It opened with second run pictures in Lubbock.

Q. From what company?

A. From Universal was the opening picture, Universal Pictures.

Q. Well, in the succeeding months, that would be on the '40-41?

A. That would have been the '40-41 season, the current season.

Q. What else was played on second run?

A. They played second run——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to this testimony. Up to this time there has been no testimony offered beyond the 1938-39 season. They are now going into matters beyond that period and that is not within the scope of the pleadings in this case.

Mr. WRIGHT. The purpose of this is to simply follow through on the conversation. Of course, it did occur during that period. That is in October, 1938.

880 Mr. COCHRAN. We have no objection if that is the purpose. In other words, I simply do not want, by not objecting, to waive the point that the pleadings do not cover any period after 1938. So with that understanding I have no objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think the pleadings do charge a continuing violation, and of course, to that extent I think it is proper.

The COURT. Overruled. Exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What else did they play on second run?

A. They played Warner Brothers pictures second run; Paramount second run; Columbia second run; and United Artists second run. They played six major companies second run and two of the major companies they didn't play second run.

Q. You have named Warner, Paramount, Columbia and United Artists. Do you know what the other two were?

A. Universal.

Q. What was the sixth one?

A. Did I mention Paramount?

Q. Warner, Paramount, Columbia, United Artists, Universal and would the other one be Fox?

A. Fox. That is the other major company.

Q. And those pictures that played second run, it was ahead of the date that they played in your Tech?

881 A. They played 100 to 120 days ahead of the Tech.

Q. Did you play the product of those companies then?

A. I think we did with the exception of Universal.

Q. When the Tower began showing these pictures ahead of you did you make any protest to any of the film companies involved?

A. Yes, we did. We wrote them letters to that effect, and when we learned they were opening with a picture second run, we called Universal up on the phone and asked them to cancel our contract, that we couldn't run pictures——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to his conversation with Universal.

Mr. WRIGHT. Don't give the conversation. Just tell what you did as near as you can remember.

A. We wrote them letters objecting to them showing second run pictures in the Tower ahead of us.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike the contents of the letter and his conclusion as to the contents of it.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you cancel the contract with them?

A. We cancelled the Universal contract.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you get some major product clear of Tower?

A. We did, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

882 Mr. COCHRAN. Did you say clear of the Tower?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. What do you mean?

Mr. WRIGHT. That had not been played in the Tower first.

A. We did. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer gave us our run ahead of the Tower, prior to the Tower; also RKO did the same thing.

Q. With the exception of Metro and RKO, did any of these other major companies you have mentioned give you any opportunity to negotiate for a run ahead of or with the Tower?

Mr. COCHRAN. Object to that as a conclusion of the witness.

The COURT. If he knows, he can answer.

A. No, they didn't.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. With respect to admission prices, what prices were charged at the Tech during the period you and Smith were operating it?

A. We opened the Tech with an admission of 10 and 20 cents. That is, 10 cents for children and 20 cents for adults, both matinee and evening. About two years later we raised our prices to nine and 25 cents. We lowered the price to nine cents for children and raised the price for adults to 25 cents, including the tax.

883 Q. That was when you remodeled the theater?

A. That was about the time we remodeled it.

Q. When you remodeled what, if anything, did you do to the theater?

A. We remodeled the theater twice. The first remodeling was, we tore the front of it out and built a new front and put in a new marquee. Then the second time we remodeled we enlarged the theater to twice its original size; put on a new front, increased the seating capacity to about twice the size and decorated it in general.

Q. How many seats did you have after it was remodeled?
A. After it was remodeled, 550.
Q. That was as of what date?
A. I believe, I am not sure of that, I could give you the approximate date, in the summer of 1938.
Q. You kept on charging the prices you charged them for the '38–39 season, which were 9 and 25 cents, is that right?
A. That is right.
Q. Was the same true for 1939–40 season?
A. '39–40 season the same.
Q. Do you know what the prices that were being charged by the downtown runs ahead of you were?
A. At the Texan it was 9 and 20 cents; at the Palace, 9 and 25 cents. I beg your pardon, that is the Lindsey, 9 and 25 cents. The Palace charged 9 and 40 cents until 884 the Lindsey was remodeled, and I can't give you the price of the Lindsey after it was remodeled but they reversed. In other words, they made an A house our of the Lindsey and a B house out of the Palace.
Q. During that year the Texan was what?
A. 9 and 20 cents.
Q. I mean with reference to class of house.
A. That is the '39–40 season, during that time?
Q. Yes.
A. I don't get your question.
Q. You said the Lindsey was made into the A house and the Palace was the B house. What would the Texan be?
A. The Texan was the lower class house of the three.
Q. During that season did the Texan play pictures ahead of your Tech?
A. That is right.
Q. Was that also true for the 1938–39 and preceding seasons?
A. Yes, sir, that is true for all the seasons; ever since we opened they played ahead of us.
Q. Generally, were they charging the same or lower admission prices than you were?
Mr. COCHRAN. We object. Let him state what the facts were at the various times.
The COURT. Which one are you asking about now?
885 Mr. COCHRAN. Texan. He wants to know if at all times they were charging the same or a lower price.
Mr. WRIGHT. I said generally.
The COURT. If you know.
A. Yes, they did. They charged 9 and 20 cents.

By the COURT:

Q. What did they charge at the Tower?
A. The Tower was 9 and 30 cents.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. That was five cents more than your adult price at the Tech?

A. That is right.

Q. After the Tower began playing these major pictures you operated on College Avenue, what did that do to the business at the Tech?

A. For about six months it didn't seem to affect it, but after that time it began to fall off and has continued to do so, or did continue to do so as long as I was there.

Q. That was about when?

A. That was about September of 1941.

Q. And you sold out your interests in the Tech to Mr. Smith?

A. Smith and I had four theaters. We dissolved our partnership. He took two and I took two.

Q. And you have had nothing to do with the operation of the Tech since the summer of 1941?

886 A. Nothing whatever.

Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross examine.

Mr. COCHRAN. Your Honor, I would like to wait until tomorrow morning to cross examine this witness, if we could proceed to something else, or I can go ahead with part of my examination and conclude tomorrow morning, because there is a lot of material that I must go through before I can examine him, and I did not know until this morning they were going to put him on the stand.

Mr. WRIGHT. We had put Lubbock on for this date in the notice we gave you 10 days ago, and we also told you we were going to put Lubbock on.

Mr. COCHRAN. Regardless of that, I would like to do that.

The COURT. Have you any objection?

Mr. WRIGHT. It is just a matter of the witness' convenience. I suppose he could stay over. I assumed that his testimony would take the rest of the day and I haven't got another witness to proceed with. I assumed when we put a witness on the stand he would be cross examined and then we go to another witness.

Mr. COCHRAN. I can examine for a time. Then he has some documentary evidence he can use.

Mr. WRIGHT. We can probably go ahead with Mr. Jones. I suggest you go ahead and cross examine as far as 887 you can now and we will see what we can do to fill out the schedule.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Where are you living?

A. Where am I living now?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. In Lubbock, Texas.

Q. Where are the theaters you are now operating?

A. The Arcadia in Lubbock and the Sunshine in Clovis, New Mexico.

Q. And Mr. Smith is operating the Tech?

A. That is right.

Q. He also operates some other theater?

A. No, he doesn't. He closed up.

Q. Where was the other theater?

A. In Phillips, Texas.

Q. You stated you and Mr. Smith were partners until sometime in 1941 when the partnership was dissolved and he took two theaters and you took two?

A. That is right.

Q. Now that dissolution of partnership was the result of disagreement between you and Mr. Smith, was it not?

A. Not necessarily, no; not that I know of.

Q. Well, you decided you didn't want to continue
888 to operate?

A. We agreed to dissolve the partnership.

Q. And at the present time in Lubbock there is the theater that is operated by you, to-wit, the Arcadia and the Tech which is being operated by Mr. Smith, which are in opposition to the Lindsey Theaters. Is that correct?

A. I didn't get all your question.

Q. You and Mr. Smith now separately operate two theaters against the Lindsey Theaters?

A. That is right.

Q. And there is also another theater that is operating in competition to the Lindsey Theaters, and to you and Mr. Bearden, operated by Joe Bryan?

A. That is right.

Q. Known as the Midway?

A. That is right.

Q. The Tech Theater has been continuously operated in Lubbock since it was originally opened in 1936. Was that the date?

A. That is right, June 2, 1936.

Q. And the Arcadia was being operated by Bearden prior to that time, wasn't it?

A. No, it wasn't.

Q. When was that opened?

A. About March 15, 1939.

889 Q. Then it has been operating continuously since that time?

A. That is right.

Q. You said something about the Tech at one time having a first run product. You know, as a matter of fact that you never received a contract from any distributor at any time which licensed first run pictures in the Tech Theater, do you not?

A. I didn't say we had any product first run.

Q. I asked you if you ever received any contract from any distributor which licensed product for first run exhibition?

A. In the Tech?

Q. In the Tech?

A. In the Tech, first run, Lubbock, Texas?

Q. First run, Lubbock, Texas.

A. That is right.

Q. You did not?

A. We did.

Q. You mean it was licensed to you first run?

A. It was licensed to us first run.

Q. Don't you know the contract called for at least third run?

A. No, sir.

Q. In Lubbock, and that there is not a contract
890 which licensed a product to you for first run exhibition.

A. We had a number of pictures we bought first run, Lubbock, licensed to us first run.

Q. And those were pictures which are commonly referred to as cutbacks, weren't they?

A. That is right.

Q. I mean on a regular contract for a run in which a number of pictures were licensed.

A. That is true. We never did more than three or four on one contract, first run pictures, those pictures we bought first run; British production or something that the previous shows didn't want to run ahead of us.

Q. During the entire time of your operation did you ever have a contract with any of the distributors for a season's product, or have any substantial amount of a season's product for a run earlier than third run?

A. That is right. No product as much as a season's product earlier than third run.

Q. So your run in 1936–37 when you opened, was third run in Lubbock from such companies as you could license product from?

A. That is right.

Q. And at that time when the Lindsey Theaters were using the product, first run, is that correct?

A. That is right.

891 Q. And some second product?

A. And some second run.

Q. And Mr. Maulden's theater at that time was using the product, some second run and some third run?

A. That is right.

Q. And your run was subsequent to the Maulden theater?

A. Following Maulden.

Q. That condition continued right on down to the time when you and Mr. Smith dissolved your partnership, didn't it?

A. No, sir. It continued until Mr. Sanders and Mr. Maulden sold out. I mean by that that we were not following Maulden then. We still had the same run.

Q. My question was misleading. You still continued on down until the time you and Smith dissolved partnership to enjoy the same run in Lubbock that you had at the time you opened?

A. We had the same run in Lubbock, yes.

Q. When the Tower Theater opened up, the fact that he played second run pictures did not cause you to have any later run in the town of Lubbock than you had had before?

Mr. WRIGHT. It is purely a matter of argument. The facts are perfectly clear, that he ran in the same sequence insofar as Lubbock was concerned, but he was behind in the other theater.

(Question read.)

892 The COURT. You may answer.

A. No, it did not.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You know that there was an occasion while the Cactus was being operated by Mr. Sanders that it had a run ahead of you for some of the product?

A. One company, yes.

Q. What company was that?

A. Twentieth Century Fox.

Q. At that time had Fox licensed any product to you at all?

A. We had been trying to buy Fox ever since we opened the Tech.

Q. I asked you if you were using any Fox product?

A. We were not when the Cactus started to run Fox.

Q. That is right. In other words, the Cactus was opened by a man by the name of Sanders and was operating in competition with you, and Lindsey Theaters, and you had been attempting to obtain Fox product, and you had obtained none on any run, and then Sanders commenced to use Fox product, subsequent to the Griffith and Maulden operation?

A. That is right.

Q. And you still didn't have Fox product.

A. When they started running, that is true.

Q. You spoke of your admission price. When was it that you first started to exhibiting pictures on a policy of "give aways" or admissions two for one, or policies of that kind?

893 A. May I ask this? What do you term "give-aways"?

Q. Well, are you familiar with the term "give-away"?

A. The term "give-away" as I see it, as I understand it, is something in the form of some tangible present you give a person to attend that theater or chances he might have when he attends the theater——

Q. With that definition of it did you have a policy of that kind at any time?

A. We had no give-aways.

Q. Did you have any policy in the nature of admissions for a second person attending along with the first person paying full admission for one cent, or something of that kind?

A. A little while after we opened our theater we learned that two or three of the other theaters down in town——

Q. I didn't ask you the reason. Did you have such a policy?

A. I started to say we gave the students special arrangements on their student identification cards.

Q. What kind of a rate was that?

A. 15 cents.

Q. When was that?

894 A. I don't recall the exact date. It wasn't very long after we opened that we started that and we continued it, if I recall correctly, until we dissolved our partnership.

Q. Are you familiar with the term "pal days"?

A. That is right.

Q. Is that the same thing you have been telling us about?

A. No, it isn't.

Q. You advertised "pal days" in your theater, didn't you?

A. I had forgotten that one. On one day a week, I forget the day, anyway one day a week we had what is called pal day. It was in the middle of the week sometime, I believe. You buy a ticket and another person was admitted as a pal, free, in other words.

Q. When did you start that practice?

A. Well, I can't say positively about that; about 1937.

Q. And that was continued until the time you gave up the Tech and dissolved your partnership with Smith?

A. No, it wasn't. We discontinued that.

Q. When did you discontinue that?

A. I don't remember the exact date, about one year before we dissolved our partnership.

Q. What was the date of your dissolution?

A. September, 1941.

895 Q. Will you say that on May 24, 1941 you were not advertising that policy?

A. May 21, when?

Q. The week of May 18, 1941, to May 24, 1941.

A. Well, no, that isn't here. As I said, however, I don't recall the exact date. I said something like a year. I don't remember that but I do remember that we did not continue our policy. It was stopped before we dissolved our partnership.

Q. Do you say that in May of that year you were not advertising two for one to attend the Tech Theater, two shows for one admission price?

A. I didn't say that. I said I wasn't positive of the date, but I do recall that we stopped that before I dissolved my partnership.

Q. Are you familiar with the term "freeview"?

A. Well, I don't remember whether that is what we called the one we used or not. I think there was another show possibly that used the freeview.

Q. Don't you know that you were advertising in the Tech in the week I have mentioned a free view? That is, those attending the last show on Saturday night might remain over and see the pre-view?

A. That is true. We did that.

896 Q. You spoke of making a demand on distributors after the Tower Theater had opened for a better run, than you had been enjoying. Is that correct?

A. Yes, we did.

Q. And you said you wrote letters. Is that correct?

A. We wrote letters in May, 1940, which is just previous to the time the Tower Theater opened, and I don't recall any letters, however, that we wrote after 1940. We just talked about it in person.

Q. In saying you talked to them in person, you mean you went to an exchange and talked to someone in that particular exchange about your product?

A. That is true.

Q. You had no conversation where you had several representatives of several distributors together?

A. I didn't get your question.

Q. You had no conversations with representatives of distributors when you had several of these distributors together.

A. Not these distributors. We had no conversations with representatives of different companies.

Q. In other words, your dealings with each distributor was separate and independent from other distributors.

A. As far as I know that is true.

897 Q. That is true in regard to the letters which you wrote?

A. That is true.

Q. What did you say about the seating capacity of your Campus Theater when it was opened; not the Campus, but the Tech?

A. When it was first opened, about 360.

Q. When was it the seating capacity was changed?

A. As I said awhile ago, I don't recall exactly when we enlarged it. I think it was in the summer of 1938, and it was enlarged then to approximately 550 seats.

Q. Could you tell us the seating capacity of the Tower?

A. No, I couldn't. It would be purely an estimate.

Q. Do you have any of the contracts for pictures which were entered into with any distributor for exhibition in the Tech Theater?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. Where are they?

Mr. WRIGHT. We have some that were produced by the defendants. Did you give the others to us?

A. They are down on the desk.

Mr. COCHRAN. For the present I think this will answer the question. Do you have all of the contracts that were entered into during the period from the time you 898 opened the Tech?

A. I don't have all of them with me.

Q. Do you have all of the contracts which you made with any company, any distributor?

A. From the time we opened?

Q. Until April, 1939.

A. Well, I couldn't answer that. I don't know.

899 Q. Do you recall whether, at the time you were playing pictures after Mr. Mauldin, there was any clearance between his theaters and yours, that is, was there anything in your contracts specifying the length of time that would intervene before pictures would be played at your theater after they were played in the Mauldin theaters?

A. I don't remember any. Most of our contracts were written so many days after first run. I couldn't say that there wasn't, however, because I don't know.

Q. You know it to be true after the Tower Theater opened, your contracts read so many days after first run?

A. Up until the time we dissolved our partnership, that's true, with the exception of Metro and RKO.

Q. Yes. When you said that your run was 100 to 120 days after the Tower, you mean 100 to 120 days after first run, didn't you?

A. No, I meant after the Tower. That wasn't written in the contract, 100 to 120 days after the Tower, but it was written in in the contract 150 days after the Tower.

Q. After the Tower?

A. I beg pardon, after the Lindsey or first run.

Q. After the first run?

A. After the first run.

Q. In other words, the clearance which was written into the contract after the Tower opened was, so far as 900 the runs which you had, was the same as had existed back at the time prior to the Tower, is that correct?

A. That's correct.

Q. And at the time Mauldin was playing ahead of you?

A. That's true.

Q. You know it to be a fact that Griffith in one of its theaters plays pictures ninth run, don't you, in the town of Lubbock?

A. No, I didn't know that.

Q. Do you know that it plays Metro in one of its theaters seventh run?

A. I didn't know that.

Q. And also Paramount and RKO seventh run?

A. Do you mean on regular contracts?

Q. Yes.

A. Season's contracts?

Q. Yes.

A. Or just an occasional picture?

Q. No, I mean on regular contracts.

A. Well, I didn't know that. I never had noticed it that way.

Q. Do you know how many runs the various distributors are selling in the town of Lubbock now?

A. How many runs?

Q. Yes.

901 A. Some of them are selling as many as six, as far as my knowledge is concerned.

Q. You don't know it is a fact that RKO, Paramount, and Metro are selling seven?

A. I didn't know that, on a full contract. I knew that they did repeat on some pictures after sixth run.

Q. United Artists only sell four runs, is that right, in the town?

A. United Artists sells five, I believe.

Q. Do they? How many does Universal sell?
A. That I don't know.
Q. Do you know how many Warner sells?
Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please——
A. Beyond what I buy, I don't know what the runs are.
Mr. WRIGHT. I don't see the relevancy of this or how it is cross-examination, in any event, as to what these runs are now.
The COURT. Read the question.
(Last question read by the reporter.)

By the COURT:

Q. Do you know?
A. No, I don't beyond what I buy.
Mr. COCHRAN. He said he only knows what he ran.
The COURT. I don't see how it is material.
Mr. COCHRAN. I will desist from further questioning. That is as far as I can go with this witness 902 now. I would like to resume his cross-examination tomorrow morning.
The COURT. You may be excused until tomorrow morning.
Mr. WRIGHT. If you want to get any particular contracts together, I suggest that you have him go through what he has now.
Mr. COCHRAN. I thought perhaps you were going to offer some contracts.
Mr. WRIGHT. We are not offering any of these that he has, but they are available for your inspection. If there is any particular one that you want him to pull, ask him to do it now and we can save some time.
Mr. COCHRAN. I don't know of any that I want.

(Witness excused.)

The COURT. Can you indicate the next town you are taking up after you get through with this witness.
Mr. WRIGHT. We have already indicated the schedule of witnesses to counsel. I have told them we would follow this witness with the Shawnee situation again. He wanted Mr. Jones to come back, but he won't be here until tomorrow, because I had expected the cross-examination of this witness to occupy the rest of the afternoon. We have another witness who is anxious to get out of town tomorrow and he is here and he is with the War Production Board, 903 Mr. Vincent. I told him I would try to dispose of him tomorrow and I might be able to get him over here this afternoon.
The COURT. He is here now, I understand.
Mr. WRIGHT. If you are ready, we can go ahead with him.

Mr. COCHRAN. I am not ready to cross-examine him, but you may put him on. You may put on Mr. Jones.

Mr. KIMB. Mr. Jones is not here.

Mr. COCHRAN. Johnnie was here a minute ago, Johnnie Jones was here a minute ago.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't see any point in putting him on the stand and then reserving the cross-examination to some future date, I don't see that that is going to help the witness at all.

The COURT. I think we can cross-examine him later.

Mr. COCHRAN. I understood you had a lot of documents that you were putting in.

Mr. WRIGHT. We can, of course, put in some documents. I would like to accommodate Mr. Vincent, however, by putting him on now or tomorrow.

The COURT. When do you have to get away?

Mr. VINCENT. I would like to get away in the morning.

904 Mr. COCHRAN. We can be ready to proceed with him in the first thing tomorrow morning, or you can go as far as you can with him this afternoon. If the Court please, this confusion is occasioned by reason of the fact that counsel furnished us a list. They didn't have to do it but they did, giving us the order in which they were going to produce the witnesses. This morning they told me that instead of doing that they were going to put Mr. Geiger on, and then call Mr. Bearden and so forth. I told them that was their privilege but inasmuch as it was out of the order, and that I had been working every minute, I had to get together my material for the witnesses in that order, and it was throwing me off balance a little bit and I would have to ask for indulgence.

Mr. WRIGHT. We cannot maintain any regular order. We gave them the names of the people we were going to call, but we have to work them in as available.

Mr. COCHRAN. I am not criticizing you; I am trying to excuse myself.

The COURT. I have observed for a long time that lawyers will go further to accommodate lawyers than any other class of people that I know. Well, we will go ahead. If you want to, you may put Mr. Vincent on. We will take a few minutes recess at this time.

(At the conclusion of a short recess court resumed and the following proceedings were had and recorded.)

905 WENDELL BEARDEN, a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, was recalled and testified as follows:

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Mr. Bearden, did you see Mr. Akers in the court room here while you were testifying?

A. I didn't notice him in the court room while I was testifying. I saw him just a few minutes ago while I was here.

Q. Do you see him here now?

A. No, I do not.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

(Witness excused.)

FRED G. VINCENT, called as a witness by and on behalf of the plaintiff, and being first duly sworn, to testify the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Will you state your name and address, please?

A. Fred G. Vincent, business address, 420 Key Building.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Assistant state salvage manager, Conservation
906 Salvage Division, WPB.

The COURT. Let me get that first name.

A. Fred G.

Q. Fred?

A. Yes.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. That's the War Production Board, is it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been so employed?

A. Since February 7, 1942.

Q. You were formerly in the theater business at Hominy, Oklahoma, were you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In connection with what theater?

A. The Pettit.

Q. You managed the theater there, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then that theater was sold to Griffths in 1940, was it?

A. It was leased.

Q. Or leased?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you bring with you a copy of the lease and the other documents which were made then?

A. Yes, sir (handing).

907 (Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 262, 263, and 264 for identification, were marked by the reporters.)

Q. This document marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 262 for identification, dated February 8, 1940, that's the lease that was made that you just referred to, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And this Plaintiff's Exhibit 263 for identification, bearing the same date, that's signed by you and who were the other signers?

A. Amarillis D. Pettit, and Harris B. Pettit.

Q. Those were the owners of the Pettit Theater there, were they?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before you made this sale to the Griffiths, how long were you operating that Pettit Theater?

A. From about January 15, 1933, up until the time that the lease was made.

Q. How large a town is that, Hominy?

A. I think the 1930 census gave it as 3880 population, and I think the 1940 census was about 3200 or 3400, a slight reduction, somewhat of a reduction.

Q. So the population during the period you operated then was about 3500, or somewhere around that?

A. Yes, sir, approximately that.

Q. Then in 1933 that was the only theater in the 908 town, was it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How big a theater is it?

A. It was originally about a 1250 seat house, but we had removed some seats out of the balcony, and at the time the lease was made it was 995 seats.

Q. That is what it is now or at the time you leased it to Griffith?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was it that you cut it down to 1000 seats?

A. From the time that I went in there, in approximately January 15th, for the next three or four months, I removed some seats out of the balcony.

Q. That was in 1933 then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was made into the number of seats it has now?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there another theater opened there later?

A. Yes, there was the Ritz Theater; it was opened—may I refresh my memory on the dates?

Q. Yes.

A. (Referring to paper.)

Q. Just the year is enough.

A. The year of 1934–35, which was in the latter part of '34. I think they originally intended for it to open 909 in July, but I believe, as I recall it, it was some two or three months later on account of overhauling the building.

Q. Who operated the Ritz?

A. Mr. McClain.

Q. What kind of theater was that new theater he built, was it a new one or old one?

A. No, it was formerly a store building that had been converted, the building had been lengthened and converted into a theater.

Q. How big was it?

A. Approximately a 25-foot building. I think the original length of the building was something like 75 or 80 feet, and it was lengthened out, I believe, to 120 feet.

Q. Then in 1934 or '35, what, if any, major film product had you been playing at the Pettit?

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, we would like to have that date to be fixed more definitely. He says 1934 or '35.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. All right, let's take the 1935?

A. In 1934 and '35 we had practically all of the so-called majors and virtually the smaller films, with the exception of the Fox product. We had not purchased the Fox product that year.

Q. Then, when the Ritz opened, it played the Fox, and then did it get any other major product later?

910 A. The year they opened they also had Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Warner Bros. and Fox, and I think they had some other additional pictures, not necessarily of any particular companies, but some westerns and so forth, that they filled in with their product.

Q. You played the other major product at the Pettit?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the statement as a conclusion. I think, at least, he should deal with each company, because it is entirely too indefinite.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you play all you had been playing except those that were playing at the Ritz Theater after the Ritz opened?

A. Do you mean for the year?

Q. Yes.

A. Of 1934 or '35?

Q. Yes.

A. We, at that time, at the time I went there, we had Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, we had Warner Bros., we had Paramount, we had Universal, we had Columbia, we had part of United Artists' pictures bought that we were playing.

Q. After the Ritz opened, what did you have the next year?

A. The next year we had Paramount, Universal, RKO, United Artists, and Columbia.

911 By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then, do you recall what was the name of the operator of the Ritz?

A. I have forgotten his initials, sir, it was Mr. McClain, formerly of Tryon, Oklahoma. He had operated a theater there.

Q. Do you recall when he sold out to Griffith?

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, we object to the witness referring to the written statement.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think the date is already in the record, as far as that goes.

The COURT. I think he can refresh his memory, if he has some memoranda which he made himself for that purpose.

Mr. COCHRAN. I think it is not permissible for the witness to prepare a written statement ahead of time and then testify from it.

Mr. WRIGHT. On this particular date, it cannot be controversial, it is already in the record in the form of the answer to the interrogatories.

A. I think it was in June, about June 15th in 1936.

By the COURT:

Q. What year?

A. In 1936.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then, after Griffith took over the theater, did you have any conversations with any members of the Griffith organization with reference to a sale of your theater

912 to them, that is, the Pettit?

A. Not until sometime later.

Q. Well, when was the first time?

A. It was, I would say in late '37.

Q. Late in '37?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who did you talk to then?

A. I talked the first time, I think I talked to Mr. H. J. Griffith.

Q. And whereabouts was that?

A. At Hominy.

Q. Do you remember what was said then?

A. No, nothing any more than just general conversation relative to the volume of business, and whether we would be interested in working out a deal, and the equipment that we had, along the general lines of negotiation, I would say.

Q. Did you discuss the terms of the deal?

A. There was nothing specific. There was some figures, I believe I submitted some figures on a rental basis and also for the amount that would be acceptable for the equipment.

Q. And then what happened?

A. The thing was allowed to drag along, and later I talked to Mr. Griffith again at the convention here in Oklahoma City.

913 Q. That was in what year?

A. That was in about '38, at the national convention that was being held here.

Q. Of what?

A. Do you mean the month?

Q. No, what was the convention, of theater owners or what; who was holding the convention?

A. It was a combined convention, as I recall it now, of the National Theaters Owners Association and also I believe the State Theaters Owners Association held a meeting at the same time.

Q. That was here in Oklahoma City?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say you saw Mr. Griffith here; which Mr. Griffith was that?

A. Mr. H. J.

Q. That was when in '38?

A. I don't recall the month exactly. I know it was midsummer or fall, possibly July or August, as I recall it. It has been sometime ago.

Q. What was said then?

A. I think, as I recall the conversation, I told him that we would accept the figures that had been given us; and I was to meet them the next day at the office.

Q. Was that all the conversation you had then?

914 A. Yes, sir; it was very short, because he was busy, and he said he would meet me the next morning.

Q. Did you see him the next day?

A. I don't think it was the next day; I believe it was about the second day afterwards, that I went down to the office and talked to Mr. Griffith there.

Q. That was H. J. Griffith?

A. That was H. J. Griffith, and I believe Mr. McKenna, and I think later also we talked to the other Mr. Griffith, Mr. R. E., is it?

Mr. COCHRAN. Just a minute, I think he must be mistaken about R. E. R. E. wasn't there.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. This man here (indicating)?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is L. C.

The WITNESS. I beg pardon.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What was said at that time about it?

A. That was with further reference to negotiating the deal.

Q. Was there anything said about the product situation there?

A. Yes, that time I was considerably concerned for fear we were not going to have sufficient product, and I talked to Mr. Griffith relative to that, and as I recall 915 the conversation, he assured me that we would have ample product. And he said he would talk to Mr. Falls to see that we did have it. Later I talked to Mr. Falls, and as I recall the conversation, I asked him how that product would be set aside for us, if they would release some particular one company's product, or if it would be simply cutbacks from other companies' products. And I believe he asked me if I would be satisfied with Columbia, I believe, and United Artists, and I said yes, with the other product that I had, that that would take care of us.

Q. What was the other product you then had?

A. RKO and Universal.

Q. That was for '37–38?

A. Yes, sir—that was in the '36–37 season we had Columbia, Universal, United Artists; in '37–38 we had RKO, Columbia, and Universal.

Q. And then were you offered Universal for '38–39?

A. There was a certain group of pictures that were released to us; as I recall it, there was something like about fifteen or possibly twenty pictures that were released from Universal to us.

Q. When you say released, what do you mean, released by the Griffith house?

A. Yes.

Q. You were not offered a regular season's first 916 run deals then for the '38–39 season, is that right?

A. No, sir.

(Plaintiff's Exhibits No. 265 for identification and 266 for identification were marked by the reporter.)

Q. By the way, after you had these talks in '38 with Mr. Griffith in the office there, was there any deal made then, or what happened?

A. No, there was no deal made until in, just a short time before the lease was drawn in '40.

Q. There was no further conversation with them about a deal between '38 and '40?

A. Yes, sir, there was one or two, I made one or two calls at the office, and talked to them before we got together on the deal.

Q. I show you this letter of February 14, 1939, from Universal, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 265 for identification, and ask you if you received that shortly after that date?

A. Yes.

Q. I show you a letter from the same company dated February 20, 1939, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 266 for identification, and ask you if you received that shortly after that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibits 265 and 266.

917 Mr. COCHRAN. These are letters addressed to Pettit Theater by Universal Film Exchanges, and we object to the introduction of those documents because they are incompetent and hearsay testimony; the same situation as statements made by somebody other than the distributor.

918 The COURT. Wouldn't this come under the same head as the other testimony?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think so, in general, yes. Of course, we regard all of that we offered before as admissible as we do this.

The COURT. Objection will be sustained and exception allowed. The letters will go into the record.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, at the time you finally made the deal with the Griffiths for the theater in 1940, that was when in 1940?

The COURT. February 8.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you tell us what, if any, major product you had been playing first run there for the '39-40 season? That is, in the season in which you sold out?

A. RKO, and Columbia, approximately 15 or 20 pictures from Universal and United Artists.

Q. The Universal were the so-called cutbacks you referred to?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had any particular improvement been made in the Ritz there at that time? Or how did the Ritz compare with the Pettit as a theater in 1939?

A. Well, naturally it was a much smaller house
919 than ours but it had been newly modernized and it was a nice theater.

Q. How many seats did it have?

A. I would say approximately, oh, 375; 375 to 390.

Q. Then after you sold the Pettit Theater to Griffith, do you know what was done with reference to the Pettit and Ritz Theaters? Did they continue to operate them both?

A. It was operated for a short period afterward and then later was closed.

Q. Which one?

A. The Ritz was closed.

Q. The Pettit was operated then as the only theater in the town?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that true today?

A. So far as my knowledge goes. I am quite sure it is because I was there thirty days ago.

Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross examine.

By the COURT:

Q. During the 1939-40 season, did you have sufficient pictures to accommodate your theater?

A. Yes, such as they were.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, of course, there is no claim here at any time that anybody couldn't get enough pictures to actually throw on the screen, but the ability to survive always depended on the quality of the 920 pictures one house had as compared to the other house. We will not claim in any situation that anybody was unable to get some film that he could fill in his playing time with.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Vincent, the Pettit Theater was constructed and owned by Mr. Pettit, was it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was his name?

A. Charles Pettit.

Q. And Mrs. Amarrillos Pettit was his wife.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did Mr. Pettit die?

A. In November, 1931, I think. I am pretty sure it was.

Q. Had he personally been operating that theater up until the time of his death?

A. From the time it was built.

Q. Until the time of his death?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were his son-in-law?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Upon his death did you take over the management of the theater?

A. No, not until approximately January 15, 1933.

921 Q. About two years after his death?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who took over the management of the Pettit Theater immediately after Mr. Pettit's death?

A. A man that had been formerly employed by Mr. Pettit as manager, a Mr. Murphy.

Q. Why didn't he continue as manager of the theater?

A. Well, the family had several other interests there, town property. They had a large ranch and a couple of farms and he knew nothing about that.

Q. You mean he knew nothing about the other operations?

A. No, sir, knew nothing about the other property, and his showing in the operation of the theater was not satisfactory to the family.

Q. In other words, during the years 1931 and '32, the operation of the theater under Mr. Murphy was not satisfactory to the members of the Pettit family?

A. No, sir.

Q. And so they released him?

A. That is right.

Q. And you took charge as manager?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the time that Mr. Murphy was operating that theater for the Pettit estate you lost a considerable amount of the product he had been using prior to that time,

922 didn't you?

A. No, sir. He had all the product up until the time I came there. In fact, he was over-bought at the time.

Q. Was there any competition in the town of Hominy from the time that the Pettit Theater was constructed until you took over as manager?

A. Yes, a number of years ago but I am not familiar with the people who operated the theater or how long they operated it.

Q. Could you tell us the year the Pettit was built? If not, please state.

A. Approximately 1923.

Q. 1923?

A. Yes, sir. I think it was completed in the year of 1923.

Q. At that time do you know whether there was another theater in the town?

A. I am not sure whether there was a theater in operation at the time that theater was completed because Mr. Pettit had another theater there, a smaller house.

Q. What time was that?

A. Well, that was in 1923. At one time he had three theaters there.

Q. At the time of his death how many theaters did he have?

923 A. Just the one in operation.

Q. Was there any theater operating in opposition to his theater at that time?

A. At the time of his death you mean?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No, sir, there was no other theater in operation at that time.

Q. Do you remember a son of Mr. Pettit attempting to operate that theater for a time after his death?

A. No. Harris P. Pettit never did attempt to operate it as manager after that.

Q. Did he have anything to do with the management of it at any time?

A. Yes. As far as that is concerned, he had been brought up in the theater business and I possibly counseled with him to a certain extent.

Q. Did he manage or book or buy?

A. No, sir.

Q. At the time Mr. Murphy took over the management and during the time he was manager was there any opposition theater in town?

A. No, sir.

Q. So at the time you took over the operation of the Pettit Theater there was no opposition?

A. No, sir.

924 Q. And had not been for years?

A. I don't know just how many years but at least five or six years. I don't know how far previous to that time.

Q. What was the first competing theater that was erected in the town after you became manager?

A. The Ritz.

Q. That was opened in what year?

A. In 1934; in the fall of 1934.

Q. Do you recall that for the 1934-35 season you had not been able to make a deal with certain of the major distributors for their product?

A. That I had not, you say?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. That was prior to the time this opposition theater was opened up by Mr. McClain.

A. No. We finished the season of 1934 and had Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer product. We also had Warner Brothers product and then the following year or that fall on the renewal of the contracts in anticipation of this other theater being opened we were not able to buy the product.

Q. In other words, just prior to the Ritz being opened by McClain you were not able to buy certain product?

A. That is right.

925 Q. And don't you know that before McClain came in there, before it was announced that there was going to be any opposition, that you had had difficulty in negotiating a contract with several of the major distributors and were not able to make a deal with them?

A. No particular difficulty. The usual procedure was trade and barter that was peculiar to that industry. They called on us several times and had their prices set two much and I wouldn't agree and we were still in the process of negotiation.

Q. The licensing of motion pictures was a bargaining proposition, wasn't it?

A. Very much so.

Q. A horse trading proposition?

A. Chiseling.

Q. Horse trading in its nature, the way they go about it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You had been negotiating with several of these major distributors in the fall of 1934, and had not been able to make a deal?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Which of these distributors was it you had not been able to make a deal with when the Ritz was opened up?

A. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Warner Brothers.

926 Q. Paramount?

A. No, we had Paramount the first year following the opening of that house.

Q. Fox?

A. Fox, no, we could not negotiate with them.

Q. So there was Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Warner and Fox? A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you able to negotiate a deal that fall with Columbia?

A. We did, yes, sir.

Q. Are you certain of Columbia for that fall?

A. 19——

Q. For the season of 1934-35. Don't you know Mr. McClain licensed the Columbia product for that season?

A. You are right; 1935-36.

Q. No, I am talking about '34-35. You said it was in the fall of 1934 the Ritz was opened up. Isn't it a fact the '34-35 season McClain had that product and you did not have Columbia product?

A. I did not have any. In '35-36 we had Columbia.

Q. But you didn't have it in '34-35?

A. No, I don't believe we did, as I recall it.

Q. And after '34-35 you did have Columbia product until the time you sold out to Griffith, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir through '38-39.

Q. Their complete product?

927 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Every year?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But did not have it in the '34-35 season?

A. No, I did not.

Q. We have mentioned the Metro, Warner Fox and Columbia. You did have RKO, didn't you, in '34-35?

A. We had Paramount, Universal, RKO or United Artists and I did show some Columbia pictures. It may have been some westerns or something we may have bought. While we did not buy the entire contract we may have bought a group of western pictures, but this is from memory you must bear in mind.

Q. We are talking about the time when Mr. McClain was operating the opposition theater.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So he started off with Metro, Warner, Fox and Columbia?

A. Yes, as I recall it.

Q. And possibly some other product. How long did Mr. McClain continue to operate that theater?

A. Well, from the fall of 1934 until, I think about June 15, 1936.

Q. So he licensed the product for the '35-36 season also, didn't he?

928 A. I assume that he did, yes, sir.

Q. In other words, he was operating the theater in the fall of 1935?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When the time came for you to negotiate for product in the fall of 1935, you were able to negotiate a contract with RKO, weren't you?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you have a franchise at any time with RKO?
A. Always had one.
Q. I mean a contract for more than one year's product?
A. No, only from year to year.
Q. Year to year dealing?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. But RKO during the entire time you were operating the Pettit Theater licensed you its product each and every year?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Up until the time you sold out?
A. Yes, sir.
929 Q. In the fall of 1935, did you have any negotiations with Warner Bros. for its product?
A. May I refer to some documents?
The COURT. Yes.
A. As I recall it, I went to see Warner Bros. Now, this was for one year?
Mr. COCHRAN. This is for the fall of 1935.
A. As I recall it, I went to their manager and also their field representative, Mr. Blackstone, I believe was his name and he called on me.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Relative to the '35–36 product?
A. No, on the '34–35 product.
Q. I am talking about '35–36, in the fall of 1935.
A. I couldn't say positive on that because it has been so long ago. It seems to me it was the year following that, the opening of the other theater that we contacted Warner Bros. for their product.
Q. Can you tell me this: Did you license any of the Warner Bros.' product?
A. No, sir.
Q. For the season of 1935–36?
A. No, sir.
Q. And you did not license their product, season's product from Warner Bros. during any of the time that you were operating that theater until the time you 930 sold out, any Warner Bros.' product?
A. No, sir; not from that time on.
Q. And you did not license any for the season of 1934-35 when opposition first came in until the time you sold out?
A. That is right.
Q. Now, in regard to Fox. Did you have any negotiations with Fox for the 1935–36 product in the fall of 1935?
A. No, sir, not any more than with this exception that

I think that we did. At that time they were re-playing or re-issuing some of the Will Rogers pictures, and I think we did negotiate with them to see if it was possible to play some of the pictures that had previously been played.

Q. Did you play any of their re-issue, second-run?

A. No, sir, we did not.

Q. So from the time that opposition came into the town against you until the time you sold out, you did not license the Fox product for use in the Pettit Theater?

A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. That is correct?

A. Yes.

Q. The Metro product in the fall of 1935, did you have any negotiations with Loew's or Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in regard to licensing product for the '35-36 season?

A. I think we had some negotiations with them
931 to this extent, that they advised us there would be a possibility of there being some pictures that would not be played by the opposition house, and that could be released to us, and we could agree upon a price at which we might buy them. However, none——

Q. Did you have any negotiations with them for the season's product for the 1935-36 season?

A. No, sir, not that I recall.

932 Q. Did you make any request of them after '35-36 season?

A. We made the usual informal request and inquiry as to whether or not there was any possibility of the product being available. Their field man always called on us, and had for years.

Q. And in the '35-36 season they didn't license you any of their product? A. Not in the '35-36 season.

Q. And didn't license you any of their product, the season's product for any season from the time opposition came in 1944?

A. That's right.

Q. Until you sold out?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your difficulty with Metro, Warner, Fox and Columbia, in the fall of 1934 related to the fact, or was with reference to the fact, that you were not willing to pay the amount for the product that those representatives of those companies were insisting that you pay?

A. Yes, I guess you would say——

Q. (Interrupting.) Is that right?

A. That was the case.

Q. Can you tell us the place where you negotiated or where you executed a contract that you made with Griffith, with Griffith Consolidated or Consolidated Theaters,
933 Inc. in 1940 when you leased the Pettit Theater to Consolidated?

A. Why, the negotiations were at their office, and then the final papers were drawn up, I think in Mr. Griffing's office.

Q. In Mr. Henry Griffing's office?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time he interrogated you in regard to the fact as to why you were selling out, did he?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And whether you had sufficient product to operate with and so forth, did he?

A. I don't recall that there was anything said relative to sufficient product. That wasn't the question at all, because the deal had been arranged and settled and it was satisfactory and it was accepted.

Q. At that time your wife had died, had she not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you had decided that you wanted to leave Hominy?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you so advised the representative of Consolidated, that that was the reason why you wanted to dispose of the theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You further told Mr. Griffing on that occasion that you were not selling your theater because of any 934 threats or intimidations by any of the Griffiths, or anybody else, didn't you?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, we didn't go into this conversation on threatening, or make any claim about it. In his direct testimony he didn't say he was threatened at the time he made the sale in 1940.

The COURT. I think it is proper cross-examination, showing all the facts.

Mr. WRIGHT. This is counsel's attorney in there after the suit is pending, and obviously attempting to create a self-serving record here. I don't see how that could possibly be significant, as to what Mr. Griffing was asking, except as it indicates he was then——

The COURT. (interrupting): I think it is proper cross-examination. Overruled and exception allowed.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. It is a fact, is it not, that none of those gentlemen had made any threats against you or your theater?

A. No, surely not.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, that calls for a conclusion. Just let him say what was said and what was not said.

By the COURT:

Q. Was this sale, so far as you were concerned absolutely voluntary and at your suggestion?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I think the ques-
935 tion calls for a conclusion.

The COURT. I don't know of anybody on earth that would know that better than this witness.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think we ought to have the testimony limited to what was actually said, and I suppose your Honor can draw the conclusion as to whether or not it was free, and voluntary.

The COURT. Read the question.

(The last question by the Court read by the reporter.)

The COURT. You may answer the question.

A. It was voluntary on our part, and it was the best deal that could be negotiated at that time.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. It was also made after you had decided that you wanted to get out of the theater business because you were preparing to, or wanting to leave Hominy?

A. Yes, and also taking into consideration that we were handicapped by a larger house, and overhead expense, with not much choice left on product, and those things were taken into consideration, and the fact that the size of the town was not suitable for sufficient volume of business for two houses, and I didn't feel that I wanted to spend the rest of my life there working for nothing.

Q. The Pettit estate owned the Pettit Theater, did it not?

936 A. Yes, sir.

Q. And continues to own it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say in your opinion that the town was not sufficiently large to support two theaters?

A. It is not large enough to support two theaters, no.

Q. You considered that the town was over-seated, did you?

A. It was over-seated with one house.

Q. It was over-seated when the Ritz was put in against it?

A. Yes, sir; in fact, it was over-seated before the Ritz came in.

Q. In other words, when the Pettit was built, with the number of seats it had, it was over-seated then, was it?

A. At the time the Pettit was built, of course, you must bear in mind there was a boom condition, so to speak.

Q. Hominy is in the Osage Nation, is it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And conditions changed very radically from the time the Pettit was originally constructed?

A. That's right.

Q. Until the time you sold out?

A. Yes, sir.

937 Q. And the conditions were changing for the worse; in other words, back in those early days you had those headright payments from time to time, and there was considerable money being spent up there at Hominy that was not spent after those headright payments were decreased, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will have a few more questions. Would it inconvenience you very much to come back for a little while in the morning?

A. No, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. I can complete in a very short time in the morning, I think.

Mr. WRIGHT. I want to offer these documents identified here as Plaintiff's Exhibits 262, 263 and 264.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. Admitted. Court will recess at this time until ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon court recessed until May 15, 1945, at ten o'clock a. m.)

938 PROCEEDINGS

May 15, 1945, 10 o'clock a. m.

FRED G. VINCENT, was thereupon recalled and further testified as follows:

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. McClain, who operated the Ritz Theater during the seasons of 1934–35 and 1935–36, operated only one theater so far as you know?

A. Why, I think he has another theater at Tryon, Oklahoma.

Q. In Tryon, Oklahoma?

A. Yes, sir. I am not sure whether it was Tryon or Agra.

Q. You think he possibly had one other theater?

A. Well, as I recall it, he either had operated the theater there before coming to Hominy or he still retained the house on part time at this town and then opened the Ritz in Hominy.

Q. You knew of no other theater with which he was connected?

A. No, sir.

Q. You have stated that you licensed the Paramount product, some of it, for the season of 1934–35. That is true, isn't it?

939 A. I believe it is. I will have to refresh my memory on that. We had the Paramount.

Q. And for the season of 1935–36, Mr. McClain licensed the Paramount product for the Ritz Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. McClain had the Columbia product for the '34–35 season at the Ritz. That is true, isn't it?

A. I think he may have had the major product. I believe we played some westerns or we had a few pictures, I am not positive about that.

Q. With just a few exceptions he had Columbia product for '34–35?

A. I believe that is correct.

Q. You licensed Columbia product for the '35–36 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is all.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is all.

(Witness excused.)

940 The COURT. Do you want to finish now with Lubbock?

Mr. COCHRAN. Lubbock, yes, sir. Mr. Bearden.

WENDELL BEARDEN, a witness on behalf of the plaintiffs, having been previously duly sworn, was recalled and was examined and testified as follows:

Further Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. On yesterday you stated that the Tower opened with a Universal picture second run. That was on what date in 1940?

A. That was August 22, 1940.

Q. You stated that that picture was a picture of the current season. You didn't mean to say that the picture with which the Tower opened was a picture of the '40–41 season, did you?

A. No, I don't recall what picture it was; all I recall is the fact that it was a second run Lubbock.

Q. Yes, but the statement which I am calling to your attention for correction is that you said it was for the current season. If the theater opened on August 22, 1940, and you said the current season's product, it would ordinarilly be understood that you were talking about the '40-41 season, wouldn't it?

A. Well, that's true. I don't know what——

941 Q. (Interrupting.) You know that that picture on August 22, 1940, would not have been played second run out of '40-'41 product, don't you?

A. Well, I don't—that is probably true, but I don't know that.

Q. Well, you know that about August 22, 1940——

A. (Interrupting.) I know that is a little early for '40-41 product, yes, sir.

Q. Do you know whether there had been any Universal picture released for the '40-41 season at that time?

A. No, I do not.

Q. You would not be surprised to know that the earliest release of Universal for the season of 1940-41 was on September 6, 1940, would you?

A. That's about right, yes, sir.

Q. About right?

A. Yes.

Q. The Tech Theater which you operated in Lubbock commenced operation in a building which had previously been used as a laundry building, is that right?

A. That's true.

942 Q. To what extent did you remodel that building at the time you first opened?

A. When we first opened, of course the first thing we had to do was to remove the heavy machinery from it, and of course, the walls had to be decorated, touched up, being that type of building, it was scuffed and scarred up. We had to plaster places and fill in the windows on one side. There was a solid side of windows on the south side. We had to block those in. We had to excavate the dirt out and put in a slanting floor; built a front for the theater. At that time the building was a 50 foot building; 50 feet wide. We put a partition wall and tile through the center, making a 25 foot building and we had to plaster that. We had to put in a ceiling, plaster and ceilotex beneath that, which is a city ordinance.

Q. Do I understand when you completed your remodeling the width of your building which was occupied by the theater was 25 feet?

A. That is true.

Q. And a depth of what?

A. I don't recall, 110 feet, I believe.

Q. At any time between the opening of that theater and the time you ceased to have an interest in it, was it 943 enlarged?

A. Yes, it was.

Q. The floor space was enlarged?

A. To twice the size.

Q. You mean you took out the partition?

A. Took out the partition, and remodeled the building entirely; built a new front on it. In other words, made the theater twice as large as it was.

Q. So it became 50 by 110 foot building?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did that change take place?

A. As I said yesterday, I am not exactly sure about the date but I think it was in the summer of 1938.

Q. The summer of 1938; about what month?

A. That was in June or July. It was either in the summer of '37 or '38. I think it was in '38, however, in June or July.

Q. You told us that sometime about June of 1938 you noticed a sign on a lot there a short distance from your theater; that that was the site of a new theater?

A. No, I didn't say that.

Q. Your statement was: that on a lot not far distant from yours, in about June of 1938 you saw this sign which had on it: "Home of the New Campus Theater"?

944 A. No, sir, I said in October, 1938.

Q. All right. Was that before or after you had the conversation with Mr. Arlie Crites and Mr. Akers?

A. That I saw the sign?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I saw the sign within two weeks before I had the talk with Mr. Akers.

Q. On page 674 of your testimony you said, "On the evening of June 6, Arlie Crites called me and told me he would like to come out and talk to me"——

A. No, sir, I corrected you yesterday when you repeated that statement, that it was on the evening of October 6, 1938.

945 Q. All right, I just wanted to have it straight.

A. Yes, sir, I understand.

Q. You stated that a theater was never built on that site, that's correct, is it?

A. That's right.

Q. Was that lot in a residential area?

A. That's what I understand, yes, sir.

Q. Did you know that after that sign was erected, that a movement was started among the residents in that area, to protest the building of the theater on that residential site, which was followed by an ordinance which prohibited the building of the theater?

A. That's what I heard, yes, sir.

Q. Did you participate in any way in that movement?

A. No, sir.

Q. But that's your understanding, is it?

A. That's my understanding, yes.

Q. And no theater was constructed until sometime, some two years later?

A. That's true.

Q. For the season 1939–40 you had Universal pictures, some of the Universal's pictures licensed, didn't you?

A. That's true.

Q. And after this theater was constructed, or sometime during 1940, you attempted to obtain from Universal 946 the privilege of playing its pictures which you had under contract for fourth run?

A. I believe it was third run that we had.

Q. Well, either third or fourth run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Whichever it was, you attempted to get them to permit you to play those pictures ahead of the Tower Theater?

A. We asked them to not——

Q. (Interrupting.) Now, don't state your conversation. Did you attempt to do that?

A. Will you repeat the question, please?

Mr. COCHRAN. Read it.

(Last two or three questions read by the reporter.)

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Just answer that yes or no.

A. Well, I will have to answer that I don't know.

Q. All right. You canceled your contract for the unplayed Universal product, didn't you?

A. That is true.

Q. That you had for the 1939–40 season?

A. That's right.

Q. You were playing at that time the Universal product, or had been playing it, either in the Tech, which was out near the campus, or the Arcadia, which was a downtown theater?

A. I don't think we played Universal that way. I
947 am not positive, but I don't think we did.

Q. Do you remember the opening of a theater called the Dixie in Lubbock?

A. The Dixie?

Q. The Dixie.

A. No, I do not.

Q. Don't you know that sometime after, sometime about 1939 or '40, that about the same time that the Midway was opened, that there was another theater opened in Lubbock, operated under the name of Dixie?

A. Operated under the name of Dixie?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No, I didn't know that.

Q. This Midway Theater was first opened by a man by the name of Mauldin, wasn't it?

A. That's right, yes, sir.

Q. And operated by the same W. A. Mauldin who had operated theaters in downtown Lubbock, which were sold to Lindsey Theaters in 1939?

A. Well, I was under the impression that it was operated by Joe Mauldin.

Q. Well, you know that W. A. Mauldin did the booking and buying for it, don't you?

A. Well, I didn't know that.

Q. Did you see him around that theater?

A. I have never seen him there.

948 Q. Were you ever in the theater?

A. Yes, I have been.

Q. Joe Maulden was a brother of W. A. Maulden?

A. Joe Maulden was a brother of W. A. Maulden.

Q. That theater opened when?

A. Either the latter part of 1939 or the first part of 1940. I am not positive.

Q. And continued to be operated to this date?

A. That is right, yes, sir.

Q. At present by Mr. Bryant?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall that along in the fall of 1940, about November 25, 1940, you cancelled all of your bookings, all shorts, features and news for the Tech and Arcadia with Twentieth Century Fox?

A. I remember one year, I don't remember what date. I believe that is right, however.

Q. Was it not immediately after the Tower Theater opened?

A. I couldn't say that. I was under the impression it was before. In fact, I am positive it was before.

Q. Did you have a letter which you wrote, which Smith and Bearden wrote to Twentieth Century Fox dated November 25, 1940?

A. I am not positive that I do. I probably do
949 have, however.

Q. The letter which I refer to appears to be signed by Mr. Smith. I beg your pardon. I understand Mr. Smith will be on the stand.

You know there was a time when you cancelled all the bookings which you had with Fox?

A. That is true.

Q. For both the Tech and Arcadia?

A. That is right.

Q. After that time did you make any contracts with Fox and others?

A. Yes, we did. We made a contract the same day we cancelled that one.

Q. Do you know the date of that contract?

A. No, I do not.

950 Q. Do you recall in January of 1941 a visit to you, or your partner, by Mr. Beiersdorff, the Dallas manager for Fox?

A. I recall a visit that he made, but I don't remember the date.

Q. At that time do you recall that you were delinquent in the liquidation of your product for the 1939–40 product?

A. At the time that he made the visit?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I couldn't say that we were.

Q. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Beiersdorff on that occasion, or was it your partner?

A. If I remember correctly, the time that you are speaking of is the time that he and his salesman, who was at that time Mr. Miller, I believe, called on us, and we cancelled the contract. One other time he was there, and we bought a newsreel from him. I believe those were the only two times that he called on us.

Q. Do you remember the occasion in January of 1941 where the product was offered to you on the same run that you had previously had, and you refused to pay the price that they desired for the product, that Fox desired for the product, and no deal was made?

A. I don't remember exactly that. I do remember that whenever we attempted to buy Fox pictures, we 951 would try to bargain with them and get them cheaper than what they offered.

Q. Yes, and you know that on several occasions you were unable to get together on the price?

A. That's true.

Q. And that occurred after——

A. (Interrupting.) Pardon me, I might add, however, to that, that that, in no way kept us from buying pictures after we once started, however. In other words, it would postpone a deal maybe for two or three or four or even six months, but if I am not mistaken, we bought Fox pictures every year after we once started buying them.

Q. But there was considerable negotiations between you and the representatives of Fox in regard to the product?

A. Yes, sir, very much more so than with any other company.

Q. Don't you remember that on this occasion in January 1941 that you made no deal at that time, and did not make a deal for the run for which you were then negotiating at any time during that season?

A. I don't recall that. It is possible that Mr. Beiersdorff called on Mr. Smith when I wasn't there.

952 Q. Who did the buying of pictures for these theaters prior to the time your partnership was dissolved?

A. As a rule both of us were together, but if someone called when the other one was out, of course, the one there would attend to the business, but whenever we went to Dallas, almost invariably we would go together.

Q. Do you recall that in the season of '39–40, Smith and Bearden licensed for the two theaters which it was then operating a total of 337 pictures?

A. Well, I don't remember how many we had licensed.

Q. You have no way of telling how many pictures you had to license for that year?

A. Yes, I could but it would take a little time to do so. I can check up.

Q. Do you have any record here with you?

A. I do not, all of it.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't see what difference it makes what number he had under license. The entire examination was directed to the position in which he had to play them and not to the quantity of the pictures.

The COURT. Well, it might be competent to show he was able to get all the pictures that he wanted.

Mr. WRIGHT. As far as the Griffith houses are concerned, there is no suggestion he could not get the pictures he wanted.

953 Mr. COCHRAN. He has already testified that he retained the same run in Lubbock which he had previous to the construction of the Tower except as to Metro and one other——

A. No, we retained the same run with Metro.

Q. Except for that Metro and one other, retained the same run in Lubbock that the Tower could not play ahead of the Tech. That is his testimony. Now, we want to show how many pictures he had with that kind of position.

The COURT. You may answer. I think it might be competent.

Mr. COCHRAN. Would the number 387 sound about right for the season of 1939–40?

A. I expect that is about right, yes.

Q. And for the season of 1940–41, 395 feature pictures?

A. That is about right I guess, yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you ever try to buy first run pictures for your theater?

A. We constantly from the time we started buying tried to get earlier run of pictures, first run or whatever they had to offer as long as they were earlier than what we were getting. Our patrons were complaining about it, that our pictures were too old at that time.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. At no time from the beginning of your operations of the Tech Theater and prior to the opening Arcadia, 954 did you ever have a first run of any product?

A. Not any full year's product, no.

Q. And you explained yesterday, the Lindsey Theaters and Maulden Theaters, from the very beginning played ahead of your Tech Theater until in 1940 you were able to get the Metro and RKO to hold the Tower back of your Tech Theater?

A. The Lindsey Theaters and the previous Maulden Theaters continued to play ahead of us.

Q. And had been playing ahead of you before then?

A. That is true.

Q. And after the Tower was built you demanded of each of the distributors that they give you a better run in the town than you had previously enjoyed, didn't you?

A. We demanded that we have a run ahead of the 955 Tower.

Q. Yes. And two of the companies yielded to that demand, and the others declined to do so?

A. That's right.

By the COURT:

Q. Had all of the pictures which you ran in your theater been theretofore run in Lubbock?

A. I beg pardon; I didn't get the question.

Q. Had all of the pictures which you ran in your theater been run prior thereto in Lubbock?

A. That's true, as many as two and three times, most of them three times.

BY MR. COCHRAN:

Q. As you explained yesterday, there are a number of different runs in Lubbock, some of the theaters playing runs which have been played theretofore as many as five times?

A. That's right. I buy for my theaters sixth run with some companies.

Q. Don't you know that Griffith buys as late as seventh run for some of its houses, do you know that to be a fact?

A. Well, you stated yesterday that they bought as many as nine runs, and I stated I didn't know just where they put them. I do know they run some pictures after I run them in the Arcadia, which with some companies, one or two companies, that is sixth run. Whether they run pictures with those companies that I have the sixth run, I couldn't say, but I do know they run some few pic-
956 tures after I run them, but not in the Tower, however.

Q. The Texan Theater plays, at this time, and has for many years played, behind both the Tech and the Arcadia, does it not? I mean behind both the Tech and the Arcadia?

A. The Texan?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. The Texan, ever since I have been in Lubbock, has played both ahead of the Tech and Arcadia Theaters.

Q. The Cactus plays behind your Tech, doesn't it?

A. No, sir, it plays some few pictures behind the Tech, but the majority of them or a large percentage of them I shall say, is ahead of the Tech and Arcadia.

Q. Do you know where Griffith plays its—you have third run for Columbia, don't you?

A. Well, you see I am now not interested in the Tech.

Q. Well, the Tech had third run in Columbia?

A. At one time, that's true.

Q. When you dissolved your partnership?

A. I believe that's right.

Q. Do you know where Griffith plays fourth run Columbia?

A. Well, the Arcadia ordinarily followed the Tech, which would have been fourth run.

Q. The Griffith doesn't have the Arcadia?

A. No; I say I have the Arcadia.

Q. Don't you know that Griffith plays Columbia
957 fourth run now?

A. Well, as I have stated, I have been in the army, and have been away, in the army for nearly three years. I don't know whether I stated that or not, but that is true. I had a manager there, and there were quite a few things that happened at the Arcadia that I don't know anything about.

Q. So you are not familiar with conditions at the present time?

A. I am back there now, and have been there about four months, but as I say, a number of things happened when I was away that I was not familiar with, even though I was back there occasionally.

Q. Do you know where Griffith plays Metro seventh run?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't see how that is proper cross-examination.

The COURT. If he knows.

Mr. WRIGHT. Assuming he knows, as to what is happening there today. That period covered on his direct examination did not concern anything happening there today.

The COURT. Well, I understood you to say this was a continuing conspiracy or monopoly. If you want to cut out everything after '39——

Mr. WRIGHT (interrupting): As far as the witness goes, I took him up through the period 1941.

The COURT. I think on cross-examination he has 958 the right to go into that entire period.

By Mr. COCHRAN.

Q. If you know, state.

A. Well, I didn't know that Griffith was running seventh run Metro.

Q. The last time you knew anything about runs down there in Lubbock, what was the last run that Griffith was using of Metro?

A. Third run.

The COURT. It seems to me that we are going into some of these details unnecessarily.

Mr. COCHRAN. Very well, your Honor.

By the COURT:

Q. What determined whether or not you would run first run or second run or third run? Did the price of the picture have anything to do with it?

A. None whatsoever; that is it didn't have—it might have if we had gotten to the point where they were ever offered to us, but they were never offered to us at any price. In other words, they refused to negotiate a first or second run deal with us at all.

Q. Is that determined by the character of the picture?

A. It was determined, as they put it to us, they practiced a policy there of what they called an established house or established run basis for the town, and that the other theaters were ahead of us and the runs were there ahead of us, therefore, we should have runs following them.

959 Q. Did you consider that out of the ordinary in the theater business?

A. Well, it seemed to me that it was not exactly fair. As the Tech Theater was a better house than one or two of the houses they were running their second runs in or third runs, we felt though we should have some consideration.

Q. Was it necessary then for the distributor to depart from the custom which was established before your theater was opened in order to do that?

A. Yes, it would be.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The Paramount Company never licensed you any product on any run prior to October 28, 1939, did it?

A. I don't recall the exact date, but it was about two years before we bought the pictures after we opened, which was June 2, 1936; probably a little longer—and what date was that you gave?

960 Q. October 28, 1939? A. No, I believe we bought pictures before then from Paramount.

Q. Do you have any contract with you for the period prior to that time?

A. Let's see. I don't recall.

(After examining his files the witness answers.)

No, I do not have one with me. However, I secured these contracts from Mr. Smith's office and there were some probably that I didn't get.

Q. I am not talking about a season prior to 1938-39 season, but I mean a contract which bears date prior to October 28, 1939.

A. I can't answer that exactly because, as I said, I thought it was about two years. It was fully two years before we bought the pictures. However, it could have been a little longer.

Q. After the Tower had been opened, is it not a fact that Paramount took an application from you for product, fourth and fifth run in Lubbock in either the Tech or Arcadia?

A. They took an application from us?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, that is true. Now let me get this straight. For fourth or fifth run, the Tech or Arcadia?

961 Q. The Tech or Arcadia in Lubbock, and with clearance over the Tower.

A. don't recall of ever signing any contract with Paramount where it said fourth or fifth run for the Tech or Arcadia.

Q. I didn't ask you about the contract. I asked you about the application.

A. That is what I mean.

Q. Isn't it a fact you finally cancelled that application because Paramount was insisting on rentals which you would not pay?

A. Yes, sir, that is true, prohibitive rentals that we thought.

Q. That application provided for clearance of the Tech? That is, the Tech would play the product over the Tower?

A. That is true.

Q. And after that Paramount made a deal with the Lindsey Theaters for playing the product at the Tower, second run?

Mr. WRIGHT. He doesn't know whether they made a deal with Lindsey. The evidence shows that Griffith bought the product for the houses.

The COURT. If you don't know you don't need to answer.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is all.

962 Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Mr. Bearden, with reference to this run you had from Loew and RKO, that was fourth run in Lubbock?

A. That is true; fourth run, Metro, and third run RKO.

Q. That was during the '39-40 and '40-41 seasons?

A. That is true.

Q. And those pictures that you played out there at the Tech from RKO and Metro, did the Tower play those after you?

A. No, they never played them at all.

Q. The only product the Tower played out there, Metro product, was that which was played ahead of you. Is that right?

A. That is true.

Q. And negotiating or in connection with this Paramount application that was taken, you say the application was signed by you and Mr. Smith which provided for the run ahead of the Tower at certain prices.

A. That is true.

Q. And then that application was rejected by Paramount, was it?

A. Well, the way the rejection came around, we signed the contract with Paramount, even though the prices, we thought, were prohibitive. They raised the prices considerably above the previous years, knowing the Tower was going in there, and after we had the privilege of 963 running some few pictures following the Tower why we learned immediately that they were not worth as much to us or we could not gross as much money on them as we did before the Tower went in. Now, let me have that question——

Q. This application he was referring to, was that made before the Tower was built or after?

A. The application he spoke of, that was turned down or that failed to go through, was before the Tower.

Q. That was before the Tower was built?

A. That was before the Tower.

Q. The application was rejected by Paramount?

A. That is true. I don't remember whether it was rejected before the Tower went in or after the Tower went in.

Q. The application was signed before the Tower was built and then the application was rejected by Paramount. Is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, apart from that Paramount application, did any of these other companies, that is, besides RKO or Metro ever take an application taken on the basis of a run ahead of the Tower?

A. No, they didn't.

Q. In the Tech Theater you had an established first run in that area at the time the Tower was built, did you not?

964 Mr. COCHRAN. We object to counsel leading the witness. We went over that yesterday and he attempted to talk about first run.

The COURT. The question is leading. I think you can reframe your question and eliminate the objection.

Mr. COCHRAN. That matter was covered fully yesterday.

A. Yes, we——

The COURT. Just a moment. I suggest you reframe your question so it will not be leading.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Prior to the time the Tower Theater was built, what theatre played the first run in the area serving the Texas Tech College there?

A. The Tech Theater.

Q. In these negotiations you had with the distributors attempting to secure the privilege of playing at the Tech ahead of the Tower, what, if anything, was said about the so-called established run policy?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to what was said.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Well, was it discussed?

A. It was discussed. Each time we would buy a picture, of course, to begin with—as I said yesterday, there were rumors ever since we opened the Tech out at the college of other theaters going in in opposition to us and each time we would negotiate for pictures, even though we 965 asked them to put first run on College Avenue, they didn't want to do that because the salesman gave as a reason for that——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to this witness stating why the distributor did not want to do it.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think counsel clearly opened the matter up on cross examination. He went into these various moves the witness has made to improve the run of the theater. I don't think he can shut him off at this point and not let him say what those statements were.

Mr. COCHRAN. I didn't ask him for any statement made by any distributor at all or any statement made by him.

The COURT. Don't state what any distributor said. State what they did.

A. They refused to put in the contract first run on College Avenue.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And was there any discussion at all with them of prices based on such a run?

A. They would not discuss first run on College Avenue.

Q. On any terms?

A. On any terms.

Q. Now, with reference to these admission price policies you were asked about on cross examination, "Pal nights" or "Free views." Were those practices peculiar to your Tech Theater in Lubbock?

966 A. We did have the practice, we had pal night. At the same time another theater or two, the Cactus, had "buddy night", which was in opposition to us, and the Midway had the free view, which I believe was mentioned yesterday. I couldn't recall just at that time what theater that was in but I believe it was in the Midway.

Q. All these practices that have been referred to were used by other theaters in Lubbock at the same time?

A. That is true.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The Cactus at the time it was operating on a policy of "buddy night" was operated by Sanders, wasn't it?

A. I think Sanders did operate "buddy night" or it was "two for one" night or something of the kind. I forget what they called it after he sold out.

Q. During what period?

A. Well, immediately following the period he sold out. I don't remember how long it was continued, however.

Q. The Midway was operated by Maulden at the time you speak of that practice?

A. No, by Joe Bryant.

Q. Getting back to this first run on College Avenue, you know that there never has been a contract made with you or anybody else in Lubbock that you know anything
967 about for any first run on College Avenue, don't you?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is what he said.

A. That is true.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You said you had first run on College Avenue.

A. I was running first run on College Avenue.

Q. You mean there wasn't at the time you were operating, any other theater there and therefore you received the picture the first time in that vicinity?

A. That is true.

Q. But the distributors were insisting that was a part of Lubbock and they were licensing runs in Lubbock and not on College Avenue.

A. The only answer we could get out of them was the fact they could not get our contract approved on that basis.

Q. You know this, that they did not, either before or after that time, license any product for any particular part of Lubbock, but licensed for a certain run in the town of Lubbock. You know that, don't you?

A. They were licensed in a particular theater.

Q. But it was for a certain run in Lubbock?

A. That is true.

Q. And not for a certain run in some part of Lubbock. In other words, there never has been a time in which the distributors have divided up the town of Lubbock 968 in areas and licensed first run in a first area and so forth?

A. Nothing, as I say, except by particular theaters, which would serve that theater.

Q. Even then the run was for the town of Lubbock?

A. It was for the town of Lubbock and had to be run in a stated theater.

Q. Isn't it a fact in your contracts that were taken after the Tower was opened up that Paramount, Fox, Metro and RKO, that in each one of those contracts it was for a certain run in Lubbock and it was for either the Tech or Arcadia?

A. No. There was one or two companies that gave us the privilege. Columbia was one, and I believe Warner was the other. They gave us the privilege of playing, or stated it in the contract, the Tech or Arcadia.

969 Q. Wasn't that also in the Paramount contract?

A. No, sir; we bought separate runs for Paramount.

Q. But whether it was for a separate run, whether the contract with Paramount was a separate run or not, and some of the others may have included both the theaters on each one, where it had runs, it would be the run for the town of Lubbock and not for any particular area?

A. Well, of course there was nothing said about the area, but as I said, there was something said about the theater.

Q. Just answer the question. You have told us about that, but I want to know if the contract didn't specify the run in Lubbock, and not in any area?

A. There was no area mentioned, that's right.

Q. And even Metro, which provided that the Tech would play behind you, in licensing your product, licensed it for a certain run in Lubbock, didn't it?

A. I didn't get the question.

Mr. COCHRAN. Read it.

The COURT. I think he has answered the question.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Just one more question about the Paramount deal. In answer to my question you stated that you had filed an application after the Tower opened for product 1939-40 for your Tech theater, and with the provision that it 970 would play over the Tower, and that after that time you cancelled that application. Now, on your redirect examination by Mr. Wright, you stated that your contract was rejected by Paramount. Which is correct?

A. We had one contract, if I am not mistaken, this was a different contract that I am speaking of here, we had one contract, if I recall right, that was rejected; there was another one, however, that we signed, and before it was approved, we learned our price was unreasonably too high for us, and we couldn't run them.

Q. That was after the Tower was opened, wasn't it?

A. We signed the contract, the salesman took it into Dallas and we received a telegram—speaking of the one he had reference to.

Q. I want to know if it was before or after you opened the Tower, I mean the Tower was opened?

A. That I couldn't say, to be honest.

Q. Do you know that your cancellation was after the Tower opened?

A. I am not sure of that.

Q. That was a cancellation on your part of your offer to buy the product, wasn't it?

A. That's true.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

971 Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Let me get the straight of it. Two contracts, did you sign two Paramount applications?

A. There were two separate negotiations. One of them was where the pictures were—we had already signed the contract—we learned they were too high, and we sent them a telegram asking them not to send the contract in.

Q. Both of these negotiations you are talking about, was there an application signed by you in each case?

A. That's true.

Q. And the one that you told me about, where they rejected it, that application, was that made before or after the second one, where you say you told them to cancel the application?

A. I can't, I can't answer that because I don't know. They were both about the same deal, and I forget which was which.

Q. What do you mean, they were both about the same deal?

A. I mean the same year's product. In other words, at that particular time was when we were negotiating for that year's product, and I forget which one came first.

Q. Were they both on the basis of a run ahead of the Tower?

A. The one that we signed and later rejected
972 wasn't, I mean that we signed and then sent a wire for them not to send through wasn't, didn't give us the privilege of running pictures ahead of the Tower.

Q. The one deal which gave you the privilege of running ahead of the Tower was the one that was rejected by Paramount, is that right?

A. That's true, if I remember correctly.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Isn't this the way that happened, that your first application for that product in the fall of 1940 was signed by you on terms which you thought were fair, and that that contract was not approved by the home office of Paramount, and their salesman, or representative, then further negotiated with you and took an application which carried with it some increase in price?

A. If I remember correctly——

Q. (Interrupting.) Just tell me if that is true or not, and we will get through.

A. I don't know.

Q. You don't know?

A. No, sir.

973 Q. Will you say that that last contract, except for the price, that that application did not carry terms which were identical with the one which had been rejected by Paramount, and contained the same clearance provisions that the first application contained?

A. I cannot answer that.

Q. So when you told counsel that the second application didn't give you the right to play in the Tech over the Tower, you now want to say that you can't say whether——

A. (Interrupting.) I was speaking in reference to the prices when I said I couldn't handle it.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the only change in the second application over the first, was that in the first application there were two pictures in the first bracket, price bracket, and in the second one there were eleven or twelve in that first price bracket; isn't that the only change that was made in those two applications?

A. I don't remember enough about that to answer those questions.

Q. Are you willing to say now that the second application didn't give you the same playing privilege that was contained in the first application?

A. I am saying what I think. I can't be positive.

Q. I am asking if you know and can tell us.

A. No, I cannot.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

974 Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you ever get the applications back, did they come back to you, or what happened to them?

A. I received a telegram that one was rejected.

Q. The contract applications themselves, were they retained by Paramount or were they given back to you?

A. I don't remember; to be honest about it, I don't remember.

Q. Would you make a search and see if you can locate either one?

A. Yes, sir. (Referring to paper.) No, I don't have a copy of it.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

The COURT. Stand aside.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. WRIGHT. Can we have a brief recess, your Honor, I have some papers downstairs that I want to bring up?

The COURT. We will take a short recess.

(After a short recess, the proceedings herein were resumed as follows:)

Mr. WRIGHT. I would like to call Mr. John Jones.

Mr. COCHRAN. I want to recall Mr. Jake Jones.

975 Mr. WRIGHT. If you don't mind, I prefer to go ahead and finish the Shawnee situation with Mr. John Jones, and then recall Mr. Jake Jones.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. Jake Jones has already been on the stand; let's finish his testimony.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think I ought to be able to control my own order of proof.

The COURT. Go ahead.

JOHNNY H. JONES, called as a witness by and on behalf of the plaintiffs, and being first duly sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct-examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Will you state your name and address?

A. Johnny H. Jones, my legal address is Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Q. You are now in the army, are you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are the son of Mr. Jake Jones, who testified here the other day, are you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been in the army?

A. Since January 26, 1942.

976 Q. And before that were you associated with your father in the theater business at Shawnee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For about how long?

A. Well, sir, I was raised in the theater business with my father, as far back, well, as I could usher, but active management in the theater, I will say about ten to twelve years, prior to getting into the army.

Q. You were familiar with the theater situation there in 1935-36 season, were you?

A. Yes, sir.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit 267 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Q. Do you recognize this document, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 267 for identification, as the contract for the first run exhibition of Universal pictures in the Ritz Theater for the season of 1935–36, the 1935–36 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer this Exhibit 267 in evidence. (Handing to counsel for defendants.)

The COURT. What is the date of that?

Mr. COCHRAN. The application date is October 8, 1935; the approval date is October 14, 1935.

The COURT. October what?

Mr. COCHRAN. October 14th is the last date.

977 The COURT. That's a contract with Universal?

Mr. COCHRAN. That's right. I desire to call your Honor's attention to the fact that this contract contains the clause "preview privilege granted".

The COURT. Preview privilege what?

Mr. COCHRAN. Granted. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know, Mr. Jones, whether the Universal pictures for the following 1936–37 season were offered to the Ritz on the same runs?

A. No, sir, they were not.

Q. Did you make any efforts to license those pictures?

A. Yes, sir, we did.

Q. What were the efforts you made?

Mr. COCHRAN. May I ask one question? Did you carry on those negotiations?

A. Not all negotiations, sir.

The COURT. Just state what you did personally, not what some one else did.

A. Several times I went into the Universal exchange in Oklahoma City asking about their product for the coming seasons, that is, following this contract there, and I was told——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting). Wait a minute. We object to any statement made to him at that time.

The WITNESS. O. K., sir.

978 Mr. WRIGHT. Will the Court rule on the objection?

Mr. COCHRAN. We are objecting to the statement, any conversation that he had with the Universal representative at that time.

The COURT. It will be sustained and an exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did they ever give you an application?

A. The next year we had a Universal contract, but not like this.

Q. I mean a first run application.

A. Not for the entire product. We later bought a lower group, the next year, first run.

Q. What do you mean by a lower group?

A. Well, that is the smaller pictures on the contracts; you could call them rejects or——

Q. (Interrupting.) Where were the so-called top pictures of Universal pictures played the next year?

A. They were played in the Bison, Criterion, and Avon in Shawnee.

Q. Those theaters were operated by whom? A. Griffith Amusement Company.

Q. And was any of those pictures ever offered to you, first run?

A. Only what I said.

979 Q. I am talking about the top pictures that were played in that city.

A. Not the top pictures, sir.

Q. This contract in evidence here as Plaintiff's Exhibit 267, that calls for a full deal of the Universal pictures for that season, does it?

A. I think that is everything except the westerns. (Referring to exhibit.) No, it has the westerns. To my knowledge that's the full deal for that year.

Q. Now, I call your attention to the year 1936. You and your father and the Seminole Amusement Company were then operating the Ritz Theater in Shawnee, is that right?

A. My father and I were operating the Ritz Theater in Shawnee.

980 Q. Then did you open another theater there?

A. We did. The Seminole Amusement Company opened the State Theater.

Q. When was that?

A. I believe that was October 18, 1936.

Q. Can you describe that theater generally?

A. Well, it was a theater of approximately seven to eight hundred seats, balcony, main floor, very large stage. It had been a theater there for quite sometime.

Q. What was the name it formerly operated under?

A. It was the Savoy Theater formerly.

Q. And had been operated by whom?

A. In the past it had been operated by A. B. Momand. When he lost it, it had been operated formerly by independents.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to his statement "When he lost it."

A. When he gave it up then.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know about how many seats it had?

A. I would say between seven and eight hundred seats.

Q. When you opened that, what sort of policy did it operate on?

A. It was originally opened to operate on a stage show and a picture policy. It was our policy to book acts of vaudeville in there as often as we could with pictures 981 and utilize the stage.

Q. What was the admission price policy there then?

A. When we ran it with stage shows it varied. The price was around 35 cents for adults and 10 cents for children but when we ran it straight pictures on subsequent runs, it was placed on a 15 and 10 cent basis.

Q. Was that the admission price policy at the Ritz also?

A. The main price policy of the Ritz was 15 cents for adults and 10 cents for children except on a Sunday change. Sometimes Sunday, Monday, Tuesday change would go up to 25 cents, depending on the run of the picture we had to offer.

Q. During that '36–37 season, you were exhibiting product on what runs at those two theaters?

A. Well, we had mostly second and third run. Mostly third. We had some United Artists, we had United Artists first run which we played at both theaters.

Q. What were the admission price policies of the Griffith Theaters there in 1936?

A. I believe the Bison——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object unless he knows.

A. The Bison was 25 cents for adults, 10 cents for children. The Criterion price was 15 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. The Avon was 15 cents for adults 982 and 10 cents for children.

Q. The Bison was the first run house there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did the Criterion and Avon play any major product, first run?

A. The Criterion played major product, first run.

Q. At 15 and 10 cents?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then what did the Avon play?

A. Second run of the major product.

Q. Then your houses followed the Avon, did they?

A. When we played the major product third run, we followed the Avon.

Q. When you got it second run——
A. It was either after the Bison or Criterion.
Q. Where Griffith played no second runs?
A. At the Criterion——
Q. No, I said the situations where you got second run on major product was where Griffith didn't play a second run. Is that right?
A. That is right.
Q. Generally, those admission prices which you charged were written into your contracts?
A. Generally, yes, sir.
Q. At 10 and 15 cents?
983 A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you know whether any efforts were made to play any of the major product there at a lesser price than 15 cents at the Ritz or State?
A. What run are you talking about, any run?
Q. The subsequent runs that you played at the Ritz or State?
A. No, we didn't play any major product at less than 15 cents for adults.
Q. My question was, whether you made any attempt to get permission to play at a lower price than 15 cents.
A. Yes, we did once or twice there.
Q. Now, I show you a copy of a letter dated December 11, 1936, addressed to Fox Film Corporation at Oklahoma City, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 268 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that as a copy of a letter that was written on or about that date on behalf of the theaters operated by your father and sister and you?
A. Yes, sir, we wrote this.

By the COURT:

Q. What is the date of that letter?
A. December 11, 1936.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I show you this letter on Fox stationery, addressed to Jake Jones, Ritz Theater, dated December 14, 1936, marked for identification as Exhibit 269, and ask you if that is the reply you received shortly after that 984 date?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And I show you this copy of a letter to Fox marked Exhibit 270 for identification, and dated December 17, 1936, and ask you if that is a copy of the reply that was made to Fox's letter of December 14?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. I show you this letter from Fox to Jake Jones, Ritz Theater, Shawnee, dated December 23, 1936, marked as Exhibit 271, and ask you if you received that shortly after the date it bears, December 23?

A. Yes, sir.

985 Q. Do you recognize this copy of a letter dated December 24, to the Fox Film Corporation at Oklahoma City, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 272 for identification, as the reply which was made to the letter of December 23rd from Fox to you (handing)?

Mr. COCHRAN. What is the date of Exhibit 272?

The WITNESS. December 24, 1936.

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer these exhibits Nos. 268 to 272 inclusive, in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to each of the exhibits which are now tendered and offered as being hearsay.

The COURT. The objection will be sustained and an exception allowed.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, in this connection, I think when I offered some letters the other day, your Honor asked me if I thought they stood on any other footing from any of the other hearsay testimony that we had offered, and I think I replied that we thought it was equally admissible. I just want to point out at this time with reference to the letters of this character and of the character which have been previously introduced, that they do come within another exception to the hearsay rule, which does not apply to conversations, and that is that these are, of course, business communications made in 986 the ordinary course of business, and I think that wherever a course of business is an issue in a lawsuit, as it is here, probably the evidence which has the highest probative value in proving or establishing any course of business are the actual documents which were recorded contemporaneously in the form of memoranda or letters, which show what was done at the time and which were made at the time, and to that extent I think letters of this character are more admissible even than conversations would be, and that they would be admissible under the business records exception to the hearsay rule, in addition to the other theories on which we asked your Honor to admit the conversations.

The COURT. I think the same rule would apply in this case. There is not any reason shown why you cannot disclose the same evidence to the Court by the man who wrote the letter. He would be a competent witness as to anything that Griffith said, because Griffiths are defendants in this case. Now, you are offering letters between this witness and those who are not parties to this case, and it would be hearsay. The objection will be sustained and an exception allowed. They are in the record, however, for your purposes.

By Mr. Wright:

Q. Now, Mr. Jones, was it a fact that in December of 1936 the Griffith theaters at Shawnee, one or more of them had played Fox pictures ahead of your theaters 987 there at a 10-cent matinee price?

A. The Avon Theater played a 10-cent matinee during the week days.

Q. And those were Fox pictures that were played at that matinee?

A. Yes, sir, Fox.

Q. And did you play any Fox pictures after the Avon at less than 15 cents?

A. We completed our picture agreement with Fox; no pictures were canceled as the result of that 10 cents.

Q. I don't think you answered the question. Will you read the question?

(Last question read by the reporter.)

A. Not less than 15 cents, no, sir.

Q. Now, how long did you operate the State Theater there?

A. It was closed in June, June 30th, I believe, 1938.

Q. And in connection with the closing was any agreement made with the Griffith interests?

A. Yes, sir.

By the Court:

Q. What theater are you speaking about?

A. The State Theater.

My Mr Wright:

Q. The State?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have a copy of that agreement?

A. (After referring to papers) Yes, sir (handing).

988 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 273 for identification was then marked by the reporter.)

Q. Now, this agreement that has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 273 for identification, dated April 29, 1938, is the one you referred to, is it (handing)?

A. This is it.

989 Q. And that was signed by you there, was it, on behalf of the Seminole Amusement Company as Secretary?

A. I was one of the signers.

Q. And that is your father's signature, the other signer?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. It was signed by the Griffith Amusement Company by——
A. L. O. Griffith and H. J. Griffith.
Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 273 for identification.
The COURT: What is the date of that?
Mr. COCHRAN. April 29, 1938. No objection.
The COURT. Let it be admitted.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, after this agreement marked Plaintiff's Agreement 273 was made, was the State Theater converted into a store?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And has not been operated as a theater since?
A. No, sir.
Q. After the State was converted you and your father were then operating only one theater in Shawnee?
A. The Ritz.
Q. And during the '37–38 season—you say for the '36–37 season you had been playing from United Artists first run there?
990 A. Yes, sir. In '36–37 we had United Artists first run.
Q. Did you have it for '37–38?
A. We did not have a complete deal, no, sir. We had a few United Artists, first run.
Q. And who played the other United Artists?
A. The Griffith Theaters.
Q. Were you offered an opportunity to negotiate for any of those that the Griffith Houses played?
A. No, sir.
Q. When you say "a complete deal," you had had a complete deal in '36-37?
A. Yes, sir.
Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike out his statement about having a complete deal for '36–37 for the reason the contracts would be the best evidence. He said he played some product. We have no objection to that, but when he stated he had a complete deal, we are objecting seriously for the reason we contend they cannot produce contracts substantiating that statement and he cannot produce contracts showing that Griffith licensed the remaining pictures which were not licensed to him for '37–38. It is just not the best evidence.
The COURT: Overruled. I think that would be proper on cross examination, but I think it is competent for him to state whether he knows.

991 Mr. COCHRAN. My point is it is not only not the best evidence but he just can't know about those things.

The COURT. Exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. As I understand it, for the '37–38 season you had no regular full season deal of any major product, first run. Is that right?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the question as leading.

The COURT. Well, he is just repeating his statement. Overruled and exception allowed.

A. Will you repeat that question please?

(Question read.)

A. We did not have any major product, first run, for '37–38, full season deal.

Q. I show you this document marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 274 for identification and ask you if that is a copy of the first run contract you made with RKO for the '38–39 season?

A. Yes, sir, it is.

The COURT. What is the date of that?

Mr. WRIGHT. The application is dated, it has an approval date of December 15, 1938. It has an application date of November 28, 1938.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you have any other first run major product for the '38–39 season?

992 A. No other major product, no sir.

Q. Were you offered any?

A. No, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross-examine.

993 Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Sergeant, you are stationed where?

A. At Will Rogers Field.

Q. And you have been since what time in 1943?

A. Since June.

Q. Since June 1943?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What are your duties there?

A. I am a chief clerk in the processing center.

Q. You have been managing two theaters at Shawnee during all of that time, have you?

A. You say managing?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I have not been managing them, no, sir.

Q. What services have you been performing in connection with the two theaters, known as the Ritz and the Jake?

A. I have been trying to help my sister all I could.

Q. What services have you rendered?

A. Oh, helping her in booking and in buying and in buying equipment, to see that it is installed, and so forth.

Q. How often do you go to Shawnee?

A. As often as I can; usually about once a week, sometimes oftener.

Q. Have you been conducting any of the negotia-
994 tions for licensing of pictures during that period?

A. The actual negotiations?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't see how this is material. There was nothing offering on his direct examination that dealt with the period since he has been in the army.

The COURT. I don't see the materiality of it, but it may be proper cross-examination.

Mr. COCHRAN. Counsel likes to float over the '38–39 when it suits his convenience.

The COURT. Well, gentlemen, we will argue the case later.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When was the Jake Theater opened?

A. It was opened October 18, 1944.

Q. Who owns that theater?

A. My sister and myself are partners in that theater.

Q. And the other theater which you are interested in, the Ritz, who owns that?

A. My father owns that theater, the Ritz.

Q. No one else has any interest in it?

A. No, sir.

Q. The Seminole Amusement Company has no interest in it?

A. There is no Seminole Amusement Company at this time.

995 Q. That was dissolved, was it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did the Ritz at one time belong to the Seminole Amusement Company?

A. It never did, sir.

Q. Do you have any contract with you, with any of the companies, that was made during the period that your family were interested in the operation of the State and the Ritz?

A. Yes, sir, I have.
Q. During what period was that?
A. It was from '36 to '38.
Mr. COCHRAN. There has not been produced in evidence a contract for that season, has there, '36–37?
Mr. WRIGHT. We have the contracts that were drawn, and we will offer them to you to look at, if you want to see them.
The COURT. What was the question?
Mr. COCHRAN. The contract for the '36–37 season at the State and the Ritz.
The WITNESS. Did you say all contracts, did I have all of them?

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. No, I just wanted to know if any contract for that season had been introduced in evidence.
Mr. WRIGHT. None of them have been introduced. These are the contracts that he brought.

996 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Can you find one of the contracts for the '36–37 season?
A. You want it for which theater?
Q. Any company, with any company that you have, for either one of the theaters.
A. Well, most of those, most all of those are the Ritz, and these are the State, and the Ritz or the State.
Q. Do you have one for the Ritz there with Fox for that season?
A. No, I haven't.
Q. Do you have one with Paramount?
A. For the '36–37?
Q. For '36–37.
A. I will see.
Q. For the Ritz Theater?
A. I don't think so.
Q. You used Fox and Paramount pictures for those seasons, didn't you?
A. '36–37?
Q. Yes.
A. I didn't use Paramount or Fox in the Ritz.
Q. Did you use it in the State?
A. I used Fox in the State.
Q. Do you have any Fox contract with you for the '36–37 season for the State?
997 A. No, I haven't.
Q. Where did you attend college?

A. At the Oklahoma Baptist University, and I have my degree from Oklahoma A. & M. College.

Q. When did you complete your college education, at A. & M. College?

A. January 1937, I completed my scholastic term. I got my degree in June.

Q. About how old were you at that time?

A. Well, 22 I believe, or 21. My birthday is in October.

Q. What year were you born?

A. October 1915.

Q. Did you at one time work for Standard Theaters in Oklahoma City?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When?

The COURT. For whom?

Mr. COCHRAN. Standard Theaters in Oklahoma City.

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. At what time?

A. June 1940 to January 1941.

Q. During that time were you living in Oklahoma City or Shawnee?

A. I was living in Oklahoma City.

998 Q. You introduced the contract here with Universal for product in the Ritz Theater for 1935–36, first run. Now, your father had been operating that Ritz Theater since the fall of 1931, hadn't he?

A. I believe that's right.

Q. Do you know who licensed the Universal—do you know whether the Ritz Theater licensed the season's product of Universal for any of the seasons since it commenced operation under your father's ownership and management, prior to the 1935–36 season?

A. Do I know any?

Q. Yes.

A. Sure, yes.

Q. When?

A. Oh, Universal?

Q. That's right.

A. Wait a minute, I beg pardon here. In 1931–32, we licensed Universal second run.

Q. I asked you the first run season's product?

A. Oh, no, no first run prior to that.

Q. So the product of Universal was licensed to you for '35–36 and then the next season, you have told counsel for the plaintiff that you did not license the full season's product, '36–37?

A. Not first run.

Q. First run?

999 A. No.

Q. Now, you spoke of rejections. You simply mean by that that you used certain of the pictures that were not used by Griffith?

A. That's right.

Q. You said that those were some of the minor pictures. As a matter of fact, for the '36–37 season you were offered and had the privilege of licensing all of the product except the twelve top features, weren't you?

A. All but twelve?

Q. All but twelve.

A. I couldn't say for sure. We were offered some.

Q. Do you have your contract or the contract of the Ritz with Universal for the '36–37 season?

A. I will see if I have (referring to papers).

The COURT. We will recess at this time, gentlemen, until two o'clock.

(Whereupon at twelve-thirty o'clock court recessed until two o'clock p. m.)

1000 AFTERNOON SESSION

2:00 o'clock p. m.

JOHNNY H. JONES, was recalled and further testified as follows:

Cross-examination (con't) by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When was it that you acquired the title of manager of the Ritz Theater?

A. About 10 years ago.

Q. What year was that?

A. The first of '37.

Q. That would be during the '36–37 season, is that right?

A. Well, I say the first part of '37. I didn't say anything about the season's product.

Q. But the year '37, the first part of '37 would be in the motion picture industry the season of '36–37?

A. Right, but the motion picture season began in September of '36.

Q. The '36–37 season would begin the first of September, 1936 and extend until the last of August, '37. How long was that after you completed your course at A & M College, or had you completed it?

A. I had just completed it.

Q. From what source do you obtain information which you have been giving from the stand in regard to 1001 happenings prior to the early part of 1937?

A. What source?

Q. Yes.

A. Actual happenings I knew about and was present at.

Q. Were you familiar with the product that was licensed prior to the time you became manager in '37?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You knew all about that?

A. I was familiar with it.

Q. Your sister was the manager wasn't she, prior to that time?

A. My father was the manager prior to that time.

Q. What did your sister do?

A. She helped my father.

Q. Wasn't she the manager?

A. I said my father was the manager.

Q. I asked you if she was.

A. I said my father was the manager.

Q. I just wanted your answer, no. Did your sister do any of the buying and booking of the pictures prior to the time you became manager?

A. Yes, sir, we all sat in on the buying and booking.

Q. At the time you were at A & M College did you sit in on the buying of pictures?

A. A lot of them I did.

1002 Q. Did you come home every week?

A. Every week, sometimes during the week.

Q. Do you have a contract in your possession, a contract with Universal, for product of the '36–37 season?

A. I have (handing).

Q. Do you have a contract for the '37–38 season?

A. I have (handing).

(Defendants' Exhibits Nos. 1, 2 and 3 were marked by the reporter for identification.)

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit No. 1 for identification and ask you to state if that is the contract which was executed on October 21, 1936?

A. It is.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 1.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

The COURT. That is a contract with Universal?

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes, sir, between Jake Jones and Universal. It says, "exhibitor agrees to play thirty features selective as follows: eight features at $25, two or three days, eight features at $17.50, two or three days, fourteen features at $12.50, two or three days, number offered thirty-six, number licensed, thirty. Distributor has privilege of withdrawing any eight features at top rentals. Ex-

1003 hibitor agrees to play following run on these eight features at $17.50. If any features in this contract play first run price to be $17.50. Playing arrangements: Exhibitor agrees to play or pay for three of the above productions each and every month beginning January 1937 in the order released, if and as available—three of the above productions each and every month beginning January 1937, in the order of release." Under the heading of run and clearance are the words "second run".

Q. Do you know whether there was another contract covering all but the twelve top features first run for that season?

A. I don't know of any other contract except that.

Q. Will you say there was none?

A. To my knowledge there was none.

Q. Do you know whether or not there was?

A. Well, sir, that is all I have.

Q. Do you have all the contracts?

A. I have all the contracts we have.

Q. I just wanted to know if you know.

The Court. Well, he has answered the question.

Mr. Cochran. All right.

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit No. 2 and ask you to state if that is the contract dated October 27, 1937, signed by Jake Jones and Ruby H. Jones?

A. That's right.

1004 Q. In whose handwriting is that?

A. That is my sister's, Ruby H. Jones.

Q. The Jake Jones there is in her handwriting also, is it?

A. That is her handwriting.

Mr. Cochran. We offer that contract in evidence.

Mr. Wright. No objection.

The Court. It will be admitted.

1005 By Mr. Cochran:

Q. This covers group 1, 12 pictures at $17.50, first run. Group 2, 12 pictures first run; group 3, 16 pictures first run. Release here of the product licensed '37–38. Exhibitor has privilege to play second run two or three days at $12.50 on the above first run picture, selection or rejection to be made 30 days after first run, all second run pictures to be played within 120 days after first run; preview privilege playing arrangement. Exhibitor agrees to play and pay for three of the above product each and every month in the year from January, 1938, in the order of release if, and as, available. Admission prices: matinee 15 cents, children and adults 15. The contract itself has the ten in each instance under "Register" instead of "Children," apparently, but that is intended to mean 10 and 15 cents in both instances?

A. That is right.

Q. And under clearance and run it cites first run and third run as stipulated above.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I hand you Defendant's Exhibit 3 and ask you if that is a contract dated October 27, 1937, the same date of the previous contract, covering several Universal reissues.

A. It is.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendant's Exhibit 3.

1006 Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. It covers the pictures "Showboat", "Magnificent Obsession", "Imitation of Life", first run, reissue, preview privilege. During the season 1935–36, were you familiar with the booking chart of the Ritz Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have that booking chart?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Please turn to that booking chart and tell me whether the Ritz Theater played the picture "Diamond Jim", first run that year.

A. Can you tell me the approximate date?

Q. No, I can't.

A. It played "Diamond Jim" December 29, 30, and 31, 1935, at a preview on the 28th.

Q. What date did you play "Storm Over the Andes", first run?

A. February 9, 10, and 11, 1936, with preview on the 8th.

Q. And "The Throw Back"?

A. Are you sure the title of that picture has not been changed?

Q. It was a picture starring Buck Jones and Muriel Evans.

A. April 17 and 18, 1936.

Q. The picture "King Solomon of Broadway"?

1007 A. February 2, 3, and 4, with preview the first of February, 1936.

Q. "Fighting Youth." I will tell you a better way to do that, Mr. Jones, if you will just start at the beginning——

A. (interrupting). I played "Fighting Youth" the 23rd and 24th of October 1936.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, may we ask what the purpose of this is? Maybe we can shorten it up.

Mr. COCHRAN. I would prefer not to disclose my purpose at this time, but I assure your Honor it is perfectly competent and relevant, and I will state it, if necessary.

The COURT. Read the question.

Mr. COCHRAN. I just asked him, I am asking him the play dates on various pictures in the season 1935-36.

The COURT. All right, go ahead and answer. I don't know, it doesn't appear material, but it may be.

Mr. COCHRAN. I think it will be very apparent in due time.

Q. Mr. Jones, just start at the beginning of that season and give us each one of the Universal pictures and the date it was played, first run.

A. Mr. Cochran, I don't know the titles of all those pictures.

Q. All right.

A. You have the release sheet probably in front of you.

Q. You don't have the distributor of the picture?

1008 A. No, all I have is my own dates.

Q. The "Affairs of Susan", first run.

A. The 12th, 13th and 14th of January 1936, with preview on the 11th.

Q. "His Night Out".

A. The 3rd and 4th of January, wait a minute here, the 3rd and 4th of January.

Q. 1936?

A. Right.

Q. "Three Kids and a Queen".

A. The 16th, 17th and 18th of February 1936; preview on the 15th.

Q. The issue of "Show Boat", first run.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's one of those that was not bought until '37, wasn't it?

A. What was the date of that contract on that?

Mr. COCHRAN. I believe you are right, that wasn't bought until October 1937.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think the contract is dated in October '37.

Mr. COCHRAN. Just kill that question.

Q. The picture "Sweet Surrender".

A. The 23rd, 24th and 25th of February, 1936; preview on the 22nd.

Q. "Stormy".

1009 A. The 29th, 30th and 31st of March, 1936; preview on the 28th.

Q. "Remember Last Night".

A. The 1st, 2nd and 3rd of March; preview on the——

Q. (interrupting). "Ivory Handled Guns."

A. You didn't let me finish. Do you want the preview date on that?

Q. Yes.

A. Preview on February 29, 1936.

Q. "Ivory Handled Guns."

A. Is that a Buck Jones picture?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. The 12th and 13th of June 1936.

Q. "The Great Impersonation."

A. April 5th, 6th and 7th; preview the 4th; 1936.

Q. "Dangerous Waters."

A. May 17th, 18th, and 19th; preview the 16th; of 1936.

Q. "Silver Spurs." That was also a Buck Jones' picture.

A. I am trying to find that one. I must have missed it.

Q. Suppose we pass that one for the present.

A. It is all right with me.

Q. Maybe we can pick it up somewhere else.

A. All right.

Q. The picture "East of Java," released December 2, 1935.

1010 A. I found "Silver Spurs," if you want it.

Q. All right, what is that date.

A. The 24th, 25th and 26th of May; preview on the 23rd, and the other one is "East of Java"?

1011 Q. "East of Java." While you are looking for that look for "Don't get Personal," "Love Before Breakfast."

A. I can give you "Love Before Breakfast." "Love Before Breakfast," the 31st of May, 1st and 2nd of June, 1936; preview on the 30th of May.

Q. "Don't get Personal" and "East of Java."

A. "Don't get Personal" the 3rd, 4th and 5th of May with preview on the 2nd, 1936.

Q. "Magnificent Obsession."

A. I believe that is on the same contract, is it not?

Q. It is a reissue, I guess.

A. The '37 contract.

Q. This doesn't show a reissue here but let's pass that. Look for "Dracula's Daughter."

A. The 14th, 15th and 16th of June, 1936; preview the 13th.

Q. "For the Service"?

A. Are you sure the title didn't change on that?

Q. It is a Buck Jones and Beth Marion picture. Did you find "Nobody's Fool"?

A. I am still looking for that Buck Jones picture.

Q. Just pass that. What date was "Invisible Ray" played, first run?

A. "Invisible Ray" played on the 19th, 20th and 21st of April, 1936; preview on the 18th.

1012 Q. Have you found "East of Java"?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. All right, we will pass that for the present then. After you leave the stand I wish you would see if you can find "East of Java" and "For the Service" and "Magnificent Obsession." I don't believe you gave "Magnificent Obsession."

Do you have the contracts with Universal for the '38–39 product?

A. I have these, yes, sir.

Q. I hand you Defendant's Exhibit 4 and ask you to state if that is the contract which was entered into between Universal and Jake Jones by Ruby Jones on March 20, 1939?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you participate in negotiating that contract?

A. I believe I did. I am sure I did, Mr. Martin.

Q. Have you had any negotiations with Mr. Martin or anyone else with Universal prior to the time, prior to this date with regard to product of that season?

A. Not that I can remember of.

Q. Would you say there was none?

A. I couldn't say that.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendant's Exhibit 4.

Mr. WRIGHT. We don't have any objection. I think we ought to know what the purpose of putting all these 1013 contracts in evidence is in order to see where we are going.

Mr. COCHRAN. I have no objection to stating it. First, it is a basis of further examination. Second, it is to show the product which he had of this Universal Company during that season. Third: The statements are all written into the faces of the contracts themselves.

1014 Mr. WRIGHT. I don't think any of those matters are in dispute.

The COURT. If some of these matters are not in dispute, why not stipulate on them. We are taking an awful lot of time.

Mr. COCHRAN. Some of these matters that appear in these contracts are going to be matters which they contend was discriminatory features of the contract with Griffith when they get down to the argument. My purpose is to get some of these contracts in evidence as the basis for comparison.

The COURT. Very well, proceed.

Mr. COCHRAN. This contract covers sixteen pictures, twelve of them second run, eight third run, and provides under the heading clearance, sixty days, and has the clause "exhibitor has privilege of preview."

Q. Can you tell us whether prior to the time that that contract was made with Jake Jones by Ruby Jones, that there had been licensed to Momand for the Odeon Theater certain product to play ahead of your theater?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, he can't possibly know the terms on which product was licensed to Mr. Momand. He can say whether he played it or not.

The COURT. You may state whether or not you know.

A. I don't know whether Mr. Momand had product or not.

1015 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Can you tell us whether he played some 1938–39 Universal product ahead of the Ritz Theater?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. Well, can you say that he did not?

A. I believe I can, yes, sir.

Q. You kept up with the product that was playing at the various theaters, did you?

A. To the best of my ability, I did.

Q. How many theaters were operating in Shawnee at that time?

A. What time?

Q. In the fall of 1938 and the first part of 1939?

A. There were five theaters.

Q. Three being operated by the Griffith Amusement Company, one by Momand, and one by Jake Jones?

A. Right.

Q. And you are able to tell us at this time the product of the various distributors which was being played at that time in each one of those theaters?

A. At each one of those theaters?

Q. Yes.

A. I couldn't tell you every foot of film that was run.

Q. Are you able to tell us what product of the various distributors was being played by Momand?

A. I couldn't tell you what Mr. Momand was playing.

1016 Q. You cannot tell us?

A. No.

Q. You know he was playing product?

A. Sure, he ran a theater.

Q. You have told us that in 1938–39 the Ritz Theater played the RKO product, first run, is that correct?

A. We played RKO first run in the '38–39 season.

Q. Do you have the booking chart for the product for that season?

A. I believe I do.

Mr. COCHRAN. Your Honor, without taking up too much of the Court's time just now, I will follow this through as I did with Universal. These are the only two that I expect to follow through. I would like to have this witness, to give him a list of pictures and have him supply us the dates on which those pictures were played first run in the Jones theaters.

The COURT. Can you furnish him a list and let him furnish it?

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes, sir, I can furnish him a list, if it is satisfactory.

Mr. WRIGHT. We would like to know the purpose of this before he leaves the stand, for the purpose of redirect examination.

Mr. COCHRAN. Before he leaves, we would like to 1017 furnish that list.

Mr. WRIGHT. I imagine if you give him the list at the recess he can probably check the dates on it.

Mr. COCHRAN. I thought we would go ahead further until a more convenient recess.

Mr. WRIGHT. Go ahead; sure.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Were you familiar with the theater situation in Shawnee in September of 1931?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were about sixteen years old then, weren't you?

A. About.

Q. Were you assisting in the buying and booking of pictures at that time?

A. I sat in on some of it.

Q. You recall when your father reacquired the Ritz Theater, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. I can give you the exact date.

Q. Well, just tell us from memory.

A. September 1931, I believe.

Q. October, you say?

A. I said September.

Q. September?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were you familiar with the theater known as 1018 the Victory, at that time?

A. I know there was a theater there, that is, there had been a theater there, named the Victory.

Q. Do you know when that theater was re-opened as the Rex?

A. Do I know the exact date?

A. The approximate date. The exact date, if you know it.

A. No, I don't.

Q. Can you give us the approximate date?

A. I wouldn't try.

Q. Do you know when the Avon was built and opened?

A. I would have to guess at the date.

Q. Do you have anything——

A. (Interrupting.) I don't have anything——

Q. In your possession, any memoranda that would give you any information on that?

A. No, I haven't.

Q. You spoke of not having a complete contract there with United Artists for the 1937–38 product. I mean by that, your testimony was, as I understand it, that for the '37–38 season, you did not license all of the United Artists releases?

A. That's right.

Q. For the season, that season, first run?

A. That's right.

1019 Q. Do you have the contracts which you did execute with United Artists for that season?

A. I will see if I have (referring to papers). The '37–38?

Q. The '37–38.

A. I think these are them. Do you want only the first runs?

1020 Q. Only the first runs, yes. The contract which you have produced is dated October 15, 1937 and covers the pictures "Over the Moon," "Mutiny in the Mountain," "Four Feathers," and "Gaiety Girl," first run, Ritz or State, Shawnee; preview privileges. Is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you have with you any other contract with United Artists for the '37–38 season?

A. First run?

Q. First run.

A. I have not. This is not first run.

Q. You do have some other contracts which you have labeled "first and third run"?

A. That is right. That come off the top of this.

Q. So that contract is the only one which you have in your possession for first run, and the other contracts which you have are for a third run?

A. That is right.

Q. Do you know what United Artists pictures Mr. Momand played for the '37–38 season?

A. I do not.

Q. Do you have any United Artists contracts for the '36–37 season?

A. I do.

1021 Q. First run. You have handed me one contract dated September 14, 1936 for a picture "One Rainy Afternoon" for the Ritz or State Theater, Shawnee. first run, and one contract dated January 22, 1936, covering the picture, "The Ghost Goes West," for the Ritz Theater, first run, Shawnee; one picture, "These Three" for the Ritz Theater, contract of June 22, 1936, and one picture, "Modern Times," dated June 22, 1936, for the Ritz Theater, first run, and one picture, Laughton production, an untitled picture dated June 22, 1936, for the first run, Ritz Theater, Shawnee. Is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Those are the only first run contracts which you have in your possession?

A. That is right.

Q. For that season of '34–35. We will make it '35–36. Do you have any first run contracts with United Artists?

A. '35–36?

Q. '35–36, or for any other run?

A. I have none for '35–36.

Q. You have in your possession no contracts with United Artists for the season of 1935–36?

A. No, I have not.

Q. You have not, you say?

A. Have not.

1022 Q. For '34–35, do you have any contracts with United Artists for any run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Just tell me from your memorandum how many pictures you licensed from United Artists for the '34–35 season.

A. First run?

Q. Yes.

A. I have 16 contracts.

Q. 16 pictures first run?

A. These pictures—I am not so sure whether they are '34–35 or whether they are '35–36. They were bought in '35.

Q. There are 16 pictures, first run?

A. Right.

Q. What is the date of the contract?

A. Well, they vary from January 19, 1935, to September, 1935. I have one for June 21.

Q. Mostly one picture at a time were they?

A. They are all one picture deals.

Q. I know, but one picture on each day?

A. That is right.

Q. Spread out over a considerable period of time?

A. There are some of them, one is '35, January 19, 1935. I bought most of them on that date. There are others spread out during the year.

Q. How many did you buy on January 19, 1935?

A. I bought 15 but there are more than 16 here. I
1023 miscounted them.

Q. How many pictures do you think United Artists released during the '34–35 season?

A. Offhand I don't know.

Q. For the '33–34 season, how many contracts do you have?

A. I don't have any.

Q. For the '32–33 season?

A. I have six contracts.

1024 Q. Covering how many pictures?

A. Six pictures.

Q. What is the date of those contracts?

A. 3-30-33.

Q. For the year 1938–39 do you know what Columbia pictures and on what run Jack Smith was playing at the Odeon in Shawnee?

A. I believe—he was following Griffith Theaters—it should be third run.

Q. You were not playing any Columbia pictures in '38–39?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or in '37–38?

A. '37–38?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you play any in 1936–37?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you play any in 1935–36?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or '34–35?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or '33–34?

A. No, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. Were you asking him about first run, or any run?

1025 Mr. COCHRAN. No, I am asking him any run.

Q. Now, with the exception of one year that you mentioned there, Momand's theater, the Odeon, was following the Griffith theaters with Columbia product, is that right?

A. As far as I know, it was. If they were being played, he would play them, I didn't.

Q. In 1938–39 did you have a contract, a season's contract, any run, on Vitagraph pictures or Warner's?

A. Just a minute. You say 1938–39?

Q. '38–39.

A. 1938–39?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you play any Warner pictures in '38–39?

A. If I did, it was spot booking agreements. I don't believe I did, though.

Q. Do you know whether the Odeon Theater was playing some Warner pictures that season?

A. I couldn't definitely say. I think he did.

Q. For the '37–38 season, did you play any Warner pictures?

A. Warner's?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. In 1936–37 you licensed some Vitagraph pic-

1026 tures for third run, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have those contracts?

A. Yes, sir.

(Defendants' Exhibit 5 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Q. Defendants' Exhibit No. 5 is the contract that you have just referred to.

A. This one?

Q. Yes (handing).

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 5.

Mr. WRIGHT. Wait a minute. I thought you had marked the Universal contract as No. 5. Shouldn't that be No. 6?

Mr. GRIFFING. It should be 5.

Mr. WRIGHT. What have you got for Exhibit 5?

Mr. COCHRAN. This is 5.

Mr. GRIFFING. No 5 has been introduced.

Mr. WRIGHT. All right, go ahead.

Mr. COCHRAN. This contract is dated December 10, 1937, signed by the Seminole Amusement Company by Jake Jones by Ruby H. Jones, operating the State Theater, Shawnee, dated September 10, 1937, and lists a number of pic-
1027 tures sold on weekly payment plan, third run. Clearance none. Exhibitor may select any feature not designated in place of one specified at the same rental terms, to play one each week starting November 1, 1937.

Q. Do you have any other contract with Warner Bros. for that season?

A. I believe I have, two separate pictures.

Q. Well, those are just two special pictures, are they?

A. Two special pictures.

Q. That were licensed to you on the same run, the third run?

A. The third run.

Q. Do you have any contracts with Warner Bros.—first, though, let me ask you this. The State Theater was closed when?

A. June 30, 1938.

1028 Q. Do you have any contracts in your possession with Warner Brothers or Vitagraph for the '35–36 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For that season's product you had 20 pictures, third run?

A. Right.

Q. For the Ritz or State?

A. That is right.

Q. For the '34–35 season do you have any contract?

A. I have none.

Q. On any run?

Q. No, sir. You are talking about Warner Brothers, aren't you?

Q. That is right, or Vitagraph.

A. I have not.

Q. Did the Ritz or State Theaters play any Warner Brothers or Vitagraph pictures for '34–35 season?

A. No, sir.

Q. For the '33–34 season's product?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did the Ritz or State play any of the Warner or Vitagraph products?

A. You said '33–34?

Q. '33–34.

A. No, sir.

1029 Q. On any run?

A. No, sir.

Q. How about the season of '32-33?

A. No, sir.

Q. And '31–32?

A. No, sir. No Warner product.

Q. Turning now to the Fox or M-G-M or Loew. The Ritz Theater played some of the M-G-M product, second run for the '31–32 season, did it not?

A. Yes, sir.

1030 Q. That is the contract that has been introduced in evidence already?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have any contract with Loew's for the '32–33 product?

A. I believe that has been introduced, sir.

Q. Look at your memoranda and see what you have for the '32–33 product.

A. No, I didn't have any of their product for '32–33.

Q. And none of it was played in the Ritz Theater?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know whether the Momand theaters played any of the Metro product for the year '32–33, for the '32–33 season?

A. No, I don't.

Q. At that time Momand was operating the Savoy and Odeon, is that correct?

A. I am not sure about the Savoy.

Q. No, I am wrong about that, because as I recall, Momand discontinued operating the Savoy along in the fall of 1931. Is that your recollection?

A. I don't know, sir, the exact date.

Q. You don't know?

A. No.

Q. Then, for the '33–34 season, did the Ritz Theater play any of the Metro product?

1031 A. No, sir—'33–34?

Q. The '33–34 season.

A. No, sir.

Q. During that season who was operating the old Savoy Theater?

A. I don't know, sir.

Q. How long had that theater been known as the State Theater prior to the time that your father or the Seminole Amusement Company or some one in your group took over that old Savoy?

A. When it opened in 1936 it was known from then on as the State until it closed.

Q. Prior to that time.

A. It was not known as the State.

Q. It was known as the Savoy?

A. I don't know what they called it. When Mr. Momand run it, it was the Savoy.

Q. What was it called or named during the period after Mr. Momand ceased to operate it and until your father opened it up as the State?

A. I heard it referred to numerous times as the Savoy.

Q. Do you know who was operating it?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you know what product it had during that period?

A. No, I don't.

1032 Q. For the season of 1934–35, do you have any Loew contracts for the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit No. 6, and ask you if that is the contract which you refer to of Metro covering the '34–35 product?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 5.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

Mr. COCHRAN. It is a contract dated August 13, 1935, covering 25 pictures, third run, playing arrangement, the exhibitor agrees to play and or pay for at least three pictures per month commencing January 1, 1936, in order of release if and as available until all pictures licensed hereunder are exhibited and or paid for. The exhibitor has the right to preview on Saturday night preceding opening and on following Sunday on any picture so booked. The theater is the Ritz Theater.

The COURT. Who are the contracting parties?

Mr. COCHRAN. Between Jake Jones, by Ruby Jones, and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. There is a clause under "clearance" "any pictures listed hereon played second run in Shawnee for a maximum admission of 10 cents may be excluded from this contract."

1033 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Now at that time do you know that the Odeon Theater was playing on a regular 10 cent admission?

A. That is right. What year is that?

Q. 1935.

A. That wasn't put there because of the Odeon.

Q. I didn't ask you that. I asked you if the Odeon was not playing at a regular 10 cent admission price all the time.

A. To my knowledge it was.

Q. Do you have some other contracts there with Metro for that season?

A. '34–35?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. One of those contracts is dated August 13, 1935, and covers three pictures, third run, and the other is dated February 23, 1935, one picture third run. Is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Now for the season of 1935–36, do you have any Metro contracts?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have a contract dated June 4, 1936, between Jake Jones and Metro covering——

Mr. WRIGHT. Is that the application or approval date?

1034 By the WITNESS:

A. It is approved.

Mr. COCHRAN. It is the application date. Do you want the date of it?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. The approval date is June 16, 1936, covering 16 pictures, isn't it?

By the WITNESS:

A. That is right.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Second run?

A. Yes, second run.

Q. And the other contract is dated April 19, 1937, between Jake Jones and Metro covering 12 pictures, third run. Is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Do you have any pictures for any contracts for the '36–37 season of Metro? (Witness produces contract.) You have here one contract dated April 19, 1937, with Jake Jones by Ruby Jones and approval April 28, 1937, covering 30 pictures third run and containing a notation that all the pictures were offered.

A. It don't say all pictures offered.

Q. "Total number of features motion pictures, offered all."

A. All that are listed.

Mr. WRIGHT. Why not have the contract marked for identification and then offer it? There isn't any question of what it says.

1035 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Defendants' Exhibit No. 7 there is the contract to which you have been referring, is it?

A. That is right.

Q. The contract bears application date of April 19, 1937, Jake Jones for the Ritz or State, Shawnee with Loew's?

A. For what year's product?

Q. Covering the product of the '36–37 season. It lists 30 pictures, total number of feature motion pictures offered all. Total number of feature motion pictures listed, 30. Admission price 10 and 15 cents; third run. The exhibitor has the privilege of Saturday preview on any of the above pictures opening Sunday.

1036 (Defendants' Exhibit 8 for identification was then marked by the reporter.)

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I hand you Exhibit 8, and ask you if that is another contract covering the product of the '36–37 season between Jake Jones and Loew's?

A. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit 8.

The COURT. What is the date of it?

Mr. COCHRAN. The date of the application is September 28, 1936, approved October 19, 1936. It covers twenty-two pictures, second run, and it states total number of feature motion pictures offered twenty-two, total number of feature motion pictures licensed twenty-two; to be played and/or paid for as available. Exhibitor has privilege of Saturday midnight preview on all subjects opening the following Sunday.

Q. Are those all the contracts you have for the '36–37 product with Loew's?

A. That's all, yes, sir.

Q. Let me have your '37–38 contracts.

A. '37–38?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't seem to have those.

Q. Do you have any contracts with Metro for '37–38?

A. Just a minute. I believe I did.

1037 Q. Beg pardon?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have those contracts?

A. I don't have the contracts, no, sir.

Q. For that season's product you had a contract for second run for the Ritz or State Theater on twenty-two pictures, second run, did you not?

A. What contract do you say? I didn't get the first.

Q. Covering the product of the 1937–38 season.

A. Loew's?

Q. Yes.

A. We had a contract; I don't know for how many pictures; I haven't got that record here.

Q. Your notes don't show how many pictures?

A. Not the number of pictures.

Q. Do you have the contracts with Loew's for the '38-39 product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your contract, or rather the contract between Jake Jones and Loew's for the '38–39 season, second run, is dated, the application, December 5, 1938, and the approval date was December 20, 1938, is that correct (handing)?

A. That's correct.

Q. It covers twenty-two pictures, doesn't it?

A. That's correct.

1038 Q. Second run?

A. That's right.

Q. With preview privilege?

A. Correct.

Q. On the same date?

A. Right.

Q. The application was made for third run product, which was approved on December 20, 1938, covering thirty pictures, third run?

A. That's right.

Q. Also with the privilege of Saturday night preview on any of the features?

A. That's right. Do you want this?

Q. No.

A. That was the lower half of the second run, and then the upper group third run.

Q. In each of these second run contracts which you have produced here in evidence, with Loew's, the second run group was the lower part?

A. The lower part of their contract.

Q. Of their contract?

A. The lower allocations.

Q. That's right. Do you have your contracts with Twentieth Century-Fox?

A. No, sir.

1039 Q. None of them?

A. What year?

Q. Beginning with 1931–32.

A. Just a minute.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think the '31–32 contract is in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. You are right.

Q. Beginning with the '32–33 season.

A. All I have is the 1930–31 Fox.

Q. Do you have any recollection as to what Fox product was played in the seasons 1932–33 through 1938–39?

A. There was none played in 1932–33, none in 1933–34, none in '34–35, none in '35–36. Now, we played some Fox product in the State Theater, I don't know what year it was, but——

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. (Interrupting.) The answers you have given are with reference to the Ritz?

A. Well, the answers I am giving are with reference to the Ritz, if that is what you want.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I want any theater.

A. Here is the Ritz. None in the Ritz from 1932 through 1938–39.

Q. How about the State?

A. We had one deal, I don't remember how many was on that. I couldn't locate it.

1040 Q. Was that the contract that the previous operator of the State had with Fox, which you took over at the time——

A. (Interrupting.) No, sir, I took over no contracts of that theater.

Q. Do you know whether that theater or Momand's theater had been previously playing Fox product, some part of it?

A. I don't know about Mr. Momand, but it wasn't playing there before.

Q. How about the '36–37 season?

A. For what theater?

Q. The Ritz or State.

A. I said for the Ritz I had none up through the 1938–39 season. From 1932–33 through 1938–39, none for the Ritz.

Q. How about the State?

A. I told you I had some Fox pictures for the State one year, I don't know how many or what year it was.

Q. Do you mean to say through '38–39 you only had some Fox product for one year for the State?

A. Right. I don't remember whether that was a regular contract or a booking arrangement, a spot booking arrangement.

1041 Q. Now you have testified something in regard to admission prices. Can you tell us when the Momand Theaters, or theater, rather, the Odeon Theater, commenced to exhibit pictures at 10 cents?

A. I can't tell you the first time, no, sir.

Q. Don't you recall that it dates as far back as the time when he ceased to operate the Savoy Theater?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. Do you know whether he also was operating on some days on what is known as "Penny" day?

A. He didn't use "Penny" day.

Q. What other methods of operation did he use in connection with reduced admissions?

A. You are talking about Mr. Momand's theater?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. "Pal day" was what he used.

Q. That is where two could go in for the price of one?

A. That is right.

Q. And what else did he use?

A. That is all I know of.

Q. Do you know when he first started double billing that theater?

A. No, sir.

Q. At the time you took over the operation of the State Theater, what was its operating policy, just prior to 1042 the time you took it over?

A. Prior to the time we took it over?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't know. It was not operated as a theater very regular. There used to be boxing and wrestling there.

Q. When you took it over, as I understand, you commenced its operation as a vaudeville place with some motion pictures?

A. Vaudeville and pictures.

Q. How many picture show changes did you make a week at first?

A. Three.

Q. Single bills or double bills?

A. Single bill.

Q. How long did you continue to operate it on that policy?

A. The State operated on that policy from its opening to its closing.

Q. Using vaudeville during the entire time?

A. Not during the entire time, no, sir, but when we could get the acts, when we could get vaudeville and when we could get the different shows.

Q. Did you make any improvements of any kind in the Savoy Theater at the time you took it over and made it into the State?

A. Yes, sir.

1043 Q. What changes were made?

A. We installed new sound and projection equipment; we decorated the theater completely; installed new cooling and ventilating equipment; installed new heating unit; all the stage equipment; we installed light fixtures; installed new plumbing facilities; new front boards, display boards, and a new sign. That is about all I can think of offhand.

Q. At any time prior to the time you discontinued operating the State Theater, did you play double bills on any program?

A. We had some double bills in the State. I can tell you the exact number if you want to know. They are very few.

Q. It was not a regular policy?

A. No, sir. It would not average one a month.

Q. What time in 1935 was it that you took over the State?

A. I didn't say we took it over in 1935.

Q. What year was it?

A. I said we opened it in October, 1936.

Q. Back in 1935, your father was only operating the Ritz Theater?

A. That is right.

Q. You spoke of some kind of controversy in regard to admission prices at that time. I believe you stated 1044 that in your Ritz Theater in 1935, the admission price was at all times 10 cents for children and 15 cents for each adult.

A. I didn't say at all times.

Q. What did you say?

A. I said on the Sunday change the Ritz Theater varied with the type of picture that was offered, the run.

Q. We will say then that your testimony was the admission price was not less than 10 cents for children and 15 cents for adults on any playing date. Is that correct? Is that your testimony?

A. That is right.

Q. Would you say on December 13, 1935, you were not playing pictures in the Ritz Theater on a basis of the two for one policy in effect on Wednesdays and Thursdays?

A. It is called "penny day." It was on Wednesday and Thursday.

Q. So in 1935 you were operating on a basis of two admissions for 16 cents?

A. That is right.

Q. So that was a deviation from your regular 15 cent admission, wasn't it?

A. That is right.

Q. And two children for 11 cents?

A. That is right.

Q. When did you start that policy?

1045 A. When we started the other, 15 cents.

Q. I beg your pardon.

A. You mean what year?

Q. Yes, what date.

A. I can't tell you the year. I don't have that record here.

Q. Will your booking record show that?

A. No, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you begin that at the time you took over the Ritz?

A. No, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. How long had you been operating the Ritz when you commenced that policy?

A. I don't know.

Q. You know that the Odeon for considerable time prior to the time you started that policy had been operating on 10 cents admission and also "pal day", do you not?

A. I believe they were.

Q. For a considerable time?

A. They were operating on that basis—wait a minute—on "pal day"?

Q. Yes.

A. I couldn't say whether they were or were not on that. I should say they were operating on a 10 cent admission, but I couldn't say as to "pal day."

1046 Q. I should not have joined the two together. But you can say they had been operating a considerable time on the 10 cent admission?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Mr. Jones, at the present time, as I understand it, your father is operating the Ritz Theater and your sister is operating the Jake Theater?

A. My sister and I are partners in the Jake Theater.

Q. And you are manager for both the Ritz and the Jake?

A. Not right now. I can't be the manager and in the Army too.

Q. I thought you said you continued to assist?

A. I continued to contribute all the help I could but I can't be called the manager and in the Army too.

Q. What product is now being played in the Ritz Theater?

A. The Ritz?

Q. Yes.

A. For the present year?

Mr. WRIGHT. This is away outside the scope of the direct examination. There wasn't anything offered about the present condition.

The COURT. Overruled. I think they can show that, whether or not the condition existed prior. It is merely circumstance. It is pretty hard to draw the line on the broad scope of this evidence. You may answer.

1047 A. We were playing first run, RKO Radio which we secured through arbitration.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike that answer as not responsive.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think he can explain.

The COURT. Answer the question. What do you have?

A. RKO Radio first run and we are playing M-G-M.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you also have RKO second run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you use any RKO third run?

A. Yes. sir.

Q. Do you have your selection of the RKO product at the present time, any you want to run?

A. We have contracts for first and second run and we make our contracts for third run as we go.

Q. All right, Metro.

A. We have second and third run, approximately the same, lower group second run and the other third run.

Q. Paramount?

A. Paramount is played on a third run basis, mostly in the Jake.

Q. And Universal.

A. Universal is second and third run.

Q. Vitagraph and Warner.

1048 A. Warner third run.

Q. Fox?

A. Fox is third run.

Q. Columbia?

A. Columbia, that is third run I believe.

Q. United Artists.

A. I don't know what we have on United Artists.

1049 Q. At the present time in the Ritz Theater you are playing on a policy of a single feature picture Sunday-Monday-Tuesday and mostly double bills for Wednesday-Thursday, and double bills mostly on Friday-Saturday, are you not?

A. No double bills on Friday or Saturday.

Q. You play double bills all the time on Wednesday-Thursday?

A. Not always, most of the time.

Q. Can you tell us how many pictures you played in the Ritz Theater during the calendar year 1944?

A. I cannot, because I don't have my records here for that year.

Q. Doesn't that show on your booking chart?

A. I don't have the 1944 booking chart.

Q. I see.

A. I only brought records through 1938-39.

Q. I wish you would look through this list of bookings beginning with the week ending January 22, 1944, and ending with the week ending December 30, 1944, and state if you can tell us whether those are the bookings for the Ritz Theater for that period?

A. I can't do that without comparing it with my records.

Q. You have nothing here with which to compare it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Would you recognize advertisements for those 1050 theaters during that period?

A. Sure.

Q. Looking through these bookings here, I will ask you to state if it isn't a fact that it was the general policy to play double bills on Wednesday-Thursday?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, what if he did or didn't?

A. I can't see any objection to playing double bills.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I am not complaining——

A. (Interrupting) It is being done all over Oklahoma City, and all over the state, and all over the nation.

The COURT. What is the purpose of it?

Mr. COCHRAN. The purpose, your Honor, is to show he has ample product and the type of product which he does have, and he has product to the extent that he is not only playing single bills, but double bills.

The COURT. I understood counsel to say yesterday that he was admitting these independents had ample pictures of the kind.

Mr. COCHRAN. Sure, but we are showing the major product he has, we have already shown that now, and we are showing that he is showing that major product double bill in the Ritz Theater and has been doing it.

The COURT. Well, he stated that he had.

1051 Mr. COCHRAN. He attempted to limit it to an occasional double bill at the Ritz.

The WITNESS. The policy of the Ritz is not double bill every day; there is no set policy.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you know how often you run double bills?

A. Sir, it depends upon the product available and the pictures themselves.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Don't you know that you have a consistent policy, but that there are some exceptions to it, whereby you play double bills on Wednesdays and Thursdays; isn't that the policy?

A. It is the policy, but we don't do that every Wednesday and Thursday. Just like I say.

Q. I just wanted to know if that was the policy. Now, then, in the Ritz Theater during the year 1944, you have played product of every one of the distributors that were named in our recital a moment ago, have you not?

A. You asked for the present time, awhile ago, you asked for 1945; you said nothing about the product of 1944.

Q. All right, in 1944, what product were you playing in the Ritz Theater?

A. I don't have the records of the 1944 with me.

Q. You couldn't tell us from memory?

A. No, sir.

Q. Your memory is not as good on the '44 product

1052 as it has been on some of this '32–33, is it?

A. I have all of those records with me.

Q. Those records which you have with you don't tell when the product was played and where, does it?

A. You have had me marking down everything you wanted. I have been doing that as much as I could.

Q. And you had to check through your booking chart to do it?

A. Yes, sir, I have to check through my booking chart to tell you when I played them. I couldn't tell you in 1931 what I played and on what day.

Q. I am not asking you the day, I just am asking you for the year. In the year 1944 tell us.

A. I don't have those records with me. I don't have the booking book, the booking chart, any of those contracts, or anything.

Q. In the year 1944, the calendar year 1944, did you play in either of the theaters in Shawnee pictures of RKO?

A. I believe we did.

Q. Did you play Metro?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you play Paramount?

A. I couldn't say on Paramount.

Q. Did you play Universal?

A. I believe so.

1053 Q. Did you play Vitagraph?

A. I couldn't say on Vitagraph.

Q. Or Fox?

A. I couldn't say on that.

Q. Or Columbia?

A. Or Columbia.

Q. Or United Artists?

A. I couldn't say on that.

Q. The theater which is now being operated as the Jake at the present time is operating on a policy of double bill each and every day, isn't it?

A. That's right.

Q. And has been since the time you acquired it, since you and your sister acquired it?

A. I wouldn't say every day.

Q. I mean that is the policy?

A. That's right.

Q. And playing mostly pictures of the so-called major distributors?

A. That's right, third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh runs.

Q. But playing product of the major distributors?

A. That's right.

Q. Do you know anything about the policy of the Jake Theater prior to the time you and your sister ac-

1054 quired it and it was operated as the Odeon, what its policy was?

A. I think it was double features.

Q. And that theater had been operated for a long time on ten-cent admissions and "pal" days, and "penny days", and so forth, is that correct?

A. When we acquired it?

Q. Just at the time you acquired it, yes?

A. It wasn't operating on a strictly ten-cent basis full week, when we acquired it. And I couldn't say he had "pal" day because I know he had admission prices of twenty and twenty-five cents on Sundays, Mondays and Tuesdays. He was closed on Wednesday and Thursday, and he ran Friday and Saturday, I believe, at ten cents or fifteen, I am not sure which.

Q. That was for only a brief time that he was closed on Tuesdays and Wednesdays, wasn't it?

A. It was quite some time.

Q. Isn't it a fact that he operated on full bills, two bills a week, until the week ending September 9, 1944?

A. I couldn't say that, yes or no.

Q. Would you say that is not true?

A. I couldn't say that was true; I don't know. I can only speak of his theater in generalities; I could not give definite dates.

Q. Don't you know that at that time he was adver-
1055 tising "two-for-one's" and "pal days", in the operation of that theater?

A. You are talking about Mr. Momand, aren't you?

Q. Well, I am talking about the person who was operating that theater.

A. I never operated that theater prior to October 18, 1944. Prior to that time I suggest you talk to Mr. Momand about that.

By the COURT:

Q. Well, do you know?

A. I don't know what he was doing.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. All right, you didn't notice the advertisements?

A. Sure I did; I read the paper every day.

Q. Don't you know from the advertisements that he was advertising "pal day" every Wednesday and Thursday, which admitted two for the price of one?

A. I couldn't say what day, what month, it was or what year.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't see the possible materiality of this.

The COURT. I think he has answered the question. If he reads all the advertisements he would be a good booking man.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all I have with him except the remaining checking of that '38-39 RKO play-off.

1056 The COURT. What is it that you would like on that?

Mr. COCHRAN. He was getting those play dates for me and he has not had a chance to complete that.

The COURT. You can prepare those and send them in and they will be accepted as a part of your evidence.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you have them now?

A. They are partially complete; they are not complete yet.

The COURT. You can send them in and they will be treated as a part of his testimony.

Mr. COCHRAN. I think he can have them by in the morning.

Mr. WRIGHT. May I ask the purpose of what the dates is?

Mr. COCHRAN. The purpose of these dates, is that they are to be used in connection with the contention which has been made so long and so strongly by counsel that there is something very ulterior in the contractual provisions with Griffith Amusement Company for playing out of order of release. The record will show from this witness, and it will show from every other person who exhibited films, that pictures are not played in order of release as available, and that will be our story and we will prove it by, not only this witness, but every other witness, if you give us a chance.

1057 Mr. WRIGHT. What has that to do with the contractual provisions made with Griffith? I am sure I don't know.

Mr. COCHRAN. I cannot enlighten you any further.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will be glad to have those dates to be put in the record on this occasion or any other occasion where counsel wants to show the order in which they are played.

The COURT. Anything further with this witness?

Mr. COCHRAN. Nothing except that information, and I would like to have it before he leaves.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think he can read those dates, he should be able to read those dates into the record tomorrow.

Mr. COCHRAN. Sure.

Mr. WRIGHT. Before the re-direct is concluded.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's right.

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, when you were asked about the RKO that the Ritz was playing first run, you said something about getting that by arbitration. What were you referring to there?

A. It was necessary to go before——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting.) We object to any showing in regard to arbitration, for the reason that these 1058 defendants were not parties to that arbitration, and it isn't binding on them in any way whatsoever.

The COURT. I don't know how that would be material.

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, if the Court please, I think we are entitled to show with reference to that RKO transaction, that RKO sold them away, and they filed a complaint, and they got the pictures, and it was only because the complaint was filed under the consent decree that they happened to have them today.

The COURT. Where did they file their complaint?

Mr. COCHRAN. The records, if they are admissible at all, will be the best evidence, your Honor please.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Were RKO pictures offered to the Ritz for the '39–40 season, do you know?

A. I don't believe they were, no, sir.

Q. That is at the time, of the season; then a complaint was filed, was it, under the consent decree?

A. We filed a complaint.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that. The complaint will be the best evidence.

The COURT. Overruled.

By the COURT:

Q. Where was the application filed, or the petition filed, for the consent decree?

A. Sir, there is an arbitration board here in Okla-
1059 homa City.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. It was filed in Oklahoma City?

A. Where we filed this complaint against RKO for these pictures. The complaint was never questioned, was never brought before the arbitration board; it was settled between us and RKO, and they gave us the pictures, that is, sold us the pictures from then on. We have been buying them every year under the consent decree, so many pictures in blocks up to five, under the provisions of the consent decree.

1060 Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike all that testimony as immaterial.

The COURT. Overruled.

By the COURT:

Q. Is there a Board here that regulates these matters?

A. At this time there was an Arbitration Board set up under the Consent Decree. The address of that Board at that time was at Robinson and Grand, I believe.

The COURT. What I am trying to find out is, who entered this Consent Decree.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think I am more competent to answer that than the witness. The Consent Decree was made between the Government and the five theater owning distributors in the suit pending in the Southern District of New York. In 1940, in November of 1940, that decree established a mechanism for arbitrating certain disputes such as complaints arising out of unreasonable clearance or loss of a run under certain limited conditions, and the American Arbitration Association performed the function of selecting the arbitrators and providing the places of hearing for those complaints, and that was all pursuant to the decree entered in New York.

The COURT. These distributors, then, are controlled and regulated by that decree?

Mr. WRIGHT. To that extent, the five of them who 1061 consented. The eight major distributors are party defendants to the suit. The five theater owning distributors consented to the entry of this decree against them. Those are Fox, RKO, Loew's, Paramount and Warner, and to the extent that the decree provides for the arbitration of disputes of certain clauses, they are subject to that regulation. There is at present in New York, in the New York court at the present time a motion to modify or have additional temporary relief in that connection, but that decree is an interim decree. That suit has been set for trial in October and will be tried on the merits then. This decree that has been referred to is not a final disposition.

Mr. COCHRAN. May we not put that in evidence, that consent decree by agreement?

Mr. WRIGHT. Certainly. It is judicially noticeable. I don't think it needs to be marked but we will agree the Court can notice the provisions of the decree that is on file in the Southern District of New York.

(Hereupon court adjourned until 10 o'clock a. m., May 16, 1945.)

1062 PROCEEDINGS

May 16, 1945, 10 o'clock a. m.

JOHNNY H. JONES, recalled, further testified as follows:

Cross-examination (con't) by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Jones, have you prepared a list showing the dates on which you played the pictures which were licensed first run in the Jones Theaters, RKO for '38–39?

A. I have.

Q. I hand you Defendant's Exhibit 9 and ask you to state if that sheet shows the RKO '38–39 releases which were played first run in the Ritz Theater, unless otherwise indicated?

A. It is. It is the list you handed me to prepare for you. It is the list of pictures you handed me.

Q. Are those all '38–39 RKO releases?

A. They are. They are '38–39 releases.

Q. You have noted on there "Unless otherwise indicated." Will you indicate which of these pictures were not played first run in the Ritz Theater?

A. The picture "Renegade Ranger."

Q. Just indicate the picture.

A. Wait a minute——

1063 Q. If the Court please—just show the picture that was not played first run in the Ritz Theater.

A. Strike "Renegade Ranger" out. I don't know about that.

Q. Where you don't know just say so.

A. You would not give me a chance.

Q. Go ahead.

A. "Fisherman's Wharf." We did not play that first run. "Lost Patrol" was a reissue, I believe, that time, and we did not play that first run reissue. "The Story of Vernon and Irene Castle" we did not play first run. "Panama Lady" and "The Girl and the Gambler," I could not locate dates on. The rest is complete.

1064 Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 9.

By the COURT:

Q. What was your reason for not running those first run?

A. They were not sold to us.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 9.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

The COURT. Anything further?

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you also complete the list of play dates on the Universal pictures?

A. It is together with that, on the bottom of that list there are three Universal pictures.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. On the last page of Exhibit 9 are the play dates on the three Universal pictures about which I inquired on yesterday, and which, at the time of adjournment, you had not been able to locate?

1065 A. Yes, sir.

Q. To wit, "East of Java," "For the Service," and "Magnificent Obsession"?

A. Yes, sir. That "Magnificent Obsession" is a reissue.

Q. But they played in the Ritz on the dates shown?

A. That's right.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you tell the Court just how these pictures were made available to your theater, the Ritz in Shawnee, at the season they played; that is, this RKO, the RKO pictures for the '38–39 season?

A. They were made available as of release dates. We booked those pictures as and when we got the release dates, as we could but in instances where they couldn't serve that particular picture, for example, a George O'Brien, it didn't make any difference what George O'Brien it was, we didn't care whether it was the first release or the last release, as we did start the contract late in the season.

Q. Describe the mechanics under which the pictures were made available, just what was done.

A. Well, a notice of availability was submitted to 1066 us by RKO and we booked from that.

Q. Then you would get in touch with the RKO booker?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And set a date?

A. We would set a date for all the pictures as they became available. Now, there are some instances when one picture would be played before the other, but they would be dated the same time, within a reasonable time of the date of the one that comes prior to that.

Q. The dates were determined to some extent, were they, by the availability of prints?

A. That's right.

Q. But in some particular instances there might not have been a print available?

A. That's right; and then the dates on the top pictures, some of them, were determined by their first run in Oklahoma City; that is, we would play those pictures first run sometimes day and date or after the Oklahoma City run, especially the percentage group, because RKO felt like——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting.) We object, if the Court please, to what the RKO felt like.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Just limit your testimony to what you did.

A. All right.

Q. The Universal pictures under the first run deal, where you put in the dates there, they were made available 1067 in the same way, were they?

A. That's right; but on Universal there was no mention as to the Oklahoma City dates.

By the COURT:

Q. Well, was that regulated by your contract?

A. You are talking about what, Judge?

Q. All of these pictures, their availability, when they would be released and when played, that was determined by your contract, was it?

A. The contract stated they would be dated as available on release date in order of release.

1068 Mr. WRIGHT. The contracts all provide that.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, the years when you had those RKO and Universal pictures, first run, it is a fact, is it not, that your theaters also played the second and third runs of those features?

A. That is right, played first run in the Ritz and played second run in the Ritz and sometimes third run in the Ritz.

Q. There were no Griffith runs on those Universal and RKO features following your runs, were they?

A. No, sir, not that I know of.

Q. During the entire period, '33-34 through '38-39, were there any Griffith runs on major product in Shawnee that followed runs at the Jones Theater?

A. '33 to when?

Q. '33-34 season through the '38-39 season.

A. The only ones I know of are these that were later reissued by Paramount.

Q. With the exception of reissues?

A. That is all I know of.

Q. Can you tell us what the procedure was with respect to making pictures available to you under the contracts which provided for runs after the Griffith runs in Shawnee?

A. Well, they were available to us after they were played by the last Griffith run that we were to follow, and 1069 only until they were played after that run, and they would be specified clearance for the Griffith run, of a number of days ranging from——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object. The contract shows the clearance.

The COURT. If the contracts cover that, they will be the best evidence.

By the WITNESS:

A. They cover that.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you know at the beginning of the season when any particular picture was going to become available to you under those subsequent run contracts following Griffith?

A. No, we did not.

Q. And it is a fact, is it not, you would not know when any were to be available until after Griffith had decided when and where they were going to play them. Is that correct?

A. That is correct.

Q. Were there any instances where pictures were first made available to you and then withdrawn because Griffith changed its dates?

A. That is right.

Q. And in effect the availability——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the leading character of the questioning and the argumentative character of the questioning.

The COURT. Don't lead the witness. If the contracts cover it, it seems to me they would be the best evidence.

Mr. WRIGHT. These contracts merely say on those pictures as available. I am simply attempting to show what the effect of the privilege was that was extended to Griffith of playing the films out of order of release in the prior runs——

The COURT. But the contracts you have heretofore shown required that these pictures all be played within, I think, 13 or 14 weeks something like that.

Mr. WRIGHT. No; the Griffith contracts do not. I want to show what the effect of the privileges were which were extended to Griffith on the bookings of these people who had to follow them with other runs.

Mr. COCHRAN. The principal objection to that is the fact he is asking for a conclusion without taking up a specific matter so we can have it to prepare the answer to that specific thing. It is just stating a conclusion after a leading question by counsel for the Government, and we object to the form of the question.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you give us any specific instances of occasions when pictures were made available to you because 1071 Griffith had dated them on a prior run and then Griffith pulled their dates and the pictures were withdrawn, as far as availability to your houses was concerned?

A. Offhand I can't think of any specific pictures.

Q. I show you this photostatic copy of a letter from Loew's Incorporated to Jake Jones, Ritz Theater, Shawnee, Oklahoma, dated March 19, 1939, marked for identification as L-83, and ask you to read that and see if that refreshes your recollection.

A. I recognize this. It is a letter to us.

Q. Can you tell what happened in that particular instance?

A. Well, the first paragraph here——

The COURT. Don't state what is in the letter. You can just use that letter to refresh your memory as to what occurred.

A. "Romeo and Juliet" and "Night Must Fall" were made available to us for booking——

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Those are Metro pictures?

A. That is right, and Metro requested us to submit dates on those pictures, and then when we had worked out dates on these pictures we had another notice they could not service us on those runs because the Griffith office had notified them they would use them second run, so our dates for second would automatically be third run, and since they were not available for second run to us we had 1072 to cancel them and we had to substitute other pictures for these two. That is the story on that.

Q. When you are referring to these contracts that are in evidence here where you played the lower half of the Metro product first run, what did that term "lower half" mean with reference to the quality or box office value of the pictures?

A. Excuse me just a minute. You mean first run on M-G-M?

1073 Q. I am referring to the contracts that were introduced here yesterday with MGM, I think they are marked——

A. (Interrupting.) There is second run on the lower half.

Q. (Continuing.) as Defendants' Exhibits 7 and 8, 7 being a third run contract for the '36–37 features, and 8 being a second run contract on twenty-two '36–7 features, which I believe you described as the lower half?

A. That is second run, though, Mr. Wright.

Q. Yes, I say can you tell us what you meant by referring to these as the lower half on this second run contract Exhibit 8.

A. The lower half on that contract are the smaller pictures produced by Metro-Goldwyn.

Q. What do you mean by smaller pictures?

A. They are smaller pictures, of less box office value, of less star value and sometimes said the production costs are lower; they are allocated at lower rentals and they are not supposed to have——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting). We object to what he supposes about it.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do they attract as many people to the box office——

A. (Interrupting.) No, they do not.

Q. As the upper half pictures?

A. No sir.

1074 Q. As I understand your testimony, the upper half was not offered to you, is that right?

Mr. COCHRAN. Wait a minute. We object to that, if the Court please, because there is nothing about halves; it is just a question—the contracts in evidence show for the particular season there was thirty Metro pictures licensed to Griffith, the top thirty pictures, I believe it was, there was a specified number, and the other pictures were licensed to this man. It is not a question of halves; it is a question of so many pictures.

By the COURT:

Q. What were your first half, or the upper half?

A. The upper halves we were not offered second run, your Honor; we were only offered those on third run basis.

Q. The upper half?

A. The upper half, the better pictures.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And those you bought on third run, is that right?

A. Yes, sir, as those contracts indicate. And at the time—they were not always bought at the same time, usually the second run contract was completed much in advance of the third run contracts.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will ask to have these second run and third run contracts for the Metro pictures for the '35-36 season marked with the next two plaintiff's exhibit numbers.

1075 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 275 for identification and Plaintiff's Exhibit 276 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Mr. WRIGHT. The June 4th contract is No. 275, and third run contract, dated April 19, 1937, is marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 276 for identification.

The COURT. What is the date of 275?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is dated, the application date is June 4, 1936, and the approval date is June 16, 1936; on the other, the application date is in April 1937 and the approval date is April 28, 1937.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. Wright, will you point out where that says anything about lower half.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't think the contracts refer to the pictures as lower or upper. I believe they are designated just by particular number.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, the contract that was introduced yesterday as Defendants' Exhibit No. 6 for the '34–35 features from Metro, third run, is dated August 15, 1935, and bears an approval date of August 28th. Between that date and the time you finally made this contract, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 276 for identification, in April 1937, for third run of the 1935–36 features, had you made any efforts to buy those 1935–36 pictures third run?

A. Yes, sir; numerous efforts.

1076 Q. That was over what period?

A. I beg pardon?

(Question read by the reporter.)

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Over what period of time? Calling your attention to the '35–36 third run Metro features?

A. Well, from the beginning of that season to the time we finally contracted for those pictures.

Q. That is, from the beginning of the '35–36 season?

A. That's right.

Q. To April 1937?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And prior to that contract that is dated in April 1937, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 276 for identification, were you offered any of that season's Metro product third run at all?

A. Do you mean between the second run and the third run?

Q. No, until you made this contract in April, April 19, 1937?

A. Yes.

Q. Prior to that date were you offered any of the Metro '35–36 product on third run in Shawnee?

A. No, sir.

Q. Calling your attention to Defendants' Exhibit No. 6 and this provision that it has on there: "Any picture listed hereon played second run in Shawnee for a 1077 maximum admission of 10 cents may be excluded from this contract", what theaters were playing the Metro pictures ahead of you during that season?

A. The Rex.

Q. And that was a Griffith house?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And your admission was 10 and 15, as stated in the contract here?

A. That's right, sir.

Q. Do you know whether the Rex did play Metro pictures at 10 cents for that season?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that as repetition.

The COURT. Well, if you know of your own knowledge.

A. Yes, sir, I know they played Metro pictures at 10 cents.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. The only Metro pictures they played were played ahead of your theater, is that right?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the leading question, if the Court please.

The COURT. Overruled; it is already in evidence. You may answer the question. Read the question.

(Question read by the reporter.)

A. That's right.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

1078 Q. Now, in connection with these days where you testified about so-called "penny days", where you had an additional admission for a one cent additional charge, I believe two for sixteen cents, what kind of product did you play, were you playing on those days when you made admission charges of that character?

A. They were product usually from the independent companies, Republic, Monogram, companies of that nature; they were small pictures, usually westerns and small pictures or action pictures so-called slough pictures, or not very attractive box office pictures that couldn't stand up on their own footing.

1079 By the COURT:

Q. Did you play any pictures in those cases from these producers that have been mentioned here?

A. No, sir, not the major producers.

Q. None at all?

A. No, sir. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer pictures, my booking dates, nine out of ten would be on Friday and Saturday and the other dates would be Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What were the admission prices at the Jake after that was opened and operated by you?

A. The admission prices at the Jake as we have operated it?

Q. Yes.

A. The Jake Theater, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, the charges were 10 cents for children and 25 cents for adults. Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday it was 10 cents for children and 40 cents for adults.

Q. I want to call your attention to the Universal contract that was offered in evidence yesterday as Defendants' Exhibit 2 and it states group 1 pictures, 12 on third run and group 2 and group 3, first run. Can you tell us just what those group classifications were in terms of box office value of the pictures?

A. Group 1 on the Universal contract were the box value attractions listed by Universal. That is, their better pictures for that season. The second group were 1080 smaller pictures, not so much box office value, and the third group was just the lower class picture. I think they called them "program pictures" or sometimes refer to them as that type of picture. They were just small pictures made with hardly any box office value. They could be used on the lower end of a double bill or something like that; small pictures, and usually ran from 60 to 70 minutes.

Q. Were any of those features in that first group of '37–38 release, that is, the group classified there as a group when offered to you?

A. First run?

Q. Yes.

A. Not first run.

Q. Or second run?

A. Well, I think the clause there says something about second run. The only way I can play them second run, if they were turned down, second run by Griffith.

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, this is all repetition. Counsel has gone into that with both Mr. Jones, Sr. and this witness.

The COURT. I think it has been covered. Do you intend to offer in evidence Exhibit 275 and 276?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. I want to offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 275 and 276 for identification.

The COURT. They will be admitted.

1081 Mr. WRIGHT. I have some correspondence here I wish to have identified.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Could you recognize this exhibit, Plaintiff's Exhibit 277 for identification, as a letter dated October 4, 1937, from Fox in Oklahoma City to Mr. Jake Jones at the Ritz, which was received by you shortly after that date?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And this Exhibit 278, is that a copy of a letter written by you on or about October 1, 1936, to the Fox Company at New York?

A. Yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. What is the date?

A. The letter is dated October 1, 1936.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And this Exhibit 279. Is that a letter dated May 25, 1936, from Fox and to Jake Jones at the Ritz? Was that received shortly after the date it says?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I offer these exhibits, Plaintiff's Exhibits 277, 278 and 279 for identification, in evidence.

Mr. DUDLEY. We object to each of the exhibits for the reason it is hearsay and no proper foundation laid. We make the same objection as heretofore made to declarations of these majors as they call them.

The COURT. Objection will be sustained for the 1082 same reasons. Exception allowed.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is all.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Prior to 1941, the pictures of the major distributors were licensed prior to the time they were produced, were they not?

A. Well, they were licensed——

Q. Just answer that yes or no.

A. I don't know the date of the consent decree, Mr. Cochran, or when that went into effect.

Q. The consent decree was in November, 1940.

A. After the consent decree they were licensed after they had been produced. Prior to that they were not. They were licensed before they were made.

Q. So that, at the beginning of the season prior to the time of the consent decree you could not tell whether any picture could be made available or whether it would even be produced, could you?

A. Will you repeat that?

Q. Prior to the consent decree when you licensed pictures before they were produced you did not even know whether the pictures would be produced that season?

A. Certainly not.

Q. And there were many pictures which were 1083 licensed that were never produced?

A. That is right.

Q. Therefore, you had no way of knowing when any picture would be available at the beginning of the season?

A. No, sir, except for the exchanges availability lists and their schedules that were released.

Q. The schedule of releases would not appear until the picture had been produced, would it?

A. That is right.

Q. A picture is not released until after it has been produced?

A. Of course not.

Q. You spoke of receiving notice of availability. There would frequently be a number of pictures on one availability notice, would there not?

A. That is right.

1084 Q. Your contract provides what shall constitute date of availability?

A. I didn't get that.

Q. Your contract says, it has the terms in it which says what is meant by the term "date of availability"?

A. I believe it does.

Q. You are familiar with that. Even though you received notice of availability on a number of pictures, some of which might be released prior to others, you frequently and almost always were permitted to book and date those pictures out of their order, out of the sequence of release, if it was within a reasonable time?

A. Sometimes I had to pay for them.

Q. I say, you were permitted to do it, if it was within a reasonable time?

A. Within a reasonable time, or else I had to pay for those pictures not booked.

Q. If they were not dated within a reasonable time you paid for them and then dated them at a later date?

A. Most times they were booked at that time.

Q. Just answer the question, please.

A. All right.

Mr. Cochran. Read the question.

(Last question read by the reporter.)

A. That's right.

1085 Q. You spoke of your admission price at the time in the 1935-36 season being 10 and 15 cents. That was a time when you were operating on the basis of two admissions for the price of one, plus a penny, is that right?

A. On Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Q. On Wednesdays and Thursdays?

A. Only.

Q. That policy continued until the time, or a little after you acquired the Odeon Theater and opened it as the Jake, is that correct?

A. No, sir, it did not.

Q. What was the date of the acquisition of the Jake?

A. We opened the Jake on October 18, 1944.

Q. Will you say that in the year 1943 you were not operating the Ritz Theater on a policy of Wednesday and Thursday of "two-for-one" plus a penny?

A. I think in '43 we were.

Q. All right, when did you discontinue that policy?

A. I don't have that record with me.

Q. Do you know when Griffith discontinued the policy of ten cents admission in its theater, where you said it had that policy?

A. Which theater are you referring to?

Q. You told us one where they were operating.

A. There were two theaters, in fact, there were 1086 three at one time; the Rex had had a 10-cent admission at one time, the Avon had a 10-cent matinee admission at one time, and the Criterion had a 10-cent admission at one time.

Q. When did the Avon have it?

A. The Avon was in December 1936, I believe.

Q. How long did that continue?

A. I don't have the exact days.

Q. It was only a short time, was it not?

A. It was only a short time, a period of a month or so.

Q. All right, when did the Criterion have that kind of policy?

A. I have a specific instance, on December 11, 1936.

Q. How long did that policy continue?

A. I only know of it for the engagement of that particular picture.

Q. You don't know that that was discontinued in a very short time?

A. It was discontinued, I believe, after that picture run the theater.

Q. Then the Rex, when did it have that policy?

A. When they opened the theater.

Q. How long did it continue?

A. I couldn't say. For quite some time.

Q. When did they open that theater?

A. I don't know that.

1087 Q. But you do know when they opened that theater, they operated it on 10-cent policy?

A. Yes, sir, they had a great big 10-cent sign in front of it.

Q. Matinee?

A. Matinee and night.

Q. Matinee and night?

A. Adults.

Q. But you cannot tell us how long that continued?

A. I don't have the record.

Q. Was that continuing in 1937–38?

A. I don't believe the Rex was open then.

Q. When was the Rex discontinued?

A. I don't know exactly.

Q. You said that at one time it was being carried on in three theaters, the Rex, Avon and Criterion. Don't you know as a matter of fact that the Rex didn't operate after the Avon was built?

A. I know that. I only gave you the specific dates for the Criterion and the Avon. I didn't say the Rex operated at 10 cents.

Q. But you told us it was being carried on in three theaters at the same time?

A. No, I didn't, at the same time. If I said at the same time——

Q. (Interrupting.) It is a mistake?

1088 A. I will retract that; but I will say at the time——

Q. (Interrupting.) That is sufficient; don't argue the case with me.

A. All right.

Q. The Avon replaced the Rex?

A. That's right.

Q. And the Rex didn't operate after the Avon?

A. It did not.

Q. And it has not operated since then?

A. No, sir.

Q. After you acquired the Jake Theater, and subsequent to that time, there has been no 10-cent adult admission price in any Griffith theater, has there?

A. No, sir, there has not.

Q. And there has been no 10-cent admission price or "two-for-ones" or anything of that kind in either of your theaters?

A. No, sir.

Q. Will you tell us whether from the time that you commenced to operate the Ritz until the time you acquired the Odeon Theater, the Odeon was operated by Mr. Momand on a 10-cent admission price at all times?

A. I couldn't say that, sir.

Q. Can you tell us whether it was operated on that policy at any time?

1089 A. Yes, sir, I could.

Q. For what length of time?

A. I couldn't say how long.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't see how this is proper re-cross. This was all gone over originally on cross-examination.

Mr. COCHRAN. He went into this admission policy.

The COURT. There is so much cross and re-cross-examination of this witness that I don't know where we are on the matter. Let's get through.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Wasn't the Odeon being operated on a 10-cent admission policy and also on various other irregular admission practices at the time it was taken over by you?

A. I couldn't say that.

Q. You don't know; you don't know what his policy of operation was?

A. I can tell you what I believe it was.

Q. No.

A. I wouldn't swear to what he was operating.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

The COURT. Stand aside.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

(Witness excused.)

1090 Mr. COCHRAN. At this point we would like to have a copy of this consent decree marked as an exhibit. May we mark that?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. Shall we give it a plaintiff's exhibit number?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, we are not offering it in evidence. We will agree that the consent decree and all of the proceedings in the case in which it was issued may be judicially noticed by the Court.

Mr. COCHRAN. It should be in evidence.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't think it is proper to put it in evidence. I don't think it is admissible for the purpose of establishing facts.

Mr. COCHRAN. I don't think the Court could take judicial knowledge of the judgment of the Court. I think we have to prove it.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will agree that he may.

Mr. COCHRAN. Why not introduce it as an exhibit.

The COURT. It would not be evidence, a judgment of the Court is not evidence. I think the Court will take judicial notice of any judgment of a Court.

Mr. COCHRAN. I want to identify it for the record in some way.

The COURT. You can agree that Exhibit so and so
1091 is marked, and agree that that exhibit is a correct copy of a decision of the Court in such and such a case. That merely identifies it.

Mr. COCHRAN. Give it a defendants' exhibit number.

(Defendants' Exhibit No. 10 was then marked by the reporter.)

Mr. COCHRAN. May it be stipulated that Defendants' Exhibit 10 is a true and correct copy of the consent decree entered in the case of United States of America vs. the parties shown on the first page of the document, in Civil Action No. 87-273, in the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York?

Mr. WRIGHT. I assume it is, if you say it is. I haven't seen it in that printed form.

Mr. COCHRAN. Do you want to examine it so we can make our stipulation?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, I will take your word for it.

The COURT. The only reason for identifying it at all. I doubt if the Court would take judicial notice of it in pamphlet form.

Mr. COCHRAN. It is stipulated now that it is a true and correct copy.

The COURT. That is the only reason for having it identified.

1092 JAKE JONES, a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, having been previously duly sworn, was recalled, and was examined and testified as follows:

Cross-examination (resumed) by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You are the same Mr. Jake Jones who was on the witness stand in this case last week, are you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time you testified that in 1929 you received $561.61 a month rent on the Criterion Building and equipment?

A. Yes, sir.

1093 Q. In 1931, you reduced that rental to $500 a month?

A. I think it was in 1930, we reduced it to $500.

Q. You also received insurance and taxes on it?

A. Yes, sir, that was in the contract.

Q. Then you stated that in 1932 you reduced the rental down to $400?

A. No, we reduced it in 1931 to $400.

Q. Did you reduce it in 1932?

A. No, sir. It was $400 in 1932.

Q. Did you reduce it at that time?

A. No, sir, I reduced it in 1931.

Q. Was the agreement for reduction in writing?

A. Well, now, I don't know. As far as I can remember it was. We have got a record of it. That is the Seminole Amusement Company's record. That is the last one we made.

Q. I beg your pardon?

A. The last reduction we made and I think it was made for two years, and I think we have a record of that at home.

Q. You think that was in 1931?

A. Well, I believe it was in 1931.

Q. You told us that later you had a conversation at the Aldridge Hotel in Shawnee in which a further reduction was requested?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was about the time that this two year agreement was expiring?

1094 A. No, it run a little longer. I think it is six months before or maybe four months before. I don't remember the date.

Q. In other words, you think that conversation at the Aldridge Hotel was about six months before the expiration of the reduction agreement?

A. I believe that run to 1934, if I can remember. You have the record of it. I didn't know you wanted the record or I could have brought it.

Q. I am just asking you now about the time of that conversation you had in the Aldridge Hotel relative to the expiration of that agreement which had been made for a reduction of the rental to $400 a month.

A. You want to know how long it ran afterward?

Q. No.

By the COURT:

Q. How long did this reduction agreement run after you had the conversation?

A. In the hotel?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I don't know offhand.

Q. Well, approximately.

A. Well, between—I will say six months or nine months; I don't know, but it ran into 1934, I am sure.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I am not so much interested in the time the reduction expired. That is, the one reducing it to $400 a month,
1095 but I am interested in trying to fix the time when you had this conversation in the Aldridge Hotel. How long before the time when this $400 agreement was to expire?

A. I don't know. I can bring the record and show it to you.

Q. That would not tell us when this conversation took place, would it?

A. No. The conversation was in the early part of 1933, is all I know.

Q. You know that the agreement whereby you reduced the rental to $400 a month went for two years regardless of when it was made. It went for two years, didn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, it was at a time just before that period of two expires had expired when you had the conversation in the Aldridge Hotel that you have heretofore detailed?

A. Yes, it was before it expired but I don't know how long.

Q. Wasn't it just immediately before the expiration?

A. No, I can't say how short it was unless I look at the record.

Q. A while ago you said you thought it was about from four to six months. Do you still think that?

A. No, I don't know exactly; I don't know. I won't say how long it was.

1096 By the COURT:

Q. Well, it was before the expiration?

A. Yes, sir.

The COURT. I think that is sufficient.

Mr. COCHRAN. The period is rather important.

The COURT. He says he doesn't know.

A. I can bring the record and show you.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did you have more than one conversation with any representatives of the Griffith Amusement Company in the Aldridge Hotel at Shawnee?

A. You mean since?

Q. Any time?

A. Before?

Q. Any time.

A. Well, when they got the $400 Mr. Griffith came down and asked me for it and we granted it to him.

Q. Will you answer my questions, please.

The COURT. I think he is trying to answer.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did you have any conversation at any other time except the occasion when the reduction was requested, after the $400 reduction, a conversation in the Aldridge Hotel?

A. You mean afterwards or before?

Q. Did you ever have any conversation with any representatives of the Griffith Amusement Company in 1097 the Aldridge Hotel except the ones you have mentioned?

A. No, just one.

Q. Other conversations you had with them were at places other than the Aldridge Hotel?

A. We never had any conversation about reducing any rent before, but we have talked to one another, yes. We have had a lot of conversations.

Q. Did you ever have any conversation with any representatives of the Griffith Amusement Company about anything in the Aldridge Hotel other than the one time?

A. No, sir.

Q. Will you now tell us when the Rex Theater was opened?

A. Sometime in 1933.

Q. And didn't it play second run pictures from the time it opened?

A. It played all second run, yes, sir.

Q. Wasn't that theater opened and operating as a second run house at the time you had the conversation at the Aldridge Hotel?

A. No, sir, it was closed. There wasn't any Rex then.

Q. Your conversation then must have been prior to 1934, the one you had at the Aldridge Hotel?

A. You mean before?

Q. Read the question.

1098 (Question read.)

By the COURT:

Q. Before 1934?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit 11 and ask you to state if that is the agreement that you have referred to as reducing the rental on the Criterion Theater to $400 a month?

A. Where is the date on this letter, 19 what?

Q. You are reading it.

A. What is that, 1932? This agreement here——

Q. Will you answer the question?

(Question read.)

A. Yes. This is the agreement. That is my signature.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 11.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

The COURT. What is the date of that?

Mr. COCHRAN. It is dated August 11, 1932. Instead of reading it I will just hand it to your Honor to read. Both counsel have read it.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you know Mr. A. F. Hornbeck of Shawnee?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Prior to the time you had this conversation in 1099 the Aldridge Hotel which you have heretofore detailed did Mr. Hornbeck contact you in regard to a meeting with the Griffiths?

A. You mean after we had that——

Q. No, before.

A. No, I don't remember that.

Q. Had you discussed the matter of meeting in regard to negotiations with the Griffiths with Mr. Hornbeck before that meeting in the Aldridge Hotel?

A. No, sir, I don't remember.

Q. As a matter of fact, the meeting which you had with the representatives of the Griffith Amusement Company in the Aldridge was on June 23, 1934, wasn't it?

A. I don't know. I couldn't say what date it was.

Q. On that occasion, in addition to the persons whom you have mentioned before, Mr. Adam Hornbeck was present was he not?

A. I couldn't swear to that. I couldn't remember only a few that were there. I wouldn't say that he was there.

Q. Would you say he was not there?

A. I won't say he was or was not.

Q. Mr. Bocher, I believe you said was also there?

A. Yes, sir, he was there.

Q. He was interested in the Seminole Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir.

1100 Q. That is all.

By the COURT:

Q. That was the time you said something you say you do not want to go into the record?

A. Yes, sir. Your Honor, I have $75,000 invested.

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What is your best recollection now as to the date of the meeting as to whether it was in 1933 or '34?

A. Well, I don't remember. In early '33, I think, was the meeting.

Q. Have you anything else by which you can fix that date other than the agreement here that has been shown here?

A. No, I couldn't fix the date because I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember the date, when it was with reference to the opening of the Rex?

A. They opened what is known as the Victory Theater, about 60 or 90 days after that. They called it the Victory. It was a closed theater. They called it the Victory. I don't know who it belonged to, when they told me they were going to take my pictures away from me——

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike that as not responsive and calls for further examination if it is not stricken.

A. In 90 days they opened this Rex Theater.

1101 The COURT. It will be sustained as to the part of the answer that is not responsive to the question.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. The other event you fixed the date by was reopening of the Victory, as was the Rex. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as leading.

The COURT. Overruled. That has been gone over. It is merely referring to what is already in the record.

Re-cross examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Jones, I will ask you if on that occasion, the substance of the conversation which you had in the Aldridge Hotel was as follows: "Mr. H. J. Griffith said, 'We understand you want to discuss a reduction under a new lease on the Criterion Theater Building' ", and you replied very quickly and with the language which you indicated you used, "I know nothing about a discussion of reduction, if that is what you fellows are up here for you have just wasted your time" and with that you got up and left the room?

A. That ain't what he said. He was talking to Mr. Bocher and asking him for more reduction.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to further statements. He has answered my question.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is all.

(Witness excused.)

1102 JOHN GRAY, a witness produced by and on behalf of the plaintiff, and having been first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Will you please state your name?

A. John Gray.

Q. And where do you live, Mr. Gray?

A. Chickasha, Oklahoma.

Q. And what is your business or occupation?

A. Show business.

Q. Where?

A. Chickasha, Oklahoma.

Q. And how long have you been operating a theater in Chickasha?

A. A little over four years.

Q. Now, Mr. Gray, were you ever interested in the operation of a theater in Enid, Oklahoma?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And calling your attention to the year 1935, did you open a theater there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In Enid, Oklahoma?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you have a partner in that venture?

1103 A. I did, sir.

Q. And what is his name?

A. Roy T. Shield.

Q. And when in 1935 did you open the theater?

A. July 14th.

Q. And what was the name of the theater that you opened?

A. Gray's.

Q. Now, at the time you opened in Enid, what was the population of the city?

A. Approximately 30,000.

Q. And will you please describe what the theater situation there was with respect to the number and location and size of the theaters, and who operated them?

A. Well, there were four theaters owned and operated by the Griffith Amusement Company, and one small house, owned and operated by Max Burger, that would be five, and with my new house made six.

Q. Can you enumerate the Griffith houses at that time, in July of '35?

A. In what way do you mean, do you mean the names?

Q. Yes, the names of them.

A. Yes, sir; the Aztec, Criterion, and Mecca.

Q. Do you know whether or not the name of the Criterion was later changed to some other name?

A. Yes, sir.

1104 Q. Do you know what the name of that theater now is?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is it?

A. The Chief.

Q. Do you recall approximately when the name of the Criterion was changed to the Chief?

A. I am afraid not, sir.

Q. What was the name of Mr. Burger's theater?

A. The Rita.

By the COURT:

Q. Mr. Bird?

Mr. KALLIS. Mr. Burger, B-u-r-g-e-r; and Rita was the name of the theater.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Mr. Gray, before you opened the Gray's Theater in Enid, in July of 1935, did you make any efforts at all to buy product for the theater?

A. I did, sir.

The COURT. Make any effort to do what?

A. I did, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you make any effort to do what?

Mr. KALLIS. To buy product.

The COURT. Oh, to buy product.

Mr. KALLIS. Yes, sir.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. What did you do?

A. I contacted all branch managers of all the major companies.

1105 Q. Where?

A. In Oklahoma City.

Q. Did you see the branch manager of every major company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you submit any applications for product?

A. I did with two companies, sir.

Q. Which ones?

A. Warner Bros. and Paramount.

Q. Were those applications approved?

A. They were not, sir.

Q. And what kind of product did you try to buy for your Gray's Theater?

A. Any run.

By the COURT:

Q. What was the name of the theater?

A. Gray's.

Q. G-r-a-c-e?

A. G-r-a-y-'s.

Q. Oh, G-r-a-y-'s?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. KALLIS. The theater was named after him, your Honor.

The COURT. All right.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Well, now, calling your attention to the Universal Company, did you play any Universal pictures at the Gray's Theater?

1106 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of what season's product?

A. As nearly as I can recall, it was the '35–36.

Q. Was that a regular season's deal?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what run, if any?

A. First and second.

Q. Did you play any RKO?

A. I played a few, yes, sir.

Q. And what runs were they?

A. First and second eliminations, and third run on the top; that's A pictures.

Q. Now, with respect to what you call eliminations, do you mean what is also commonly known as cutback pictures?

A. Yes, sir; the poorest product.

Q. Did you have some third run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were those pictures which you played of Universal, were they current product or old product?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that——

A. (Interrupting) Current.

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please. He said they were '35–36 product.

The COURT. He said current.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Did you play any Metro?

1107 A. Several.

Q. What run?

A. First and second—first and second cutbacks.

Q. What about Fox?

A. Possibly three; they were also cutbacks.

Q. What runs?

A. First and second.

Q. And then you played some independent product, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Like British Gamount?

A. Gamount British.

Q. And Grand National?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And certain other independent companies' product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, did you make a sale of your interest in the Gray's Theater to Mr. Shield?

A. I did, sir.

Q. When?

A. In September of the following year, 1936.

Q. You sold all of your interest, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In September 1936, to Mr. Shield?

A. Yes, sir.

1108 Q. Did you leave Enid?

A. I did, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, I rather object to the leading type of examination of this witness. I just offer that as a suggestion.

The COURT. Well, there is no jury, and it is on matters about which there is no controversy.

Mr. KALLIS. That is precisely the reason, your Honor, why I have put the questions as I did, in order to save time.

The COURT. Proceed.

Mr. KALLIS. And also, the questions can be answered yes or no. I am not suggesting an affirmative or negative answer.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Mr. Gray, when did you return to Enid?

A. In December of 1936.

Q. And did you later open another theater in Enid, Oklahoma?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when was that?

A. February 20, 1937.

Q. What did you call that theater?
A. The Rivoli.
Q. Had that Rivoli Theater been known by another name?
1109 A. Yes, sir, the Ritz.
Q. Then, you took over the Theater that was formerly operated by Max Burger, is that right?
A. And several others, yes, sir.
Q. Before you opened the theater which you called the Rivoli, in February of 1937, did you make any remodeling or improvement?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. What did you do?
A. Completely from one end to the other; new rest rooms, water fountain, new decorations, new marquee and new equipment.
Q. What about a screen?
A. Oh, yes, a new screen.
Q. Anything about a cooling system?
A. Yes, sir, I installed a late cooling system.
Q. What about rugs on the floors?
A. Yes, sir, all rugs and drapes were new.
Q. I believe you said you opened the Rivoli in February of 1937?
A. Yes, sir, I did.

By the COURT:

Q. How do you spell that?
A. R-i-v-o-l-i.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. With reference to your operation of the Rivoli
1110 Theater, did you make any efforts to buy product?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. What did you do?
A. I approached all the branch managers of the film exchanges in Oklahoma City for some run.
Q. Calling your attention to the '36-37 releases of Universal, did you play any regular season's product of that company?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. What?
A. Third run.
Q. And any cutbacks?
A. Yes, sir, first and second.
Q. And what about Metro?
A. First and second with Metro, and then later third run.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you mean first and second eliminations?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. You say that you later got a regular season's deal?

A. Yes, sir, from then on.

Q. From Metro for what run?

A. Third.

Q. And that refers, now, to the 1936-37 releases
1111 of Metro, does it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You opened in February of '37; about when did you get those third run pictures or product?

A. About four or five months after I had opened. Are you referring to Metro?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. That's right.

Q. You say you asked for, asked these companies for a run. Did you receive one from Fox?

A. I did, sir, a second run contract on about twenty pictures; they were cutbacks.

Q. You didn't receive a full season's deal then?

A. No, sir.

Q. On second run product of Fox?

A. No.

Q. With reference to Paramount, on 1936-37 releases, did you receive a regular season's deal there?

A. No, sir, just cutbacks.

Q. What run?

A. First and second.

Q. Is that true of RKO?

A. No, sir. I obtained third run and first and second cutbacks; that was a seasonal deal, past seasonal deal.

1112 Q. For '36-37?

A. '34-35.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I didn't understand that '34-35.

A. I went back and picked up the '34-35.

Q. First and second run?

A. No, sir, third run and first and second cutbacks that were available, and then followed through with regular seasonal features.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Referring now to the '37-38 releases, did you have a regular season's deal from RKO?

A. I did.
Q. What run was that?
A. First and second.
Q. For '37–38?
A. No, sir. I answered that. I said I followed through and it was '38–39, I believe, I obtained first and second run.
Q. Let's go back to '37–38 product of RKO. Did you have third run?
A. Yes, sir, and first and second cutbacks.
Q. Is that true of Metro?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You had the regular season's features for third run Metro for '37–38, first and second run cutbacks?
A. Yes, sir.
1113 Mr. COCHRAN. I object to the leading character of the examination for the reason this is not immaterial testimony. He is testifying to matters which should be shown by contracts because the documents are the best evidence. He is trying to testify as best he can from memory and on top of that counsel is leading him.
The COURT. Objection overruled and exception allowed.
Mr. COCHRAN. We object on the ground it is not the best evidence. The contract will show what he licensed.
The COURT. Overruled. It is a matter you can cross examine on. He can tell what he knows about it.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. With reference to Fox for the '37–38 releases, did you have a regular run?
A. No, sir, other than a few cutbacks of first and second.
Q. What was the situation with reference to Paramount for the '37–38 product?
A. Just cutbacks.
Q. Did you play any '37–38 United Artists pictures?
A. Yes, I did.
Q. Did you have a lower run?
A. The first run of the English type pictures, yes, sir, and first run of the A's.
Q. What about Universal for '37–38?
1114 A. About the same.
Q. Did you have a regular season's run?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Which run was that?
A. Third and first and second cutbacks.
Q. Referring to '38–39 product, did you have any regular season's deal with RKO?
A. In what year?
Q. '38–39.

A. Yes, sir, I did, first and second.
Q. Was that a regular season's deal?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What about Metro?
A. The usual third run and first and second cutbacks.
Q. Did you have any Universal pictures for '38–39 season?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What were they?
A. The same, first and second run cutbacks and third on the A's.
Q. Do you have contracts in your possession for the various product which played at your Rivoli Theater from February, 1937, when you opened, until July, 1940?
A. I do not.
Q. Are you still operating the Rivoli Theater in Enid?
1115 A. No, sir.
Q. When did you stop that operation?
A. July 8, 1940.
Q. Did you transfer your interests to someone else?
A. I did.
Q. To whom?
A. Roy T. Shield.
Q. He purchased the Rivoli Theater from you?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, Mr. Gray, during the three and a half years in which you operated the Rivoli, that is, from February, 1937, to July of 1940, did the Griffiths construct and open another theater in Enid?
A. They did, in 1938.
Q. What was the name of that theater?
A. Cherokee.
Q. Do you know what product Griffith was playing at the Cherokee when they opened it?
A. Yes. First and second.
Q. What type pictures?
A. A and B and westerns.
Q. When you opened the Rivoli Theater, February, 1937, what admission prices were you charging?
A. Ten and fifteen cents. That was the standard policy. Of course, I charged 20 and 25 on certain types of pictures.
1116 By Mr. COCHRAN:
Q. When you opened the Rivoli was Mr. Shield operating the theater which you and he had formerly owned and operated as the Grays?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I don't know whether I asked you if he changed the name of the Grays theater.

A. He did later, yes, sir.

Q. When?

A. Sometime in December of 1936, as nearly as I can recall.

Q. In other words, it was just a month or so prior to the time you opened the Rivoli?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What name did he adopt for the theater?

A. Royal.

Q. When you opened the Rivoli in February, 1937, will you please state what Mr. Shield's playing policy was?

A. His policy?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. You mean in regard to changes?

Q. In regard to admission prices and single and double features.

A. He was operating single bills with three changes a week and had a standard policy or set policy on Wednesday and Thursday to adults for 15 cents; two for 15,
1117 and that was each and every Wednesday and Thursday.

Q. Did he also have any policy that involved any kind of give-away?

A. Yes, sir; he had on Saturday night.

Q. What did he have?

A. "Country Store Night" he called it.

Q. What did that mean?

A. Well, he gave away groceries.

Q. And you opened your Rivoli Theater on what kind of a policy?

A. Ten and fifteen cents, the single bills.

Q. 15 cents for adults?

A. Yes.

Q. Both afternoon and evening?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you play single or double features?

A. Single then.

Q. Did that policy of yours continue straight through until June of 1938?

A. As nearly as I can recall, yes, sir.

Q. Then calling your attention to about the middle of 1938, did you notice what Griffith's Criterion was doing with respect to single or double features?

A. Occasionally they spotted double bills.

Q. How occasionally would you say?

1118 A. Oh, once or twice a month. There was no regular routine; no regular procedure.

Q. When did that policy begin, as nearly as you can recall?

A. About a year after I had opened.

Q. About February of 1938?

A. I would think so, yes, sir.

Q. Did this double feature program at the Criterion occur every day or just certain days a week?

A. Certain days, Sundays, Mondays and Tuesdays.

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as repetition.

The COURT. He has already answered the question.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. And what admission price, as nearly as you can recall, did the Criterion charge Sunday, Monday and Tuesday when they had double features?

A. I believe it was 20 and 25.

Q. You say then up to about June of 1938 you were operating on a single feature policy?

A. That is right.

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as repetition.

The COURT. Overruled. Exception allowed.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Did you make a change in that policy by instituting double features?

A. I did.

Q. When did that start?

1119 A. As near as I can recall, it was June of 1938 I went to double bills on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Q. What about the remaining four days?

A. Single.

Q. When you played these double bills what was your admission price?

A. Ten and fifteen.

Q. Did Mr. Shield at the Royal Theater institute a policy of double bills?

A. He did, several months later.

Q. Well, as nearly as you can recall, when did he begin double features?

A. About two months later, after I had started them on Sunday.

Q. Or a double feature every day or just certain days?

A. No, sir, just the same days, Sundays through Tuesdays.

Q. What was his admission price on the days he double featured?

A. Ten and fifteen cents.

Q. As I understand, both you at the Rivoli and Mr. Shield at his Royal were double featuring on three days a week at an admission price for adults of 15 cents?

A. That is right.

Q. Did you notice whether Griffith started double 1120 featuring at any time at the Mecca Theater?

A. Not until later.

Q. When did that begin?

A. As near as I can recall it was in June of 1939.

Q. And did this double featuring take place every day of the week at the Mecca?

A. Every day except Friday and Saturday.

Q. What admission price did the Mecca charge on these double feature days?

A. I believe they reduced the admission to 10 cents to all when they started that policy.

Q. To go back to about the middle of June, 1938, Mr. Gray, do you know whether you began showing any two for one admissions?

A. I did.

Q. Can you state whether Mr. Shield had prior to June of 1938 a two for one policy?

A. Yes, sir, I did. That was the net policy of his operations.

Q. And that was the situation at the Royal Theater from that time until you opened in 1937?

A. Before that time. He was doing that before I opened. I don't know when he started, but just from observation I noticed that.

By the COURT:

Q. That is the Roy or Royal?

1121 A. The Royal.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Then this two for one policy of Mr. Shield at the Royal Theater lasted continuously from, you say, at least December of 1936 down through June of 1938?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then when did you institute a two for one policy?

A. When he started double billing on Wednesday and Thursday.

Q. What month and year was that?

A. It was in 1938. As nearly as I can recall in August or September, the fall of that year.

Q. And did you give two for one admissions every day of the week?

A. No, sir, just on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

Q. And was it necessary to present anything at the box office in order to have this two for one?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was that?

A. A newspaper ad or theater calendar ad.

Q. And you continued this two for one policy two days a week with the newspaper clipping and 15 cents down through June or July of 1939?

A. Yes, sir, with occasionally making them good all through the week.

Mr. COCHRAN. I again ask the Court to have coun-
1122 sel refrain from leading the witness.

The COURT. Don't lead the witness.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Mr. Gray, did you notice whether any other theaters in town besides your own were showing or issuing any two for one admissions?

A. None other than Roy Shield's theater.

Q. Do you know whether any of the theaters in town were issuing free passes?

A. Not until 1939, in June, approximately.

Q. What happened in approximately June of 1939?

A. All the Griffith houses started issuing free tickets to the Mecca Theater with each purchase of a ticket at each respective house. In other words, if you bought a ticket at any of their theaters they would give you one free to the Mecca.

Q. The Mecca at that time was charging how much admission if a person went there in the first instance without a pass?

A. As near as I can recall it was a dime, matinee and night.

Q. What did you observe about the distribution of these passes?

A. When they first started they only issued for that tickets purchased at the box office. Later their doorman and other employees just gave them out to people 1123 by the handful on the street.

Q. What did those tickets which you say Griffith was distributing call for?

A. Just a straight free ticket to the Mecca Theater.

Q. What product was the Mecca playing at that time?

A. It was playing second and first run; first run westerns and second run westerns and second run A, B, and C pictures.

Q. What was the Aztec playing?

A. First run, top allocation.

1124 Q. And what was the Chief playing?

A. Seconds, second top A pictures, first run westerns. No, the Chief, I beg pardon, they were playing B's, first run.

Q. What was the Arcadia playing?

A. Second B's.

Q. And the Criterion and the Cherokee?

A. Seconds A, first run westerns.

By the COURT:

Q. What do you mean by A and B?

A. Top allocated pictures. Of course, they had some B's included too on Wednesday and Thursdays.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. When you say top allocated pictures, are you referring to quality?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were any of the Griffith houses charged 15 cents admission at that time, and double featuring?

A. One, sir.

Q. Which one?

A. Two.

Q. Which ones were they?

A. The Arcadia and the Cherokee.

Q. And you say that these passes at that time were being distributed at every one of the Griffith theaters?

A. So far as I know, yes, sir.

Q. Did you then distribute passes yourself for 1125 your own theater?

A. The last two months that I was in operation, yes, sir.

Q. What did you charge for those passes?

A. I had a 5-cent service charge on them, sir.

Q. Now, Mr. Gray, do you know a person commonly known as Red Slocum?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. Calling your attention now to the three and a half period, three and a half years while you were operating the Rivoli Theater, did you have occasion to see him in Enid?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Do you know what his business or occupation at that time was?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was it?

A. He was, I don't know what you would call it, front man for Griffith, I think, or "feeler outer".

Q. Do you know for a fact that he was an employee of the Griffith theaters circuit?

A. I take it for granted he was, yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike that.

By the COURT:

Q. Well, do you know what his connection was with Griffith?

A. Other than——

Q. (Interrupting.) Of your own knowledge.

1126 A. No, sir, I don't; I never did see his pay check.

Mr. KALLIS. Well, if the Court please, I request that you receive it subject to its being connected. I can do that very quickly as soon as I am through with this witness. I don't think there is any dispute as to the fact that this person, commonly known as Red Slocum, during this period, was employed by the Griffith Theaters circuit.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is a very broad term, your Honor, the Griffith Theaters circuit, because we have several defendants in this case, and at the time they are referring to, at least, a portion of this time, various companies were being operated, separately operated, and it is too indefinite entirely. If he can show, if he can testify with whom he was connected and show the authority, that's all right, but otherwise, we would like for the connection, what his connection was to be shown by the proof.

The COURT. I think it would be better to show his identity before you offer the proof.

Mr. KALLIS. I can do that, and then call the witness back later.

The COURT. Yes, I think that would be better.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Well, Mr. Gray, were you personally acquainted with Mr. Slocum at the time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long had you known him?

1127 A. Three or four years, sir.

Q. Where had you seen him?

A. When I first got acquainted with him he was connected with Warner Bros. as a salesman.

Q. Did you later see him at any of the Griffith theaters?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When?

A. At various times.

Q. Where?

A. At Enid.

Q. What was he doing at these theaters?

A. I don't know, sir. That I can't answer. He was always with their manager.

Q. Well, now, did you have occasion to see Mr. Slocum in the fall of '37?

A. I did, sir, in September of 1938.

Q. What is that?

A. In September of 1938.

Q. And where did you see him?

A. At Enid, in front of my theater, the Rivoli.

Q. Did you have a conversation with him?

A. I did.

Q. Will you repeat the substance of it?

A. Everything, sir?

Mr. COCHRAN. Now, your Honor, I think probably 1128 while this witness is on the stand, subject to our motion to strike in the event he does not connect the matter up, probably we had just as well hear him on the testimony.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. COCHRAN. But I am objecting to the testimony on the ground that the authority is not shown, and the Court may reserve the ruling on it until later.

The COURT. The testimony will be permitted with the understanding that it is to be connected up, and his connection with the defendants shown, otherwise it will be stricken.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Well, limiting your testimony now to the conversations, if any, that related to the purchase of, or the purchase by Griffith of the equipment in your theater, will you please state whether or not you had a conversation dealing with that subject?

A. I did, sir.

Q. What did Mr. Slocum say?

A. He just inquired if I would be interested in selling. I said that I wasn't. And that's about all there was to the conversation.

Q. Was anything said by Mr. Slocum with reference to what intentions, if any, Griffith had with respect to this equipment?

A. Yes, sir.

1129 Q. If it purchased it from you?

Mr. DUDLEY. We object to that as leading and suggestive. Let him tell the conversation.

The COURT. Sustained. You can state what the conversation was. Just state the conversation.

A. Starting from the beginning, sir?

The COURT. Well, on this subject.

The WITNESS. Oh, I see.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. But, Mr. Gray, limit it to this subject matter.

A. Oh, I see.

Q. That was discussed.

A. He said, "John, would you be interested in selling your theater at the open market equipment price?" I said, "No, sir, I wouldn't," and that's about all there was, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Was there anything else said about the theater business?

A. No, sir. We went and had a cup of coffee, sir.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Well, now, directing your attention to any conversation with respect to what might be done,—

Mr. KALLIS. I understand, your Honor, the witness has exhausted his recollection, and now I would like to refer to specific——

By the COURT:

Q. Did he say anything else about the Griffiths or the theater business in any way?

1130 A. No, sir, he didn't.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Well, did you later see Mr. Slocum?

A. At various times, but no further conversations on that subject.

Q. Are you acquainted with a man by the name of Claud Fulgham?

A. Yes, sir, I am.

The COURT. What is his name?

Mr. KALLIS. Fulgham; I believe it is spelled F-u-l-g-h-a-m, is that right, Mr. Cochran?

Mr. COCHRAN. I couldn't tell you.

The WITNESS. Yes, sir.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Did you have a conversation with him in Enid?

A. Yes, sir, I did; he came over to the theater in April, as nearly as I can recall.

Q. Of what year?

A. Of '39; no, of '38, I beg pardon.

Q. Do you know what his position was at that time?

A. I understand that he was district supervisor or district manager for that particular set up of theaters there in Enid.

Q. You mean operated by whom?
A. Well, one of the many Griffiths, sir.

Mr. DUDLEY. If the Court please, we move that his 1131 answer be stricken, as to what he understood. That is a mere conclusion of the witness.

The COURT. Yes, that is stricken.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you know what his connection with them was?
A. Other than I worked with him, and, of course, later, I don't know whether he was in their employment or not; I never saw his pay check, so I couldn't honestly say whether he was connected with Griff or anyone else.

Mr. DUDLEY. We object to any conversation that this witness had with this party, no proper foundation having been laid.

The COURT. It will be sustained unless you can show or indicate to the Court that you will show his connection. If you can show his connection later, I will permit this testimony on the same condition.

Mr. KALLIS. If the Court please, the defendants' answers to the Government's interrogatories, I don't remember which company, but it is one of the Oklahoma defendants, specifically sets forth that Mr.—at page 3 of the answer of Consolidated Griffith Theaters, Inc., that Mr. C. O. Fulgham of Oklahoma City was a director from January 15, 1935, to the present, and this was, as I understand it, in 1943.

The COURT. Did the Consolidated do business in 1132 Enid? It is not shown. You just say the Griffiths.

Mr. COCHRAN. Those theaters up there were owned and operated by the Griffith Amusement Company, and the answers so show it.

Mr. KALLIS. And the testimony in the record so far shows that there was this interlocking relationship between these two Oklahoma companies, and also that the same agency did the buying and booking for all of those theaters that were operated by those two companies in Oklahoma.

The COURT. Being a director would not give him authority to speak for the company, unless he had some authorization. You may examine the witness and it will be subject to a motion to strike, if not connected.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. What conversation did you have with Mr. Fulgham at the time mentioned?
A. Oh, how's business, and this and that, and then he said something to me about wondering if I would be interested in selling, and I told him I wouldn't, and that was about all.

Q. Was anything said at that time by him with reference to the purchase of your equipment?

A. No, sir.

Mr. DUDLEY. We object to that as leading and suggestive. He has undertaken to give the conversation.

1133 The COURT. He said no.

Mr. DUDLEY. His memory is being refreshed by counsel.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Is that all you can recall now, Mr. Gray?

A. That's about all the conversation, outside of the weather, and various other things.

Q. Was there anything said by Mr. Fulgham with respect to competition among the various theaters in Enid, Oklahoma?

Mr. DUDLEY. That is objected to——

A. (Interrupting.) No, sir.

Mr. DUDLEY. As leading and suggestive.

The COURT. The answer is no.

A. Not at that time.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Did you later have a conversation with Mr. Fulgham?

A. I did.

Q. When was that?

A. I approached him myself. That was in May, as nearly as I can recall, in May in a coffee shop located underneath the Griffith offices.

Q. Here in Oklahoma City?

A. Yes.

Q. May of what year?

A. '39.

1134 Q. Will you please state the conversation, in substance?

A. I approached him myself; I said, "Claud, is there anything we can do about these free tickets, double bills, and the price war in Enid?" He said he didn't have nothing to do with it, that he wasn't interested; that is, he refused to discuss it. And I said, "Well, I have stopped all of mine and went back to single bills, and I am going to try it that way awhile, and maybe the others can come about." And he never answered me, he wouldn't discuss it. Then he did say this, he says, "Well, would you be interested in selling now?" I said, "Well, I might, at my figure." And he said, "What figure is that?" so I quoted him a figure and he says, no, we—he used the word "we"

he said, "We will give you open market price for your equipment." And during the conversation evidently I irked him a little on the free tickets or something, and I got back to that subject again, sir, about eliminating all of them, and he made the remark to me, he says, "We are out to get all of you boys; you are trouble makers." And that was about all the conversation, sir.

Q. And you sold your theater then in July of 1940 to Mr. Shield?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Will you please state how much product was available to you at that time for the Rivoli Theater?

A. Do you mean in 1940, in July?

1135 Q. Yes, sir.

A. Very little left, sir.

Q. Did you observe anything with reference to the continuance of the distribution of these free passes by the Griffith Theaters after you sold your theater in July of 1940?

A. I would say several weeks later they were discontinued.

Q. Well, by several what do you mean?

A. Well, two or three or more. I don't recall the exact time because I was not interested any more.

Q. Do you know whether the Rivoli Theater was closed after you sold to Mr. Shield?

A. About a month or so later he closed it, yes, sir.

Q. What, if anything, did you observe with reference to the admission prices of the Griffith Theaters in Enid?

A. As nearly as I can recall the Cherokee raised its price up to 20 cents in the course of two months after my sale.

Q. What about the Mecca?

A. It went to 15 cents.

Q. The Arcadia?

A. I don't know about that. It was 15 all the time I think.

Q. And the Chief?

A. I don't know. They didn't reduce their prices over there that I know of.

1136 Q. That is all.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Just before you opened your theater in Enid, you had been operating theaters in two or three towns, had you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What were those towns?

A. Covington and Marshall, Oklahoma.

Q. When did you open the theater in Covington?

A. I didn't open it. You mean when I took charge?
Q. When did you take charge?
A. December of 1934.
Q. When did acquire the theater at Marshall?
Mr. KALLIS. I object to these questions on the ground they could not possibly relate, even indirectly, to anything covered by this witness on direct examination.
The COURT. I think it is proper cross examination. It may go to the credibility of the witness or his experience in the theater business.
A. About the middle of February or June, that is the Marshall situation.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Of what year?
A. Of 1935.
Q. That was prior to the time you went to Enid,
1137 wasn't it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And you acquired the interest in Enid in June of 1935?
A. No, sir, July 14 is when I opened. I was there working several months before I opened.
Q. In July of 1935, and your interest in Marshall was acquired in February, 1935?
A. About the middle, yes, sir.
Q. Just prior to the time you had been employed in what capacity and by whom?
A. By the Griffith Amusement Company.
Q. At what place?
A. At Enid, at the Mecca Theater.
Q. In what capacity, manager?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Manager of the Mecca Theater?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Then after you left the Griffith employment in Enid you interested Roy Shield in furnishing some money which you used in connection with a small amount of your own funds, did you not, to acquire the theater at Covington?
A. I beg your pardon. I matched his money dollar for dollar and I used all my credit. He didn't use his credit.
Q. How much money did you put into the Covington situation?
1138 A. About $750 apiece.
Q. What theater did you acquire there?
A. The Covington Theater, the same name as the town.
Q. That was the only theater in the town, wasn't it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How long did you operate that theater?

A. Until about the first of July of 1935.

Q. Did you license any product for that theater during the time you were operating it?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. From what companies?

A. Fox, Paramount, Warner Brothers, Metro, and Universal.

Q. You had product first run there, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when you discontinued your operation of that theater in July, 1935, there were a considerable number of pictures on your contract for the season of 1934 for that theater which had not been played, were there not?

A. I don't recall that. I will put it this way: Mr. Weimier and Mr. Grant that bought me out, they assumed all contracts, at least they said they would, I don't know whether they did or not.

Q. Did you have a written agreement with them that they would assume it?

1139 A. Yes.

Q. Do you know whether that contract you made with Warner, and the one you made with Paramount and the one you made with Fox were either played out or paid for?

A. That I couldn't answer. I never was approached on it.

Q. Then shortly before you sold out at Covington—how much did you pay for that theater when you acquired it?

Mr. KALLIS. I think that is immaterial.

The COURT. I don't think it is material.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did you sell that theater for a loss or profit?

Mr. KALLIS. I think that is immaterial, and I object to it.

The COURT. Overruled.

A. I didn't sell any loss, no, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did you make anything on it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much?

A. That I couldn't tell you. It wasn't very much.

Q. Then your theater at Marshall, how long did you operate that?

A. To June of the same year, 1935.

Q. You operated there from February, 1935, to June, 1935?

A. Yes, sir.

1140 Q. Did Mr. Shield have an interest with you there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How much money did he furnish on that deal?
A. I think $100, as well as I can remember.
Q. How much did you furnish?
A. The same amount.
Q. How much credit did you put in on that? In other words, how much did that theater cost you?
A. I just don't recall, it wasn't very much, five or six hundred dollars.
Q. Did you sell that theater?
A. They assumed charge of it in the deal back.
Q. You turned that back to the people?
A. No, I beg your pardon, I did not. I made a deal with the man that owned the seats and I moved those to Enid.
Q. During the time you were operating those two theaters you had dealings with the representatives of Fox, Paramount, Warner, Metro and Universal, did you not?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And the other major companies?
A. Yes.
Q. When you went to Enid you opened a theater that had been known as what?
A. A cafe had been there. It was a vacant building.
1141 Q. And you converted that into a theater?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you remodel the front?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What other investment did you make in the theater, you and Mr. Shield, at that time?
Mr. KALLIS. I don't see how this bears upon any of the details in this case and I object to it.
Mr. COCHRAN. It is offered for this purpose. We are certainly entitled to show that the theater was inadequately financed. It certainly is a material thing to be taken into consideration in determining the run or whether anyone is going to be licensed to this exhibitor or those exhibitors and so forth. It is just a circumstance to be considered. The financial condition of an exhibitor is recognized, even in the consent decree, as being a matter which can be taken into consideration.
The COURT. You may state what your investment was there in that theater.
A. I don't recall. I don't even have those records. Mr. Shield has all those records.
By the COURT:
Q. Do you know what the consideration was?

A. No, sir, I don't. There was very little cash involved; probably $1500 actual cash.

1142 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. About $1500?

A. And lots of credit, just lots of credit. That is what you wanted, isn't it? I had very good credit.

(Hereupon court adjourned until 2 o'clock p. m. this day.)

1143 AFTERNOON SESSION

May 16, 1945, 2:00 o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS

JOHN GRAY, a witness on behalf of the plaintiff having been previously duly sworn, was re-called and was examined and testified as follows:

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When the Rivoli first opened, you were managing it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long did you continue to manage it?

A. Until I sold out.

Q. What was that date?

A. July 6, 1940.

Q. I evidently have the wrong theater in mind; I mean the one that you went into first with Mr. Shield.

A. Oh, the Gray's?

Q. The Gray's.

A. Do you mean when——

Q. (Interrupting) What was that theater named before you took charge of it?

A. There was no theater there, sir.

Q. Oh, it had never been used as a theater?

1144 A. No, sir.

Q. Then how long did you manage that theater?

A. Until the first of September of the next year.

Q. A little more than a year?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was your reason for selling that theater?

Mr. KALLIS. If the Court please, I don't think that is material under the direct examination.

The COURT. Unless it has something to do with the questions in this case. Was it a voluntary sale on your part?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Was there any difference between you and Mr. Shield resulting in that?

Mr. KALLIS. We object to that, your Honor.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Your partner?

The COURT. Overruled.

A. Not particularly.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Was there some disagreement? I don't care about the details, just state whether there was.

A. There could be on his part.

Q. Well, was that the reason for selling out to Mr. Shield?

A. No, sir, it wasn't.

1145 Q. Then when you sold to him he paid you with a check, did he?

A. Yes.

Q. And in that sale you agreed you would not compete further with him in the City of Enid?

A. I did not, sir.

Mr. KALLIS. I object to that. That is clearly unrelated to any of the issues in this case and does not bear in any respect upon the direct testimony.

The COURT. It might go to the credibility of the witness as to his good faith in going back into the business and so forth. Overruled and exception allowed.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Wasn't that endorsed on the check?

A. No, sir, it wasn't, at the time I accepted the check.

Q. But you had no agreement of that kind with Mr. Shield?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then after you sold Gray's Theater what did you do from that time until the time you came back in there and opened another theater?

A. Looked for another location.

Q. Had you gone into another town and made any location?

A. I sure did.

1146 Q. What town?

A. Bristow.

Q. Any other town?

A. No, sir.

Q. And then you came back to Enid?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you opened a theater which had been previously operated as the Rita?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That theater was operating in Enid at the time you and Mr. Shield opened up the Grays Theater, was it not?

A. As well as I can remember, yes, sir.

Q. And continued to operate until shortly before you acquired it?

A. I believe so, yes, sir.

Q. It was operated by Mr. Max Berger for several years, was it not?

A. I believe so, yes, sir.

Q. When you opened the Grays Theater you played the product which had been previously used by Mr. Berger in his theater, did you not?

A. I don't remember. I don't think so.

Q. Do you know what product he was playing in his theater when you went into Enid with the Grays Theater?

A. No, sir, I don't.

1147 Q. You don't know what run he was playing?

A. No, sir.

Q. Or the product of what distributor?

A. No, sir.

Q. When you opened the Grays Theater, in addition to the product which you have heretofore mentioned, you also had the first run of Sach's, did you not?

A. Yes, sir. Independent.

Q. The first run of Allied?

A. No, sir, I don't know what run that was. Some of it had been run eight times there.

Q. The Allied?

A. Some of it, yes, sir.

Q. You mean by that the Allied was at that time licensing pictures which had been released by the various producers, some of which had been run in the town previously?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you license some Square Deal?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you license Grand National?

A. Yes, sir, first run.

Q. Monogram?

A. A few.

Q. P.R.C.

A. No, sir.

1148 Q. P.R.C. was releasing at that time, wasn't it, distributing product?

A. I just couldn't say.

Q. Astor?

A. I played a few of those, yes, sir.

Q. First run?

A. No, they seemed to have been played there before.

Q. Did you tell us the product that you licensed for the season of 1939-40?

A. At the Rivoli?

Q. Yes, for the Rivoli.

A. Yes, sir. Can I or did I?

Q. Did you?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. I didn't make a note of it. '38–39 was the last that I noted. For the '39–40 season what product did you have licensed for the Rivoli?

A. Metro, Universal, some United Artists and some RKO.

Q. And you also had independent product, didn't you?

A. Just about all played then. I might have had a few left.

Q. They were independent pictures that were released during the 1939–40 season, weren't they?

A. Oh, I had not bought all of them.

Q. They were available, weren't they?

1149 A. I think so, yes, sir.

Q. At the time that you sold out your interest in the Grays Theater to Shield, that theater had a contract for RKO pictures, didn't it?

A. I had some. I don't know whether I had played them all or not.

Q. Don't you know after you had opened the Rivoli Theater that you played pictures which you had licensed from RKO for the Grays and the Rivoli Theaters?

A. I did? I didn't know that, sir.

Q. Is that a fact?

A. I don't know. You surprise me.

Q. You have no knowledge of that?

A. No, sir. I sure don't.

Q. It is a fact from that time until you sold out you were playing RKO product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the Rivoli?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were playing it ahead of Grays?

A. I don't know whether I was playing it ahead of them or not. I didn't know they had a contract on it.

1150 Q. Anyhow, you know that they didn't play any RKO ahead of you?

A. Not that I know of; not if I could help it.

Q. When you came back into Enid after you had sold out to Mr. Shield, there was a time when the feeling between you and Mr. Shield was not very good, wasn't there?

Mr. KALLIS. We object to that, your Honor.

A. That's all right; let me answer it. I liked him, I still do; he didn't like me. That's the answer. I am very fond of him.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Feeling on his part wasn't good beginning with what time?

A. When I started to remodeling the old Rita.

Q. To go into competition with him?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you at sometime about 1939 or '40 go into Kaw City to make a location for a moving picture house?

A. '36.

Q. In 1936?

A. The tail end, December, yes, sir.

Q. Did you open a theater there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you make some contracts with the film companies?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your answer to that was yes?

1151 A. Yes.

Q. What companies did you make contracts with?

A. Republic, Metro, Universal, and United Artists.

Q. Did you play any of those pictures?

A. I sure did, sir.

Q. How long did you operate there in Kaw City?

A. Four or five months.

Q. Did you play the contracts, complete the contracts?

A. No, sir.

Q. And then what became of that theater?

A. The theater?

Q. Yes.

A. Do you mean the entire proposition?

Q. Yes.

A. The man that built the building absorbed the contracts and took over.

Q. Did you sell out to him?

A. Yes.

Q. How many theaters were operating in Kaw City at that time?

A. That was the only one.

Q. Did you buy out a theater when you went in there?

A. No, sir.

Q. There hadn't been any operating?

A. No, sir.

1152 Q. So that was the only theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You started it up and sold it out?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you go into Broken Arrow with a theater?

Mr. KALLIS. If the Court please, I still object on the ground of its immateriality. I don't see how that bears on any issue in the case. It certainly wasn't covered in any respect on the direct examination.

The COURT. It goes to the credibility of the witness. Overruled.

A. I didn't go into it; I kind of represented a young boy that was working for me.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did you then sell out?

A. I didn't sell out, sir; he did, or run off and left it, I don't know what he did with it.

Q. Did you make some contracts for that situation with the film companies?

A. I don't recall that, sir, no, sir. There is contracts existing, and I think I helped him go and book possibly two months of them.

Q. Who signed the contracts?

A. I don't remember. I think most of the contracts were existing at the time.

Q. But you did represent him in booking the pictures?

1153 A. More or less, yes, sir.

Q. And those contracts were not completed by him?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. Did you say he ran away or something?

A. He left; I don't know where he went.

Q. What became of the theater?

A. It is still running, so far as I know.

Q. Did he sell out or you sell out?

A. There was no selling. He didn't have an agreement to operate it other than verbal, and this woman took it back and operated it.

Q. It was turned back to the person from whom it came?

A. That's right, as well as I remember.

Q. Were you interested in that transaction in any way?

A. No, sir.

Q. Except the booking and managing?

A. No, not the managing, just helping him out and loaned him a little money.

Q. Helping the boy?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you do any licensing of the product at all?

A. I might have, but I don't recall.

Q. Then did you go into Hollis?
A. No, sir. I would like to.
Q. Did you have any dealings about locating a
1154 theater in Hollis?
A. What kind of dealings, do you mean?
Q. Where you obtained a location for a theater?
A. Yes, sir, I did.
Q. When was that?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Well, was it about the time, in 1938, or '39?
A. It could have been.
Q. Or was it shortly after you sold out the interest in the Gray's to Mr. Shield?
A. No, it was later than that.
Q. All right, you obtained a location, and then did you make any contracts for a theater there?
A. No, sir, I didn't.
Q. Did you sell out to some one on that location?
A. No, sir.
Q. Then did you go to Woodward?
A. When?
Q. Woodward?
A. Later on, I sure did, sir.
Q. About what year?
A. It was in '38.
Q. Did you open a theater there?
A. No, sir.
Q. You sold out or rather——
1155 A. (Interrupting) We swapped dollars on the expenses.
Q. You received $250 about for not going in?
A. I believe that's right, that's about what it cost me.
Q. Griffith Amusement Company didn't operate in any of those towns, did it?
A. No, sir.
Q. Now, how about the town of Lindsey, did you have any experience there?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When was that?
A. I believe that was in '37 or '38; I don't recall the exact time of year.
Q. What occurred in that location?
A. What do you mean?
Q. Did you acquire a theater there?
A. Sir?
Q. Did you acquire a theater there or an interest?
A. I acquired an empty building.

Q. And started to put in a theater?
A. I didn't get it started.
Q. What happened?
A. I just changed my mind.
Q. Did you sell out to some one?
A. No, sir.

Q. Did you make any contracts?

1156 A. No, sir.

Q. Along in 1939 and '40, in addition to your operation of the Rivoli Theater in Enid, you were also engaged in some kind of a vending machine operation, were you not?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When did you start that venture?
A. In '39, I think.
Q. And did that continue until you sold out the Rivoli?
A. Yes, sir, uh-huh.
Q. You, as I understand it, said that the admission price in one of the Griffith theaters was changed immediately after the Rivoli closed. I believe you said that was the Cherokee Theater. Was that your testimony?

A. Yes, sir.

1157 Q. Mr. Gray, are you sure about your dates on that?

A. No, sir, I am not.
Q. Will you say this is not a fact, so far as the Cherokee is concerned, that that admission price was 20 cents for sometime before you made your sale of the Rivoli?
A. Sometime before, yes, sir.
Q. It was 20 cents.
A. But it finally went down to 15 cents.
Q. Between that time and the time you sold?
A. Yes, sir, and a dime for matinees to 6:00 p. m., yes, sir.
Q. When was that admission price reduced on the Cherokee from 20 cents to 15 cents and a dime on matinees?
A. I couldn't give you the definite date on it. Approximately a year after it had been opened; early '39 possibly.
Q. And isn't it a fact that admission price for the Cherokee was changed back to 20 cents on or about May 12, 1939?
A. I don't think so.
Q. You could be mistaken about that?
A. I could be but I don't think I am.
Q. That is all.

Re-direct-examination by Mr. KALLIS:

1158 Q. Mr. Gray, Mr. Cochran asked you what you played in the '39–40 season. Now, you were operating until July of 1940. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And during the motion picture season of '39–40 did you play any '39–40 releases?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Regular season's deals?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What were they?

A. Metro. You want the runs?

Q. No, I think you covered that in your direct examination.

A. Yes, sir, I did. Metro, Universal, United Artists and RKO.

Q. Were these '39–40 releases or '38–39 releases?

A. Some of them were '39–40, the Metro and I believe Universal, but I am not sure about RKO.

Q. Have you testified that during the three and a half years which you operated the Rivoli in Enid between February of '37 and July of 1940, you had for each year a third run of Universal and a third run of Metro; for the '38–39 season a first and second run of RKO. Is that right?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that as repetition and a summarization and so forth.

The COURT. I think it is merely repeating his testimony.

1159 Mr. COCHRAN. In other words, it means I will have to go back and pick up any inaccuracies and follow it through for each season.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. The question I want to ask you now is, you played this product after these various incidents which Mr. Cochran mentioned, pertaining to Woodward, Lindsey, Broken Arrow, Kaw City and Hollis?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And during that period of three and a half years you had business dealings with every one of the eight major companies except Columbia, is that right?

A. More or less, yes, sir.

Q. You did play the product of every major company except Columbia?

A. A little from each one, yes, sir.

Q. And with reference to the theater situation in Enid since you sold out to Mr. Shield in July of 1940, has anyone besides Mr. Shield and the Griffith people operated any theaters in Enid?

A. You mean came in after I sold out the last time?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Not that I know of.

Q. And with reference to the product which Mr. Cochran inquired about on cross examination, namely, Sacks, Allied, Square Deal, Grand National, Monogram and Astor, all of the time you were in Enid do you know whether the Griffith Theaters played any of that product?

A. I am not positive, no, sir, that they did.

Q. You don't know that they did?

A. No, sir, I don't know definitely.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When you opened the Grays Theater you were not able to obtain any Warner pictures, were you, or Vitagraph pictures?

A. I made application for it but it was rejected.

Q. They rejected your application?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You made application for Columbia, didn't you?

A. No, sir.

Q. You didn't obtain any Columbia, did you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you make any application for Fox?

A. No, sir.

Q. You didn't obtain that, did you?

A. Not right away I didn't. I did a few months later.

Q. So far as Fox and Warner were concerned, you obtained very few pictures during the entire time you were operating in Enid, isn't that true?

A. I played quite a few from Fox, none from Warner or Columbia.

Q. Now, talking about playing a product, what was the date of that sale in 1940?

A. July 6.

Q. From January 1, 1940 to July 6, 1940, you played in the Rivoli Theater, major run product on the policy of three changes a week, double bill every day? Isn't that true?

A. Not every day, no, sir.

Q. That was your regular policy, wasn't it?

A. I don't understand what you mean by regular policy. My policy is different from your policy. When you say a policy you mean day in and day out continuously?

Q. I am asking about day in and day out. With very few exceptions during the period I am inquiring about you didn't play double bills?

A. With very few exceptions, I did.

Q. And that was the product of——

A. The major companies and some independents too.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you have any trouble during that period of last year, prior to July 6, 1940, in getting pictures?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The only so-called independents you were playing during that time were the Monogram, wasn't it?

1162 A. I think so. I think maybe I played a few Square Deals too; I am not sure.

Q. You are now operating a theater at Chickasha?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is all.

Re-direct-examination by Mr. KALLIS:

Q. How long have you operated a theater in Chickasha?

A. A little over four years.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. WRIGHT. We offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 280, an agreement dated July 15, 1940, between the Griffith Amusement Company and the Texas-Oklahoma Enterprises, Inc. and Roy Shield, that has been produced by counsel for the Oklahoma City defendants, and which relates to the joint operation of Shield's theater and two of the theaters operated by Griffith.

1163 Mr. COCHRAN. What is the date of that instrument?

Mr. WRIGHT. The date is July 15, 1940. It is signed I believe, on behalf of Griffith Amusement Company by Mr. McKenna as vice-president and on behalf of Texas-Oklahoma Enterprises, Inc. by Mr. Underwood.

Mr. COCHRAN. With the understanding that I am not waiving the point that these transactions subsequent to April 1939 are not within the issues, we have no objection. In other words as stated heretofore in regard to similar matters, I think it is competent as a matter of history, showing the entire history of the transaction, but it is my contention that it is not within the issues.

The COURT. Very well, let it be admitted.

ALEXANDER A. MOULDER, called as a witness by and on behalf of the plaintiff, and being first duly sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Will you state your full name, please?

A. Alexander Moulder.

Q. Where do you live?

A. Sapulpa.

Q. What is your occupation?
1164 A. Theater manager and owner.
Q. Of what theater?
A. The Criterion Theater.
Q. At Sapulpa?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How long have you been in the theater business there?
A. Ever since 1900.
Q. What other theaters there besides the Criterion have you operated?
A. Now?
Q. No, had you operated in the past?
A. The Empress Theater.
Q. The Empress?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And how long did you operate the Empress?
A. Every since 1911 to 1932.
Q. Then you acquired the Criterion when?
A. Sir?
Q. When was it you got the Criterion?
A. September 12—do you mean when I opened the Criterion or when I went in there?
Q. Yes.
A. When I went into the Criterion, September 12, 1931.
Q. Now, was there always an opposition theater in the town there?
1165 A. Yes, sir.
Mr. COCHRAN. Just a minute. Give me that question and answer, will you, please?
(Last question and answer read by the reporter.)
By Mr. WRIGHT:
Q. In 1931, what was the name of the opposition theater?
A. The Yale Theater.
Q. The Yale, and who was operating it, do you know?
A. Charlie Blaine and Jimmy Zartaludes.
Q. That was in 1931; then you were operating after you opened the Criterion, the Criterion and Empress, and Mr. Zartaludes was operating the Yale?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Can you describe generally those theaters as they existed then?
A. Well, I have always run a first run theater.
Q. I mean the physical characteristics of the theaters, the size and the kind of equipment, and so forth.
A. The Criterion Theater has 1200 seats, the Empress 450.
Q. And the Yale?

A. Around about 750, I think.

Q. And which of these theaters is the best from the standpoint of equipment and general attractiveness?

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, I think it would 1166 be better just to state how each is equipped.

The COURT. Well, he might express his opinion about it, if he is not too modest.

A. Well, I wouldn't like to answer that. I think both houses are equipped very nicely.

By the COURT:

Q. You owned the Criterion and the Empress?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. He is talking about the Criterion and the Yale when he said both houses, is that right?

The WITNESS. Yes, that's right.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then, can you tell us what pictures were playing there at those theaters for the '31–32 season, what major product, if any?

A. I think I can. Fox, Paramount, Metro, United Artists, and a few of some of the others, I just don't recall who they were, but that was my stand-by, the ones I have first mentioned.

Q. Did you have Columbia?

A. I think I played a few Columbia, not all of them.

Q. You say you were playing those first run at the Criterion?

A. I was playing part of them at the Empress.

Q. You had some at the Empress?

A. Yes.

Q. Until the Empress was closed?

1167 A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. It was closed in the fall of 1932.

Q. And the other product, major product, was played first run by the Yale?

A. The Yale Theater, yes, sir.

Q. Those were the only theaters in the town?

A. Yes, sir, that's right.

Q. How long had you been playing Metro pictures there, since the 1931–32 season?

A. Ever since they have been in business.

Q. I will show you this contract that has been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 237, and ask you if you recognize that as the Metro contract you had for the '31–32 season?

A. Yes, sir.

The COURT. 237 you say?

Mr. WRIGHT. The number is 237, yes, sir. I will offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 237 in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you remember when Griffith became interested in Sapulpa?

A. No, I don't recall, I don't really say that I can tell you the date; I think in '32. Maybe the spring of '32, or it might have been the fall of '31.

1168 Q. Now, were you offered first run of the Metro product for the '32–33 season?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you make any efforts to buy Metro that year, for that year?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Just tell us what you did as nearly as you can recall.

A. Well, we came in to Oklahoma City to buy the product. Mr. Zoellner wasn't in, hadn't been all day. We tried to catch him.

Q. Who was Mr. Zoellner?

A. He was manager of Metro, that's right, manager, MGM. So we written a letter to him later and he referred it to some one in New York, Conners I believe it was; we also written Mr. Conners in New York, who was to be in Oklahoma City and then he would call us and we was to come over to Oklahoma City and talk.

Q. Did you ever hear from him?

A. I never did. He was here but he didn't call us up.

Q. You didn't see him?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did the Metro pictures start to playing that season at the Yale Theater?

A. Yes, the season of '32–33 was sold at the Yale Theater.

1169 Q. And then after the Yale began playing them, did you do anything further to attempt to get the Metro pictures?

A. Yes, sir, we made, we made another trip or two into Oklahoma City.

Q. Did you consult an attorney?

A. Yes, sir; that was before that, that we consulted an attorney, that was the same day we was here to buy pictures.

Q. Who was the attorney you talked to?

A. Earl Foster.

Q. And after you talked to Mr. Foster, did you and Mr. Foster have a conference with the attorneys for the Griffith people?

A. We went over to D. I. Johnston's office.

Q. When was that?

A. The same day when we were here.

Q. See if you can fix the time of year as nearly as you can?

A. Well, it was during the buying season, I would say in the fall of '32, along maybe August or September.

Q. Now, who went over to Mr. Johnston's office?

A. Mrs. Moulder, Earl Foster and myself.

Q. Who did you see there?

A. Mr. Johnston, D. I. Johnston, they called him.

Q. Can you tell us what was said at that time, as nearly as you recall?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object, if the Court please, there
1170 is no proper foundation laid for this, or any showing of authorization of Mr. Johnston to act for these defendants, or any of them.

The COURT. How would you connect Mr. Johnston?

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, we expect to show that at that time Mr. Johnston was counsel for the defendant companies.

Mr. COCHRAN. It has not been shown. Even though he was attorney for them, unless he had specific authority——

The COURT (interrupting.) Why would the attorney have power to speak for the principals?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it will appear from the conversation that he did speak for the Griffiths on this occasion.

Mr. COCHRAN. You can't prove agency by the statement of the purported agent.

Mr. WRIGHT. We expect to tie this up, of course, to show that he was speaking for them at the time.

1171 The COURT. I will let you make the offer and it will be subject to a motion to strike.

Mr. WRIGHT. You may answer.

(Question read as follows: What was said at that time, as nearly as you recall?)

A. We explained our troubles to Mr. Johnston, who we were told was the attorney for the exhibitor and the film companies, so we explained our troubles and he picked up the phone and he called the Griffith exchange or their office. In the conversation he told us we could have Columbia pictures; that he would release Columbia pictures and let us have Columbia pictures.

Mr. COCHRAN. Is that all you want to offer?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Was that all that was said then?

A. Well, there was quite a bit of conversation went on but I don't recall everything.

Q. Do you know whom he talked to at the Griffith office?

A. No, I do not.

Q. After he had talked is that what he said they would release——

A. That is what he told Mr. Foster, our attorney, and my wife and myself.

Q. That Griffith would release Columbia pictures to you?

A. Yes.

1172 Q. Then after that did you get Columbia features?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. Wait just a minute. I expected to make a motion when he finished with his offer.

Mr. WRIGHT. I take it this is being received subject to connection, isn't it?

Mr. COCHRAN. No, the Court sustained the objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. I didn't understand the objection had been sustained.

The COURT. No, I didn't sustain the objection. I said I would let him make the offer and it would be subject to a motion to strike.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move now to strike it because there is no proof of authority and there can be no proof of authority in this case. They have shown no foundation for any statement in connection with the matter so far as these defendants are concerned.

The COURT. The objection will be sustained and exception allowed. The record is made.

Mr. WRIGHT. Is the theory on which the objection is sustained that it is a matter of order of proof here because we put this witness on——

The COURT. There is no evidence here Mr. Johnston represents any of these defendants or had power to act for any of these defendants.

1173 Mr. WRIGHT. I said we expected to connect that up. The theory on which the evidence is now being excluded is one of order of proof? In other words, am I supposed to make the connection and then bring him back here?

The COURT. I will do this. I will just reserve a ruling on the objection.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think that would be preferable, and then we would not have to bring the witness back again.

Mr. COCHRAN. That makes it necessary for us to wade through this record to find out where reservations have been made, and I take it it will probably be considered as in unless we raise it again.

The COURT. The record will show that the ruling is reserved on this question. The plaintiff cannot put all of the evidence on at one time. I appreciate the scope of this case.

Mr. COCHRAN. I waived in two instances but here is a case which is so clear and apparent, that he would have no right to bind his client in a matter of this kind at all.

The COURT. I agree with you under the present status it is not competent. You may proceed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then were you ever offered Metro pictures on first run, after that?

A. No, sir.

1174 Q. The '31–32 season, or from that season through the '38–39 season, did you have any deal with Metro for first run pictures?

A. After '31–32, you say?

Q. Through '38–39.

A. We bought a group of 11 pictures, I think, later on.

Q. I am talking about the period '32–33 through '38–39, those seasons.

A. No.

Q. And none offered to you during those seasons?

A. No, sir.

Q. And they continued to be played during those seasons at the Yale Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was the first occasion that you recall when you were approached by any representative of the Griffiths with respect to a purchase of your theater?

A. Well, sometime in 1937. You mean a representative?

Q. Well, the first time one of the Griffiths or anyone connected with their organization talked with you about buying your theater?

A. I think I talked to Mr. L. C. maybe, and R. E. maybe, along in different years.

Q. But you don't remember those conversations specifically until 1937?

1175 A. Yes. He might have said to us that he would like for us to come into his organization; be partners with him or something of that kind.

Q. When you say "he" whom are you referring to?

A. To me.

Q. I say whom? Who said this to you?

A. Mr. Griffith. We had talked about it.

Q. Which one, do you remember?

A. Mr. H. L. and R. E. both, both the brothers.

Q. H. J. you mean?

A. H. J., that came in later, in '37.

Q. Calling your attention to the year 1937, can you tell us what the admission price policy was for that theater, which was then the Criterion, I believe, and the Yale?

A. I think the prices on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday and Holidays were 30 cents. They may have been 25. I am not sure. There was one time there we were running 25 and then later 30; I don't recall.

Q. At the Criterion?

A. Yes, sir, and the Yale too.

Q. Charging the same price?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Those were the only two theaters then operating in the town?

A. Yes, sir.

1176 Q. Then in 1937 you say someone from the Griffith organization talked to you about a purchase. Do you remember what month it was, the first time?

A. Well, we had Red Slocum there and we had H. J.

Q. When did Red Slocum come over?

A. Well, it was early, I believe, in 1937; maybe in April or May.

Q. Came over to see you at the theater in Sapulpa?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who else was present then?

A. Just me.

Q. Do you remember what he told you?

A. Yes. He came in and said he wanted to buy my theater and was going to eliminate competition in Sapulpa.

Q. What did you say?

A. I told him all right, I would sell.

Q. Did you discuss any terms?

A. Yes. I told him I wanted $75,000. He offered me $25,000. I don't know whether he made me an offer or not. I am not certain about that.

Q. At that time?

A. No, sir, I don't remember.

Q. Later on that year did you hear from anyone else in the Griffith organization?

A. Well, H. J. came in.

1177 Q. When did he come over?

A. He was there two different times.

Q. When was the first time?

A. Well, just a little bit after that. I would say in June, maybe, one time, or maybe July or August the second time.

Q. Was there anybody with him the first time?

A. Yes. I think Fulgham was with him maybe one time and Mr. McKenna the next time.

Q. You think Fulgham was with him the first time?

A. And McKenna the second time or it might have been vice versa; I don't know.

Q. Where did they see you the first time?

A. In my office.

Q. In Supulpa?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was said then?

A. I believe the first time Mr. H. J. was there we did talk about a partnership maybe; that we would go one-third around; a third to Mr. Zartaludes; a third to the Griffiths and a third to myself and pool the two theaters and I couldn't see it. I asked him why it should not be a fifty-fifty proposition inasmuch as I had the largest house. We could not agree. I don't know of any other conversation that I can remember that first time.

1178 Q. Then you saw him again?

A. Later.

Q. How much later was that?

A. It must have been 30 days later.

Q. That would be about when in 1937?

A. I would say July or August of 1937.

Q. Then on the second occasion was that at the same place?

A. Yes. That happened on a Saturday, whatever day that was.

Q. Was there anybody else present?

A. I believe Mr. McKenna was along at the time.

Q. You think Mr. McKenna, Mr. J. H. Griffith and anyone else?

A. My wife was there.

Q. What was said then?

A. Well, there was quite a bit of conversation went on. At that time he wanted to buy us out. He offered me $25,000 and I wanted $75,000.

Q. When you say "he," whom are you referring to?

A. How is that?

Q. Whom are you referring to by "he"?

A. Mr. Griffith, H. J., and we could not come to terms. Then I suggested to him, "How about a partnership" and he said, "Well, we don't want two partners in the 1179 same town; but we are satisfied with the one we have" and later he says, "Well, Speedy, we will lower the admission price in the Yale Theater and build another theater in the town and buy your pictures out from under you," and he says, "Where will you be then?" I said, "Well, that is for me to worry about." I believe he told me at the same time that I didn't have a good lease, and I told him that I did.

Q. The Criterion was leased from someone else, was it?
A. Yes, sir, a ten year lease.
Q. Was anything said there about the lease?
A. That was all.
Q. Then what, if anything happened with reference to the admission prices at the Yale Theater when they left?
A. Well, the admission price on Wednesday and Thursday was lowered the following week.
Q. Lowered to what price?
A. I believe it was 15 cents, or they had a bargain day or something, or a penny day, or two for one, but I think it started out as 15 cents on Wednesday and Thursday.
Q. Do you know how long that continued?
A. Yes, I think they had those bargain days until the Federal government started charging tax. Then we got together, that is, we agreed to charge the tax but the same admission price.

Q. Then after this conversation in 1937, did you
1180 notice any activity with reference to the construction of another theater there?
A. Oh, yes. They built the theater he said they would build. That was the State Theater.
Q. The State?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you know about when they started that project?
A. Yes, May 31, 1939.
1181 Q. That's when it was opened?
A. I think that is the beginning of the building of it.
Q. That was when construction began?
A. That was when construction began, yes, sir.
Q. When was it opened, if you recall?
A. No, I don't remember that.
Q. Do you know what kind of policy that house was operated on?
A. Yes, sir, it was a second run house.
Q. Playing pictures of what admission price?
A. I believe it was 15 cents to start with, 10 and 15 cents.
Q. You are talking about the children and adult prices?
A. 10 cents for children and 15 cents for adults.
Q. And they were playing major product there, second run?
A. They were playing there second run that they were showing in the Yale Theater and Columbia, they bought my second runs of the Columbia pictures.
Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross-examine.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Moulder, at the time that you said that Columbia pictures were licensed to you for the season 1932–33, 1182 only the feature pictures were licensed to you, were they?

A. That's right.

Q. Westerns were not licensed?

A. No, we wasn't running westerns and we didn't need them.

Q. You didn't need the westerns?

A. No.

Q. And they were not licensed by you and have never been licensed by you since?

A. No, sir.

Q. For the season 1931–32 you licensed that product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And when time came for you to play off that contract, you refused to give Columbia any dates, didn't you?

A. No, sir.

Q. And at that time you were in financial difficulties, weren't you?

A. That's right; broke.

Q. That was in 1931?

A. '31–32.

Q. That was before Griffith came into the town, wasn't it?

A. I wasn't, I wasn't broke when he came into the town.

Q. I am talking about July 1931.

1183 A. No, sir, I wasn't.

Q. When you made this deal with Columbia?

A. I didn't make a deal with Columbia in '31; it was '32.

Q. Didn't you make a deal for the '31–32 product?

A. I may have bought some pictures, I don't know. That might have been the Empress, I might have bought some pictures for the Empress Theater.

Q. I am talking about the contract you made?

A. I don't remember it.

Q. That was made for that product for the '31–32 season?

A. I don't remember having a contract.

Q. Didn't Columbia then cancel that contract it had with you and license that product for the '31–32 season to Mr. Blaine for the Yale Theater?

A. I don't remember it.

Q. Mr. Blaine was operating the Yale Theater in the season '31–32, wasn't he?

A. Yes, sir; about '32, I don't know about that; I think Mr. Griffith came in in '32.

Q. Do you know what time that the Griffiths acquired an interest in Sapulpa?

A. No, I wouldn't say. I would say in '32 when he came in, I am pretty sure.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the Yale Theater Corporation continued to own and operate that Yale Theater until September 9, 1932?

1184

A. September, it might have.

Q. And Mr. Zartaludes continued to own an interest in that theater, didn't he?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And operate it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know what corporation it was that acquired an interest in the Yale Theater in 1932?

A. No, sir.

Q. What season's product was it that you say was released to you after you say Griffith had licensed it?

A. Columbia.

Q. I say what season's product?

A. That was '32.

Q. '32–33?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have continued to use Columbia first run features from that time down to the present time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the present time you are playing what pictures in your Criterion Theater?

A. Paramount, Fox, Columbia, United Artists, PRC and Monogram.

1185

Q. All first run?

A. Yes, sir.

The Court. What was your last question?

Mr. Cochran. All first run.

By Mr. Cochran:

Q. Are you playing single bills in your theaters?

A. Playing double features on Wednesday, Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Q. At what admission price?

A. Twenty-five cents for matinee and thirty-five cents for Sundays and holidays.

Q. Does that include the tax?

A. That includes the tax, yes, sir.

Q. The net amount is considerably less than that, is it?

A. Yes, sir, that's right; twenty-six, four, I think it is.

Q. In other words, on your 35-cents admission, your net would be 26.4 cents?

A. That's right.

Q. In the Yale Theater, is the policy double billing on the same days that you double bill?

A. No, sir; they don't double bill.

Q. They just single bill?

A. No, they use a "bank" night or something to 1186 stimulate business.

Q. And the admission price is the same as in the Criterion Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long have those admission prices been the same?

A. Well, since the beginning of the war, I guess, when the tax was raised.

Q. Can you give us the approximate date; would you say in 1940?

A. I would say '40 or '41.

Q. Prior to that time, what was the admission price in the Criterion?

A. It was the same except on Wednesday and Thursday it was diffierent; they had 15 cents, while I charged the regular admission of 25 cents.

Q. At that time were you running double bill?

A. Later I came in with double bills, complete with "bank" night.

Q. You have a balcony in your theater, do you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have an adult admission during that period of 15 cents there?

A. Yes, sir. Do you mean for the balcony?

Q. Yes, for the balcony?

A. Yes.

1187 Q. There is no balcony in the Yale, is there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There is?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. There is no difference in the price between the balcony and the orchestra, is there?

A. The same price, 15 cents.

Q. The Empress Theater was not constructed until two years after this—I mean the State Theater wasn't constructed until two years after this conversation you said you had with H. J. Griffith, was it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Construction was not commenced until more than two years?

A. May 31, 1939.

Q. '39?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the present time you have no shortage of product, do you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Mr. Moulder, since the consent decree—you are familiar with the consent decree, aren't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Since the consent decree, there has been a great change in the way pictures are licensed, has there not?

1188 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Paramount and Fox, from whom you licensed, now license their product in groups of five now, instead of requiring you to take the entire season's product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Prior to that time it was the policy of those companies, when you licensed their product, to require you to license the entire season's product before it was produced?

A. That's right.

Q. They frequently failed to release as many as ten of the pictures that they had licensed, didn't they?

A. No, I never bought from any of them less than thirty-five to forty-five.

Q. I say, they frequently, Paramount back in those days, would license you something like seventy pictures, and isn't it a fact that frequently those distributors who licensed the entire season's product released ten or more pictures which they licensed?

A. Yes, that has happened quite a few times.

Q. You couldn't tell at the beginning of the season just what product you were going to have?

A. That's right.

Q. Or what it was going to be like, when you got it?

A. That's right.

Q. You also found, Mr. Moulder, that in licensing

1189 these pictures in the so-called top pictures, the A class pictures——

A. That's right.

Q. In the first group, and so forth, of these companies, that frequently those pictures that are classified in that group by the distributor don't live up to that classification in the box office in your theater?

A. Well, they are not as good as you expect them to be, no.

Q. And frequently you will find a so-called program picture that will be better box office attraction, even though purchased for less money, than one of the pictures they included in the upper class?

A. Occasionally we got what they call a sneak, a good picture, for little money.

Q. That's when you felt you got a break?

A. That's right.

Q. In licensing pictures from Paramount now, they are licensed after they are given a trade showing in the Oklahoma City exchange, are they not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you attend any of those showings?

A. No, sir; I go to Tulsa quite a bit and see pictures over there.

Q. They are trade shown at Tulsa as well as at Oklahoma City?

1190 A. At the Talbot Theaters, yes, sir.

Q. That's a private showing over there, is it?

A. That's right.

Q. But other than that, you do not come in to see the pictures?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you come into Oklahoma City to do your booking?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you do the licensing of pictures and the booking of pictures for your theater?

A. No, Mrs. Moulder does the booking, and I buy the pictures, yes, sir.

Q. Now, when that State Theater was put in as a second run house, it didn't take away any pictures that you had been playing, did it?

A. Just the Columbia pictures.

Q. Well, it didn't take away Columbia first run, did it?

A. I didn't understand.

Q. It didn't take away any pictures away from you, did it?

A. No, sir.

Q. You continued to have the same pictures?

A. That's right.

Q. And it played some pictures that you played first run, it played second run?

A. That's right.

1191 Q. On Paramount pictures, you have an availability of twenty-one days after national release dates, don't you?

A. We are supposed to have, but we are not getting them now.

Q. That's their agreement with you, is it?

A. Well, I don't seem to have an agreement now. They just tell you it isn't available until Tulsa plays them.

Q. Well, anyhow, when you speak of Tulsa playing in advance of you, you are referring to the Talbot Theaters over there, are you?

A. Yes, sir, that's right.
Q. That is an independent exhibitor, is it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. That operates only in Tulsa?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Relative to this statement that you say that H. J. Griffith made to you in 1937, did you have any further conversation with any one of the defendants in this case?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. With whom, and what was said?
A. Well, I have talked with Mr. Griffith there.
Q. Which one?
A. L. C.
Q. What was said?

Mr. WRIGHT. Will you fix the place and date first,
1192 if you can?

A. Well, we had a talk out to the country club, at a banquet we had out there.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. How long after this conversation with H. J.?
A. It was after that.
Q. How long after?
A. I imagine a couple of months; I don't remember exactly. I wouldn't say. But the convention, it was during the motion exhibitors' convention here at Oklahoma City, the National, I believe it was.
Q. All right, what was said?
A. Well, Mrs. Moulder had talked to Mr. Griffith that same day, before.
Q. Just tell what was said.
A. All right. He says, "Speedy", he says, "I wish that you would come in with us as a partner, or something like that." I says, "H. J." I says, "you missed that opportunity. You remember I came into your office and offered to sell out to you and you asked me if I needed some money, and I told you yes, and you says I haven't got it." "Well," he says, "I have got a good many partners and they are all satisfied." I told him, I says, "Well, when the time comes when I want to sell, I will sell to you first, I will come to you first." "Well," he says, "Speedy, really to 1193 tell you the truth I am well satisfied in Sapulpa; I don't need your theater; that will just be all right. Any time you get hard up and need anything, you come to me."
Q. Did you tell him about the conversation that you say you had with H. J.

A. Yes, sir, my wife did.
Q. Were you present?.
A. No, sir.
Q. Mr. Moulder, do you recall having a conversation with Mr. Henry Griffing about two or three weeks ago?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Where was that?
A. In my office at Sapulpa.
Q. About two or three weeks ago?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. On that occasion did you tell Mr. Griffing that the person who made that statement that you now attribute to Mr. H. J. Griffith was made by Mr. Claud Fulgham?
A. No, I don't think so. The conversation was, I told him——
Q. (Interrupting.) I just asked you.
A. No, sir.
Q. I just asked you if you didn't tell him that statement was made by——
A. (Interrupting.) No, sir.
1194 Q. By Claud Fulgham, the statement that the admission prices were going to be reduced and a new theater opened?
A. No, sir.
Q. And didn't you, at that time, tell him that you took the matter up with L. C. Griffith and that he told you that he had not authorized anyone to make any such statement, and that he wouldn't do so, and told you to forget about it?
Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I think that is entirely improper. There is no testimony that was covered on his direct examination which this could possibly impeach.
The COURT. Overruled. I think it is proper cross-examination going to whether or not there was an authorized statement, or whether it was a threat.
Mr. WRIGHT. He is not asking him anything about anything that was said in the conversations he has testified to. He is asking him now about some other conversations that related to conversations he didn't testify to. How could that possibly be proper or competent?
The COURT. He is asking him about a conversation in which this witness admitted that he had talked to L. C. Griffith and told what L. C. Griffith said.
Mr. WRIGHT. Well, what possible significance has that got with what he has testified here as to these conversations?
The COURT. Well, it is very significant. Over-
1195 ruled and exception allowed. You may answer the question.

A. Mrs. Moulder talked to Mr. L. C. at the Biltmore Hotel during our convention, and she told him all the things that happened, what H. L. said.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you mean H. L. or H. J.?

A. L. C. she was talking to L. C. and L. C. told her, he says, "I didn't authorize any of that".

Mr. WRIGHT. Just a minute.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you hear the conversation?

Mr. WRIGHT. He is not in position to testify what was told Mrs. Moulder.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. My question was if in talking to Mr. Henry Griffing about this matter, you didn't tell him that you took the matter up with Mr. L. C. Griffith shortly thereafter and told him what had been stated to you there in Sapulpa, and that L. C. stated that no one had any authority to make any such statement and that he was going to get to the bottom of it, and for you to go back to Sapulpa and forget it?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, it is perfectly——

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. (Interrupting.) Or any such happening?

1196 Mr. WRIGHT. It is perfectly apparent what he is trying to do is to get in through the alleged conversation between this witness and Mr. Griffing, hearsay testimony as to what L. C. Griffith might have told Mr. Maulder. It is entirely incompetent and improper.

The COURT. No, this man is on the witness stand. If he made that statement it is competent, regardless of what he said.

Mr. WRIGHT. To prove what?

The COURT. He is asking him if he made the statement. You may answer.

By the WITNESS:

A. Yes, I made that statement to Mr. Griffing.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. And you also state that since that time you have had no further difficulty?

A. That is right.

Q. And that is a fact?

A. Yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Let me ask you this in order to clarify this matter: You stated your wife had talked to Mr. L. C. Griffith at the hotel.

A. That is right.

Q. That evening when you talked to him at the banquet, did you and he discuss what your wife had said to him?

A. No, sir, we didn't.

1197 Q. Did he tell you that she had talked to him?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know she had?

A. Yes, she told me she had.

Q. Have you had a talk with L. C. Griffith at any time in which you discussed what your wife was supposed to have told him?

A. No, I didn't tell him that.

Q. You merely told Mr. Griffing what he says you told him?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I move to strike the testimony that was given as to what he said to Mr. Griffing as to what L. C. Griffith told his wife.

The COURT. Overruled. That is perfectly competent.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it is clear error.

The COURT. I think you do but I think it isn't. That is the difference between us and the ruling stands.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. So far as the situation is concerned, at Sapulpa, your theater is getting all of the product that it needs?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All you need and all you can use?

A. Yes, sir.

1198 Re-direct-examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. During this period of 1933-34 through '38-39, would you say the Columbia product you had was as valuable a box office attraction as the Metro product of those years?

A. No, sir.

Q. That is all.

By the COURT:

Q. From 1932 up until 1938 did you get sufficient pictures to run your theater in a satisfactory manner?

A. Yes, sir.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court pleases, I think we will continue now with these documents. We have no other witnesses waiting here. I think the last one that was offered was an agreement identified as Plaintiff's Exhibit 34. Does that check with your records? The Consolidated Theaters, Inc.? '34 is the last one that is marked admitted.

The next one we will offer is Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 36. That is a memorandum agreement between Lester Dollison of Kermit, Texas, and the Griffith Amusement Company dated June 30, 1937, providing for a joint operation of the Kermit and Texas Theaters, at Kermit, with 20 per 1199 cent interest to Dollison and 80 per cent interest to Griffith, and providing for Dollison to manage the theaters and Griffith to book and license the pictures for a percentage of the gross.

The COURT. What is the date of that?

Mr. WRIGHT. June 30, 1937.

The next exhibit I offer is Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 39, which is a so-called good will contract executed on April 10, 1937, by John H. and Eudoxie Thomas of Kingfisher, Oklahoma, agreeing not to engage in the motion picture business or vaudeville enterprises at Kingfisher, Oklahoma, so long as Consolidated Theaters, Inc. or a person deriving a title or good will from it carries on a business in the city, not to exceed 10 years from May 1, 1937. I take it all of these that are marked are admitted?

The COURT. Yes, they will be admitted unless a statement is made otherwise.

Mr. WRIGHT. Then we offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 40 for identification, which is an agreement made by Duffy Theaters and Pat Duffy, Leo Duffy and Mary Duffy and Ruby Jones, with Consolidated Theaters, Inc., April 26, 1938, which contains an agreement by the Duffies not to operate in Mangum, or in Greer County, Oklahoma, for a period of 10 years from April 30, 1938, or so long as the Consolidated or anyone deriving title from it carries on a like business.

1200 The next exhibit we will offer is Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 42, which is a similar contract dated April 28, 1938, made by F. D. Pickrel of Ponca City with Consolidated Theaters, Inc. and covers a ten year period in Ponca City and Kay County, Oklahoma.

We offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 43 for identification, which is a so-called administration contract dated April 16, 1942, between Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Inc., and James Zartaludes of Sapulpa, and reducing to writing a prior agreement for the film licensing and booking services rendered by the Griffith Amusement Company in connection with the operation of the Empress, Yale and State Theaters in Sapulpa.

1201 And Plaintiff's Exhibit 44 is offered, which is a summary contract between Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated, George Stovall, and Mrs. H. J. Griffith, Jr., dated June 1, 1942, reducing to writing an agreement for film buying and booking services in connection with the operation of the Ute and Rio Theaters at Sayre, Oklahoma.

And Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 45, which is a contract dated June 1, 1936, between George Stovall of Sayre and Consolidated Theaters, Inc., providing for the joint operation of the Rio and Princess Theaters at Sayre, with Stovall as manager, and Consolidated booking the pictures.

Exhibit 46 which is an agreement between Griffith Amusement Company and W. J. Williams, of Tonkawa, Oklahoma, dated November 30, 1937, which contains a summary agreement not to compete by Williams—I beg pardon—this is an agreement whereby Griffith Amusement Company agrees in connection with the sale of properties at Tonkawa to Williams, to refrain from carrying on a theater business there and to refrain from buying or booking pictures for other persons, firms or corporations in said city for a period of ten years or so long within the period as Williams or any person deriving title from him carries on said business.

The COURT. The town is Tonkawa, you say?

Mr. WRIGHT. Tonkawa, yes, sir.

1202 Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 47, which is a contract between the Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated, and W. J. Moore, whereby Griffith has been rendering bookkeeping and film buying services to the Aztec and Lyric Theaters in Vinita, Oklahoma.

The COURT. May I have that date again?

Mr. WRIGHT. November 30, 1942.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 48, which is a memorandum agreement between Griffith Amusement Company, Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Inc., and Foster McSwain, dated September 20, 1941, reducing to writing an agreement with regard to the Key, State and Paramount Theaters in Wewoka, Oklahoma, whereby Griffith Amusement Company books the films for a percentage of the gross receipts.

The COURT. And that is dated?

Mr. WRIGHT. September 20, 1941.

And Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 49, which is an agreement between J. B. Terry, of Wewoka, and Consolidated Theaters, Inc., dated December 30, 1937, whereby Terry sells a half interest in the State, and Key Theaters there, to Consolidated, and the provision is made for dividing profits and losses equally, and Consolidated to buy and book the films for a percentage of the gross receipts.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 49-A, which is an operating agreement dated May 25, 1938, between Griffith
1203 Amusement Company and Fred Morley, of Roswell, New Mexico, covering the joint operation of the Rex and Rig Theaters in Wink, Texas, and 80% interest for Griffith and a 20% for Morley, Griffith to buy and book the films for a percentage of the gross receipts.

The COURT. May I have the date again?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is May 25, 1938.

Plaintiff's Exhibit 122, which is a contract between H. T. Hodge, of Abilene, Texas, and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated June 24, 1936, together with a supplement attached, of the same date, and a memorandum agreement dated February 1, 1938, with a supplement also attached. These agreements, all of which are put together, as one exhibit, relate to the purchase by Griffith of an interest in certain theaters in certain towns in Texas, I believe it covers theaters at Stamford, Ballinger, Winters, Odessa, Merkel, Texas. And it also has the provision for the same parties having an interest in future theaters acquired in those towns by either.

The next one that is offered is Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 123, an agreement between Texas Consolidated Theaters, Inc., Albuquerque Theaters, Inc., and Bachechi Brothers, a partnership, and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and Foster McSwain, covering the joint operation of the Kimo, Pastime, and Rio Theaters, at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

1204 The COURT. What is the date of that?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is dated July 18th—no, I beg pardon—dated January 4, 1938.

Then Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 126, an agreement between——

Mr. RICE (interrupting.) Mr. Wright, pardon me, I think you are confused on the acknowledgment. The date of the instrument is October 1, 1938.

Mr. WRIGHT. You are right.

Mr. RICE. That is No. 125.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. No. 125 is dated October 1, 1938, and it refers, I think, to a supplemental agreement of January 4th.

Then Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 126, which is an agreement between the same parties, except Texas Consolidated Theaters, dated July 18, 1938, providing for the joint operation of the Kimo, Pastime and Rio Theaters in Albuquerque. The agreement, Exhibit No. 125, includes not only those theaters, but the Sunshine, Chief, Mission and Mesa.

1205 Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 128 is an agreement between The New Mexico Theaters, Inc., Albuquerque Theaters, Inc., Bachechi Brothers and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and Foster McSwain, dated January 4, 1938, providing for the booking of pictures for the Kimo, Mesa and Rio Theaters by Texas Consolidated Theaters, Inc.

Exhibit No. 129 is an agreement between the same parties dated April 30, 1935, concerning the operation of theaters at Albuquerque.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 130 is an agreement between R. L. Walker, H. H. Cluck and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated June 28, 1935, concerning the operation of the Beltonian and Beltex Theaters at Belton, Texas, under which the Griffith Theaters, Inc. buys and books the film for 4 per cent of the gross.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 131 is an agreement between Roy L. Walker and H. H. Cluck and Westex Theaters, Inc., dated April 7, 1938, for the joint operation of the same theaters at Belton, Texas, and it provides for booking and buying by Griffith Theaters, and the option for termination, and to buy or sell by either party and the goodwill to be transferred for a period of ten years from the date of the sale.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 132 is an agreement between the Brady Amusement Company and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated June 25, 1935, providing for the booking by Griffith and in return for a percentage of the gross. The agreement does not state the town nor the theaters, but I believe the Brady Amusement Company operated in Brady, Texas.

1206

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 133 is an agreement dated November 12, 1936, between A. M. Morgan and Jack Pickens, agent for the Brady Amusement Company and Westex Theaters, Inc., and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated November 12, 1936, conveying a lease owned by Morgan and Pickens covering the Ritz Theater at Brady, and Morgan agrees not to engage in the moving picture business or the theater business of any kind or character, directly or indirectly, in any town in the states of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, in which he might be in competition with the Brady Amusement Company and so forth.

The COURT. Did you skip Exhibit 134?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 135 is an agreement between O. A. Engelbrecht and F. L. Wolf and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., providing for management by Engelbrecht and Wolf and buying and booking of films by Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated June 28, 1935.

The COURT. Does that refer to any particular town?

1207 Mr. WRIGHT. That refers, I think, to the State and Colonial Theaters at Clarksville, Texas.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 136 is an agreement between O. A. Engelbrecht and F. L. Wolf and the Westex Theaters, Inc., dated May 7, 1938, covering the joint operation of the same theaters, the State and Colonial Theaters at Clarksville, Texas.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 137 is a contract between Charles F. Hardwick of Clovis, New Mexico, and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated February 7, 1940, extending an agreement made on June 7, 1933, until October 29, 1963, which covers the Lyceum and Mesa Theaters at Clovis, New Mexico.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 140 is the next agreement we will offer between R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and George A. Dowdle of Deming, New Mexico, dated the blank day of October, 1942 and apparently executed on November 12, 1942, and providing for the joint operation of the Luna and El Rancho Theaters at Deming, R. E. Griffith buying and booking the films for a percentage of the gross.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 141 is an agreement between R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and C. C. Caldwell and M. R. Showalter, dated June 27, 1942, for the joint operation of the Rhea and Ritz Theaters at Denver City, Texas, with R. E. Griffith Theaters buying and booking the film 1208 for a percentage of the gross.

Mr. COCHRAN. Did you offer 142?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, I did not.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 143 is a memorandum agreement between the Gonzales Amusement Company and Westex Theaters, Inc., dated August 27, 1936, providing for the Westex to receive a percentage of the gross receipts for buying and booking of film for the Crystal Theater at Gonzales, Texas.

1209 Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 144, which is an agreement between Baker Show Company, and Westex Theaters, Inc., dated August 27, 1936, under which the Westex received a percentage of the gross from the Baker Theater at Lockhart, Texas, for buying and booking the films.

Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 148, which is an agreement between O. A. and Andrew O. Engelbrecht and Westex Theaters, Inc., dated May 7, 1938, providing for the joint operation of two theaters at Georgetown, Texas, with Westex to buy and book the films and receive a percentage of the gross.

The COURT. That is 145?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is 148.

The COURT. All right.

Mr. WRIGHT. And Plaintiff's Exhibit 149, which is an agreement between the same parties, dated June 28, 1935, relating to the same theaters at Georgetown.

I think we offered the exhibit that has been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 153 by a copy that was produced by Griffith or by Consolidated under a prior number. That, as I understand it, Mr. Rice, this agreement we identified as 153 that you produced is a duplicate, is it not, of one offered in evidence as Exhibit 34?

Mr. RICE. That is my understanding.

1210 Mr. WRIGHT. Produced by the other defendants.

Mr. RICE. I have not compared them, but that is my understanding.

Mr. WRIGHT. We won't offer 153. It is nearly a duplicate of another exhibit.

We will offer Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 154, an agreement between C. C. Caldwell, of Jal, New Mexico, and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated May 18, 1935, relating to the operation of the theater in that town, with R. E. Griffith Theaters.

The COURT. What is the name of the town?

Mr. WRIGHT (spelling.) J-a-l, New Mexico.

The COURT. That's a new one.

Mr. WRIGHT. And the next is Plaintiff's Exhibit 155, an agreement between R. L. Walker and F. T. Donnell, and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated June 28, 1935, relating to the operation of the LeRoy Theater and LeRoy, Jr., Theater, at Lampasas, Texas, under which Griffith buys and books for a percentage of the gross.

Mr. RICE. Before we get too far, you have been introducing as to each of these towns, the original booking agreement between R. E. Griffith Theaters and the other associates. I notice you didn't introduce in the case of Gonzales the later agreement made with Westex Theaters to the same effect. Did you intend to leave that out?

1211 Exhibit 150 is the number.

Mr. WRIGHT. What is the number?

Mr. RICE. No. 150.

Mr. WRIGHT. No, that was unintentional.

Mr. RICE. It supersedes the original agreement introduced for Gonzales.

The COURT. 143?

Mr. KIME. 143.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit 150, the superseding agreement which counsel just referred to, dated January 6, 1937.

The COURT. Gentlemen, we will recess at this time until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

(Whereupon court recessed until May 17, 1945, at 10 o'clock a. m.)

1212 PROCEEDINGS

May 17, 1945, 10:00 o'clock a. m.

The COURT. You may proceed, gentlemen.

Mr. WRIGHT. I offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 156, which is an agreement dated April 7, 1938, between R. L. Walker and S. T. Donnell, and Westex Theaters, Inc., providing for the rental of those same theaters in Lampasas, and providing for joint operation and buying and booking by Westex for a percentage of the gross receipts.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. The next agreements will be Exhibits Numbers 158 and 159, which are between the Luling Amusement Company and Westex Theaters, Inc., No. 159 being dated August 7, 1937, and No. 158 being an extension and alteration dated January 6, 1937, both of which relate to the operation of the theater at Luling, Texas.

Then we offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 162, which is an agreement dated June 5, 1935, between the O. K. Theaters Corporation, and Oscar Korn and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., concerning the transfer of the Palace and Granada Theaters at Plainview, Texas.

The next offer is Plaintiff's Exhibit 163, which is an agreement between Louis F. Long, and Griffith Arizona Theaters, Inc., and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., dated April 27, 1938, under which R. E. Griffith Theaters books 1213 and buys films for certain theaters located in Arizona for a percentage of the gross.

And Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 164, which is an agreement between the same parties as 163 and bears the same date, setting out the respective percentages of interest that the parties have in those Arizona theaters.

And Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 165, an agreement dated December 23, 1935, between W. C. Dofflemyer and R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., relating to a partnership operation of the Palace Theater at San Saba, Texas, with the R. E. Griffith Company to buy and book the product.

And Plaintiff's Exhibit 166, which is a similar agreement between R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc. and Hardwick Brothers, dated May 26, 1936, relating to theaters at Spur, Texas.

I think that completes the operating agreements produced by Mr. Rice.

Mr. RICE. Exception Exhibit No. 181. I don't know whether you want to offer it or not.

Mr. WRIGHT. I see that's right. No. 181 I don't seem to have a copy of. Was it photostated?

Mr. RICE. Yes. You have it; it is for Carlsbad.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 181; Mr. Rice says there is a copy of it here and it will be introduced and later marked and admitted. That is an agreement dated July 1, 1940, between R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., and Raymond O. Barton, individually and as 1214 trustee, for the operation of the Cactus and Tower Theaters at Carlsbad, New Mexico, under which the R. E. Griffith Theaters, Inc., buys and books film for a percentage of the gross.

The next agreement that I will offer is Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 263, a good will—I beg pardon—I believe that 263 is a duplicate of a document that was offered while Mr. Vincent was on the stand.

The COURT. 263 is the lease dated February 8, 1940.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think that is 262.

The COURT. 262 is a lease also. 262, 263, and 264.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think those are all duplicates of material that was offered.

The COURT. That was offered under the witness Vincent.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, I think that has been received and should be marked as received in evidence, although it doesn't appear so noted on my sheet. Those have already been admitted.

1215 Mrs. JUANITA BERRY, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. State your name and address, please.

A. Mrs. Juanita Berry, 209 East Main Street, Norman.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. We run a moving picture theater.

Q. Where abouts?

A. 209 East Main Street, Norman.

Q. What is the name of the Theater?

A. The Oklahoma Theater.

Q. How long have you been connected with the operation of the Oklahoma Theater there?

A. About 16 years.

Q. Were you formerly associated in the operation of theaters there with your late husband?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was his name?
A. Raymond Clyde Berry.
Q. When did he die?
A. In April, 1932.
Q. Then at that time what, if any, theaters besides the Oklahoma were you connected with at Norman?
1216 A. The Campus Theater.
Q. And was anyone else interested in the operation?
A. Yes. My mother and brother had a part interest in that.
Q. What was your mother's name?
A. Mrs. V. H. Goldman.
Q. And the Campus and Oklahoma Theaters were being operated together by you and your mother?
A. Yes.
Q. At that time what other theaters were there in Norman?
A. The Sooner Theater and University Theater.
The COURT. I didn't hear you.
A. The other two theaters were the Sooner Theater in Norman and the University Theater, owned by Griffith.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Griffith operated those theaters?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Can you locate the four theaters for us, approximately?
A. The Sooner and University and our Oklahoma Theater were downtown. The Campus Theater was out at the University Corner.
Q. That is about how far away from downtown?
A. I should judge that is about a mile.
Q. That is Oklahoma University?
A. Oklahoma State University.
1217 Q. At Norman. Do you know what the approximate size of the four theaters was?
A. The Oklahoma and Campus each were small theaters; about 432 seats each; the Sooner and University are much larger theaters. The Sooner probably was about 1100 and the University about eight or nine hundred seats. I don't know exactly.
Q. Do you know about how large the town of Norman was then?
A. A town of about 10,000.
Q. That is excluding the University population?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. About how many were in the University?

A. Well, the university is gradually growing. You mean what years now?

Q. This is of 1932.

A. I believe there were only about, probably three or four thousand at that time.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Is that the population of Norman at that same time?

A. Yes, I think it was about 10,000 wasn't it, about that?

Q. Do you know what the 1930 census was?

The COURT. Pardon me. When you say "excluding the university" you mean not including the student body?

1218 A. The student body. The population of Norman might have been as low as 9000 in 1932. It was later on about 10,000.

1219 Q. During the 1932-33 motion picture season, do you know what, approximately what policies the theaters there were being operated on?

A. They ran first run pictures, we ran first run at the Campus and second run at the Oklahoma.

Q. In your theaters, you ran first run at the Campus and second run at the Oklahoma?

A. Yes, sir; our own product.

The COURT. What was that?

A. I say we ran our own product, first run at the Campus and second run at the Oklahoma Theater.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. By your own product you are referring to what companies?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object. Let her state what she meant by it instead of leading the witness.

By the COURT:

Q. What did you mean by your own product?

A. I mean the product we showed out at the Campus, we showed down at the Oklahoma; first run at the Campus and then showed it second run at the Oklahoma. That is, the product we showed at the Campus first run and second run at the Oklahoma Theater.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What was that product, from what companies, what major companies?

A. That is in the '32, at the beginning of the '32—

1220 I mean the booking season of '32-33?

Q. Yes, the motion picture season of '32-33.

A. Let me see. May I look at my little slip?

Q. Yes, sure, if you made any notes, you may look at them.

Mr. COCHRAN. May I inquire a moment, your Honor please?

The COURT. Yes.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When was that prepared?

A. Beg pardon?

Q. When was that memoranda prepared?

A. What was it?

By the COURT:

Q. When did you prepare it?

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When?

A. Just before I came up here.

Q. By whom?

A. By me.

Q. From what?

A. From our contracts.

Q. Do you have the contracts with you?

A. No.

Mr. COCHRAN. We think the contracts would be the best evidence.

The WITNESS. They are not very good notes anyway.

Mr. COCHRAN. We think the contracts would be the 1221 best evidence, your Honor.

The WITNESS. I was afraid I would answer wrong. I am sure I am right, but I wasn't sure I would remember right.

The COURT. You may use that merely to refresh your memory.

The WITNESS. That was all. I just had the various years, and it is easy to forget that. In '32-33 we had Paramount product, first run, at the Campus.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And Columbia?

A. And Columbia.

Q. Then you played those same companies second run at the ——

A. (Interrupting.) Oklahoma.

Q. And the other major first run was played where?

A. Beg pardon?

Q. And the other major first run pictures were played where?

A. Were played at the Sooner and the University Theaters.

Q. Did they play second runs?

A. No, they didn't.

Q. Both of those houses were first run policies?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. Would you mark these contracts as plaintiff's next exhibits?

1222 (Plaintiff's Exhibit 281 for identification and 282 for identification were marked by the reporter.)

Q. I will show you these documents that have been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibits 281 and 282, respectively, and ask you if this No. 281 is the Columbia second run contract for the '32-33 season to which you referred?

A. Yes, it is.

Q. And 282 is the first run contract, Columbia deal, for the '32-33 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I show you these photostats that have been previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit P-42 for identification and Plaintiff's Exhibit P-44 for identification, and ask you if you recognize those as the first and second run Paramount contracts for the same season in the Campus and Oklahoma Theaters?

A. Yes, they are.

The COURT. The second is Paramount?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir, first and second run, Paramount.

The COURT. 281 and 282, Columbia?

Mr. WRIGHT. Those are first and second run Columbia. We will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 281 and 282 and Plaintiff's Exhibits P-42 and P-44.

1223 Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then for the next season, '33-34, do you recall what, if any major product you had on first run there?

A. We had Paramount. For '33-34, yes, we had Paramount.

Q. You had Paramount first and second run again?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How about Columbia?

A. We didn't have Columbia.

Q. Were you offered any Columbia for '33-34?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have any other major first run besides Paramount that season?

A. No, no contract. The cutbacks were the only thing.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. What was your last answer?

A. No other first runs unless they were cutbacks; no other contracts.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. No other season contracts?

A. No other season contracts.

Q. Calling your attention to the '34-35 season, can you tell us what major product you had for that season?

A. I believe we had RKO and United Artists in 1934-35.

Q. You had no Paramount for that season?

A. No, sir.

Q. First or second run?

1224 A. No, we didn't.

Q. Was it offered you on third run?

A. No, it wasn't.

Q. I show you 228 and 229, both of which are dated September 4, 1934, and ask you if you recognize those as the first and second season contracts made with RKO for the '34-35 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then I will show you this RKO contract marked as Exhibit 214, dated June 19, 1935, and ask you if you recognize that as a contract you made for some third run, RKO pictures for that season.

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibits 212, 213, and 214.

The COURT. Then you said 228 and 229.

Mr. COCHRAN. 212, 213 and 214.

The COURT. You said 228 and 229.

Mr. COCHRAN. He probably did because these contracts are numbered 228 and 229. Those are the contract numbers.

Mr. WRIGHT. I may have given out the wrong number but they are exhibit numbers 212, 213 and 214, respectively.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

1225 By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you have the RKO, first run, for the '35-36 season?

A. No, we didn't.

Q. Was it offered to you for that season?

A. No, sir.

Q. What, if any, first run major product did you have for the '35-36 season?

A. United Artists and Universal, I believe.

By the COURT:

Q. What was the first one?

A. United Artists and Universal.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You also had second run Universal for that year?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you recognize these contracts marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibits 283 and 284 respectively, as the first and second run deals you had with Universal for the '35-36 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. I offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 283 and 284.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you tell us what, if any, major first run product you had there for the '36-37 season?

A. United Artists.

Q. Did you have some Universal too?

A. I don't believe we did.

1226 Q. I will show you these contracts marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibits 285 and 286, and ask you if you recognize those as the second run contracts made with Universal for the '36-37 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Those contracts call, I believe, for twenty-four features?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know whether all of the features released by Universal for that season were offered to you first run?

A. I don't believe they were.

The COURT. What is the answer?

A. I don't believe they were.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you know?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know whether or not you were offered a full season's deal with Universal for the '36-37 product, or whether you were just offered the features that are covered by these agreements marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits 285 and 286?

A. I do know we were offered those features that are covered by that agreement. I don't think that was all—I mean I don't believe that was all the product.

Q. It wasn't a season's deal?

A. It wasn't a season's deal.

Q. What I am asking whether you were offered a 1227 season's deal?

A. No, we took all we were offered, because we ran short of pictures.

Q. You took all you were offered?

A. Yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you get any other pictures for '36-37? You stated you had United Artists.

A. Yes, sir, United Artists, and this Universal.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You don't mean to say that was all the pictures you got for that year, do you?

A. All major product.

Q. On a season's deal?

A. On the season's deal.

Q. You don't mean to say you didn't license other pictures?

A. Beg pardon?

Q. You don't mean to say you didn't spot any?

A. There wasn't very many others that you could spot.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think we can proceed more orderly if we have the cross-examination in due course.

Mr. COCHRAN. Excuse me; I just had that in mind.

The COURT. Proceed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then, you also played United Artists' pictures that you play first run at the Campus on a succeeding run at the Oklahoma?

1228 A. Yes, sir.

Q. And during the years 1935 and '36, did you play any major product that the Griffith Theaters had in Norman, on first run?

A. No.

Mr. COCHRAN. Are you going back to '35-36?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I am talking about the years '35 and '36, the calendar years.

A. No, we didn't.

Q. Did Griffith, during those years play the major product that it used on first run there on a second run in either of its theaters?

A. No.

Mr. COCHRAN. What was the answer?

The COURT. No.

A. No, unless it was just—I mean not as a policy, unless it was just one or two, or something like that, but not—— (hesitating).

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And was a season's deal for any of that product second run offered to you during those years?

A. No, sir.

Q. And did you make any efforts to secure that product second run for your theaters?

A. Oh, yes. Yes, we did.

Q. Can you tell us in a general way what you did
1229 to try to get it?

A. Well, with each buying season we would contact all major companies.

Mr. COCHRAN. Talk a little louder.

The COURT. Talk a little louder. These attorneys are entitled to hear you.

A. Each buying season, we would contact all the film companies to try to buy pictures. Each season we would do that, we would step in and ask them when they were going to sell us product, when they were going to sell us second run. We have done that ever since we have been in business.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And during those years did they ever take an application from you for second run, a second run deal?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then, calling your attention to the year 1937, can you tell us what, if anything, happened with reference to the opening of another theater there?

A. In 1937 the Varsity Theater was opened.

1230 Q. That was opened by whom?

A. Griffith.

Q. Where was that located?

A. Across the street from the Sooner.

By the COURT:

Q. Was that downtown?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Was that a new theater or an old one that had been remodeled?

A. It was an old theater remodeled.

Q. Do you know what the former name of it had been?

A. I believe it had been the University before and they built the larger house down the street and named it the Varsity.

Q. Do you know how long it had been approximately, it had been operated since it was opened as the Varsity?

A. It opened in 1937 and they closed the Varsity in 1929 when they built the University; probably '29 or '30; '30 is probably nearer right.

Q. It had been closed for several years prior to the reopening in 1937?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember when the remodeling began?

A. For the Varsity?

Q. Yes.

A. In the summer of '37.

1231 Q. Do you remember when it opened?

A. I believe in '37.

Q. During the year '37 were you able to secure any second runs of the major product that Griffith was playing first run?

A. Yes, we were, in '37.

Q. That was the first year?

A. That was the first year we had ever been able to.

Q. Then when the Varsity opened what sort of a policy did it play on?

A. The first run pictures and B pictures.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I can't understand you.

A. They ran first run pictures at the Varsity.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then after the Varsity was opened did the other Griffith houses get to play any major product, second run?

A. Yes. Then they began to play the A's second run after we had started the A's.

Q. The A pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By that you mean what?

A. Big pictures.

Q. The best box office attractions?

A. The best box office attractions.

Q. Now, during the year 1937, who was your at-

1232 torney in Norman?

A. Mr. T. R. Benedum.

Q. During that year did he report to you a conversation that he had had with one or more of the Griffiths?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was with reference to what subject?

A. Well, his report was——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that. Mr. Benedum probably will be available.

Mr. WRIGHT. This is laying the foundation. Mr. Benedum, I think, will testify at a later date. Don't undertake to say what he told you. I just wanted to get the subject matter.

By the COURT:

Q. Was that with reference to the theater business in Norman?

A. Yes, sir. That we wouldn't have product if we didn't go in with them.

The COURT. Don't state the substance of it.

Mr. DUDLEY. We move her answer be stricken out.

The COURT. The motion will be sustained and the answer will be stricken as not responsive and hearsay.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. For the '37-38 season—by the way, during all of these seasons you have continued to operate both the Oklahoma and the Campus Theaters?

A. Yes, sir.

1233 Q. And the Griffiths operated the other theaters you have named in addition to the Varsity in 1937?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So, during the '37-38 season there were five theaters operating?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell us what, if any, major first run product you had during that season?

A. That is '37-38?

Q. Yes.

A. United Artists.

Q. Do you know whether you had all or only a part of United Artists?

A. I believe we only had a part of it.

Mr. COCHRAN. They have introduced the contracts for these other companies but I notice they have not introduced any United Artists.

Mr. WRIGHT. The United Artists contracts are 15 or 20 for each season.

Mr. COCHRAN. It makes a big difference. I don't care whether he introduces the contract in evidence just so he produces them and shows what she had there instead of having this witness try to say from memory, because United Artists licenses its product separately, so it is hard for any witness to say what they had of United Artists.

1234 Mr. WRIGHT. I will have this document marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 287.

Mr. COCHRAN. For the benefit of the record, the objection is made in regard to United Artists which goes to each of the years she has testified to about here, for the reason counsel has under stipulation in this case, United Artists contracts which show just what product the witness had instead of leaving it up to the witness to try to remember back to '32 and '33, as to whether she had part or all of that product. It is just not the best evidence.

The COURT. Overruled for the present.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Mrs. Berry, I will show you this tabulation marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit 287, and ask you if that is an accurate listing of the major contracts that you had for the Campus and Oklahoma Theaters there in Norman during the seasons of '34-35 through '38-39?

A. Yes, this is. We have a copy of all this. These are contracts for the Oklahoma and Campus.

1235 Q. By referring to that document there can you tell how many United Artists first run pictures you bought for the '37-38 season?

A. Yes, sir, you could.

Mr. DUDLEY. If the Court please, we object to that question in that form, asking her to take that document.

The COURT. Now, gentlemen, what we want are the facts. Can't you examine those documents and if they meet with your requirement that it complies with the stipulation, I don't see any necessity for encumbering the record.

Mr. COCHRAN. Your Honor please, the difficulty is this. You must remember we don't have possession of these documents. Counsel produced such documents and pulled such documents as they wanted and had them photostated; we examined those before the trial and stipulated in regard to those documents, but that doesn't cover the various documents that she has referred to here, and the best evidence will be the stipulation on those covered by the stipulation, and where they are not covered by the stipulation, to produce the contracts, such as these. We don't care anything about having them introduced, but they can be referred to and checked, instead of having a tabulation that somebody made.

The COURT. Do you have any objection to submitting the contracts for inspection?

Mr. WRIGHT. To the extent that she has them, we 1236 have no objection to them being submitted at all. All I am attempting to do at the moment is establish the absence of certain contracts. I don't know how we can do that by submitting the others.

By the COURT:

Q. Let me ask a question. This exhibit which you hold in your hand, does that contain a complete tabulation of all the product that you had beginning with 1934 and ending with the 1939 season?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think she previously identified that as being a list only of the major product.

The WITNESS. Yes.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't think it purports to show all the contracts that were made with all companies, only the major companies.

The WITNESS. Just major companies.

The COURT. Does your stipulation cover the major contracts or all contracts?

Mr. COCHRAN. The stipulation covered the contracts of eight companies that they pulled and presented to us and asked us if we would stipulate without having them bring the witnesses to prove those. That is the only thing we have to check by. This is a tabulation here prepared by somebody, we don't know who, and we have no way of checking those with the contracts because the contracts are not in our possession.

1237 The COURT. At this time, gentlemen, we will take a short recess, and I suggest that you check those and see if you can't stipulate these things. I don't see the necessity of taking the time to introduce in evidence those on which you can all agree.

Mr. DUDLEY. Your Honor, before a stipulation on those matters can be arrived at, the contracts would have to be here and made available to us so we can check them against the compilation.

Mr. COCHRAN. Another thing——

The COURT. (Interrupting.) You check those during the recess.

Mr. COCHRAN. We will be glad to check it.

The COURT. Check it during the recess period and then we will see where we are. We will take a short recess.

(At the conclusion of the recess the witness resumed the stand and the following proceedings were had and recorded:)

Mr. COCHRAN. Your Honor, I have gone through this list, and the only material against which I could check that is in the photostats which were taken from the United Artists' files, and the Government didn't see fit to select a single United Artist contract, and, therefore, there is nothing that I can check this against. The Government had access to the distributors' files and still have access to 1238 them, and that would be the best evidence, and the only thing that I could stipulate to is that it is simply a typewritten tabulation and it is not the best evidence.

Mr. WRIGHT. It doesn't make any difference whether counsel wants to stipulate this or not. All I was using it for was to refresh the witness' recollection to clear up the fact as to whether or not she had a full season deal with United Artists for the '31-38 season.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you have any record yourself which will show the contracts with the various distributors which you had during this period from '32 to '38?

A. Well, of course, we have those contracts in '32 to '38, the ones we have shown.

Q. Well, have you any other than those that have been introduced? What does your own record in your own office show?

A. We have some more contracts.

Mr. WRIGHT. This is her record.

A. That is our record.

Mr. WRIGHT. 287 is ours.

The COURT. Did you make that up yourself?

A. I had my son make it up.

Mr. DUDLEY. The trouble about that record, it is a typewritten record. It deals with certain years but it 1239 certainly could not be binding upon us. It is some memorandum of hers taken from purported contracts which she evidently had which should be presented here so we can check them against her memorandum.

Mr. WRIGHT. I am not offering the memorandum in evidence. I merely used it for the sole purpose to refresh her recollection on this '37-38 United Artists deal. I think if she was permitted to go ahead and answer the question——

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Mrs. Berry, can you tell us whether or not you had a full season's first run deal with United Artists for the '37-38 season?

A. For the '37-38 we had United Artists.

Q. I don't think you got the question. I asked you whether you had a full season's deal with United Artists for that season or just some pictures.

A. Just some pictures.

Q. Do you recall whether you were offered a full season's deal from them for that season?

A. No, sir.

Q. You were not?

A. No, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you know how many pictures you got from United Artists for the '37–38 season?

A. Offhand I don't remember. I can find out by 1240 looking at the records but offhand I don't remember.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you have a record of that?

A. Yes, sir, I should think we would have.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, during the '37–38 season, as I understood your testimony, the only product you had first run was from United Artists pictures, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have during that season some major product, second run, that had played first run at the Griffith houses?

A. In '37–38, yes, sir.

Q. Calling your attention to the year 1938, can you tell us what, if anything, happened then with reference to your occupancy of the Campus Theater?

A. Our building was leased out from under us.

The COURT. I didn't hear you.

A. The Campus Theater was leased.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. By whom?

A. To Griffith.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike that as not being the best evidence, and the witness can state what the facts were in regard to that transaction. The records disclose what happened in regard to the matter and when her lease and so forth expires. As I understood her, she said
1241 that it was leased out from under her. Now, we submit that is a conclusion and she should state what happened in regard to the matter.

The COURT. Just state what the facts were in regard to that matter.

Mr. COCHRAN. And the transactions with the various parties. She had no transaction with Griffith in regard to that at all.

The COURT. Just state what happened between you and your landlord.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You may state first when the theater closed. How long did you operate the theater in 1938, the Campus?

A. The Campus closed when the University closed. We closed the Campus Theater for the summer. We have always done that.

Q. You had always done that?

A. We had been out there for ten years and during the Easter vacation and during Thanksgiving and summer vacation we closed the theater because it would not pay to operate it as we had only been able to obtain a lease from year to year on the building because there had been rumors of oil there and so forth, so that was the best lease we could get. We had been there for 10 years and our lease was up in August, and I don't remember the exact 1242 date, but before time for our lease to be up we got notice to move.

By the COURT:

Q. You were not able to re-lease the property?

A. No, sir.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then what happened to the Campus Theater after that lease expired? Was it operated?

A. No. Our equipment was still there until October.

Q. Until October, '38?

A. Until October, '38.

Q. Then you removed your equipment?

A. We removed our equipment and stored it.

Q. Was it operated then?

A. No.

Q. How long did it remain closed?

A. I am not positive about the date it opened. I believe it was dark for three years.

Q. Do you remember approximately the year it reopened? You think it was either '40 or '41?

A. It was either '40 or '41 but I don't remember which year.

Q. Then when it was reopened it was operated by whom?

A. By Griffith.

Q. Under the same or another name?

A. Under the name of the Boomer Theater.

1243 Q. So that at the beginning of the 1938–39 season, you had only one theater in operation?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that was the Oklahoma?

A. That was the Oklahoma.

Q. And Griffith was then operating, was it the Sooner, and what else?

A. '38–39?

Q. Yes.

A. The Sooner, the Varsity, and the University, and then the Boomer.

Q. Well, in '38–39?

A. Excuse me, not the Boomer, no. It was closed.

Q. Then during that season, what, if any, major first run product do you have for the Oklahoma?

The COURT. '38–39.

Mr. WRIGHT. '38–39.

A. RKO.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You had RKO?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You also bought it second run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have any other major first run product?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then were you playing major second runs af-
1244 ter the first runs in the Griffith houses?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that the same product that you played second run after them in '37–38, or was there any difference?

Mr. DUDLEY. If the Court please, that is highly leading, and we object to the leading questions. Let her state the facts.

The COURT. Read the question.

(Question read by reporter.)

The COURT. Overruled and exception allowed. You may answer.

A. There was a difference.

The COURT. I can't hear you.

A. There was a difference in the product. When we first began to get second runs that they had run first run, we had some good product; within a short time afterward we got second runs but they were B product.

By the COURT:

Q. They were what?

A. They were lower class pictures, B product, second run; we didn't get the A second run.

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, that answer just shows the inaccuracy of permitting this type of testimony instead of requiring the production of the contracts. Now, the contracts for those various years will show the 1245 product she got, and it will show whether they were A pictures or B pictures. That is, that information will be disclosed. Here we have an answer to the question that is not the best evidence, and it is a material question in this case, according to the Government's contention, and we move to strike that answer of the witness because the contracts are the best evidence, and they will disclose what she got during each of those years.

A. Well, we would have all of these contracts, we would have every one of those.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you have those contracts?

A. We would be able to produce those contracts.

Q. Do you have them with you?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't think the contracts, as counsel suggests, will disclose the quality of the pictures. They will simply say so many pictures with certain production numbers, from these companies. There is no dispute, of course, that she got the product. The only question here is as to the quality of the second runs that she did get, and that is something, I think, that may only be elicited from the witness. I don't think that will be established by offering in evidence these contracts.

The COURT. I will overrule the objection on this condition, that you submit the contracts covering that 1246 to counsel for the defendants.

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, that doesn't answer the proposition, because the contracts are in the stipulation, and we know from those contracts that during the years 1936–37 and '37–38, and so forth, that she says she commenced to get second run contracts, we know that on certain of those major companies, if not all, that she was not licensed the full run, and it is the same situation that was explained by Johnny Jones at Shawnee, where she was licensed, for instance, by Metro, she was licensed twenty-two pictures, second run, and there are certain numbers, then they have contracts already in evidence showing what was licensed to Griffith that year, also for Fox, if any pictures were licensed, it will show the number of the pictures, but those contracts will definitely show she was not licensed any differently in the first years to those in the second year from Metro, Fox, Paramount, certainly those three, and Warners, certainly those three and, therefore, this is highly incompetent evidence, and not only that, but misleading and places a burden on us that we are not required to carry. Counsel pursued a method which was not objected to by us, in examining the witnesses from Shawnee. That showed what the situation was from the contract form. Now, he attempts to eliminate a situation which was unfavorable to him there by having 1247 the witness supply the data.

Mr. WRIGHT. There is no dispute, if the Court

please, what the contracts show. For the purpose of cross-examination he can have all the contracts she has. I am merely attempting to show something that the contracts do not show on their face.

Mr. COCHRAN. It is not for me to make his case on cross-examintion or to cross-examine on something that he has developed in a proper way. This witness is attempting to show that she didn't obtain in '38–39 the same type of contract on the major product that she obtained in '37.

The WITNESS. May I say something?

The COURT. Objection overruled at this time, because I think you can get the information on cross-examination. Perhaps you are right. But as to whether or not a picture is an A picture or a B picture, I don't know. I assume that one in the business will be in a position to know.

The WITNESS. That is what we have contracts on, but I was going to say, when they sell you pictures, they don't say they are any good; you have to know that.

Mr. DUDLEY. Now, if your Honor please, we object to her voluntary statement about it, and move to strike it.

The COURT. It will be stricken. You may proceed.

Mr. WRIGHT. What was the last question?

1248 Mr. COCHRAN. And I would like to have the answer that I objected to shown, to show the type of answer she was making.

The COURT. Read the question.

(Previous questions and answers read by the reporter.)

The COURT. She answered the question and you moved to strike it. Overruled and exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. With reference to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer specifically, did you play all of the Metro product, second run, there in your theaters in '38–39, and the succeeding seasons, or just a part?

A. Just a part of them.

The COURT. A little louder, please.

A. Just a part of them.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You had what was called a split?

A. A split contract.

Q. With the companies?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of the second run Metro pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell how the split was made?

A. Let's see, you are talking about '38-39?

1249 Q. Yes.

A. They would take part of them—let me see—wait—I believe that is the time we would take part of them and they would take part of them.

Q. As the pictures were released they would pick one and you would get the next one or how was it?

A. I am not positive about that, as far back as '38-39. I haven't done the booking and buying, I have just been there and know what we have.

Q. You know it was split?

A. Yes.

Q. But you don't know just how it was split. Then as to Warner and Fox and Paramount second run—strike that—as I understand it, you didn't have a full deal with the second runs of any of those companies?

Q. No, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the leading questions. The witness seems to be able to answer.

The COURT. It is slightly leading but I think she has covered it in her testimony.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know how the particular part of the product you were to play there was determined as to those companies?

A. Well, as I say, along about '38-39 they got the A's, they got the upper bracket and we got the lower bracket.

1250 Q. Were you offered any of the upper bracket?

A. No, or we would have taken them.

Q. By those companies. You may cross examine.

By the COURT:

Q. You dealt entirely with the distributors, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Had no dealings with the Griffiths?

A. No, sir.

Q. You don't know anything about what their contracts were except what somebody told you?

A. Well, only I know—we know our pictures and we try to get the best we can and what we can and I know we can't get them, and of course we watch what is being shown. I mean we know what product is being shown.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't think I offered Plaintiff's Exhibits 285 and 286. Those were Universal contracts. I offer those now.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

By the COURT:

Q. In 1935-36 season you said you had the first and second run of Universal. Did you have any other pictures that year? Did you have United Artists that year?

A. '35–36 we had United Artists.

Q. Was that first or second run?

A. First and second run.

1251 Q. And in '36–37 you had United Artists first and second?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the same thing in '37–38?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you have any Universal in '37–38?

A. I believe we had some Universal in '37–38; part of a contract. I am not positive.

Q. Did you have any United Artists in '38–39?

A. No United Artists in '38–39. The pictures we ran at the Oklahoma were the '38 contract. I mean left over from the Campus, second run.

Q. Did you try to get first run for your downtown theater?

A. Yes, we did.

The COURT. You may cross examine.

Mr. WRIGHT. There is one more question I want to ask you.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. When the Campus was reopened by Griffith as the Boomer, what sort of policy did it play on?

A. Oh, they ran A, second run, at the Boomer when they opened it.

Q. Of the major companies?

A. Of the major companies.

Q. That is all.

1252 Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. How long since you have licensed and booked pictures for your theater in Norman?

A. How long since I have myself?

Q. Read the question.

(Question read.)

A. You mean how long since I have done it myself?

Q. I asked you how long since you have done it?

A. I haven't made contracts for sometime. I have not contracted for the pictures myself. I usually have had someone else do that.

Q. How long since?

A. Not wholly by myself, no.

Q. Did you ever participate with anyone in doing it?
A. Yes.
Q. In the licensing of the pictures?
A. Yes.
Q. How long since?
A. I think in '37–38. I have always talked it over with them. I think as late as '37–38 I did.
Q. You talked it over with whom?
A. Between '35 and '38 Mr. Letherman was our manager.
Q. I asked you with whom did you talk the matter over and you said you talked the matter over with someone. Did you negotiate with any distributor yourself?
1253 A. Oh, no.
Q. You negotiated none of the contracts with the distributors?
A. I did with RKO. I talked to them.
Q. Did you carry on negotiations with any of the other distributors?
A. Well, I think some of them. I couldn't name which ones. I think with RKO, when my son was with me.
Q. How was that?
A. I think the last time I was in the office I talked with them on this last contract we had with them.
Q. In 1945?
A. No. The last contract we had from RKO, first run, I think was in '41. I probably was in the office then to sign the contract and my son was with me, I think, if I remember.
Q. You spoke of not having licensed any pictures from United Artists' product full season product after a certain period. Don't you know, Mrs. Berry, that United Artists never did license a full season's product at any one time but they licensed product and pictures separately?
A. Yes, I knew they licensed separately.
Q. And contracts you made from the beginning with the United Artists were made at the various times during the year?
1254 A. Yes, I knew that.
Q. So at no time from the time you started operating the theater at Norman did you at any time license a full season's product of United Artists?
Mr. WRIGHT. Are you asking whether she licensed it at one time or whether she had the full product?

By the WITNESS:

A. If we had the full product, you mean, by United Artists?

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Yes, for the full season.

A. I am quite sure we did in the early years we were there. In the show business we felt like United Artists was ours because we ran their product. That was our product, and I think we had all their contracts along at first.

Q. Do you have the United Artists contracts, any of them?

A. I don't have them with me.

Q. Have you preserved them?

A. I will have to ask my son about that. I don't know. He files those things away. We probably have some of them or all of them.

Q. Who has kept the books for your theater?

A. The last few years my son has. I used to.

Q. How long has it been since you kept them?

A. I believe he has been doing most of the book
1255 work since '38.

Q. When Mr. Letherman was manager did he keep the books?

A. I kept the books then.

Q. You spoke of playing in 1938 and 1939, playing some United Artists pictures from the previous year's contracts. Now don't you recall that in the playing of the pictures which you licensed from United Artists in '37–38, there were a number of pictures which you did not play?

A. Yes,. because you see we closed down. They were not released in time for us to run them before we closed that spring. We always had that situation.

Q. Is it not a fact that delinquency went along until United Artists sent its claim against you to its attorney in Norman?

A. No.

Q. You know Mr. Grimm down there, do you not, an attorney?

A. I do.

Q. Don't you know he took up with you the claim of United Artists for that unplayed product?

A. No, I don't know that.

Q. For the '37–38 season?

A. I didn't know that.

1256 Q. Mr. Benedum was your attorney during that period, wasn't he?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Don't you know he at that time was handling the claim of several of these distributors for unplayed delinquent product for you?

A. Not several.

Q. Beg your pardon?

A. If any of this United Artists product was not run it was because it was not released. You see we were closed during Easter and during the summer season. If it wasn't released we couldn't run it.

Q. How did you close at Easter? How long did you close?

A. The Campus was closed during the Easter vacation and during the summer vacation.

Q. You were still running the Oklahoma, weren't you?

A. Yes, sir, but we had paid too much for those first run pictures. Our admission prices at the Campus were more than they were downtown, and we had paid too much for those pictures to run them at a second run house, where we had a second run policy.

Q. But you didn't attempt to change your policy downtown and run the pictures first run down there?

1257 A. Not at that minute because we had to have other pictures to go with it before we could change our policy.

Q. Don't you know it is a fact, on those '37–38 pictures that were not played that you made a settlement with United Artists on a basis of 50 cents on the dollar, after the claim had been placed in the hands of an attorney?

A. No. I didn't know the claim had really been placed in the hands of an attorney.

Q. Don't you know that on February 26, 1938, United Artists took up with you at your theater the matter of your delinquency on eleven first run pictures and eight second run pictures?

A. No, I don't know.

Q. Weren't you delinquent on February 26, 1938, on product which you had licensed in '36–37?

A. I didn't know that, but one thing——

Q. Just answer my question, please.

A. No.

Q. Will you say you were not delinquent on United Artists?

A. We were delinquent on some of their product. I will say that.

Q. Between '36–37 season and February, '38?

A. '36–37—aren't you talking about '37–38 product that we were delinquent on?

1258 Q. I am talking about '36–37 product, eleven first run and eight second run.

A. Probably one of those was the '36. We were delinquent on '37–38 product because, as I say, we were closed down and the prices were too high, and then when we were pondering what to do about it——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the voluntary statement.

The COURT. Well, let her make the explanation.

A. When we were wondering what to do about it, we knew we were delinquent, and what we could do at that price, Griffith began running United Artists pictures at their houses. We were released we felt like then. They were running the high priced pictures and we felt like we were released then from our contract. As far as them having anything in the hands of an attorney, I never dreamed of any such thing.

Q. Talking about Griffith playing United Artists A pictures at their theater, the pictures which they were playing were pictures for the '38–39 season, weren't they?

A. They were probably playing them that season, current season, after they ran pictures we had under contract when we were pondering what to do about it.

Q. What pictures did they run which you had under contract?

A. I would have to look that up to be sure. I know they ran pictures we had under contract.

1259 Mr. COCHRAN. I move to strike that answer.

A. We can find out easily. We can look back at the books.

Mr. COCHRAN. We can't check a thing of that kind.

The COURT. No, but she can check it. Her books are not far away.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you know that on May 10, 1939, that Vitagraph had a claim against you in the amount of $531.50 for product that you had received to date or play or pay for?

A. No. How would anyone else know and we would not? I didn't know that, no.

Q. Do you recall receiving a letter from the attorneys for Vitagraph, Keaton, Wells & Johnston, addressed to you dated May 10, 1939, calling your attention to that delinquency and requesting payments?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you have the correspondence which you received during the year 1939?

A. I should have but I don't remember anything like that.

Q. Were you familiar with the operation of the theater at Norman during the year 1931?

A. Yes, I should say. Of course, I didn't know everything about it.

1260 Q. Are you familiar with the fact that in that year a suit was filed by Universal for an amount which was alleged to be due for product which had been licensed and which had not been played or paid for, that suit being filed in the County Court of Cleveland County, Oklahoma?

A. You see Mr. Berry was living then. I did try to help around the theater but I didn't handle any of the business end then.

1261 Q. What was the date that your husband died?

A. April 11, 1932.

Q. He had operated the Oklahoma for how long?

A. He opened the Oklahoma in July of '30.

Q. When did he open the Campus Theater?

A. Well, the Campus had been operating, I mean he operated the Campus from '38, began that—in '28, I mean.

Q. Do you mean the Campus was opened before the Oklahoma was?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When he opened the Oklahoma in July of 1930, who was operating theaters in Norman at that time?

A. When he opened the Oklahoma in 1930?

Q. The Campus in 1928.

A. I think Griffith, that was the year, I am not sure, I wasn't there in 1928, but Mr. Berry was; I think the Griffiths went in that year, didn't they?

Q. Where were you in 1928?

A. I lived in Oklahoma City.

Q. When did you go to Norman?

A. The fall of '29.

Q. So you are not familiar with the situation until the fall of '29, is that correct?

A. Yes, not too much, I am not.

Q. When you first became acquainted with the 1262 theater situation in Norman, what were the names of the theaters that were then operating?

A. The Sooner, the University, and the Campus.

Q. Now, the University that you speak of at that time was located where?

A. Across the street from the Sooner, I believe, in '29.

Q. That isn't the University that you speak of in later years?

A. No.

Q. And the Sooner was located where?

A. In its present location.

Q. That is, on Main Street?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, in July of 1930, your husband opened another theater known as the Oklahoma, located where, with reference to the Sooner?

A. On Main Street.

Q. With reference to the Sooner.

A. Well, the Sooner is on Main Street and the Oklahoma is on Main Street, I mean downtown in Norman.

Q. Are they on the same side of the street?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How far are they from each other?

A. About, let me see, a block and a half.

1263 Q. Do you recall that in 1930 Griffith opened a new theater which had just been built, called the New University?

A. Yes.

Q. Where was that located?

A. About a half a block, not a half a block, east of our theater, the Oklahoma. It isn't a half a block.

Q. Now, you spoke of the old University then being vacant for a time, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, do you know whether or not that was vacated and abandoned for theater purposes and the Griffiths' lease wasn't renewed on it?

A. No, I wouldn't know. I——

Q. You wouldn't know?

A. No.

Q. Do you know whether or not the Griffiths acquired the title to the real estate on which that theater was located at a foreclosure proceeding on July 6, 1937, do you know anything about that?

A. No; I guess I heard they did at the time.

Q. Well, was it about July of 1937 that you say that theater was opened again?

A. It was under construction, I mean being remodeled, in July, and opened sometime in the fall.

Q. It was remodeled and opened up in the fall of 1937?

1264 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Under what name?

A. Under the name of the Varsity.

Q. So, after that theater was opened Griffith was operating the Sooner, the new University, and the old University under the name of Varsity?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Could you tell us the type of pictures that were being played in each of those Griffith theaters after the Varsity was reopened, I mean, after the Varsity was opened? The Sooner was their A house, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was their best theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The University after, the new University after the Varsity was opened, first operated under what kind of policy, if you know?

A. Well, before the Varsity was opened, they ran first runs.

Q. B pictures?

A. At the University.

Q. That was a B house?

A. Yes, of course, it would be a B house.

Q. Operating on B product and runs?

A. Yes, sir.

1265 Q. And then after the Varsity was opened, what policy did the Varsity follow immediately after it opened?

A. Well, they, of course, they ran their B pictures; they ran some awfully good ones, and they ran their B pictures, and they had enough B's, good B's, to run at the University. Of course, they ran good westerns at the University Theater too.

Q. Isn't it a fact that after the Varsity was opened that in either the University or the Varsity some second run pictures were played?

A. It was very few—let's see—they began to pick out some A's after he opened the Varsity and ran them, I will say that.

Q. Wasn't the Varsity originally opened on a second run policy?

A. Do you mean their opening picture was a second run?

Q. I mean when they started to running it, as their regular policy they played second run pictures immediately after opening?

A. I didn't think they opened up, I mean make a second run policy, I don't believe so. Of course, they have run some second runs there, some A second runs, or some reissues.

Q. Then wasn't that policy changed and the Varsity became their B house and the University their second 1266 run house?

A. That was probably the case after they got to running more second run pictures, that was the case after they got to really running second run pictures, that was the case.

Q. Wasn't that the season of '37–38?

A. Yes, sir, I will say yes; that was their policy then in that season. But you see, that was after they got to running more second runs.

Q. Now, this lease which your husband had on the Campus Theater was with Mr. S. C. Ambrister, he owned the property, didn't he?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That lease was for how long originally, do you know?

A. Well, I, I don't know when Mr. Berry was living how the lease stood; after he died it was a year to year lease. That was the only way he would lease it, because there were rumors of oil, and just from one year to the next.

Q. Well, along in 1938 your lease was expiring in August of that year, was it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And isn't it a fact that you had had considerable difficulty with Mr. Ambrister for a period of more than a year about that piece of property?

A. Well, I wouldn't consider it difficulty, only 1267 that he had promised to fix the roof, the leaks, and various things.

Q. You had a lawsuit about it, didn't you?

A. Prior to that time? No.

Q. Yes, didn't you have a lawsuit in which he sued you for the rent?

A. Not before our lease was up, not before the building was leased.

Q. Prior to 1938?

A. Beg pardon? No.

Q. You were delinquent in your rent prior to the expiration of your lease, were you not?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, that calls for a conclusion.

A. No, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. As to whether she was delinquent.

The COURT. If she knows.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. All right, there was rent that had not been paid, wasn't there?

A. Well, you see when our lease expired there was rent that hadn't been paid; you see we closed down in May, and of course, we paid rent during the summertime, and that rent wasn't paid; we would usually pay that all for the summer.

Q. Isn't it a fact that long prior to the summer
1268 you had had unpaid rent and that Mr. Ambrister agreed with you that he would make a settlement and deduct a part of the amount that was due, if you would go ahead and keep the rent paid up in the future, and that you paid after that settlement was made, you paid for a couple of months, and then failed to pay up promptly; isn't that a fact?

A. I—I don't, I, I don't remember about any settlement, but I do know we were trying to get him to fix the roof, and that was the only trouble I ever had with him at all. We had spent about——

Q. (Interrupting.) Don't you know that Mr. Ambrister during a period of months prior to August 1938 contacted you frequently, and would make appointments with you to see him about that rent, and when he would come down there to see you you would not be there, don't you know that?

A. No.

Q. And didn't he, long prior to August, tell you repeatedly that when the contract was up for renewal, he would not consider renewing it?

A. No, sir.

Q. At all?

A. No, sir, he didn't tell me that.

Q. When the lease was up, he didn't renew it, is that correct?

A. No.

1269 Q. And at that time you owed a considerable amount of rent, did you not?

A. Not considerable, no, nuh-huh.

Q. Do you remember how much it was?

A. I think it would be probably the summer, probably two or three summer months; it wasn't so very much.

Q. How much was the rent per month?

A. I believe it was a hundred and a quarter, wasn't it? I don't remember those things exactly. I believe it was a hundred and a quarter.

Q. Wasn't that matter placed in the hands of attorneys and finally Mr. Benedum made a settlement of that claim by getting them to agree to take your note?

A. That wasn't until way after our building was leased and way after we had our notice to move, and before that we had spent two thousand dollars remodeling the building, the show, and had the equipment, had workmen out there going over the equipment, before we got our notice to move, and then away after that got our notice after our lease was up, I met that attorney.

Q. And gave a note for the rent that had not been paid prior to that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Isn't it a fact that prior to August 1, 1938, that you had moved out of that building?

1270 A. No.

Q. And that all of the equipment had been taken out, and that you had also had the wiring in the building torn out?

A. Before when?

Q. Before August 1, 1938?

A. No, we didn't move anything until October, until way after we had our notice to move, we didn't move a thing. I had a man out there all summer, and he was then out there working after we had our notice to move and our lease wasn't up until August.

Q. Do you now say that Mr. Ambrister hadn't notified you prior to the expiration of that lease that he would not consider renewing your lease under any circumstances?

A. No, he hadn't. We got a notice thirty days before time, or something like that, and Ambrister didn't deliver that. That was the first I knew of it. We had been there for ten years.

Q. Beg pardon?

A. We had been there for ten years. Sometimes we almost starved.

Q. The relation between you and Mr. Ambrister for that period, during 1938 up until August 1st, wasn't good at all, was it?

A. Why, yes, I would say it was all right. The only

1271 thing, I hadn't talked to Mr. Ambrister very much, only the last talk I had, he agreed to fix the roof, to remodel—to repair the building, and that is the only unpleasant conversation I had ever had with him.

Q. Then you were not having difficulties all the time?

A. No.

Q. During 1938, about the payment of the rent?

A. No.

The Court. At this time, gentlemen, we will recess until two o'clock p. m.

(Whereupon, court recesses until two o'clock p. m.)

1272 Proceedings

2:00 o'clock p. m.

Mrs. Juanita Berry, recalled, further testified:

Cross-examination (con't by Mr. Cochran):

Q. When was the Boomer Theater opened?

A. In the fall of 1940, I believe.

Q. After it opened were the theaters that were operating in Norman, the Sooner, University, the Varsity, the Boomer and the Oklahoma?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are all of those still operating?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was your statement about the product of the United Artists which you licensed for the season of '36–37?

A. We had United Artists in '36–37.

Q. I asked you, what did you say about how much of it you had.

A. You mean did I say whether or not we had the whole contract?

Q. Did you say how many pictures you had first run?

A. I didn't say because I don't have that in my mind, the exact number, no.

Q. You don't have it on your memorandum?

1273 A. Yes, we do; not on this memorandum. We have it on that information you have there.

Q. Will you take that folder and produce for us the United Artists contracts which you had for the 1936–37 season.

A. Look through this and find the United Artists contracts for '36–37?

Q. Yes.

A. I hope these are in order.

Q. Mr. Wright says they are in order. I think that is true.

A. Are these yours you put together?

Q. Mr. Wright put them together and he says they are in chronological order and I am satisfied that is true.

Mr. WRIGHT. Those contracts are merely all of those that were produced. I don't know that those are all the contracts.

A. Look through each one of these and tell you whether each one of these are ours?

The COURT. I think if you will take them one at a time you will get along faster.

1274 Mr. COCHRAN. Please marked these as exhibits. Here are several on one date, they are placed together; shall we mark them separately?

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't care; you may put them all together, if you want to. Do these go on that date?

Mr. COCHRAN. They are another date.

(Defendant's Exhibits 12 to 29 for identification, inclusive, were then marked by the reporter.)

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Defendants' Exhibit 12, consisting of four contracts, with United Artists, and ask you if those are contracts which the Oklahoma Theater had with United Artists, played in the year 1936?

The COURT. For what season?

Mr. COCHRAN. I can't tell the season, but I assume it would be the '36-37 season, but I can't tell. We will see when we offer them.

Mr. WRIGHT. What is the date of the application?

Mr. COCHRAN. January 4, 1936, but some of them are first run and some are second run.

Q. Are these contracts which the Oklahoma Theater had with United Artists, dated that date?

A. Yes, sir, they are.

The COURT. I can't hear the witness.

A. Yes, sir, they are.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants'
1275 Exhibit No. 12, the first page of which is a contract with United Artists for one picture, "Thunders in the East", for the Oklahoma Theater, Norman, for three days, and preview, dated 1-4-36. That's the date of the application, and the approval is written so I can't tell what it is, it is perforated, and you would have to be able to see it, or read it through a glass, I imagine, for second run. It doesn't show on its face the season. The second page is for the picture "Splendor" at the Oklahoma Theater, four days and preview; the date of the application is the same as the preceding one for second run. The third page is for the picture "Barbary Coast" four days and preview, dated January 4, 1936, second run; the fourth page is for the picture "Dark Angel", four days and preview, second run, dated January 4, 1936, for the Oklahoma Theater.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

1276 Mr. COCHRAN. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit No. 13 and ask you if that is a contract which was made with United Artists in January, 1936? Is that your signature?

A. Yes, by Mr. Letherman.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit 13.

Mr. WRIGHT. What is it?

Mr. COCHRAN. It is a picture, "Escape Me Never" dated January 23, 1936, for four days and preview, first run, for the Campus Theater, Norman, Oklahoma. I offer that in evidence.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

Mr. COCHRAN. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit 14 and ask you if that is a contract with United Artists dated May 2, 1936, on the picture "The Ghost Goes West" for first run?

A. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit 14.

The COURT. What is the date?

Mr. COCHRAN. The date of the application is January 23, 1936, "The Ghost Goes West" for four days and preview, first run, Campus Theater.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

Mr. COCHRAN. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit 15,
1277 and ask you if that is a contract with United Artists for the picture "Conquest of the Air" second run, the date of application being January 23, 1936?

A. Yes, it is.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit 15.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit 16 and ask you if that is a contract with United Artists for the picture "Les Miserables" third run, date of application January 23, 1936.

A. Yes, it is. All these contracts are signed by Mr. Letherman and he signed my name.

Q. They are the contracts you had with United Artists for that season about which you were testifying this morning. Is that right?

A. I suppose it is.

Q. I just want to know if that is true. You testified you had certain contracts.

A. Are these the contracts that came from my files? They were supposed to be put together. My son is gone. I think these are the ones.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you know Mr. Letherman's signature?
1278 A. That looks like his signature.

Q. Was he your manager at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the Oklahoma your theater at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Were those contracts left with the attorney general?

A. Yes.

Q. You will say that is your contract?
A. I will say that is my contract.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you run that picture?

A. I don't know all the pictures we ran. In fact, today I can't remember anything. The only way I could be sure about those things would be to look back over the books. I know we ran them because we had always been short of product.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike that answer as not responsive, about being short of product.

A. How are you going to explain those things?

The COURT. That is a voluntary statement.

Mr. WRIGHT. It is not clear to me what the purpose of this is. She testified she had this product and putting in these contracts merely confirms the fact.

The COURT. She said she didn't know how many.

Mr. WRIGHT. Putting these contracts in one by one still won't tell how many she had since there isn't any 1279 representation these were all the contracts that were made. These are all the contracts she was able to produce at the time.

Mr. COCHRAN. This was for one picture third run.

The COURT. Exhibit 17?

Mr. COCHRAN. Exhibit No. 16, your Honor. The date of the application is January 23, 1936.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

1280 Mr. COCHRAN. We might shorten this in this way, Mr. Wright, if you are willing to state that these documents that I am now presenting are contracts with United Artists which this witness has presented, and which are taken from her files.

Mr. WRIGHT. Surely.

Mr. COCHRAN. And it isn't necessary to further identify them.

Mr. WRIGHT. I shouldn't think so.

Mr. COCHRAN. Then, we offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 17, which is a contract for one picture "Call of the Wild", dated January 23, 1936, third run, for the Oklahoma; Defendants' Exhibit No. 18, one contract for the picture "House of Rothschild", third run, dated January 23, 1936, for the Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 19, a contract dated 1-23-36, for the picture, "Looking for Trouble", third run, Oklahoma Theater.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 20, contract dated 1-23-36, for the picture, "Mighty Barnum", third run, for the Oklahoma.

The COURT. United Artists?

Mr. COCHRAN. All of these are United Artists, your Honor. Defendants' Exhibit No. 21, dated January 23, 1936, the picture, "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back,"

1281 third run, Oklahoma Theater;

Defendants' Exhibit No. 22, dated 1-23-36, for the picture "Let 'em Have It", third run, Oklahoma;

Defendants' Exhibit No. 23, dated 1-23-36, the picture "Red Salute", third run, Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 24, dated 1-23-36, for the picture "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round", third run, Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 25, dated 1-23-36, for the picture "Count of Monte Cristo", third run, for the Oklahoma;

Defendants' Exhibit No. 26, dated 1-23-36, for the picture "I Cover the Waterfront", third run, Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 27, dated 1-23-36, for the picture "Melody Lingers On", third run, Oklahoma.

The COURT. The same date?

Mr. COCHRAN. The same date. Defendants' Exhibit No. 28, contract dated May 2, 1936, for the picture "Amateur Gentleman", first run, Campus Theater.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 29, contract dated June 17, 1936, picture "Modern Times", second run, Oklahoma Theater.

(Defendants' Exhibits 30 to 33 for identification, inclusive, were marked by the reporter.)

Mr. COCHRAN. Defendants' Exhibit No. 30, contract

1282 dated March 18, 1936, for the picture "Strike Me Pink", second run, Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 31, dated June 17, 1936, picture "These Three", second run, Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 32, dated June 17, 1936, the picture "Modern Times", first run. I thought we had that awhile ago.

The COURT. First run?

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes, sir, first run, "Modern Times".

Mr. WRIGHT. The other one was second run.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right. Oklahoma Theater.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 33, dated June 17, 1936, on the picture "These Three", first run, Oklahoma.

1283 Mr. COCHRAN. Defendants' Exhibit 34 is a contract dated, the application is dated December 4, 1936, covering six Korda productions. It does not show the year or season for the Campus or Oklahoma Theater, second run.

Defendants' Exhibit 35 is a contract, the date of the application being December 4, 1936, covering six Selznick pictures for the Campus and Oklahoma, second run.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 36 is a contract, the application being dated December 4, 1936, for one picture, "The Last of the Mohicans" second run for Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit 37 is a contract, application date December 4, 1936, one picture, "Dreaming Lips" second run, Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit 38, is a contract, application dated December 4, 1936, two pictures; "Pickford-Lasky" productions, second run, Campus or Oklahoma, the pictures being the "Gay Desperado" and "One Rainy Afternoon".

Defendants' Exhibit 39 is a contract, the application dated December 4, 1936, covering seven Walter Wanger second run for Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit 40 is a contract, application dated December 4, 1936, for two pictures, "Accused" and "Forever and Forever", second run; Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 41, the same date, two pictures, "Accused" and "Forever and Forever", first 1284 run; Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 42, application, dated December 4, 1936, "Gay Desperado" and "One Rainy Afternoon"; first run, Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 43, December 4, 1936; one picture, "Dreaming Lips"; first run, Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 44, application dated December 4, 1936, five Samuel Goldwyn productions, second run; Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 45, December 21, 1936, five Selznick Internationals, first run, Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 46, December 21, '36, seven Walter Wanger productions, first run; Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 47, December 21, '36; six Alexander Korda productions, first run, Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 48, December 21, 1936, five Samuel Goldwyn productions, first run; Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 49, January 4, 1937; "Thunder in the East", first run, Campus. I believe that is a duplication, but if it is it will show up.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 50, January 23, 1936; the "Conquest of the Air" first run, Campus.

1285 (Defendants' Exhibits 51 to 60, inclusive, for identification marked by the reporter.)

Mr. COCHRAN. Defendants' Exhibit No. 51, dated August 31, 1936—I withdraw that; that isn't for feature pictures; it is for Disney cartoon, so 51 is withdrawn.

No. 52 is not offered because it likewise covers Disney.

Defendants' Exhibit 53, contract application dated March 25, 1937, for one picture "Fire Over England", second run, Campus or Oklahoma; March 25, 1937.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 54, is the same date, for the same picture.

The COURT. What date?

Mr. COCHRAN. First run, in the Campus or Oklahoma.

Defendants' Exhibit No. 55, application date May 8, 1937, covering the picture "Love From a Stranger".

The COURT. That is No. 55?

Mr. COCHRAN. That is No. 55.

The COURT. What date?

Mr. COCHRAN. May 8, 1937, second run, Campus or Oklahoma;

Defendants' Exhibit No. 56, the same date, one picture "Dark Journey", second run, Campus or Oklahoma;

Defendants' Exhibit 57, the same date, one picture "Dark Journey", first run, Campus or Oklahoma;

1286 Defendants' Exhibit No. 58, dated 5-8-37, one picture, "Disney Review", Campus or Oklahoma. And also under the same exhibit number, on the same date, is a contract on the picture "Love from a Stranger", first run, Campus or Oklahoma;

Defendants' Exhibit No. 59, dated October 18, 1937, covering four pictures, first run, Campus or Oklahoma, "Over the Moon", "Mutiny in the Mountains", "Four Feathers" and "Gayety Girls";

Defendants' Exhibit No. 60, contract application dated October 18, 1937, for six pictures, first run, Campus or Oklahoma, "Storm in a Teacup", "Diamond Trust", "Action for Slander", "South Riding", "The First and Last", and "Paradise for Two".

The COURT. That is six pictures.

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes, sir.

The COURT. First run.

Mr. COCHRAN. First run.

BY MR. COCHRAN:

Q. Can you tell us, Mrs. Berry, whether you had any other contracts which were made for the 1937, or during the 1937-38 season, for United Artists' pictures, either first or second run, other than those which have been produced here; do you know?

A. Well, I don't know. I mean, we are supposed to have the contracts. Now, I don't remember, and you 1287 don't either, surely, each picture that we have called off.

Q. Well, you can't tell the Court how many pictures you had licensed that year from United Artists, can you?

A. Not offhand. I can tell you by our records.

Q. What kind of records?

A. By our books, how many, exactly how many pictures we had, and how many we ran and everything.

Q. Do you have your play-off record here?

A. Do I have it, Jack? No.

Q. You don't have it?

A. No.

(Defendants' Exhibit No. 61 was marked by the reporter for identification.)

1288 Mr. COCHRAN. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit 61 and ask you if that is the contract which you had with Universal for second run product which was dated in October of 1935?

A. Yes, it is. It shows the number of features offered 30, number of features sold 12, for the second run for the Oklahoma Theater, dated October 10, '35, for the season of '35-36.

Q. There has been introduced here some Universal contracts covering first run product for the '36-37 season. You recall that, do you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How many pictures was that, first run? Do you have that on your memo?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Let it go. The contract will show for itself. I do not find in your contracts which you have produced here any contract for Universal for the season of '37-38, first run. Did you license any Universal pictures, first run, for the '37-38 season, feature pictures?

A. From Universal, you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. Isn't it a fact there were offered to you all of the feature product for the '37-38 season except the top 12?

1289 A. First run, all but the top 12, you say?

Q. Yes, for the '37-38 season.

A. Well—

Q. Just state whether you know or not.

A. I don't know for sure. I am not real positive. They probably were but I am not positive. If the top 12 were taken off I wouldn't want them.

Q. Either first or second run?

A. I wouldn't want it either first or second run without the top 12. Mixed up why you couldn't use them.

Q. We read into the record there a number of those United Artists pictures which were licensed, and with the application date in 1936. Wasn't it out of that group of pictures that were licensed during the year 1936 that you had a controversy with United Artists because you had not played 11 of them first run and eight of them second run?

A. No. The only controversy we could have, they couldn't understand why we didn't run them in the summertime. That is the only trouble that we had. They were not released by the time school was out and we had to wait until fall to open up. That was the only trouble.

Q. You know Mr. Homer Caldwell, an attorney in Oklahoma City?

A. Yes, I do.

Q. After your husband's death, do you recall em-
1290 ploying Mr. Homer Caldwell to represent you in a lawsuit filed in the County Court of Cleveland County by Universal Film Exchanges, against Ray C. Berry?

A. Now wasn't that just before Mr. Berry died, or something?

Q. I asked you——

A. I don't remember. I know Mr. Caldwell but I don't remember ever talking about the film business with him.

Q. Wasn't that case disposed of after his death and Mr. Caldwell represented you in that proceeding?

A. No. I never have employed Mr. Caldwell as an attorney. I have always had Mr. Benedum.

Mr. WRIGHT. What could that litigation possibly have to do the issues here? It was long before these Universal contracts that are in evidence were made.

The COURT. The only purpose, I assume, would be to show that the distributor would have some hesitancy in making this sale if he had a bad account?

Mr. WRIGHT. It is perfectly obvious. These sales which are in evidence were at a later date.

The COURT. She said she didn't know anything about it. She has answered the question.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. In order to refresh your memory, I hand you this carbon copy of a letter and will ask you to examine it and state if you recall the incident referred to in 1291 that letter.

(Witness reads letter).

Q. Do you recall receiving that letter?

A. I don't recall. I suppose we did. If we did, Jack went in and talked to them about it. I haven't handled any of that——

By the COURT:

Q. Do you recall that letter? Answer the question.

A. No, I don't.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I will ask you to examine another letter from the same attorneys to you, dated May 10, 1939, and ask you if you received that letter.

A. I don't recall it. I really don't. You see this was right after Mr. Letherman——

The COURT. You don't recall it?

A. No. When we changed managers the new one just took hold of things so I don't recall it. That was probably it. When one manager would let go the other one had to book in the product, and he had to book in some of those probably.

By the COURT:

Q. From 1932 until 1939, were you able to buy pictures sufficient to run your theater?

A. No. We have run trash. We have run third run and we searched for pictures; ran our own pictures third run to make them spread around enough. We are amazed that we have been able to operate for 16 years.

1292 Q. You operated on a change of three changes a week, did you?

A. Out at the Campus, two changes a week, part of the time, I believe.

Q. What number of changes are you operating on now?

A. Three changes a week.

Q. Single bill or double?

A. Single bill.

Q. And you are operating on major product?

A. Yes.

Q. Now, in 1936-37, you were operating the Oklahoma on three changes a week, were you not?

A. '36-37, yes.

Q. And in '37-38, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. And '38-39?

A. Yes.

Q. And in each of those years you had pictures sufficient to operate on your full program that you had?

A. Well, by bringing them back third and sometimes fourth run.

Q. Did you have any Monogram pictures?

A. Yes.

Q. And Allied?

A. Yes.

1293 Q. And Sach?

A. Yes.

Q. And Republic?

A. Republic. We haven't had——

Q. (Interrupting.) And Grand National?

A. I suppose so. I have almost forgotten what Grand National was. Yes.

Q. PRC?

A. Some, yes.

Q. And you also, during 1937-38 and '38-39, had a number of second run pictures from major distributors, and also you had your choice of the so-called independent product, didn't you?

A. Our choice of the independent, no.

Q. Of the independent?

A. I thought you were leading up to that. No, not through '39.

Q. I said '38-39?

A. '38-39; no.

Q. Beg pardon?

A. No, I would say we didn't.

Q. Well, you had all of the PRC's you wanted, didn't you?

A. Who wants any of those?

Q. I didn't ask you that. You said you didn't have your choice of the independent product.

1294 A. I can say—let me see—'39?

Q. '38-39.

A. Let me see; I would say through '38 we didn't have PRC, as poor as it was.

Q. You didn't have PRC in '38? Do you know? Do you know what product you had of the independents that season?

A. Let me see; '38-39? Let me see—I don't know whether we had PRC, or not.

Q. Do you know what independent product you had?

Mr. Wright. If the Court please, it seems to me a lot of time is being wasted on an immaterial issue. There are no allegations in the complaint concerning independent product.

Mr. COCHRAN. The only purpose of it, your Honor, if she says she didn't, that will end the thing. She left the impression——

The COURT (interrupting.) I think it is competent cross-examination, as far as that is concerned. The point is just this, was the market sufficient to provide the pictures that were necessary to the various exhibitors.

A. No, that you could exist on. Who wants PRC? No one wanted it.

The COURT. I don't know; in fact, they all look alike to me.

A. I know they would to you or to anyone that is 1295 not a showman, or you wouldn't go in and see them when you see the bill out in front.

The COURT. I don't know.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike that as not responsive.

The COURT. Yes, and the Court's remarks maybe withdrawn too. I don't want to reflect on the industry or the importance of this litigation. I will say by way of parenthesis, however, that I have seen A's that didn't look like the first letter of the alphabet to me. Anything further with this witness?

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 288 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you recognize these four sheets attached together here, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 288 for identification, as the second run deal that you made with Metro in October or in November of 1937, for second run of the '34-35, and '35-36, '36-37, and '37-38 features?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I call attention to the last page which is the '37-38 contract, and the reference to two in the fourth 1296 group, twelve in the fifth group, and the balance in the sixth group. Do you know what those group designations refer to?

A. Yes, sir; that is when we began, when we divided them.

Q. Do you know what the group refers to with reference to quality or rental terms?

A. Yes, sir; they are in the lower brackets, I mean not A pictures.

Q. The A pictures were in the first three groups?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And those were the ones that were not offered to you?

A. You see, these were in the lower groups, the fourth, fifth, and sixth, the lower brackets.

Q. And the first three groups were the ones that were not offered to you?

A. The first three groups were not offered to me; they are like the PRC we had. Monogram he said we could get.

Mr. COCHRAN. Objection as not responsive.

Mr. WRIGHT. I offer that exhibit in evidence. I will ask one more question.

Q. On your cross-examination, Mrs. Berry, you referred to some two thousand dollars that was spent remodeling the Campus.

A. Yes, sir, just before.

1297 Q. When was that spent?

A. During the Christmas holidays before we closed in the spring, before they, just before, I mean, they got our lease.

Q. That would be in 1937?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you think it was hazardous to make that kind of an expenditure on a one-year lease?

A. Well, after we had been there ten years, we just expected to keep on operating, and, of course, in keeping on operating you want to keep your building up, and that was just the way he had it leased to us. Everything is hazardous in the show business.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

The COURT. The exhibits are admitted.

(Witness excused.)

1298 PAT DUFFY, was thereupon called as a witness by the plaintiff, and being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. KIMP:

Q. State your name.

A. Pat Duffy.

Q. Where do you live?

A. Here in Oklahoma City.

Q. When did you first start in the motion picture exhibition business?

A. 1926.
Q. Where was that?
A. At Lone Wolf, Oklahoma.
Q. Where did you go from Loue Wolf?
A. To Mangum.
Q. And started the operation of a theater there?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What year?
A. 1927.
Q. What theater was that?
A. The Rialto.
Q. What other theaters were there at that time?
A. The Empress and the New Show.
Q. Who ran those?
A. Mr. Fringer.
1299 Q. Are both of those theaters still in operation?
A. When I went to Mangum?
Q. No. They were in operation then. How long did they remain in operation?
A. The Empress remained in operation until 1929. I believe it was, in 1928 or 1929 when the Temple was built.
Q. What about the New Show?
A. The New Show was in operation then.
Q. When was the Temple built?
A. Either in 1928 or '29; I am not sure.
1300 Q. Who operated that?
A. Sam Fringer.
Q. Did you continue in the operation of the Temple for some time?
A. Until 1932.
Q. What happened to it then?
A. The National Theater Supply Company foreclosed on the equipment.
Q. And some one else continued the operation of it?
A. It remained closed for a couple of months, and a fellow by the name of Ortman from Hennessey bought the equipment from National Theater Supply Company.
Q. How long did Ortman operate it?
A. Until 1933, about eleven months.
Q. Did you acquire the Temple sometime after that?
A. Yes, 1933.
Q. And you still had the Rialto?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How did you operate the Rialto after you acquired the Temple?
A. Mostly on Friday and Saturday.
Q. And that was in what year?
A. I opened the Temple in September, 1933.

Q. And you continued the operation of both of those until 1935?

1301 A. Yes—until 1938.

Q. Well, in 1935 you were operating both of those?

A. Oh, yes; yes.

Q. And who was operating in opposition to you in '35, if anyone?

A. No one.

Q. Now, in 1935, did you have some conversation with some one by the name of Spears?

A. Spears from Altus.

Q. What is his first name?

A. I really don't know what his first name is.

Q. Who was he?

A. He was Griffith's partner in Altus.

Q. At Altus?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he come to see you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you had some conversation with him?

A. He came over to buy the shows.

Q. What happened there?

A. I asked him $50,000 and he thought that was too much.

Q. Did you have another meeting, or any other meetings, in '35 or '36 with anyone with relation to the acquisition of your theaters?

1302 A. Mr. Spears came back again and wanted to buy an interest for Griffith Brothers.

Q. What happened then?

A. Well, then he wrote me a letter and wanted me to meet them in their office in regard to that.

Q. In their office where?

A. Here in Oklahoma City.

Q. About when was that?

A. It was sometime in 1935.

Q. And was there a meeting held?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In Oklahoma City with what people?

A. Well, L. C. Griffith, and H. J., I believe; I am not sure whether Mr. McKenna was in on that meeting or not; I am not quite sure about that.

1303 Q. But do you say L. C. Griffith and H. J. Griffith were?

A. Yes.

Q. And what happened at that meeting?

A. They wanted to buy an interest in the theater; even though a small interest, 25 per cent.

Q. And was that all that happened at that meeting?

A. Well, yes. That was all. I wouldn't sell it to them.

Q. Were any statements made by either one of the Griffiths at that time?

A. Yes. L. C. told me I needed them for protection and they needed the theaters for their protection.

Q. Was that all of any consequence that was said at that time?

A. At that time, yes, sir.

Q. Was there a sale made as a result of that meeting?

A. No.

Q. When was the next meeting you had with anyone?

A. It was '36, along about the first part of '36, E. R. Slocum, employed by Griffith Brothers in the expansion department, came to see me about buying a half interest in the theaters.

Q. Came to Mangum to see you?

A. Yes.

1304 Q. About the first part of '36?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. About buying an interest?

A. Buying an interest, 51 per cent.

Q. Is that the first meeting you had with Slocum in 1936?

A. Yes, sir. He used to sell films for Warner Brothers and I had several meetings with him.

Q. Then he wanted to buy 51 per cent?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as leading.

Mr. KIMR. He just stated he wanted to buy 51 per cent.

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as repetition then.

By Mr. KIMR:

Q. What else happened in that meeting of any consequence?

A. I refused to sell 51 per cent but I told him I would if the film rental didn't exceed 25 per cent of the gross receipts.

By the COURT:

Q. Told him what?

A. If the film rental didn't exceed 25 per cent of the gross receipts I would sell him 51 per cent.

By Mr. KIMR:

Q. What was his reply to that, if anything?

A. He said they wouldn't go for that; that I would 1305 have to have complete confidence in them.

Q. Was that all of any consequence that was said at that meeting?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did he come back again?

A. He made several trips to buy the theaters for almost a year.

Q. Did he come back at some time and tell you anything about gas meters and telephones?

A. Yes. He told me he checked up on all the telephones and gas meters and everything in town; that that was his job.

Q. What else did he tell you at that meeting?

A. Well, that is about all he told me at that meeting.

Q. Did he say anything about a "spot"?

A. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as leading.

The COURT. Sustained

A. Well, he made several trips during the year down there and he told me on one of those occasions that I was on the spot; that I was slated to go and better make the best deal I could.

By Mr. KIME:

Q. Can you place the time of that meeting?

A. It was sometime in '36. I couldn't exactly place the time. He made several trips to Mangum.

1306 Q. Then were there any more meetings in 1936 that you recall?

A. Yes. H. J. and C. R. Slocum came down to see me about buying theaters in '36.

Q. What part of '36?

A. The last part of '36.

Mr. COCHRAN. The witness seems to be reading from some memorandum.

By Mr. KIME:

Q. What are you reading from?

A. Some dates I put down, options and dates of those meetings.

Q. Do you want to show it to Judge Cochran?

The COURT. Are you just refreshing your memory from it?

A. Yes.

The COURT. It is all right. Proceed.

1307 By Mr. KIME:

Q. H. J. Griffith and Red Slocum then came to see you about the last part of '36?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What happened at that meeting?

A. H. J. made an offer for the theaters of $20,000.

Q. What did you say to that offer?

A. I said I couldn't accept it.

Q. What happened then, if anything?

A. He said they wanted a theater in the town and if they couldn't get, couldn't buy mine, they would have to put one in.

Q. And you refused the $20,000?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that all that happened at that meeting?

A. That was all at that meeting.

Q. Was there another meeting shortly after that?

A. Well, I came to Oklahoma City shortly after that and met them in their office. They came down and got me and brought me up here, and offered me $22,000. That was on January 5, 1937.

Q. Whose office was that?

A. Griffith's office, here in Oklahoma City.

Q. Here in Oklahoma City?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And where were you when they came to get you?

1308 A. In the Film Exchange Cafe on the ground floor of that building.

Q. And when you got up to the office, who did you find there?

A. H. J. and E. R. Slocum; I am not quite sure—Mr. McKenna was there.

Q. You are sure he was there, are you?

A. Well, I am pretty sure he was, yes.

Q. To the best of your recollection he was there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What happened at that meeting in their office?

A. I accepted—I gave them an option for $22,000. We went to Keaton, Johnston & Wells' office and drew up the option.

Q. And that was on what date; do you have any record of that date?

A. January 5, 1937.

Q. Was that option ever exercised?

A. No, it wasn't.

Q. In that year 1937 was there any change in the theater situation in Mangum?

A. In '37 Griffith built a theater down there and named it the Greer.

Q. And after the Greer began operation was there another meeting between you and any of the Griffith representatives?

1309 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was that?
A. That was in Oklahoma City, in their office.
Q. What happened there?
A. They offered me $16,000.
Q. Was there anything said as to why they were offering you $16,000?
A. Well, Mr. H. U. Bailey of Princeton, Illinois, had a loan on the Temple Theater building and they were making some kind of deal where they could own the building, and wanted me, he wanted me to sell to him for $16,000, Mr. Bailey did.
Q. Did anything else happen in that meeting?
A. No, sir; I refused the offer.
Q. You accepted the $16,000 offer?
A. No, I didn't accept it; I refused it.
Q. You refused it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did anyone representing the Griffith organization see you again after that?
A. No, I don't believe there was any of them came to see me after that.
Q. Was there any reason advanced as to why they were then offering you $16,000 instead of the $20,000, or $22,000 that they had offered you a short time previously?
1310 A. Yes, sir.
Q. What was that?
A. Because I had competition.
Q. And you finally sold for how much?
A. $12,000.
Q. When was that?
A. That was in April 1938.
Mr. KIMM. That's all, take the witness.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Duffy, Mangum is in the western part of Oklahoma, isn't it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Several years during the ten-year period beginning with 1930, there were very bad crop conditions in that part of the state, were there not?
A. From 1930?
Q. During that ten-year period?
A. Well (hesitating).
Q. For several years?
A. Some years were bad and some were good.
Q. What about—what were the bad crop years?
A. What were the bad crop years?

Q. The exceptionally bad crop years?

1311 A. '37 was.

Q. '37.

A. Yes.

Q. Wasn't '36 also a very dry year, and poor crops?

A. '35?

Q. '36?

A. '36, yes, it was poor, but not as bad as '37.

Q. And '35 was also poor, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How about '34?

A. '34, I believe, was very good. I don't quite remember now.

Q. You went into Mangum, I believe you said, in 1927?

A. Yes, sir.

1312 Q. Would you say the years '27-28, '29-30 were good crop years out there?

A. They were, yes.

Q. That section of the state over the years has had cycles of dry years and wet years, hasn't it?

A. From '30 on, yes.

Q. And even prior to that, going back in the early 20's, there were a series of dry years then, weren't there?

A. Yes.

Q. Then along in the late '20's you had rain and good crops there?

A. That is right.

Q. When does that dry cycle commence in the 30's, can you tell?

A. I can't recall it; along about the time the depression started.

Mr. KIMB. May I inquire the purpose of this historical background? I don't quite see the point.

The COURT. I think it is to show conditions in that country at that time.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You made money in the operation of your theaters in 1933 and 1934, didn't you?

A. That is right.

Q. 1935 was rather a poor year in your theater business?

A. It was, yes.

1313 Q. And 1936 was worse?

A. Well, I believe it was better than 1935.

Q. And 1937 was the worst year you had?

A. That is right.

Q. Business was terrible at that time?

A. Business was terrible when Griffith opened up that theater, yes.

Q. It was terrible before they opened that theater, wasn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. Even before they opened that theater you were writing to the various distributors that you were broke, weren't you?

A. I don't think I said I was broke. I tried to get a reduction on the pictures, yes.

Q. Weren't you writing to each one of them telling them of the terrible condition you were in financially?

A. I don't recall writing that, but I was trying to get a reduction on pictures. When Griffith threatened to put a theater in pictures went up and I was trying to get a reduction from them. They increased the film rental.

Q. Griffith went in in 1937, didn't he?

A. That is right.

Q. Did they build the Greer Theater?

A. It was formerly a theater, made into a store building.

Q. And they remodeled it?

1314 A. Yes, sir.

Q. And opened it up?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It was known there in Mangum they were going to open that theater for some time before they did open it, wasn't it?

A. Not very long.

Q. Well how long would you say?

A. I would say about three months.

Q. It was generally known?

A. Yes.

Q. For the season of 1937-38—first, for the season of '36-37 what product were you using in your theaters?

A. Well, I was using practically all of the major companies'.

Q. You were using Paramount?

A. I was using Paramount.

Q. And Metro?

A. Yes.

Q. And Fox?

A. Yes.

Q. And Warner?

A. Yes.

Q. And RKO?

A. Yes.

1315 Q. And Vitagraph?

A. Right. Warner and Vitagraph were the same.

Q. First run?

A. Yes.
Q. You were using all of these first run pictures?
A. That is right.
Mr. Kmrs. I didn't check on product in direct examination. I don't see the applicability of it here.
The Court. It is cross examination.

By Mr. Cochran:

Q. In 1937-38 what product did you license?
A. In '37-38?
Q. Yes.
A. All of those companies.
Q. The same companies, didn't you?
A. I believe so, yes, sir.
Q. First run?
A. That is right.
Q. What did Griffith have?
A. Well, Griffith had United Artists, Universal and some pictures of Warner, of the '36-37 season.
Q. In other words, they had pictures of '36-37 you had not played?
A. That is right.
1316 Q. Cutbacks?
A. I didn't cut them back.
Q. You didn't cut them back?
A. No.
Q. How did they get them if you didn't cut them back?
A. They got them. I don't know how they got them.
Q. You mean they were pictures you licensed in '36-37 and it was more than a year and you had not played them?
A. I bought '36-37 pictures late in the season. I bought the '36-37 at the same time that I bought the '37-38 from Warner, the same day.

By the Court:

Q. Did you get plenty of pictures for the '37-38 season?
A. Yes, sir, I had all I needed.

By Mr. Cochran:

Q. The fact of the business is you had all of the pictures of Paramount, Metro, Fox, Warner, RKO and Vitagraph you wanted?
A. That is right.
Q. You had the choice of them?
A. Yes.
Q. Notwithstanding the fact that Griffith was there?
A. Well, I had them bought before Griffith went in there.
Q. You bought pictures for the '37-38 season?
1317 A. Yes.

Q. And they came in and started to remodel their theater in July of 1937, didn't they?

A. Started to build the theater.

Q. Started remodeling that building?

A. Sometime about then, yes, sir.

Q. It was known three months before that they were going to open a theater?

A. That is right. I had those pictures under contract before then, though.

Q. I will get to that. You licensed the pictures of Warner for '37–38 season on May 30, 1937, didn't you?

A. Somewhere about that time, yes.

1318 Q. Do you remember, Mr. Duffy?

A. Somewhere about that time, yes.

Mr. KIME. What season was that, Judge?

A. 1936–37.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. And you licensed some Fox pictures for the '37–38 season on July 7, 1937, didn't you?

A. I can't recall the exact date. I had them bought.

Q. And you licensed some Metro pictures on June 17, 1937?

A. Yes, the selling season of 1937, '36–37.

Q. You said that is true?

A. The best I can recall; I don't know the exact date, but I bought the pictures that year.

Q. Now, that season, those season's releases commenced in September 1937, didn't they?

A. That's right.

Q. You sold out to Griffith in May of 1938, is that right?

A. That's right.

Q. What time in May?

A. Well, I sold to them in April, but they taken over the first of May, 1938.

Q. At the time you sold out to Griffith, of the Metro pictures which you had licensed, you had thirty which were unplayed, didn't you?

1319 A. How many?

Q. Thirty?

A. I don't recall how many.

Mr. KIME. We object to that, your Honor, because the contracts are the best evidence. We have been forced to the position of producing the contracts, and they have them all right in front of them, and I suggest that they be introduced.

The COURT. Is there any disagreement as to the number of Fox pictures he had on hand?

Mr. COCHRAN. I am asking him whether they were played or not.

The COURT. Overruled, and exception allowed.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Didn't you have thirty Metro pictures which were unplayed when you sold out?

A. In '38, I don't know the number.

Q. You had a large number of Metro pictures, didn't you?

A. I did, yes.

Q. They had been trying to get you to date those pictures for months, hadn't they?

A. Metro?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you, at the time you sold out, have fifty 1320 Paramount pictures of the current season, '37–38, unplayed?

A. I might have had.

Q. Hadn't they been trying to get you to give them dates on the pictures for months, and you would not give them to them?

A. I tried to get a reduction on them.

Q. I asked you if they hadn't been trying to get you to do that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you wouldn't do that because they wouldn't give you a reduction?

A. That's right.

Q. Didn't you at that time have on hand thirty-one pictures of RKO of the '37–38 season that you hadn't dated?

A. I don't know the number.

Q. There were a large number, you know that, don't you?

A. There was some, yes.

Q. Wasn't there a large number of them?

A. I don't know.

Q. Out of forty-nine pictures you licensed, weren't there thirty-one pictures that were unplayed when you sold out?

A. I don't know.

1321 Q. You do know that they had been trying to get you to date those pictures and you wouldn't do it?

A. They did that every year.

Q. Of the Fox pictures, weren't there fifty-one of those pictures which you licensed for them of the 1937–38 season that were unplayed?

A. The best I can recall, I was up on dates on all of the companies except Paramount.

Q. What was your answer?

A. I was up on the playing arrangement except on Paramount, on all except Paramount.

Q. So it isn't a fact that there were a large number of pictures of each of these distributors, in fact, two-thirds or more, of the pictures of each of these companies for the current season that hadn't been played, or never played or paid for?

A. I don't know about that.

Q. Don't you remember that of the Warner pictures that you licensed, that you licensed sixty of them, and you had only played one of them?

Mr. KIMR. May I inquire when that Warner contract you are referring to was dated?

Mr. COCHRAN. It is supposed to have been dated in May 1937.

Mr. KIMR. For what product?

1322 Mr. COCHRAN. '37–38.

A. I have the Warner contract with me, 1936–37.

By the COURT:

Q. Was your business being operated at a profit in the '37–38 season?

A. 1937, no, no it wasn't.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The same is true in 1936, wasn't it?

A. It was operated for a profit in 1936, in 1936 when Griffiths tried to buy me out or was going to put in a theater there, the film rental went up to where I couldn't make a profit on it.

Q. In other words, after you got competition in the town, the distributors charged you more for the pictures than they had previously?

A. The year before they went in, yes, not afterward but before, in '36–37.

Q. In other words, your contention is that when the distributors heard of the competition going in, then you were required to pay greater rentals?

A. That's right.

Q. I will ask you if, on January 19, 1938, you didn't write to Loew's, Inc., in Oklahoma City a letter about the reason you couldn't take up the pictures that you were due to play at that time?

A. To who?

1323 Q. To Metro or to Loew's at Oklahoma City?

A. Wrote a letter about what?

Q. About the reason you couldn't take up the pictures that were being shipped to you C. O. D.?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. And didn't you advise at that time that business was worse then at that place than it had ever been?

A. I might have, yes.

Q. Or was business worse at that place at that time than it had ever been?

A. That's right.

Q. What were the conditions?

A. The conditions at that time?

Q. Yes, January of 1938.

A. '38?

Q. Yes.

A. Or '37?

Q. January 1938.

A. Business was bad; I had competition then too.

Q. I am talking about the general business conditions.

A. It was bad.

Q. What was the trouble?

A. Short crops, short cotton crops.

Q. Mangum is an agricultural town, isn't it?

A. That's right.

1324 Q. You spoke of one of these theaters which you had operated on Friday and Saturday. Out in that cotton country, or agricultural country, in small towns, it is frequently the case that operators will operate two theaters, one of them being operated all the time, and the other one operating on Friday-Saturday for the benefit of the country trade, that's right, is it?

A. That's right.

Q. And that was the way you operated one of your theaters during part of that period, at least?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Isn't it a fact that in 1937 Metro was checking your box office receipts on certain of the pictures which you were playing on percentage for it and you had considerable difficulty with Metro at that time about the fact that they were checking your receipts?

A. I have never had any difficulty with Metro. They were satisfied and sold me the '38–39 pictures in advance.

Q. In other words, you had, at the time you sold out to Griffith, you had pictures of Metro, not only for the 1937–38 season, but you had their pictures for the '38–39 and the '39–40 season?

A. Not '39–40; '38–39.

Q. '38–39?

A. Yes, sir.

1325 Q. Did you have any of the other pictures under contract for more than one year in '38–39?

A. No. That was all, that one contract.

Q. Then you say you never had any difficulty with Metro. On September 4, 1937, did you write Mr. Zoellner of Metro complaining about his checking and double checking the picture "Broadway Melody," and as a result the cashier, your daughter, was called a crook and was getting away with money? Did you take that matter up with Metro and write that letter?

A. I recall something about that. There was a checker that accused the girl of getting away with the box office receipts.

Q. Weren't you complaining?

A. I complained to Bill Zoellner to that extent, yes.

Q. And there were several instances in which you complained of the companies checking your box office?

A. I never have complained to anybody about checking the box office only at that time, about that checker.

Q. On that same date didn't you write to Mr. Zoellner, "There are three or four things that caused this picture not to go over. The first of these is there is no more money here than there was a month ago." Now that was in September of 1937. Was money very scarce in Mangum 1326 at that time?

A. That is right, it was.

Q. So there is no question but what you had ample product at the time you made the sale to Griffith.

A. I had all the product I needed, yes.

Q. And in March of 1938 you were playing the very first choice pictures in the town?

A. Playing what?

Q. The choicest of the pictures that were being produced, you were playing them first run in the town?

A. All except the United Artists, yes.

Q. You had not even tried to get United Artists, had you?

A. Yes.

Q. Had you licensed United Artists in any of the years in the past?

A. Yes.

Q. When?

A. Nearly all the years.

Q. You never made a season contract where you bought all the pictures they released, did you?

A. No, not all of them.

Q. Their pictures were very high priced, weren't they?

A. No, not so very.

Q. You were operating two houses and Griffith was 1327 operating one?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, in March of 1938, didn't you write Mr. Curry of Paramount that you were out of money and could not continue to operate much longer?

A. I might have.

Q. Was that a fact?

A. I don't recall it but I might have.

Q. Were you out of money in March of 1938?

A. March of 1938, yes.

Q. And were not able to continue your business?

A. I did continue it until May, '38, yes.

Q. There were numerous pictures that were coming in that were shipped to you C. O. D. that you were not able to take out. Isn't that true?

A. No, there never was a picture I didn't take out; not one.

Q. On March 9, 1938, didn't you write Mr. Sam Brunk of Paramount "In reply to yours of the 8th in regard to 'Hold Them Navy' in which you state you are going to ship the film, this will only result in you paying the express charges. I said I did not have the money to play this picture now."

A. I cancelled the date.

Mr. KIMB. Wait just a minute, Mr. Duffy, If that 1328 is the whole of that letter why I submit——

The COURT. No, he asked him if he wrote that letter.

Mr. KIMB. He read a portion of it. Whether that is all of it I have no way of knowing. I submit your Honor has no way of knowing, and there might be other statements in there that we would like to have read.

The COURT. I will give you an opportunity to do so.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The point I am making is, at that time if you were not out of money and if you were not advising not only this company, but the others, not to ship you product, that you could not and would not pay for it.

A. I had all the product I needed to run the theater but I refused to play Paramount because they would not reduce the pictures when they were out of line.

Q. I will further ask you if it is not a fact you were out of money at that time and did not have the finances to pay the rentals on further pictures.

Mr. KIMB. We object to that because whether he was out of money is immaterial here. He might have been using that out of money argument as a bargaining agent to these people when they were charging him these exorbitant prices for these films. Whether he was out or not has nothing to do with this lawsuit as I see it.

1329 The COURT. Overruled. Exception allowed. Under your evidence the Court can't see any other theory but that the defendant in this case made some contribution to this man's sale of his property. In other words, he was forced to sell. I want to see what caused it; what the reason for it was. I think that is entirely competent.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Isn't it a fact you were out of money at that time and were unable to go ahead and carry out your contracts with the film companies?

A. I never was really out of money, no.

Q. Did you have sufficient funds at that time——

A. (Interrupting.) I was trying to get a reduction on all the pictures and did get a reduction from Metro.

Q. After you obtained a reduction from Metro, isn't it a fact you then did not play the pictures?

A. I played the pictures nearly always as released. They were so well satisfied they sold me the '38–39 pictures.

Q. Your '38–39 pictures were sold to you at the same time the '37–38 were sold, weren't they?

A. No.

Q. When were the '38–39 sold?

A. They were sold about the same time after January, 1938; in 1938, I think it was.

Q. At that time what was your indebtedness to the newspaper at Mangum for advertising, at the time you 1330 sold out to Griffith?

A. Well, I don't remember just exactly the amount.

Q. Were you indebted in a large amount?

A. Not so very large, no.

Q. Weren't you sued for $1200 and garnisheed by the newspaper at Mangum?

A. Yes. They sued me but there was a dispute about what I owed them. I have the checks that show I had paid them most of it and the suit never did come up. They never did bring it up.

Q. You have testified to a number of conversations you had with various persons representing some of the Griffiths about either selling an interest in your theaters, or wanting a partnership arrangement or something of that kind. Do you recall that you testified in the case of A. B. Momand versus Griffith Amusement Company in the District Court of the United States for the Western District of Oklahoma about January 19, 1943?

A. Yes, I testified in that case.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you were asked about your conversations with representatives of the Griffith Amusement Company?

A. Yes. In that case?
Q. Yes.
A. I didn't testify very much.
1331 Q. You were asked about the conversations which you had with representatives of the Griffith Amusement Company, weren't you?
A. I think so, yes.
Q. I will ask you if it is not a fact that at that time you made reference to only two conversations, one a conversation which you had with Mr. Slocum and the other a conversation which you had in 1936 when H. J. Griffith and Red Slocum came down to Mangum?
A. I don't recall the conversation I referred to then because I didn't testify very long. The Judge wouldn't let me testify much in that case.
Q. He permitted you to testify fully about those conversations, didn't he?
A. I don't think so.
Q. What conversation do you now say you had with Slocum and H. J. Griffith in 1936 when they came to Mangum to see you?
A. When they tried to buy the theater in '36?
Q. The conversation you had with him in '36 at Mangum.
A. H. J. offered me $20,000 for the theater and told me they wanted a theater in the town, and if they couldn't buy mine they would have to put one in. That was the conversation.
Q. You testified to that in the Momand case, didn't you?
A. I don't recall whether I did or not.
1332 Q. Then you also testified in the Momand case that Mr. Spear in 1935 came over to see you in regard to making a partnership deal?
A. That's right.
Q. That's right, is it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And that you told him that you would not consider a partnership deal, and they asked how much you would take for the theaters and you told them $50,000; you testified to that, did you?
A. (No answer.)
Q. Then you testified——

By the Court:

Q. What was your answer?
A. Sir?
Q. Did you so testify?
A. I don't recall whether I did in that case or not, I don't know.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Well, you also testified "in the first part of 1936 Griffith Brothers had an expansion man known as Red Slocum or E. R. Slocum and he spent the bigger part of 1936 in Mangum trying to make a deal with me, first on a partnership deal, and then trying to buy the theaters," you testified to that, didn't you?

A. I don't remember what I testified to over there. I wasn't on the stand very long; I couldn't have testi-1333 fied to very much.

Q. Those are the only conversations that you detailed in your testimony in the Momand case, are they not?

A. Probably that was, I don't know; I wasn't on the stand very long.

Q. I am just asking you if you made any of these statements which you have detailed from the stand today, about conversations which you had with various Griffith representatives, in regard to the acquisition of those theaters, or an interest in your theater?

A. In that case?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I don't remember what I testified to over there, because I wasn't on the stand very long; I don't recall what it was, I don't know.

Q. Now, you stated that you gave the Griffith Brothers an option; do you have a copy of that option?

A. Yes.

Q. Let us have it, please.

A. Which one, both of them?

Q. If you have two, let's have them.

The COURT. Gentlemen, we will recess at this time until Monday morning at ten o'clock.

(Whereupon at four-thirty o'clock p. m. court recessed until Monday, May 21, 1945, at ten o'clock a. m.)

1334 PROCEEDINGS

May 21, 1945, 10 o'clock a. m.

The COURT. You may proceed.

Mr. MALCOLM MCKENZIE. May I make a statement in this suit? I represented United Artists Corporation, Columbia Pictures Corporation and Universal Film Exchange until the suit was dismissed as to them. They later shipped to me their records, except Universal. Universal sent their records to the exchange here. I think on the 15th it was, of this month, I got copies of the subpoenas duces tecum in this case on all three of the people that I represent. I have the records of United Artists and Columbia, and in response to the last subpoena duces tecum I have gone through and delivered to Mr. Wright for the Government all of the contracts called for on these two subpoenas as to Columbia and United Artists and I communicated with Mr. Gibbs and Mr. Holstein of Universal, and I understand those contracts will be delivered to the Government this morning from the exchange here. In that connection, the subpoena also calls for the first three items having to do with the matter of film rentals covering a series of towns under Item 1 and the film rental paid by what is designated as the "Griffith circuit" and also the title and national release dates of the feature pic-1335 tures of the '34-35 through '39-40 seasons. Those three items of the duces tecum subpoena I do not have. I have discussed the matter with Mr. Wright, and as I understand from him, that phase of the subpoena duces tecum is dormant right now, because, as he explained to me, that probably would be worked out during the interim recess. However, I called his attention to the fact and also mentioned it to Mr. Griffing, representing some of the defendants, that in the answer to interrogatories filed in this case, as I understood it, the information requested is covered by those answers. I do not know whether the interrogatories have been made available or will be made available in this case. They may not, but I want to say to the Court that is all the information that I have been able to furnish since the subpoenas were issued, and they were returnable this morning and I wanted to make that statement to your Honor.

1336 The Court. Is it agreeable to the plaintiff for the matter to take the same course as we suggested on the other information?

Mr. Wright. Surely.

The Court. And it may be that during this recess you will be able to secure that information without a formal reply as requested in the subpoenas. If not, then, I think Mr. McKenzie will just file a response to the subpoena stating the facts that you have stated with reference to that.

Mr. McKenzie. I will be very glad to do that, your Honor.

The Court. Let the matter await the further pleasure of the parties, and see if they can agree on that themselves.

Mr. McKenzie. We wanted to report to the Court the true facts.

The Court. Very well, you may proceed, gentlemen.

(Defendants' Exhibit No. 52 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

1337 PAT DUFFY, a witness called by and on behalf of the plaintiff, was recalled and was examined and testified as follows:

Further Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit No. 62 for identification and ask you if that is the option agreement which you testified about when you were last on the stand?

A. Yes, sir, it is.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 62.

Mr. KIMB. No objection.

The COURT. State what it is; what is the exhibit?

Mr. COCHRAN. Defendants' Exhibit No. 62. It is signed by Duffy Theaters, Inc., by Pat Duffy, President, and Consolidated Theaters, Inc., by B. J. McKenna, vice-president, and bears date January 5, 1937, and is an option for the purchase of the theater furniture, fixtures, equipment, and all other personal property located in and used as a part of the Temple Theater and Rialto Theater in Mangum. It recites that Duffy Theaters, Inc., is occupying the premises where the theaters are located under month to month leases. The option is for a period of thirty days; the agreed price is $22,000.

The COURT. Who is the other party besides Duffy?

1338 Mr. COCHRAN. Consolidated Theaters, Inc.

The COURT. All right; it will be admitted.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. It is true that at the time that option agreement was exercised that you were renting the building in which your two theaters were located on a month to month basis, is that right?

A. That's right.

Q. Now, then, this was located in the Masonic Temple, was it not?

A. That's right.

Q. How much rent were you paying on that building, that space?

A. $150 a month.

Q. How much?

A. $150 a month.

Q. You understood that at the time that option agreement was made that the exercise of that option by Consolidated depended on whether a lease contract could be obtained on the Masonic Temple space at a certain rental, did you not?

A. At the same rental?

Q. Either the same or some rental that was mentioned between you?

A. I understood they were trying to make a deal for the rental, yes.

Q. Was that to be at the same rental?

1339 A. No, I don't know, I don't know what.

Q. Well, if a satisfactory deal could be made for the rental of the space?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that option, do you know that that option was not exercised because the Masonic organization insisted on an increase in the rental?

A. I don't know what was the reason for it.

Q. What was it?

A. I don't know what the deal was they had with the Masonic.

Q. Weren't you advised by representatives of Consolidated that they couldn't exercise the option, that they wouldn't exercise it, because the rental was increased?

A. I was advised that they would not exercise the option; as to the reason why, they didn't.

1340 Mr. COCHRAN. I see.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I will ask you to examine Defendants' Exhibit No. 63 and will ask you to state if that is your signature on that.

A. That is right.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 63.

Mr. KIMB. No objection.

Mr COCHRAN. On the letter head of Duffy Theaters, Inc., dated April 3, 1936, by Pat Duffy, Manager, to W. B. Zoellner, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Oklahoma City.

(Counsel reads the above exhibit.)

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit No. 64, dated January 4, Pat Duffy to Loew's, Inc., and ask you if that is your signature on that letter.

A. Right.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 64.

Mr. KIMB. No objection.

(Hereupon counsel reads the above exhibit.)

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I show you Defendants' Exhibit No. 65 and ask you if that is your signature.

A. The signatures on all of these are my daugh-
1341 ter's signatures.

Q. They were signed for you?

A. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 65.

Mr. KIMB. No objection.

Mr. COCHRAN. Defendants' Exhibit 65 is a letter dated March 3, 1938, from Pat Duffy to Loew's Incorporated.

(Counsel here reads letter.)

Q. I show you Defendants' Exhibit No. 66, and ask you if that letter was written for you by your daughter?

A. Yes, sir, and signed by me.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit 66, which is a letter dated March 24, 1938, to Loew's Incorporated by Pat Duffy.

(Hereupon counsel reads Defendants' Exhibit 66.)

1342 Q. Now, in regard to that Temple Theater, you had sometime prior to the execution of that option agreement had a lease contract on that theater, hadn't you?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. When did that lease expire?

A. Well, it expired about January, in January, I think, 1936.

Q. You were unable to obtain a renewal of that lease?

A. I tried to get a renewal, yes.

Q. But they declined to give you a renewal?

A. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is all.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. KIMB:

Q. Mr. Duffy, after the Greer Theater was built and the Temple taken over by Griffiths, what theaters operated there then?

A. The Greer and the Temple.

Q. How did they operate?

A. Well, they operated the Temple, I believe, all the time, and the Greer on Friday and Saturday.

Q. How long did that continue?

A. I think it still continues that way.

Q. Up to the present time?

A. I think so. I am not sure about that.

1343 Q. I hand you what has been heretofore identified as W-1, B and C, and ask you if that is your signature, if that was signed for you?

A. That is right.

Mr. KIMB. We offer in evidence the contract for the 1937-38 product of Warner Brothers. The contract was dated February 19, 1937, and it has been heretofore stipulated as to its identity.

The COURT. What is the number of the exhibit?

The REPORTER. W–1, B and C.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KIMR. That's all, your Honor.

The COURT. Stand aside.

(Witness excused.)

P. E. SMITH, called as a witness by and on behalf of the plaintiff, and having been first duly sworn to testify the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, was examined and testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Would you state your name and address, please?

A. P. E. Smith; Lubbock, Texas.

Q. And what is your occupation?

1344 A I am in the theater business in Lubbock.

Q. What theater?

A. The Tech.

Q. You are also a member of the Texas Legislature, are you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You began with the Tech Theater there in 1936, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In partnership with Mr. Bearden?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, calling your attention to the year 1940, can you recall when the Tower was built there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was when?

A. That was August 22, 1940, the date that it opened.

Q. And can you tell us what, if any, efforts you made in trying to secure major film product for the Tech on a run ahead of the Tower?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do?

A. We wrote letters to Metro, Warner, Paramount, Fox, Universal, RKO, Columbia.

Mr. COCHRAN. Just a minute. Will you read those over, Mr. Reporter?

(Last answer read by the reporter.)

A. And United Artists.

1345 Q. Did you also see any of the exchanges?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you get a run ahead of the Tower Theater from those companies for your Tech Theater?

A. We got a run ahead of the Tower of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and have held that run. We got a run ahead of the RKO for the '40-41 season.

Q. How about any others?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did any of the others take an application from you for a run ahead of the Tower?

A. Only one.

Q. Which one was that?

A. Paramount.

Q. Do you remember when that application was taken?

A. That application was taken on or about June 10, 1940.

Q. Do you know who the Paramount representative was that took it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was that?

A. Walter Weems.

Q. He was the salesman?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. From what office, what branch?

A. The Dallas office, Dallas, Texas.

1346 Q. Then after the application was taken did you hear anything further from him?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. On or about July 1st or 2nd, 1940.

Q. Did you ever talk to him on the telephone?

A. I talked to him on the telephone. He called me from Dallas.

Q. What did he say with reference to the application?

A. He said that unless——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the statement as hearsay.

The COURT. Sustained and exception allowed. He can state what was done

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, what I want to show at this time is that he asked for the higher percentage terms than were called for by the application. He told them he could not get it through——

The COURT. You may offer that under the arrangements heretofore made.

Mr. WRIGHT. Go ahead and answer.

The COURT. He may answer.

A. That unless our second allocated group pictures were increased to 12 at $40 against percentage, the application would be rejected.

Q. Then what did you do——

1347 Mr. DUDLEY. Before you leave that, we move the answer be stricken from the record.

Mr. COCHRAN. It was not admitted.

The COURT. He just offered that.

Mr. DUDLEY. We object to the offer as tendered.

The COURT. Objection sustained. You may proceed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then what did you do?

A. We cancelled the contract.

Q. I will show you this exhibit, Plaintiff's Exhibit 289 for identification, and ask you if that is a copy of a letter you wrote with respect to your application on or about the date it bears there.

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. We offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 289 for identification.

Mr. DUDLEY. We object to Plaintiff's Exhibit 289 for the reason it is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial and hearsay and no proper foundation laid.

The COURT. To whom was the letter addressed?

Mr. WRIGHT. Paramount Pictures Corporation, Dallas, Texas.

The COURT. Objection sustained. Exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now that application calls for the fourth run in the City of Lubbock does it?

A. Yes, sir.

1348 Q. And at that time had Paramount ever asked you for rentals that were as high as those?

A. No, sir.

Q. About how much higher were these rentals that had been asked there in comparison with any prior rentals for the same run?

A. About one-third.

1349 Q. Then after that letter was written which has been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 289 for identification, were you offered a run ahead of the Tower by Paramount at any time?

A. No, sir.

Q. And you later made a deal in 1941 with Paramount for a run after the Tower, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, calling your attention again to the year 1940, did you have any conversation with any representatives of the Griffith companies with reference to the sale or purchase of your theaters?

A. No, sir.

Q. During the year 1940?

A. Yes, sir; we did have.

Q. With whom?

A. With Claud Motley.

Mr. COCHRAN. How do you spell that?

A. M-o-t-l-e-y, I suppose.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And where was this conversation?

A. In Owen McWhirter's office, in Lubbock, Texas.

Q. Who else was present?

A. W. O. Bearden and myself.

Q. What was said then?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that conversation
1350 because there is no showing of any authority on the part of Mr. Motley to bind or speak for any of the defendants in this case.

By the COURT:

Q. Who was Motley?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know who Mr. Motley was?

A. I think he was the manager, the general supervisor of Griffith Amusement Company in that area.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will expect to show, your Honor, that he was in the employ of one of the defendants at that time.

The COURT. Overruled and exception allowed, but unless it is shown that he was connected, and with sufficient authority, a motion to strike will be in order.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, can you tell us what was said at that time?

A. We were interested in disposing of the Phillips Theater at Phillips, Texas, or purchasing the Griffith Amusement Company's theater at Phillips, Texas.

Q. Was that what you said?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was said by Mr. Motley, if anything?

A. He asked if we were interested in also making a deal with Griffith in connection with the Tech and Arcadia Theaters in Lubbock, Texas.

Q. What did you say to that?

A. We told him we were not interested in making
1351 a deal in connection with the Tech and Arcadia Theaters at Lubbock.

Q. Was anything further said?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What else?

A. He said that he would arrange a meeting for us with some Griffith Amusement Company representatives in Oklahoma City to discuss the Phillips deal.

Q. Did you have such a meeting?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, when was that?

A. That was in the late summer of '40, or early fall.

Q. Whereabouts in Oklahoma City was that?

A. In Mr. Griffing's office.

Q. Was that Mr. Henry Griffing?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And who else was present then?

A. As I remember, Brownie Akers, Henry Griffing, Allen Seal, W. O. Bearden and myself.

Q. Who was Mr. Seal?

A. He was our general manager at Phillips and owned a third interest in the Phillips Theater.

Q. And Mr. Akers?

A. He was a representative of the Griffith Amusement Company.

Q. What was said then?

A. We told them that the Phillips Theater was 1352 not operating on a profitable basis, and we would like to sell them this theater at what we had invested, or we would pay them what they had invested, because we thought that one theater would do business in Phillips.

Q. What did they say to that?

A. They asked about, what about a deal for the Tech and Arcadia Theaters at Lubbock also.

Q. And what did you say?

A. We told them we were not interested in making a deal in connection with the Tech and Arcadia Theaters at Lubbock.

Q. Was anything further said about the Phillips deal?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What?

A. They said that Mr. Brownie Akers would be in Phillips the next Thursday, and if a satisfactory lease could be made with the man we had our lease from, that they would take the deal.

1353 Q. Did you ever hear anything further from that afterwards?

A. No, sir.

Q. When was it this Theater in Phillips that was referred to in the conversation was operated by you or opened?

A. We opened that in March of 1939; March of 1940, I believe; March 12, 1940.

Q. When did you make a lease?

A. December of 1939.

Q. When you made the lease in Phillips was there any other theater there?

A. No, sir.

Q. How large a town was that?

A. It is hard to say but I would say approximately 6000 people.

Q. When did you start construction of your theater there?

A. Along the first of January of 1940

Q. Did you build a new theater or convert another property?

A. We built a new theater.

By the COURT:

Q. Where was that?

A. Phillips, Texas.

Q. You didn't own the property?

1354 A. Not the lot. We leased the lot.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You made a lease for how long?

A. Fifteen years.

Q. Then after you started construction of your theater was another theater begun there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. About how long afterward?

A. About two or three weeks afterward.

Q. And that theater opened when?

A. It opened in March, 1940.

Q. When with reference to the opening of your theater?

A. About a day before our theater opened.

Q. What was that theater called?

A. The "66".

Q. And the name of your theater was what?

A. The Phillips Theater.

Q. Who operated the "66?"

A. The Griffith Amusement Company.

Q. Can you tell us what efforts were made to get pictures for the Phillips Theater prior to the time it was opened?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do?
A. Immediately after we signed our lease——
Mr. Cochran. We object to this testimony for the 1355 reason that Phillips is not one of the towns named in the complaint. It is not one of the towns named in any of the responses to the bill of particulars which we requested, and it has never been in this case until this morning. We object to going into any issue in regard to Phillips. We had no notice. We attempted to get the Government to specify what they were going into——
Mr. Wright. If the Court pleases, Phillips, of course, is not mentioned in the pleadings because the situation didn't develop until after the complaint was filed. We did, however, give notice to the defendants that we would go into the Phillips situation with the Lubbock witnesses sometime before the trial started, and it is necessary, I think, to develop the Phillips picture because it was closely tied to the Tech and Arcadia situations in Lubbock, and it is also related to the Griffith situation at Borger, one of the towns named in the complaint which is near Phillips.
The Court. Overruled. Exception allowed.
(Question read.)
A. Immediately after we signed our lease we wired Columbia, Warner, Paramount, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Universal, RKO and Twentieth Century Fox for first run pictures, Phillips, Texas.
Q. Did you call on any of the exchanges?
A. Yes, sir.
1356 Q. Where?
A. In Oklahoma City.
Q. Is that where Phillips was served out of?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did you call on any in Dallas in that connection?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. For what company?
A. United Artists.
Q. Did United Artists serve Phillips out of Dallas?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When the theater opened had you made any first run contracts with any of those companies you mentioned?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Which one?
A. Warner Brothers.
Q. You had a season deal, first run with Warner?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Any others?
A. We had a partial deal with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Q. When you say "partial deal" what do you mean?
A. Well, the lower allocations of that season's product.
Q. You had those first run in Phillips?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Were you offered any first run deal for Phillips by any of the other film companies?
1357 A. No, sir.
Q. How large was the Phillips Theater?
A. We had 556 seats, I believe.
Q. Do you know about how large the "66" theater was?
A. About 300 seats.
Q. How far away from the town of Borger is Phillips?
A. Two miles.
Q. Do you know whether the Griffith Amusement Company operated any theater at Borger?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. They did?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now can you tell us how the films that you got and that you played in Phillips were made available to you with reference to the time they were played in the Griffith houses at Borger?
A. Warner Brothers' contract was made available thirty days after the first run, Borger, if available.
Q. In making the prints available——
A. If they had the prints.
Q. In making the prints available were you served after the first run had been completed in Borger or did you sometimes have to wait until after they had been run twice in Borger?
A. In most instances we had to wait until after they had played twice in Borger.
1358 Mr. COCHRAN. Are you referring to the Warner contract?
A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, how long did you keep the Phillips open there?
A. Until July 21, 1942.
Q. What happened then?
A. We closed the theater.
Q. Why did you close it?
A. Because it was losing money; it was not a profitable investment.
Q. During the time it was opened there, were you offered a season's deal of any major film product, other than Warner and Metro product you have referred to?

A. Not first run.
Q. Then what was done with respect to your lease?
A. The lease was dissolved, in late 1942 or early '43, I am not sure of that date.
Q. How about the building?
A. The building was sold for $250.
Q. Sold to whom?
A. Mr. Ostrum, the man who owned the lot.
Q. What had it cost you?
A. Sixty-one——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting.) We object to that as 1359 immaterial.

A. $6100.

The COURT. Overruled and exception allowed.
Mr. COCHRAN. What was the answer?
A. $6100.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know what happened to the building after that?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What?
A. It was leased to the Griffith Amusement Company.
Q. And they are operating the Phillips Theater there now?
A. I don't know the name of the theater, whether they operate under the name of Phillips Theater or not, but they operated in that building.
Q. Is the theater known as the "66" still running?
A. No, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. What is the population of Phillips at this time?
A. I haven't been there in two years, but I presume about 7500.
Q. What is the population of Borger?
A. I would say about 12,000.
Q. And they are just two miles apart?
A. Yes, sir.

1360 By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Going back to the situation at the Tech at Lubbock, can you tell us what major product you had there in the 1941-42 season?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. As I recall you and Mr. Bearden dissolved your partnership in the fall of '41, did you not?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. And then what did you have there for the '41-42 season?

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, just for the record, I again make an objection to the witness using the memoranda, which is not shown to have been made contemporaneously with the happening of the events, and therefore not proper to refresh his memory, and the contracts would be the best evidence to reflect what was actually done.

The COURT. Overruled and exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You may go ahead and answer. Read the question.

(Last question read by the reporter.)

A. We had pictures from Columbia, Warner, Paramount, United Artists, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Universal, RKO, and Fox.

Q. Were you able to play any of those clear of the Tower?

1361 A. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Q. How about RKO?

A. I don't remember. In 1941-42 I am sure we didn't have a full contract with RKO; we did buy one block of pictures.

Q. '41-42 was the season when RKO began selling pictures in small blocks, was it?

A. I don't know. I suppose.

Q. You say you think you got one block ahead of or clear of the Tower?

A. We got five pictures first run in Lubbock, Texas, from RKO out of that season's product.

Q. Since that time have you been offered any product by RKO on a run ahead of the Tower?

A. No, sir.

The COURT. What was the question?

(Last question read by the reporter.)

By the COURT:

Q. How large a town is Lubbock?

A. The last federal census shows it as approximately 50,000 people.

Q. How many theaters are in the town?

A. Oh, at present, I believe there is ten, not counting the little Mexican theater there.

Q. Where is the Tower located with reference to your theater, the Tech?

1362 A. The Tower is approximately two blocks north of the Tech Theater.

Q. Is that in the business district?
A. No, sir.
Q. Where is it located?
A. That is out near the Texas Technological College, approximately one and a half miles or two miles west of the business section.

The COURT. Isn't this the situation that you went into last week?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir, your Honor, we covered the situation with Mr. Bearden in Lubbock in the Tech Theater up through the '40-41 season. You will recall that he testified that he dissolved partnership with Mr. Smith in 1941 and had no interest in the Tech after that date, and I am simply completing the picture as to the Tech with Mr. Smith.

The COURT. Very well.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then, since 1941-42 season have you followed the Tower on all of the major product that you have run there with the exception of the Metro?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Have any of those companies except Metro offered you a run clear of the Tower?
A. Since the '41-42 season?
1363 Q. Yes.
A. No, sir.
Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.
1364 Mr. WRIGHT. I just want to ask you one more question.
Q. Mr. Smith, with reference to that conference at Oklahoma City was Mr. McKenna also present?
A. Yes, sir.
Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You stated that you had approximately $6,000 invested in the theater building at Phillips?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, isn't it a fact that your investment for the building and the equipment was slightly less than $6,000?
A. No, sir.
Q. I beg pardon.
A. No, sir.
Q. In the conversation that you had in Mr. Griffith's office, which you have attempted to detail, when inquiry was made in regard to your investment there, didn't Mr. Bearden say "Here is the figures we made out, what we have spent and what we owe" and Mr. Griffing said, "You have a cash outlay of $5,823.21," Mr. Akers, "That includes the building and equipment." and Bearden said, "That's right, that's what we have actually spent there in 1365 cash, and there is what we owe", did that conversation take place?

A. I don't recall exactly that conversation, but our equipment cost more than $6,000.

Q. I just asked you if that conversation took place?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You have stated that you sold the building that you stated cost you $6,000 for $250, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That theater was closed at what time?

A. It was closed permanently on July 21, 1942, or thereabouts.

Q. How long after that before that theater burned?

A. It didn't burn after that.

Q. How long was it before that?

A. Well, sir, I just don't remember.

Q. It did burn?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It wasn't rebuilt prior to the time you sold it?

A. Yes, sir. It burned twice, if you remember.

Q. Well, when did it burn the first time?

A. Oh, about six months after we opened, approximately.

Q. And then you rebuilt it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then it burned again?

A. Yes, sir.

1366 Q. When did it burn the second time?

A. Oh, in 1941 sometime; I have forgotten.

Q. And then you say it was rebuilt after it burned the last time?

A. I don't believe it was.

Q. You collected the insurance on that building, didn't you?

A. Just the damage.

Q. Just the damage to it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it was the salvage that you sold, is that right?

A. Well, the part that wasn't burned was sold.

Q. Yes. Now, you didn't intend to leave the wrong impression when you said that that building was sold, without having told about it having been destroyed by fire, when you testified on your direct examination, did you?

A. That question wasn't asked me.

1367 Q. You were sworn to testify the whole truth, weren't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You stated that the theater at Lubbock, the Phillips Theater, seated 556 people. Is it not a fact there were 439 seats in that theater?

A. No, sir.

Q. You know there were 556?

A. I know there were more than 500 seats in it.

Q. On your direct examination you stated there were 556. Is that right.

A. About that. I wouldn't know exactly how many I have got.

Q. How did you arrive at that figure of 556?

A. Well, it was in my contract with the National Theater Supply and he usually makes some connection there. We brought those seats from Temple and the best I remember it was 556 seats. I don't have the contract with me.

Q. And that is the way you arrived at your figures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You spoke about Griffith later acquiring a lease on that property and opening a theater where the Phillips Theater had previously been operated by you. Don't you know, as a matter of fact, that the theater which they had previously operated was closed in by a refinery ex-

1368 pansion of the Phillips Petroleum Company and had to be abandoned for that reason?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you know there was a refinery expansion at the location of that theater?

A. No, sir.

Q. You don't know, you mean?

A. No, sir, I do not know that.

Q. When were you in Phillips last?

A. In September of '42, I believe.

Q. You have not been there then subsequent to the time the original Griffith was abandoned?

A. Restate that. I don't know the contents of it.

(Question read).

A. What do you mean by "subsequent"?

The Court. After.

A. No, sir.

By Mr. Cochran:

Q. Your information about what transpired there subsequent to the time you abandoned your theater is purely hearsay?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In this conference which you had in Mr. Griffing's office which you have heretofore referred to, did the representatives of the Griffith Amusement Company offer to sell you their theater in Phillips?

1369 A. I don't recall exactly, but that was the interest on which we were there, was to acquire theirs or sell ours.

Q. Did they offer to sell you theirs?

A. No, sir.

Q. In that conversation did Mr. Bearden say "Well, I will tell you what we thought we would do; we thought if you fellows wanted it for exactly what we have in it we thought we would let you have it" and Mr. Griffing said: "Well, we would make you the same deal." Mr. Bearden said, "Well, I wouldn't be surprised the way it has turned out anyway." Did that conversation take place?

A. I don't remember. That has been too long ago.

Q. Will you say it didn't take place?

A. I say I don't remember the exact conversation.

Q. Also in that conversation didn't Mr. Griffing later on say, "I want you to give consideration to whether you are interested in buying us; we would like for you to make us a proposition to buy us."

A. I don't remember that.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the Arcadia and Tech Theaters at Lubbock, Texas, were not mentioned in that conversation at all by anyone?

A. No, sir.

Q. You say they were mentioned?

A. I say they were mentioned.

1370 Q. By whom?

A. I suppose all of us.

Q. Well, who said what about the Arcadia and the Tech at Lubbock?

A. I have no record of the conversation.

Q. Yes, but you are telling us in that conversation that there was something said about the Arcadia and Tech, and you attempted to tell us what it was in your direct examination.

A. There were several of the Griffith Amusement Company's men there and I don't remember which one said what.

Q. What did any representative of that company say about the Tech and Arcadia?

A. They said if we would be interested in making a deal in connection with the Tech and Arcadia in Lubbock.

Q. And you said you would not?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Speaking of Phillips, Phillips was not a town, was it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Isn't it a fact it was merely a camp that grew up around the Phillips Refinery which was located a mile and a quarter from the town of Borger?
A. No, sir.
Q. That is not true?
1371 A. No, sir.
Q. Prior to the time you and your associates, and the Griffith Amusement Company opened theaters in Phillips in 1940, there was no theater there, was there?
A. Not at the time we opened up. Now prior, I don't know, but as I understood it, approximately——
Q. Just tell us what you know.
A. Well, I will just have to say no, sir.
Q. When were you first in Phillips individually?
A. In the fall of 1939.
Q. At that time there was no theater there, was there?
A. No, sir.
Q. How long had that camp which you designated a town been in existence, if you know?
A. I don't know.
Q. Getting back to the town of Lubbock, what did you say the population of Lubbock was in 1940?
A. Well, I said approximately 50,000, but I believe that is for the entire county. I think Lubbock itself is only about 31,000.
Q. That is what the 1940 census shows, isn't it?
A. Yes, sir. I believe that is right.
Q. Your efforts along in 1940 were to attempt to obtain a specific run for the area in which your Tech Theater was located as distinguished from a run in the town
1372 of Lubbock; is that true?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. In other words, it was your contention that the distributors should license the Tech Theater which was located out near the campus of the Technical College separate from the runs which it was licensing in the town of Lubbock?
A. No, sir, I would not say that.
Q. And you wrote separate letters to the various distributors of motion pictures, didn't you?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. In an effort to convince them that instead of licensing the Tech Theater for a run in the town of Lubbock it should be licensed separately on a first run basis for that area?

A. No, sir. Can I make a statement there?

Q. You were insisting that you had a contract permitting you to play the product of the several distributors in the Tech Theater, first run, notwithstanding you had always licensed the product of the several distributors prior to that time on a certain run for the town of Lubbock?

A. We asked that——

Q. Just answer that question.

A. We stated: (Question read.)

A. Yes, sir, with modifications.

1373 Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, the question is pure argument. I don't see how that advances any of the issues here.

The COURT. I think it is proper cross-examination.

Mr. WRIGHT. It is clear what he wanted. You can phrase it in a dozen different ways. I don't see that it is any clearer.

The COURT. Proceed.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. In 1939 when you learned that a competitive theater was going in out near the campus, you at that time made an application for product with Paramount did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was along in March of 1939, wasn't it?

A. That was for the 1939-40 deal?

Q. I don't know what deal it was; I just asked you if it wasn't one in which you——

A. (Interrupting.) We made contracts every year with Paramount.

Q. That first location that had been selected for the competitive theater was out at Second and Broadway, wasn't it?

A. Was where and Broadway?

Q. I beg pardon?

A. Was where and Broadway?

Q. Second and Broadway?

1374 A. I don't know.

Q. Do you know where Second Street is in Lubbock?

A. No, sir.

Q. Is there a Second Street there?

A. I don't know.

Q. Don't you live in Lubbock?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember that lot on which the sign was erected in 1939 saying that some theater was to be built there?

A. No, sir.
Q. You don't know anything about that?
A. I remember a sign in '38.
Q. All right, in '38 then, what was the location of that lot?
A. It was in the 2400 block on Broadway.
Q. Would that be Second and Broadway, do you know?
A. I think Broadway is 12th Street, isn't it?
Q. I don't know; I am just asking you.
A. Well, I don't know anything about Second Street.
Q. Do you have a copy of the application that you filed with Paramount on March 21, 1940?
A. I didn't sign a contract with Paramount in March of 1940.
Q. The application?
1375 A. I didn't sign an application that I recall.
Q. When was that application signed that you said was later cancelled?
A. In June of 1940.
Q. Do you have a copy of that application?
A. No, sir.
Q. Isn't it a fact that that application which was filed with Paramount in 1940 contained a clause which provided that the Tech Theater would have clearance over the proposed theater on Broadway?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And that was the application which you say was later cancelled?
A. No, sir.
Q. Isn't it a fact that the application that you have just mentioned, that after it was sent in to Paramount, that you refused to pay the prices which Paramount insisted should be paid for the product under that application?
A. Which contract are you speaking of?
Q. I am talking about this one which gave you clearance over the proposed theater on Broadway.
A. The contract that was signed June 10, 1940?
Mr. Wright. If the Court please, this is not proper at all. There was only one such contract; he told you he had the contract for the 1939-40 season.
1376 By Mr. Cochran:
Q. June 10, 1940, how about that?
A. Restate the question.
The Court. Read the question.
(Last question read by the reporter.)
A. We refused to pay the prices as asked by Paramount.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. And cancelled the application?

A. After they telephoned us.

Q. After you refused to pay the price?

A. Yes, sir; they insisted on a raise.

Q. You spoke of the contract sometime, some subsequent year, with Paramount which called before the run in Lubbock; do you have that?

A. No, sir.

Q. The five pictures which you said you licensed from RKO for the 1941-42 season were licensed after RKO had commenced to license its product under the consent decree, was it not?

A. As best I remember, that's right. That has been several years ago.

Q. And you understood that under the consent decree that you had a right to arbitrate runs with RKO?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Isn't it a fact that in the 1941-42 season that you were licensed three groups of five each of RKO pictures?

1377 A. No, sir, not first run.

Q. I mean, that was in the Tech, you mean?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have the RKO contract in which you say you were licensed first run?

A. No, sir, not with me.

Q. What year do you say that was?

A. As best I remember, it was the '41-42 season.

Q. The '41-42 season?

A. I can name the pictures.

Q. That was the first contract that you had with RKO for first run?

A. No, sir.

Q. Well, when was the first contract that you had with RKO first run?

A. In 1939 and '40, and 1940 and '41, we had first run on College Avenue and third run in Lubbock.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike that answer as not responsive.

A. That was the first run contract.

Q. All right, you said 1939-40. Do you have that contract?

A. No, sir.

Q. You brought some of your contracts, did you?

A. Yes, sir, over there. I was in Austin and I didn't go by my show and pick up all the contracts.

1378 Q. You don't have the contract for the five pictures for the '41-42 season that you said you had first run?

A. Not with me, no, sir.
Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

Re-direct-examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, Mr. Smith, in connection with this question that was asked you about the right to arbitrate under the consent decree, do you know what could or could not be done by way of arbitration under that decree?
A. No, sir, I do not.
Q. I take it you are not a lawyer?
A. No, sir.
Q. You don't, as a matter of fact, know what rights, what your rights are under the decree in connection with any particular run, is that correct?
A. That's right.
Q. Now, the RKO deal, I believe you say you had previously enjoyed, that is, during the 1939-40 and '40-41 seasons, what was called a first run on College Avenue?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And that first run on College Avenue, however, was a third or fourth run in Lubbock, was it?
A. Third run Lubbock.
1379 Q. And in your negotiations with the distributors, even in those—strike that. In the Metro runs which you enjoyed first on College Avenue, those have all actually been fourth or fifth run Lubbock, have they not?
A. Third or fourth run Lubbock.
Q. Third or fourth run Lubbock?
A. Yes, sir, and first run on College Avenue.
1380 Q. Yes, but that was the kind of a run that you were trying to get from the other major distributors, is that right?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Getting back to this Paramount deal you referred to, this application you signed in 1940, for a run ahead of the Tower, now was that the first Paramount application that had that provision in it, or had you had that kind of a provision the year before?
A. The provision the year before did not specify the name of the theater.
Q. What did it specify?
A. The new proposed theater by Griffith.
Q. That is in the '39-40 Paramount deal?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. That just provided for the run ahead of the proposed theater?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. But there was no theater there during the period of that contract?

A. No, sir, there was not.

Q. And this application that was taken in 1940 for the '40-41 pictures, as I understand it Weems took that application and those terms that were written into the application were agreeable to you, weren't they?

1381 A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the only terms you objected to were the increases that Mr. Weems wanted over the application as written; isn't that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, with respect to this theater in Phillips. Can you tell us just what the fire damage there was. You say there was a fire there after it had been operating six months. There was a fire in the Phillips Theater you testified on your direct examination, after you had been operating six months. How extensive was that damage or how long was the theater closed there?

A. It was closed, I would say, eight weeks, but I am not exactly certain.

Q. About how long?

A. About 60 to 90 days.

Q. It was then rebuilt and reopened?

A. Remodeled and reopened, yes, sir.

Q. Then the second fire was when?

A. It was in the spring of 1942, I would say.

Q. That was just before you closed. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was it operated after the fire or did it close at the time you had the fire?

A. It was not operated after we had the fire.

1382 Q. So actually it was closed then sometime in the spring rather than July?

A. That would be right, I believe.

Q. What was the July date?

A. Well, that has been two years ago and I am not certain. It is possible that the fire was in July. It was in the first part of '43 or along in the summer; I don't remember exactly.

Q. And that was when you moved your equipment out and closed it. At any rate, it was when the second fire occurred?

A. We moved our equipment in 1942, in the late summer or early fall. I am not sure but that was when we moved it.

Q. Without regard to the amount, it is a fact that you lost or gained there on the investment you made in Phillips?

A. I lost.

Q. A substantial amount?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. That is, after making all allowances for whatever you received from the insurance company?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. That is all.

Re-direct-examination by Mr. DUDLEY:

Q. When you had the first fire at Phillips did you
1383 have coverage both on the building and the equipment?
A. Yes, sir, I believe we did.
Q. Was the building totally destroyed?
A. No, sir.
Q. Was your equipment destroyed?
A. Partially.
Q. And you collected insurance both on the damage to the building and the equipment?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you remember how much?
A. No, sir.
Q. Small or sizeable?
A. Well, whatever the damage was; I don't remember.
Q. Then when you had the second fire you had coverage both as to the building and your equipment?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Don't remember about that?
A. No, sir.
Q. What was the extent of the damage to your building at this second fire, was it small?
A. Yes, sir, it wasn't very much.
Q. You recovered insurance for that?
A. I don't know; I don't remember.
Q. Was your equipment destroyed also at the second fire?
1384 A. Not all of it.
Q. Most of it?
A. No, sir.
Q. Do you know how much?
A. That in the booth was burned pretty bad.
Q. But you recovered insurance for the damage to your equipment?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Then after that you sold this theater, the building and your equipment?
A. No, sir, just the building.
Q. And got $250 for the building?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do with the equipment?
A. I moved it to Lubbock.
Q. That equipment was damaged in some respects as a result of that fire, wasn't it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And you moved it to Lubbock?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What did you do with it?
A. I still have it. I have it stored in Lubbock.
Q. That equipment is still stored in Lubbock?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What did the equipment cost in the first place?
1385 A. Oh, approximately $7000.
Q. That is all.
(Witness excused.)

WILLIAM NAGLE, was thereupon called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, and being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. State your name and address.
A. Gallup, New Mexico.
Q. What is your occupation?
A. Motion picture theater proprietor.
Q. What theater?
A. El Morro Theater at Gallup.
Q. How long have you operated that theater?
A. Since 1928.
Q. Was the theater built then, in 1928?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. At the time you built the theater in Gallup were there any other theaters there?
A. Yes, sir, two.
Q. What were they?
A. I believe the names were the Cairo and Rex.
Q. Who operated them?
A. Mr. Masters.
1386 Q. He was a resident of Gallup?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Can you describe the theater that you built there? Could you be a little more specific?
A. Describe it in what manner?
Q. As to size and general character of the equipment and so forth.
A. We employed a very good architect in Los Angeles and we had quite a modern theater. The size is 877 seats.
Q. How did it compare when completed with the other theaters there?

A. It was far superior to the other theaters.

Q. Then after you built that theater, what, if any, major film product did you play there?

Mr. RICE. The complaint covers the period from 1934, April 28, to 1939. There has been some evidence regarding the product, contracts prior to that time but in every case the product contracts that were introduced carry over into the period under survey, and I think it is proper to include that, and we therefore object to all testimony regarding the product situation in Gallup, New Mexico, prior to April 28, 1934, unless it comes within that restricted class where the contracts carried over as franchises or equipment.

The COURT. What is the object?

1387 Mr. WRIGHT. This is merely background.

The COURT. Well, you may proceed. We are going to get a pretty good history of the Louisiana Purchase by the time we get through.

Mr. RICE. Note our exception.

The COURT. Exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you just name the major companies whose product you were using there in 1928, '29, '30?

A. During those three years we had Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount, Warner Brothers, Twentieth Century Fox, or I believe it was just Fox at that time, and I believe RKO, and during one of those years, United Artists, and maybe I had Columbia, I believe, one of those years.

1388 Q. Do you recall when the R. E. Griffith Theaters Company came into the town?

A. In the year 1930.

Q. About what time in that year?

A. I cannot be quite positive on that date, but I believe it was mid-summer.

Q. Of 1930?

A. Yes.

Q. Did they build a theater there?

A. Purchased.

Q. They bought the theaters Masters was running?

A. They bought one from Mr. Masters.

Q. Which one was that?

A. The Cairo.

Q. Was the other one then operating?

A. No, the other theater had been turned into a store.

Q. So that at the time they came in, the only theaters operating there were the Cairo and the El Morro?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then was the name of the Cairo changed when they took it over?

A. I don't recall whether it was changed when they took it over or at a later date. It seems to me it was changed possibly during a remodeling period, some years later.

1389 Q. The name was later changed to what?

A. The Chief.

Q. The Chief?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How large a town was Gallup then?

A. At what period?

Q. This is along in 1930.

A. Approximately 6,000.

By the COURT:

Q. There were just two theaters there in 1930?

A. Yes, your Honor. There were three at the time we opened the El Morro Theater, then one was closed and turned into a store room in 1929.

Q. The Cairo and your theater was the only theaters running in 1930?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. After the Masters' theater was taken over by Griffith, what, if any, major product did you play at the El Morro?

A. After Masters' theater was taken over by Griffith what major product did I play, is that the question?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I was immediately reduced to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Paramount as the two principal companies.

Mr. RICE. I can't hear you.

1390 A. I was immediately reduced to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Paramount.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. After they took over were you offered any season's first run deals of Fox or Warner?

A. There was on one occasion, about 1932. Shall I explain that?

Q. Yes, go ahead.

A. The Fox manager called me from Denver and wanted to know——

Mr. RICE (interrupting.) We object to the conversation, your Honor.

The COURT. Sustained. Don't tell the conversation that occurred between you and any of the distributors. You may tell what happened in the theater business at that time and what you know.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Let's go back and have the question repeated. He may not have quite understood it. Will you read it, please?

(Last question read by the reporter.)

Q. This is after Griffith took over the Cairo or Chief Theater?

The COURT. Just tell what you did, not your conversation with these distributors.

A. I made an appointment with the Fox manager in Albuquerque. He wished to know if I would be interested in the Fox product again. I told him I would be.

1391

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. When was that, can you fix the time approximately?

A. That was approximately 1932. He then explained that he had to go back to Denver.

Mr. RICE. He is doing by indirection what the Court said he could not do directly.

The COURT. Objection sustained. Just state what happened, not the conversation between you and the Fox representatives, but what happened.

A. He was not ready to accept an application for the contract.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then, did Fox or Warner take any contract applications from you for season's deal after Griffith took over the Masters Theater?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, coming down to 1934–35——

Mr. RICE (interrupting.) Have you finished with that period?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

Mr. RICE. I think we should, and we move to strike the testimony regarding the product before April 28, 1934, your Honor.

The COURT. Overruled and exception allowed. The Court will disregard any testimony that he regards immaterial.

1392

Mr. WRIGHT. I beg pardon, I didn't hear that, your Honor. Will you read it, please?

(Court's remarks read by the reporter.)

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you tell us what major product you were using there during the 1934–35 season?

A. Paramount and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and I believe that it was in the 1934–35 season on which I had RKO.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit 290 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Q. I show you this contract, marked Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 290 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that as the contract you had with RKO for the 1934–35 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer this Plaintiff's Exhibit 290 in evidence.

Mr. RICE. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then, were you offered a first run deal with RKO for the following season, 1935–36?

A. I was not.

Q. Did you make any efforts to secure that product?

A. I wrote the sales manager in New York that I expected the product the following year, that was coming on to the purchasing season for 1935–36.

1393 Q. Did you get an answer?

A. No, sir.

Q. By the way, in dealing with the film companies, what exchanges were you served out of by most of them?

A. Los Angeles.

Q. And the salesmen that called on you were salesmen from the Los Angeles exchanges for the most part?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And from Denver?

A. Later, United Artists did from Denver, and Fox did from Denver.

Q. Then for the 1935–36 season, can you tell us what major product you had then?

A. Paramount, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and Universal.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 291 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Q. I will show you this Universal contract, dated, approval date October 16, 1935, and ask you if you recognize that as the contract you had with them for the 1935–36 season?

A. Yes, sir.

The COURT. What is the number of the exhibit, Plaintiff's Exhibit 291?

Mr. WRIGHT. Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 291 for identification, your Honor. We will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 291.

1394 Mr. RICE. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Were you offered a first run deal for the 1936–37 season by Universal?

A. No, sir.

Q. And did you try to buy those pictures?

A. Yes, sir, I called at the Los Angeles office and was advised that the deal was out of their hands, and was all in New York.

Q. Now, what major product did you have for the '36–37 season?

A. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Paramount.

Q. In addition to Universal?

A. No, that was all.

Q. That was all?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was the same true for the '37–38 season?

A. Was the same true?

Q. Yes, you had the same?

A. Yes, the same service.

Q. And the '38–39 season?

A. Paramount and Metro.

Q. Now, calling your attention to the year 1936, was there another theater put up in the town then?

A. At about that time the Griffith people converted 1395 a store room into a theater.

Q. And called it what?

A. The Navajo.

Q. After the Navajo was opened, did they continue to operate the Chief?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know about what policies the Navajo and the Chief were operated on?

A. Could you define your question a little more; do you mean the price policy or what?

Q. Well, the general program policies the kind of pictures they played.

A. I would say that primarily the Chief Theater played the first run pictures, and the Navajo would play mostly the slough pictures and the second runs.

Q. By slough pictures, you mean what?

A. In each company there is inferior pictures made that sometimes do not fit a first run situation.

Q. You mean inferior from the standpoint of box office value, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, those theaters, the Navajo and the Chief, continued to operate there through the succeeding seasons, did they?

A. Yes, sir, both theaters operated, but I believe there was a time that the Navajo operated only on part-time basis.

1396 Q. Do you remember when that was?

A. Not exactly.

Q. Do you know what the size, approximately of those theaters was?

A. I could only estimate it. Possibly 600 seats each.

Q. Do you say the Chief was remodeled by Griffith?

A. I believe they did do a remodeling job on the theater sometime, oh, about 1936 or '37.

Q. After the Chief was remodeled, how did it compare with the El Morro Theater?

A. That is kind of a delicate question. It doesn't compare.

Q. Well, which theater of the three there do you say would be classed as the A theater in the town?

A. I would say the El Morro.

Q. And the B theater?

A. Due to the run of pictures in the Chief Theater it could hardly be classed as a B theater. As far as the two theaters are concerned, the El Morro is far superior to the Chief Theater, but as long as they run first run pictures in the other theater—I presume it is presentable— there hasn't been any other theater for a number of years.

Q. The Chief continued to play the better pictures that Griffith played there and the others were played in the Navajo. Is that right?

1397 A. Yes, sir.

Q. During the seasons from '34–35 through '38–39 were you offered a first run season deal from either Fox, Warner or Columbia?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you know Mr. R. E. Griffith?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And had you talked to him at any time with reference to a possible sale of your theater or a pooling arrangement there in Gallup?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was the first time you had such a conversation?

A. There were a number of little thrusts back and forth or sparring, and on one occasion Mr. Griffith came up to my theater to see me on the understanding that his manager had advised him that I wished to make some sort of a deal with them.

Q. When was that?

A. I would judge that was about 1931.

Q. Was there any deal made?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then was his manager's understanding correct?

A. No, sir.

Q. Then did you later have any conversations with him about a deal?

1398 A. There were two other specific times.

Q. What were they?

A. One was in Denver, about 1932.

Q. Do you know what the substance of the discussion was then?

A. Mr. Griffith wanted to talk with me over the idea of pooling the town.

Q. Did he talk to you about that?

A. He wished to talk about that and make an appointment for the evening.

Q. Did you make an appointment with him?

A. No, sir.

Q. Why not?

A. I didn't wish to pool it.

Q. Then when was the last time that he talked to you about a sale or pooling your theater?

A. We discussed that one evening in my theater about the fall of 1939, an approximate time.

Q. That was at Gallup?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know what the substance of that conversation was?

A. At that time I told Mr. Griffith that I would either buy or sell.

Q. What did he say to that proposition?

1399 A. He asked my price. I gave him the price and he said that was more than he wished to pay. I then told him if he would name his price and if it was within $10,000 of what I considered right I would take it, and he said he did not wish to sell.

Q. And that was the last approach?

A. Directly with Mr. Griffith.

Q. When you say directly, who else made any approaches to you in connection with the sale?

A. There have been times that some of the house managers for Mr. Griffith have taken it upon themselves to talk to me about it.

Q. "House manager." You mean the managers of the theaters there at Gallup?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What period did those conversations cover generally?

A. Oh, they had been rather vague and indefinite. There have been times during the years when one of them would ask me if I wanted to pool, or why didn't we pool or sell out and various things——

Mr. RICE. We move to strike that testimony regarding the conversations with the house managers.

The COURT. Sustained.

Mr. RICE. They are not identified.

The COURT. Sustained. Exception allowed.

1400 Mr. WRIGHT. That is all.

Cross-examination by Mr. RICE:

Q. Let me refresh your memory a bit. Wasn't Mr. Master's theater known as the Strand?

A. I believe you are correct.

Q. Do you recall or do you know when the Griffith organization took over the Strand Theater and remodeled it in 1930?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. Don't you recall that it was remodeled and reopened under the name of the Cairo?

A. I was under the impression, it is a little vague on the exact times of the remodeling or renaming, but I was under the impression it was renamed about 1936, but of course I am not positive.

Q. It was remodeled in 1936, wasn't it?

A. Well, I think about that time.

Q. The name Griffith originally gave it was Cairo and it was changed to Chief?

A. I believe that is correct.

Q. You don't know when?

A. Not exactly, I don't.

Q. Getting back to 1928, how many changes a week were you running in your theater?

1401 A. At times three and at times four.

Q. How many was Mr. Masters running in his theater?

A. I can't be positive but I believe three and four.

Q. And one house was operating, is that right, in 1930, I mean.

A. I didn't get the question.

Q. I was wrong. I mislead you. I didn't mean to. In 1928 you were operating three to four changes a week and Mr. Masters was running approximately the same number in his house?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that in 1930?

A. I believe in our instance we were running three changes a week as a regular policy in 1930.

Q. In June, 1930.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And what was Mr. Masters running?

A. That I couldn't say but the general policy was three changes a week.

Q. I understood you to say that you had a deal with Metro, Paramount, Warner, Fox and RKO for the season of 1929-30. Is that correct?

A. Mr. Wright, if I am correct, asked the question from 1928 to 1931, or 1932, and during that time I had all of those companies, at one time or another.

1402 Q. You didn't have them all at one time?

A. Not all in 1929.

Q. What did you have for the 1929-30 season?

The Court. We will recess at this time until 2:00 o'clock.

(Hereupon Court adjourned until 2:00 o'clock p. m. this day.)

Mr. Caskey. I produce license agreement between Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation and Nona Kyser, operating the Strand or Ada Theaters in Ada, Oklahoma, dated November 17, 1936.

(Said instrument marked by the reporter as Plaintiff's Exhibit 292 for identification.)

I produce license agreement between Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation and E. H. Kyser, operating the Strand or New Strand Theater in Ada, Oklahoma, dated June 11, 1936.

(Said instrument marked by the reporter as Plaintiff's Exhibit 293 for identification.)

I produce license agreement between Loew's, Incorporated and Kyser & Kyser operating the Strand or Ada theaters, in Ada, Oblahoma, dated November 17, 1936.

(Said instrument marked by the reporter as Plaintiff's Exhibit 294 for identification.)

I produce license agreement between Loew's, Inc., and Nona Kyser, operating the Ada or Strand theaters in Ada, Oklahoma, dated February 24, 1937.

(Said instrument marked by the reporter as 1404 Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 295 for identification.)

William Nagle, a witness called by and on behalf of the plaintiff, was recalled and was examined and testified as follows:

The Court. Proceed with your cross-examination.

Cross-examination by Mr. Rice:

Q. Your Honor, I think there is a question on which we didn't get an answer. Did I understand you to say that in 1930 when Griffith entered Gallup and took over the Strand Theater, you didn't have all the majors that you recited under the contract?

A. I didn't get that quite clear, Mr. Rice.

The COURT. Read the question.

By Mr. RICE:

Q. To refresh your memory, you stated that you had had from time to time during those years Metro, Paramount, Warner, Fox and RKO?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But not all at one time, is that what you said?

A. I had them during the three-year period over which Mr. Wright asked me the question. Now, in 1930—1929 and 1930, for that picture season, as I recall, I had Fox, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount, I am not positive of Warners, and RKO.

1405 Q. All of them?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you play all their pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. RICE. That's all.

The COURT. Anything further?

1406 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. For the season of 1933-34, did you have Fox product licensed?

A. No, sir.

Q. For that same season did you have the Warner product licensed?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have RKO?

A. 19——

Q. '33-34?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you have Universal?

A. For '33-34?

Q. '33-34.

A. No, sir.

Q. And the season of '34-35 you had none of those pictures which we have just mentioned—I mean the pictures of none of those companies we have just mentioned except RKO. Is that right?

A. For '34-35?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I had RKO during that season.

Q. I say, and the others of those distributors I have mentioned that you did not have in 1933-34 you likewise did not have in '34-35 with the exception of RKO?

A. Yes, sir.

1407 Q. That is correct, is it?

A. That, I believe, is correct.

Q. In '35-36 you did not have RKO?

A. That is right.

Q. You did not have Warner, Fox or United Artists. Is that right?

A. There was one season in which I had United Artists but I am not positive of the season.

Q. Well, you did not have Warner or Fox in '35-36?

A. No, sir.

Q. You had none of the other product which you had in '33-34 except Universal. Is that right?

A. I had Universal in '34-35.

Q. Isn't it a fact of the Universal you had only '35-36?

A. '35-36, that is right.

Q. And in the year '35-36 you had the same product that you had in '33-34, with the exeeption of Universal?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you only had Universal for one year?

A. That is right.

Q. That is all.

By the COURT:

Q. Was the Cairo Theater in operation when you opened it in 1938?

A. Under a different name and individual management.

1408 Q. But the theater was there in operation?

A. Yes, sir.

(Witness excused.)

C. C. HAMM, was called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, and being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. State your name and address, please.

A. C. C. Hamm, Vernon, Texas.

Q. What is your occupation?

A I am in the theater business.

Q. Motion picture theater business?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you operate a theater at Vernon?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you formerly operate a theater at Altus, Oklahoma?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. 1936-37.

Q. What theater was that?
A. The Ritz Theater.
Q. When did you open that?
A. It was in July of 1936, I believe.
1409 Q. Was that a theater you bought or built?
A. A theater I built.
Q. At Altus?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How big a town was Altus then, do you know?
A. It was around 9000.
Q. Were there any other theaters operating there at the time?
A. There was one theater—they had two they were operating, the Empire and the Rex.
1410 Q. The Empire and the Rex?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Who operated those theaters?
A. Griffith Amusement.
Q. Were they both being operated full time then?
A. Yes, sir, I believe so.
Q. How large were those theaters?
A. Well, I don't know the exact seating capacity. I believe the Empire was around six or seven or eight hundred and the Rex was probably four hundred.
Q. And how big was the Ritz?
A. The Ritz was about 425.
Q. Now, for the 1936-37 season what, if any, major film product did you have at the Ritz Theater?
A. I only had Universal.
Q. That was of what year, what year's product?
A. It was '35-36, I believe.
Q. Did you play that on what run?
A. That was first run.
Q. Did you use it on second run too?
A. Well, I had 536–37 second run, I believe it was.
Q. Did you try to buy any other major product for the Ritz?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. From what companies?
1411 A. Well, all the major companies.
Q. Can you name the ones you tried to get the pictures from?
A. Metro, Paramount, Warner, Fox, RKO.
Q. Columbia?
A. And Columbia.
Q. How about United Artists?
A. Well, I did use some United Artists second runs.

Q. Did you get any United Artists first run?
A. Some of the cutbacks first run.
Q. Now, can you tell us during what, during that '36-37 season what kind of program policy the Empire or the Rex were operated on with reference to what kind of product they used and what runs they played it on?
A. Well, they used their class A pictures in the Empire, and the Rex used, they were more or less class B pictures.
Q. From the major companies that you didn't have?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did they play any regular major second run there?
A. I think they played very few. They probably played some of the class A pictures, second run, in the Rex.
Q. Some of the A major pictures, you think were repeated at the Rex?
A. Yes, sir.

Q. Apart from them, were there any, was there
1412 any regular second run of any major product played at either of those theaters?
A. Not that I remember.
Q. Did you try to buy a second run of the major product from these companies other than Universal?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. That you mentioned?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What did you do in that connection?
A. Well, I just come to Oklahoma City and made the rounds of the major companies.
Q. Did any of them besides Universal offer you a second run? I believe you said you had some United Artists. Did any other than Universal and United Artists offer you a second run for that town?
A. No, sir.
Q. How long did you operate the Ritz there?
A. Approximately a year.
Q. Then what did you do with it?
A. I sold to Griffith.
Q. With whom did you make arrangements that led up to the sale?
A. Well, it was a fellow called up from Lawton, Oklahoma, and said that he represented a couple of fellows that had never been in the theater business, and they wanted to buy the Altus Theater, so I made a price, and they 1413 made arrangements to meet me in Altus on a certain day, and when I came over it was Mr. Spears and his assistant, Mr. Berry.
Q. Mr. Spears was whom?
A. He is the Griffith partner, I imagine, at Altus.

Q. The Griffith partner at Altus?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Who was the other fellow?
A. His assistant, Mr. Berry, I believe the name was.
Q. At that meeting was there any discussion with reference to you making an agreement not to operate theaters against Griffith?
A. Well, Mr. Spears asked me to sign that I wouldn't open any theaters in any of their towns, and I agreed not to open a theater in Altus for a period of ten years.
1414 Q. You declined to agree not to operate—when you say "other towns" what other towns are you talking about?
A. Well, I took it for granted they meant any of the other Griffith towns.
Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike that.
The COURT. Sustained.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. As nearly as you can recall, what did he actually say?
A. Well, after we had made the deal he said "I want you to sign that you will not operate any theaters in any of our towns." "No", I said, "I will sign an agreement not to operate any theater in Altus." The period of time was ten years.
Q. Were you able to find a copy of that agreement?
A. I have a copy at home, I am pretty sure.
Q. You didn't bring one with you?
A. No, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Was anything said about not opening any further Griffith town until your contract was completed?
A. "Griffith" wasn't mentioned. He just said "Any of our other towns."
Q. You didn't agree to that?
A. No, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The only person who signed that contract other
1415 than yourself and your associates was Mr. Spears. Is that true?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Will you say it is not a fact that contract was with Mr. Spears and Mr. Spears only?
A. I couldn't say. I don't remember.
Q. You didn't bring the contract with you?
A. No, sir. No, sir, I didn't, but Mr. Spears has a copy of it.

Q. Will you say the Consolidated Theaters or the Griffith Amusement Company were a party to that contract at all?

A. Well, will you repeat that?

(Question read.)

A. When I came in and there were supposed to have been two fellows that had not been in the theater business and there sat Mr. Spears and Mr. Berry and I said, "There was a couple of funny looking fellows never to have been in the theater business before." Mr. Spears said, "I thought maybe you would not want to sell if you knew you were going to sell to Griffith." From then on I considered it was Griffith I was dealing with.

Q. My question was, was the Consolidated Theaters or Griffith Amusement Company a party to that contract you signed?

A. I would have to see the written contract I had 1416 before I could answer it. I don't remember.

Q. You know the deal you carried on at Altus was with Spears and Berry?

A. Yes, I know that.

Q. Had you been in the theater business before you had opened the theater at Altus?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where?

A. I was in business at Vernon at that time.

Q. You were in business at Vernon?

A. Yes.

Q. Had you been in the theater business at any other place?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where?

A. I was in business at Wichita Falls with my brother at Grandfield, Oklahoma.

Q. How long were you in business at Wichita Falls?

A. Not very long. I went from Wichita to Vernon.

Q. How long did you stay in Wichita Falls?

A. Eight months.

Q. What period was that?

A. Back in 1932.

Q. And did you dispose of your theater there?

A. No, sir.

1417 Q. At Wichita Falls?

A. No, sir.

Q. What happened to it?

A. I left my brother there.

Q. How long did he continue to operate it?

A. Up until approximately five years ago.

Q. Was that Volney Hamm?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Had he been interested with you up to the time you left Wichita Falls?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Then you went from there to Vernon?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Was your brother associated with you at Vernon?
A. At that time, yes, sir.
Q. How long did he continue to be associated?
A. Until about 1938.
Q. And then you continued to operate that theater and he got out. Is that right?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Where is he operating now?
A. He isn't operating theaters at this time.
Q. Did you operate at any other point except Wichita Falls and Vernon?
A. Grandfield, Oklahoma.
1418 Q. When did you go into Grandfield?
A. That was prior to 1932.
Q. Was anyone associated with you there?
A. My brother.
Q. How long did you operate there?
A. Approximately 18 months.
Q. What became of your theater at that time?
A. We moved it to Wichita Falls.
Q. Was that your first experience in the motion picture business, at Grandfield?
A. No, sir.
Q. Where was your experience just before Grandfield?
A. Ringling, Oklahoma.
Q. When did you go into Ringling.
A. I opened up when sound came in, we opened a theater.
Q. Was that in 1928 or '29?
A. '28, I believe.
Q. How long did you operate the theater in Ringling?
A. Until I went to Grandfield.
Q. What period was that?
A. That was about '31.
Q. About how many months?
A. About '31.
Q. How many months did you operate?
A. From 1928 to '31.
1419 Q. You think you operated about two years?
A. Three years.
Q. What happened to your theater at Ringling?

A. I moved it to Grandfield.
Q. Why did you move it from Ringling to Grandfield?
A. Grandfield was a little better town.
Q. When you moved from Ringling did you leave some unplayed contracts with the distributors?
A. Yes, sir, I believe so.
Q. Had you had any experience in the motion picture business before you went to Ringling?
A. No, sir.
1420 Q. When you went to Grandfield under what name did you open a theater?
A. I have forgotten now.
Q. Well, was it your name, or your brother's name, or the name of the corporation?
A. Well, it was just our theater.
Q. How is that?
A. It was just our theater; it was just a partnership affair.
Q. Did you operate it as a corporation or in your individual name or in your brother's name, or how?
A. It was operated in my brother's name.
Q. It was operated in your brother's name?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. The one at Ringling had been operated in your name, had it?
A. The one at Ringling had been operated in both of our names.
Q. When you left Grandfield, did you leave some unplayed contracts?
A. Another fellow took the theater over and played the contracts.
Q. But you didn't play all of them?
A. The theater building, we moved the equipment out.
Q. Isn't it a fact that those contracts were not played and that the distributors had unpaid claims against 1421 you for those theaters?
A. I suppose so, yes, sir.
Q. Did you ever go into Sherman, Texas, with a theater?
A. My brother did.
Q. Your brother did? Were you interested with him?
A. No, sir.
Q. Did you assist him in operating the theater?
A. Very little.
Q. What year was that?
A. That was, I believe that was the same time I was over at Altus, '36 and '37.
Q. How long did he operate that theater at Sherman?

A. I couldn't say.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I think we are getting pretty far afield, going into his brother's operations.

Mr. COCHRAN. Just a minute, and I will ask him one other question.

The COURT. I don't know whether his brother had anything to do with it or not.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Was your brother interested with you at Altus?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. That was a joint operation at Altus, and we submit the question in regard to Sherman
1422 is admissible, your Honor.

The COURT. Yes, I think it is.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. How long did he operate at Sherman?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. Is he still operating it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you go into Muskogee?

A. He did.

Q. When did he go into Muskogee?

A. About the same time he was in Sherman.

Q. How long did he operate in Muskogee?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. You have no idea?

A. No.

Q. Is he still operating there?

A. No.

Q. Did you go into Durant?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he go into Durant?

A. He did not.

Q. How about McAlester?

A. He was in McAlester.

Q. You had no interest there?

A. No interest.

Q. How long did he operate in McAlester?

1423 A. I couldn't say.

Q. He isn't operating there now, is he?

A. No.

Q. You know that in Sherman, Muskogee, and McAlester he hasn't operated since 1937, don't you?

A. Approximately that time.

Q. Griffith Consolidated or Griffith Amusement Company were not operating at Ringling or at Wichita Falls or at Grandfield or at Sherman or at Muskogee or at McAlester, were they?

A. No, sir.

Q. You were still interested with your brother in Wichita Falls at the time that you went into Altus, did you say?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You went into Altus in July 1936?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you disposed of your interest at Wichita when?

A. Along about '37.

Q. About '37?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. After leaving Altus did you have any other—have you had any other theater interests other than your interest at Vernon?

A. Yes, sir.

1424 Q. Where?

A. Borger, Texas.

Q. Where?

A. Borger.

Q. And where else; any other place?

A. That's all.

Q. Did you say that your brother is or is not interested with you at Vernon?

A. He is not.

Q. He is not?

A. No, sir.

Q. Who else was interested with you in the Ritz Theater at Altus besides your brother, Volney Hamm?

A. No one.

Q. You stated you built the theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, that theater was simply a store building that you converted into a theater, was it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. A 25-foot building, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When you opened it in July, 1936, the Universal pictures that you licensed first run were pictures of the '35-36 season that had not been licensed by anyone else in the town?

A. I think so, yes, sir.

1425 Q. That's correct. In other words, those were pictures that had been produced during the season which was just about to close?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you license any Universal pictures second run of the '35-36 season?

A. They were first run.

Q. Did you license any second run?

A. I don't believe so.

Q. You don't believe so?

A. No, sir.

Q. I just can't understand whether you are saying yes or no.

A. I don't believe I did.

Q. Thank you; I just wanted to be sure we understand each other.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you license any Universal pictures second run for the '36-37 season?

A. Yes, sir, I believe I did.

Q. Do you have those contracts?

A. I do not.

Q. Do you know how many of those pictures you licensed second run of the '36-37 product?

A. No, sir, I don't.

1426 Q. You can be mistaken about that, can't you?

A. I sure could, yes, sir.

Q. When was it that you sold out your theater at Altus?

A. It was, I believe it was in July of '37.

Q. That was before the '37-38 season had opened?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That was before the '37-38 had opened?

By the COURT:

Q. What was the name of your theater in Altus?

A. The Ritz.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. At the time you came into Altus, you made an investigation of the situation so far as availability of pictures was concerned, didn't you?

A. Well, yes, sir, I did.

Q. And you found at that time that Consolidated Theaters, who were operating two theaters at that time, were operating both of those theaters on first run product, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that after those theaters there had been licensed first run product, major companies, sufficient to meet the playing policy of those theaters——

Mr. WRIGHT (interrupting.) If the Court please, I don't know how he would be competent to say what the needs of the Griffith theaters were or what Griffith licensed.

1427 The COURT. The question was whether he made an investigation before he went there to determine these facts. I don't know how else he would know.

A. I wouldn't know.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You wouldn't know about that?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you ascertain whether, at that time, Consolidated Theaters was using first run product of Metro or Loew's?

A. They were using it.

Q. They were using it currently?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you find that they were using the product of Paramount currently, first run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And of Warners?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And of Universal?

A. I don't believe they were using Universal.

Q. And RKO?

A. Yes.

1428 Q. What other product did you find they were using currently?

A. Well, Fox. You forgot Fox.

Q. You found they were using Fox?

A. Yes.

Q. So that the product that was open for a season's contract at that time was Universal?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Of the so-called major distributors?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then there were Independent products you were able to get?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you know whether the Consolidated Theaters previous to the '35-36 season had been an account of Universal?

A. I believe so; I am not sure.

Q. In '36-37 Universal again sold some of its product, first run product, to the Consolidated Theaters?

A. I believe so, yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall that during that season Universal offered you some 24 pictures first run for the '36-37 season?

A. I don't recall.

Q. Will you say they didn't do that?

A. I don't remember.

1429 Q. At the time that you sold your theater in 1937, had you licensed any product for the '37-38 season?

A. I had, yes, sir.

Q. How much product had you licensed at that time?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. Can you tell us what company you had contracts with a that time for the '37-38 season?

A. Well, I had the Independents.

Q. Well, do you recall which companies you had contracts with?

A. Well, it would be Republic and at that time there was the Square Deal.

Q. You had contracts with them for the '37-38 season. You sold out in July?

A. I am not sure.

Q. You are not sure about that?

A. No, sir.

Q. You are not sure what contracts, if any, you had at that time?

A. No, sir.

Q. What companies did you leave with unplayed product when you sold out at Altus?

A. I left some Republic product and Square Deal product and Universal product, and I believe there was some 1430 United Artists product. I wouldn't say for sure about that.

Q. And you sold out and left that product unplayed?

A. No, sir. It was unplayed.

Q. That is what I say.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't Columbia sell you some product along in May, 1937, which was entirely unplayed at the time you disposed of your theater?

A. I don't remember.

Q. You can't say about that?

A. No, sir.

Q. I believe I forgot to ask you how much you invested in your theater at Altus when you opened it.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court pleases, we didn't go into any question of investment with this witness.

The COURT. I don't see how it would be material.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is all.

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Mr. Hamm, I think you testified on cross examination that after you had investigated the situation there that you found the only major product that was open in the town was Universal. Now, did you mean to suggest by that that that was the only product that was open on any run, or that was the only first run product open?

1431 A. The only first run.

Q. As far as second run product was concerned, that was all open, wasn't it?

A. Well, Griffith had it bought second run.

Q. And these companies that were referred to here, Metro, Paramount, Warner, RKO and Fox, you were unable to license second run from any of those companies?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And were you at that time, during the '36-37 season dealing with those companies and using their films at Vernon and Wichita Falls?

A. At Vernon I was not using Fox.

Q. At Wichita Falls were you?

A. I don't believe so, no, sir.

Q. Were you using the other companies' product at those places?

A. We were not using Fox and Paramount at that time.

Q. What ones were you using?

A. We were using Universal and the Independents, of course, and Warner Brothers and RKO, Columbia.

Q. Metro?

A. No, sir, not Metro.

Q. And those companies you have just named, none of them have offered you a second run at Altus?

1432 A. No, sir.

Q. None of that product was used by Griffith second run at Altus for Consolidated?

A. A few of the pictures were I believe.

Q. With the exception of an occasional picture. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know what was done with the Ritz Theater after you sold it?

A. It was closed to Fridays and Saturdays each week.

Q. Week-end operation?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is all.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Don't you know that the Ritz was operated full time for a while and then changed to a Friday and Saturday operation?

A. I couldn't say. I know I was in Altus a short time after I sold and it was only operating Fridays and Saturdays.

Q. How soon after you sold?

A. I don't remember. Probably six weeks or something like that.

Q. Could it have been as much as three months?

A. I couldn't say.

1433 Q. How many theaters in 1936 and '37 were operating in Vernon?

A. Three.

Q. How many of those did you operate?

A. One.

Q. Did you have the first run of any product in Vernon?

A. In '36, I didn't have any major first run, no.

Q. You say you did have some second run of major product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What size town was Vernon?

A. About 10,000.

Q. It was over 10,000 was it not?

A. In '36?

Q. Yes.

A. I believe the census gave it 9,000 and something.

Q. Do you know how long second run had been sold in Vernon?

A. You mean how long I had been using second run?

Q. Do you know how long the major distributors had been selling regular second run in the town of Vernon in 1937?

A. I had second run——

Q. I am not asking you about that. Read the question.

(Previous question read.)

A. Do you mean prior to '36 and '37?

Q. Yes, sir.

1434 A. They were selling in 1933.

Q. Were you operating there then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you go into Vernon?

A. 1933.

Q. How long prior to 1933 had it been licensed?

A. It probably had not been.

Q. Do you know?

A. I don't know. They were only operating one theater at that time.

(Witness excused.)

Mr. Wright. We do not have any more witnesses here today. I think we can go ahead with some documentary evidence. What I would like to offer now is some of the inter-office correspondence that has been previously identified here. This correspondence came from the Paramount files and deals with the situations at Lubbock, with respect to the Tech and Tower Theaters about which your Honor heard testimony from Mr. Bearden and Mr. Smith. The documents are marked P–86. There are a number of pages that carry that designation, P–86, pages A to L in-1435 clusive, and a document that I should like to offer at this time, pages C through L, inclusive.

Mr. COCHRAN. To which we object for the reason this is correspondence between one representative of Paramount and another representative of Paramount, and therefore are hearsay as to these defendants.

1436 The COURT. The objection will be sustained and an exception allowed.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, in connection with this offer I also wanted to make it clear that we were presenting a stipulation which would show who these various Paramount executives whose names appear in the correspondence are. So that we know where we stand on this inter-office memoranda, I would, of course, like to know whether the ruling is based upon lack of identification of the persons named there. If that were true, that can be cured by the stipulation.

The COURT. No; it isn't, it is hearsay testimony.

Mr. WRIGHT. The ground on which they are excluded is that these memoranda were prepared outside of the presence of the defendants, is that correct?

Mr. COCHRAN. That isn't the objection at all. I notice that statement continually appearing here.

The COURT. Because the defendants had nothing to do with it.

Mr. COCHRAN. The defendants had nothing to do with it.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I think it is quite apparent from the correspondence and the testimony that the defendants had a great deal to do with the inability of the Tech Theater to get that run ahead of the Tower
1437 Theater. Now, this evidence is——

The COURT (interrupting.) It would not be competent evidence against the defendants in this case, because they certainly had nothing to do with writing those letters.

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, if the Court please, the letters purport to set down in the ordinary course of carrying on the business of that exchange there what was done by Paramount with reference to the deals with the Tower and with the Tech, which we have gone into here.

The COURT. Well, you have it in the record.

Mr. WRIGHT. Where that course of business is an issue in the case, as it is here, we submit that evidence of this character which we have submitted here is of higher perhaps probative value than anyone you might put on the stand at a later date, as to what actually occurred I suppose contemporaneous memoranda might well be regarded as the best evidence available.

The COURT. No, I think it is hearsay testimony. An exception will be allowed.

Mr. WRIGHT. Now, I think we have offered all of the operating agreements. We will have some other interoffice memoranda of this sort, but I think it does not need to be offered now. I would suggest that we could probably best spend the rest of the time available here in having identified the material that Mr. Caskey has produced in response to subpoenaes. It can be done outside 1438 your Honor's presence, if you prefer.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. COCHRAN. Will it take the rest of the afternoon to do that?

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't know how long it will take. We could have a recess.

Mr. COCHRAN. What I am getting at is this, I take it that it won't be necessary for me to be present while you are identifying them?

Mr. WRIGHT. I shouldn't suppose so.

Mr. COCHRAN. I just wanted to know if I should come back up here. I can be doing something else.

Mr. WRIGHT. As far as I am concerned, it would be agreeable to recess for the rest of the day. We had these out-of-town witnesses, we didn't suppose——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting.) Mr. Griffing says he will remain here and call me if necessary.

The COURT. Very well. We will recess then until tomorrow morning at 10:00 o'clock.

(Whereupon court recessed until Tuesday, May 22, 1945, at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

1452 PROCEEDINGS

May 22, 1945, 10:00 o'clock a. m.

J. D. GUEST, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. State your full name and address, please.
A. J. D. Guest, Duncan, Oklahoma.
Q. What is your occupation?
A. Theater owner.
Q. What theater?
A. The Ritz and Tower.
Q. Those are in Duncan?
A. In Duncan, that is right.
Q. How long have you been engaged in the theater business there?
A. Since October, 1930.
Q. You are associated in that business with your father?
A. That is right.
Q. What is his first name?
A. J. A. Guest.

Q. In October, 1930, you opened the Ritz Theater, 1453 was it?

A. That is right.

Q. What other theaters were there in Duncan at that time?

A. The Palace and Folly.

Q. And who operated them?

A. The Griffith Amusement Company.

Q. Did you remodel the Ritz later?

A. A short while after opening we did. That is, about two years later.

Q. Then as remodeled, how large a theater was it?

A. About 365 seats after it was remodeled.

Q. You say that was about 1932?

A. That is right, the latter part of '32.

Q. The other theaters there were still the Palace and the Folly?

A. The Palace and the Folly.

1454 Q. How large a town was Duncan then?

A. A population of between eight and nine thousand.

Q. During the '32-33 motion picture season what, if any, major film product did you have there at the Ritz?

Mr. Cochran. What season is that?

Mr. Wright. '32-33.

A. I had Paramount.

Q. Of what run?

A. First run.

Q. Any other?

A. No other first run, no.

Q. How about during the '33-34 season?

A. I used Paramount that year too.

Q. First run?

A. First run.

Q. Any second run?

A. And second run.

By the Court:

Q. That was in '31?

A. '32-33 and '33-34.

Mr. Wright. Last season I asked about was '33-34.

Q. I will show you this photostat of a contract here, that has been previously identified as P-41-A, and ask you if you recognize that as a copy of the first run contract you had with Paramount for the '33-34 season?

A. That's right.

1455 Mr. Wright. We will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit P-41-A for identification.

Mr. Cochran. It is understood, of course, that the other page of the standard contract will be considered a part of it?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. Has that heretofore been offered in evidence?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, your Honor, this is offered in evidence.

The COURT. Has it been heretofore offered.

Mr. WRIGHT. Oh, no, your Honor.

Mr. COCHRAN. Do you have the second run contract?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Mr. Guest, were you able to locate any of your contracts prior to 1940?

A. No, I wasn't.

1456 Q. You don't have any second run contract you had with Paramount. Is that right?

A. No, I don't have a copy of it.

Mr. WRIGHT. I don't think it was produced by Paramount.

Mr. COCHRAN. There was none for that year.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you recall at this time whether you had a season contract for the second run Paramount product that you played for the '33-34 season, or whether it was spot booked?

A. I don't recall at the time but I know I played some product, second run. I thought I had a contract.

Q. You don't know whether you had a regular contract or whether you just picked that up?

A. No, I am not positive I had a contract.

Q. Now, for the '34-35 season, what major film product did you have there at the Ritz?

A. I don't believe I had any '34-35; no major product.

Q. Did you have RKO?

A. I had RKO. I was thinking of the '35-36. It is possibly '34-35.

Q. You didn't have Paramount that year?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. And was the Paramount product offered to 1457 you for the '34-35 season, first or second run?

A. No, it wasn't.

Q. Did you try to get it?

A. I made an attempt to buy it. I asked for it.

Q. Where?

A. In the branch manager's office at Oklahoma City.

Q. Did he take any application from you?

A. No, he didn't submit a deal at all.

By the COURT:

Q. What other did you have in '34-35?

A. I had RKO in '34-35 and that is all, of first run product.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You are talking only of the so-called major distributors?

A. He asked me what other product I had except RKO.

The COURT. You had RKO. That is the first run, on a regular contract?

A. That is right.

Q. Did you have any other contract with the major distributors?

A. No.

1458 By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I will show you this contract that has previously been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 203 for identification and ask you if you recognize that as a copy of the '34-35 contract with RKO?

A. That's right.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 203 in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, then, did you also play some RKO second run of that season?

A. Yes, sir, I did.

Q. Do you know whether you had a season's contract for that, or whether you spot booked that?

A. No, that was spot booked.

Q. Were you offered the RKO product on first or second run for the 1935-36 season?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. What did you do to try and make a deal for that season?

A. Well, when I found out I couldn't buy it first run, I asked for second run deal on it, and I couldn't get that.

Q. Did they take an application from you on either run?

A. They wouldn't take an application at all.

Q. What, if any, major product did you have there at the Ritz for the '35-36 season?

1459 A. I had Universal.

Q. Anything else?

A. Not first run, no.

Q. I will show you this photostat of a contract that has been previously marked as U–16 for identification and ask you if you recognize that as the first run deal you had with Universal for the '35–36 season?

A. That's right.

Q. I will show you this Plaintiff's Exhibit U–15 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that as a contract you made with Universal for some second run pictures at the same time?

A. That's right.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibits U–15 and U–16.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. They will be admitted.

Q. Then, were you offered a first or second run contract with Universal for the '36–37 season?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. Did you try to negotiate for that product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. With whom?

A. With the branch manager.

Q. At Oklahoma City?

A. That's right.

1460 Q. And were you able to negotiate one?

A. No.

Q. Then in the '36–37 season, did you have any regular deal for major film product?

A. No, I didn't.

Q. Not on any run?

A. Not on any run.

Q. And was the same true for the '37–38 season?

A. That's right.

Q. And during the '38–39 season, do you remember what product you had then?

A. No major product, I am sure of that.

Q. Did you have RKO?

A. '37–39?

Q. '38–39?

A. I don't think so.

By the COURT:

Q. You had no major product in either?

A. I don't think I had any that year.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I will show you this contract that has been previously marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 304 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that as a first run deal you had with RKO that season?

A. That's right.

The COURT. That is '38-39?

Mr. WRIGHT. '38-39, yes, your Honor. We will 1461 offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 304.

The COURT. What is the number of that?

Mr. WRIGHT. 304.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Other than that RKO, did you have any major product for the Ritz for the '38-39 season?

A. No, I didn't.

Mr. COCHRAN. You are asking him any product, or a season's contract?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. That is, on a season's deal?

A. No.

Q. Now, during the period '33-34 through '38-39, the only theaters in the town were your Ritz and Griffith's Palace and Folly?

A. That's right.

Q. Can you tell us what the policy of the Palace and Folly was during that period with reference to the kind of programs they played?

A. They both operated on a first run policy.

Q. Major product?

A. Major product.

Q. Did they play any second runs?

A. Not as a policy. They might have played a few pictures.

1462 Q. Occasional pictures?

A. Occasional pictures.

Q. But no regular second runs at either house?

A. That's right.

Q. During that same person did you make any efforts to get second run major pictures for your Ritz Theater?

A. Yes, I did.

Q. From what companies?

A. Well, I tried from practically all the major companies, except United Artists.

Q. Those would be what; can you name them?

A. It would be Paramount, Warner, Metro, Fox and RKO.

Q. Any others?

A. No, I don't believe so.

Q. Now, I believe you say you did get some second runs of Paramount repeating after your own, when you had it first run, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that as repetition. His statement was that he spot booked some second run.

The COURT. He has already answered the question.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And the same was true with reference to RKO?

A. That's right.

Q. As I understand it, you were not able to make 1463 any contracts for second run with any of those companies you mentioned other than the pictures that you played second run after your own first run, is that right?

Mr. COCHRAN. Objection, as leading, and repetition.

The COURT. Overruled. You may answer.

A. That is right.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, in attempting to license those second runs, just what did you do, as nearly as you recall?

A. Well, I went to the exchange and talked to the exchange manager about buying second run, and I never was able to even get them to submit a deal.

Q. They never took an application for it?

A. No, that's right.

Q. Were you able to negotiate at all with reference to any terms?

A. No, I never did.

Q. Then in later seasons, did you finally get second run on major product?

A. '41, I did.

Q. In '41?

A. That's right.

Q. That was the first year in which you were able to get second run of the major product that Griffith played first run?

A. In April '41, was the first time.

1464 Q. What companies did you get them?

A. Warner Brothers, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and Paramount.

Mr. COCHRAN. What was that answer, Warner and who?

A. And Metro.

By the COURT:

Q. That was what year?

A. 1941.

Q. 1941-42 or '40-41?
A. '40-41.
Mr. COCHRAN. He said April 1941.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Those were the '40-41 season's pictures?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And the companies you named were what, Warner, Metro and what?
A. And Paramount.
Q. And Paramount?
A. Yes.
Q. Do you know about how large Duncan was then?
A. Oh, it was slightly over 9,000.
Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross-examine.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You opened your theater in Duncan at a time when Griffith Amusement Company was already operating two theaters, is that right?
1465 A. That's right.
Q. You knew at that time that it was their policy to operate both of those theaters on a first run basis, did you?
A. That's right.
Q. And you opened your theater on a policy of first run, did you not?
A. I wouldn't say that. I opened my theater on a policy of whatever I could get. I wanted to open it on a second run.
Q. At that time, in 1930, the season of 1930-31, which was the first season you commenced to operate, you knew the Griffith Amusement Company were using Paramount pictures, first run, in their theaters, did you not?
A. That's right.
Q. They were operating the Palace as their first run house, were they not?
A. That's right.
Q. I mean as their A house?
A. As their A house.
Q. Their A, first run house, and the Folly as their B house; that is, where they played the pictures that were not as outstanding pictures as those which were played in the Palace, is that correct?

A. I believe that's right.

1466 Q. Did you say at that time you knew they were playing Paramount?

A. Yes, I said that.

Q. And the same is true for the '31–32 season, is that right?

A. Yes, I believe it was.

Q. Then, in the seasons 1932–33 and 1933–34, you were able to license Paramount pictures first run, were you not?

A. That's right.

Q. Don't you know that they did not and would not license you a regular contract on second run pictures at that time, even though you had their first run contract?

A. No, I don't know that to be a fact.

Q. Well, they didn't do it, did they?

A. I used a lot of Paramount.

Q. I didn't ask you that; I asked you if you made a contract with them for their pictures, or if the ones you played were merely an occasional spot booking?

A. No, I played more than occasional pictures spot booked.

Q. They were all spot booked that you played, weren't they, second run?

A. If I didn't have a contract, they were.

Q. Do you have your contracts?

A. No, sir.

1467 Q. Do you have anything from which you can tell whether you had a contract?

A. Yes, sir, my booking record of what I played.

Q. Do you have anything on your paper to show?

A. No.

Q. You do have a memoranda there, do you?

A. That's right, but I don't have anything to show that.

Q. You don't have a memoranda showing whether you had a Paramount contract, second run?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, in the season 1930–31, you knew that Griffith was playing the RKO pictures, first run, did you not?

A. Yes, I think he was.

Q. And also in the 1931–32 season?

A. No, I don't believe that is right. On the first question you asked me——

Q. (Interrupting.) I beg pardon.

A. I don't think that is right. You asked me on '30–31 if Griffith was playing.

Q. '30–31?

A. I believe I played the pictures in '30–31.

1468 Q. Did you have any contract with RKO for the '30–31 pictures?

A. I don't have a copy of it, but I used the product, I think I did have at the time.

Q. Will you say definitely you did have the contract with RKO for '30–31?

A. No, I will not say definitely I did. I say definitely I used the product.

Q. You used some product?

A. I used substantially all of it.

Q. Do you have any playing record to show?

A. I do.

Q. Where is it?

A. It is here.

Q. Let's have it.

A. Mr. Wright has it there.

Q. The record you have there is merely a tabulation, isn't it?

A. That's right.

Q. That isn't your original record, is it?

A. The original booking record, no.

Q. Where is your original booking record?

A. It is in Duncan.

Q. When was this record prepared?

1469 A. I beg pardon?

Q. When was the record prepared, which you have in your hand?

A. Oh, this month.

Q. This month?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By whom?

A. By my office.

Q. From what?

A. From the actual booking records.

Q. But you didn't bring your booking records with you?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. Did some stenographer prepare this?

A. That's right.

Q. This doesn't purport to show anything for the '30–31 season, does it?

A. I thought it went back that far. No, this begins in '34, that's right.

Q. Then you have no record—what record do you have from which you are saying that you played a majority of the RKO product in '30–31 season, or substantially all of it; what record do you have with you?

A. Well, I just recall the product that I played. I know that I did.

1470 Q. In the memoranda which you have in your hand, do you have any reference to the '30–31 product?

A. Except the fact that we used that product then.

Q. When did you prepare that?

A. Before I came up here.

Q. Where?

A. When?

Q. Where?

A. Yesterday at Duncan.

Q. From what did you prepare that?

A. From what records we had of what we played, from the date books.

Q. But you didn't bring the records with you?

A. I didn't bring my date books, no.

Q. In the '32–33 season, you knew that Griffith was playing RKO product, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the same is true in '33–34 season?

A. That's right.

Q. I believe you didn't answer me about the '31–32. You knew Griffith was playing it in '31–32, did you?

A. Yes.

Q. In '34–35, you did make a first run contract for some RKO pictures, which has been offered in evidence?

A. That's right.

1471 Q. That's right, is it?

A. That's right.

Q. Now, isn't it a fact that on the same date that you licensed those pictures first run from RKO, to wit: on October 8, 1934, you licensed 16 pictures second run from RKO?

A. I don't recall that.

Q. And isn't it a fact that you didn't play a single one of those pictures?

A. I don't recall that incident at all.

Q. Don't you know that you refused to play each and every picture that you had licensed second run with RKO for that year, and they were canceled?

A. No, the answer is the same, I don't recall that deal at all.

Q. You don't recall that?

A. No, I sure don't.

Q. If you didn't play those pictures—you stated you licensed some RKO pictures first run for that season, didn't you?

A. I said I played some.

Q. If you licensed 16 pictures under a contract the same date as your first run contract, and played none of 1472 them, can you tell us why you didn't play them?

A. No, I can't tell you why. Probably——

Q. (Interrupting.) And isn't it a fact that you preferred to play independent product which you were able to license first run, your choice of the independent product, the so-called independent product, that you preferred to play that rather than to play that second run product in your theater, and for that reason you cancelled those second run pictures?

A. No, I don't think that is a fact.

Q. You were playing product other than these major—so-called major distributors that you have mentioned, were you not?

A. That's right.

Q. Can you tell us what pictures, whose pictures you were playing at that time?

A. Well, I played some Republic.

Q. All right.

A. And Allied.

Q. All right.

A. And back early, along in '30, was Tiffany.

Q. We are talking now about the year 1934–35. Don't you have in your hands there a record of that?

A. No. I can recall from memory what I played, though.

1473 Q. All right, Republic and Allied, and you played some Grand National, didn't you?

A. That's right.

Q. And you played some Monogram, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Q. And you played some Art Cinema?

A. That was Square Deal.

Q. All right, Square Deal, you played some of those?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was there any PRC at that time?

A. I don't believe so; I don't recall it.

Q. You played some Victory, didn't you?

A. I possibly did. I don't know who released them.

Q. And you selected the best of the product from those companies, didn't you?

A. No, I believe I just played about everything they had, because I didn't select.

Q. Isn't it a fact that those companies were releasing, for instance, at that time wasn't Republic releasing about 75 pictures a year?

A. I don't recall the number.

Q. Does that sound about right?

A. That sounds a little high. With westerns and all, it sounds about right.

1474 Q. Including westerns?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In your town, westerns were just about as valuable as anything else for you on Saturday or for week end play, were they not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In fact, with the choice of the product, you preferred to play on your week ends, a good western picture?

A. On Saturday, yes.

Q. That would be your week end change?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Allied at that time was releasing something near 100 pictures, were they not?

A. Well, they probably had that many pictures. I don't believe they were releasing that many pictures, but they probably had that many there from past seasons.

Q. Available for your licensing?

A. That's right.

Q. Then National was also offering something like the same number, was it not?

A. Well, possibly so.

Q. And Monogram was offering something like the same number, is that right?

A. I believe so.

Q. How about Square Deal, do you know how many?

1475 A. I wouldn't know how many new pictures a year they had.

Mr. WRIGHT. Your Honor please, I just want to point out that none of this is within the scope of the issues of the complaint or the direct examination of the witness. We haven't asked anything with respect to this independent product at all.

The COURT. Overruled. I think it is proper cross examination. You have opened up the question as to what he used.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You had ample product from these various distributors to operate your theater on a change of three or four, or a program of three or four changes a week, did you not?

A. I never made as many as four. I usually made three.

Q. Didn't you make three, and an additional western on Saturday?

A. If I did, it was for a very short time, because the majority of the time I always operated on three changes a week.

Q. That was your normal policy, three changes a week?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you had ample product to make those changes?

A. I had enough pictures of that kind, yes.

Q. Now, in 1935–36, you didn't license RKO first run?

1476 A. No.

Q. Is that right?

A. That's right.

Q. Did you attempt to spot book any of the second run pictures?

A. I attempted to buy them.

Q. I didn't ask you that; I asked you if you attempted to spot book any, not as a season's deal for second run, but to buy those pictures, some of those pictures, on a spot booking basis?

A. I attempted to play them under any arrangement, spot booking or anything else.

Q. Will you say you didn't play any RKO pictures?

A. No, I won't say.

Q. For that season?

A. I won't say I didn't play any. I am sure I didn't have anything like the season's product.

1477 Q. But you did spot book RKO pictures during that season?

A. I am not sure that I didn't, no.

Q. Do you recall on October 22, 1936, receiving a letter from Keaton, Wells & Johnston in regard to a claim for an unpaid amount of $140 for delinquent product?

A. With RKO you mean?

Q. Yes.

A. Yes, I believe I do.

Q. Do you know what season's product that was that was unplayed at that time and unpaid for?

A. No, I don't recall.

Q. Will you say that wasn't product of the 1935–36 season?

A. I couldn't say because I said I didn't recall what it was. I wouldn't say.

Q. Now, you didn't state in regard to United Artists, except you mentioned the fact in one of those years it was one of the companies that you didn't attempt to obtain. Isn't it a fact that you didn't license or attempt to license the United Artists product in any of the years 1933–34, 1934–35, or 1935–36?

A. During that period I possibly did attempt to once or twice. I imagine I did.

Q. Will you say you attempted to license them?

1478 A. I imagine I did, yes.

Q. That product wasn't being played in the Griffith theaters, was it?

A. No, there was a period through there that it was not; I don't recall just what years.

Q. Don't you know that you didn't make any attempt to license that product during that period?

A. No, I have talked to them about the product.

Q. Don't you know that during those years I have mentioned United Artists tried to sell you their product and you wouldn't buy it?

A. Yes, I have had United Artists offered to me on terms that I couldn't pay.

Q. In other words, you would not meet the terms they asked you to pay?

A. That's right.

Q. Now, there was produced here a contract for the '38–39 season with RKO which you signed. Did you play out that contract?

A. Yes, I am sure we did.

Q. Well, do you know?

A. I am sure that we did.

Q. You don't have that on your memoranda, do you?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Do you know why you didn't have it on your memoranda?

1479 A. No, I don't know.

Q. You evidently didn't play it or you would have had it on your memoranda, wouldn't you?

A. No, it is possible that I wouldn't.

Q. Do you now have any recollection as to what performance, if any, there was under this contract with RKO for the 1938–39 season?

A. No; we had a contract; I imagine it was played.

Q. I am asking you if you know?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Beg pardon.

A. I don't know positively.

Q. You don't know?

A. No.

Q. Isn't it a fact that for the '39–40 season that RKO attempted to license you your product and you were not able to agree on terms?

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. Will you say that it not a fact?

A. For the '39-40?

Q. '39-40?

A. No, I don't recall that.

Q. Well, will you say that it isn't a fact that you were offered the '39-40 RKO pictures, first run, and that you negotiated and couldn't make a deal, and didn't make 1480 a deal?

A. I don't recall that at all.

Q. How about the 1940-41 season, were you offered RKO Pictures for that season?

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. If it is a fact that those pictures were offered to you in the season 1939-40 and '40-41, by RKO, and you didn't license them, it was because you felt that the prices they attempted to exact from you, that it would be more profitable for you to use the independent product at the prices you could license them at than to use the RKO pictures at the prices they wanted you to pay, is that true?

A. I don't know whether it was or not, because I don't recall what the prices were, or if they were even offering it or not?

Q. So you just don't remember your negotiations with RKO for the '38-39, '39-40 or '40-41 seasons, do you?

A. Yes, I think I do. I don't think that the pictures were offered to me there, I really don't.

Q. You continued to say you think.

A. Well, I can't be positive.

Q. What do you recall in regard to your negotiations in regard to those seasons?

A. I don't recall any specific thing.

1481 Q. All right. Now, in the season '34, 1933-34 and 1934-35, you know that Griffith theaters were using Universal product, didn't you?

A. I believe that's right.

Q. In the 1935-36 season, you licensed some Universal pictures, first run, is that correct?

A. That's right.

Q. Do you remember how many of those pictures you played?

A. I imagine we played them all.

Q. I am not asking you that, I want to know if you know?

A. No, I don't know how many I played. I would think we played them all.

Q. Did you say you also licensed the Universal pictures second run for that season?

A. I bought some pictures, second run, for that season, during that season.

Q. I notice in the exhibit marked U-15, that there are only ten pictures licensed second run, is that correct?

A. Yes.

Q. Your first run contract covers all of their pictures for that season, does it not?

A. That's right.

Q. Do you remember how many they released that season?

1482 A. No, I don't.

Q. This contract says that there were, that you licensed four pictures in the A group, fourteen in the B group, and twenty in the C group.

A. That's right, 38.

Q. Then it says, "D pictures, the remaining photoplays are licensed under the D group"?

A. That's right.

Q. So you do have listed there 38 pictures in the A, B, and C groups?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then there were some, in addition to that, in the D group?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Can you tell us why it was that you only licensed ten of those Universal pictures that season, second run?

A. Yes, that's all I thought I would make any money on off of the contract.

Q. That was all that you wanted to license of those offered?

A. That's right, that I would use myself, first run.

Q. In other words, you selected those which you considered you could well with and rejected the rest of them?

A. That's right.

Q. Do you know how many of those pictures you played?

1483 A. I believe them all, I am sure.

Q. Well, now, again, I asked you if you know, and you have answered you believe them all, you were sure. I asked you if you know.

A. No, I don't know how many I played, no, I don't know exactly how many was released, under the contract; how would I know?

By the Court:

Q. Did you play all that were released?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. Cochran:

Q. You are testifying to that from memory, are you?

A. To the best of my opinion, I played all that were released, I am sure of that.

Q. Don't you know that on those second run pictures that you played only two?

A. I don't recall that I did; no, I don't remember that; I figure I played them all.

Q. You don't recall either way?

A. No.

Q. The answer is no?

A. No.

Q. During each one of the seasons that you were engaged in the picture business there in Duncan, you were able to license pictures from each of the major distributors on spot booking pictures which were not used by Grif-1484 fith, were you not?

A. That would be first run not used, in other words, rejected pictures, is that the question?

Q. Pictures which were not used.

A. I have played a few like that, I don't recall how many.

Q. You were not refused any of those pictures which you attempted to license from any distributor, were you?

A. I didn't understand the question.

Mr. COCHRAN. Read the question.

(Question was read by the reporter.)

A. Yes, I was.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Who refused to license you any so-called outback pictures?

A. That wasn't the question. You said I wasn't refused any that I attempted to license.

Q. I said pictures which were not used by Griffith which you attempted to license.

A. No, I wasn't refused any of those pictures that were offered me.

Q. All right. So far as the independent product was concerned, you continued to have the product from the same independent distributors available through and including the season 1938-39, didn't you?

A. Just about, yes, sir.

Q. And there was some additional independent
1485 distributors during that season, were there not, or producers?

A. I don't recall any that we haven't already mentioned.

Q. PRC came along there, didn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember when they first came along?

A. No, I don't remember what year exactly.

Q. They were releasing and selling pictures in that area, Pathe productions, during the season 1937-38 and '38-39, were they not?

A. That is possibly right.

Q. And continue to do so today?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You are playing those pictures today, aren't you?
A. I have played a few, yes.
Q. They are available for you?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Now, Pathe is one of the old producers of pictures, isn't it?
A. I think so, yes.
Q. Beg pardon?
A. Yes, that's right.
Q. Along in 1939, you commenced to run double features in the Ritz, did you not?
A. I believe that's about the year, yes, sir.
Q. On how many days did you run double bill?
1486 A. Two.
Q. How?
A. Two days.
Q. So that you required, instead of three pictures a week, you then required five pictures a week, is that right?
A. Four pictures.
Q. Well, you required one picture on your single bill?
A. I didn't have a single bill when I started running double. When I started running double bills. I made two changes a week.
Q. When you started running double bills, you changed from three to two changes, and used four instead of three?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Does that policy continue down to the present time?
A. That's right.
Q. In 1939-40, you were using RKO, Monogram, Universal, and Victory, Grand National, Republic, Art Cinema, Paramount, and United Artists' pictures, were you not?
A. I don't recall whether I used all of those or not. I wouldn't know.
Q. Each of those companies were licensing you pictures during that season, were they not?
A. I couldn't answer that definitely, without checking.
Q. In the season 1940-41, weren't you using Columbia, Monogram, PRC, Universal, United Artists, Repub-1487 lic, RKO, Warner, Fox, First National, Lone Star and Victory pictures?
A. You mentioned Warner. If that is after I bought Warner second run, I did, that's about right.
Q. I am asking you, didn't you use some Columbia pictures that year?
A. In 1941?
Q. '40-41?

A. Yes, I did.
Q. Monogram?
A. Yes.
Q. PRC?
A. Yes.
Q. Universal?
A. I don't recall on Universal.
Q. Don't you remember playing, on December 14, 1939, the picture "Risky Business" a Universal release?
A. No, I don't remember it. I possibly did.
Q. In the season 1941-42, you played Universal, Republic and Warner, didn't you?
A. Yes.
Q. Also Paramount, Metro, and Columbia?
A. That's right.
Q. And Monogram, RKO and Fox?
A. I am not sure about Fox, no.
Q. And PRC?
1488 A. Yes, we played some PRC.
Q. Do you remember playing in the '40-41 season the Universal pictures "Sandy Is a Lady", and also, "Ski Patrol" and "Slander House", and "Dunn Code"?
A. Yes, I believe I recall playing those.
Q. And also about the same time the picture "Enemy Agent" and "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby", do you remember those pictures?
A. Not specifically, no, sir.
Q. You said you didn't remember Fox in the '41-42 season. Do you remember playing a picture, "Four Sons"?
A. No, I don't.
Q. On May 11, 1941?
A. I don't recall playing it.
Q. "Young as You Feel".
A. I don't recall the picture. I don't say I didn't play it.
Q. Do you remember the picture "Sante Fe Stampede"?
A. Yes, I remember the picture.
Q. Do you remember playing it?
A. No, I don't remember playing it.
Q. In 1943, you filed a complaint with the arbitration board, didn't you?
A. That's right.
Q. In that you were complaining against Paramount——
1489 Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I don't see what possible relevance this complaint that was filed under the arbitration board could have to this suit. It certainly is nothing that was covered on direct examination.

The COURT. Of course, under the consent decree, he would have the right, after November 1920.

Mr. COCHRAN. I want to show by this witness that he filed a complaint against Paramount, which was heard by the arbitration board, and his claim was denied, and he appealed it, and the denial by the arbitration board was sustained.

Mr. WRIGHT. Assuming it was, what possible relevance has that got to do with the issues.

The COURT. Well, it might be competent as to whether or not his claim against Paramount in prior years was good.

Mr. WRIGHT. How, if the Court please, could what happened to his complaint in '43 possibly throw any light at all on the validity of his complaint from '34 through '39, which is the period covered here?

The COURT. That is the point; I don't know whether it does or not.

Mr. WRIGHT. Counsel has not offered to show how it does. All he says he is offering to show is that he filed a complaint and lost it. If we get into a collateral 1490 issue of that kind, is your Honor going to undertake to review the decision of the arbitration board there?

The COURT. Not at all, but assuming he is contending that he was entitled to certain productions in '43 or '44, or '37 or '38, if the same conditions prevailed in prior years that prevailed at the time that this complaint was heard it might throw some light on it.

Mr. WRIGHT. Counsel has not offered to make any such showing, and I don't think he possibly could.

The COURT. I think we are covering just a little too much territory all along on these matters.

Mr. COCHRAN. The purpose of this is that he is attempting to show along and leave the impression, or attempt to have the Court draw an inference, that there was something wrong about Paramount planning to sell him second run pictures during a certain period, and our position is that that was a matter for Paramount to determine, and we had nothing to do with it.

The COURT. I don't think there is any evidence——

Mr. COCHRAN. That's right.

The COURT. So far in this particular case to connect your client with it in any way.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's right, but this goes to show that after the consent decree that he did elect to proceed against Paramount in an attempt to obtain second 1491 run, and that the matter was thrashed out and he was still denied his second run. We will withdraw the question.

Q. Now, at the time you opened the Ritz Theater, it had 220 seats, did it not?

A. 192.

Q. 192?

A. That's right.

By the COURT:

Q. You opened the Ritz in 1930?

A. October 1930.

Q. And you have stated that you also operated the Tower?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When did you begin operating the Tower?

A. In 1942, the latter part of '42.

The COURT. At this time, gentlemen, we will take a short recess.

Mr. COCHRAN. Just a minute, your Honor please; I want to get that answer straight before we take the recess.

Q. You say the Tower was in 1942 or '32?

The COURT. '42.

The WITNESS. '42.

Mr. COCHRAN. All right.

(At the conclusion of the recess, the proceedings herein were resumed as follows.)

1492 Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Mr. Guest, reference was made here to the double features in your theater. Did the Griffith houses ever use the double features or other policies designed to attract people to the theater there?

A. They never used double features as a policy. However, they have had "two for one" admissions and "give-aways."

Q. With reference to these pictures you say Griffith rejected that were offered to you, those were the first run pictures?

A. Yes, they would always be first run.

Q. The major pictures they didn't use second run were not offered to you. Is that right?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, with reference to the general quality of United Artists and Universal and Columbia features which were released during the period from 1934-35 through '38-39, how did those compare as box office attractions with the five companies that you designated as majors?

A. They were not as good.

Q. And what was the general quality of these independent companies that were referred to as compared with Universal, Columbia and United Artists during the same period?

A. They were not as good. United Artists were 1493 better. Universal would be better.

Q. As I understood your testimony on direct examination, you did get Paramount, second run, in '41, as well as Fox and Warner, is that right?

A. As well as Metro and Warner.

Q. Or Metro and Warner?

A. That is right.

Q. And this arbitration proceeding that counsel referred to was one which involved a subsequent loss on that second run you got in '41. Isn't that right?

A. That is right.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court pleases, I might say in that connection I don't have any objection to your Honor taking judicial notice of this appeal board's decision that involved any of the people in this case or any other case for that matter, and if counsel wishes to submit——

The COURT. He has withdrawn it.

Mr. WRIGHT. There is no reason why your Honor should not examine that. All we object to is simply examining it on the same facts involved in this case. That is all.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. How many pictures did you license, second run, from Paramount in '41?

A. I don't remember the exact number.

1494 Q. At that time they were licensing their pictures in groups of five, weren't they?

A. That is right.

Q. How many groups did you license?

A. I don't remember that.

Q. Will you say you licensed any of their groups for the '41 season, second run?

Mr. WRIGHT. What season are you talking about?

Mr. COCHRAN. '41.

Mr. WRIGHT. You are asking him—you should ask him first if he knows of such a thing as a '41 season.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. My question was whether you licensed any in '41, the calendar year, '41?

A. That is when my deal was made with them, yes, in '41.

Q. How did you license?

A. I don't recall that number.

Q. Do you have your contract?

A. I believe I do on that, yes.

Q. With you?
A. Yes, I have the contract on that.
Q. Let's see it.
(Witness examines paper.)
A. My contract on that is with the Arbitration Board and they still have it. It has never been returned.
1495 Q. Then you do not have the contract here?
A. I do not have it, that is right.
Q. When did you say that Griffith had a policy of two for one admissions at Duncan?
A. I don't recall the exact year. However, I know they did have. I imagine the period between '33 and '35; somewhere along there.
Q. For what period of time did that continue?
A. I don't recall just how long.
Q. Was that a regular policy?
A. I believe it was a regular policy in the A houses; week ends.
Q. You don't know how long that continued?
A. No, I don't.
Q. During that time did you have a policy of some kind of "give-aways" also?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. "Country store" and so forth?
A. Yes, I have used them.
(Witness excused.)

1496 JAMES G. BENNETT, was thereupon called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, and being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. KIMB:

Q. State your name.
A. James G. Bennett.
Q. Where do you live?
A. Drumright.
Q. Were you formerly in the theater business in Drumright?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When did you first go into that business in that community?
A. January 1, 1926.
Q. What theaters?
A. I had the Strand Theater and the Midwest Theater.
Q. Were those the only theaters then operating in Drumright?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did another one come in later or another theater open?

A. Yes, sir, in 1934 another theater opened.
Q. How long was that in operation?
A. Oh, four or five months.
Q. What happened to it?
1497 A. I bought it. This fellow that had it sold it to me.
Q. Then did you run the three?
A. No. I closed the third house.
Q. In 1936 did anything happen to the Strand?
A. The Strand burned June 4, 1936.
Q. You had a lease on it at that time?
A. Yes, I had a lease for four years to run.

By the Court:

Q. What year did it burn?
A. 1936.

By Mr. Kime:

Q. Who owned that building?
A. It belonged to an incompetent Indian named Wilson Clinton.
Q. Who was the guardian of this incompetent Indian?
A. A fellow named Williams of Bristow.
1498 Q. His lawyer was whom?
A. I didn't know his lawyer. I dealt with him though.
Q. Mr. Williams?
A. Williams, yes.
Q. Direct. Shortly after the theater burned, were you approached by any representatives of any of the Griffith corporations?
A. Yes, I was.
Q. When?
A. About six weeks after the theater burned.
Q. Who approached you?
A. Well, a fellow named Slocum, as I recall.
Q. Commonly known as "Red"?
A. Yes.
Q. Who was he?
A. He worked for Griffiths I don't know who he was or what he did.
Q. Who was with him, if anyone?
A. There was a fellow named Claude Motley with him.
Q. Who was Claude Motley?
A. He was the Griffith manager in Cushing.
Q. Where is Cushing in relation to Drumright?
A. Ten miles west.
Q. Had you known him for some time?

A. Yes, I had known him for several years.

1499 Q. Had you known Slocum for some time?

A. Slocum used to be a film salesman. I had met him in that way.

Q. What was the date of their visit to you?

A Well, they said they wanted to buy the theaters.

Q. Is that all they said?

A. Well, they asked me if I wanted to sell the theaters.

Q. What did you tell them?

A. I told them "no".

Q. Did they say anything further?

A Well, they wanted to know why I wouldn't sell. I told them we were going along all right and making a little money and satisfied with things as they were, and didn't want to sell.

Q. Did they offer any comment to that?

A. Yes. Slocum said, "You might be making a little money today and getting along all right, but you won't be six months from now if we come in here".

Q. Did he say whether they would come in or not?

A. He said, yes, they were coming in; they were going to build a de luxe theater in the town; that the town warranted a de luxe house, he said.

Q. How large was that town then?

A. About 4500 people.

Q. That was in 1936?

1500 A. Yes. sir.

Q. Was there anything else of any importance in that conversation on that occasion?

A. No. As I recall, he went away then. I don't believe we had much more to say.

Q. Did he return shortly?

A. Yes, he came back a day or two later.

Q. Who was with him on that, if anyone?

A. Oh, I don't remember who was with him on that trip but he came back and made his proposition to buy again.

Q. Did he make a visit to you in company with C. B. Aker, commonly known as "Brownie"?

A. Well, I believe that was later.

Q. That was later?

A. Yes.

Q. Did Slocum come back alone on one occasion?

A. I believe he came back alone.

Q. About when was that?

A. It seems to me there were always three or four fellows with him but they usually hung around outside.

Q. What do you mean by "outside"?

A. Outside of the theater.

Q. Not where they could hear the conversation?

A. No, and this second time when he came I gave him a thirty day option on the theater.

1501 Q. And who was with you in this theater business?

A. Well, I was merely managing theaters for my sister-in-law. I didn't own them.

Q. What is your sister-in-law's name?

A. Mrs. Tessin.

Q. She owned the theaters and you managed them for her?

A. That is right. I ran the theaters for her.

Q. Do you have a copy of this option?

A. No, sir, I have no copy.

Q. What did Mrs. Tessin say when you told her you had given this option?

Mr. Cochran: We object to that as hearsay and incompetent.

The Court. Sustained.

By Mr. Kime:

Q. Shortly after the option was given were you approached by any other representatives of the Griffith defendant corporation?

A. This option was a thirty day option, and as I recall, I didn't have any further contact with them for a couple of weeks. However, I got a letter from them in which they said they intended to take up the option.

Q. When was that?

A. That was probably about the 15th of August, I suppose.

By the Court:

Q. What year?

1502 A. 1936.

By Mr. Kime:

Q. Did Slocum come back in company with any other representative immediately prior to the time you received the registered letter?

A. About the same time he came back and he had Mr. Griffing with him.

Q. Henry Griffing sitting here?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What happened at that time? What was the object of their visit?

A. Well, the object was to see if we were going through with this option. That is what they wanted to know.

Q. What did they learn?

A. I told them no; we were not.

Q. Did you assign any reason?

A. I said Mrs. Tessin objected and would not sell.

Q. What was the comment, if any, of either Mr. Griffing or Slocum?

A. I think my conversation that time was entirely with Mr. Griffing.

Q. What did Mr. Griffing say?

A. Griffing said "Well, whether you sell to us or not, we are coming into Drumright and when we come in you will know what will happen to you."

Q. Did you receive any phone call from anyone
1503 representing themselves as the Griffith people, whose voice you recognized?

A. No, no, sir. I received a phone call from a man by the name of Montgomery from Ponca City about the deal.

Q. What did Montgomery have to do with the deal?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that as no foundation has been laid.

The COURT. Unless it is shown he was connected with the defendant——

Mr. KIMP. That is what I am trying to discover whether he did have.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you know who he was?

A. (By the Witness) Yes, I knew him. I had met him once or twice.

Q. What was his connection?

A. He was a theater man in Ponca City and he came into Drumright about the time all this was going on——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that. He shows no connection with Griffith whatever.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge whether or not he was connected with the Griffith interests?

A. No, sir, I don't.

Q. What do you know about his connection with the Griffith interests?

A. Nothing.

1504 The COURT. Objection sustained.

By Mr. KIMP:

Q. Then you received a registered letter on what date, do you recall, the 15th of August you say, about then?

A. This option was dated about the first of August for 30 days, as I recall, and about the 15th I received this registered letter which informed me they were going to take up the option.

Q. Who signed that letter?

A. It was signed "Consolidated Theaters by"—I don't remember who signed it.

Q. Do you have a copy of the letter?

A. No, sir.

Q. But you recall that it was registered?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the option was due to be taken up on September 1, 1936?

A. That is right.

Q. Was it taken up on that date?

A. Yes. I talked my sister-in-law into going through with it and they took it up and we turned the theaters over to them.

Q. Then the deal was finally concluded on or about the first of September?

A. Yes, sir, that is right.

1505 Q. At the time, or about the time the theater burned in July, 1936, was it customary for the representatives of the various distributors to call on you to secure contracts for the coming season?

A. The theater burned down June 4, 1936, and that was about the time, about July 1, when the salesmen usually came in to sell their new product.

Q. Did they come in 1936 to sell you the '36-37 product?

A. The RKO salesman came and the Paramount salesman came and I believe the Universal. I believe those three companies' men came in.

Q. Do you recall who the RKO representative was?

A. It was Paul Fielding.

Q. Did he try to sell you?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that as incompetent and immaterial.

By the COURT:

Q. Did he sell you?

A. Yes, sir, he sold me the product.

By Mr. KIRK:

Q. Did you buy any other product?

A. I bought Paramount, and I believe Universal.

Q. What product had you had in the '35-36 season?

A. I had all product but Metro.

Q. All but Metro?

1506 A. Yes, sir.

Q. RKO, Fox, and Metro representatives came to see you?

A. RKO, Paramount and Universal came to see me.

Q. RKO, Paramount and Universal?

A. Yes, sir. Metro, Fox and Warner didn't come.
Q. And you had that product the season before?
A. I had not had Metro the season before. I said I had everything but Metro.

By the COURT:

Q. Were you buying this for the other theater?
A. Well, I was operating two theaters, and I was buying for both theaters, yes, sir.
Mr. KIMB. That is all.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. What two theaters were you operating in July of 1936?
A. I was operating the Midwest and another little house, the one I had bought from this independent exhibitor that came in. I was operating those two after the Strand burned.
Q. That small theater you are talking about was the Rex, was it not?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. It has been closed since when?
1507 A. It had been closed since April, 1935.
Q. When did you reopen?
A. I reopened it in July.
Q. Of 1936?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. So you had not had any product licensed for that theater for the succeeding year?
A. No. I had no product licensed for that year.
Q. So for the year '35-36 and up until July, '36, you were licensing pictures only for one theater?
A. I was licensing pictures for the Strand and Midwest until June 4, 1936, when the Strand burned.
Q. You were playing the A pictures in the Strand and B pictures in the Midwest?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You said it was customary for salesmen to come around and solicit your business for a season's product in July of each year. Don't you know, as a matter of fact, that they did not, as a rule, come around until later than that; that they did not come around until after their national conventions had been held?
A. Well, they usually came to see me along about July 1st.
Q. Who usually came to see you at that time?
A. The salesmen for the different companies.
1508 Q. All of them?
A. Oh, I won't say all of them.

Q. Their visits to you extended over a considerable period, didn't they?

A. Oh, possibly 30 days. They usually all came in within 30 days.

Q. Did you contact Fox?

A. The Fox man came in to get some dates from me.

Q. In other words, you were delinquent with Fox at that time?

A. Oh, a few pictures. That is customary in the business.

Q. And he was trying to get you to date pictures which you had licensed for the preceding season?

A. Well, they were pictures which were still current. They were '35-36 pictures.

Q. They were pictures which in July of 1936 had not been played?

A. That is right.

Q. Can you tell us how many Fox pictures you had unplayed at that time on your '35-36 contract?

A. No, sir, I have forgotten that.

Q. Isn't it a fact you had more than half of the Fox pictures unplayed at that time?

A. I don't think it is a fact.

1509 Q. I thought you said awhile ago that the Fox man did not come in to see you.

A. He came in to see me about getting some dates on these delinquent pictures.

Q. When was that?

A. That was along in July.

Q. Isn't it a fact that he was not in to see you until after your option to sell your theaters had been executed?

A. No, that is not a fact.

Q. The Warner salesman, did he come in in July?

A. No, he never came near at all.

Q. At that time is it not a fact you had more than half of the Warner pictures which you had licensed for the preceding season unplayed?

A. No, it is not a fact.

Q. You had a number of delinquent pictures?

A. Yes, all exhibitors have a number of delinquent pictures.

Q. I asked you if you had a number of delinquent pictures?

A. Yes.

Q. I mean pictures which you have not dated and which they had sent you notice of availability on a long time before.

1510 A. Of course, they sent me notices of availability as soon as the picture is ready, but that does not mean you play it the next day.

Q. Hadn't they called your attention, every one of these distributors, hadn't they called your attention to this delinquency time and time again before you entered into this option contract?

A. They always do. They keep writing you letters.

Q. Did they on this occasion?

A. Yes, they always write you letters when you are delinquent.

Q. In May of 1936, Metro had a suit pending against you and your sister for the product which you had not played in the amount of $984.50, didn't they?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was not that suit pending in the district court of Creek County, Oklahoma?

A. Metro?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I never heard of it.

Q. Hadn't you employed an attorney to represent you in that case and an answer had been filed?

A. This is the first time I ever heard of it.

Q. And that answer was filed on June 8, 1936?

1511 A. This is the first time I ever heard of it.

Q. You know that you had had difficulties with Metro and they had not licensed you their pictures for some time?

A. Metro didn't license their pictures to me for 1936.

Q. Don't you know that the reason—they didn't license you their pictures for the '35-36 season; isn't it a fact that the reason they didn't license you their pictures was because they had this unpaid claim?

A. No, sir, it isn't a fact; it was because I wouldn't buy their pictures at the price they offered them to me.

Q. And the pictures which you licensed for the preceding year, you would not play because you considered them too high?

A. As I remember, I played their contract out.

Q. What was the date of the first visit that Mr. Slocum made to see you?

A. I can't give you the exact date; it was approximately the middle of July, I don't know just when.

Q. The attorney who represented you in the Metro case, Mr. W. F. Speakman, do you know Mr. Speakman?

A. Yes, I know Mr. Speakman.

Q. Didn't you employ him, you and your sister, to represent you in that case?

Mr. KIMB. If the Court please, I submit that the best record, if there is a record of that, would be a cer-1512 tified copy of the record of the court.

The COURT. Yes, but nobody knows it any better than this witness. If he knows of his own knowledge, he may answer.

A. Your Honor, I have no recollection of that suit at all.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. What was the date that you say that E. R. Slocum first saw you?

A. I think about July 15, along there sometime; I can't tell you the exact date.

Q. Was that the first conversation that you had had with E. R. Slocum since he had been working for Griffiths?

A. Yes, I hadn't seen Mr. Slocum for years, five or six years, maybe.

Q. On that occasion Claud Motley was with him?

A. I believe Mr. Motley was there, yes, sir.

Q. That was your testimony on your direct examination, is that correct?

A. Yes, that's correct, I will say.

Q. Where did that conversation take place?

A. Well, we had a little office in the theater, at the Midwest, and they were in that little office.

Q. Were you in that little office?

A. Yes, I think we were.

Q. You and Slocum and Claud Motley?

1513 A. I think that's right.

Q. What was the size of that room?

A. It was about six by ten, possibly, a small office.

Q. Mr. Motley was present during that conversation?

A. I believe he was.

Q. What was said by each of the parties present at that conversation?

A. I don't believe that Motley said anything.

By the COURT:

Q. What did Slocum say?

A. Mr. Slocum said that he was representing Griffiths and they wanted to buy the theaters.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. What else; give us all the conversation, every word of the conversation.

A. I can't remember all that conversation. That was nine years ago.

Q. Well, give us all you can recall of the conversation, and the substance of the balance.

A. The substance of it was that they wanted to buy the theaters and I said no, I didn't want to sell.

Q. Was there anything else?

A. Well, he made some talk about they were going to build a deluxe house.

Q. What was said about that?

A. Well, I think he said he thought the town merited a better theater than it had, and they were going to 1514 build a deluxe house there.

Q. What else?

A. I don't know that he said anything more; he probably said a lot more.

Q. That's all you can recall?

A. Oh, I can recall very well what he said when I told him I wouldn't sell.

Q. All right, tell us.

A. All right. He said, "Why won't you sell?" I said, "Because we have a little business here that is making us a living and making a little money, and we don't care to sell; we are satisfied as we are." He said, "You may have a business that is making you a little money now, but it might not be doing so well six months from now when we get in here."

Q. What else was said?

A. That is about all.

Q. You can't think of anything else that was said?

A. No, sir.

Q. How long was it before you had any further conversation with anyone purporting to represent any defendant in this case, either Griffith Amusement Company, Consolidated, or L. C. Griffith, or H. J. Griffith, any of the Griffith parties?

A. They send boys out to do their dirty work, you know; they don't go themselves.

1515 The Court. Just answer the question.

Mr. Cochran. We move to strike that answer.

The Court. The answer will be stricken.

A. Slocum came back.

Q. Now, that question didn't call for any conversation with L. C. Griffith or H. J. Griffith, but only called for any conversation you had next succeeding the conversation you have given us, with any person purporting to represent any of the parties I mentioned.

A. Slocum came back.

Q. What was that date?

A. I don't know the date, possibly a week later, it might have been the 20th of July.

Q. A week later?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was with him on that occasion?

A. He talked to me alone; I don't think there was anybody present.

Q. Where did that conversation take place?

A. In this same little office.

Q. What was the conversation then?

A. Well, he repeated his——

Q. (Interrupting.) Just state what he said.

A. I don't know exactly.

Q. Well, as nearly as you can recall.

1516 A. He repeated his offer of buying the theaters; he said he came back to buy the theaters.

Q. What did you say?

A. I said no.

Q. What did he respond?

A. Well, he gave me a sales talk; I guess we talked maybe 30 minutes about price, and so forth, and finally I gave him an option.

Q. What threats or intimidation or anything of the kind were exercised by him at that time?

A. Well, I don't remember of any threats or intimidation that time.

Q. You signed an option at that time?

A. Yes, I signed an option.

Q. Who drew it up?

A. He did.

Q. And that was the option given him, an option to purchase your theaters, or rather your sister's theaters, within thirty days time?

A. That's right.

By the COURT:

Q. Did that cover just the one theater or all the theaters?

A. That covered all of the theaters. We still had some salvage at the burned theater; it covered that too.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. What was the date of that option?

1517 A. That option was dated August 1st, and it ran until September 1st.

Q. When was it that you had your next conversation with anyone purporting to represent the Griffith interests?

A. Well, it must have been just about the time that option expired, probably the last week in August.

Q. When was it that you said that Mr. Slocum came over there with Mr. Akers?

A. Well, I didn't say he came with Akers. Akers was there, but I don't know whether he was with Slocum or not.

Q. All right, when was it that he was there with Akers?

A. I don't know whether he was ever there with Akers.

Q. I thought you just said he was there with Akers?

A. No, I didn't say he was there with Akers.

Q. Did you ever see Mr. Akers over there with Mr. Slocum?

A. I don't know whether he was with Slocum or not. I saw Mr. Akers there; he came and took an inventory of the property.

Q. Well, that was after the option had been executed wasn't it?

A. I suppose it was.

Q. Had you had any conversation with any other representative, or with any representative of Griffith
1518 between the first conversation you have detailed, which you said was about July 15, and the second one, which was on the date the option was executed by you?

A. No, I don't believe there was with anybody in those couple of weeks.

Q. Well, had you had any conversation over the telephone or otherwise?

A. No, I had no telephone conversations at all.

Q. Was Mr. Akers present at the time you had your dealings with Mr. Slocum on the day the option was executed?

A. Not that I know of.

Q. On any other occasion, did you have any conversation or dealing with Mr. Slocum after the option was executed?

A. I wish you would repeat that. I didn't get it.

(Last question read by the reporter.)

A. No, I don't believe that I ever talked to Mr. Slocum again.

Q. How long was it after that option was executed before Mr. Akers came over and took an inventory of your property?

A. Well, I don't think he took an inventory of the property until the deal was closed.

Q. Do you mean until after the option had been 1519 exercised?

A. And the money changed hands.

Q. Did you see Mr. Akers any in Drumright prior to the time when he was over there to take the inventory?

A. No, I never saw him before in my life until he came to take that inventory.

Q. And you had no conversation with him prior or——

A. (Interrupting.) Rather, he came to——

Q. (Interrupting and continuing.) To take the inventory?

A. I believe he was there the day we closed the deal and he took the inventory that day. He was there a full day, that is all I remember.

Q. My question was whether you had had any conversation with him prior to that.

The Court. He said he never saw him before.

A. I never saw him until he came to take that inventory.

1520 Q. Now, then, what was the next conversation that you had with any person purporting to represent the Griffith interests after the option had been executed?

A. Do you mean after the deal was closed?

Q. After you signed the option.

A. Well, Mr. Griffing was over there.

Q. That's the very next time that you had any conversation with a representative of the Griffiths?

A. After the option was given, yes.

Q. Do you remember that date?

A. No.

Q. Before that—before Mr. Griffing came over there you had received a letter, a registered letter, advising you that they elected to buy the property under the option, had you?

A. Right.

Q. How long was it after you received that letter before Mr. Griffing came over?

A. Oh, I have no recollection.

Q. You can't give us any idea?

A. No. It was later that month, later in the month.

Q. Mr. Slocum wasn't with Mr. Griffing at that time, was he?

A. I don't know. He may have been; I didn't see him that I remember.

Q. You didn't see Mr. Slocum on that occasion?

1521 A. Not that I remember.

Q. Did you see Mr. Akers?

A. No, I didn't see Mr. Akers until the day Mr. Akers came and took the inventory.

Q. Well, didn't he take the inventory on that same day that Mr. Griffing was over there, and wasn't the deal closed the next day at the Bank of Cushing?

A. The deal was closed, I believe, on the first of September.

Q. Well, I am asking you if the deal wasn't closed and the money paid at the First Bank of Cushing the day after Mr. Griffing first saw you about this matter?

A. Well, it might be, I don't remember.

Q. And hadn't the inventory been taken before the money was paid?

A. No, no inventory was taken until some money had been paid. I wouldn't let them in the theater until some money had changed hands.

Q. Don't you know that the inventory was taken the night before the money was paid?

A. The inventory was taken in the daytime, I remember that distinctly.

Q. Where did you have this conversation with Mr. Griffing that you have detailed, where was that conversation?

A. That was on the sidewalk in front of the Rex Theater.

1522 Q. Who was with Mr. Griffing at that time?

A. I don't remember that there was anybody with him.

Q. Well, was there?

A. I don't know. There might have been somebody around somewhere; I saw nobody but Mr. Griffing.

Q. Isn't it a fact that Mr. Akers was with him and introduced you to Mr. Griffing?

A. I don't remember it.

Q. Will you say that Mr. Akers was not present or didn't introduce you to Mr. Griffing on that occasion?

A. No, I wouldn't say he wasn't; I just don't remember it.

Q. Now, give us the conversation which took place at that time.

A. Well, I can just give you the gist of it. Mr. Griffing asked if we were going through with the deal, and I said no.

Q. Go ahead, just tell us all of it.

A. Then he said, "You understand we are coming in here whether you sell to us or not, and then you know what will happen to you".

Q. What were you saying during that time?

A. I don't know that I said anything, except I told him we were not going through with the deal.

Q. And what else was said by Mr. Griffing?

A. I can't remember anything else.

1523 Q. Did you stand there on the sidewalk all that time?

A. That wouldn't take very long. He wasn't talking to me but two or three minutes, as near as I remember.

Q. Then what happened?

A. I guess he went away, I don't remember.

Q. Well, did he?

A. I suppose he did.

Q. There was no further conversation on that occasion?

A. None that I remember.

Q. When was the next time you saw him?

A. I believe the next day; I think the next day was the first of September.

Q. Well, did you see him the next day after this conversation on the sidewalk?

A. Well, I think I did.

Q. Where did you see him?

A. I believe down at the Little Theater, this little Rex Theater.

Q. In the office?

A. Yes, I think they came into the office.

Q. Who was present with him then?

A. I think Akers and Motley were both with him then.

Q. And what conversation took place there?

A. Well, I really don't remember much of the conversation. I had talked my sister-in-law in going 1524 through with the options the night before; as nearly as I can remember, they had a check for half of the purchase price, and I told them I had to have it all.

Q. Had you had any conversation between that conversation which you have detailed as having taken place on the sidewalk the day before, and this conversation that you are now detailing with Mr. Griffing or with any other representative of Griffith?

A. Not that I remember.

Q. You saw Mr. Griffing no more after that conversation that you have detailed having taken place on the sidewalk until the next day when you had the conversation you are now detailing, is that right?

A. The next forenoon, I believe.

Q. Is that right?

A. Well, to the best of my memory, it is. I don't know whether it is right or not, but that is the way I remember it.

Q. What date was that, that last conversation that you have detailed?

A. Do you mean when we closed the deal?

Q. Yes.
A. September 1st, I believe.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you sell everything for a lump sum?
A. Yes, sir, everything.
1525 Q. What was the necessity for an inventory then, before the deal was closed?
A. Well, that was their idea.
Q. It wasn't necessary to close the deal?
A. Your Honor, I believe, as I remember it, we didn't turn the theaters over for about three days, in order to make a smooth turn-over we held them until Saturday night, after the Saturday night show, September 4th, and they wanted an immediate inventory, I suppose to protect themselves against anything being taken out during those three days.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You had represented that you had certain personal property in the theater, hadn't you, in those theaters, at the time the deal was made?
A. Oh, there was no personal property except a popcorn machine.
Q. Well, wasn't there a projection machine, there were projection machines, weren't there?
A. There were three pair of projection machines.
Q. And seats?
A. Oh, yes.
Q. And drapes?
A. Yes.
Q. And screens?
A. We sold the complete equipment of the two theaters that we were operating.
1526 Q. All right, you didn't own the real estate, did you?
A. No, sir.
Q. So you were assigning the lease contracts and selling the personal property in those theaters?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And you had represented in making that deal that you had certain sound equipment and certain seats and so forth, had you not?
A. No, they just wanted to buy the business; they didn't go into any details about what we had.
Q. Then why was it that any inventory was taken at all?
A. You will have to ask Mr. Akers about that. He took the inventory. He asked me if he could take an inventory and I told him yes, and I went with him and unlocked the theaters and unlocked the booth and so forth and helped him take the inventory.

Q. Will you say that wasn't taken before the money was paid over?

A. No, they paid over half of the money before the inventory was taken.

Q. They paid half of the money beforehand?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But not the complete purchase price?

A. No, they had to get the other that afternoon in 1527 Cushing.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

Re-direct examination by Mr. KIMB:

Q. In the buying season there of '36–37 did the Fox representatives stop and see you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you try to buy the '36–37 product?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you buy it?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he assign any reason why he wouldn't sell it to you?

A. He said he——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting.) We object to what he said.

The COURT. Sustained.

By Mr. KIMB:

Q. What reason did he give?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that for the same reason.

The COURT. Sustained.

1528 By Mr. KIMB:

Q. Do you know, as a matter of fact, why he would not sell you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Why wouldn't he sell you?

A. Because that was already sold.

Q. That is all.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that, and move to strike it because he doesn't know that of his own knowledge.

The COURT. Sustained and it will be stricken as hearsay testimony.

Mr. WRIGHT. May we just have the conversation under the same arrangement as heretofore so we can make a record on it.

The COURT. Very well.

By Mr. KIMB:

Q. What did the Fox representative tell you then on that occasion?

A. He told me the product had already been promised to other parties.

Mr. KIMB. That is all.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is all. We would like for this witness to be here this afternoon. We might have a few questions to ask. As I understand it, that was simply an offer and the Court sustained our objection to the offer.

THE COURT. Yes. It will be stricken as hearsay.

(Witness excused.)

(Court recessed until 2 o'clock p. m. this day.)

1529 AFTERNOON SESSION

May 22, 1945, 2:00 o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS

(The following proceedings were had out of the presence of the Court, by agreement:)

Mr. CASKEY. In response to paragraph 3 of the subpoena duces tecum served upon Loew's, Incorporated, returnable May 21, 1945, I produced a list showing relase dates of pictures released between September 1, 1933 and August 31, 1943.

(Said instrument marked by the reporter as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 336 for identification.)

In response to paragraph 3 of subpoena duces tecum served upon RKO, returnable May 21, 1945, I produce list showing release dates of pictures released between September 1, 1933, and August 31, 1943.

(Said instrument marked by the reporter as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 337 for identification.)

In response to paragraph 3 of subpoena duces tecum served upon Fox, returnable May 21, 1945, I produce list showing release dates of pictures released between September 1, 1933 and August 31, 1943.

(Said instrument marked by the reporter as Plaintiff's Exhibit 338 for identification.)

1530 Pursuant to or in response to paragraph 3 of subpoena duces tecum served upon Paramount, returnable May 21, 1945, I produce list showing release dates of pictures released between September 1, 1933, and August 31, 1943.

(Said instrument marked by the reporter as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 339 for identification.)

In response to paragraph 3 of subpoena duces tecum served upon Warner Brothers, returnable May 21, 1945, I produce list showing release dates of pictures released between September 1, 1933, and August 31, 1943.

(Said instrument marked by the reporter as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 340 for identification.)

(The proceedings were thereupon resumed in the presence of the Court, as follows:)

The COURT. You may proceed.

JAMES B. BENNETT, recalled and examined as follows:

Further Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The conversation which you had with Mr. Griffing on the sidewalk the first day that you say you saw him over at Drumright, took place at what time of day?

1531 A. It was along in the evening, I think about eight-thirty or nine o'clock.

Q. Eight-thirty or nine o'clock in the evening?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Sometime prior to August 4, 1936, do you recall a salesman of Metro's coming to your place and you told him to get out and stay out?

A. I had a little row with a Metro salesman, but it was in 1935.

Q. Yes, sir, covering the season 1935–36?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How was that salesman?

A. It was Jimmie Byrd.

Q. On that occasion didn't you tell him to get out of your place and stay out?

A. Oh—(hesitating).

Q. Did you?

A. I don't think I said that to him.

Q. And don't you know that that incident was followed by the suit which was brought on unplayed product and unpaid for product for the 1934–35 season?

A. Well, I don't know when that suit was brought.

Q. All right, you know that you had—at the time of this incident with Mr. Byrd, you know there were eleven unplayed pictures of Metro of the '34–35 season, first 1532 run, don't you?

A. I don't know it, but I wouldn't deny that it might be the case.

Q. On the Fox product did you have that product licensed for the '34–35 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And for that season it was licensed on a flat rental basis, wasn't it?

A. No, just part of the pictures were flat rental; they always had some percentage pictures.

Q. Isn't it a fact that the 1935–36 season's product of Fox was the first season when you had had a considerable number of pictures licensed on a percentage basis?

A. I think Fox licensed the Will Rogers and the Shirley Temple pictures; the Will Rogers pictures they licensed in '33 and '34 and '35 and '36, and the Temple pictures in '33, I believe, from then on.

1533 Q. Do you recall that for the '35–36 season that you licensed 16 pictures on a percentage basis, thtat is, a certain percentage of the gross?

A. Well, if you have the contract there, I don't know anything about anything like that, I don't remember anything about it, that was nine or ten years ago.

Q. Don't you recall that during that season that you played one of the A pictures, no, one of their B pictures, "Farmer Takes", on August 28, 1936, a three day run, and reported gross receipts for the three days of $70.60, or something of that kind?

A. I don't; I remember a picture called——

Q. (Interrupting.) The proposition is——

A. (Interrupting.) "Farmer in the Dell" Ithink was the name of the picture, something like that.

Q. "Farmer Takes a Wife."

A. "Farmer Takes a Wife."

Q. Starring Janet Gaynor, but regardless of whether you remember that particular picture, don't you know that there was a controversy arose between you and Fox because of the returns which you were making of the gross receipts, and they put a checker in there to check your gross receipts and that the first returns which were made after the checker went in for a B picture was $152.55?

A. A B picture they checked?

1534 Q. Yes, sir.

A. What was the B picture?

Q. The picture "Burlesque."

A. Yes, they checked "Burlesque."

Q. Isn't it a fact that there was in August of 1936, immediately preceding that a very sharp dispute between you and Fox because of that checking and because of the discrepancies shown between the checkings and the returns which you had been making prior to that time?

A. A dispute about that farmer picture?

Q. I am not just talking about the farmer picture, I am talking about an objection on your part to the checking of the box office, and second, a controversy between you and Fox because their checking on the same type of pictures showed so much larger gross receipts than you had been showing on the flat rent.

Mr. KIMEL. We object to that, if your Honor please, as hearsay.

The COURT. Overruled; if you know whether or not it occurred.

A. Yes, sir, I remember very distinctly. I never objected to a checker, but I did object to this, when the checker would make his report out at the end of the run and I would give him a check for the overage and sign his report, that they would send me an additional bill for 1535 the same picture later on, when they had a checker taking tickets on the door.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. So there was a dispute between you and Fox at that time, was there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And controversy?

A. Yes, sir, on account of their checking.

Q. All right. That was prior to the time that Griffith made this option deal with you, wasn't it?

A. Oh, yes, yes, I have had checkers, I have had pictures checked on me for years.

Q. I am talking about in this season of 1935–36 with Fox?

A. Yes, sir, Fox checked pictures right up to the time my theater burned.

Q. And a controversy existed between you and Fox in that 1935–36 season?

A. Yes, sir, we had a controversy every time they sent me a bill for overage.

Q. All right. Now, at the time that you executed this option, there were 23 pictures of the 1935–36 season of Fox which were unplayed, were there not?

A. Well, I wouldn't dispute that. I don't know. I have forgotten.

Q. You know there were a considerable number?
1536 A. There were some pictures unplayed.

Q. I say there was a considerable number?

A. I wouldn't say there was a considerable number.

Q. When did you say you started to operating the Midwest and Strand Theaters for your sister?

A. For her, on April 10, 1933.

Q. Along in 1931—you owned and operated the Strand Theater, did you not—I am talking about you individually.

A. No, we had a corporation at that time, the Strand Amusement Company.

Q. You were interested in it, were you?

A. Oh, yes; I was president of it.

Q. Operating the Strand Theater?

A. And the Idle Hour Theater, which was afterwards named the Midwest.

Q. Now, isn't it a fact that the Midwest Theater was opened by Isley and Moran, or Southwest Theaters, Inc.?

Q. They got ahold of the Idle Hour.

Q. And they were operating that?

A. And changed the name to Midwest.

Q. They were operating that in 1931–32, weren't they?

A. They operated it from Thanksgiving day, 1932, to April 10, 1933.

Q. And didn't they acquire the Strand Theater from you?

A. Yes, sir.

1537 Q. So there was a period when you were not operating any theater, either you or your sister, in Drumright, was there?

A. There was a period of about a year.

Q. And then in the fall of 1933 you and Mrs. Tessin bought these theaters from Isley and Moran or the Southwestern Theaters, Inc.?

A. We bought them April 10, 1933.

Q. You and your sister?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you continued to operate them then until you sold out?

A. September 4, 1936.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

Re-direct examination by Mr. KIME:

Q. Mr. Bennett, what made you sell finally when you disposed of this theater?

A. Well, I sold because—(hesitating). I had to sell.

Q. What caused you to have to sell?

A. Well, I really had to sell because I knew that in a short time, within a year, I wouldn't have any product.

Mr. KIME. That's all.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

(Witness excused.)

1538 JAMES A. GUEST, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Will you state your full name and address please?

A. James A. Guest.

Q. You are the father of Mr. J. D. Guest——

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who testified here?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you are interested with him in the Ritz Theater at Duncan?

A. Right.

Q. Calling your attention to the year 1934 did you have any conversation with any of the Griffith brothers at that time?

A. Well, I believe it was in '34, I won't say positive, but it was '33 or '34, somewhere along in there, I did with one of them.

Q. Do you remember which one it was?

A. No, I don't.

Q. Can you describe him?

A. No, sir. All I know, he was, I imagine about my height, or something like that; he was a tall, slender man, but I wouldn't know him.

1539 Q. Where did this conversation occur?

A. Well, there wasn't very much conversation to it.

Q. I say where was it?

A. Oh, at the Ritz Theater at Duncan.

Q. Can you tell us what was said?

A. Well, he came up——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting.) We object, if the Court please, until the identity of this party is established better than it is now. It doesn't show that it was either of these defendants, or that he was employed by either one of these defendants.

By the COURT:

Q. Who was the man you talked to?

A. Griffith, one of the Griffiths.

Q. Well, which one?

A. I wouldn't know, I wouldn't know the man. He just told me he was one of the Griffith boys. I wouldn't know the man. That is the only time I really remember seeing him.

Q. Is he in the court room now, the man you talked to?

A. If he is, I couldn't tell you, because if I ever saw him over that one time, I don't remember it? I didn't know him.

Q. Do you know L. C. Griffith?

A. No, I wouldn't, I wouldn't know him.

The COURT. Stand up, Mr. Griffith. Is that the man?

A. Yes, sir, I believe it is. I wouldn't say it is—

1540 I know this—I wouldn't say positive that was—that he was him, because I just don't, I wouldn't know, but I know he told me he was one of the Griffiths, and that is all I know.

Continuing by the COURT:

Q. Well, do you know Mr. H. J. Griffith? Will you stand up, Mr. Griffith? Is that the man?

A. No, sir, I wouldn't know.

Q. You don't know what one of the Griffiths it was?

A. I don't know which one of them, no, sir. I know he told me he was one of the Griffiths.

The COURT. I will reserve a ruling and permit you to ask him the question.

Mr. WRIGHT. I beg pardon?

The COURT. I will reserve a ruling and permit you to ask the questions, subject to a motion to strike.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you tell us as nearly as you can recall what the substance of the conversation was?

A. About all I remember, he came up and introduced himself and told me who he was, and wanted to know if I wanted to sell my theater, or take a few hundred dollars, three or four hundred dollars, and hunt a new location; and I told him no, I guess he had me down wrong because I didn't put it in to sell, and I didn't want to sell. That's about all the conversation really we had; I just told 1541 him it wasn't for sale, I didn't want to sell it.

Q. Is there any better date you can fix for the conversation than just 1934?

A. Well, I do know this, I know it was right after we played Paramount, we had had Paramount first run.

Q. Was this after you lost your Paramount first run?

A. Yes, sir——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting.) Just a minute. We object to the statement, "lost the Paramount" and move to strike the question, on the ground that it is an improper statement and question to say "when you lost Paramount."

The COURT. Do you mean when you ceased using their pictures?

A. Well, we had them, I believe it was in '33-34, I believe.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. This was after you stopped playing Paramount pictures?

A. Paramount pictures.

Q. First run?

A. That's right.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Griffith Amusement Company had been operating in Duncan prior to the time you located a thea-1542 ter there, hadn't they?

A. That's right.

Q. And you located there in 1930, was it?

A. Right.

Q. From 1930 down to the time of this conversation you are speaking about, you had never met either one of the Griffiths, had you?

A. I had not.

Q. Have you ever met any of them up to this time?

A. I don't believe I have.

Mr. COCHRAN. We now move to strike the testimony of this witness in regard to his conversation with this person who said he was one of the Griffiths.

The COURT. Overruled and exception allowed. It is immaterial one way or the other.

Mr. COCHRAN. No further questions.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

(Witness excused.)

RAY H. RUSS, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Will you state your name?

A. Ray H. Russ.

Q. Where do you live, Mr. Russ?

1543 A. Stillwater, Oklahoma.

Q. Oklahoma?

A. That's right.

Q. What's your business?

A. Beg pardon?

Q. What is your business or occupation?

A. I run the Camera Theater at Stillwater, Oklahoma.

Q. When did you begin operating the Camera Theater in Stillwater?

A. In October 1928.

Q. Now, Mr. Russ, will you please state——

The COURT (interrupting.) What is the name of this theater?

Mr. KALLIS, The Camera, C-a-m-e-r-a.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Will you please state the population in Stillwater as of 1928?

A. In 1928, I don't know just what it was, I imagine around about five or six thousand.

Q. Is there a college located at Stillwater?

A. Yes, sir, Oklahoma A & M.

Q. Does the population you have just mentioned include the students enrolled at the school?

A. No, that would be extra.

Q. About how many students were enrolled in 1928?

A. Oh, I judge maybe 2500.

1544 Q. What is the population now?

A. 10,000.

Q. And prior to the war what was the average normal enrollment at the college in Stillwater?

A. I should judge about 4500.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. What was your answer as to the present population?

A. The present population in Stillwater?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I don't know what it would be; the last census was 10,000.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Mr. Russ, when you opened the Camera Theater in Stillwater in 1928, how many theaters besides yours were operating in the town?

A. There were two.

Q. What were their names?

A. There was the Aggie and the Mecca.

By the COURT:

Q. The what?

A. The Aggie and the Mecca.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Who owned and operated those theaters?

A. Griffith Amusement Company, Oklahoma City.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 341 for identification was then marked by the reporter.)

Q. Mr. Russ, calling your attention to the year, 1931, did you have any business association with the 1545 Griffith Amusement Company.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And did you enter into an agreement with the Grifith Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I show you what has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 341 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that?

A. That is the contract between Griffith Amusement Company and myself.

Q. And was it executed on or about the date it bears, September 12, 1931?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KALLIS: We offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 341.

The COURT. It will be admitted.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is the date of that?

Mr. KALLIS: This is a contract between Griffith Amusement Company signed by L. C. Griffith, vice-president, and C. E. Leachman and R. P. Leachman, as parties of the first part, and R. H. Russ as party of the second part, and dated September 12, 1931, and provides for the pooling of the Camera Theater of Mr. Russ and the Mecca Theater of the Griffith Amusement Company.

1546 Q. Now, Mr. Russ, will you please state what the circumstances were which led to the execution of this agreement?

A. Well, I hadn't been able to buy any film on film row and I was getting scarce on product, and there seemed to be a lot of competition——

Mr. DUDLEY (interrupting.) We object to him giving the circumstances preceding the execution of the contract. The contract speaks for itself, and it is a voluntary statement of the witness, and a mere conclusion. Let him state the facts.

The COURT. Read the answer.

(Last answer read by the reporter.)

The COURT. Overruled and an exception allowed.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. You may continue.

A. What else? That was the reason I suggested a partnership with them, was the fact that they could help me buy film, in running my house.

Q. You say you suggested a partnership; with whom did you have the conversation on the subject?

A. Well, I talked with the R. M. Clark, or Ish Clark, I think his initials are R. M. Clark, first.

Q. Do you know whether he had any connection with the Griffith Amusement Company at that time?

1547 A. He was one of the executives of the Griffith Amusement Company at that time, I don't know, office manager or vice-president, or something; he was an executive.

Q. Can you place the conversation with respect to the date, as nearly as you recall?

A. It was along sometime in the late summer of '31.

Q. Was it before this contract which has been marked?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. As Plaintiff's Exhibit 341?

A. I remember definitely I was talking to Mr. Clark in the little coffee shop down below Griffith Amusement Company, where they had their offices, and I got pretty well acquainted with Mr. Clark; I kind of liked him, he was a pretty good fellow.

1548 Q. What did you say to him and what did he say to you?

A. Well, I said, "Is there any reason why we can't get together on the shows up there in Stillwater?" I said, "I am having a lot of trouble getting film and you people seem to have all the film you want. It seems to me we could get together and work something out and there would be less competition and less trouble." He said "Russ, that is the first sensible thing I have heard anyone say. I don't see any reason why we can't get together at any time." He said, "Do you want to talk it over with the boss?" I said, "I will be glad to." And we talked it over with L. C. Griffith and we came to this agreement.

Q. This is the agreement which has been received in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 341?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was anything said in that conversation between you and Mr. Clark with reference to the ability of the Griffith Amusement Company to obtain pictures for your theater?

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as repetition.

The COURT. It is leading and suggestive. You can state what the conversation was. State whatever the conversation was.

A. I believe I have stated it as near as I can remember it. That has been a long while ago. I mentioned the 1549 fact they had worlds of product and I didn't seem to be able to have any and there ought to be some way we could get together.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Did he say anything to you with reference to Griffith being able to get you pictures?

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as being leading.

The COURT. Sustained. You can state what he said.

A. I think it is perfectly clear, what I have just stated.

By the COURT:

Q. What did he say?

A. What did Mr. Clark say?

The COURT. In response to your question?

A. I don't remember exactly. I know we talked about it and the whole thing simmered down that we would go and talk to Mr. Griffith.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Did you have a talk with Mr. Griffith?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Which one?
A. Mr. L. C. Griffith.
Q. When was that?
A. That was a week later when I was down on film row.
Q. Where did that conversation take place?
A. At Mr. Griffith's office, upstairs.
Q. Will you state the substance of that conversation?

1550 A. We discussed it and L. C. said, "I don't see why we can't get together on some kind of a deal." I said I wanted to notify Mr. Leachman at Stillwater. I don't remember whether we made the contract out then or whether we just talked it over and came back later, but I think we came back later and made the contract out down here in Mr. Wilson's office.

Q. After this contract was executed did you continue in any capacity in connection with either the Mecca or Camera Theater.
A. I continued to operate the Camera.
Q. What happened to the Mecca?
A. They opened the Mecca and started showing pictures over there the following week.
Q. How long has this partnership continued?
A. As I remember it, about 20 months.
Q. When did it begin?
A. You want the exact date?
Q. If you have it in your records, yes.
A. It started October, 1931, and lasted until May, 1933; 20 months.
Q. During that period of 20 months was the Mecca operated?
A. The Mecca was closed.
Q. During all that time?

1551 A. During all that time, yes, sir.

Q. What arrangement was made with reference to the rent of the Mecca?
A. The rent was to be absorbed.
Mr. COCHRAN. We object, if that is in the contract.
A. It is right there in the contract, yes, sir.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Did you pay any rent on the Mecca during the time the partnership continued?
A. I paid all the rent.
Q. What proportion of that rent did you personally pay?

A. That would make mine half.

Q. Now, with reference to buying and booking for the Camera Theater during the life of this partnership, who took care of that?

A. The buying and booking was conducted by the Griffith Amusement Company and they were to receive 4 per cent of the gross receipts as their fee for buying and booking the pictures.

Q. What was your salary as manager of the Camera?

A. $30 a week.

Q. Calling your attention to the year 1931, and approximately Thanksgiving time, did you have a conversation with Mr. R. M. Clark?

1552 A. Yes, sir.

Q. Where was that?

A. In Mr. Leachman's office at the Aggie Theater.

Q. Will you state the substance of that conversation?

A. Mr. Clark was in town and we were talking over the situation, talking about pictures and business, and he had been down to the Camera and I followed him up to the Aggie; we were in the office, and I was so dissatisfied with the way things were working out, and I had been talking it over with Mr. Clark and Mr. Clark said, "Russ, you ought to consider yourself lucky you are affiliated with us." I said, "Why?" He said, "We are going to make it tough on all independent exhibitors and close them out." I said, "How are you going to do that?" He said, "We will just control the product and they won't have anything to show." I said, "Well, that is fine if you think it will work that way."

Q. During the life of this partnership between you and the Griffith Amusement Company was the Aggie Theater being operated by the Griffiths?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What product was being shown there during that period?

A. They were playing all the major product, A pictures mostly. It was their A house. They were playing the very best.

1553 Q. What pictures did you play in the Camera?

A. We had some very poor pictures, B and C product.

Q. Do you know whether the '32–33 releases of Paramount were played at all in the Aggie Theater?

A. '32–33?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir, they were not played at the Aggie Theater.

Q. What about the '33–34 releases of Paramount, were they played at the Aggie Theater?

A. I don't think so, no, sir.

Q. Did you have a conversation with Mr. L. C. Griffith about that product?

A. Yes, I had several conversations with Mr. Griffith. That is while we were in partnership.

Q. When was that?

A. Well, that was, I imagine, we had been in partnership almost a year, and I asked Mr. Griffith if I couldn't go down and buy Paramount pictures.

Q. What did he say?

A. He said, "No." He said, "I forbid you to buy Paramount." He said, "We are having a big battle with Paramount and we are going to show them we can operate in this territory without their pictures and we are going to make them come to us." He says, "I forbid you to buy their pictures."

1554 Q. Did he say anything else?

A. Yes, there was other conversation.

Q. With reference to the Paramount product?

A. Later I asked him again if I couldn't buy those pictures. I said, "L. C., I am losing money at the Camera and there is no reason why I should lose money; all I need is some good product." I said, "If I could get these Paramount pictures, I can get them at a good price." I said, "Roy Hefner is a good friend of mine and I could get a good deal, and I can show them at the Camera and pay you off what I owe you." He said, "I forbid you to buy those pictures. If you buy them it means the breaking up of this partnership."

Q. Did you buy Paramount?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For what season?

A. They were the S-4 and S-5 group. I will have to look at the date. That was the '33–34 and the '32–33 pictures, the S–4 and S–5 group.

Q. You say that during the last part of this partnership you were playing poor product in the Camera and Griffith was playing the better product in the Aggie Theater. Will you please specify what major companies and what run, if any, Griffith was playing at the Aggie Theater during that period?

1555 A. Well, I don't know, they had the pick of all the major product. Nobody else was running any pictures in Stillwater, and at that time I know they had an argument with Warner and First National about prices or something. They were not wanting very many Warner pictures but the rest of them—Warner and Paramount together—but they run everything else.

Q. I show you what has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 342 for identification, and ask you whether you recognize this as the contract you received from Paramount for the '32–33 feature product.

A. Yes, sir, that is their contract for the S-4 group, '32–33, 63 features.

Q. And I will show you what has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit P-51 for identification, and ask you whether you recognize that as a contract you had with Paramount for the '33–34 season?

A. It looks like a copy. I think I have the original contract right there. That is the S-5 group, '33–34. This is it right here.

Q. Compare them and see if they are the same?

A. Yes, sir, these are the same as far as I can see.

Q. I show you what has been marked Plaintiff's Exhibit 343 for identification and ask you whether that is the contract you received from Paramount for the '33–34

1556 releases?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Did you play the Paramount '32–33 releases first run and '33–34 releases, first run, as provided by these contracts in evidence?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you receive a contract for the Paramount releases for the '34–35 season?

A. That was the next year?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. Were you given an opportunity?

A. Well, at the time we made that deal Mr. Pickett was manager of Paramount. Roy Heffner had just left as manager and Pickett had replaced him. Pickett was a stranger to me. I went to him and said, "Mr. Pickett"——

Mr. COCHRAN. Object to the conversation.

By the WITNESS:

A. It led up to the deal.

The COURT. Don't state what he said.

A. I asked Mr. Pickett to buy the pictures——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to what he said to Mr. Pickett.

The COURT. He is not stating the conversation. Did you buy the pictures?

1557 A. Yes, sir. I bought those two years and they promised me another year when I was in their office.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike out his statement he was promised another year's pictures.

The COURT. The motion will be sustained.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Were you given an opportunity of buying the Paramount '34–35 releases, first run, for Stillwater?

A. No, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that and move to strike the answer for the reason it calls for a conclusion.

The COURT. Overruled. Exception allowed.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. I show you what has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit 344 for identification. Will you please read that?

A. Out loud?

Q. No, to yourself.

A. Yes, sir.

(Witness reads document.)

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Mr. Russ, did you write to Paramount on or about August 12, 1934, with reference to the '34–35 Paramount product, first run?

A. Yes, sir, I wrote several letters.

Q. I show you this exhibit, Plaintiff's Exhibit 344, for identification, and ask you if you received that letter on or about the date it bears?

1558 A. I certainly did. That is one of the answers to one of the letters.

Mr. DUDLEY. We object to the exhibit for the reason it is hearsay and not binding upon the defendants.

The COURT. Objection sustained. Exception allowed.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Do you know whether you played United Artists, first run, at your theater for the '33–34 season?

A. For '33–34, United Artists sell their pictures on separate contracts. I don't know just all the pictures they had that year. I think I played most of them first run.

Q. Did you play the United Artists first run, of the releases of the '34–35 season?

A. I played some of them, first run. The pictures were foreign made pictures and the pictures they couldn't sell to Griffith I played first run.

Mr. COCHRAN. We move to strike his statement he played the pictures they couldn't sell to Griffith because that is a matter he could have no knowledge of.

The COURT. Sustained. That would be hearsay.

By the COURT:

Q. How did you get the information they couldn't sell to Griffith?

1559 A. The salesman told me. He says, "We haven't been able to sell this to Griffith and I can offer them to you."

The COURT. Objection will be sustained as hearsay.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. I show you what has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 343 for identification and ask you if you recognize this exhibit as the contract you received from Columbia for the '32–33 product, first run?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KALLIS. May it be received?

The COURT. What is the date?

Mr. KALLIS. The application is dated September 26, 1932, and approved September 30, 1932, as a first run contract of Columbia for the '32–33 season, signed by Mr. Russ for the Camera Theater. If I may be permitted, I would like to refer to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 342, which is in evidence, and for the sake of the record just indicate that it is a first run contract of Paramount for '33–34 and the dates of approval and application are not clear. With respect to the Exhibit No. 343, this is a first run contract for the '33–34 releases of Paramount. I refer again to Exhibit 342. That exhibit is dated April 24, 1933, and Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 343 is dated July 25, 1933. I understand that Plain-1560 tiff's Exhibit 341, 342, 343 and 345 are in evidence. Is that right, Mr. Cochran?

Mr. COCHRAN. What is No. 342?

Mr. KALLIS. Paramount, first run for the '32–33 season. No. 343 is a contract for the '33–34 season.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is No. 341?

Mr. KALLIS. No. 341 is the pooling agreement.

Mr. COCHRAN. What is No. 344?

Mr. KALLIS. No. 344 is a letter dated August 14, 1944, from E. A. Pickett to R. H. Russ, and No. 345.

Mr. COCHRAN. Nos. 341 to 344 inclusive have been admitted, as I understand it.

Mr. KALLIS. That is right.

The COURT. They have all been admitted, including 345.

Mr. COCHRAN. 344 was excluded.

Mr. KALLIS. That is right.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Mr. Russ, I show you what has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 320 for identification and ask you whether you recognize this contract as the one you received from RKO for the '34–35 releases, first run?

A. Yes, sir. That is the RKO pictures; all of them; '34–35.

The COURT. What is the date of the contract?

Mr. KALLIS. The application is dated October 3,
1561 1934, and approved October 24, 1934.

The COURT. No. 326?

Mr. KALLIS. No, No. 320. This has been previously identified. I offer Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 320 in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KALLIS. Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 320, in evidence, is a first run contract for the 1934–35 releases of RKO given to Mr. Russ for his Camera Theater.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Mr. Russ, did you play the RKO product, first run, for the '35–36 season?

A. '35–36 season, no, sir. Wait just a minute—I don't remember exactly—no, sir, I didn't have RKO for '35–36.

Q. Were you given an opportunity of buying that product?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you make any effort to buy the '35–36 product?

A. I certainly did. That was the year following the '33–34.

Q. What did you do?

A. I asked them to sell it to me repeatedly.

Q. Spoke with whom?

A. Mr. Williams of RKO.

Q. What was his position with RKO?

1562 A. Branch manager.

Q. You spoke with him in Oklahoma City?

A. That is right.

Q. With reference to Columbia product for the '33–34 season, second run, did you make any effort to buy that?

A. For '33–34?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't remember making any great effort to buy Columbia, no, that year.

Q. What about United Artists for the '34–35 season, first run?

A. United Artists, '34–35?

Q. Yes.

A. I just took what they offered me. I asked for all they had and took what was left.

Q. What arrangement or what effort did you make to get the Paramount product for 1934–35 season?

A. I asked for that repeatedly.

Q. Where?

A. Oklahoma City.

Q. And you were not offered the product?

A. No, sir. I have a letter there stating why it wasn't sold.

Q. Mr. Russ, did you ever have a conversation with Mr. L. C. Griffith about March, 1933, concerning a picture called "Blond Captive"?

1563 A. I really don't remember the particular dates, but I do remember the conversation about Blond Captive, a Columbia picture.

Q. With whom was that conversation?

A. Mr. Griffith.

Q. L. C.?

A. L. C.

Q. As nearly as you can recall when did that take place?

A. That was about midway of our partnership agreement after we had been going probably seven or eight months.

Q. Where did that conversation occur?

A. In Mr. Griffith's office.

Q. What was said?

A. I asked him if I couldn't go down and buy "Blond Captive", which was a special picture being made by Columbia, released on a separate contract and he said "You can go down and buy Columbia Pictures" and as to "Blond Captive" he said, "You deal with Len Stocker. Don't deal with Sam Benjamin. Len Stocker is one of my boys and he will give you a good deal."

Q. With reference to United Artists for the '34–35 season, did you play any of those pictures first run?

A. What product?

Q. United Artists, '34–35?

A. No, sir. I didn't play any pictures of United 1564 Artists for '34–35. I played some first runs, British made pictures and refuse. Griffith wouldn't buy refuse.

Q. Did you play the top allocated pictures?

A. No, sir.

Q. What about '35-36 pictures?

A. Well, I had some United Artists first run and some second run. Those second run were picked from the better pictures of the preceding year.

Q. What about the first run?

A. As I remember it, they were the British made pictures and pictures that Griffith had refused to buy.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the continual statement about what Griffith refused to buy. The witness has repeatedly said that after you have ruled on it.

The COURT. Don't state what was said to you unless it was by Griffith or some of these defendants.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. With reference to RKO for the '35-36 season, what effort, if any, did you make to buy first run?

A. RKO '35-36?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, I asked them if they wouldn't sell me; that I needed the pictures very bad——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the conversation.

The COURT. Sustained. Exception allowed.

1565 By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. You did talk with RKO representatives in Oklahoma City?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Showing you what has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 340 for identification, do you recognize this as a contract you received from Universal for the 1935-36 releases, first run?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. KALLIS. We offer Plaintiff's Exhibit 346 for identification in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

Mr. KALLIS. This is a contract between Universal and R. H. Russ for the 1935-36 product, first run. The application was dated October 14, 1935, and the approval date is October 18, 1935.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. After playing the pictures called for in this contract, first run, for the '35-36 releases of Universal, did you receive a contract from Universal for the '36-37 releases, first run?

A. As I remember it, the next year the best we could do was to take what they call a split contract. Griffith had the pick of the pictures and I took what was left.

Mr. DUDLEY. We move to strike the answer out as not responsive to the question and a voluntary statement.

The COURT. The last part of the answer, of course, he could only have gotten that from someone telling him.

1566 The motion to strike will be sustained, as to Griffith getting the pick.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Showing you Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 347 for identification, is this the contract which you received covering the '36-37 releases?

A. Yes, sir.

1567 Mr. KALLIS. We offer in evidence Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 347.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. No. 347?

Mr. KALLIS. No. 347.

The COURT. That's the Universal contract?

Mr. KALLIS. Universal contract.

The COURT. For '36-37?

Mr. KALLIS. For '36-37. It is a first run contract, and expressly provides that distributor is privileged to eliminate any 12 features, the exhibitor to play the remaining 24 as outlined above. The application is dated November 20, 1936, and approved November 30, 1936, for these at the Camera Theater, Universal product.

Q. Now, Mr. Russ, do you know what the 12 pictures which this contract provides should be eliminated by Universal cover?

A. Did I know which ones they were to take up?

Q. Do you know which ones were actually eliminated?

A. We would have to go back and check our bookings to make sure.

Q. Do you know the quality of those pictures?

A. I got the B and C pictures.

Q. What were the 12 which were eliminated from your contract?

A. The better pictures.

1568 Q. Did you characterize them as A pictures of Universal?

A. Yes, sir, A pictures.

Q. Were those played at the Griffith house?

A. They played at the other two houses, I don't know which house.

Q. In Stillwater?

A. In Stillwater, yes, sir.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 348 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

The COURT. We will take a short recess.

(At the conclusion of the recess the proceedings were resumed as follows:)

By Mr. Kallis:

Q. Mr. Russ, calling your attention to the year 1939, do you know that there was a new theater built in Stillwater?

A. Yes, sir, about that time, the Campus was built.

Q. By whom?

A. The Griffith Amusement Company.

Q. Where, with respect to the business district is that Campus Theater located?

A. The Campus Theater is located opposite A. & M. College campus, about eight or nine blocks from the center of the town.

Q. How long did the Campus Theater start operating after it was completed?

1569 A. As soon as they had it completed, they opened it.

Q. And what character of product has been played at that theater?

A. They opened it as a second run house, run second run pictures.

Q. What major companies?

A. All the major companies with the exception of Metro.

Q. And with reference to the time before this Campus Theater was built, did you make any efforts to buy second run product for your theater?

A. Occasionally I bought second run pictures to fill out my programs when I couldn't buy first.

Q. Were you ever offered a regular season's deal by any major companies?

A. Nobody except Metro.

Q. How long have you been using Metro product second run approximately?

A. Do you mean all of Metro's run, their entire product each year?

Q. Yes.

A. Since 1937-38; that's the first group I bought of Metro.

Q. Since the Campus Theater was opened, have you made any efforts to buy second run product for your Camera Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

1570 Q. What have you done?

A. I buy Metro every year, they sell me Metro. I have no luck with anybody else.

Q. Have you made any efforts with the other seven major companies to buy second run for your Camera Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What efforts have you made?

A. I haven't been able to get any.

Q. What have you done, have you come to the film exchanges in Oklahoma City?

A. I go to the film exchanges and ask them what is open.

Q. Have you been offered a second run contract with any of the major companies?

A. No, sir.

Q. With the exception of Metro?

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as a repetition.

A. No, sir.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. During the period from 1933, when this partnership agreement terminated, to 1939, when the Campus Theater was opened, what were the admission prices of the three theaters in Stillwater?

A. Well, I believe, the Aggie was running for about ten and fifteen.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object, unless he knows and can 1571 give the admission prices.

A. I don't have the exact records. It can be found.

Mr. COCHRAN. His estimate of it would not be of any value to us.

The COURT. Well, since you don't know, don't state it; if you do know, you may state it.

A. I never checked it up.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. And since the Campus Theater was opened, what admission prices have been charged at that theater?

A. They run 10 and 20.

Q. What did you say?

A. 10 and 20.

Q. 20 cents refers to adults for evening performances?

A. That's right.

Q. What admission prices have you been charging during the same period?

A. I have been getting 10 and 25, plus tax.

Q. Mr. Russ, have you ever refused to buy any season's deal that was offered to you at any price demanded by any major company?

Mr. COCHRAN. Objection as leading and suggestive.

The COURT. Overruled, you may answer.

A. Answer?

By the COURT:

Q. Yes.

1572 A. No, I never refused to buy any major product that was ever offered to me.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. I am referring to either first or second run.

A. I never refused to buy any major product, no, sir.

Q. Prior to the time that the Griffiths opened the Campus Theater, was Griffiths playing any regular major second run product in either the Aggie or the Mecca Theater?

A. No, sir.

Mr. KALLIS. That's all.

Mr. COCHRAN. Mr. Kallis, will you let me have a letter delivered to you by Mr. McKenzie from the United Artists' file, a letter dated October 18, 1934, another dated November 1, 1934, another dated December 19, 1935, and also a letter delivered to you by Mr. Nickerson from the RKO files, dated December 14, 1939, another dated December 16, 1939, and another one dated February 5, 1940.

Mr. KALLIS. Now, Mr. Cochran, I will have to look through these papers and see just exactly what I have up here.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You said that during the years 1934-35, 1933-34, 1936-37, that the United Artists' pictures were inferior pictures?

1573 A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you make the statement that they were mostly foreign made pictures?

A. No, sir.

Q. And that isn't a fact, is it?

A. They made some foreign made, they distributed some foreign made pictures; they made some very good ones.

Q. And isn't it a fact that during that entire period United Artists were recognized as some of the finest pictures made?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. However, those pictures were usually licensed at a higher price?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Their license fees were excessive in your opinion, weren't they?

A. Yes, sir; they had plenty of film rental on some of them.

Q. They had plenty of film rental?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, you say you never refused any major product that was offered to you during the period which counsel for the plaintiff asked you about; that was your statement, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

1574 Q. I will ask you if it isn't a fact that around October 18, 1934, that United Artists took your application for a number of contracts?

A. '34?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. Yes—I didn't buy United Artists that year.

Q. I didn't ask you that. Didn't they take your application?

A. I don't remember whether they did or not.

Q. And isn't it a fact that those applications were rejected because of the rentals, because the rentals given were not acceptable to the producers of those pictures?

A. I don't know. That is something I don't know about.

Q. Isn't it a fact that when you were notified that they were not accepted, that you then wrote Mr. Truog on October 19, 1934, stating, "I am glad the contracts were not accepted. I had offered more for these pictures than I could pay. Your company is so far out of line with prices for my house here, that I think it is best to forget the whole deal?"

A. I remember writing them. Yes, sir, they were out of line.

Q. Then on December 19, 1935, weren't you negotiating with Mr. Truog for United Artists' product at that time?

A. I think so.

1575 Q. And negotiations extended quite awhile, didn't they?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Didn't you write him on December 19, 1935, "after taking the whole matter into consideration I have decided to give United Artists a good letting alone. I feel pretty sore about this kind of treatment, especially after I have exerted special effort in the past two or three years to use all of your product at top prices, and in addition bringing nearly all of it back second run?"

A. That is exactly what I said.

Q. Now, when did you get into the motion picture business?

A. In October 1928.

Q. What had you been doing prior to that time?

A. Factory manager of the Harrison-Smith Battery factory at Oklahoma City.

Q. You had had no experience in the motion picture business, had you?

A. No, sir.

Q. And at that time you made a deal with Mr. Brewer, who was the manager of First National Pictures in Oklahoma City, to go in with you in a silent partnership in this Camera Theater, didn't you?

A. He agreed to lease the Camera from Mrs. Tull—Mr. Tull.

Q. I say, didn't you enter into a silent partnership
1576 with him at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who had been operating the Camera Theater before that time?

A. Mr. F. M. Tull, the owner.

Q You furnished some money, did you?

A. I furnished the money, yes, sir.

Q. The understanding with Mr. Brewer was that he was to buy and book pictures for you, was it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At that time he was branch manager of one of the distributing companies, wasn't he?

A. That's right.

Q. And you knew that at that time branch managers were not permitted to engage in that kind of business, didn't you?

A. It was news to me; I didn't know it.

Q. At any rate, his partnership with you was a silent partnership?

A. I am not—I think everybody knew it.

Q. The lease was taken in your name, wasn't it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the theater was operated by you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. He was not known so far as the operations were 1577 concerned, was he?

A. He went on film row and booked the pictures.

Q. I mean except in the licensing of pictures from the film row?

A. I think he signed some of the contracts.

Q. How long did that arrangement continue?

A. Why, it was about a year and a half or two years.

Q. Well, when did it start?

A. In 1928.

Q. In 1928, what time?

A. October.

Q. Did he license pictures for you in the '28-29 season?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Did he license them for you in 1929-30?

A. No.

Q. Who did the licensing then?

A. I think that's when I did some of it.

Q. When did your arrangement with Mr. Brewer cease?

A. Shortly after he joined the Griffith Amusement Company and they put in the Reno Theater.

Q. When was that?

A. When the Reno was built, I don't know; it was along there in '29 or '30, somewhere around there.

Q. It was sometime prior to the time that he started operating the Reno Theater that he discontinued working for the First National, didn't he?

1578

A. Yes, sir.

Q. How long before?

A. I think it was—well, he went right out of the job with First National and went to building and operating and managing the theater. He was partly responsible for constructing it; he conceived the idea or something.

Q. At any rate, he was not connected with First National Pictures. The fact is, First National Pictures merged with Fox, didn't they, about that time?

A. Wasn't it Warner Bros.?

Q. Warner Bros.?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. He was no longer connected with First National, was he?

A. No, sir.

Q. The reason you made the deal, that arrangement with Mr. Brewer, one of the reasons, was that you knew nothing about licensing pictures, is that true?

A. That's right.

Q. You had never licensed a picture, had you?

A. I had never bought a picture, no.

Q. You also thought that by reason of having a man who was branch manager of one of the companies to do your licensing, that you would have some advantage in licensing pictures, is that right?

1579

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, Mr. Roy Heffner, who was manager of Paramount at that time, was one of the persons who cooperated with you and Mr. Brewer in that set-up, wasn't he?

A. Roy Heffner was a friend of mine; he had some Paramount pictures to sell and I bought them.

Q. He was one who helped to arrange for you and Mr. Brewer to go into business together, wasn't he?

A. Well, I don't know as he helped a whole lot.

Q. Well, he brought you together, didn't he?

A. No, we were all three living neighbors, next door together, on North Harvey Street.

Q. Mr. Brewer did continue to buy and book pictures for your theater at Stillwater as long as he was connected with First National, is that true?

A. I don't know whether it is or not.

Q. You don't know whether that is true, or not?

A. I don't know.

Q. You testified in the Momand case, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the case of Momand vs. Griffith Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will ask you if you were asked this question in 1580 that case, on or about January 19, 1943, "How long did that partnership arrangement with Mr. Brewer continue", and your answer, "about two years"?

A. Uh-huh.

Q. Do you remember testifying to that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Is that correct?

A. I think it is. I don't know. I wouldn't swear to it.

Q. If that is correct, that would terminate your partnership about October of 1930, wouldn't it?

A. It was about a year and a half or two years.

Q. I am asking you if you testified to that in the Momand case? Did you so testify?

Mr. KALLIS. If the Court please, this witness on cross-examination specifically answered Mr. Cochran's question by saying he thought the partnership between himself and Mr. Brewer ended in 1929 or 1930. And I submit the question has been clearly and sufficiently answered. There is no reason for going over this, and trying to impeach him by some improper method.

The COURT. I think he has answered the question. He said a year and a half or two years.

Mr. KALLIS. If I heard his testimony correctly, he said
1581 that Mr. Brewer quit this partnership in 1929 or 1930. That is the story he has told all the way through.

Mr. COCHRAN. The question I was attempting directly to get an answer to here and inquiring about, he had stated here on the stand that he didn't know whether this buying arrangement with Mr. Brewer continued until he discontinued his relationship with, until Mr. Brewer discontinued his managership with First National, he answered he didn't know. Then I asked him if in the Momand case he didn't testify it did so continue and he has not answered the question.

The COURT. Let him answer the question. You may answer the question.

A. I don't know definitely.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did you so testify in the case of Momand vs. Griffith Amusement Company?

A. I don't know.

Mr. KALLIS. If the Court please, I object to that.

The COURT. It is closed; he said he didn't know; that is all there is to it.

Mr. KALLIS. He hasn't stated anything that is inconsistent with it.

The COURT. Well, that is immaterial. He just asked him if he made that statement and he said no, and that answers it.

1582 Mr. COCHRAN. That's all the answer I want, your Honor.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Now, how long did you continue to operate the theater after Mr. Brewer ceased to buy and book pictures until you made the arrangement with Griffith Amusement Company represented by the——

A. (Interrupting.) A little over a year.

Q. Beginning in 1930?

A. About then.

Q. And extending to about what date?

A. I suppose it extended to the date we went in partnership with Mr. Griffith.

Q. What was that date?

A. That was in '31.

Q. What date was that in '31?

A. In October of 1931.

Q. Did you license any season's product for the theater prior to the time that—I mean a contract which was negotiated and executed by you, prior to the partnership arrangement with Griffith Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir, we bought pictures, the old F.B.O. pictures, which were later RKO pictures.

Q. When did you license those?

A. When we first went into business, in '28-29.

Q. Mr. Brewer negotiated those, didn't he?

1583 A. No, we negotiated them together with Sam Benjamin, manager for F. B. O.

Q. Do you have those contracts?

A. I haven't got them with me, I don't believe.

Q. Mr. Russ, you didn't notice my question. I want you to tell me what pictures, if any, you licensed on a season's contract after you severed your relations with Mr. Brewer and prior to the time you made your deal with Griffith Amusement Company?

A. I think I bought some Universal pictures.

Q. For what season?

A. I think I bought some Universal pictures.

Q. For what season.

A. '31.

Q. Do you have that contract?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Let's see it, will you, please?

A. Have you got that? I think it is Universal '31-32.

Mr. KALLIS. I don't recall seeing any Universal '31-32. There is a first run, '31-32 RKO contract here.

Mr. COCHRAN. No, I am asking about Universal right now.

Q. Are you mistaken, Mr. Russ, about having a '31-32 contract with Universal?

A. If that contract isn't there, I believe it can be found. I don't know for sure.

Q. What other product?

1584 A. Well, we had some old F. B. O. pictures.

Q. I am not asking you what you had; I am asking you what contract you negotiated in that period between the cessation of your connection with Mr. Brewer and the time you made the deal with Griffith in October 1931?

A. There was some Universals, RKO, some independent product, Tiffany Star.

Q. Do you have the contract with RKO which you say you negotiated?

A. I think the RKO contract of 1931-32 is there.

Q. Let us have it.

Mr. KALLIS. All right (handing).

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Don't you know that the RKO contract which you had, which you negotiated in the fall of 1931, was the only major contract which you had executed prior to the time you made this deal with the Griffith Amusement Company?

A. No, I don't think so; I think there was other contracts in there.

Q. What other contracts do you think you had?

A. Well, we had an F. B. O. contract I know.

Q. The F. B. O. at that time was known as an independent, was it not?

A. I don't know, I guess so. It later merged with RKO.

1585 Q. That was a concern that later became the RKO, was it not?

A. That's right.

Q. In other words——

A. (Interrupting.) We had some Universal pictures, I remember definitely, running some Tom Mix pictures and Hoot Gibson pictures.

Q. I am not asking you what you had; I am asking you for contracts that you executed in the fall of '31 for the '31-32 season?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did you have any other major company's product that you made a contract for in the '31-32 season?

A. Other than RKO?

Q. Other than RKO?

A. I think I had Universal.

Q. But you can't locate the Universal contract?

A. No, sir, I haven't got it with me, but I am pretty sure we had Universal.

Q. Now, isn't it a fact that you made that arrangement with Griffith Amusement Company because, first, that the depression had commenced to be felt very seriously in the motion picture business?

A. No, sir, that was not the reason I joined them.

1586 Q. It is a fact that the motion picture industry in Oklahoma was very seriously feeling the effect of the depression at the time you entered into that agreement, isn't it?

A. We knew there was a depression on; it wasn't serious at that time.

Q. At that time you were losing money, were you not?

A. No, sir.

Q. The second reason, wasn't it, the further reason you entered into it was because you had no experience in the licensing of pictures and that you desired to have the services of some one that was experienced in licensing pictures?

A. I was inexperienced, yes, sir.

Q. Now, you have told us that you had a conversation with Mr. R. W. Clark late in the summer of 1931. Mr. Clark is dead, isn't he?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you say you had a conversation with Mr. L. C. Griffith?

A. When?

Q. Well, you said after you had the conversation with Mr. Clark, you had a conversation with L. C. Griffith?

A. Not that day, no, sir.

Q. Did you have more than one conversation with Mr. R. W. Clark?

A. I had lots of conversations with Mr. Clark.

1587 Q. Well, I am talking about the conversation relative to the pooling of the Camera and the Mecca.

A. I talked to him several times about it, yes.

Q. What?

A. I talked to him several times about it.

Q. You remember detailing the conversation, the first conversation you had with him about that, don't you?

A. The first conversation?

Q. On direct examination, in the summer of 1931?

A. When I proposed that we join?

Q. In the coffee shop?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say you approached him at that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who was the next person connected with the Griffith organization that you talked to about that matter?

A. Mr. L. C. Griffith.

Q. Where was that?

A. In his office.

Q. When?

A. The same day, if I remember right, or it might have been the next week.

Q. And who was present at the time of that conversation?

A. Mr. Clark and Mr. Griffith.

Q. Anybody else?

1588 A. I believe his brother, H. J. Griffith.

Q. What is that?

A. I believe his other brother, H. J. Griffith, was there, there in his office; I don't remember who all was there.

Q. Who was present at the time this conversation took place between you and L. C. Griffith?

A. Mr. Clark.

Q. Who else?

A. The office was full of people, working there.

Q. Well, was Mr. H. J. Griffith there?

A. I don't know whether he was or not; he might have been.

Q. Was Mr. McKenna there?

A. I was up there so many times, I don't remember whether he was there on that particular time or not.

Q. What was the conversation at that time?

A. We talked over making a partnership agreement.

Q. Just what was said?

A. Well, I don't remember the exact conversation, that has been a long time ago, but I know what impressions were left.

Q. Can you give us the substance of the conversation?

A. Well, they said it would be a very advantageous deal for me if I did join them, and it would mean just 1589 one more, one less spot where they had opposition, and they were tickled with that, and I told them it was a little bit rough that we had to go 50-50 on the deal, and they said, "You will make more money in the long run; we will furnish you better business; we are experienced show men; we will give you better methods of exploitation, more advertising; we can buy things cheaper for you; we can book your pictures; you won't have to run back and forth to Oklahoma City to do that." All of these things were talked over.

Q. Did he say anything about the advantages of having efficient bookkeeping and auditing?

A. Yes, sir, they had a very efficient bookkeeping and auditing system.

Q. Can you recall anything else that was said on that occasion?

A. We worked out the details of the contract, and I don't know, I came back then in a week or maybe a couple of weeks later, and Mr. Leachman and his brother were in there and we went down and signed the contract at the lawyer's office downtown.

1590 Q. What lawyer's office was that?

A. Mr. Johnston's; Keaton, Wells & Johnston, somebody.

Q. How long was that before Thanksgiving of 1931?

A. I couldn't tell you. It was in the fall sometime, along in there; I don't know.

Q. Well, can you give us some estimate of the length of time?

A. I imagine it was before Thanksgiving.

Q. Well, how long?

A. I don't know.

Q. Did you put that contract in evidence?

Mr. KALLIS. Yes, it has been offered in evidence. September 12, 1941, referring to Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 341.

A. This contract was drawn up before we opened the show under the partnership in October, so I imagine it was done in September sometime.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. So the show was opened up under the partnership in October, 1931?

A. That is right.

Q. Do you remember the date?

A. October, I believe.

Q. Why was it you delayed that length of time after the contract was signed before opening up the theater?

Mr. KALLIS. I don't think that is material.

The COURT. Overruled.

1591 A. I don't know whether there was any lapse of time in there or not; as soon as we got the booking straightened out and changed around we took over. I think it was the first of October.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Then there was about a month of operation between the time the Griffith Company started to licensing and booking pictures for the Camera Theater until Thanksgiving of '31. Is that correct?

A. It was around about that, yes.

Q. You say that on that date, on Thanksgiving day, 1931, you had a conversation?

A. I think it was a year later. It was the next Thanksgiving.

Q. No, it was in 1932. Is that correct?

A. It was after we had operated the partnership quite a while.

Q. In your direct examination you said it was Thanksgiving, 1931.

A. I think it was a year later, '32. I think it was after we operated the theater quite a little while. I am not sure it was Thanksgiving.

Q. So you were just mistaken when you said it was 1931 that that conversation occurred in Mr. Leachman's office with Mr. Clark?

A. It was later than Thanksgiving, 1931.

1592 Q. Who was present at that conversation?

A. Mr. Leachman.

Q. Anyone else?

A. Ish Clark.

Q. Who else?

A. Nobody.

Q. Which Mr. Leachman was that?

A. Claude.

Q. There are two Leachman. They are brothers, aren't they?

A. Three.

Q. You are sure Claude was the one that was present?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You say you were dissatisfied at that time?
A. Yes, I was dissatisfied.
Q. What was said in that conversation?
A. Well, we had been talking about the operating of theaters and pictures and one thing and another and I told him I didn't like the way things were going; I didn't like the quality of pictures I was getting; I thought I would get some A pictures once in a while, as long as I was in partnership, and I had been getting B and C pictures. Mr. Clark said "Russ, you ought to consider yourself lucky, you are partners with us." I asked him why and he said:

"Well, we are going to make it tough on all inde-1593 pendent exhibitors and eventually control the territory." I said, "How are you going to do it?" He said, "By controlling the product." I said, "That is fine if it works out that way."

Q. That statement was made by Clark in the presence of Mr. Claude Leachman?
A. No, made by me.
Q. I mean the statement of Clark that "Russ, you ought to consider yourself lucky. We are going to make it tough on all the independents" and so forth.
A. That is right.
Q. That statement was made by Clark in the presence of Mr. Leachman?
A. I don't know whether Claude was in the room or not. It was a big room and the hall goes back of the projection room and whether Claude was in there at the time or not, all the time, I don't know. The three of us were together that morning.
Q. Awhile ago you told us that Mr. Leachman was present during that conversation. Do you want to change your mind on that?
A. He was around in the building. Whether he heard the conversation or not, I don't know. There were only three of us there at any time.

Q. I want to know if during that conversation
1594 there was anybody present other than Mr. Clark, deceased?

A. Leachman was there in the office. Whether he heard it or not, I don't know.
Q. Now, you say you later had a conversation with L. C. Griffith about the Paramount product?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When was that?

A. Well, that was along in the summer. It was hot weather I remember, about 32-33. It was the summer, the last summer of our partnership agreement. I can give you the date approximately. We terminated the partnership in May, 1933. I imagine it was around March or April, it began to get warm weather; in April, maybe.

Q. Where was that conversation?

A. In Mr. Griffith's office.

Q. Who was present?

A. Mr. Griffith.

Q. Anybody else?

A. I don't remember whether there was anybody else in the office at that time or not.

Q. You say later on you had another conversation with Mr. L. C. Griffith about the same matter?

A. I talked to him several times, yes, sir.

Q. How long was that after the first conversation you had?

1595 A. It wasn't very long; probably the next time I was down on film row.

Q. About how long?

A. A week or so.

Q. Who was present at that time?

A. Mr. Griffith.

Q. Anybody else?

A. I don't remember. I don't think so.

Q. Do you recall that in the trial of the case of Momand against Griffith Amusement Company, about January 19, 1943, that on cross examination you were asked this question: "The disagreement between you and Griffith arose out of the fact you thought the pictures ought to be exhibited at your Camera rather than at the Aggie". Do you remember that question?

A. No, sir.

Q. And your answer: "Our difference was, I had RKO pictures bought on our own contract and the clause in the contract, I was to use them exclusively in my theater."

"Q. They contended they had the right——

"A. They wanted three pictures the latter part of the year at the other house and took them.

"Q. So at any rate there was a disagreement there where the pictures should be played?

"A. That is right."

1596 Do you remember those questions and answers?

(No reply.)

"Q. And you terminated your relations with them in 1933 and since that time you have been operating this theater yourself?

"A. That is right."

I will ask you if in that examination you said anything about your disagreement with the Griffith Amusement Company arising because L. C. Griffith forbade you from licensing Paramount pictures?

A. No, sir.

Mr. KALLIS. I object to that until there is a showing made as to what specific questions were put to this witness in the Momand case.

The COURT. He has already answered it.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I will ask you if this question was not asked you by Mr. Smith, an attorney for Mr. Momand,—by the way, Mr. Smith at that time was representing you in arbitration proceedings, wasn't he, with Paramount?

A. He represented me just before or afterward.

Q. Wasn't he representing you at that very time?

A. I am not sure about the date.

Q. Didn't he at that time on direct examination ask you: "Do you recall at this time what was the first company that sold first run pictures away from you?

1597 "A. Well, I believe Paramount at the time I broke with Mr. Griffith and his organization—there were two years of Paramount pictures laying idle. That is, the year preceding and another year coming up, and I bought those two years first run from Paramount, and I was promised the third year by the manager, Mr. Baggett, but I never bought the third year because at that particular time they were friendly with Griffith and they sold the first run to Griffith, but I think Paramount was the first one that sold away from me."

Q. Do you remember that testimony?

A. That year, yes, sir.

Q. After you severed your relations with the Griffith Amusement Company you continued to operate the Camera Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have operated it down to the present time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You have operated at a profit each and every year?

A. Yes, sir, made a living.

Q. Now, will you say that the cause of the termination of the contract, the disagreement between you and the Griffith Amusement Company, was in connection with the playing of the RKO pictures?

A. That was one of the reasons.

1598 Q. And that is the only reason you gave in your testimony in the Momand case?

A. I wasn't asked any other reason.

Q. Now, you mentioned something about Warner Brothers product. I understood you to say, when the Camera Theater had Warner Brothers product licensed for the '32–33 season——

Mr. KALLIS. I don't recall any testimony whatever with regard to Warner.

By the WITNESS:

A. I didn't have any Warner Brothers in '32–33.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You never did have the Warner Brothers product, you never were its account?

A. When I first went into the picture business I ran some old First National pictures. No, I didn't have any Warner Brothers.

Q. You never were an account of Warner Brothers in Stillwater prior to the 1941–42 season, were you?

A. That is right.

Q. You were never an account of Fox?

A. No, sir.

Q. Prior to the 1941–42 season, were you?

A. No, sir.

Q. You were never an account of Metro prior to your second run account in '37–38, were you?

A. Except I bought their short subjects——

1599 Q. I mean feature product.

A. No, not feature product.

Q. In 1937–38, how many of the Metro pictures did you license second run?

A. In '37–38?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I took the entire group.

Q. Was that a selective contract?

A. No, sir, I run the whole thing.

Q. And that included their best pictures?

A. Their A, B and C pictures.

Q. How many A pictures did Metro produce that year?

A. I don't know. I would have to look on the contract.

Q. You were not an account of Columbia at any time subsequent to the '32–33 season down to the '38–39 season, were you?

A. No, sir. I bought the Columbia one year was all. That was away back in '31–32.

Q. And you haven't attempted to buy Columbia since that time?

A. No, sir.

Q. Speaking of Universal, did you have a contract with Universal in the '32–33 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have that contract?

1600 A. I think we have it there for '32–33, the Universal.

Mr. KALLIS. I don't remember seeing it.

A. That is the one we argued about a little while ago. I am not sure.

Mr. COCHRAN. I thought the one we were arguing about then was '31–32. In other words, the first season after you discontinued your arrangement with Mr. Brewer.

A. We had some Universal pictures. I don't know how many of them or what.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You have introduced a contract here for some Universal pictures for the '35–36 season. The next year, '36–37, you have introduced a contract covering a number of pictures you had. That covers 24 pictures first run, does it not?

A. I think so. It was a split contract.

Q. You didn't say anything about '37–38 Universal.

A. I didn't have any '37–38 Universal, second run.

Q. Isn't it a fact that Universal attempted to license you pictures for that season?

A. No, sir. I bought some second run of them, 16 or 20, I don't remember which.

Q. Isn't it a fact they tried to license you first run pictures?

A. No, sir.

Q. All except the top A?

A. What year did you say again?

1601 Q. '37–38?

A. '37–38?

Q. Yes, sir, and you didn't license them?

A. No. They offered them to me, yes, but it was a split contract and I wouldn't take them.

Q. They were offered to you but you didn't take them because the top A was excluded?

A. That is right.

Q. In other words, they offered you the same kind of a contract you had for the '36–37 season and you refused to take it?

A. That is right.

Q. After your correspondence with United Artists, about which you testified a moment ago, back in 1934, when was the next time that you attempted to license any of United Artists' product?

A. After 1934?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I don't remember exactly. Their film salesman called on me. I think I bought some second run pictures in 1935.

Q. Did you license any of their pictures for 1935–36 season, first run?

A. Some foreign made pictures.

Q. How many pictures?

A. I can't tell you exactly; four or six maybe.

Q. Do you have the contracts (Mr. Kallis hands the witness papers)?

1602 A. We have no way of telling which year's product these United Artists' contracts cover. They don't have a date on here except the date they were accepted.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. These items you have here are spot booking items, aren't they?

A. No, sir.

Q. These are not the contracts?

A. Those are acceptance sheets you got after you sign the contract and it is approved. They are all approved.

Q. You don't have the contracts?

A. The contracts are right there—no, the contracts are downstairs. There are four pages on each contract. I thought that would be easier to handle there.

Q. I will go to something else until we get them. Is it not a fact that in the '35–36 season you refused some United Artists pictures which were offered to you because of the price?

A. A ridiculous contract, yes, sir.

Q. Do you remember how many of those pictures you declined?

A. No, I don't remember. There was a few of them there.

Q. They were offered to you but at prices you considered unfair?

A. That is right.

1603 Q. You stated that you attempted to obtain second run pictures from all of the major distributors. Is that right?

A. When?

Q. Prior to '38–39?

A. No, sir, I didn't try to get from all of them. I would go around and get a few to fill out my program as I needed them.

Q. Spot booking?

A. That is right. I bought RKO consistently, 10, 12, 115 pictures as a rule.

Q. On a spot booking contract?

A. No, there was a definite contract. I committed myself definitely each year.

Q. Do you have your second run contract with RKO?

A. They are all right there.

Q. You say you had a contract with RKO for second run pictures for the season of '35–36?

A. RKO, '35–36?

Q. Yes, sir. I am not talking about spot booking. I am talking about the contract for a group of pictures.

A. No, sir, not '35–36.

Q. '36–37?

A. I bought 15 second run in '36–37.

Q. On what date?

A. I don't know. It is on the contract.

1604 Q. In '37–38?

A. In '37–38?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you attempt to license second run pictures from RKO in '37–38, second run?

A. In '38 I bought 15 of their '36–37, second run pictures. Whether we had any of the '37–38 RKO group, I don't remember. I don't think so.

Q. I am asking you if, during that period of '36–37 and '37–38 you applied for pictures, second run, of RKO and were denied?

A. If didn't buy them second run I asked them to buy them because I was deviling them for pictures all the time.

Q. Do you remember any occasion when you did?

A. I don't remember a definite occasion, no, but every time I went into book pictures I would ask them if they had anything to sell. I was booking pictures practically every week.

Q. On their RKO product, '38–39, you were licensed some first run pictures and some second run pictures, weren't you?

A. That is right, 15.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you were delinquent in the playing of that product during most of that season?

1605 A. I was delinquent, yes, sir, I was holding them back on purpose for protection.

Q. They couldn't get you to date second run pictures, could they?

A. I didn't want to date them too soon, no.

Q. On December 12, 1939, did Mr. Peppercorn, the office manager of RKO write to you calling attention to a number of first and second run pictures of Paramount which were delinquent?

A. Mr. Peppercorn didn't work for Paramount.

Q. If I said Paramount I made an error. RKO.

A. Yes, sir, he wrote me several times.

Q. And you were delinquent at that time?

A. I was delinquent, yes, sir.

Q. And he continued writing you in regard to that matter?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. For a number of months thereafter, didn't he?

A. Yes, sir, and I eventually played the pictures.

Q. Finally played them all?

A. Yes, sir.

(Hereupon Court adjourned until 10:00 o'clock a. m. May 23, 1945.)

1606 PROCEEDINGS

May 23, 1945, 10 o'clock a. m.

RAY H. RUSS, recalled, further testified as follows:

Cross-examination (cont'd) by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I notice there were certain questions which I read from the testimony in the Momand case to which there was no reply. That is, it is indicated in the record there was no reply, so I want to re-ask in regard to that matter. When you testified in the Momand case I will ask you if you did not state, referring to the cause of the culmination of the contract between you and the Griffith Amusement Company, involving the operation of your Camera Theater, if you did not answer:

"A. Our difference was I had RKO pictures bought on our own contract and the clause in the contract, I was to use them exclusively at my theater."

The question was then asked: "And have contended they have the right—(interrupted).

"A. They wanted three pictures the latter part of the year at the other house and took them.

"Q. So that anyhow there was a disagreement over where the pictures should be played?

"A. That is right.

1607 "Q. And you terminated your relations with them in 1933, and since that time you have been operating this theater yourself?

"A. That is right."

Did you so testify in answer to those questions?

A. I testified that way, yes, sir. That was not the only reason we terminated the contract.

The COURT. The question is, did you answer as has been asked you in that other testimony?

A. That is right, as far as it goes.

1608 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When did you first tell anyone that in a conversation which you had with Mr. Clark in the office of Mr. Leachman at Aggie Theater that he said, "Russ, you ought to consider yourself lucky that you are affiliated with us", and I said why and he said, "We are going to make it tough on all independent exhibitors and close them out".

A. Who did I talk it over with?

Q. Who did you first make that statement to?

A. I think I talked to my operator first about it, he was around there right close, and we talked it over.

Q. Who else?

A. My wife.

Q. I am talking about connected with the Government or your attorney in the arbitration suit or your attorney in the Momand case?

A. Well, I think I talked it over with Mr. Momand; he asked me questions at different times, and we discussed it, and Mr. Smith, who was an attorney in the arbitration case.

Q. Mr. Smith was the attorney who was examining you in the Momand case?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Wasn't he?

A. Yes, sir.

1609 Q. And at that time he knew about that statement and these other statements that you have mentioned?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Yet you testified nothing in regard to that in that case?

A. I wasn't asked.

Mr. KALLIS. If the Court please, I object to that unless there is a showing first as to precisely what Mr. Russ told this attorney Smith, and just exactly what Mr. Smith——

The COURT (interrupting.) Overruled; this is cross-examination; it merely goes to the credibility of the witness.

Mr. KALLIS. It doesn't throw much light, your Honor, on it unless we know just exactly——

The COURT (interrupting.) It is immaterial what he said; the question is if he knew that and you told him that and didn't say anything about it. Now, that is proper cross-examination, and that is as far as it goes.

Mr. KALLIS. Well, now, it appears—but the exact function that Mr. Smith had in connection with the case that he may have handled for Mr. Russ in 1943, or whatever the date was, doesn't appear to have any relationship with the purchase of Paramount pictures in 1932.

The COURT. Not a thing; it merely goes to the credibility of this witness.

1610 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You knew in the trial of the Momand case that one of the contentions was that there was an attempt to monopolize theater operations in the State of Oklahoma, didn't you?

A. That's right.

Q. And you knew that when you testified?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who is the first person connected with the United States Government that you ever——

A. (Interrupting.) I think it was a man by the name of Simon.

Q. Did you make any statement in writing?

A. We talked the whole thing over, he wanted me to make a statement, and we sat down in the office and I talked to him.

Q. Did you make any signed statement at that time?

A. I believe I signed it, yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. Do you have the statement that was prepared, the signed statement?

Mr. KALLIS. I have some——

A. (Interrupting.) I think there is a record of it.

Mr. KALLIS. Statements of Mr. Russ, but they were left downstairs.

Mr. COCHRAN. May I see them, please.

A. I have a copy of it right there in the folder. I think the original is there.

1611 Mr. WRIGHT. You can ask the witness for whatever quotations he has.

By the WITNESS:

A. I think the original is there with Mr. Simon's name on it.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Did you sign it?

A. I would have to look and see to be sure.

Q. Let's see it.

The COURT. He has the right to see it. He testified he made it.

Mr. KIME. It is not a signed statement.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Is that the statement which you did make?

A. That is the statement I made. That is copy Mr. Simon took the copy off of. Whether I signed it or not I don't know.

Q. Did you sign the original?

A. There is a place it should be—I don't know.

Mr. KIME. I will say we have the statement Mr. Russ signed on about August 1, 1939. It has Mr. Russ's signature. We have it down in the Department of Justice files in the office of the United States Attorney.

By the COURT:

Q. Is that the identical copy?

By the WITNESS:

A. That is the one we worked out and that is the copy he made his off of; just the same as the work sheet.

1612 Mr. COCHRAN. Why cannot we examine the copy?

Mr. KALLIS. If you will declare a recess for five minutes we will be glad to go down and bring that file upstairs.

The COURT. Can you proceed with something else while they are doing that?

Mr. COCHRAN. Yes. I can ask some other questions.

The COURT. Of course, that would be competent only for one purpose. That merely goes to the credibility of this witness as to the correctness of the statement that he has testified to here.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Russ, you testified that sometime after the partnership arrangement between you and the Griffith Amusement Company that you discussed with Mr. L. C. Griffith the matter of licensing some Columbia pictures. You mentioned in particular "Blond Captive." As a matter of fact, you discussed with him the advisability of licensing for your theater a number of Columbia pictures did you not?

A. That is right, a whole year's product.

Q. And he made no objection to you doing that?

A. No, sir.

Q. And on September 26, 1932, or about that time, you entered into the contract which has been introduced in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 345 with Columbia

1613 covering 32 pictures?

A. That is right.

Q. When did you commence to play those pictures?

A. Well, sir, I don't know. I imagine we commenced right away. I would have to check my bookings to find out.

Q. Your idea is you commenced right away?

A. That is right.

Q. Now you say that he forbade you to license any pictures from Paramount and you went ahead and licensed some anyhow?

A. That is right.

Q. Prior to the time of the termination of your agreement?

A. That is right.

Q. And you said that was the product for the 1932–33 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you identified Plaintiff's Exhibit 342 as covering the product which you licensed at that time and stated that the application date as shown on the document was April 24, 1933?

A. That is the date on there.

Q. Do you know what date that contract was approved?

A. Is it marked on there? I don't know when it

1614 was approved.

By the COURT:

Q. What is the contract?

Mr. COCHRAN. This is Exhibit 342.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When did you start to playing those pictures?

A. Soon after I broke the partnership with Griffith.

Q. You didn't start playing any of them until after you had broken the partnership?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did he know you had licensed those pictures?

A. I don't know whether he did or not.

Q. You didn't tell him you had licensed them, did you?

A. I don't remember of telling him, no.

Q. And you had not played any of those pictures before May 1, 1933?

A. I don't know whether I played them before May or not because the deal was made long before that contract went through.

Q. But the point I am making is, before you terminated the contract with Griffith you had not played any of those pictures in your theater?

A. No, sir.

Q. So far as you know the Griffith organization and Mr. L. C. Griffith did not know that you had gone ahead and licensed any Paramount pictures?

A. I think they knew it.

1615 Q. How did they know it?

A. I think they heard about it from Paramount.

Q. Why do you say you think that is true?

A. Well.

Q. Do you have any knowledge that they knew it?

A. Not direct, no.

Q. Now, isn't it a fact that you licensed those pictures in anticipation of the termination of the contract, which termination you had based upon dissatisfaction about booking pictures?

A. I licensed those pictures because I needed some product to run of that quality.

Q. Yet you licensed them in April and didn't start to play them until later?

A. I started to playing them as soon as I could.

Q. Why couldn't you play them any sooner?

A. I think the date on that contract is away later than when the deal was made; I may have played some pictures off of that contract before that date.

Q. You think the contract was early and you may have played some pictures on it?

A. Yes.

Q. Because you didn't need those pictures?

A. I certainly did.

Q. You made this contract in order that you could have product to play in that theater immediately, didn't you?

A. That is what I wanted.

1616 Q. Those pictures were pictures of the 1932–33 season, were they not?

A. That's right.

Q. In other words, they were pictures which you licensed here which had been released as early as September of 1932?

A. They were pretty near a year old.

Q. There was no reason why they couldn't be booked in your theater at once, was there?

A. They could be booked any time.

Q. Any time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. It is customary to write into these contracts the date when you will start playing off the contract, isn't it?

A. Sometimes they do.

Q. I will ask you to examine this contract and state what the exhibition arrangement is.

A. 6–1–33.

Q. In other words, it says here "pictures to play at the rate of five per month, starting June 1, 1933".

Mr. WRIGHT. Has that an exhibit number?
Mr. COCHRAN. Yes.
The COURT. 342.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. That is what it says, isn't it?

A. That is what it says, yes, sir.

1617 Q. Can you tell us then why these pictures which were immediately available, which you desperately needed to play, which you licensed for the purpose of immediately playing, notwithstanding L. C. Griffith had told you that you mustn't buy any of them, you specifically agreed in your contract to not start playing until after the termination of your contract with Griffith; why was that?

Mr. KALLIS. Just a minute. Will you read the question again?

(Question read by the reporter.)

Mr. KALLIS. If the Court please, I object to that question because that is not what the contract with Griffith provided. The agreement by its own terms specifically provides that it is to terminate in September of 1932; it was a contract for one year, and the terms of this contract were no longer in force after September 28, 1932.

Mr. COCHRAN. His testimony yesterday was that he terminated it on May 1st, I believe it was, that was his testimony, and that it was terminated because of his licensing of these pictures.

The COURT. You may answer, if you can. The question, I think, is not very clear, but you may answer it, if you can.

A. The starting date on these contracts—lots of 1618 times pictures are run before the starting date; we will get a contract and we will put a starting date on it, and we may run the picture sometimes a month or two before that.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Russ, will you please answer my question, why you signed a contract which specified that it was not to start until June 1, 1933?

A. The specifications of the starting date in there didn't mean a thing; it was wrote in there for their own protection; they wanted a date when we would start it, and we would run them within a year from that time. Paramount put that in there themselves.

Q. You were very anxious to have a starting date as early as possible, weren't you?

A. Yes, sir. I knew I could get any one of those pictures when I wanted to book them.

Q. Isn't it a fact that you didn't play a single picture under that contract prior to June 1, 1933?

A. I don't know; I would have to check that.

Q. Do you have any record from which you could tell?

A. We terminated our partnership in May; you would have start them in June. We broke off the partnership sometime in May; they were booking the pictures then.

Q. What time did you terminate your contract?

A. In May 1933.

Q. You said May 1st, didn't you?

A. I don't know whether it was May 1st or when.

1619 Q. In your direct examination?

A. I beg pardon?

Q. You said May 1st in your direct examination?

A. I think it was in May; I don't know whether it was May 1st, or not.

Q. Do you want to place it later than May 1st now?

A. I don't know; I would have to check that date; it was a long time ago.

Q. At the time you made this contract in April 1933, you knew then that you were going to terminate your arrangement with Griffith, didn't you?

A. Please state that again.

(Question read by the reporter.)

A. Yes, sir; Mr. Griffith told me it would mean a direct break.

Q. You had made up your mind that you were going to terminate it, had you?

A. That's right.

Q. The second contract that you executed, Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 343 for identification, bears date as of July 25, 1933; that was after your relations with Griffith had terminated, wasn't it?

A. I think so.

Mr. COCHRAN. Now, may I have that statement, please?

Mr. KALLIS. This statement, with the exception of 1620 the pencil notes which are in Mr. Wright's handwriting and mine, is in a condition as it was in the files of the Department of Justice. (Handing to counsel.)

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. In that statement which you made did you say anything about the contract being terminated, the contract with the Griffith Amusement Company being terminated on account of the fact that you licensed Paramount pictures?

Mr. KALLIS. If the Court pleases, the letter speaks for itself and I object to the question unless the showing is made as to just what questions were put by Mr. Seymour

Simon of the Department of Justice who interviewed Mr. Russ just prior to the execution of this statement.

Mr. COCHRAN. I asked this witness who was the first Government authority to whom he first made a statement about Mr. L. C. Griffith before the licensing of Paramount pictures and he said Mr. Simon. Now I am asking him if he said anything in regard to Mr. L. C. Griffith, any conversation with L. C. Griffith at all.

Mr. WRIGHT. What he said appears in the statement.

Mr. KALLIS. Let's have it marked and put in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. The statement is not admissible in evidence. I asked him a simple question. I am just 1621 asking him if he finds anything in the statement in regard to the conversation with L. C. Griffith. He said the first man he told that was Mr. Simon. I am trying to find out if it is in the statement.

By the WITNESS:

A. In talking with Mr. Simon we didn't go into the Griffith partnership very thoroughly.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. So there was no statement made by you to Mr. Simon about the conversation you have detailed with L. C. Griffith, either one of them, regarding Paramount pictures?

A. I can't answer that question.

Q. Look at the statement.

A. That takes in too much territory.

Mr. WRIGHT. What he examined about, he called for the statement in connection with the conversation with Mr. Clark. That is what he was interrogating him about, when he asked him if he made a statement about that conversation to Mr. Simon. There is no point in his arguing with the witness as to what is or is not in the statement. The statement is there and it can be offered and it will show exactly what is in it and what isn't in it.

The COURT. I think we are spending a lot of time on very immaterial matters. I think three-fourths of this testimony is absolutely immaterial. Is there anything further with this witness?

1622 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Russ, what product are you now playing in your theater?

A. I am playing Metro second run, and any third run pictures that I want to go and buy.

Q. In other words, you are playing now second run Metro?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And second and third, or some second and third?

A. Third run from the others.

Q. Third run from any of the others you want to play?

A. Yes, sir. It seems to be an open market for third run.

Q. In 1938-39, did you license any Grand National pictures?

A. Yes, sir, I licensed some Grand National.

Q. First run, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you license any Monogram?

A. I licensed some A and M, first run, and Gaumont British, first run.

Q. What others?

A. I am doubtful about Monogram. I don't know.

Q. If you didn't license Monogram in '38-39 for each season subsequent to that time, you had Monogram available to you?

1623 A. Yes, sir.

Q. And have licensed all the Monogram product you wanted?

A. I could have bought Monogram.

Q. And have played it?

A. I have played lots of Monogram and will play some more.

Q. You say you played some A and M?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What other product did you play, first run?

A. Gaumont British and Republic, Square Deal.

Q. All those were first run pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is all.

Re-direct examination by Mr. KALLIS:

Q. Mr. Russ, what is the A house of Griffith in Stillwater?

A. The Aggie Theater.

Q. With reference to box office values, can you tell us whether Square Deal, A and M, British Gaumont, Grand National are top pictures?

A. As box office values they are very poor.

Q. And are those pictures played at the Griffith A houses in Stillwater?

1624 A. No, sir.

Q. I show you what has been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 348 for identification and ask you if you recognize that as an RKO first run for the '38-39 season.

A. Yes, sir. This is the RKO contract for the '38-39 feature productions.

Q. What run?

A. First run.

Q. I show you Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 349 for identification and ask you if you recognize that as an RKO contract for the '39–40 season, first run, which you received from that company?

A. Yes, plus all other comedies and newsreels.

Mr. KALLIS. I offer those in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibits 348 and 349.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

The COURT. Those are RKO contracts?

Mr. KALLIS. RKO, first run for the seasons respectively of '38–39 and '39–40.

By Mr. KALLIS:

Q. In addition to those first run contracts you received from RKO for the '38–39 season, did you receive second run contracts for 30 features each for the same seasons from RKO?

A. I received contracts second run, but I don't believe it was 30 pictures.

1625 Q. 20 pictures?

A. 20 pictures, yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We object. The contract will be the best evidence.

The COURT. It is already in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No, the second run contract is not in evidence.

Mr. KALLIS. We have them here.

The COURT. Well, it was 20?

By the WITNESS:

A. Yes, sir, it was around 20 pictures.

Mr. COCHRAN. Let's have the contract.

The COURT. I don't know why you want to increase this record by the introduction of all these contracts.

Mr. COCHRAN. Because counsel insists on having the witness answer questions which are not exactly in accord with the records. If he would be accurate about it, it would be all right. He testified yesterday he licensed for each one of those years, 10, 12, or 15 RKO pictures, second run. Now he asked him if it was 30 and the witness says 20.

Mr. KALLIS. I didn't ask 30. I said 20. The record will so show.

By the WITNESS:

A. Will you tell me what year that is? I will try to answer it exactly. I think the confusion is due to the fact it was two different years of 15 each.

1626 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Defendants' Exhibit No. 67 is the second run contract for the 1938-39 season, isn't it?

A. That is right, 15 features. '38-39, that is right.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 67.

The COURT. That is RKO, second run?

Mr. COCHRAN. RKO, September 1, 1939.

By the WITNESS:

A. But it was the '36-37 production.

1627 Mr. COCHRAN. Fifteen features. And No. 68, Defendant's Exhibit 68, which is dated November 23, 1929, and covers 20 second run pictures with preview privilege. That's all.

Mr. KALLIS. That's all.

By the COURT:

Q. Now, Mr. Russ, just one question, it may not be pertinent to the case. Since November 20, 1940, the date of this consent decree, have you been able to procure pictures?

A. Not first run, no, sir.

Q. Why haven't you been able to secure first run?

A. I can't buy any. I can buy all the third run I want, but I can't buy any first runs, except Monogram.

Q. Have you ever gone to the arbitration board for that purpose?

A. We had an arbitration case, yes, sir; it never was settled, it never was carried through. I lost RKO pictures right there.

The COURT. That's all.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you know that arbitration was dismissed for want of prosecution?

A. That was what was on the ticket. The first notice I had of it was that I had lost it.

Q. That arbitration case was on file at the time you testified in the Momand case, was it not?

1628 A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

The COURT. Stand aside.

(Witness excused.)

JESS JAMES HALE, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Would you state your full name and address?

A. Jess James Hale; 711 Northeast 17th Street.

Q. (By the Court) Oklahoma City?
A. Right.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You were formerly in the theater business at Hobart, Oklahoma, were you?
A. Yes, about 1929, in the fall of '29, I believe, something like that.
Q. That is, you went there in '28 or '29?
A. '28 or '29, yes.
Q. And you were connected with what theater there?
A. The Palace Theater.
Q. Who owned the theater?
A. Mr. Baker, he is dead now; Mr. Baker remodeled and rebuilt the theater at that time.
Q. That was the Palace?
A. Yes, sir.
1629 Q. And you managed it?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you also have an interest in it?
A. I had a 49% interest in it.
Q. And how long did you operate the Palace there?
A. How long?
Q. Yes.
A. About '36, up to '36.
Q. When it was opened in '29, what other theaters were operating in Hobart?
A. Well, the Oklahoman and the Rialto and oh, the Cozy, I believe it was, the other one.
Q. Who was operating the other theaters?
A. Mrs. Tolbert was operating the Rialto and Charley Mahone the other.
Q. Was the Kiowa built there about that time?
A. It was built there soon after that, after I opened.
Q. Soon after you went there with the Palace?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Do you know who built that?
A. It is my understanding that the Griffith Amusement Company.
Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that unless he knows, because, as a matter of fact, that isn't correct.
1630 By the COURT:
Q. Do you know of your own knowledge who built it?
A. Well, it would be, it was Griffith Amusement Company —I don't know whether it was under that name, but it was the Griffiths that bulit it.

Q. Do you know of your own knowledge who built it, that is the question?

A. Not exactly the company, the name they were under, I don't suppose I do.

Q. Is what you know just the rumor?

A. Well, I suppose that is it.

The COURT. Objection sustained.

By the COURT:

Q. It was built by some one else?

A. Well, it was built by the Griffiths.

Q. You didn't build it?

A. No, it was built by some one else, by the Griffith connections, or subsidiary or something or other, I just wouldn't know how it was.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. In any event, in 1929, after the Kiowa was built, you continued to operate the Palace, did you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And Mohone was operating the Oklahoman?

A. The Oklahoman and the little Cozy.

By the COURT:

1631 Q. Did I understand that this Kiowa Theater was a new theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was it built?

A. It was built after I opened, it must have been '29 or '30, something like that; I wouldn't say positive because I didn't keep a record of it.

The COURT. Proceed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then, calling your attention to the years from 1930 through 1934, the houses that were operating there in addition to your Palace, were the Kiowa and the Oklahoman?

A. Yes, the Kiowa and the Oklahoman. The Kiowa was closed there, I don't know, a year and a half or two years.

Q. What period was it that the Kiowa was closed?

A. It must have been '31 or '32, or along in there, about two years, something like that, or two and a half.

Q. Then do you remember about when it reopened?

A. It must have been in about '33, the fall of '33, or something like that; I wouldn't say positive the date, because I just don't remember.

Q. Could it have been '34?

A. Something like that.

Q. Calling your attention to the '33–34 season, do you recall at this time what, if any, major product you were playing in the Palace?

1632 A. '33–34?

Q. Yes.

A. I think we had Warner Brothers, First National, Columbia, major product.

Mr. COCHRAN. I can't understand what he says.

A. Do I talk loud enough?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Speak louder.

A. Warner Brothers, First National, and Columbia, major product.

Q. I will show you these contracts that have been previously identified as Plaintiff's Exhibit 248 for identification, respectively, and ask you if you recognize those as the contracts that you made for the Palace, for the Warner-First National product for the '34–35 season?

A. Yes, sir.

(Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 350 for identification marked by the reporter.)

The COURT. What season, Mr. Wright?

Mr. WRIGHT. I believe he has there the '34–35.

The COURT. Very well.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer these in evidence.

The COURT. Those exhibits are both Warner Bros.?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, sir; while one is designated First National Productions and the other is designated 1633 Warner productions, they are both made the same date, with the same agency, Vitagraph, Inc.

Mr. COCHRAN. In other words, there will be no contention between us that the same distributor was licensing the pictures represented by both of these contracts?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes. It appears on the face.

Mr. COCHRAN. First National and Warner had consolidated at that time, that's correct, is it?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think they both show they were made by Vitagraph, Inc.

Mr. COCHRAN. I mean so far as the productions are concerned?

Mr. WRIGHT. That's right.

Mr. COCHRAN. First National and Warner Bros. had consolidated.

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I will show you this contract with Columbia, dated July 30, 1934, which is Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 350 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that as the copy of the Columbia deal you had for the '34–35 season?

A. Yes, this is a copy.

Mr. WRIGHT. I will offer Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 350 in evidence.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection.

1634 The COURT. They will be admitted.

By Mr WRIGHT:

A. Now, Mr. Hale, with reference to the next season, '35–36 season, were you offered a season's deal for the first run pictures of the Warner-First National productions?

A. I tried to buy them, but they said they had sold them to the other——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting.) We object to what was stated.

The COURT. Don't say what was said. You did try to buy them?

A. I tried to buy them from the salesman, and he informed me——

The COURT (interrupting.) Don't say what was said. You couldn't buy them?

A. I couldn't buy them.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did he take an application from you?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was there any discussion of terms?

A. No, I don't think so.

Q. How about Columbia, was the next season's product for 1935–36 offered to you?

A. I don't believe it was; I didn't have a chance to buy them, I don't think.

Q. Then, what did you have for the '35–36 season?

1635 That was the last season you were in operation there?

A. Yes; I was cleaning up on these contracts, and I got those cleaned up as soon as I could, and after that I didn't have anything but independent pictures, all I could get.

Q. You didn't have any major product for the '35–36 season, that is, of that season's releases?

A. We bought Paramount stuff, but I don't remember whether that was the '34–35 or the '35–36. I believe it was the '34–35, although I am not sure.

1636 Q. You had that at the same time you had the Columbia and Warner?

A. Something about the same time.

Q. Were you offered the Paramount for the '35–36 season?

A. Either '35–36 or '34–35. Now I just don't remember.

Q. Were you offered it for the succeeding season, whichever it was?

A. No, I wasn't.

Q. It was during the year 1936 you had nothing but independent product?

A. That is all I had.

Q. And what happened to your operations then, what did you do in '36?

A. I sold out to Charlie Mahone; give it to him almost.

Q. Mahone took the Palace over?

A. Yes, sir.

The COURT. Sold to whom?

A. Charlie Mahone.

By the COURT:

Q. In '36?

A. Yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. What month, do you remember?

A. I believe it was in March. I am sure it was.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you know what theater played the Warner and Columbia and Paramount product that was not 1637 offered to you?

A. The Kiowa played the Warner Brothers. I wouldn't be sure about the Columbia but I believe they played it.

Q. How about Paramount?

A. I don't remember whether they were playing Paramount when I closed or not. I just wouldn't say for sure.

Q. That is all.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Hale, you owned the building in which the Palace was operated, didn't you?

A. I did not.

Q. Who owned the building?

A. Mr. Baker. He remodeled it.

Q. What date in 1929 did you open the Palace Theater?

A. Well, it was opened in March, I believe. We remodeled it the last part of the year, and opened,—it was either '28 or '29, maybe '30; I don't know. We opened it in March.

Q. You cannot come within two years of being positive of when you opened?

A. I beg your pardon.

Q. You cannot give us within two years of when it was opened?

A. I was under the impression it was '29 after we 1638 remodeled, following that, we got it opened in March.

Q. You spoke of remodeling it. Had it been a theater before that time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who had been operating it?

A. Charlie Mahone.

Q. Was the other theater bought from him?

A. He discontinued that when he put in the Oklahoman. The building belonged to Mr. Baker.

Q. At that time Mahone—prior to that time Mahone had operated all the other theaters in the town. Is that right?

A. Except the Rialto.

Q. The Rialto was operated by Mrs. Tolbert?

A. Mrs. Tolbert, yes, sir.

Q. She was the wife of Judge Tolbert?

A. No, I believe she was a sister.

Q. A sister to Judge Tolbert?

A. I wouldn't know. I wouldn't say.

Q. What became of the Cozy?

A. It was torn away.

Q. When?

A. Oh, at the time that Charlie Mahone was out there, a year or two, it was torn away soon, right after, about the time he was out there, must have been about '30, I guess, or '31.

1639 Q. Did he operate the Cozy for a time?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. At the time he was operating the Cozy what other theaters was he operating?

A. The Oklahoman.

Q. The Oklahoman? And the Cozy?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was he also operating this theater you opened up as the Palace?

A. No, he wasn't operating it. That was closed. We closed that to remodel before I went over and taken it over.

Q. Did he ever operate the Palace?

A. Yes, he operated it for several years before it was remodeled.

Q. During that time he was operating that did he also have the Cozy?

A. He had the Palace and the Cozy and the other place was there before he put in the Oklahoman. I don't remember the name of it.

Q. How many of those places was he operating at one time?

A. He just operated two.

Q. And the other was closed?

A. Charlie Mahone was operating the Cozy and 1640 Palace, and then he put in the Oklahoman and he closed the Palace and continued the Cozy and the Oklahoman.

Q. How long did he continue the Cozy after closing the Palace?

A. The Cozy must have closed along about 1930 or '31; I am not sure.

Q. Did it close before you opened the Palace?

A. No, it continued for sometime after I opened it.

Q. Was it operating first run or second run pictures?

A. Well, I think mostly first run.

Q. And your theater operated on first run pictures, didn't it?

A. First and second.

Q. Mostly on first run, wasn't it?

A. Well, yes, when it first opened, first and second run.

Q. You were not an established second run account with any distributor during the time you operated the Palace Theater, were you?

A. You mean when I first opened it?

Q. At any time during the time you operated the Palace, did you have a contract with any company for second run pictures?

A. I certainly did, several of them.

Q. Do you have those contracts?

1641 A. I don't have them.

Q. You mean, do you not, that you bought some second run pictures, the better pictures, on a spot booking contract?

A. Well, I would buy eight or ten pictures, yes, if you would call them spot bookings. I bought the pictures and run them second run, the best Grade A features.

Q. You spoke of the Kiowa theater being built. Don't you know it is a fact that the Kiowa was simply the Rialto Theater, which was owned by some member of the Tolbert family and remodeled?

A. Yes, sir, remodeled and a lot added to it.

Q. But that Rialto became the Kiowa?

A. Yes.

Q. How long had Mrs. Tolbert been operating that Rialto before you opened your theater?

A. I wouldn't want to say for sure; two or three or four years, maybe; I wouldn't know because she was operating when I went there. I remember the time she opened but I couldn't say when.

Q. Now, you closed your Palace Theater on what date in March, 1936?

A. I couldn't tell you the date. It was the first of March. It seems to me like it was about the 6th of March; I wouldn't say for sure.

Q. How long did it remain closed before Mahone 1642 opened up a theater in it?

A. Before he opened the Palace?

Q. Yes.

A. It never was closed, I don't think, unless it was just a day or two between——

Q. He continued to operate it right straight through?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you recall in connection with the Columbia pictures which you licensed for the '34–35 season, that you were not able to carry out that contract, the playing of those pictures?

A. I don't remember why I wasn't able to carry it out.

Q. Do you recall that in the fall of 1934 there was a very poor cotton crop in that county in which Hobart is located?

A. I suppose there was. Hobart wasn't as bad as the country around it.

Q. I asked you, if around Hobart there wasn't a bad crop that year?

A. I suppose there was. I don't remember.

Q. Wasn't the same thing true for 1935?

A. It might have been.

Q. Don't you know that because of the poor crop conditions and the adverse business conditions in the town of Hobart that you requested and obtained from Co-
1643 lumbia a 25 percent reduction of the rentals that you had agreed to pay on those pictures?

A. Since you mention that I believe I did; I am sure I did.

Q. And at that time didn't you agree you would pay the balance of the rentals for the unplayed pictures in weekly installments?

A. If there was anything like that came up, I don't know. I just don't remember.

Q. At the time you closed your theater on March 15, 1936, the payments which you had agreed to make on that '34–35 product had not been completed?

A. I just don't remember, if I ever asked for weekly payments or anything like that.

Q. Do you remember when you closed your theater in March, 1936, that you had not fully paid the amount of the rentals which you agreed to pay at the time of that reduction?

A. For the Columbia pictures?

Q. Columbia pictures.

A. I just don't know if it is that way. I am sure I don't know.

Q. Don't you know that at the time that reduction was made that the balance of the rentals amounted to $1577.20?

1644 A. Maybe that was on the pictures I had not played or something, or other, when I sold out, but as far as the payments is concerned, everything was paid right up to now.

Q. I asked you if at the time they made this reduction, if at that time you didn't agree on the amount that would be paid for the balance of the pictures which you had under contract, and that amount was $1577.20?

A. Am I supposed to pay that on weekly payments or what?

Q. Yes, sir, play the pictures and pay the money.

A. If I played the pictures, I was supposed to pay the money.

Q. I am asking you in regard to the pictures which were unplayed at the time the reduction was made.

A. I don't remember how many pictures was unplayed, it has been so long ago.

Q. Don't you know the time you sold out to Mahone in 1936, there was still a balance due under the agreement which you reached at the time the reduction was made on pictures which you had not played?

A. There might have been but I don't know why because I done my best to get pictures to play.

Q. Don't you know you had unplayed pictures on your '34–35 contract at the time you sold out in March of 1936?

A. I might have had some Paramount pictures.

Q. I am asking you about Columbia.

1645 A. I just don't know if I did.

By the Court:

Q. When you sold to Mahone did he assume your contract?

A. No, I don't think he did. I am sure he didn't. There was nothing said to me about it if he did.

By Mr. Cochran:

Q. Now, who was the salesman for Warner Brothers back in 19——

A. Mr. Slocum was after he quit Columbia. I don't know when he went with them.

Q. Who was the salesman in 1935–36 season?

The Court. You mean for Columbia?

Mr. COCHRAN. No, for Warner.

By the WITNESS:

A. I wouldn't know whether Mr. Gibbs was. I always bought pictures from Mr. Slocum.

Q. Did you know Mr. Rohde, Branch Manager for Warner?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you understand Mr. Rohde is now dead?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you talk to him about getting '35–36 product?

A. I was in the office a time or two, whoever the salesman was. Of course, I would buy from them all the time.

Q. You said you tried to get Warner Brothers pictures for the '35–36 season. To whom did you talk repre-

1646 senting Warner Brothers?

A. I don't remember whether it was Mr. Slocum or whoever had taken it over——

Q. If you don't know, say so.

A. I just don't know.

Q. Isn't it a fact that Warner Brothers or representatives of Vitagraph who distributed for Warner Brothers attempted to license you the product for '35–36, negotiated with you and that you were unable to agree on the prices on that product, for the '35–36 season?

A. That is Warner Brothers?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I don't remember. I will say he didn't.

Q. You will say he didn't?

A. That I don't remember.

1647 Q. Did you tell us the date the Kiowa was opened, first opened in Hobart?

A. The first time?

Q. The first time it was opened, that is, immediately after the Rialto was remodeled and changed to the Kiowa?

A. Well, I wouldn't know the exact date; about '30, I guess, something like that, '29 or '30. That was after I opened.

Q. Do you know how long after you opened?

A. Well, you see they changed—they operated—well, I believe they operated the Rialto before they remodeled maybe, I wouldn't say for sure though.

Q. All right. You were operating the Palace in 1932–33, were you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You didn't have the Paramount product for that year, did you?

A. No, sir.

Q. You didn't have Warner Bros. for that year, did you?
A. 1932–33?
Q. Yes, sir.
A. I am sure I did; I believe I did.
Q. Isn't it a fact that the first year that you had Warner Bros. was for the season 1933–34?
A. That may be correct; I am not sure.
1648 Q. At any rate, you know that you did not have Warner Bros. product until after the Kiowa was closed?
A. That's when I got it, I think, after the Kiowa closed.
Q. Prior to the time it was closed Warner Bros. products had been playing in the Kiowa, had it?
A. The Kiowa or Rialto, yes, I guess that's right.
Q. And then you continued to play Warner Bros. through the '34–35 season?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. The Kiowa was reopened in November 1934, was it not?
A. About that time, I think, '33 or '34, when it was reopened.
Q. Had you made any attempt to obtain the Warner pictures prior to the time the Kiowa reopened?
A. I tried to buy the Warner Bros. pictures for the next season.
Q. Isn't that the time that you were unable to agree on the price?
A. There wasn't anything about the price, I don't think, said about prices; anyway, when I tried to buy them, they said they were sold.
Q. Well, now, we object to the statement of what was said. At that time the Kiowa had not reopened, had it?
A. I don't remember.
1649 Q. The Paramount pictures which you spoke of having licensed, don't you know that those pictures were played in Mr. Mahone's theater for the '32–33 season?
A. '34, I guess '34 and '35, is when I got them.
Q. I am asking you if you don't know that those pictures were played in Mr. Mohones theater for the '32–33 season?
A. I imagine they were, yes.
Q. And that in the '33–34 season, was the season which you licensed Paramount pictures?
A. About that time; I don't just remember, '33 or 34, or '34 or '35.
Q. You only licensed Paramount pictures one year, is that right?

A. That's right; that is, outside of second run; I run second run.

Q. Will you say that wasn't the '33–34 season that you licensed them?

A. Paramount?

Q. Yes.

A. It was either '33–34 or '34 and '35.

Q. All right.

A. If I knew for sure, why, I would say so, but I don't.

Q. Do you remember that in the spring of 1936
1650 that the wheat crop in Kiowa County was a complete failure?

A. It might have been.

Q. Do you remember anything about that?

A. Yes, it was bad there a year or two.

Q. During each of the years 1934–35 and '36, up until the time you sold out, crop conditions were bad, were they not?

A. Yes.

Q. And business conditions were bad, is that correct?

A. To a certain extent, yes.

Q. You spoke of Warner Bros. pictures being played in 1935–36 in the Kiowa Theater. Where were the Metro pictures played that season?

A. At the Oklahoman—that is '35–36, you say?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. The Oklahoman, I am pretty sure.

Q. First run?

A. Yes, sir, he played them all the time.

Q. And where were the Fox pictures played?

A. The Oklahoman.

Q. Prior to, well, I will say prior to the closing of the Kiowa, had your Palace Theater at any time had first run of any of the major product?

A. Prior to the time they closed the first time?

Q. Prior to the time the Kiowa closed.
1651 A. I opened up with first and second run.

Q. What product did you have first run when you first opened up?

A. I was thinking I had Columbia pictures, and some United Artists.

Q. What else?

A. Well, I can't call to mind just now what product I did have.

Q. Speaking about the United Artists pictures, who played United Artists pictures in 1933–34?

A. I played United Artists pictures along most all the time I was there, but the Kiowa reopened there, when Mr. Gillam reopened it, he played United Artists pictures some, I don't know just how many.

Q. Who played the United Artists pictures for the season '34–35?

A. I played them along all the time we were there.

Q. Did you play them for the season 1934–35?

A. I suppose I did, yes.

Q. Did you attempt to license those pictures for the 1935–36 season?

A. Not the entire group.

Q. Did you attempt to license any of them?

A. Just a few of them along.

Q. Did you get them?

1652 A. Yes, I got them and played them.

Q. You got such United Artists as you desired for the '35–36 season, is that right?

A. I played them along all the time, I wouldn't say just when.

Q. I asked you if for the '35–36 season.

A. '35–36?

Q. Yes.

A. No, I don't think I had any of them in '35–36.

Q. Did you make any effort to license any of United Artists pictures for the '35–36 season?

A. I think I did, yes.

Q. Don't you know that United Artists pictures were not played in Hobart by anyone for the '35–36 season?

A. I couldn't say about the '35–36.

Q. I am talking about at the time, during the season when your theater closed.

A. Yes.

Q. That's the '35–36 season.

A. I think the only United Artists' pictures that was played there was played at the Kiowa, but I couldn't tell you when they were played there. He played a few of them, not very many.

Q. If they were played, they were played while Mr. Gillam was operating it?

1653 A. Yes, sir.

Q. If he played any, it was only a few?

A. I don't think he played very many.

Q. So you know that the United Artists' product for the 1935–36 season was open in that town, and somebody could arrange to buy them, don't you?

A. They might have been.

Mr. Cochran. That's all.
The Court. Anything further?

Re-direct examination by Mr. Wright:

Q. What was the population of Hobart back there when you started and during that period from '29 through '36?
A. Oh, was right around 5,000, maybe 4,000 and something, right close to five.
Mr. Wright. That's all.
The Court. Stand aside.
(Witness excused.)

1654 Joe Love, called as a witness on behalf of the Plaintiff, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. Wright:

Q. State your name and address.
A. Joe Love, Seminole, Oklahoma.
Q. What is your occupation?
A. I run the Chief Theater.
Q. At Seminole?
A. At Seminole, yes, sir.
Q. How long have you had that theater?
A. A little over eight years.
Q. You went in there in '36?
A. The last part of '36, October.
Q. Is that the theater you built up?
A. Yes, sir, remodeled an old building.
Q. What other theaters were there when you went in there?
A. Well, the Rex, called the Seminole now, the State and Rialto.
Q. Who operated those theaters?
A. The Griffith Amusement Company, I guess.

By the Court:

Q. What was the name of your theater again?
A. The Chief.

By Mr. Wright:

1655 Q. Can you describe those other theaters and the policies they were playing under then?
A. You mean as to seating capacity?
Q. Yes.
A. Well, the Seminole was an A house and the Rialto was a second run house and the State Theater was a B house.
Q. The Seminole was also known as the Rex?
A. I think it was the Rex.

By the COURT:

Q. The Seminole and Rialto were operated by the Griffiths at the time you opened your theater?

A. And the State Theater also.

Q. Who operated the State?

A. Griffiths.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. The first runs, the A pictures were played first run at the Seminole and the B pictures, first run, at the State? And the second runs at the Rialto, is that right?

A. Yes, sir, that is right.

Q. How large was that theater of yours?

A. At that time I believe it was 362 seats.

Q. How did it compare with the Rialto?

A. I think I had just a few more seats than the Rialto.

Q. Well, in respect to equipment and location and so forth?

A. Well, I suppose about the same; maybe I had just a little better location; probably a little larger.

1656 Q. When you opened the Rialto what kind of a policy did you open it on?

A. When I opened the Chief you mean?

Q. The Chief, yes.

A. Well, at that time, of course, I was trying to play first run pictures.

Q. Did you get any?

A. Well, I got some, yes, sir.

Q. From what company?

A. At that time I bought Republic. I had some Republic pictures and I bought Grand National along in there and some British Gaumont and also some independent pictures of different people that had them.

Q. What, if any, major product did you have?

A. Well, I had no major product at all. I tried to buy Universal, if that is a major, but at that time I had no major product.

Q. You say you tried to get some Universal?

A. Yes, sir, I tried to buy Universal before I opened up.

Q. What Universal product was that?

A. That was the year it was left out of Seminole, I believe it was '34-35; '35-36.

Q. '35-36 season?

A. Yes, sir. It had been left out and never played.

1657 Q. Did Universal take an application from you for that product?

A. Yes, sir, they took an application but I never got the pictures.

Q. When was that they took the application?

A. Well, it had to be prior, a few weeks prior to when I opened up there in October. It must have been probably around the first of October, I would have an idea. I would say it was in October.

Q. Of 1936?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then that application was not approved?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did you try to find out what happened to it?

A. Sure. I wanted the pictures and I tried to find out and I finally bought pictures a year later, but it took me that long before I got the pictures.

Q. You finally got them in '37?

A. In '37. I think about October of that year; just a year later.

Q. Those were the '35–36 features you got then?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You also got some '36–37 product?

A. Well, it is possible I bought some of the lower bracket pictures. I think I did at the same time.

1658 Q. Were you offered any of the upper bracket pictures of the '36–37 season?

A. No, sir.

Q. What other major product did you try to buy?

A. I tried to buy all the major product; that is, what I could get all the time.

Q. Did you try to get any third runs?

A. Yes, sir, later on I did.

Q. When did you first try to buy the major third runs?

A. Well, probably started sometime in '37.

Q. Was Griffith using any third run major product in its theaters?

A. No, they were using second runs.

Q. They were using no third runs?

A. No, they didn't use third runs.

Q. Did any of these major companies take any applications from you for third runs?

A. No, they wouldn't sell me third runs. They said the town was too small and one thing and another.

Mr. Griffing. Object to what they said and move it be stricken.

(No ruling.)

By Mr. Wright:

Q. They wouldn't take any application from you anyway?

A. No.

1659 Q. No discussion of terms?

A. That is right, no discussion.

Q. How large was the town, do you know?

A. Around ten or eleven thousand. That is, Seminole. The trade territory was quite large around there.

Q. Did you finally get some third run major product there?

A. Finally in 1940 I started getting some and that ran all the way to '41 until I finally got Metro.

Q. What third run did you finally get?

A. I started playing Fox, I believe it was, in June of '40 and Paramount in September of '40 and Warner Brothers in August of '41, and Metro in November of '41.

Q. Were those the companies you had been trying to get third run from since '37?

A. Yes, sir. These were the A pictures, you understand, I was trying to get.

Q. The top pictures were the ones you wanted to play third run?

A. That is right.

Q. Calling your attention to the year 1937, did you do anything about going into the motion picture business over at Henryetta?

A. Well, I went to Henryetta and I acquired a lease on a building over there and put in a show.

1660 Q. When was that?

A. That was either the last part of '37 or the first of '38. All my records were burned. I know it was at that time, however.

Q. Was there a theater operating there then?

A. There was two there.

Q. Who was operating those?

A. That was by Griffith.

Q. When you made this lease did you have any conversation with anybody from any of the Griffith Companies?

A. I had some conversation with Mr. Folgham at that time.

Q. Where did this conversation occur?

A. At Seminole, in front of the show there one day.

Q. What was said then?

A. He came by and was asking me something about it, and I told him I had acquired a lease, or he had heard I had one over there, so he said, well, they had two shows over there and at that time they were not making too much money and they had a big investment and he didn't see why I wanted to go in there. I told him it looked like another show would be all right and he said if I did go in they would break me out, and he went on to state if I did change my mind he would be glad to pay what expenses I had 1661 been out in acquiring this lease, and that was as far as the conversation went.

Q. What did you tell him about that?

A. Well, I didn't say too much.

Q. Did you go ahead with your theater at Henryetta?

A. No, I cancelled the lease.

Q. Then did you later go into the town of Wewoka?

A. Yes, I bought a show there in April of 1938.

Q. What was that theater?

A. That was the Pix Theater.

Q. Who did you buy that theater from?

A. Tom Ward and Mr. Nave.

Q. They were operating there?

A. Yes, sir, I think they had been operating a few months.

Q. What other theaters were being operated in Wewoka?

A. The Griffiths had three there, the Key, Paramount and State, I believe.

Q. What was the situation there as to the policies of the various theaters?

A. Well, they were the same as in Seminole. The Key paid the A pictures and the State played second run pictures and Paramount had B pictures.

Q. And the others playing A and B pictures were playing them on first run?

A. Yes, sir.

1662 Q. What did you have at the Pix?

A. Well, they had bought United Artists first run, and I believe that was the only major company.

Q. When you say "they" you are referring to the people that sold the Pix to you?

A. Yes, I assumed their contract.

Q. You had United Artists first run there then for what season's product, '37–38?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to counsel leading the witness.

The COURT. Overruled. I think it is immaterial.

By the WITNESS:

A. Probably the '37–38. I bought it in April of '38. It would be '37–38 product.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you have any other major product of that season?

A. No.

Q. Then were the United Artists pictures offered you for the next season there?

A. No, sir.

1663 Q. Coming down to the '38–39 season, you were then still operating the Pix at Wewoka and the Chief at Seminole?

A. Yes, sir; I sold the Pix in 1940; I was operating it in '39.

Q. For the '38–39 season what, if any, major pictures did you have?

A. I bought RKO for the '38–39.

Q. You got these for both towns?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I will show you these contracts that have been marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 213 and 221, and ask you if you recognize those as the first run deals you made for that season with RKO for the theater at Seminole and the one at Wewoka respectively?

A. Yes, sir.

The COURT. For what season?

Mr. WRIGHT. '38–39.

The COURT. First run or second?

A. First run.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I will show you this Exhibit No. 222 for identification, and ask you if you recognize that as the second run contract you made with RKO for the same season for your theater at Wewoka?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer in evidence Plaintiff's

1664 Exhibits Nos. 215, 221 and 222.

The COURT. What was 221?

Mr. WRIGHT. 221 is the first run deal at Wewoka with RKO for the '38–39 season.

Mr. COCHRAN. I don't see the run on this No. 221. No. 221 doesn't show the run, your Honor.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I call your attention to the fact that this Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 221 which you identified as the first run deal for Wewoka, doesn't have anything specified there under the word "run". Do you know that that was the first run contract?

A. This is the first run, yes, sir.

Q. And that was the way you played the pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. Is there any objection to those?

Mr. COCHRAN. No, sir.

The COURT. They will be admitted.

Mr. COCHRAN. Do you have any second run contract for Seminole?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, that one, I don't think was produced.

Q. You played the RKO pictures that you bought first run here for this '38-39 season in Seminole, second run in Seminole too?

A. Yes, sir, all of them.

1665 Q. You had Seminole second run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You say you sold out the theater at Wewoka in 1940; that was the Pix?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Who did you sell it to?

A. To Chet Humphreys.

By the COURT:

Q. You sold what at Seminole?

A. I sold the Pix in Wewoka on May 5, 1940.

Q. What was the name of that?

A. The Pix.

Q. P-I-X?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And prior to the time you sold out there, can you tell us what the admission price policies of the theaters in that town were?

A. Well, originally, I, do you mean for all of them?

Q. Yes.

A. I think at that time I was charging 10 and 15 or 10 and 20, and their A house, I believe, was 10 and 25, and their B house was about 10 and 20, the same as mine, and the second run house, I believe, was 10 and 15. Later on, why, they started a two-for-one; that is, you could go to the Paramount show and buy a ticket and they would give you a free pass to one of their other shows.

1666 Q. What period was that?

A. I can't give you the exact date; I would say it was the year before I sold out.

Q. Did it continue throughout that year?

A. It continued up until the day I sold. The day I sold, they quit that policy. Because the man that bought me out, I told him about it, and he said, "Don't have any worry about it; when I buy it, that policy will be discontinued" and it was.

Q. Was the same policy in effect——

Mr. COCHRAN (interrupting.) We move to strike the statement made by the man to whom he sold the house as hearsay.

THE COURT. Sustained and exception allowed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Was the same policy in effect at Seminole during the same time?

A. In Seminole, yes, sir.

Q. What were the theaters involved in the free tickets there?

A. Well, you could go to the State Theater and you would get a free pass to the Rialto Theater, and this continued about the same time; they both went into effect, I believe, about the same time. They kept it up,—of course, when I sold the Pix two weeks later, their Rialto Theater burned up, and when they reopened again, six 1667 months later, they didn't continue that operation.

Q. That is, their Rialto Theater at Seminole, you are talking about?

A. Yes. sir.

Q. That was the one from which the free tickets were being given?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross-examine.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. At the time you had the conversation with Mr. Fulgham in Seminole which you have detailed, was anyone else present?

A. No, sir.

Q. Was he living in Seminole at that time?

A. Was what?

Q. That was in Henryetta that you had the conversation with him, was it?

A. No, sir, it was in Seminole.

Q. In Seminole?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But it related to your situation at Henryetta?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know where Mr. Fulgham is now?

A. I hear he is in the Navy.

1668 Q. In the Navy?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What was the operating policy of your theater, the Pix Theater, at Wewoka during the year 1939?

A. Do you mean as to prices?

Q. The entire operating policy. How many changes a week?

A. I had three changes a week, Sunday-Monday-Tuesday and Wednesday-Thursday and Friday-Saturday.

Q. Single program?

A. Well, I think so, most of it single program at that time.

Q. And what were your admission prices?

A. I believe it was 10 and 15 or 10 and 20 as for Sunday-Monday-Tuesday, and then I believe on Wednesday-Thursday I started a two-for-one policy at the same time, for that day only, called "penny" day; one adult would pay 15 cents and two could go in for 16 cents.

Q. When was this two-for-one policy started by Griffith in Wewoka, would you say?

A. I am not sure when they started it.

Q. About when?

A. I guess about a year before I sold.

Q. When would that make it?

A. Well——

1669 Q. You sold out on May 5, 1940, is that correct?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. So it would be about the 5th of May 1939?

A. It might be.

Q. At that time, isn't it a fact that you were operating your Friday and Saturday program on an admission price of 5 cents for children and 10 cents for adults?

A. No, sir.

Q. Didn't you have those admission prices in that theater beginning with March 18, 1939, and continuing only during that week, for 5 cents for children and thereafter during the entire year 1939, you charged 10 cents for children and 10 cents for adults at all times on your Tuesday, Wednesday-Thursday, and Friday-Saturday changes?

A. Well, I don't think so, I don't know, it might be. I haven't checked back on it, and I just don't remember.

Q. You don't remember?

A. I tried everything in the world, I know, after we got started, trying to get somebody in there, but I don't remember.

Q. Won't you say that you did charge a 10-cent straight admission price all the time during all of 1939 after about the 1st of March?

A. That was on what changes now?

Q. On the changes you mentioned, Wednesday-Thursday, and Friday-Saturday?

1670 A. Where did the 5-cent admission price for children, where did that come in?

Q. I am asking you now about the 10-cent price; I will come back to the 5-cent price.

A. I am not sure just what I did charge; I believe it was 10 or 15 cents.

Q. Didn't you have a 5-cent admission charge for a short time, probably only one week, just prior to that time?

A. Well, I could have had for one week or something like that, I don't know. I have had several different family nights and everything.

Q. Weren't you operating on a week-end policy of 10 cents at all times for all persons in your Pix Theater in Wewoka prior to the first of January 1939?

A. I believe when I bought it they were charging 10 cents, and I was under the impression I raised that later, but I don't know what the deal was.

Q. In other words, when you bought the Pix Theater, you now believe they were operating on a 10-cent policy?

A. That was on Friday-Saturday; it seems to me they were operating at 10 cents on Friday-Saturday, but I don't know.

Q. When did you increase the admission price on the week-end pictures, at the Pix Theater?

1671 A. I don't have any idea. I think, when I said at first it was 10 and 15 cents, but I don't remember.

Q. Isn't it a fact that continued until about the 1st of January 1943?

A. '43?

Q. Yes.

A. What is that?

Q. That your 10-cent admission price for week ends in your Pix Theater in Wewoka continued until the ——

A. (Interrupting.) We sold out in 1940.

Q. All right; when you sold it out, you were still charging 10 cents admission prices, weren't you?

A. As I say I don't know whether I was or not. I know some pictures we got as high as 30 cents over there for.

Q. Now, in 1940 when you sold out your Pix Theater at Wewoka, you state that you were playing Grand National pictures?

A. In Wewoka?

Q. What pictures were you playing?

A. I said I had United Artists first run the first year I went in there.

Q. I am asking you when you sold out what pictures were you playing?

A. RKO.

Q. What else?

1672 A. I don't remember what I had; I know that that was the only major company.

Q. Well, were you playing Grand National?

A. I bought Grand National in Seminole at first.

Q. I am asking you——

A. (Interrupting.) I don't know; I have lost all my records, I had them all burned up, I don't know.

Q. You know that Grand National, Monogram and Allied and Sachs and a number of other companies' products were available for your first run in Wewoka, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your complaint is that you were not able to obtain first run?

A. No, I didn't say that. There was plenty of first run pictures that were not good pictures; they were first run pictures that no one else would have, Griffith cutbacks, but they were not good pictures.

Q. Those are companies that are operating nationally, aren't they?

A. I suppose; Square Deal, I don't know, that was another company, I don't think that was national; that was here in Oklahoma City; he had a bunch of pictures.

Q. Their pictures were produced in Hollywood and other producing areas, weren't they?

A. Yes, sir, and England and a few other places,

1673 English pictures.

Q. There were very few English pictures in those so-called independent companies, weren't there?

A. There were quite a few from United Artists that I bought.

Q. United Artist is rated as a major company, isn't it?

A. They make some good pictures, and they have a bunch of English pictures.

Q. I asked you if United Artist is rated as a major company?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And it has been all the time since you can remember, hasn't it?

A. I think so.

1674 Q. Now at Seminole when did you start the 10 cent admission?

A. The only time that I ever had any 10 cent admission was after they started the two for one policy, and I probably tried everything in the world then, but I never had any 10 cent admission up until then or after they quit.

Q. Did you play any two for one?

A. Only on Wednesday and Thursday change, yes.

Q. When did you start playing double bills at Seminole?

A. Just when I couldn't get any first run product that would hold up.

Q. When did you?

A. I couldn't give you the exact date: I would say that it would go back to probably three or four years ago. I am practically all double bill now.

Q. Isn't it a fact you were playing double bills as early as '42?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And had been prior to that time?

A. Possibly so. It is possible that I did.

Q. What product are you using in the Seminole Theater now? In your Chief Theater at Seminole?

A. That is all runs you are talking about?

Q. Yes.

1675 A. I have some Monogram pictures bought first run and I have some third run product from the major companies.

Q. Name the companies you have third run product from.

A. Fox, Paramount, Warner and Metro. I also have some third run from Universal; some first run and second run.

Q. Some first and second from Universal?

A. There are always a few pictures Griffiths don't buy they let me buy, and I bought those. That is from all the companies.

Q. Do you have some United Artists?

A. Yes, sir, a few.

Q. Isn't it a fact in 1944 you played a number of United Artists pictures?

A. Yes, sir, I played United Artists pictures ever since I have been in over there.

Q. And you also played some PRC, didn't you, first run?

A. I did, two years, I believe. I lost those a couple of years ago.

Q. Did you play PRC's in '44?

A. I played some they left out. I went in there and they told me it was all they had left——

Mr. Cochran. We object to his statement of hearsay testimony. He is repeatedly making these statements

1676 that are hearsay and he has been in Court and heard your Honor's admonition.

The Court. Don't make any statements made by the other patries.

Mr. Wright. I think this is all examination about what he is playing now. It is not proper cross examination and is not within the issues of the complaint.

The Court. It merely goes to his ability to secure pictures at this time.

By Mr. Cochran:

Q. Since November, 1940, the pictures of all the major companies have been available to you on some run, have they not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you have licensed on some run such of those pictures as you desired to play?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Your theater in Seminole continues to operate?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you are operating at a profit?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Are you playing any RKO pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In November of 1940 were you playing any RKO pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And from the time of these contracts which you
1677 have introduced in evidence, you have continued to play RKO pictures?

A. Well, I bought RKO for three years, first run.

Q. I just asked you if you continued since the time of these contracts to play RKO pictures?

A. Off and on. I am still playing them. There was a period there I didn't play any for a while but I am still playing them now.

Q. You did license some RKO pictures for the '37-38 season, didn't you?

A. '37-38?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I don't know.

Q. Not '37-38—pictures of the '34-35 season.

A. I could have. I don't know.

Q. Do you recall having licensed some major product for the season of 1936-37?

A. I have. I bought a few Metro pictures, not the A pictures but a few pictures along, one or two.

Q. What was the season you licensed 22 pictures, second run?

A. I don't know.

Mr. WRIGHT. What town is this?

Mr. COCHRAN. Seminole.

By the WITNESS:

1678 A. It may be I bought some from them but I don't know.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Isn't it a fact that on May 31, 1938, you had had those pictures under contract for more than a year and you had not given a play date on a picture during that time?

A. That is possibly so. The salesman came over and sold me a bunch of pictures that were not any good.

Q. There were 22 pictures, weren't there?

A. They were pictures, I think all second run. They were not any of the A pictures.

That was their lower bracket pictures and he sold them to me, and after I saw what they were I refused to play them. I believe that is the way it was.

Q. At that time you were having a great deal of controversy with Loew's because you would not play those pictures according to your contract?

A. Probably so. I have always had a lot of trouble with them and I probably did then.

Q. You have always had a lot of controversy with Metro?

A. I never could get their pictures. They would always want me to play the sorry pictures, and I couldn't get their good pictures.

Q. You know you didn't play all that contract, don't you?

A. I don't know what took place on it.

1679 Q. You know Mr. Jim Byrd, don't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Isn't it a fact after they tried repeatedly to get that contract played out, it was cancelled?

A. I don't know what they done on it. I know he came over and sold me a bunch of——

Q. Answer my question.

A. I say I don't remember. I can't remember these dates because I don't have any records on it.

1680 Q. Did you play a single picture under that 22-picture contract?

A. If I would see the pictures I might be able to tell you. I don't know. I don't know if I can remember it or not.

(Counsel hands witness document.)

A. You say, did I play any of these?

Q. Yes, sir.

A. I believe I did. I know I played some of them.

Q. Do you recall that in May of 1938 you were delinquent on all of these pictures which you had under contract for more than a year?

A. No, I didn't know it. There were about four pictures there that were good. I played those and the others I didn't play, if I remember right, four or five.

Q. Do you remember what season's product that was, those pictures?

A. Do I remember?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir, I don't have any idea.

Q. After that failure to play those pictures which were unplayed under that contract, how long was it then before Metro licensed you any other pictures at all?

A. I couldn't tell you that. It seems to me we had some kind of a deal when he sold me the pictures that I 1681 was to play or pay for the pictures, so many a month.

Q. You said you didn't know. That answers my question.

The COURT. Let him go ahead and explain.

A. They made a deal. Mr. Byrd made some kind of a deal. I was either supposed to play them or pay for them—I was pretty new in the business—and I went ahead and bought them, and after I bought them and saw what I had bought, I tried to get some other pictures instead, have some other pictures substituted and they wouldn't do it. They said, "Go ahead and pay for those pictures whether you play them or not," and I refused to do that, and I just made a bad deal.

Q. My question was, how long was it when you had that controversy before you licensed any other Metro pictures?

A. I don't know. I don't know when I started to play them. I kept trying to get pictures.

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court pleases, if you want to hear him I do not object, but I object to him responding to something I didn't ask him about.

The COURT. There is a lot of this I am not particular about hearing but I think he has a right to make his explanation. Answer his question. How long after this until you began doing business again with Metro?

1682 A. I don't know, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Isn't it a fact you didn't do any further business with Metro until after the consent decree?

A. It might be. I tried to get pictures before that all along, but I don't know the first picture I played. I tried to buy third run pictures ever since I was in business over there from Metro and they refused to let me have them.

(Hereupon Court recessed until 2:00 o'clock p. m. this day.)

1683 AFTERNOON SESSION

May 23, 1945, 2:00 o'clock p. m.

PROCEEDINGS

JOE LOVE, a witness for plaintiff was recalled and was examined and testified as follows:

Further Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Prior to the time that you were able to license third run pictures from certain of the major companies other than Metro, did you attempt to license the second run pictures which were not used by Griffith?

A. No, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. This is in what town?

Mr. COCHRAN. This is in Seminole we are talking about.

Q. Your answer is no?

A. Let me see; I understand that as pictures that they didn't use second run, did I ask for them?

Q. Yes.

A. No.

Q. Did you request those pictures?

A. No, sir.

Q. You preferred to have third run of the A pictures than to have second run of the so-called program pic-1684 tures, did you?

A. That's right.

Q. And that was true as to each and every one of these majors that you were not getting third run from?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You even preferred to have better pictures, of such companies as Monogram and Republic, to having the C, D, and E pictures second run of the major distributors other than Metro?

A. I never wanted any Monogram pictures third run.

Q. I said first run; you preferred to have Monogram first run, the better pictures, Monogram first run, than to use pictures other than the top pictures of the distributors other than Metro second run?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, Metro, during all the time that you have been in business at Seminole, was considered by you as producing the greatest number of best box office pictures of any distributor, was it not?

A. Not necessarily. They made a goodly number, but Fox and Warner also made——

Q. (Interrupting.) Didn't you consider Metro was tops among the distributors?

A. Well, I don't know; they are among the tops, that's right.

1685 Q. And have been during all the time you have been in the motion pictures business?

A. Oh, yes.

Q. Was your answer yes?

A. Yes.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is all.

(Witness excused.)

1686 W. P. MORAN, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, having been first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct Examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. State your name and address.

A. W. P. Moran, 1149 Northwest 36th Street.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Well, at the present time nothing.

Q. You were formerly engaged in the motion picture theater business?

A. Yes.

Q. What was the name of your corporation?

A. Southwestern Theaters.

Q. Mr. Isley was also interested with you in that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is sometimes known as the Isley and Moran circuit?

A. No, that was known as the Southwestern Theaters but Isley and Moran owned it.

Q. You operated theaters in Chickasha?

A. Yes.

Q. What were the theaters?

A. The Midwest and the Ismo.

Q. Those were being operated by your company there in 1937?

1687 A. Yes.

Q. Who operated the other theaters in the town then?

A. Well, Griffith operated some and I know there is a man by the name of Milne who operated a theater down there at one time; I don't know the exact year.

Q. He was not still in business there in 1937, was he?

A. That I wouldn't know. I know he was in business down there while we were in business.

Q. Isn't it a fact in 1937 your company and the Griffiths were the only two people operating theaters there?

A. I know we were there. I don't know whether the year 1937 is right or not.

Q. One of the theaters the Griffiths operated there was called the Ritz?

A. That is right.

Q. Was there a pooling agreement made between your company and Griffith under which the Ritz was operated, pooled with the Midwest and Ismo?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you remember when that was made?

A. What year, you mean?

Q. The nearest date you can fix for it.

A. I don't know the exact year, no.

Q. Have you a copy of the agreement?

A. No, I haven't.

1688 Q. There was a written agreement?

A. Yes.

Q. Setting forth the terms of the pool?

A. Yes.

Q. Have you made a search to find that?

A. I know that I destroyed it.

Q. Can you tell us in substance what the terms of the agreement were?

A. We were to operate the Ritz Theater and Midwest Theater and we were to split the profits.

Q. And the Ismo was to be closed.

A. The Ismo was to be closed or something done with it because it was a loser.

By the COURT:

Q. Which one was the loser?

A. The Ismo.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You each paid half the rent——

Mr. COCHRAN. Object to the leading questions.

The COURT. Well, I think you can state the substance of this agreement.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. What was the agreement with respect to rent on the Ismo?

A. They were to pay half and we were to pay half.

Q. You later sold all of your theaters to Griffith?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that unless he specifies to whom he sold it. He didn't sell any theater to Griffith.

1689 The COURT. Let him state what he did.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You later disposed of all of your theater interests, the Southwestern Theaters?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. When was that?
A. That was in March, 1940.
Q. Whom did you sell out to?
A. Griffith Southwestern Theaters.
Q. That was the company in which Mr. H. J. Griffith was interested?
A. I don't know who was interested in the Griffith Southwestern Theaters.
1690 Q. Do you know who you made that deal with?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Who was that?
A. B. J. McKenna.
Q. Did this pooling agreement you have referred to in Chickasha continue until the time you made the sale to this company represented by McKenna?
A. I believe so.
Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Mr. Moran, at the time that this agreement was made between Southwestern Theaters, Inc., and Consolidated Theaters, Inc., wasn't it?
A. Well, I don't recall, Judge, whether it was Consolidated or Griffith.
Q. Well, either the Consolidated or Griffith Amusement Company, whichever it was?
A. That's right.
Q. You were operating theaters in how many different places?
A. Springfield, Missouri, Picher, Pawhuska, Tulsa, Chickasha, Oklahoma City, and I believe that's all.
Q. How many theaters were you operating in Oklahoma City?
1691 A. Two.
Q. Were they subsequent run houses?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You were operating two theaters in Chickasha, were you?
A. Right.
Q. Were they subsequent run houses?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. How many were you operating in Tulsa?
A. Seven or eight.
Q. Were they subsequent run houses?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. In Pawhuska, how many were you operating?
A. One.
Q. Was that a first or second run house?

A. First.

Q. In Picher, how many were you operating?

A. Two.

Q. Were both of those first run houses?

A. One was first run and the other was first and second.

Q. In Springfield, Missouri, how many were you operating?

A. Two.

Q. Were they subsequent run houses?

1692 A. Subsequent run.

Q. How long had you been operating those theaters, that is, how long had you been operating a group of theaters in various towns?

A. Oh, I think since about '25, or somewhere around in there.

Q. During the time that you were operating theaters in the towns that you have mentioned, you specialized in subsequent run operations, didn't you?

A. Right.

Q. That is the playing of pictures later than second run, and in some instances as late as seventh or eighth run, is that true?

A. Right.

Q. Did you operate those pictures, those shows successfully?

A. I think so.

Q. Did you make money?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, this, I take it, is all a part of the Defendants' case. The sole purpose for which we put the witness on the stand was to establish the pooling arrangement as it had not been produced in response to the subpoena by the defendants, and he couldn't find it himself. All the rest, it seems to me, is improper 1693 at this time.

The COURT. Well, he sold all of his business to Griffith. I think it is proper cross-examination. It might leave the impression that he was forced to sell, or something like that.

Mr. WRIGHT. There was no suggestion as to that on direct examination.

The COURT. No, but I think it is proper cross-examination.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. In Chickasha, you were operating, so far as the two theaters were concerned, on a profitable basis when you made the pooling arrangement, were you not?

A. Do you mean the Midwest and the Ismo?

Q. Yes.

A. The Midwest was at a profitable basis, but the Ismo sure wasn't.

Q. But your total operation was on a profitable basis, wasn't it?

A. Yes.

Q. When you said you sold the Southwest Theaters, sold out to Griffith, you finally said that was to the Griffith Southwestern Theaters. You know those are separate concerns from either the Griffith Amusement Company or the Consolidated, do you?

A. That's right.

1694 Q. You know that?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And that concern, you know that concern was organized at the time these theaters were acquired?

A. That's right.

Q. From your concern?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Tell us about that Ismo Theater that you said was a loser in Chickasha. What type of building was that?

A. It was a 25-foot theater and I think seated around about 250 people, and was just run down, and we leased it equipped, and the equipment was all run down, and we tried to operate it; we thought we could operate it better than the Griffith outfit, so we attempted it to our sorrow.

Q. Did you attribute the failure of the Ismo to be a profitable operation on a subsequent run basis to the type of house you had?

A. Did I what?

Q. The type of house you had—did you attribute your failure to operate the Ismo on a profitable basis to the type of house and equipment that you had there?

A. Yes, sir, I think that had a lot to do with it.

Q. Isn't it a fact that at the time you made this operating agreement with Consolidated Theaters at Chickasha, that prior to the time you had any negotiations in 1695 regard to that matter at all, you had decided that you would, that you were going to abandon the Ismo?

A. That's right.

Q. And that you had determined that it was unsuitable for a theater operation?

A. That's right.

Q. Now, in the theaters which you were operating there in Chickasha, were you desirous of the major high price pictures, or did you prefer the cheaper action pictures?

A. The cheaper action pictures.

Q. Were they the ones that you found you could use at a greater profit?

A. Yes, sir, because our theater wasn't suitable to the bigger pictures.

Q. Did the various independents, so-called independent companies, such as Monogram and Republic and Grand National and companies of that kind, did they, during that period that you were operating this Ritz and Ismo, produce a large number of action pictures?

A. Yes.

1696 Q. And at the time you made this pooling arrangement with Griffith did you have a large number of those pictures under contract for exhibition in the Ismo and the Ritz?

A. Yes, I believe we did.

Q. When you decided you were going to abandon the Ismo Theater that left you with more of those action pictures than you needed for the week end operations in the Ritz, didn't it?

A. Yes, it did. In the Midwest, you mean?

Q. In the Midwest, yes.

A. Yes.

Q. In a town like Chickasha and theaters the character of the Ritz and Midwest, what were the best kind of pictures to play on week end programs for the best box office returns?

A. Strictly westerns.

Q. In making the pooling arrangement between the Midwest and the Ritz, what effect did that have on the booking of pictures into those two theaters?

A. Well, Griffith was to do the buying and booking under our supervision and we were to OK the contract and we were to OK all bookings.

Q. What I am talking about, you said that action pictures were most desirable in theaters of that type. Now, before you made that arrangement do you know the type of pictures that the Ritz was playing principally?

1697 A. Yes.

Q. They were pictures of the major companies, weren't they?

A. Some of them, yes.

Q. And they had a fewer number of the action type of pictures than you had for the Midwest?

A. That is right.

Q. Did this operating agreement you had enable you to operate those two theaters with a better possibility of booking the pictures to advantage, the action pictures to advantage in both theaters?

A. Well, it gave us a larger variety.

Q. And do you consider that would enable you to increase the box office results from the two theaters?

A. I thought we would make more money by having the two theaters than by just having the one.

Q. I say, the fact you did have the two theaters or were able to have that interchange of bookings, enabled you to increase your box office returns, or did you think it would?

A. Yes, I imagine so.

Q. What effect would the operating agreement have on the more efficient and economical operation of those two theaters and the service to the public?

A. Well, it saved a lot of expense, such as one 1698 manager operating both theaters instead of two managers, and in the lot shipment on express and advertising and buying and things like that.

Q. Did the matter of eliminating competition which existed or might have existed between your theaters and that of Consolidated in the licensing of pictures, have anything to do with you entering into that agreement?

Mr. WRIGHT. That is purely an argumentative question and I don't think this witness could possibly answer it. It is perfectly clear he made it because he thought it was going to be more profitable.

Mr. COCHRAN. There are several ways a thing can be profitable——

Mr. WRIGHT. We would not represent to your Honor that in all circumstances competition was more preferable than monopoly. I assume monopoly would be more preferable or there would not be any urge to embrace it.

The COURT. It is owing to what you call monopoly and what you call competition.

By the COURT:

Q. Were you motivated in this transaction by anything other than with a regard to good business?

A. No, Judge. I thought it was a good transaction.

Q. Had you had any trouble in securing sufficient product to operate your theaters in Chickasha?

A. No, judge.

1699 Q. Proceed.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I will re-ask my question. You never ruled on it and I will re-ask it.

The COURT. Read the question.

(The previous question read as follows: "Did the matter of eliminating competition which existed or might have existed between your theaters and that of Consolidated in the licensing of pictures, have anything to do with you entering into that agreement?")

A. Yes, I think it would help the situation because it would give us more variety to select from——

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. I asked you if the matter of eliminating competition, doing away with competition in the buying and licensing of pictures entered into the making of that agreement?

A. Oh, no.

Mr. WRIGHT. I submit it is perfectly clear they intended to do exactly what they did and have one party book both theaters.

The COURT. Suppose there are only two theaters in the town and the owners went into partnership to operate them together, there wouldn't be any element of monopoly there, would there?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think there would when they are both circuits, yes. I submit it is entirely a question of 1700 legal argument. It isn't anything that can be established by the testimony of this witness or anyone else.

The COURT. This witness is the one that made the transaction. He perhaps would know what impelled him to do it.

Mr. WRIGHT. I submit it is perfectly clear what impelled him to do it. The question that counsel has put to him involves a matter of economic theory that I don't suppose he would be competent to establish or disestablish.

The COURT. He might give his own judgment. You may answer the question.

Mr. COCHRAN. He has already answered.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When was it you sold the Midwest Theater in Chickasha to the Griffith Southwestern Theaters?

A. In March, 1940.

Q. Was there any change in the number of programs, changes of programs in the Ritz Theater and the Midwest Theaters after the partnership arrangement with the Consolidated than there was before?

A. Not that I recall. It remained the same.

Q. And you were operating the two theaters?

A. Yes.

Q. Was there any decrease in the number of pictures that were used in the two theaters?

A. No.

1701 Mr. COCHRAN. That is all.

Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Mr. Moran, as I understood your testimony on cross examination, you said that one of the benefits you got from that pooling agreement was you had a greater variety of pictures for your Midwest Theater than you would have otherwise been able to get. Is that correct?

A. No, than we had by operating one theater.

Q. I say, by pooling the theaters you were able to get a greater variety of pictures for the theater you continued to operate, the Ritz, than you would otherwise have been able to get. Is that right?

A. He got to use some of the product we had under contract and we would get to use some of his.

Q. There was an advantage in pooling the product you had and he had. Is that right?

A. Well, yes.

Q. It is a fact then, under the pooling agreement product was made available to you that you otherwise would not have been able to play in the Ritz Theater?

A. No, we would have to——

Q. Will you read the question?

(Previous question read.)

1702 A. I don't know whether we would have been able to play it or not but I know we had enough product in the Midwest.

Q. See if you can answer the question. Read it again.

(Previous question read.)

A. Well we operated the Midwest Theater, you mean for the Midwest instead of the Ritz?

Q. The Midwest, yes, I should have said the Midwest.

A. Well, as I say, it is more or less the same answers. They had certain product under contract and so did we.

Q. The question can be answered yes or no.

A. Yes.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. The Ritz Theater was the one that needed some action pictures, wasn't it?

A. That is right.

Q. It was considered by you to be of greater value in that type of theater?

A. That is right.

Q. Were you threatened or coerced in any manner in making that agreement?

A. Absolutely not.

Q. Or in selling out later?

A. Absolutely not.

(Witness excused.)

1703 THOMAS F. MURRAY, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. State your name and address.

A. Thomas F. Murray, 7617 Dittmar Boulevard, Jackson Heights, Long Island, New York.

Q. What is your occupation?

A. Manager of branch operations for the Universal Film Exchanges, Incorporated.

1704 Q. Were you the man who supervised the preparation of the answers that Universal filed to the interrogatories submitted by the Government in this case?

A. I was.

(Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 351 and 352 for identification were marked by the reporter.)

Q. First I will show you this book marked for identification as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 351 and ask you if you will explain to the Court what information is reflected in that book, and where it came from?

Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, we object to that until it is first shown how these documents were prepared and we point out that these are mere answers to certain interrogatories, and our position is that, so far as these answers are concerned, it doesn't make any difference if the witness prepared them from his own personel knowledge, they are inadmissible in this lawsuit against these defendants, because the company he represented at the time he made these answers has been dismissed from this lawsuit and is no longer a party to it.

Mr. WRIGHT. That, I think, is a mistake.

Mr. COCHRAN. I beg pardon?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think you are mistaken; they were parties at the time the answers were filed.

Mr. COCHRAN. They were parties, but are not par-
1705 ties now. In other words, these answers to interrogatories are admissible against no one except the person who answered the interrogatories, because they are purely ex parte, they are not taken on a notice to take depositions, and so forth, and no opportunity has been afforded for cross-examination and so forth at the time they were made.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is just what we are getting to if we can get the questions answered.

The COURT. I have no idea what the book is. You can tell us what the exhibit is, No. 351 is.

A. This is a transcript of the record for the information required under the interrogatories that were served upon Universal Film Exchanges, Incorporated, compiled by auditors under my supervision, and from an examination of the records of our home office and the exchanges.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you tell the Court what is reflected there, what information is shown in the various columns?

The COURT. We will proceed with this, and if it is determined by the Court that it is not competent, he will entertain a motion to strike. I don't know what it is. It is just a book to me. It is rather a large exhibit to go into the record.

Mr. DUDLEY. If the Court please, it gets down to one simple question. May you submit interrogatories to 1706 a defendant in a lawsuit, let him answer them and file them, and then go out of the case, can they be offered in evidence against the other defendant?

Mr. WRIGHT. Nothing is being offered at this point at all; we are merely establishing what this is.

Mr. DUDLEY. But you are fixing to.

The COURT. I understand the objection, but let's see what this is; I don't know what it is, I haven't any idea what it is.

A. This is a record of the sales and transactions in the situations that were called for in the interrogatories, beginning with the year 1934, 1934–35, '35–36, '36–37, '37–38, and '38–39, listing for each season's product the licensing of Universal product in the situations indicated in the record, to any and all of the situations located in these locales, indicating the product bought, the play-off of the product, the dating of the product, the rental of the product, any alterations in the original terms of the contract as to rentals, the actual rentals received, the time the subject was made available, the date on which it was dated, the date of delivery of the print to the exchange, and the date of national release, indicating by title and also by cast.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. This book that has been identified here as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 351 for identification is 1707 the one that contains the Texas and New Mexico situations, is it not?

A. All of the situations in New Mexico that were served out of Dallas.

Q. And the Texas towns?

A. And the Texas towns.

Q. And the particular towns that are covered are designated by the white tabs here with the name of the town?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then for each town you have one of these sheets representing a season?

A. Each town, one of the sheets representing a season, by color as well as by season.

Q. The blue is the '34–35 season?

A. That's right.

Q. And the yellow is the '35–36 season?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And the green is the '36–37 season?

A. That's right.

Q. And the blue the '37–38, and the pink '38–39?

A. That's right.

Q. On each one of those sheets, the left-hand column contains the titles of the features released, is that right?

1708 A. That's right.

Q. Then opposite each title is the play-off date that you referred to before, and the date the picture is played and the rental received?

A. That's right.

Q. Then at the top of the page is a statement of the dates and parties to the contracts under which the pictures were played?

A. That's right.

Q. Then what are these figures at the bottom of each page?

A. The recapitulation per situation.

Q. The season's total rentals received from each situation?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And this Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 352 for identification, that's the same kind of record for the Oklahoma situations that are listed on the tabs, is it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, with respect to this information that is reflected in these two exhibits, are they the most accurate records that Universal has of the facts that are set forth therein?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross-examine.

1709 Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Those are merely tabulations taken from the original records of the company, are they not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then why do you say they are the most accurate records that the company has?

A. That is what the company possesses and that is all.

Q. Doesn't the company possess the original records?

A. They do possess the original records and these are taken from them.

Q. I am asking you why you say that these are the most accurate records, more accurate than the original records?

A. I didn't make such a statement; if I did, I want to correct it.

Q. You said they are the most accurate records they had, didn't you?

A. I said they are a transcript of the most accurate records they have.

Q. If that is your statement, we will accept that. You don't have the original records from which these purport to have been made, do you?

A. No, sir, not here.

Q. But those records are in the possession of the company?

A. Yes, sir.

1710 Mr. COCHRAN. We now object to the admission of any part of these documents, for the reason that——

Mr. KIMR. (interrupting.) They haven't been offered.

Mr. COCHRAN. I thought they were. What is the purpose, if you are not going to offer it?

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, we have subpoenaed the records on which these tabulations are based, and if that is the objection we, of course, will be glad to see that counsel has an opportunity to examine any and all of those records that he wanted to. It does seem to us, however, that it is a waste of valuable time to have those records brought in here when they have been given a careful audit and check and the results have been incorporated in this form. I should think that any examination with respect to the original records ought to be limited to specific items that they might wish to challenge.

The COURT. What is the purpose of this exhibit now?

Mr. WRIGHT. Well, this exhibit is a complete picture of the play-off of the Universal films in the Griffith towns for the years involved in the suite here, for the period '34 through '39.

The COURT. Let me ask the witness a few questions.

By the COURT:

1711 Q. This is a record now, you say, of your product in the territory indicated, to the various exhibitors?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you make contracts with anybody except exhibitors?

A. No, sir.

Q. Now, what was your practice and your plan in selling your product in any town?

A. Well, as to the sales, I wouldn't be a satisfactory witness for that, because my duties are confined strictly to the liquidation of contracts after the sales have been made.

Q. What I am getting at is this, did you have any understanding with any exhibitor that he would be furnished your product, and that some other competing exhibitor would not be furnished any part of your product?

A. If any such thing happened, it wouldn't come within the relation of my position with the organization.

Q. You wouldn't know anything about it?

A. No, sir.

The COURT. Then all that this shows is the product that this corporation sold in the various towns during this four-year period?

Mr. WRIGHT. That's right.

Mr. DUDLEY. If the Court please, it seems to me
1712 it is well settled that before this compilation could be introduced in evidence here, the books and records from which that is compiled must be produced here and tendered to the other side and introduced in evidence, and a tabulation made from that. We have had no opportunity or right to cross-examine the parties who prepared this schedule; we have had no right or opportunity to cross-examine on the books and records from which this was taken, and it certainly deprives the defendant of nearly every fundamental right they are entitled to, and it is not the best evidence.

The COURT. The Court will reserve its ruling on that point. Was that all that you want with this witness?

Mr. WRIGHT. Yes, to authenticate those records, that's right.

The COURT. The Court will reserve its ruling on that. I am not satisfied that they are competent, but, of course, if the defendants are satisfied after an examination of these records that they are an accurate reflection of the original records, it might present another question.

Mr. COCHRAN. Counsel inquired of us before this case started whether we would agree, and we told him we would not agree; that as far as we have been able to get the original records, we were convinced there were discrepancies between these records and the originals
1713 sufficient that we would not be willing to waive the production of the original documents, we told them that, and that is our position now.

Mr. WRIGHT. And I have told counsel that if there were any items in there that they questioned, and they would call them to our attention, that we could probably agree as to any; if there were any discrepancies or errors, that is certainly something that could be very easily straightened out, if they would point them out, but they have never undertaken to tell us of any specific figures or instances of errors or discrepancies herein.

1714 Mr. COCHRAN. The trouble about that is, as I have said, we have only been able to get access to a limited amount of the original records. This company has not made available to us the original records and we have been endeavoring to see the contracts and the other original records and they have not been made available. I mean this company. I don't mean this witness.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. As far as you know, your company has no objection to making available to counsel for the defendants in this case whatever records you have that are involved in this tabulation. Is that right?

A. No, the company will respect any subpoena served on it for that purpose.

Q. You have no objection to them seeing their records, or such records as they want to inspect?

A. No, sir.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. You do not have those records in your possession, do you?

A. Not at present, no, sir.

Q. They are not in Oklahoma City?

A. I doubt if they are. There may be some of them.

Q. How many auditors did you have preparing this information?

A. I think I had three.

Q. For how long?

1715 A. Oh, they were at intervals; probably a duration of two and a half or three months.

Q. Were you present during the time they were making the audit?

A. No, sir. I organized this form and supervised the work.

Q. I asked you if you were present during any of the time that they were making these tabulations.

A. Part of the time.

Q. Did you check those tabulations against the original record?

A. I did not.
Q. And haven't done so today?
A. No, sir.
Q. That is all.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. How voluminous are these records that these tabulations are taken from? Can you give us some idea of the scope and size?

A. I think the organizing and developing and typing and transcribing of those records took a little over eight months.

Q. I am talking about the records from which these are made up.

By the COURT:

Q. What volume do they occupy?

A. Well, they would originate from the contract.
1716 The contract would be accompanied by a recommendation and a recommendation would show the sales representative who negotiated the contract; the district manager who approved it; the division manager who approved it; final home office approval; dates of the contracts; the date of the approval; the transcribing of that contract and approval to a booking record; print cutoff; the booking of the individual subject, whether there be 20 subjects sold or whether there was a whole year's product sold; the entry of the alterations; the checking back from the contracts and the booking records to the ledger; the pencil copying of that information; the notations from the contract and booking record as to the run and the clearance; also the corporate or individual ownership in each situation; the tabulating or compiling of the total rentals in each particular year. I think that is about all of the detail I can remember.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you give us an idea about how many different numbers were selected?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to that for the reason that counsel in this case has specified certain towns that should be investigated, an inquiry as to the total volume involved in all of the towns in the several situations, many situations have nothing to do with it. It isn't a question as to these towns involved here and the volume of records in regards to that.

1717 Mr. WRIGHT. That is what I asked him.

Mr. COCHRAN. He has not specified these particular towns.

By the COURT:

Q. How big a volume would the original records constitute, a truckload or two truckloads?

By the WITNESS:

A. I imagine it would be reasonably a truckload.

The COURT. We are to have a recess tomorrow and during this recess you could check these as tendered against the original records if the witness states the original records are available for your inspection.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is imposing a burden on us that we should not have at this time when we are trying to prepare our defense. We have tried for months to have access to them. We tried up to the very time this case went to trial.

The COURT. What effort have you made to see the original records?

Mr. COCHRAN. I have gone down time and time again and phoned time and time again to their office here and they would say they were in New York City, and then New York would say they were sent here. The Government has subpoenaed them. Those are the best evidence. I say it is not a burden that should be placed on our shoulders. We have done a lot of checking in this case and we have a 1718 big job ahead of us to get ready for trial, and we say that is not just fair. This witness talks about all of these documents. He knows that most of this stuff is represented by contracts and one record covers each town for each season, and counsel for the Government knows that, and those documents can be brought here just as they have done as to these other companies. They don't have any such stipulation as to that as to Paramount and those companies. They have been bringing the contracts here, and that is what we want them to do so far as Universal is concerned.

The COURT. The Court will reserve his ruling on this. He is not satisfied this is competent evidence, and at the same time I do not want to commit error in refusing it if it is. I can investigate it a little myself during the recess, but getting back to the case proper, it seems to me the gist of this lawsuit is the character of the contract that is made by these distributors and what kind of understanding there was with the distributor and individual exhibitor at the time the contract was made. I don't know how this volume here is going to assist the Court. I don't think it makes very much difference how many towns there were that they sold their product to. The question is, what did these defendants do that constituted a violation of this Act under which 1719 this case is brought. Evidently it is not what the distributors did because they are not parties to the suit. It is what these defendants did. Now if you can show me that this distributor entered into a contract, say with these defendants, whereby as a part of the consideration of that contract they would not sell anybody except the Griffiths, that would certainly be competent, but just to say a man operated three theaters in a town or four theaters in a town, and someone else operated two or three—in your consent decree there is a provision that the distributor may sell to the exhibitor that will, to use an expression we all understand, make him the most money. In other words, he is not expected to sacrifice his profits in order to accommodate everybody. The distributor is the man who has absolute control over this situation. He can sell or refuse to sell, and naturally, if a man is operating a theater he wants to get the best product he can, and if he owns two theaters he might have a slight advantage.

The chain stores are operating here every day and here is a man who is buying for eight or ten stores who might have an advantage over a little suburban grocery store because he can buy in larger quantities. Now, is it a violation of the law for him to do that? Does this Act prohibit anything like that? It is not the volume of business that is done in this circuit. It is what these people did 1720 who were handling it. The ruling will be reserved on this as indicated.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court pleases, do you want to hear anything from me at this time as to how I thought this would establish that?

The COURT. Yes, I will be glad to hear any statement you wish to make.

Mr. WRIGHT. We would state, if Your Honor is waiting in this case for any contracts expressed in writing between the Griffiths and these defendants where the defendants set out in writing or the distributors set out in writing that as a consideration in making this contract with you "I agree that we will not sell anybody in opposition to you," we do not have that kind of evidence. We never have had it and never expect to get it, but what we expect to show from the evidence we do put in is that by the use of the combination of these defendants in combining their theaters together in making deals with these distributors, they have been able to prevent the distributors from dealing with independents in individual situations, who would otherwise have been able to buy the distributors' product, had it not been for the buying power of this combination exerted through concerted action. Now, the contracts themselves, I submit, do not always tell the whole story. This play off here, 1721 for example, some of these sheets we have would show that the distributor did actually sacrifice revenue in a particular situation as the result of dealing with Griffith, and the only reason they have sacrificed that revenue was in order to get into the Griffith circuit, to make a circuit deal, and it was necessary to exclude the independent in opposition. Now that is what the case is about.

The COURT. Let us assume here is a town where the Griffiths have four theaters and also two independents. Is it your contention that Griffiths would not have the right under this Act to make the best deal they could make in order to get the product that was desired for those theaters?

Mr. WRIGHT. If they were negotiating independently for those theaters that would be true, as to a single exhibitor negotiating independently for theaters in that town, but that is not the situation you have here.

The COURT. Let us suppose in addition to that that Griffith has the same situation in a dozen towns, and it is this corporation that owns these theaters. Now you say that under this Act they would not have the right or power to make a deal for all of those theaters?

Mr. WRIGHT. We are not dealing with one corporation owning a number of theaters. They are separate exhibitor groups of all who combine their theaters in these film 1722 buying deals. I don't think those deals are comparable to where one exhibitor owns a number of theaters in a number of situations and makes a deal.

The COURT. Suppose these were all one corporation?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think that would be a different case.

The COURT. If the major factors in these various corporations are the same and they just operate in different territory and under different names, but still they are the same people who are handling it, and they buy for the entire circuit, it is your contention that the power they would have because of the great number of theaters and their ability to buy, to get the production they desire, that that is a violation of the Act?

Mr. WRIGHT. To the extent that power was used to prevent the competitive distribution of films in any situation in which they operated, yes.

The COURT. What do you say about the distributor then? Is he relieved of all responsibility? He can sell to whom he pleases.

Mr. WRIGHT. We dispute that contention quite strongly. The only reason the distributors are not defendants in this case at the present time is because they are defendants in a proceeding in New York. They were not dismissed as defendants here on the theory they were any 1723 less subject to the Sherman Act than the defendants who are left in the suit, but there is another proceeding against them in which relief against can be more properly given than in these various regional suits. The other suit covers their activities on a national scale.

The COURT. Well, just let this matter stand as it is at the present.

(Witness excused.)

1724 Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, we are calling Mr. McKenna as an adverse witness under rule No. 43 B.

B. J. McKENNA, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, being duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Will you state your full name and address?

A. B. J. McKenna; Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

By the COURT:

Q. B. J. McKenna?

A. B. J. McKenna, M-c-K-e-n-n-a.

Q. B. J.?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. And your occupation?

A. General manager of the Griffith Theaters.

Q. You prepared or supervised the preparation of the interrogatory answers that were filed in this case by both Griffith Amusement Company and Griffith Consolidated Theaters, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You are connected with both companies?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In what capacity?

A. Well, I am the vice president of Consolidated Theaters, and the general manager of Griffith Amuse-
1725 ment Company.

Q. And how long have you been employed by those companies respectively?

A. Well, I have been with the Griffith Amusement Company since 1928, the summer of 1928. I am not employed by the Consolidated Theaters in the sense of being employed.

Q. You merely act as an officer?

A. That's right, yes, sir.

Q. How long have you been an officer of Consolidated?

A. I believe since about 1939.

Q. Did you also participate in gathering together the material that was produced here in response to subpoenas duces tecum that were served by the Government on Consolidated Theaters and Griffith Amusement Company?

A. Yes, sir, I assisted on it.

Q. Are you familiar with those agreements that were produced, showing operation of the Griffith Theaters?

A. I think so, yes, sir.

Q. One of them is an administration contract, marked as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 10, dated in June 1942, between Griffith Amusement Company and Griffith Consolidated, and W. T. Spears, of Altus, Oklahoma, and I call your attention to this second and third paragraphs where it says, "Whereas the second and third parties have been operating the Delta, Plaza, and Ritz Theaters in Altus, Oklahoma, and have been using the services of the first party in the administering, supervising, of theater management and the rendering of auditing and bookkeeping service and in the licensing and booking of films and entertainment attractions for exhibition in said theaters and in rendering of exploitation and advertising services in connection with said attractions, and whereas the parties hereto now desire to reduce their agreement to writing"— the parties mentioned in that agreement had been operating under an agreement such as described there for how long, do you know?

1726

A. Let me see that again. (Referring to paper.) Do you want to know how long they had been operating under an agreement such as this? Since about 1930.

Q. Was there any prior written agreement of any kind?

A. I believe there, yes, sir.

Q. Do you know what the date of the prior agreement was?

A. No, sir, I do not. I do not know the date.

By the COURT:

Q. Do you know what the oral agreement was that was in existence prior to the execution of that?

A. Well, this is the same agreement that we have always had; in other words, basically what is in this agreement is the same type of agreement that we have always had.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Well, you say you think there was a prior written agreement though?

1727

A. I think there was an agreement with Altus, Oklahoma.

Q. What was done with the prior written agreement?

A. I don't know about that, Mr. Wright, I don't know.

Q. You don't know whether you have that agreement or not?

A. No, sir, I do not.

Q. Do you know what the occasion was for making a new agreement there in 1942?

A. Well, I can't remember at this time.

Q. Who do you think would know?

A. Well, Mr. Griffing could probably answer that question; he wrote the agreement, I believe.

Q. Have you any records at all which would show when the agreement was first made?

A. No, I do not have any records on it.

Q. Do the companies, either Griffith Consolidated or Griffith Amusement Company, have?

A. All our legal records are kept by our attorney.

Q. Do you know what records you have—I am not talking about legal records, I am talking about your ordinary business records of your company?

A. Well, this is a legal record, is it not?

Q. Well, I assume it is.

1728 A. Well, I know nothing about the—I mean the legal records are with our attorney and I know no where else that they might be.

Q. What do you mean by legal records?

A. Well, a contract like this, that is what I call a legal record.

Q. All of your contracts, all the records that relate to your contracts?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When were they placed in the hands of your attorney?

A. They always have been.

Q. Don't you or any other representative of your company know what records you have, or what records are in his possession?

A. Well, I wouldn't know unless I would have an opportunity to check on the matter, the particular records.

Q. Could you find out for us what, if any, records the company has as to when that agreement that is referred to in Exhibit No. 10 was first made?

A. Well, I am sure I could, yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Does this agreement, this written agreement, refer to a prior written agreement?

Mr. WRIGHT. No, it simply, the only reference it has on its face, it just says that they have been operating, I will

1729 read it again, "Whereas the parties have been using the services of, the second and third parties have been using the services of the first party in the administering and supervising of theater management and the rendering of auditing and bookkeeping service and in the licensing and booking of films and entertainment attractions for exhibition in said theaters and in rendering of exploitation and advertising services in connection with said attractions, and whereas the parties hereto now desire to reduce their agreement to writing", it doesn't indicate whether or not——

By the COURT (interrupting):

Q. Do you know whether there was a written agreement originally?

A. I don't know for sure. Let me review this now, think in my mind, just a moment, Judge. Remembering back, as I recall, Consolidated, Griffith Consolidated Theaters, which is the partner of W. T. Spears that is referred to in this agreement, had an administration contract with the Griffith Amusement Company, which is the other party that is referred to in this agreement, and that administration contract covered all of the towns that were involved in the Griffith Consolidated Theaters, among which was Altus, Oklahoma. And as to this date in 1942, about it being reduced to writing, I stated it has always been in writing in my mind. Now, this brings it to an individual basis. It is just probable that the partner, I don't recall at this time, but it is probable that the partner requested 1730 that it be made on an individual basis where he was included in this administration contract.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, that prior blanket agreement between Griffith Consolidated and Griffith Amusement Company, do you have the copy of that agreement?

A. No, sir; I do not know.

Q. You say there was such an agreement in existence?

A. That is my understanding about it, yes, sir.

Q. Do you know why that wasn't produced in response to the subpoena that was served here calling for all the agreements made between the defendant companies?

A. No, I do not, I do not know.

Q. At the time the subpoena was served did you make any kind of search for that agreement?

A. Well, Mr. Wright, there was a lot of things asked for in that subpoena, and I just don't recall each and every one of them. I would be glad to check it back and see what the items were. I didn't intentionally intend to leave out anything that you asked for.

Q. Could you make a search for that agreement and see if you can locate it for us?

A. Sure.

Q. Do you remember about when it was made?
A. Well, the agreement would be made in 1930.
Q. About 1930?
1731 A. About 1930. Yes, sir, that was the time that Consolidated Theaters began operating.
Q. And you think they continued under that agreement until these individual agreements were made?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Then I notice there are a number of these made in 1942, Exhibit No. 11, one dated August 1942, relating to Ardmore. Would your explanation as to that be the same as to Exhibit No. 10?
A. Let me see that, Mr. Wright.
The COURT. Did you mark this other as an exhibit?
Mr. WRIGHT. The other one is already in evidence as Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 10.
The COURT. But this last one.
Mr. WRIGHT. The last one is Plaintiff's Exhibit No. 11, in evidence.
A. Read the question.
Mr. WRIGHT. Just strike it out.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. This Exhibit No. 11 has a similar clause there in it, referring to certain services that have been rendered in the past and saying "Whereas, the parties hereto now desire to reduce their agreement to writing", do you recall whether there was a prior written agreement in that connection, other than this general agreement which you have referred to?
1732 A. This general agreement that I referred to awhile ago is a specific reference, if you recall, as affecting Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Inc.
Q. Yes.
A. Now, this Ardmore has nothing to do with Griffith Consolidated Theaters, Inc., so far as a general agreement in effect concerns that.
1733 Q. What was the prior agreement there, if any?
A. Well, I believe there was an agreement there similar to this. If not, practically the same in effect on Ardmore with the possible exception that I think one of the parties, a sister of Mr. Lowenstein, died. That probably would reflect the difference. Otherwise, it would be just about the same.
Q. Is the prior agreement in writing?
A. My memory says it is.
Q. Do you know where that agreement is?
A. No, I do not at this time.

Q. Do you know when it was made?

A. No, sir, I do not.

Q. Could you find out for us?

A. I will look for it.

Q. Then I will call your attention to Exhibit 15, administration contract dated November 30, 1942, which is a similar recital to the theaters, I believe in Claremore, Oklahoma, and ask you just what prior agreement there was there.

A. I believe that this town of Claremore, Oklahoma, was included in with the general agreement which I mentioned relative to Altus. This is one of Consolidated's towns.

Q. In addition to that general agreement was there
1734 any written agreement between one of the defendants and the local partner there such as this one you have in your hand?

A. No, sir, I don't think there was. I think the general agreement covers the——

That general agreement will show when the——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object, if your Honor pleases. If the general agreement is in existence Mr. McKenna said he would search for it and it will speak for itself.

Mr. WRIGHT. I want to find out what other records we need to complete the picture as to when one of the defendants started to book for the other for the theaters in question.

The COURT. You may proceed.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. That general agreement would show when the particular company involved, that is the Griffith Amusement Company or Consolidated first began to book pictures for the theaters there?

A. Yes, I believe it would.

Q. If it appears when you find that agreement that it does not, could you find out if there are records which show that?

A. Yes, sir, I will.

Mr. COCHRAN. I am just wondering if you cannot state what additional information you want in regard to 1735 that so he can get up the information over night, because personally I am doubtful if there is any such written agreement and Mr. Griffing thinks not. There is a conflict between these gentlemen so if you will give us the specific information you want——

Mr. WRIGHT. I think I have indicated very clearly the information we want.

Mr. COCHRAN. You want the time they started booking for that particular town?

Mr. WRIGHT. And whatever prior written agreement there is.

Mr. COCHRAN. But you also want to know what time the Griffith Amusement Company started booking that particular town.

Mr. WRIGHT. That is right, what is in the records there which shows what the agreement was.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I show you this exhibit, Plaintiff's Exhibit 16, bearing the date August, 1944, an administration contract, making similar recitals about reducing an agreement to writing with respect to theaters at Clinton. Will you tell us whether that town was covered by this general agreement or whether there were others prior written agreements relating to it?

A. I am of the opinion that there was another agreement but the parties were different. Mr. F. G. Rob-1736 erts, who was the original partner died and was replaced, and his wife took over, and this agreement here sets out the same terms and conditions as the former agreement except that the wife is in it where he was in it before.

Q. Do you know when the former agreement was made?

A. I believe it was made about 1933 or '34, possibly.

Q. Will you see if you can locate that agreement for us?

A. Yes, I will.

Q. I show you this Exhibit 18, which is an administration contract containing similar recital and refers, I believe, to the operation of theaters at——

Mr. COCHRAN. What town is that?

By the WITNESS:

A. Clinton.

Mr. WRIGHT. Also Clinton. Exhibit 16 is the one that supersedes Exhibit 18. Is that right?

By the WITNESS:

A. Which one did you give me first?

Mr. WRIGHT. The first one I gave you was the '44 agreement and the '42 agreement. Is that the agreement you refer to as one that was made before the death of this party?

The COURT. What is the date of 18?

Mr. WRIGHT. I think it is September, '42. 16 is August 8, '44.

By the WITNESS:

1737 A. September 30, 1940. What was the question?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You will notice this Exhibit 18 refers to the prior rendering of these services, and of reducing the agreement to writing. Was there a written agreement that preceded that exhibit you have in your hand there, 18?

A. I believe there was.

Q. And you will endeavor to locate that for us?

A. Yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. What is the date of 15?

Mr. WRIGHT. 15 is November 30, 1942.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. I call your attention to Plaintiff's Exhibit 24, an agreement dated May 24, 1942, relating to certain theaters at El Reno, Oklahoma, which refers to the rendition of certain services and reducing the parties' agreement to writing. Was there a prior written agreement in that situation?

A. Yes, sir, I think there was.

Q. Do you know when that was made?

A. The prior agreement?

Q. Yes.

A. I don't know exactly, no, sir.

Q. Do you know what the occasion for making this superseding agreement was?

A. No, I don't remember.

1738 Q. I show you this Defendants' Agreement 33, an agreement dated July 30, 1942, relating to the operation of theaters at Hominy, Oklahoma, which contains a similar recital about prior rendition of services and ask you if there was a prior written agreement in that situation?

A. I do not recall but I will check and see.

Q. Do you have any idea when that agreement was first made?

A. This agreement here?

Q. Yes, the prior agreement that was referred to.

A. I don't recall that there was a prior agreement. I will have to check and find out.

Q. I call your attention to this Exhibit 41 which is dated July 17, 1943, and in relation to the Reno Theater in Oklahoma City, and refers to the reducing of a prior arrangement to writing. Was there a prior written agreement in that situation?

A. Yes, sir, there was. This is changing the parties to the agreement. We had a similar agreement except another party has been added.

Q. Do you know when that agreement was made?

A. I believe that agreement was made back in about 1930; somewhere back in there.

Q. Do you have a copy of that?

A. I don't know. I will have to check for it.

1739 Q. I call your attention to Exhibit 41. I see this is marked Exhibit 41 for identification. Apparently that was not offered in evidence. I call your attention to an exhibit which is marked as admitted, an agreement dated April 16, 1942. I believe there are two dates, one May 1, 1942, relating to theaters at Sapulpa, Oklahoma. Was there a prior written agreement in that situation?

A. Yes, I believe there was.

Q. Do you know when that was made?

A. No, sir, I don't know without referring to the records.

Q. Do you know what the occasion was for making this one?

A. No, sir, I do not.

Q. Can you find out for us?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I call your attention to Exhibit 44, a similar administration contract dated June 1, 1942, relating to theaters at Sayre, and ask you if there was a prior written agreement in that situation?

Mr. COCHRAN. If you will give us a list of that we will get up what you want. My understanding from Mr. Griffing is your subpoena covers certain dates. If you want to go back of that just give us a list of the documents you want and if we have them we will bring them up, However, 1740 we have no objection to your proceeding.

Mr. WRIGHT. There are only a few more here.

By the WITNESS:

A. I believe there was but I would have to check the records to make sure.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You don't know what the date of it was?

A. No, sir.

Q. I call your attention to this Exhibit 47, a similar agreement referring to theaters at Vinita that is dated in November, 1942. Do you remember whether there was a prior written agreement there?

A. Yes, I believe there was.

Q. Do you know when it was made?

A. No, sir, I would not know exactly.

Q. Do you know what the occasion of making this agreement was?

A. No, I do not but I will check it for you.

Mr. GRIFFING: Did you say the Exhibit 42 was Vinita?
Mr. WRIGHT. The number of the exhibit is 47.
The COURT. What is the date?
Mr. WRIGHT. November 30, 1942.
The COURT. What town.
Mr. WRIGHT. Vinita, Oklahoma.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

1741 Q. I call your attention to this exhibit 48, which is dated September, 1941, and relates to Wewoka, Oklahoma. Was there a prior written agreement in that situation?

A. There was a prior written agreement but not between the same parties. One of the partners sold out.

Q. Which was the partner that sold out, do you know?

A. J. B. Terry.

Q. Who was the prior agreement between?

A. The same parties except J. B. Terry.

Q. Do you know when that was made?

A. I believe that was made in '38

1742 Q. Can you see if you can get a copy of that answer?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In the interrogatories answers that were filed and signed by you for Griffith Consolidated Theaters, the names of the theaters acquired are listed. I don't believe there is anything to indicate, however, whether the particular theaters were built on the dates listed or whether they were acquired from some one else. Would you know from looking at the list whether any of those theaters you have listed as acquired was a theater that one of your companies had built?

A. Yes, I think so.

Q. Could you pick them out?

Mr. COCHRAN. What page are you on?

Mr. WRIGHT. Beg pardon?

Mr. COCHRAN. Is that Griffith Amusement Company or Consolidated?

Mr. WRIGHT. The interrogatories I handed him are those filed by Griffith Consolidated Theaters, and the page he is now looking at is, well, it is the answer to No. 17.

The WITNESS. Read the question.

The COURT. I don't know that I understand the question. Do you want to know whether or not they were acquired or built?

Mr. WRIGHT. I asked him if he could point out
1743 which, if any, of those theaters listed as acquired there were built by one of the defendant companies.

A. When you say built, you mean own the real estate in fee?

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Whether the theaters were actually constructed by one of the defendants? I would assume normally that the acquisition would mean the theater was bought as a theater from some one else.

Mr. COCHRAN. You also mean where they were built, in the event he made a lease from somebody who constructed a building; if it was a new theater, that would go in that category.

Mr. WRIGHT. I want to get the facts about new theaters.

Mr. COCHRAN. You are making a distinction between new theaters and those which had been in existence and which they acquired from some one else?

Mr. WRIGHT. That's right.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Do you get that distinction?

A. I think so. The Washita in Chickasha, Oklahoma.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. When you give the name explain it.

A. The Washita Theater at Chickasha, Oklahoma, was built by Consolidated Theaters, Inc. They purchased the property, the land, and built a new theater, a new de luxe theater on the land. The Tower Theater at Drum-
1744 right, Oklahoma.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Just at that point, how about the Ritz at Chickasha?

A. Oh, I didn't see it. The Ritz in Chickasha.

Q. What about the Ritz?

A. Wait just a minute, I was trying to find it. Oh, I see, the Ritz in Chickasha, yes, we built that from the ground up. The Tower at Drumright we built that theater. The Ector at Goldsmith, Texas. The Ute at Sayre, Oklahoma, we built a new A house there. The Sunray at Sunray, Texas, we built that house from the ground up.

Q. How about the State at Sapulpa?

A. Just a minute. The State at Sapulpa, we built it, bought the lot and built the theater. On the next page, the Lindsey at Lubbock, we built that from the ground up. At the top of the page. There is no page number. The Texas at Texas City, we built it from the ground up. I believe that's all on this list.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, could you do the same thing for us with this list of the Griffith Amusement Company's acquisitions? (Handing.)

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. How about—excuse me just a minute, if I may suggest, how about the American at Cushing? That is on the list?

A. Well, the American in Cushing was rebuilt, but 1745 it burned down. If his question is in order, we built it back, but originally it wasn't built by us. The Osage at Bartlesville, we built that as a de luxe A house in Bartlesville. The Rex Theater in Borger, Texas, it is our A house, I mean our B house. The Rig Theater in Borger, Texas. The Elk in Elk City, that is our A house in Elk City, it is the de luxe house. The Cherokee Theater in Enid. The Erie Theater in Hugo, Oklahoma.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. How about the Aztec in Enid?

A. Well, now, let me ask you. The Aztec in Enid was originally built and leased to us. That doesn't answer Mr. Wright's question.

Q. He wants every place that was originally, that you occupied first as a theater.

A. Well, all right, the Aztec in Enid, that is right.

Mr. COCHRAN. I thought we made that clear.

A. You didn't make it clear to me; I didn't understand it that way. I want to go back over the list.

Mr. COCHRAN. Again, let us explain. Mr. Wright, as I understand it, is seeking to make a distinction between theaters which had been operated by some one else and which you acquired, and theaters which you initially operated as a theater, whether built by somebody else and leased to you or built by you on property which you owned. Is that clear?

1746 A. Yes, it is clear now, but I didn't understand it that way at first. What was the last one?

Mr. COCHRAN. You are in Hugo.

A. The next one is the Kermit Theater at Kermit, Texas. The next is the Arcadia at Maud, Oklahoma. The next one is the Sooner at Norman, Oklahoma. The next one is the University at Norman, Oklahoma. The next one is the La Nora Theater at Pampa, Texas. The next one is the Rex at Pampa, Texas. The next one is the Seminole Theater, at Seminole, Oklahoma. The Bison in Shawnee, Oklahoma. The Avon in Shawnee, Oklahoma. The Aggie in Stillwater, Oklahoma. The Campus in Stillwater, Oklahoma. The Ritz in Wellington, Texas. The Rig in Wink, Texas. I believe that catches all of them. Let me review that list.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Do you want to make any other list?

A. I want to go over that again. Yes, on that other list, Mr. Wright.

Q. You are referring to the interrogatory answers of what company?

A. Griffith Consolidated Theaters.

Q. All right.

A. The Greer at Mangum. The Reno Theater in Oklahoma City. The Axtec Theater, in Vinita, Oklahoma. I believe that catches all of them.

1747 Q. Now, calling your attention again to this same Consolidated list, you show the Delta Theater acquired at Altus, Oklahoma, on November 1, 1930. Do you know whether that had been operated in opposition to your Paramount Theater there before you acquired it?

A. Repeat that question, will you? Read the question to me.

(Question read by the reporter.)

A. No, sir, it hadn't been operated in opposition.

Q. Who had been operating it, do you know?

A. The Griffith Consolidated Theaters and W. T. Spears operated the, it is referred to here as the Delta, formerly the Rex, or old Empire, those are names it had.

Q. Yes?

A. But this Delta and this Plaza and the Paramount you refer to was formerly known as the Wigwam; these three theaters were all operated and owned in partnership by W. T. Spears and the Griffith Consolidated Theaters as of this date.

Q. The date of acquisition that you show for the Paramount there is '28, is it not?

A. Well, this date of acquisition on the Paramount, Mr. Wright, in my opinion is incorrect, because Griffith Consolidated Theaters didn't begin to operate as a corporation until April 27, 1930.

1748 Q. You think all the theaters there were acquired at the same time?

A. I know they were all at the same time, yes, sir.

Q. Calling your attention to Chickasha there, the date of acquisition you have for the Ritz is in May 1933. Before you acquired that Ritz, was that operated in opposition to the other theaters you had there?

A. Yes, sir, I believe that theater was operated by an individual by the name of Milne.

Mr. COCHRAN. That is one of those you testified you built.

A. He said prior to the time we built this new theater.

Mr. COCHRAN. Go ahead.

A. Isn't that right, Mr. Wright; prior to that date, aren't you asking about?

By the COURT:

Q. Was the Ritz operated by some one else before you acquired it?

A. It wasn't this same Ritz, your Honor; it was on the same location but it was not this same Ritz; in other words, the theater was operated by Mr. Milne, as I recall.

Q. When you bought out Mr. Milne, you tore it down——

A. We didn't——

Q. The theater and built a new one?

A. We didn't buy out Mr. Milne. I think Mr. Milne had become in some way financially involved on his equip-1749 ment or something and the building was in the hands of a receiver.

Q. Well, you acquired the building that he had operated as a theater and then you rebuilt it, is that correct?

A. Yes, we rebuilt it from the ground up.

Q. And used the same name?

A. I was trying to think whether that was the same name or not. I think so, I believe that was the same name.

1750 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. This theater which you remodeled and called the Ritz, prior to the time you acquired the Ritz, was it being operated as a theater by anyone?

A. No, I don't think it was.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. At the time you acquired it, it had been operated just prior thereto by Mr. Milne, had it not?

A. I don't know how far ahead. You heard Mr. Moran testify. He referred to Mr. Milne himself.

Q. Do you recall when that pooling agreement was made with Mr. Isley and Moran of the theaters in Chickasha, involving the Ismo and Ritz and Midwest?

A. Yes, I recall.

Q. Do you know what the date of it was?

A. I believe it was in December of '37.

Q. Have you a copy of that pooling agreement?

A. No, sir, I have not.

Q. Do you know what happened to it?

A. Well, any of those records or contracts would be in our attorney's office.

Q. Do you know why that one was not produced in response to the subpoena?

A. I didn't know it was asked for.

Q. I think it was clearly covered by the subpoena.

A. It is possible I made a mistake on it. I will check it for you.

1751 Q. Calling your attention to Clinton. The Rialto you show as acquired in January, 1934. Do you know whether that had been operated in opposition to your Del Rio there prior to the time it was acquired?

A. No, sir, it had not.

Q. Who was operating it before you acquired it?

A. I believe the Rialto Theater belonged to Mr. Welch.

Q. You say it had not been operated before you acquired it?

A. I said the Rialto Theater belonged to him. It wasn't operated by him.

Q. Well, was it operated by somebody?

A. Well, I recall years before the Rialto Theater was operated by J. B. Momand of Shawnee.

By the COURT:

Q. Was there a theater in operation at the time you purchased it?

A. Let me think that over just a minute. No, sir, there was not.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. How long has it been closed, do you know?

A. I couldn't say exactly without referring to the record, but it has been closed for some time.

Q. How about the Rex which you later acquired after you got the Del Rio? Was that operated there before you acquired it?

1752 A. Well, we acquired the Rex, I believe in a partnership with Mr. F. G. Roberts. That was the theater he was operating.

Q. Roberts was operating the Rex?

A. We had the Del Rio.

Q. While you were operating the Del Rio, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, calling your attention to Cushing. You show the Paramount acquired there. Will you read the date?

A. Paramount, 4–27–30.

Q. When that was acquired had that been operated by someone else while you were operating the American and the Duncan there?

A. If you will notice—you have asked that question wrong. The American and Duncan were not acquired until afterward.

Q. That is right. I should have reversed the question. Were the American and the Duncan being operated in opposition to your Paramount prior to the time it was acquired?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By whom?

A. By Mr. Duncan.

(Hereupon court adjourned until 10 o'clock a. m., May 24, 1945.)

1753 PROCEEDINGS

May 24, 1945, 10 o'clock a. m.

The COURT. You may proceed.

Mr. WRIGHT. We will interrupt Mr. McKenna's testimony. We have a witness here who wants to get a 12 o'clock bus back to Ada.

NONA KYSER, called as a witness on behalf of the plaintiff, being first duly sworn, testified as follows:

Direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. State your name and address.

A. Miss Nona Kyser from Ada, Oklahoma.

Q. You operate a theater at Ada?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is the name of it?

A. The Ada Theater.

Q. How long have you operated that theater?

A. Well, we have operated the Ada Theater since '36.

Q. Is that when it was built?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You were prior to that time engaged in the theater business at Ada with your brother?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What is his name?

A. E. H. Kyser.

1754 Q. How long were you in partnership with him?

A. Well, from '33 until '36.

Q. He died in that year?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What theaters were you and he engaged in operating in '33?

A. The Strand Theater.
Q. That was at Ada?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. What other theaters were there in Ada at that time?
A. The McSwain Theater and Ritz Theater.
Q. Do you know who operated those?
A. Well, a Mrs. Killough, Mr. and Mrs. Killough operated the theaters; that is, they were managers.
Q. The Griffith Companies were interested in them?
A. Yes, sir.
The COURT. I didn't get that answer Mr. Wright.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you answer the last question?
A. There were two theaters, the McSwain and Ritz Theater.
Q. The last question I asked was whether the Griffiths were connected with the operation and I think she said yes to that question.
Mr. COCHRAN. Do you have any objection to the record showing the Griffith Amusement Company?
Mr. WRIGHT. No, I understand the company is the 1755 Griffith Amusement Company.
Q. During the period that you and your brother were operating the Strand, who did the booking and the buying of pictures?
A. Well, my brother did the buying and the booking of all the pictures.
Q. Well, what part of the business did you handle?
A. Well, I was cashier.
Q. You were familiar with the product that was played there during that period, though, were you?
A. Yes, I think I was.
Q. And can you tell us what major product, if any, the Strand had for the '33–34 season?
A. Well, we were using Columbia, Paramount, United Artists and a few first run Fox.
Q. Did you have the Paramount first and second run?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. I will show you these contracts that have been marked as Plaintiff's Exhibits Nos. 68 and 69 for identification, and ask you, do you recognize that as your brother's signature on there?
A. Yes, sir.
Mr. WRIGHT. We will offer these exhibits Nos. 68 and 69 in evidence. No. 68 is the first run contract for the '33–34 season, and No. 69 is the second run contract for the same season, both for the Strand Theater at 1756 Ada.

The COURT. With what company?

Mr. WRIGHT. With Paramount.

Mr. COCHRAN. I notice these are not signed for the Paramount Company.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think they came from their files.

Mr. COCHRAN. Just a moment. Don't you have those contracts in the photostats?

The COURT. Is there any question about them being copies?

Mr. COCHRAN. Just a minute; I am checking.

Mr. WRIGHT. I think we may have the face of them. The other day you preferred to have the full contract in, so I thought we may as well use these.

Mr. COCHRAN. No objection at this time, and I will check it later. That is the best way to save time.

The COURT. They will be admitted on the assumption that these are copies of the original contracts which were signed.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's right. I believe our stipulation covers those two contracts, but I will check later and if there is any question about it I will call it to the attention of counsel, but at present, let it stand.

1757 By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Then for the '34–35 season, can you tell us what major film you had at the Strand?

A. Well, we didn't have Paramount, we had RKO first and second run——

Mr. COCHRAN. I think first he ought to establish this witness knows about that.

The COURT. She was cashier and bookkeeper.

Mr. COCHRAN. She was cashier but that is an entirely different job.

The COURT. Do you know about it?

A. Yes, I knew what we were playing. My brother was buying——

Mr. COCHRAN. He asked what they had licensed. She could know what they were playing. I have no objection to her stating what they were playing if she knows.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you see the contracts of the licensed films?

A. No, I didn't see the contracts but I do know we were running the pictures.

The COURT. She can tell what she knows about it.

Mr. COCHRAN. I say I have no objection to her stating they were playing certain pictures but there is a difference in that and licensing because she would have no way of knowing the number of pictures they had and so forth.

Mr. WRIGHT. Would you repeat that last question?

1758 (Question read as follows: "Then for the '34–35 season, can you tell us what major film you had at the Strand?")

A. In '34——

Mr. COCHRAN. The question was what they licensed.

(Previous question read as above.)

Mr. COCHRAN. I am objecting to that question. I have no objection to her stating what they played; if she knows.

The COURT. He didn't ask for the license. He asked what they played that year.

A. That year we played RKO first and second run, United Artists first and second run, Monogram and Republic.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you have any major companies other than RKO and United Artists?

A. No, we did not. To the best of my knowledge we did not.

Q. Then for the 1935–36 season can you tell us what you played that year?

A. Yes, sir. We ran Universal first and second run, United Artists first and second run, Monogram first run, Republic first run and 22 Metro, second runs in the smaller groups.

Q. Then the '36–37, that was the season in which you——

Mr. COCHRAN. (interrupting.) May I ask the 1759 witness a question about the memo she is reading from?

The COURT. Yes.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Miss Kyser, I notice you are reading this from a memorandum you have. Is that correct?

A. That is right.

Q. From what did you prepare that memorandum?

A. Well, from the contracts we had and some date books that our dates are in and I hunted up the pictures, the year they were released.

Q. Was this a memo you made from records?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you have those records?

A. Well, I don't have them with me, no, sir.

Q. Do you now have the booking records for your theater?

A. I have a part of them, yes, sir.

Q. How far back?
A. '32.
Q. Down to what date? How far down?
A. Well, I have all the year '32, '33 and '34.
Q. All of the bookings in the theater?
A. Yes, sir, I think I have every one of them.
Q. You have '35?
A. Yes, sir, I think I have.
Q. '36?
A. Well, yes sir. I think I have every one of them.
1760 Q. So you have a complete booking record?
A. I have the complete set of books we kept day by day.
Q. I mean the record showing what pictures were played each day?
A. Yes, sir. I think I can produce every one of them.
Q. You didn't bring any of them with you?
A. No, sir, I didn't know they would be needed.
Q. Weren't they subpoenaed by the Government?
A. I didn't understand it, that it was the date books day by day. I can bring them in any time you want them.
Q. I didn't ask for the date books. You know what a booking record is, do you not?
A. Yes, sir.
Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court pleases, I think we can have a direct examination and then he can cross examine her.
The COURT. He is trying to establish whether she is competent to answer this question. I think she is. She can answer.
1761 Q. That was the season in which you began to buy and book the films for the theater?
A. In 1936, yes, sir.
Q. Your brother died at what time, during that year?
A. In August, August 1936.
Q. Is that the year in which you say you also built the Ada?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. When was that opened?
A. That was opened September 7, 1936.
Q. So that during the '36-37 season, you were operating two theaters, the Strand and Ada?
A. Yes, sir, from September of 1936 on, we were operating both theaters.
Q. Now, was Griffiths still operating just two theaters, or had they put in another one?
A. No, sir, they opened up the Kiva in March 1935.

By the COURT:

Q. Are you operating the Ada now?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. You have been operating that then since 1933?
A. 1936, the Ada was opened in September of 1936.
Q. I mean the Strand, are you operating that now?
A. No, sir.
Q. When did you cease operating the Strand?
A. In 1941.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

1762 Q. Then during the 1936–37 season, there were five theaters being operated there, two by you and three by Griffith, is that right?
A. Yes, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you say three or two?
Mr. WRIGHT. Three.
The COURT. The McSwain and the Ritz.
Mr. WRIGHT. The Kiva, she said, was put in in 1935.
A. Yes, sir, in March of 1935, I believe the Kiva was opened.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Can you tell us what, if any, major product you had for the 1936–37 season?
A. Well, in '36–37, we had United Artists, first and second run, and a part of Universal first run, which was a lower group of first runs, and Republic.
Q. I asked you what major product you had?
A. United Artists and a part of Universal.
Q. Other than that, you had no major product?
A. No, sir.
Q. Then was the full deal of Universal offered to you that year?
A. Well, to the best of my knowledge, it wasn't.
Q. How about RKO?
A. Well, they were not offered either.

By the COURT:

Q. How is that?
1763 A. I believe we ran some second and third run RKO that year.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Now, what did you have for the 1937–38 season?
A. Well, in 1937–38, we only had a part of United Artists first run, that was some English made pictures, I think, as well as I remember.

Q. Were you offered any of the United Artists' pictures, first run?

A. No, sir, we were not.

Q. What other major product did you have, if any?

A. Well, we had some Metro second run, which was a lower group, and I believe we had a few, some RKO third run.

Q. Was that all?

A. Well, no, we ran Republic and Monogram.

Q. Then for the '38-39 season, what did you have?

A. Well, we had RKO first and second run, and United Artists, third run, and Monogram, first runs, and some, we ran Columbia and Universal, some second and third runs, and some first run from each one of the Universal and Columbia.

Q. Now, when did you first run third run major product there, if you remember?

A. Well, in 1939, Fox sold some second and third 1764 run pictures.

Q. Do you remember had you been trying to buy Fox third run prior to that time?

A. Yes, sir, I had.

Q. Beginning when, or during what period?

A. Well, a period of several years, we had been trying to buy third run, I would say, at least, three years.

Q. Did they ever take an application from you?

A. No, sir.

By the COURT:

Q. Pardon me, in that connection, by third run you mean a picture that had been run first and second in Ada?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Before that time?

A. Yes, sir.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. During this period, 1936 through 1939, can you tell us in general what policies those three Griffith houses were operated on?

A. Well, they have two first run houses, the McSwain and the Kiva are first run houses, and the Ritz Theater is a second run house.

Q. They had been playing major pictures second run at the Ritz during that period?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And these pictures are Fox that you were try-
1765 ing to buy for third run, would be the third run following the second run at the Ritz, is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then had you tried to buy any other major third run during that same period?

A. Yes, sir, I tried to buy Metro, and I talked with Warners and Paramount. I don't believe, I don't remember of ever talking to RKO about third run.

Mr. COCHRAN. What was that answer?

(Last answer read by the reporter.)

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Were you able to buy any Metro, Paramount or Warner third runs during that period?

A. No, sir.

Q. '36 through '39?

A. No, sir.

1766 Q. Did any of them ever take an application for third run pictures?

A. No, sir, they haven't.

Q. The product of those companies was being played second run at the Ritz Theater?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is, with the exception of the lower part of Metro, which I understand you to say——

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the leading question, your Honor.

The COURT. Well, it is leading in a way.

Mr. COCHRAN. The trouble is, the question embraces a general statement which will make the record misleading——

The COURT. You may answer.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. As I understood your previous question you stated you played the lower half of Metro second run at your theater, one of your theaters. Is that right?

Q. Yes, sir. We bought 22 that year of Metro in the lower bracket pictures.

Q. What you tried to buy as third run from Metro was what?

A. Well, the third runs are the better pictures.

Q. That is the upper half of the product?

A. Yes, sir.

1767 Mr. COCHRAN. We object to the leading questions. Let her state what she attempted to do.

The COURT. Well, she said the better pictures.

Mr. COCHRAN. He now says the upper half of the pictures.

The COURT. Well, better pictures, were they upper or lower half.

A. The better pictures I would say are upper.

Mr. COCHRAN. She didn't say upper half. In other words, unless the witness states what she knows about it, it is going to call for a long cross examination, which can be avoided if they will just simply let the witness state the facts, because she has a memorandum of the facts and she is telling it very nicely and we will avoid a lot of cross examination.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Were these pictures which you tried to buy from Metro, third run, the ones having a second run at the Griffith house?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. I again object to this leading question.

The COURT. Well, it is somewhat leading.

Mr. COCHRAN. He knows she would reply if she were asked the question that the pictures she attempted to license were not all of the pictures that were played 1768 second run at the Griffith theaters. She wanted to license A and B pictures, is what she wanted to license.

By the COURT:

Q. Just what pictures did you desire to buy, third run?

A. Well, I asked for the larger pictures, the better pictures, third run.

Q. Had all of them been run at the Griffith theaters?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Did you get any that were not run at the Griffith Theaters?

A. Well, I think in '37 or '38 we bought two first run pictures which were cutbacks from Metro.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did you finally get some third runs of the A and B pictures from those companies?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was that?

A. Well, to the best of my knowledge I think it was in 1940.

Q. Were you ever approached at any time by any representative of the Griffith Company with reference to the sale or pooling of your theater there?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. When was the first time?

A. Well, I would say it was in 1936. In the winter of 1936 Mr. Red Slocum called on us.

1769 Q. Was this before or after your brother's death?

A. This was after my brother's death.

Q. Where did he see you?

A. Well, he told me who he was, that he was Red Slocum from the expansion department.

Q. I asked you where this conversation was.

A. This was in my office at the Ada Theater.

Q. Was there anyone else there at the time?

A. No, sir. I am sorry, there was no one in the office at the time.

Q. What was said?

A. Mr. Slocum told me who he was and he said he was from the expansion department of the Griffith Amusement Company in Oklahoma City.

Q. What was the substance of the conversation as near as you can recall?

A. Well, of course, he stated his business; that he would like to buy—he wanted to know if we were interested in selling.

Q. What was said about buying or selling?

A. Well, we didn't talk too much. I think he asked me several times—there was no price made as to what the theaters were worth. I think that he quoted two or three prices, if I thought the theaters were worth $12,000 or $15,000 or some price like that. I don't just recall 1770 it word for word, and I told him we had been offered $30,000, and he said "Well, they are not worth it", and he said that the Griffiths didn't want competition in Ada.

Q. Was anything else said as to why he wanted to buy?

A. No, not that I can recall.

Q. Nothing more you can recall?

A. Well, in five or six weeks he came back. I told him when he was there the first time that if we decided to sell I would call him or come into Oklahoma City to see them. I didn't call them or didn't come in and he came back in about five or six weeks and the conversation——

Q. Was this at your theater again?

A. Yes, sir, this was at my theater.

Q. Which one?

A. The Ada Theater.

Q. What was said on the second occasion?

A. Well, the conversation was very similiar to the first. He said they didn't want competition in Ada, and I told him he would have to see my sister-in-law, Mrs. Kyser, and he called at Mrs. Kyser's house and Mrs. Kyser can come in and submit her testimony when you need her.

Q. Your sister-in-law told you he had also talked to her?

A. Yes, sir, and she is ready to come in when you need her on this.

1771 Q. Since that time have there been any other conversations between you and any of the Griffith representatives about a sale or pooling of your theaters?

A. No, sir, not that I know of. I have had an awful lot of buyers. I don't know who they were or where they were from, but to the best of my knowledge I have not been contacted by any of the Griffith representatives since then in regard to selling.

Q. Can you tell us during the '38–39 season there approximately what the price policies of the various theaters in Ada were?

A. Well, no, I don't think I can. I know that in '38 they started a penny day there on Wednesday and Thursday in two of the theaters.

1772 Q. "Penny" day?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. In which theater?

A. In the Ritz and in the Kiva.

Q. What do you mean by "penny" day?

A. Well, that was two adults for the price of one, I would say, or one penny.

Q. Two for the price of one ticket, plus a penny?

A. Well, I think that's the way it was.

Q. What were the prices you were charging at your theaters then?

A. Well, I think in two or three months, why, we opened up a "pal" day which was operated about the same.

Q. What were you charging at the time they began the "penny" day operation?

A. I don't remember.

Q. Do you remember what your prices were with reference to what they were charging at their Ritz and Kiva?

A. Well, I think our prices—I am sorry, I don't remember just what our prices were.

Q. Were they about the same——

A. Yes, sir.

Q. As the Ritz?

A. They were about the same.

Q. Then, you say after the "penny" day was 1773 started you began what?

A. A "pal" day.

Q. And that was two for one admission, was it?

A. Yes, sir; that was just about the same policy as the other.

Q. And how long did those two policies continue?

A. Until 1940 or 1941, something like those years.

Q. Do you know what the population of Ada was, say in approximately 1936, when the Ada was opened?

A. Well, I believe, I would say 16,000 at that time.

Q. And did it have the same population about, through the years 1937, '38 and '39?

A. Well, yes, I would think so.

Q. Well, do you know whether there was any substantial increase or decrease during that period?

A. Well, I would say that there was a decrease.

Q. I should have said 1936 through 1940.

A. Well, I think that would be the after effect of the oil boom that we had there earlier.

Q. What were the years of the oil boom?

A. Well, I think in '34 and '35.

Mr. WRIGHT. You may cross-examine.

Cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

1774 Q. Miss Kyser, what do you call the major distributors of motion pictures, of major motion pictures? Reference has been made here several times to major distributors?

A. Well, I call Metro, Paramount, Warner Bros. and Fox.

Q. Any others?

A. Well, I don't know if United Artists is considered a major company or not.

Q. Well, you were answering questions about the major companies; do you consider United Artists a major product?

A. Yes, sir, I do.

Q. What else do you consider major product?

A. Well, I consider Columbia.

Q. What else?

A. That's all.

By the COURT:

Q. How about RKO?

A. RKO; pardon me, I forgot RKO.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Now, what other companies, are engaged in licensing motion pictures in this area, other than the ones you have mentioned, that you have named?

A. Well, there is Monogram, Republic and PRC.

Q. And Grand National?

A. And Grand National; and at that time there was the Gaumont British and Allied.

Q. Allied?

A. Yes.

1775 Q. At this time is there also a distributor known, or rather pictures known as Sach?

A. The Sachs Amusement Company, and there was Adams.

Q. And Square Deal?

A. And Square Deal, and Majestic.

Q. What was that?

A. Majestic.

Q. Majestic.

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Victory?

A. Pardon?

Q. Victory?

A. No, sir; I don't know anything about the Victory.

Q. You don't know anything about them?

A. No, sir.

Q. Those companies you don't rate as major companies?

A. Hardly.

Q. Each of those companies produce some good pictures, don't they?

A. Well, I don't know about that.

Q. You don't know about that?

A. No; I haven't happened to run any of them.

Q. You haven't had to run any of them, and didn't run any of them except—well, kill that.

A. No, I beg pardon; I have run some of them, but 1776 I said I hadn't found any good pictures in them.

Q. Oh, that's what you mean? The only ones of those companies whose pictures you ran were Monogram and Republic, and Gaumont British and some PRC's, is that right?

A. That's right.

Q. Now you say that in those companies you didn't find any good product, profitable at the box office?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. During the years 1936 to 1940, to a large extent, you operated your theater on pictures from Monogram, Republic, PRC, and other independent companies, didn't you?

A. That's right.

Q. You operated profitably, didn't you?

A. Well, we didn't close up.

Q. I asked you if you operated profitably.

A. Well, I don't call it a profit.

Q. You made money, didn't you?

A. Well, we were able to pay our bills.

Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I think that is quite immaterial.

The COURT. It might be immaterial.

Mr. COCHRAN. You say, your Honor, that it would be immaterial?

Mr. WRIGHT. The question is whether or not she could compete in buying pictures.

1777 The COURT. The question is whether she operated her theater at a profit. I think she may answer that question.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Miss Kyser, what was your answer to that?

A. No, sir, on pictures of that type we didn't operate—(hesitating).

Q. Your operation during that period was profitable, wasn't it?

A. Well (hesitating)—well, I don't care to answer that.

Q. You don't care to answer that?

The COURT. I didn't get the answer.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Will you tell us why you don't care to answer that?

A. Well, because the pictures that were run in those years were not profitable to the box office.

Q. My question is whether your theater operations on the whole during that period were operated at a profit?

A. Well, there was enough profit made to keep our theaters going.

Q. That is as definite as you would want to answer, is it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. But there was enough profit that you did open another theater, when was it, in September of 1936—didn't 1778 you?

A. Yes, sir. Well, I beg pardon; I thought you were talking about the previous year, before 1936.

Q. All right, we will let your answer stand as to the period previous to the '36, then. During the period of 1936 to 1940, you operated your best theater, which one was that?

A. The Ada Theater.

Q. Which?

A. The Ada Theater.

Q. The Ada Theater, you operated that at a profit, did you not?

A. Yes, sir, I think we did.

Q. Did you operate the Strand Theater during that period at a profit?

A. No, sir, we didn't.

Q. What period was it not operated profitably?

A. Well, from 1937 to 1939 or to 1940, we didn't, there was no profits on the Strand Theater.

Q. Did it operate at a loss?

A. No, it didn't operate at a loss.

Q. Then you closed that theater when?

A. In 1941, in January.

Q. From 1940 to 1941, was that theater operated at a profit?

1779 A. The Strand Theater?

Q. Yes.

A. No, sir.

Q. You stopped your time at 1940?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I was just wondering why you made the distinction. You closed that theater after the consent decree was in operation, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir, I think we did.

Q. And at that time you had available third run product from all of the major companies that you have mentioned, did you not?

A. That's right.

Q. Now, in listing the companies which you call the major companies, you didn't list Universal. Would you want to call Universal a major company, and was it during the period of 1933?

A. Well, no, sir, I wouldn't call it a major com-

1780 pany.

Q. You would not call Universal a major company. So you had your choice of third run product for Ada from Metro, Paramount, Warner, Fox, United, Columbia, RKO and Universal after the consent decree, did you not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And by saying "your choice" that meant their A pictures as well as the pictures in the lower brackets, third run?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, during the period 1936 until—well, during the season of 1936–37 when you stated that you had no major product, second run——

A. No, I beg your pardon. I said we bought 22, Metro second in the lower bracket for '36 and '37.

Q. Well, I think I misunderstood you.

A. I think you did.

Q. I thought you meant it for the season of '37–38. You meant for the season of '36–37?

A. That is right.

Q. Subsequent to that time you had practically the same second run contract with Metro?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You said something in your answer about you could have played pictures first run that had not first played at Griffith, second run. I believe your answer was you could not. Now, any picture that didn't play Griffith
1781 second run that did play Griffith second run, you could play from Metro third run, couldn't you, after you started playing Metro third run?

A. I don't believe I understand your question.

Q. So far as third run Metro product was concerned, after they started licensing you third run you could play any of their pictures third run, whether it was played at the Griffith house or not?

A. That is right. I bought the third run product. That is right.

Q. Which of these companies you have listed as major companies would you say at the present time produces the choicest pictures?

A Well, I think that Metro's pictures are the most outstanding.

Q. Has that been true during the entire time you have been in the theater business, according to your judgment of the pictures?

A. Yes. I believe they have always taken the lead, to my way of thinking.

Q. In other words, that company, according to your judgment—each year after you got into the theater business, and paid any attention to the quality of the pictures, produced the greatest number of good box office pictures of any of the companies?

1782 A. Yes, I believe so.

Q. Metro, before they started selling their pictures in groups of 5—you understand what I am talking about?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That is prior to the consent decree, Metro, in years prior to that time, how many pictures would you class as the better pictures which you referred to, did that company produce?

A. Well, I don't know.

Q. Are you familiar with the groupings or classifications of A pictures and B pictures of Metro?

A. Well, I think I would be if I were buying them.

Q. Well, you usually considered that the pictures in the A classification were the most expensive pictures. Is that right?

A. Yes, I imagine you would consider it that way.
Q. Well, did you so consider it?
A. Well, if I were buying the pictures I think I could tell.

By the COURT:

Q. Were their A pictures the most expensive?
A. Yes, I think the A pictures were the higher bracket, which would mean they were the highest priced pictures.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. And the B was the next product?
1783 A. Yes, sir.
Q. Did it frequently happen that even with Metro pictures which were in the A group, were not in your opinion as good box office attractions as the pictures which were in some of the lower brackets?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. But generally speaking they are better pictures, at least the better stars were in the A group?
A. That is right.
Q. And that consisted of about four pictures, did it not, usually?
A. Well, I don't know as to that.
Q. Well, just tell us on the average about how many pictures Metro produced each year that you consider were the better pictures and good box office attractions from the upper brackets.
A. Well, I would say that Metro has at least six or eight outstanding features a year, that are box office attractions.
Q. And those are the ones you speak of as being the upper bracket pictures?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Which one of the companies would you rate next in importance as the producer and distributor of good motion pictures during the period you are talking about?
1784 A. Well, Warner—pardon me—Paramount.
Q. How many of the Paramount pictures would you say on the average and of the better pictures were produced each year?
A. Well, I think that Paramount makes at least eight or ten good pictures. They make these big box office attractions.
Q. Are those the pictures you referred to as 'upper bracket pictures"?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. Which would you rate third?
A. Well, I would rate Fox third.

Q. How many of those upper bracket pictures would you say Fox produced on the average?

A. Well, they will make six or eight.

Q. And which do you rate fourth?

A. Warner Brothers.

Q. How many did Warner Brothers produce each year?

A. About three I would say.

Q. About three pictures in the upper bracket. And fifth?

A. Well, I guess RKO.

Q. How many RKO pictures were produced on the average in the upper bracket?

A. About two.

1785 Q. And the sixth?

A. Columbia, I would say.

Q. Do you place Columbia ahead of United Artists?

A. Yes, I would.

Q. And you place Columbia above Universal?

A. Yes, sir, in my opinion,

Q. Columbia is No. 6, and how many of those?

A. About two.

Q. Two of those you class as upper bracket pictures. Then which is next in order?

A. Universal.

Q. How many of Universal?

A. I would say two.

Q. Which you class as in the upper bracket.

A. Two.

Q. You haven't mentioned United Artists.

A. They usually have about two.

Q. You spoke of the product which you had in the '36–37 season but you failed to mention Columbia.

A. I believe I said we bought some second and third runs from Columbia, and naturally a few first cutbacks.

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit 69 and ask you to state if that is your signature?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Cochran. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 69.

1786 By Mr. Cochran:

Q. That is one of the contracts which you have just referred to as covering first, second and third run product?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. Wright. No objection.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. This is a contract with Columbia by Miss Kyser and approved October 22, 1936 covering two pictures, first run; ten second run; seven third run. Miss Kyser, these pictures beginning there with the two-reel comedies and so forth, those are not feature pictures from there on, are they?

A. No, they are not. They are the short subjects.

Q. Shorts and cartoons?

A. That is right.

Q. Beginning with 13, two-reel cartoons ending with "Five Stars of Tomorrow"?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit 7 and ask you if you signed that contract?

A. Yes, sir.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer it in evidence, which is a contract dated October 14, 1936, of Miss Kyser with Columbia covering 26 pictures, second run.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

By the COURT:

Q. Your name is Miss or Mrs?

A. Miss.

1787 By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. In '37–38, did you also have some Columbia pictures?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Those were first and second runs, were they not?

A. Well, they were the first run cutbacks and seconds and thirds.

Q. And the season 1938–39, you had some first, second and third run Columbia, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

(Defendants' Exhibit No. 71 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit No. 71 for identification, and ask you if that is your signature?

A. Yes, sir, that's right.

Q. That is the contract you referred to, is it?

A. That's right.

Q. Can you tell us whether there were other second and third run pictures offered to you that year which you didn't buy, by Columbia?

A. No, sir, I think that is the output right there.

Q. Do you mean that you attempted to license other pictures third run and were unable to license them from Columbia in 1938–39?

A. No, sir, I say that is third run and we bought third run, first and second and third run; we bought the 1788 first, you see, the cutbacks, and the second and third; we bought second and third from Columbia that year.

Q. My question was were there other third run pictures available for you which you didn't license?

A. From Columbia?

Q. Yes.

A. Well, I don't think so.

Q. Was Griffith running any third run Columbia that year, 1938–39?

A. No, sir, not that I can remember.

Q. Are these pictures which you licensed second run the only pictures second run which Griffith did run that year of Columbia?

A. Well, this is second and third, and they happened to be third, Mr. Cochran.

Q. Yes, but the point I am trying to make is this, those were the top pictures, were they?

A. Yes, sir, that's right.

Q. And the pictures lower than that, there were other productions lower than that that were available for you, but you didn't want them?

A. That's right.

Mr. COCHRAN. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 71.

Mr. WRIGHT. No objection.

1789 The COURT. That is dated when?

Mr. COCHRAN. It is dated, approved August 24, 1938.

The COURT. That's second and third run?

Mr. COCHRAN. It covers——

A. (Interrupting.) A few first run cutbacks.

Mr. COCHRAN. It covers twelve first runs.

A. Don't forget to say they are cutbacks.

Mr. COCHRAN. And six pictures second or third run.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. And in 1939–40 season, you also licensed a few cutbacks on first runs and a number of second and third run pictures, didn't you?

A. From whom?

Q. From Columbia?

A. From Columbia that's right.

(Defendants' Exhibit No. 72 for identification was marked by the reporter.)

Q. I hand you Defendants' Exhibit No. 72 for identification, and ask you if that is the contract with Columbia?

A. That's right.

Mr. Cochran. We offer in evidence Defendants' Exhibit No. 72, dated February 22, 1939, and it covers four first runs, twenty-two pictures second run.

A. That's second or third, Mr. Cochran.

Q. I think you are wrong about that; it shows sec-
1790 ond here and third here; it shows second or third, though.

Mr. Cochran. The face of the contract has opposite each one first, second or third run, but in the body of the contract it says second or third run.

A. That's right.

Q. On those that are noted third run, it has six Buck Jones' productions; those are westerns, aren't they?

A. That is westerns; that's right; that's not in the feature contract.

Q. And sixteen other second run features?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. The Strand Theater was closed during the summer time of 1941, was that your statement?

A. That's right.

Q. Now, for the season 1940–41 what product did you have, were you playing?

A. Well, I believe we ran some RKO, and we were using all third runs, all third runs that we needed from all the companies.

Q. In other words, at the time the Strand closed, you had available for your use third runs from any and all of the major companies which you might desire to use?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. And you also at that time had certain of the Metro second runs, didn't you?

1791 A. Let me see. Yes, in 1941, we were still using the twenty-two Metro in the lower group.

Q. And at that time if you had desired to use them, you had the privilege or you could have licensed from Paramount pictures second run which were not used by Griffiths Theaters, could you not?

A. Second run Paramount?

Q. Yes; in other words, did you attempt to license any of the Paramount lower bracket pictures second run for 1940–41?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. Did you attempt to license any of the Fox lower bracket pictures second run for 1940–41?

A. No, sir.

Q. Is the same true of RKO?

A. Yes, sir.
Q. And United Artists?
A. Yes, sir.
Q. And Universal?
A. Well, I believe we ran Universal, some second runs.

By the COURT:

Q. Did you get plenty of first runs?
A. No, sir, we didn't.
Q. In '41–42?
A. No, sir.
Q. In '42–43?
A. No, sir.
1792 Q. Are you able to get any first run now?
A. No, sir, nothing but Monogram.

By Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Miss Kyser, you said you are not able to get anything except Monogram?
A. I said first run.
Q. I understand, but can't you get PRC first run?
A. Well, no, I don't think I could.
Q. Well, have you tried?
A. No, sir.
Q. They are not being played by Griffith, are they?
A. Well, I don't know.
Q. Have you attempted to license any of the product of the various other companies which you have listed, other than the ones you named as major companies, first run; have you tried to license any of that product?
A. No, sir, I haven't this year.
Q. In other words, you prefer to run the third run of the companies which you said you are running, to running the first run of any of the other companies, except Monogram, is that right?
A. No, sir, it isn't.
Q. Which of the so-called independent companies, then, are there that you desire to license product from?
A. Well, I use Monogram because I am not able to buy anything else first run.
1793 Q. Well, now, I am asking you why you are unable to license product of First National?
A. Well, First National is——
Q. (Interrupting) Not First National, Grand National, Sachs and Adams and Majestic, and so forth, first run, if you desired those?
A. Because I don't care to play that product in my theaters.

Q. I thought that was the question I asked you awhile ago?

A. If I can do better.

Q. If you preferred that product?

A. I don't prefer to play that product in my theaters.

Q. My question was if you didn't prefer to play the product which you are playing now, to playing product of those companies you have just been mentioning, first run, and that's the reason you are not licensing any product from the so-called independent companies, except Monogram?

A. Well, that's all that I was able to buy, was the Monogram.

By the COURT:

Q. Have you tried to buy first run of the major companies?

A. I haven't this year; no, sir, I haven't.

Q. Did you in '41–42 and '42–43?

A. Yes, sir, I have asked.

1794 Mr. COCHRAN. If the Court please, that isn't my question. My question is in regard to the so-called independent companies, whether you have attempted to license any of their product which you were unable to get during any of these years?

A. Well, I haven't wanted it.

Q. Beg pardon?

A. I don't want it.

Q. Have you tried to license it?

A. No, there is no use to try to license it if I don't want it. I don't want it to run and I haven't asked for it.

By the COURT:

Q. What I am interested in is this. Now, say since 1940, since this consent decree went into effect, have you tried to buy first run of the major companies?

A. Well, we have bought some first run. I think eleven from Metro since the consent decree has been in, and five from Paramount and five from RKO, first run, since the consent decree went in.

Q. Have you tried to get others?

A. Well, I have talked to Warners; but I haven't this year, I haven't tried to buy the first run.

Q. Have you since this consent decree went into effect been able to buy any pictures that were satisfactory 1795 to you for use in your theaters?

A. Well, none except the years when we bought the Metro, the eleven Metros, and five Paramounts and five RKO; of course, we were satisfied with them, but we haven't been able to buy from them since, the first runs.

Q. Why haven't you been able to buy it?

A. Well, I don't know just why we haven't. They have sold to the Griffiths in Ada.

Q. Have you ever resorted to arbitration on those matters?

A. No, sir, I didn't.

Q. Do you understand that was in the consent decree?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That you would have certain rights in such matters?

A. Yes, sir, that's right.

The COURT. Anything further with this witness?

1796 Re-direct examination by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. Did Griffith play any third run in Ada there at any time while you were there? Do they play them now?

A. No, sir, I don't think they are playing them now and I don't recall any time they had first run in Ada.

Q. They never use anything but first and second runs; is that right?

A. Yes, I think that is right.

Q. Now this Defendants' Exhibit 71 with reference to some Columbia pictures, second or third run, how would you know whether you were going to get those second or third run?

A. We didn't know.

Q. When would you know? How were they made available?

A. We wouldn't know until they would tell us the pictures were available for us second or third run.

Q. What would determine whether they were available or not?

A. If the other theaters didn't want to play them we had the right to buy them and run them.

Q. That is, the ones you got second run, you got second run if they didn't play second run in the Griffith Theaters?

A. Yes, sir.

1797 Q. If they played second run there you got third run. Is that right?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. You didn't have any control at all as to whether they played them second run or not?

A. No, sir, I did not.

Q. You wouldn't know then what run they were going to be until after Griffith decided what they were going to do with them?

Mr. COCHRAN. Objected to as leading.

(No ruling.)

A. After they decided whether they wanted to use them we had the right to run them.

By Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. These first runs you referred to as cutbacks. I believe that is what these Columbia first runs were that were introduced here?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What do you mean by "cutbacks"?

A. That is pictures they didn't want to run as first run pictures in their theaters. That is their picture that has no value at all, whatever, I suppose.

Q. Do you remember when you were being asked on cross examination about the independent pictures that you played and the inability to exhibit them profitably, I think you made some reference to the period prior to 1798 1936. Now, is your testimony the same with respect to the period after 1936? Was there any difference in those two times?

A. You mean in buying the independent product?
1799 Q. As to the unprofitability of the independent product?

A. Well, I don't care to run that kind of pictures, pictures of that type in my theater, Mr. Wright; we established a first run at the Ada Theater, just as the Strand was.

Q. I understand that, but I am afraid you didn't understand the question. When you were asked on cross-examination about inability to run the independent pictures at a profit, you said your testimony, I think, applied to the period prior to 1936. Now, is what you said about inability to play that profitably, does that also apply to the period after 1936?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. That period of '36 through 1939, that was when you had to play the most independent pictures, wasn't it?

A. That's right.

Q. As I understood your testimony on cross examination with reference to Columbia second run, you testified that you could have Columbia pictures second run, that Griffith didn't use second run, is that right?

Mr. COCHRAN. We object to him leading the witness.

A. Well, we——

The COURT. Overruled; it is in evidence, the statement.

Mr. WRIGHT. It is preliminary to the next ques-
1800 tion anyway. Is that a fact?

A. We run second run behind, that is, the second runs that we could have is the ones that they didn't want, and we didn't know if they were second run or third run. We wait and they come as available, as stated on the contract. We never know if they are going to be second run or third run.

Q. Were you offered any of the second runs that they used?

A. No, sir.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

Re-cross-examination by Mr. COCHRAN:

Q. Miss Kyser, the first theater which you and your brother opened in Ada, which was opened as the Strand, was formerly the Hamly Theater, was it not?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Do you know how long that theater had operated before you acquired it?

A. Well, I think that was the first theater in Ada.

Q. Well, about when was it?

A. It was just about the first theater in Ada. Well, I would say, well, in 1902 or '03, I wouldn't be positive on that, Judge.

Q. But somewhere about 1902 or '03?

1801 A. Yes, sir, 1902 or '03, or something like that.

Q. It was an old house, was it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, in 1941, when you closed the Strand, were you operating double bills in the Ada?

A. No, sir.

Q. Do you remember when you started to operate double bills in the Ada?

A. Yes, sir, I beg pardon we were operating, we were running double features part time in the Ada Theater in 1940, that's right.

Q. At that time weren't you running double bills as a regular policy on two of your three changes a week in the Ada?

A. Repeat that; I didn't quite understand it.

Mr. COCHRAN. Read it.

(Question read by the reporter.)

A. That was in 1940.

Q. 1940. You closed the Strand in 1941, didn't you?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. All right, in 1941?

A. Yes, sir, that's right.

Mr. COCHRAN. That's all.

Mr. WRIGHT. That's all.

(Witness excused.)

1802 Mr. WRIGHT. If the Court please, I think we can continue now with Mr. McKenna. It may be that we can save some time if we could take a recess and go over some of the documents and material that has been produced here.

The COURT. Very well, we will take a short recess, and you can advise the Court when you are ready.

(And at the conclusion of the recess the proceedings herein were resumed as follows:)

1803 B. J. McKENNA, was recalled and testified as follows:

Direct examination (continued) by Mr. WRIGHT:

Q. You are the same B. J. McKenna who testified here yesterday?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Calling your attention to Bartlesville, the first theater that you acquired there was apparently the Lyric?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then the Odeon that was subsequently acquired, was that operated in opposition to the Lyric at any time?

A. Yes, sir, it was.

Q. Do you remember by whom?

A. Mrs. Blanch Cutler.

Q. Was that true of the Osage?

A. No, sir. The Osage was a new theater.

Q. The Odeon was operated prior to the acquisition by Mrs. Cutler?

A. Prior to July 1, 1929.

Q. That is when you acquired it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now the Rex, I believe also was called the Midwest——

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Was that operated in opposition to your theaters there before you acquired it?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. By whom was that operated?

1804 A. Well, it was operated by Isley & Moran.

Q. That was acquired when?

A. Acquired in April 1931, April 10, 1931.

Q. Then, since that time you have operated all of the theaters in Bartlesville, is that right?

A. Just how do you mean that question, Mr. Wright?

Q. Well——

A. All of these theaters?

Q. No, I say all of the motion picture theaters in Bartlesville have been operated by your company since that date, have they not?

A. No, sir; no, sir.

Q. With the exception of what period?

A. Well, I don't remember the period exactly, but there was a man operated a theater there, by the name of P. C. Crown, and there was a man operated a theater there, name of L. O. Chatham.

Q. Chatham's theater was purchased by you, was it not?

A. No, sir, it wasn't.

Q. When was that theater of Chatham's operated?

A. I believe that was back in the early 30's, about '31 or '32.

Q. He just stopped operating then, did he?

A. As far as I know. I don't know what the occasion was.

1805 Q. When was it that Mr. Crown operated there?

A. I don't recall exactly when, Mr. Wright, but it was in, sometime in possibly '35, '36, somewhere in there. His theater, as I recall, was destroyed by fire, it burned down.

Q. You didn't acquire Crown's theater?

A. No, sir.

Q. With those exceptions, then, you have operated all the theaters in Bartlesville up to the present time, haven't you?

A. Yes, sir, I believe that's correct.

By the COURT:

Q. What became of the other theater, the one that didn't burn?

A. Well, it is still there, your Honor. We later acquired it. That's the one referred to here as the Odeon.

Q. After '31 you operated all the theaters in Bartlesville?

A. No, your Honor. Mr. Chatham I referred to I believe was in there, as I said, about '32 or '33, and this man Crown, I think he was in there about '35 or '36. I think he burned out in '36 or '37. I am not positive of those dates.

Q. And that was never rebuilt?

A. No, sir, it was not.

The COURT. There is nothing here in these answers to the interrogatories relative to the period that they operated in '32 or '33.
